Counselor is unique

By KAREN BLANSFIELD

If you happen to see Barbara Holmes pass by on her bicycle, you would most likely mistake her for a student.

Miss Holmes, the East Wing counselor of Umstead Dorm, is unique in that she is the youngest counselor on campus.

Surprisingly, however, she did not major in counseling at college. She earned a Bachelor's degree from Methodist College in Fayetteville, and a music degree from Appalachian University.

FAVORS CHANGE

When she discovered last year that there was a counselor opening here, she decided to apply, because she thought it was a good chance to work with college students.

"I thought it was something I could truly like," she said.

Miss Holmes is in favor of most of the women's changes that are in so much controversy.

"You have to change with the times," she said. "But I don't think you should push out the old so fast when bringing in the new. I feel that it's a matter of a person making their own decision."

For example, on the issue of all night dorms, she said "As long as the person takes the responsibility for what they want, it's right to give them their freedom. However, I think that if they're not willing to take the responsibility, they shouldn't be given the freedom."

CLOSED STUDY

"But," she added "if there are girls who want to live in a dorm which closes at a certain hour, fine. They should be able to."

She feels much the same way about closed study.

"It's not good if it makes the students feel they are compelled to study, because so many of them just sleep, or play records or do something else.

"However, I do feel that every dorm should have quiet hours for those who do study."

Miss Holmes feels that the majority of the other house counselors are "sincerely trying to do a good job."

"I deeply feel that all of us who went to college a few years ago are baffled by the maturity of students on campuses today," she said.

NON-VIOLENCE

In view of the many student protests and demonstrations that are taking place today, she said, "If any cause is worth fighting for, I think it's all right, if it's done in a non-violent way. You have to present it through the proper channels."

HOBBIES

"My very favorite interest is tennis," she said. "My next favorite is biking. And, of course, music is very dear to my heart."

Barbara Holmes is the kind of counselor that East Carolina needs. She is sincerely interested in the girls, and takes the time to talk to them, sing with them or give them any kind of help they might need. And she is an extremely likeable person.

When asked how she liked her job she replied with a smile, "At present, I love it."

WOULD YOU BELIEVE a housemother? Friend is a better word for Barbara Holmes.

International centers provide opportunity for more studies

International travel, work and study is available to students through the American Association of State Colleges and Universities (AASCU) and the American Student Information Service (ASIS).

The Office of International Programs, in cooperation with the AASCU, is establishing study-abroad centers for students and faculty of member institutions.

The first centers which AASCU plans to establish around the world are the International Study Centers in Mexico and Canada.

In Mexico, the center is affiliated with the University of the Americas, located near Puebla. In Canada, the center is aided by institutions in the Montreal-Quebec City Metropolitan area.

Study programs for 1970-71 are available at both graduate and undergraduate levels with work in general or specific

Journalists to be inducted into honorary fraternity

By IRAL BAKER

Ten outstanding campus journalists and five distinguished North Carolina newspapermen will be inducted Sunday afternoon at 4:30 into Delta Nu Chapter of Alpha Phi Gamma, national honorary fraternity for student journalists.

The ceremony, to be held at the Holiday Inn, will be followed by a Dutch supper.

NEW MEMBERS

Students to be initiated include the following: Benjamin Bailey, Edward H. Brodie, Patience Colie, Wayne B. Eads, Gary L. McCullough, Sandra Mims, Judy L. Morris, Steve V.

Naylor, and Annie L. Ross, Robert R. Thonen.

HONORARY MEMBERS

Honorary members to be received include Alfred G. Dickson, assistant to the publisher, Wilmington Star-News; Joe S. Maynor, director public relations East Carolina University; Sam Ragan, editor and publisher, Southern Pines Pilot; Alvin B. Taylor, managing editor, the Greenville Daily Reflector; and James L. Whitfield, business editor, the Raleigh News and Observer.

Whitfield, a member of the University Board of Trustees, and Taylor are alumni of the University.

Following the presentation of membership certificates by Donna Dixon, president, and Ira L. Baker, adviser, Whitfield will address the group.

The Delta Nu chapter received its charter last spring and initiated the largest charter group in the history of the fraternity.

