Workshop cancelled

By BOB THONEN

Amid rumors and confusion, enthusiasm over a campus journalism workshop for students from 219 area high schools turned to frustration recently when a letter cancelling the program was mailed.

Plans for the newspaper-yearbook workshop were developed late in February and early in March when the honorary journalism fraternity, Alpha Phi Gamma, assumed official sponsorship.

Based upon a syllabus prepared by Phyllis Bridgeman, former student and staff member of Fountainhead, the plans called for a program of technical assistance and advice for high school students.

SPEAKERS

Such prominent newsmen and journalists as Chuck Mooney of the Raleigh News and Observer, Tom Donaldson of WNCN News, Susan Honnager, of the United States Student Press Association, Mike Bowler of the Atlanta Constitution and Walter Spearman, president of the N.C. High School Press Association, were scheduled to appear and take part in the program to be held on April 18.

Problems developed shortly before the Easter vacation when Donna Dixon, President of Alpha Phi Gamma, was informed by Dr. James Tucker, Dean of Student Affairs, that the university would not be able to financially support the program.

FINANCIAL SUPPORT

Searching for another source of financial support, Miss Dixon approached the campus newspaper. During Easter vacation after a review of the program, Fountainhead agreed to support a modified and less expensive proposal and plans were scheduled to proceed.

Miss Dixon said that Mrs. Mary Sorensen, faculty member of the fraternity, informed her before Easter that a decision on the workshop must be reached if the English Department was to help with the mailing of the letters during the Easter break.

During a telephone conversation over the holidays, Miss Dixon says that Mrs. Sorensen notified her that she had drafted a letter cancelling the workshop. She says that she replied that the letter sounded "ok" but that she was still waiting for final word from the newspaper concerning their sponsorship of the program.

When Miss Dixon returned to campus after the holidays she says she was informed by the English Department that letters had gone out cancelling the workshop. She says she was told that the letters had been authorized by the "administration."

DECEPTION

Miss Dixon states that at this time she "had no knowledge of the letter's content or what exactly had happened."

Miss Dixon states that she was under the impression that she was to approve and sign what ever was to be mailed out concerning the workshop after learning of the newspaper's decision.

At the last meeting of the Publications Board, held on April 7, the situation was brought up and discussed at which time Miss Dixon, Mrs. Beverly Denny, Tucker and Mrs. Sorensen and other members of the board were present.

Some of the student members of the fraternity who were present commented that it was their belief that the fraternity was still officially sponsoring the workshop. It was generally agreed however, that in view of the disorganization and confusion perhaps it would be better to postpone the workshop until sometime next year.

The subject of the cancellation letter was brought

SGA adds Minority Affairs Office

By SHARON SCHAUDIES

The Office of Minority Affairs was established recently by the SGA.

A study committee headed by Dean Robert Holt suggested organizing the office "as a way to improve the total spectrum of minority student affairs to attract more minority students to ECU."

The plan for the office came from Montana State University where an administrative division was established to handle the affairs of Indians and Blacks.

RECRUITMENT

Dean Holt's committee decided that the office should be handled by the SGA since students are involved and since it involves more than just the Admissions Office.

Bill Owens, a junior and the newly appointed secretary of the Office of Minority Affairs, said that before there can be "effective recruitment there have to be minority reforms."

He said that we can not "recruit minority groups without having something to offer them."

A special recruitment committee is visiting high school campuses to acquaint them with ECU. Owens said they hope to encourage many members of minority groups to come here in that way.

DISCUSSION SESSIONS

Owens is already working with Dean James Mallory on the orientation program for this summer. Owens hopes to hold discussion sessions during orientation for those who are interested in learning the situation of minority students on campus and what the school has to offer them.

Also in the line of educating people about minority affairs the SGA is sponsoring the Black Conference Week programs.

Owens said that one of the biggest ways to help solve the minority's problems is by educating the majority. He said that the minority students are aware of their problems but that the majority students for the

Cut revisions supported

By BENJAMIN BAILEY

In a special election by the legislature, Bob Adams was elected speaker for the remainder of the quarter at its meeting Monday.

The position was left open when Len Mancini resigned last week.

