Jenkins, Croshaw participate

Presidents discuss role of SGA

PRESIDENT JENKINS STATED that he had no objection to a voting faculty member on the Board of Trustees.

(Photo by Garry Gibson)

"The Role of the SGA on Campus" was the topic of a panel discussion sponsored by the Political Science Club on October 21st at 7 PM. Panel members Dr. Leo Jenkins, Mr. Glen Croshaw and Mr. James Early were questioned by Mr. Jeff Miller, Mr. Len Mancini, Miss Mary Singleton and Mr. Oral Parks of the Political Science Department. The discussion was opened as Jenkins, Croshaw and Early answered questions directed to them by the other panel members. The floor was then opened to queries from the audience.

When asked what changes should be made in the SGA, Croshaw indicated that he felt the SGA had been too concerned with trivialities in the past. According to Croshaw, it should work toward obtaining a governing voice at ECU along with an active part in the community at large.

Jenkins replied that he believed the first problem to be dealt with was one of simple survival. He pointed out that the economic situation at present is such that money is not as available for colleges and universities as it has been in the past years. Jenkins noted what he called a general reaction against higher education as one of the reasons for the monetary depletion. This might cause a movement in state legislatures to force both in and out of state students to pay a higher percentage of the cost of their education.

OPINION OF SGA

He also said it was his opinion that the role of the SGA "...must be an expanded one which considers its relevance to areas other than solely the academic community."

When asked if the vast majority of the ECU student body was qualified to be involved in community politics, Croshaw said "The student body has just as much experience as the average citizen as far as a life in Greenville was concerned. They would be equally qualified to participate in the political arena." Jenkins agreed, stating that "The students could make many contributions to the betterment of Greenville," and cited several areas such as knowledge of traffic flow where this would apply.

Croshaw commented that one of the first considerations which should be made is that "The SGA is not a government—it has no real authority."

To the question of how the SGA could be made more relevant, Croshaw said that no one individual could accomplish that task. The students are virtually powerless anyway because the Board of Trustees "holds the cards."

Jenkins informed the audience that the students do have an effect on the decisions of the Board since the SGA President is not only a member but has full voting powers. He also said he had no objection to a faculty member being included on the Board as a voting member.

Asked if the SGA should fund concerns which are the responsibility of the state, Mr. Early said that he felt there should be a balance between the SGA and the state in order to serve the students' needs.

Early commented that at present the SGA usually does not deal with any far-reaching concerns and that "...it does not require a great amount of expertise for the legislature to function—the representatives are capable of representing people." Croshaw added that one of the main problems is "distinguishing who is in the SGA just for the glory or because it will look good on their record and those who are willing to do the work involved."

All the participants agreed that the SGA shares some of the same concerns as any other government. Mr. Parks commented that the SGA "had many of the same problems as the U.S. government."

Campus parking problem going to get worse

By LINDA BEST

Special to Fountainhead

With each day the parking situation is becoming more and more of a problem. There are just too many registered cars these days and not enough parking places.

According to records in the campus traffic officer, there are about 10 per cent more cars than parking spaces on campus. At present there is a total of 4,300 parking spaces. Of these 2,200 are designated for the staff. The student-staff ratio is about 1:1. The number of registered staff is 2,467 and the number of registered students around 2,350.

In the past year there has been an increase of 1,973 in the number of registered cars. There are a total of 4,825 registered vehicles this year. The number of registered cars has already surmounted the number of available parking spaces by over 500. If there is a similar increase in the number of cars registered, next year the university is in for a big problem.

What can be done about the parking problem? A likely answer would be to obtain more parking places, which is a beautiful solution if someone can find them.

Joe Calder, head of the campus traffic department says there is just no available land that the university could use for parking.

Another solution to the problem of over-populated cars might be to construct a building several stories high into which students or faculty could simply drive their car, hop into the elevator, and drive out on any level, and then park the car in their assigned area. There's only one problem Calder says since there is a lack of state funds for a project like this, money would probably have to come from the students and staff, and it would be very expensive.

Calder says it is the intention of North Carolina State University to construct a building of this sort in order to alleviate some of the parking problems of that campus. The university is charging a fee of $45 per year for the registration of cars to obtain money for this project. A bit more costly than our own fee of $5 per year.

OTHER SOLUTION

One other possible solution might be to limit the registration of cars to only juniors and seniors. But is that really fair to the rest of the students?

ECU isn't the only university with problems. Calder says that "East Carolina as compared to the University of North Carolina, North Carolina State, and Appalachian State, has the best parking situation and the lowest registration."

On this campus there are certain areas with extremely inadequate parking areas. Two such areas are the parking lots provided for Umstead and Slay dormitories.

Calder has offered a type of compromise for the Slay-Umstead area. "If any student who is a resident of either Slay or Umstead, and gets a ticket for any reason other than an unregistered car, come talk to me," he said.

He also said by the first of November the first two rows of the present staff area will be made into student parking. Allowing for about 38 parking spaces for students instead of the present 22. This will allow for an equal number of staff and student parking spaces in the Umstead area. Also the parking lot beside the Andy Griffith restaurant is open to all students.

In the Slay area there is definitely a lack of parking spaces. Only fifteen for students, and four for staff. Calder says the dirt area beside the maintenance building may also be used by residents of Slay dorm for parking.

Calder has allowed for some compromise, so students must do their part too. Students living on the hill should leave their cars parked in the student parking areas on the hill, rather than driving the cars down to the bottom of the hill, then walking the rest of the distance to classes.