Requirements may change

Changes are needed in the way general education requirements are presented in the catalogue, according to Dr. Donald Bailey, director of the General College.

Bailey proposes a uniform set of general education requirements for all students, regardless of degree or major. This would help prevent false starts by undecided students.

COGNATE COURSES

Under Bailey's proposal, a student who finds himself attracted toward a particular field would take cognate courses, to be listed separately in the catalogue from general and major requirements, in that field. For example, chemistry would be taken toward a biology degree, math toward accounting, and biology toward physics.

Finally, a student would take courses in his major and minor fields.

LESS CONFUSING

Bailey said that these three categories of course requirements would make the catalogue less confusing.

Although the proposal for reducing general education requirements was defeated, changes in the format for presenting requirements may still be considered, he added.

ECU represents Rumania at MUN

After a seemingly brief skirmish, the seven-man Model UN delegation still looks forward to an eventful Model United Nations in New York this weekend.

Robert Adams, Danny Bland, Jack Hart, Geoff Knowles, Dwain Skeen, and Bob Thonen comprise the Rumania team.

Secretary of Internal Affairs, Dwain Skeen said, "We feel that we will have a good chance of placing well next week."

BEST DELEGATION

Skeen reported, "In three conferences this year we have taken Best Delegation."

Dean Tucker of Student Affairs delayed the final preparations somewhat by refusing to grant excused absences to four of the delegates.

Tucker told Geoff Knowles, secretary of external affairs, that four of the students in the delegation lacked a 2.0 average.

UNEXCUSED ABSENCES

He said that he would not be able to grant these students excused absences because of their grades.

All four delegates intend to use their outs.

In previous excursions held this year all students regardless of grade-point average, have been granted excuses, said Knowles.

Students may work summers in Europe

Classes are given in English except for the language departments. Costs are geared to the financial range of the majority of AASCU students and the resources of the institutions.

Future centers are planned for Micronesia, Europe, Scandinavia, South America, Africa and Asia.

FIRST COME BASIS

ECU students can also work and travel in Europe by obtaining one of the 5,000 summer jobs available through a speed placement service by the ASIS.

Jobs, work permits, travel documents and other materials are available on a first come basis to students attending accredited U. S. colleges through mailed applications.

Jobs available include office, hospital, factory, farm, life-guard and camp counseling in England, France, Germany, Switzerland, Spain, Italy and Luxembourg. Russia also has a limited number of jobs available.

WAGE RANGE

Wages range from tree room and board to straight salaries of $300 to $400 a month. No previous experience or foreign language is required for most jobs as students will undergo a four-day orientation in Luxembourg before starting their jobs.

VOLUNTEER WORK

Volunteer service work is available in North Africa and Western Europe.

Both the AASCU and ASIS offer these programs for students interested in broadening their horizons.

Program for establishment of aeronautical studies goes to State

A proposal to establish an aeronautical program in the Industrial and Technical Education Department has passed the Curriculum Committee, the Faculty Senate, the Board of Trustees, and has been sent to the State Board of Education for approval.

The program will contain a Bachelor of Science in Aeronautical Management and a Bachelor of Science in Aeronautical Technology.

PROVIDES OPPORTUNITIES

The program will provide opportunities for graduates of community colleges to continue their education in aviation.

It will also provide an education for people who plan management careers with airlines, general aviation, manufacturing, government agencies, or the military service.

If the program is initiated, ECU will be the first senior institution on the Mid-Atlantic Seaboard to offer this type program.

MONEY DRIVE

The proposed degree program can be initiated and developed during fiscal year 1970-1971 for $20,000, said Thomas J. Haigwood of the Industrial Arts Department.

An attempt is being made to get enough money from grants or private sources to build and equip a hanger.

If this is done, the program would operate for about $126,000 per year, Haigwood said.

Safety Officer appointed

The new position of University Safety Officer will be filled Friday by Joe Calder, F. D. Duncan, vice president, said.

A former member of the Army and a government investigator, Calder will be in charge of the University police force.

Instead of the police operations, however, Calder will be available for closer consultation and investigation in special situations. He will see that adequate personnel is available for parking and traffic control at major athletic events.