Adams said he hopes legislation will be passed to try to stop the administration from forcing sophomores to live in dormitories.

He said he did not feel a speaker should be completely bipartisan and that he would speak on issues.

GAP PETITION

A resolution was passed supporting the petition being circulated by GAP for an unlimited cuts system for all classes. Steve Hubbard, spokesman for GAP presented the petition to the legislature with 3,965 signatures.

"I hope that 5,000 signatures can be presented to the Faculty Senate," he said.

He said a clause which would allow for a trial period of limited cuts for freshman may be included to barter with the Faculty Senate if the clause is necessary to have the system passed.

MALLORY APPROVES

Dean of Men James Mallory said he approves the proposed cut system.

With our increased enrollment, he said, the present cut system which was formulated for 5,000-6,000 students has become burdensome.

"I'm sure we will get something passed," he said.

FRESHMAN DRIVERS

A bill was passed permitting freshmen to operate motor vehicles in the Greenville area but not on campus.

The bill, signed by SGA President Bob Whitley, is effective immediately.

The bill received favorable debate on the point that the former rule restricting the Greenville area was practically unenforceable.

The SGA Constitution was amended by a bill passed which makes the SGA solely responsible for all major entertainment on campus.

MORE BILLS

The purpose of the bill is to restrict booking firms in using campus facilities.

The bill does not include major athletic entertainment such as the Harlem Globetrotters, which is presented by the Athletic department.

A bill which would abolish all class officers except the president and vice president was sent to the student affairs committee for study.

Speech club given charter

Sigma Alpha Eta, the national honorary speech and hearing fraternity, has granted the ECU Speech and Hearing Clinic a probationary charter to expire in November. At that time a full charter will be granted.

Sigma Alpha Eta, established for speech and hearing majors and all others interested in the fields of speech pathology, audiology and the education of the acoustically handicapped, will function as a service organization.

One of the first projects to be undertaken is a mass educational campaign to fight the predicted 1971-1972 rubella epidemic.

Officers for next year, elected at the Tuesday meeting, are Peggy Mason, president; Sharon Goynes, secretary; and Mike Temin, treasurer.

Bob Woodside, assistant professor of Mathematics, aims at helping Greenville to preserve the "quality of life-if not life itself" by alleviating poisonous air, waste pollution and the misuse of "precious natural resources."

Local citizens may help in this drive by participating on April 22, which "has been set aside and organized to involve local people in examining the facts about the environmental crisis and deciding for themselves the issues upon which to focus," the proclamation says.

Eldon Nelson, chairman of the Concerned Biologists for Environmental Action (CBEA), initiated the action by obtaining the support of the city manager. The city council was given the recommendation and recommended to the mayor.

Union Coffeehouse will feature 'Mara Loves'

The Union Coffeehouse will present the "Mara Loves," a folk-pop group, April 20-25 in Union, room 201.

The group of four young Canadians will perform twice nightly with shows at 8 and 9 p.m.

The members include Mel Stewart, 25, a native of Glasgow, Scotland; John Stewart, 19; Heather Speers, 18; and Carla Jensen, 19; all of Hamilton, Ontario.

GROUP MEMBERS

Their music has a folk-pop sound that they say might better be termed "easy listening and doing music."

The "Mara Loves" performs music by the Beatles, Buffy Saint Marie, the First Edition, and Alan Fraser.

Both Mel and John Stewart have also composed some music of their own. These include descriptive narratives of sights, sounds and feelings and pastoral historical songs.

The "Loves" think that the

"MARA LOVES" will perform April 20-25 in Union 201.

strongest growing trend in pop music is "the development of more complex arrangements."

GROWING TRENDS

"The basic tune may be simple, but backing and arrangement are being used," said a member of the group.

ID cards are required for admittance to the Coffeehouse. Students, faculty, and staff are invited to attend.

Communication is needed

most part are not aware.

Owens hopes to sponsor seminars and conferences to show what minority groups have done in the past and what they are doing now.

Owens also wants to kill the "apathy found among members of the minority groups." He wants to make them aware that campus activities and services are for them too. He said he wants to see more "minority participation in campus activities."

Owens is hoping to set up a clear line of communication between minority and majority groups as well as between minority groups and the administration.

By establishing this communication Owens said that he hopes to avert or at least bring out into the open the dissent between minority and majority students.

Owens listed the minority groups as including not only his own race, the Negroes, but also the international students and white students who belong to minority groups.

He added that the office is not solely for minority student problems.

Owens listed his three major areas of concern as "recruitment, orientation, and communication."

DISTAR conference scheduled

Siegfried Engelmann, nationally known author and developer of educational systems, will conduct a two-day conference and workshop here April 22-23.

Educators from the Carolinas, Tennessee and Virginia will attend the program, said Dr. Frank Arwood, chairman of the Elementary Education Department.

The program is designed to demonstrate and illustrate latest techniques in educating young children.

Engelmann will head a team of five teacher trainers, assisted by Jean Osborn and Elaine Bruner.

EDUCATIONAL DEFICIENCIES

In 1964 Engelmann and associates at the University of Illinois began to develop a system and materials to overcome educational deficiencies of children lacking language and other basic skills needed for success in school work.

Engelmann's method was introduced last year into schools by Science Research, Inc., of Chicago, under the name DISTAR Instructional Systems.

CLASSROOM MANAGEMENT

Emphasizing classroom management techniques, the materials aid the teacher in the goal of the program: success for every child.

Anyone who wants to attend and does not have an invitation should contact Dr. Frank Arwood, School of Education, East Carolina University, Greenville, N.C. 27834.

All sessions will be held in Wright Auditorium beginning with registration at 8:30 a.m. April 22. There is no charge for the sessions.

GI and VA educational allowances are increased

Educational allowances under the GI Bill and other Veterans Administration education programs have been increased under a new bill signed recently by President Nixon.

W.R. Phillips, manager of the Winston-Salem Regional Office, said that those receiving aid under these programs will not have to contact the VA office. All increases will be received automatically and will be retroactive to Feb. 1.

Phillips said most of those studying under the GI Bill will receive one check about May 10 which will reflect the new monthly rate as well as the retroactive increases.

The bill increased the rate for single full-time veterans from $130 to $175. Full-time veterans with one dependent will receive $205, with two dependents $230, and $13 for each additional dependent per month.

Rates are scaled downward for less than full-time students.

Wives, widows and children receiving allowances will now receive $175 a month if they are full-time students.

Fire wakes New C girls

Smoke billowed from the trash chute of New Dorm C in a smoldering fire early Monday morning.

Firemen think a live cigarette butt was thrown down the chute. The smoking debris was brought under control in about a half an hour.

Women residents were awakened about 4:14 a.m. by the dormitory fire alarm.

After standing outside the building for about 15 minutes, they were ushered by dorm counselors and campus policemen into the parlor of White dormitory.

When the danger of further fire was checked, the students were allowed back into their smoke filled rooms.

The ninth and tenth floors of the building had more smoke than any others, residents said.

Phi Kappa Phi, an honor fraternity in all fields, will be installed here April 17, said Dr. H.P. Rothfeder, president of the fraternity.

The initiation of 37 students, first in the local chapter, will be at 7:30 p.m. in the Nursing Building Auditorium. A reception will follow.

Anti-war festival draws thousands

OVER 5,000 PEOPLE spent Saturday afternoon listening to speakers and bands. The Arrogance from Chapel Hill were one of four bands to perform.

THE "ORIGINAL JOKERS," a motorcycle gang, were part of the diverse constituency that attended the Antiwar festival.

By ROBERT McDOWELL

More than 5,000 people attended an anti-war festival in Chapel Hill last weekend.

The crowds gathered Saturday at Ehringhaus Field on the University of North Carolina campus to hear a program of rock bands and moratorium speakers.

Larry Littles, a Black Panther and a speaker for the National Committee to Combat Fascism, told the crowd that "the only ones who have freedom of speech are deaf-mutes and those who have nothing relevant to say."

PANTHERS

Littles said, "We will not sacrifice (Black Panther) Chairman Bobby Seale (indicted in Connecticut for murder) for the sake of interracial harmony."