DEPOSITING A BAG of used glass containers, Fred W. Dickson, president of Coca-Cola USA, launches an experimental solid waste recycling program to be conducted among employees of the domestic soft drink division that are headquartered in Atlanta. Both glass and metal containers are included in the program being carried out by The Coca-Cola Club, an employee organization. The used packaging is brought by employees to deposit bins located at the Company headquarters. Once collected, the used containers are sold to glass and metal packaging manufacturers who recycle the material. Proceeds from the sale of the solid waste material, including paper packaging and newsprint, will go to community projects in underprivileged areas of Atlanta.

Honorary history fraternity holds regional conference

Phi Alpha Theta, the history honor society, held its regional conference last week in Greensboro.

Six members from the Lambda Eta chapter here attended the conference. Two members of the delegation read papers: Stephen L. Beaman's paper, "W. W. Holden and the Succession Crisis in North Carolina" was read to the North Carolina History session.

Alan N. Sabrosky presented his paper, "The Bosnian Crisis of 1908-1909 and its Influence on the First World War," to both the European and Diplomatic History sessions.

Dr. M. S. Venkataramani, visiting from the Division of American Studies at the Indian School of International Studies, spoke at Friday's luncheon.

Bob Chase will direct ECU Playhouse's final work of the season, 'The Lion in Winter'

By JAMES SLAUGHTER

Special to Fountainhead

"The Lion in Winter," a gracefully witty comedy about King Henry II of England, directed by Robert Chase guest director, winds up the season at the East Carolina Playhouse May 13-16 in McGinnis Auditorium.

The play, written by James Goldman, is an impudently imagined projection of uproariously funny and melodramatic incidents that, according to the history books, might have occurred at a Christmas-time gathering of a feuding royal family.

FICTIONAL

At this holiday celebration in the year 1183, attended by the Kings of England and France, Henry's wily Queen — Eleanor of Aquitaine — his three quarrelsome sons, and his lovely young mistress, the plots and wild amusements are inventions of the playwright.

But they're not out of line with the history books. In a program note, playwright Goldman admits that "the people of the play, their characters and passions, while consistent with the facts we have, are fictions."

PORTRAYALS

But fictions, since these combative royal persons speak and act in their medieval costumes very much like clever, well-educated people of our time.

Claude Woolman, who recently appeared in the Playhouse production of "Macbeth," will be seen as the lusty King Henry. Rosalind Roulston, a faculty member in the drama department, as his devious Queen Eleanor, and ROBERT CHASE, GUEST director and professor of Drama and Speech, will direct "The Lion in Winter" May 13-16 in McGinnis Auditorium.

Enrollment largest in Industrial Arts classes

By BEN STEWART

The Industrial and Technical Education Department, with offices and classrooms in the basement of Flanagan Building, has the largest enrollment of any college or university in the Carolinas and Virginia.

Most of the growth of the Industrial and Technical Education Department has been in the past 10 years. The number of majors has increased from 125 to 200 in that period.

All art and elementary education majors must take at least one course in the department. Those majoring in other fields sometimes elect a course in Industrial and Technical Education.

ORGANIZATION

Twelve faculty members and four graduate fellows make up the faculty. Ten years ago the department had only seven on its faculty and staff.

Organized in 1949, the department has been headed by Dr. Haigwood who came to Greenville in 1956 from Pennsylvania State University.

The department offers bachelor of science and master of arts degrees. Many of its graduates enter secondary school teaching with others taking middle management jobs in industry.

NEW FACILITIES

"There is a good demand for our graduates and most of them have little trouble finding jobs," Dr. Haigwood said.

Several new facilities have been added since 1960, including a wood technology lab, general industrial arts lab and a graphic arts lab. Facilities to be added this year include a power technology lab and a drafting classroom.

A new program leading to the bachelor of science degree in Industrial Technology was launched in 1966. Equipment valued at approximately $82,000 has been added in the past 10 years with $40,000 of this amount going toward a graphic arts lab.