Littles demanded that Nixon "withdraw the troops from Vietnam or (we will) open up a new front right here in this country."

Saturday night Arthur Waskow, a member of the New Mobilization Committee to End the War, told the crowd in Carmichael Auditorium that United States intervention in Vietnam was intended as "a bolt of lightning against the people of Vietnam," but "that lightning bolt has (been) brought back to our people."

FOLKSINGERS

Folksingers Tom Paxton and Phil Ochs drew standing ovations from the crowd.

A crowd estimated at more than 2,000 gathered Sunday to hear retired Brig. Gen. Hugh Hester call the Vietnam War a war of aggression rather than a war for the defense of the United States.

The former general said the war is being fought for "the predatory interests of a few" and he called those assembled for the rally "the real patriots of this country."

Rennie Davis of the Conspiracy Eight said Sunday night that President Nixon is not going to end the war in Vietnam.

"We (the antiwar demonstrators) are going to end this war," he said.

'The Revolution is coming'

"The Revolution is Coming." That is the theme for Black Observance Week, being sponsored by the Black Week Committee of SOULS.

"That's the main emphasis during this time, said Mary Singleton, chairman of the Black Week Committee. "Eventually there will have to be a revolution to improve the conditions of the black people. Everything that the black people are doing now is leading to a revolution."

The original idea, said Miss Singleton, was to have a Black History Week, and then it was decided to make it into a Black Observance Week.

During the week there have been Black history displays in the University Union.

About 40 delegates from 20 in-state colleges have gathered here for a series of seminars today and Friday. There will be two held each day.

The guest speaker at this afternoon's conference, being held in the third floor legislature room of the Union, will be Donovan Phillips of the N.C. State Board of SCLC.

Dr. J.W. Fleming of Shaw University will conduct a seminar on "Black Studies Programs" at 7 p.m. tonight. It will be held in room 129 of the Education and Psychology building.

Friday there will be a seminar and discussion groups in the Y-hut from 10 a.m. until noon. This will be followed by lunch at the Albermarle Cafe.

From 2 to 4 p.m. there will be seminars in the third floor legislature room of the Union. Nelson Johnson and Richard Powell of the A & T University student government will be featured.

Dinner will be served at the Albermarle Cafe at 4:30 p.m.

Black Observance Week will end with a Black Arts Festival Friday night from 8 p.m. until midnight. The festival will be in Memorial Gym, and will feature "Little Donnie and the Upsetters."

'Setzuan' is success

By ROBERT McDOWELL

Bertolt Brecht's "The Good Woman of Setzuan" demands a great deal of attention and understanding from an audience. Fast-changing scenes, projections and movement into and through the audience make the play difficult to perform and to comprehend.

The ECU Playhouse production, directed by guest director Robert Chase, has an abundance of talent in the lead roles. In Wednesday night's opening successful performance, the acting alone carried the play over a series of technical mistakes.

Nancy Cherry is superb in the demanding dual role of Shen Te Shui Ta. She handles the difficult age and sex transformations smoothly and with a great deal of energy. As Shen Te, she plays ingenue, the good woman victimized by the world who must call on her baser nature, the character and drive of Shui Ta, to maintain her goodness.

Jim Leedom, as the "good-for-nothing" Yang Sun, is the perfect bastard, cynical, selfish and perverse-but somehow human.

Bruce McKeown is outstanding as Wang the Waterseller, a Chinese Everyman caught in the contortions of forces, divine and mundane, beyond his control.

The three gods, Cecil Willis, Mark Ransey and Ron Love, are brilliant caricatures performing as a tripartite satire of the Christian virtues.

United People's Republic haunts city with militarism and obscurantism

By STEPHEN HUBBARD

A few months ago a purge occurred or did it? Now their land is divided into political factions or is it?

Whatever is going on, no one is really sure. Just that periodic clatter and those daily bus hijackings...and the UPR. The United People's Republic.

In the midst of the society elite of the town, the palace of the UPR is "strategically located behind the power center of Greenville," said First, Second and Third Secretary John Dixon.

"Behind President Jenkins' house," he clarified later.

TREACHERY

Months before in this very palace, Dixon teamed with Minister of Population David Joyce to rid the Republic of the Premier Dwain Skeen.

Refusing to flee from the political treachery, Skeen found himself ex-premier and eliminated. Joyce said, "the Premier simply ceases to exist."

However, ex-Premier Skeen, who simply refused to cease to exist, still maintains, "I am the Premier. I declare myself the head of state!"

Outside of most everything, the UPR is relatively stable.

Secretary Dixon said, "We rule by method of collected leadership with the masses as the prime political depository of power."

Now, the palace bears witness to a general lack of militarism. Few weapons are displayed. Maneuvers were last held fall quarter.

PARTY MANEUVERS

On maneuvers all party members practice "methods of rape and pillage and plunder in an effort to liberate the oppressed masses," said a temporary spokesman.

Bill Richardson, Generalissimo and warrior, was unavailable for comment on future plans for liberating the oppressed. Richardson began recently a "three-year fact-finding tour for intellectual obscurantism in military affairs," said the spokesman.

INVASION?

On warm days, the governing elite parade through Greenville's streets clad in helmets and uniforms with implements of destruction, threatening to liberate a downtown department store.

The first secretary is currently busy finding facts for a project to secure the palace with sandbags in case of invasion.

Dixon complained the UPR business was complicated because of all the buses that are hijacked daily by people seeking freedom and refuge and political asylum.

The treasury, it appears, will soon be unable to provide funds for the returning trips of several drivers. Also, the remaining buses present a parking problem.

Other problems continue to haunt the rising government. Governing officials are needed.

The UPR is recruiting persons to fulfill the tasks of the Ministers of Foreign Affairs, Admiralty, Cults, Information, Interior, Inspector General and Pope.

Only the position of Pope requires previous affiliation.

The temporary spokesman added, "the UPR is an equal opportunity employer, provided you're equal."

The future of the UPR, for the most part, is uncertain. The leaders of the UPR assure all that the people will eventually triumph over all evil.

Still, three members of the leadership have been forced into exile from external pressure. A fourth may follow.

Although the future appears discouraging, the UPR people continue to smile and give aid. And like it.

Play shows life

The play is stylized with characters representing types. The use of masks, however, does not enhance this effect. Moreover, the limitation of facial expressions—particularly those of the eyes—detracts and spoils many comic effects.

The play ends without resolution but, then, life continues without resolution. Shen Te cries "Help!" to the departing audience, a plea for aid for the gentle soul dragged down by life. And, Brecht tells us, the gods are gone—only man can help.

Voss sets school record

Ken Voss set a new school record for the three-mile run Saturday when he won the event with a time of 14:23.5 in the Colonial Relays.

Neill Ross finished third in the event for the Bucs. He also broke the old school mark by finishing in 14:29.7.

Saturday, the squad will travel to Raleigh for a dual meet with State.

IN CONTENTION

Although the Bucs were not able to take another first place in the Relays, they remained in strong contention and picked up second place in the sprint medley and the mile relays.

William and Mary captured first place in the sprint medley with the East Carolina team of Jerry Covington, Mark Hamilton, Barry Johnson and James Kidd finishing only half a second behind.

MILE RELAY SECOND

The mile relay went to Richmond with a time of 3:20.2. The Bucs' team, consisting of Johnson, Kidd, Covington and David Thomas, finished at 3:21, only eight-tenths of a second later.

The Pirates finished fourth in the four mile, out-running Boston State. That event went to West Virginia.

In Friday's competition, Voss captured second place in the 3,000-meter steeplechase. He finished 19 seconds behind Joe Lucas of Georgetown.

In the freshman division, East Carolina's Dennis Smith finished fourth in the mile run.

Buc netmen end road trip with victory

The tennis squad returned Tuesday from a four-day road trip which saw it capture one of the four matches it competed in.

The lone victory came over Roanoke College, 9-0, for the Bucs' second shutout of the season. They had earlier blanked St. Andrews, 8-0.

Losses came at the hands of VMI, 5-4, Virginia Tech, 6-3, and North Carolina State, 7-2. The Bucs now hold a 3-7 won-lost record including 1-1 in conference action.