PROGRAMS PLANNED

Plans for two new programs, Aeronautical Management and Aeronautical Technology, have been approved by the Curriculum Committee and will be presented to the N. C. Board of Higher Education. If approved by that board, the two degree programs should be put into operation by the fall of 1971.

Although the growth has been great during the past 10 years, the next 10 years could see an even greater growth. With this in mind, plans for a new building will be presented to the 1971 Legislature, Dr. Haigwood said.

No details on the building are available now.

Sierra Club promotes anti-pollution

By KAREN BLANSFIELD

About two dozen people were present at the Sierra Club meeting on Tuesday night. Such a turnout makes one wonder if there is anything that can be done to get the students on this campus involved.

Dr. Philip Adler of the History Department who organized the meeting, said that the purpose of the meeting was not so much to get membership for the Sierra Club, but rather "to organize ourselves for some kind of local counter-pollution activities."

The Sierra Club chapter in this section of the country, which encompasses the two Carolinas, has a membership of about 450.

OTHER PROGRAMS

Besides concentration on measures to conserve the land, it sponsors a program of outdoor activities ranging over just about every interest, including hiking, bird-watching, canoeing, pack trips and others.

"North Carolina is still one of the more unpolluted areas of the country," Adler said. "But we must do something about not repeating the mistakes made in the North, New England, etc."

Definitive measures which can be taken, he said, include political action and publicity.

COMPLAIN

Write letters to senators and congressmen, both local and national, complaining about pollution situations or urging certain legislative measures to be pushed.

At the Tuesday night meeting, a Shell Oil Co. film was shown which illustrated how water pollution occurs, and suggested some means of preventing it.

BUC HURLER Sonny Robinson delivers pitch in recent game at University Field. He won yesterday, 6-0.

Sonny Robinson's fifth victory of the season enabled the Pirates to split a doubleheader with Furman yesterday and move to within a game of clinching the Southern Division title.

The Bucs won the second game, 6-0, after losing the opener, 2-0, and now hold a 10-4 conference mark with only a twinbill at Davidson remaining on the league schedule. Overall, the Bucs are 15-9.

During the past weekend, the Bucs traveled to Williamsburg, Va., and Washington, D. C., for conference encounters with William and Mary and George Washington.

The Bucs lost to William and Mary, 5-4, Saturday, despite a ninth-inning rally which saw them score twice. Hal Baird, the first of three Buc pitchers, took the loss, his second against four victories.

Sunday it was a different story, however, as Ron Hastings went the distance, scattering five singles. He picked up his sixth victory against only one loss as the Bucs edged George Washington, 2-0, scoring runs in the fifth and ninth innings.

Netmen seek crown

The Pirate tennis squad is at Davidson today to compete in the first round of the Southern Conference net championships.

Defending champion Furman, host Davidson and The Citadel are favorites for the team title. Davidson, which has lost only once in its first 17 matches this season, has the depth which could prove to make the difference.

East Carolina has been suffering through a disappointing season, record-wise, but has had fine individual efforts from Mike Grady and Graham Felton. Overall, the Bucs are 5-10 with a 2-3 log in conference play.

Linksters favored

The Pirate golf team, coached by John Welburn, travelled to Pinehurst, N. C., yesterday, seeking its second straight Southern Conference Championship.

The Bucs have had phenomenal success this year in coasting to an 11-3 record including 3-1 in conference action.

Part of the reason for the tremendous success the team has had has been the play of several key individuals. Rocky Rockett, a freshman, has been one of the more successful Bucs.

In addition, Joe and Vernon Tyson, Burny Hobbs, and Ron Pinner have made this year's squad one of the best ever assembled at East Carolina.

Bucs in loop meet

By DONALD TRAUSNECK

Perhaps the most successful team at East Carolina, if you consider the experience it had at the start of the season, is Bill Carson's track team.

With a 3-1 dual meet record behind them, including an impressive victory over State, the Pirates venture to Fort Eustis, Va., Friday and Saturday, to compete in the Southern Conference Track and Field Championships.

Last year, the Bucs finished with a 3-5 dual meet record and placed second behind William and Mary in the conference meet. The Indians are once again rated a strong favorite to take this year's meet with a battle anticipated between Furman, The Citadel and ECU for second place.