The Pirates' next encounter will be a home match against Davidson tomorrow afternoon. Saturday, Furman will be in. Both matches are in conference play.

Mike Grady, a junior from Opelika, Ala., leads the team in singles competition with a 6-4 record. Grady defeated his opponent, 6-3, in the singles match. Team captain Graham Felton is 5-5.

In doubles competition, the team of Bill Van Middlesworth and Grady has taken its opponents in the last two matches.

The junior varsity squad trounced Louisburg College, 7-2, in its first match of the season.

PIRATE RUNNER slides into second in Tuesday's doubleheader with The Citadel. Pirates won first game, 1-0, but bowed in second, 3-2.

Bucs split with Bulldogs

The Pirate diamondmen split a doubleheader with the Citadel Bulldogs Tuesday on the Pirate diamond. The Bucs won the first game, 1-0, while the Bulldogs held on to take the second, 3-2.

East Carolina took a 9-5 record into today's game in Raleigh against the Wolfpack of North Carolina State. The Bucs' conference record of 4-2 will stand until Saturday's and Sunday's battles at home against Richmond and VMI, respectively.

In the first game against The Citadel, Hal Beard went all the way to win a squeaker. Both pitchers had scoreless efforts going into the seventh inning.

WALKER SINGLES

However, in the Pirate seventh, Dick Corrada walked, went to second on a sacrifice, and came home with the only run on a single up the middle by Matt Walker.

Going into that inning, the Citadel pitcher had been working on a two-hitter. Beard wound up pitching a five-hitter for the Pirates.

Sonny Robinson started the second game for the Bucs and pitched a fine ball game but it was not enough as the Pirates fielding collapsed, allowing three runs to score unearned.

TWO WALKS IN FIRST

The Bucs got to Citadel starter Doug Pounder for two walks in the first inning but Pounder was able to pitch out of the inning.

That was all the Bucs could muster until Walker doubled in the seventh for the first hit of Pounder.

The Bucs had the tying run in scoring position after rallying for two runs in the inning.

The schedule, April 16-20:

- Thursday - Baseball at N. C. State; Golf vs. Richmond and VMI (at Richmond)
 - Friday - Tennis vs. Davidson
 - Saturday - Baseball vs. Richmond; Tennis vs. Furman; Crew vs. Virginia Commonwealth; Lacrosse at William and Mary; Track at N. C. State; Golf at Wilmington

Baseball Umpires

Who are some of baseball's unforgettable umpires? Many men through ability or picturesque ways have become famous umpires.

George Moriarty, once a third baseman, wrote poetry. Bill Byron was known as "The Hummingbird." This was because he broke into song whenever a player protested a decision.

John K. Tener served a stint as umpire. He later became National League President, Governor of Pennsylvania and United States Senator. Hank O'Day quit umpiring to manage a ball club. He then quit that job to go back into umpiring.

Billy Evans, a Cornell graduate, revolutionized the profession. It was Evan's custom to run with the play whenever possible. He made his decisions at the point where the play was made.

By DON TRAUSNECK

East Carolina fans will have their first real look at the new Pirate football machine at the ninth Purple-Gold football game a week from Saturday.

The intra-squad game, which will conclude football drills for the spring, is an annual attraction which is usually the highlight of a big weekend in conjunction with the game.

The morning before the game, head coach Mike McGee will hold a special football clinic for high school coaches. Each member of the coaching staff will give a talk on a certain aspect of the game. High school coaches from all over the state are expected to attend this clinic.

The teams will square off at 2 p.m. and the big battle will be underway. This game will offer an excellent chance for the coaching staff, as well as the public, to get a first-hand look at how the new East Carolina offense is progressing.

The game will be televised live and in color on WNBE-TV, Channel 12, in New Bern. Sports Director Jack Collins will be doing the play-by-play and interviews.

A halftime show with plenty of fine entertainment as well as a combo party after the game are being planned for the big day.

Sports Information Director John Montague, who has done an excellent job since replacing John Hendrix in March, is coordinating the publicity of the events and organizing the entertainment.

In the past, the team has been divided into two squads, the Purple being the younger, less experienced players, and the Gold being those players which have had more experience.