The Pirates are strongest in the running events, a category which could very well determine the outcome of the meet, for this is Furman's strong point as well.

Coach Carson cited several individuals as having had outstanding seasons and he expects fine showings from them this weekend.

DISTANCE EVENTS STRONG FOR BUCS

James Kidd is expected to take the half-mile and Ken Voss the three-mile and possibly the steeplechase. The results of the distance events will depend on how William and Mary places its top runners.

Neill Ross is ranked second in the three-mile, making ECU particularly strong in that event.

Barry Johnson is ranked second in the quarter-mile.

Lanny Davis and Rusty Carraway are expected to be strong contenders in the half-mile. Both are ranked fourth.

The mile is another strong event for East Carolina. Ross is ranked second and Dennis Smith third.

Jerry Covington and Mark Hamilton are two of East Carolina's top sprinters. Covington is tied for first in the 220-yard dash while Hamilton is strong in the 100 and 220.

In the high hurdles, Ronnie Smith is ranked second and the mile relay team of Covington, Dave Thomas, Kidd and Johnson is in second, right behind Furman.

The 440-yard relay team of Mickey Furcron, Covington, Billy Mitchell and Hamilton is ranked third.

The field events are not quite as strong for the Bucs but Walter Davenport, who is ranked second in the conference, should be a real threat in the long jump and especially triple jump.

Richard McDuffie is ranked fourth in the pole vault. Other than these performers, however, the Pirates do not expect many high finishes in the field events, which is The Citadel's forte.

COACH HAS BEEN PLEASED WITH PERFORMANCE

No matter how the meet winds up, however, the coach has been pleased with the team's performance this year. The main obstacles the team has had to overcome have been a rash of injuries and inexperience. Of the 33 members on the squad, 20 are freshmen and 12 sophomores. There is only one senior.

Asked how he felt about the trend in Southern Conference track, coach Carson said it is definitely growing stronger. "They won't come down to us," he said. "We must come up to them."

Judging on the team's performance in this, the third year the coach has been here, it won't be long before East Carolina will be at the top.

Rowers face VCU

Coach Terry Chalk will take his crew squad into its last test before the Dad Vail Regatta when they travel to Richmond this weekend to face three other shells.

The opponents of the Pirates are Washington College, Salisbury State and Virginia Commonwealth University. VCU, which defeated the Pirates on the Tar River by four seconds earlier, is rated as the top obstacle for the Bucs.

Rowing in the varsity boat will be Bill Lewis, Dick Fuller, Bob Fuller, Gary Campbell, Bruce Garmon, Al Hern, Bill Powell, Hank Milligan and coxswain Steve Mabel.

Chalk hopes the crew can start the race at the respectable pace of 44 strokes a minute and expects to row the body of the race at 38.

Stickmen face Indians in final home game

The pirate lacrosse squad faces its final home test of the season Saturday when it takes on William and Mary at Ficklen Stadium at 1 p.m.

In an earlier game between these two conference rivals, the Bucs were victorious on the Indians' turf, 7-5, as Eric Schandelmeier scored three goals and two assists.

Now riding a 4-2 record, the Bucs have been idle since that April 18 victory and have had plenty of time to get ready for the game.

Going into the game, Gary McCulloch leads the team in scoring with 21 points on 16 goals and five assists. Schandelmeier has ten goals and as many assists for 20 points.

The key to the game will lie in how the Pirates can perform in the middle quarters. In their first six games, the Bucs outscored their opponents, 13-7, in the second quarter, but they have been outscored in the third, 14-9, after giving up six goals to Duke in that period.

After Saturday's game with William and Mary, the Bucs will travel to Randolph Macon, Wednesday, for their last game of the season.

Southern Justice: a bird in the hand

In Columbia, South Carolina a GI student coffee house called the "LFO" was recently closed and its three owners sentenced to six years' arrest in prison for "maintaining a public nuisance."

According to the New York Post, the conviction was brought about in a rather shady manner by Richland County's prosecutor, John W. Foard. Mr. Foard rounded eleven dope peddlers and promised them immunity and in exchange four of the peddlers testified that the LFO was a public nuisance.