This year, however, the teams will not formally be determined until after the last big spring scrimmage which will be held this Saturday.

* * *

The origin of this annual affair can be traced back to March, 1961, when the first Purple-Gold game was held.

That year, such ECC greats as Clayton Piand, Chuck Gordon and Dan Rouse, participated in the event. That year's team was coached by Jack Boone.

In those days, the game was not as large an attraction as it is today. In fact, the athletic field held various events which were called the "Purple-Gold game."

The previous year 1960 saw East Carolina College's last Alumni-Varsity game which, until that time, had been the thing in spring football. Perhaps "winter football" would be better to use here. The truth was, in those days, ECC held its off-season drills from early January to mid March.

The modern series has been pretty close. There have been eight contests held with the Gold winning four, the Purple three and one ending in a tie.

Last year's game presented perhaps the most exciting struggle in the series.

The Purple team won, 20-19, as an 18-yard pass from Jack Patterson to Jim Sermons on a fourth down play won the game in the fourth quarter.

There were many exciting plays in the game and everyone was a winner as it was ECU vs. ECU. Billy Wightman turned in electrifying runs of 42 and 44 yards, the latter for a score. George Whitley raced 78 yards with a screen pass for a touchdown and Butch Colson and Billy Mitchell combined on a 64-yard pass and run play.

Although Colson and Wightman will not be there next week, there should be more of the same excitement and it should prove an interesting game.

In conjunction with the Purple-Gold game, East Carolina will hold a Campus Queen election next week. Monday's issue of Fountainhead will carry pictures of the candidates and a ballot.

The election will run from Monday through Thursday night. The contest is sponsored on a national level by Sport Magazine and will terminate in a national Campus Queen election.

I would like to wish the best of luck to all the candidates in our election and in the national election to follow.

Buc crew faces test Tar Heels triumph

East Carolina's lacrosse team was sent to its second defeat of the season at the hands of a fired-up North Carolina squad, 13-3, yesterday.

The Pirates, hampered from the outset by key penalties, just could not match the fine stick-handling and hard checking of the Tar Heels as the Chapel Hill boys exploded to a 12-0 lead at the start of the final quarter.

Eric Schandelmeier finally broke the ice for the Bucs when he scored unassisted in the first few minutes of the last quarter.

A few minutes later, Schandelmeier assisted on a goal by Rick Cassisi, which made the score 12-2.

Gary McCulloch scored the final tally for the Bucs as their rally fell too short and too late.

The Pirates travel to Williamsburg, Va., Saturday to tackle William and Mary with hopes of getting back on the winning track. Their record now stands at 3-2 with three games remaining.

The weekend's action saw the Bucs more successful as they downed VMI, 7-4, and the Richmond Lacrosse Club, 9-4. Gary McCulloch picked up five goals in the latter to take the team scoring lead. He now has 20 points for the season.

Mystery surrounds workshop cancellation

There was a high school journalism workshop planned to be held at ECU on April 16.

That a general lack of support eventually led to its cancellation is obvious.

A lot of people put a lot of work into arranging for this workshop. A lot of high school kids had made plans and were looking forward to participating.

A lot of people were disappointed.

There were rumors that Nelly Lee, former editor of this newspaper and then as well as new arch enemy of the administration, was going to participate. A rumor which turned out to be ill founded.

There were rumors that the workshop would turn into a radical situation of some kind or another, but I saw no plans for anything but a technical workshop.

And there are many rumors about the identity of the person who did sign the cancellation letter.

No one, from the president on down to the secretary who typed the letter can be found. And no one will say who actually authorized mailing the letter.

There are a lot of people who have lost in this situation.

The people who worked so hard for it have lost.

The people who would have benefited from the added prestige the university would have had in the eyes of those who participated have lost.

But most of all the kids themselves who would have benefited the most, also lost the most.

Campus shows need for restoration effort

Since 1967, ECU has been the site of major construction. This construction has taken place all over campus.

From a campus with tall trees and flowering shrubs, the campus has changed greatly. Now the buildings have taken up much of the open areas and much of the beauty has been destroyed.

When the "big ditch" was under construction, the administration stated that the effected area would be restored.

Since the "big ditch" was completed last quarter, its path has been a barren spot on the Mall and in the area adjacent to Fifth Street.

This area has been eroded by heavy rains recently, spreading the mud even further.

But, who will take the initiative to begin the restoration of the campus?

Perhaps it is time for the students to take action themselves. If every student would plant something green and growing of Earth Day, April 22, it would add much to remaking the campus a place of beauty.

Toronto Pop Festival falls in

BEATLE NEWS:

Ringo Starr became the second Beatle to get a haircut recently. The "new" Ringo still has a full beard, but the famous Beatlecut is reduced to a long sasoon.

No reason was given for the haircut, which appeared unexpectedly two weeks ago.

John Lennon split from preparations for a Toronto Peace Festival after a disagreement with the promoters. John and Yoko wanted the festival to be free, the promoters wanted to charge admission. John made his intentions clear in a watered-down press release issued through the offices of Beatle business magnate Allen Klein.

John and Yoko cabled promoter John Brower condemning his efforts to commercialize the festival. "We want nothing to do with you or your festival," they concluded.

DIDN'T-KNOW-HE-HAD-IT-IN-HIM-DEPT:

Mr. and Mrs. Tiny Tim are expecting their first child in September. Tiny, about 40, and Miss Vicky, 17, are described as "pretty excited."

AGNEWS:

A one word obscenity cost the Jefferson Airplane $1000 in Oklahoma City during a concert Feb. 27. An anti-obscenity clause in the contract forced the band to forfeit the money (which their managers expect to recover through legal maneuverings).

The violation occurred at the concert's end when the Airplane wanted to do an encore, and a policeman intervened at the microphone, telling the audience that the Airplane had to quit to rest for an early departure time the following morning. Paul Kantner responded by labeling the cop's statement untrue—the way he said it cost the Airplane $1000.

The Airplane, Grateful Dead, Country Joe and the Fish, and other West coast groups have all been victimized by anti-obscenity clauses—a reaction to Jim Morrison's alleged overexposure in front of a Miami audience last year.

Some of the groups, including the Airplane are refusing to play contracts with anti-obscenity provisions. Meanwhile legal battles are under way to regain money forfeited during past appearances.

ECTC NOTES: East Carolina has scheduled the Iron Butterfly and Gary Puckett and the Union Gap for Pirate's Jambo-ree.

up and a request for information concerning the authority under which it was sent out or whose signature appeared on it brought only silence from those present.

Mrs. Sorensen commented that "it was the consensus of opinion of all fraternity members, advisors and administrators in Greenville immediately before and during Easter vacation that it had become imperative to advise people who had been invited to the workshop had to be cancelled for the Spring.

"This letter of cancellation was necessary to advise speakers, advisors and students who had been invited to attend the work.

"The unforeseen conflicts that necessitated the cancellation included complete lack of finances and lack of time to make the necessary arrangements for a satisfactory workshop this spring. originally mentioned for one of the weekend dates, but the Airplane refused to sign the contract.

In contacting the Iron Butterfly and the Union Gap ECTC maintained its tradition of scheduling groups a year or more after their prime. The Butterfly has had only one hit album—their second, IN-A-GADDA-DA-VIDA, and has since declined in popularity.

The Union Gap, with the monotonous lead vocal of Gary Puckett, has opted for a solid commercial—"Bubblegum"—sound unleashing an endless stream of mediocre, formulaic performances into the Top 40. The Gap is commercially successful, but musically undistinguished.

workshop this spring.

"Those concerned who were present concluded that it was in the best interest of the university and Alpha Phi Gamma to postpone the workshop until a better planned workshop could be given.

"For the last four or five Alpha Phi Gamma meetings the average number of students present was three."

Dr. Jenkins, President of the University, made this statement yesterday:

"As the editor knows, I have asked Dr. Holt to make a complete investigation of this matter. On the surface there appears to be a simple breakdown of communications. As far as I know, there is no attempt on the part of anyone to keep the conference from being held. As a matter of fact, I have been informed by all sources associated with this project that the postponement was to insure a larger and more comprehensive conference in the fall.