The anti-immunism among several "southern justice" but it is significant when viewed along with the many recent closings of GI coffee houses by the military.

Could the military be lurking somewhere behind this episode?

Maybe this is an omen aimed at any who plan to support freedom of expression.

This may not be simply another case of "southern justice." It maybe what justice has become in this country.

Nixon wavers on vote from political fears

The House of Representatives is now working on a two-part bill which has been passed by the Senate concerning voting rights. President Nixon has expressed an interest in both parts.

The first part of this bill is an extension of the Voting Rights Act. President Nixon had previously opposed such legislation, but now seems to sympathize with its need.

The second part lowers the voting age to 18 years. The President agrees that this issue should be settled, however, he feels that if handled in this manner (that is, a statute rather than a constitutional amendment) it could lead to a "crisis of the first magnitude."

There are conflicting opinions on the constitutionality of the legislation as it stands. However, if it were passed and then overturned by the Supreme Court, the period of time that it could remain as a trial period for the responsible 18-year-old voter and thereby lessen the friction between the youth and the law.

President Nixon's constant postponement of the issues at hand is adding to the skepticism of the youth of America. They are no longer sure of when and where to trust him.

It is not hard to imagine, then, that the "crisis of the first magnitude" of which Mr. Nixon speaks is simply the fact that those newly franchised 18 year olds may not vote Republican in 1972.

The Forum

Dear Editor:

The League of Women Voters is a non-partisan organization dedicated to promoting informed citizen participation in government.

This spring in connection with the League's statewide study of Public Assistance and Education, three questions were submitted to all those filing for the State Legislature and the replies were quoted without editing in a published pamphlet. The questions concerned public assistance programs, the problems of "tight housing" in the state, particularly at the low and moderate income levels, and priorities concerning programs affecting North Carolina public education.

Of the five candidates for the North Carolina House of Representatives, four gave answers of varied length and content, but these four did answer the questions.

However, one candidate, Rep. H. Horton Rountree's reply was, "Who dreamed up these questions?"

While I have not been actively supporting any candidate for Seat 1, North Carolina House of Representatives, I do believe every voter in Pitt County should be aware of the attitude exhibited by this candidate to legitimate questions from the public.

Again, I am not soliciting votes for or against any candidate; however, I am concerned that this man who wishes to represent us in Raleigh seems to feel that the voter has no right to know where he stands on such important issues as welfare, housing, and public education.

Thank you.

Dear Editor:

One of the most destructive forces in environment is war.

War is a destructive force in which every citizen of a country can participate. Repercussions from such war can be "entertained" for generations to come as exemplified in several European countries' ecology, not to mention Japan.

The lack in mentioning war in general or specific seemed to indicate it as a remote cause or source of environmental decay on "Earth Day."

The concerned biologists and others dabbling in environmental action on "Earth Day" must believe individuals who through osmosis or mitosis or random association allowed themselves enough leeway to attend the celebration (gas station attendants, administration officials, many profs and instructors, students, mothers, and others) may relate Vietnam as well as an example of a British Columbian plant or contraceptives to the pollution problems with which we are faced.

A doctor stood on the podium and related the idea that small acts contribute to large movements in the United States. Individuals at ECU should make small acts by not littering, paper, cups, sandwich wrappers — sort of a conditioning process or the like....

Just think of the intense rehabilitation of those individuals who return from Vietnam will have to go through, after practicing the use of napalm, grenades, and mortars.

On April 22 a great deal of pollution above the danger level to human life and its posterity did occur in Indochina. No mention of it I heard at administration official, several industrial representatives and many instructors speak of priorities and even sanity in dealing with environmental problems — but the must have been pre-castigated individuals on Wednesday or were wearing "straitjackets" under the beard or suit, for not one made direct reference to war in general or Vietnam specifically as an environmental problem.

Posterity, the by-word of "Earth Day" loses its emence when one considers arm shipments into Cambodia by the U. S. and some of the actions and reactions within the countries of Indochina. It's a shame such strong voices for mankind's benefit blinked their eyes at the present, and vie for posterity.