The area at the bottom of the hill is designated for day students. Figures in the traffic department state there are 327 more parking spaces on the hill than at the bottom; a total of 766 spaces on the hill, 439 at the bottom.

Candidates named

Thursday is election day

The candidates for Men's Resident Council are: Tim Bixon, President; Jim Ellis, Vice-President; Braxton Hall, Recreation Secretary and Ed Medbury, Bill Bodenhammer, and James Lee, Treasurer.

Any violations of the election rules as stated in the Key should be reported to the Elections Committee.

The Special Election for SGA President and Vice-President and Men's Residence Council will be held on Thursday, October 28.

Day Students may vote at the Soda Shop. Due to conflict the Union Lobby will not be used.

Dorm residents may vote in their respective precincts.

Each polling place shall be open from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. Each student must present valid I.D. and activity card before receiving a ballot.

Lecture committee will not reschedule Abernathy

The Student Lecture Committee voted unanimously not to reschedule Dr. Ralph Abernathy as one of their guest speakers.

The vote was taken on October 21, two days after Abernathy was scheduled to speak.

At a press conference held by R. Rudolph Alexander, assistant dean of student affairs, a statement was issued concerning the reasons for not rescheduling Abernathy. It stated that Abernathy's original failure to appear was due to an "act of God" and could not be blamed on Abernathy or the Lecture Committee.

UNABLE TO LAND

Abernathy's plane was forced to fly on to its next scheduled stop when it was unable to land at Kinston due to fog.

It was expected, however, that Abernathy would contact the Lecture Committee no later than the morning of October 20. When no word was received from him, the Lecture Committee contacted his booking agency. They didn't know of the situation and were unable to contact either Abernathy or his secretary. The agency called back on October 21 with three possible dates for rescheduling that they had received from Abernathy.

No word was received from Abernathy. The contract which was made with

DEAR ALEXANDER CLAIMS that Dr. Abernathy "hoodwinked" the university. (Photo by Ross Mann)

Abernathy prohibits any public appearances during the 72 hours prior to the lecture and during the 24 hours after the lecture. This is a standard clause in all contracts for entertainers and lecturers who are to appear at ECU.

The Lecture Committee feels that since Abernathy did come to the Greenville area after missing his engagement at ECU, his appeal has been greatly reduced. "He has demonstrated that other interests take precedence over his interest in speaking to the students at ECU."

In the Committee's opinion Abernathy had a strong ethical obligation to contact them. This and other related facts lead the Committee to vote against rescheduling him.

At the conference, Alexander said that the Lecture Committee had been "hoodwinked" by Abernathy. He pointed out that the Committee had planned a dinner for Abernathy at the Fiddlers for which he did not show up. The SCLC had also planned a dinner for him. According to Alexander, the SCLC "had no right to do so."

"The University was a victim of circumstance when Abernathy could not land, but that gave him no right not to get in touch with the University," Alexander remarked.

CANCELLED LECTURE

Dennis Hopper, who was also scheduled to speak here, has cancelled all of his lecture engagements. The Lecture Committee will try to replace Hopper with either Dr. Paul Erlich or James Whitmore.

Two injured

Fraternity house burns

CHAPEL HILL, N.C. (AP)—Eight persons were injured, two of them seriously, when fire gutted the Delta Kappa Epsilon fraternity house early Sunday after an all-night homecoming and football party.

Chapel Hill Fire Chief E.L. Lloyd said the fire apparently started in a living room on the first floor and swept up through the stairwell of the three-story main building. Lloyd said the alarm was turned in about 6:10 a.m. and flames were pouring out all the windows by the time firemen arrived.

About 50 firemen from Chapel Hill and adjoining Carrboro fought the blaze for about an hour before bringing it under control. A two-story annex in the rear was damaged only by water.

KIDS ON ROOF

"There were some kids on the roof when we got here," Lloyd said. "We put ladders up and got them down.

Richard Kennedy of Columbia, S.C., and James C. Parker of Goldsboro were admitted to Memorial Hospital for extensive burns and were listed in fair condition.

William S. Brenizer of Charlotte and Ann N. Godfrey of New Orleans, La., were treated for minor injuries and released. Both were hurt when they jumped from a second-story window.

Lloyd said four firemen suffered scratches and bruises when they fell from a second-story roof.

He said none of the firemen was injured seriously. They were working on a roof when an overhang from a higher roof collapsed and knocked them to the ground.

John Meiners of Pompano Beach, Fla., said he was awakened by heat and smoke and crawled out a window and down a fire escape. He said Parker and Kennedy were burned when they ran downstairs through the flames to get out.

"We had had a big homecoming party here last night. It was probably the biggest party we've ever had," Meiners said. "We didn't get to bed until about 5 a.m."

Eddie Caldwell, who said he has been "headman" at the house for 39 years, arrived at the scene at 5:55 a.m. saw the fire in the first floor rooms and turned in the alarm.

NC WORD

Caldwell said he believed the fire had started on a cigarette on a couch. No official word on the cause of the fire or damages was available Sunday.

IN ECU'S BIGGEST gridiron triumph ever, one of the highlights was this 38-yard field goal by Bob Kilborne, which broke the school record. Les Strayhorn, who tallied twice, Billy Wallace and Carl Gordon also had a hand in the scoring Saturday night. President Leo Jenkins called the 31-15 win over N.C. State "the best thing that ever happened to East Carolina University." (Story, related photos on Page 5)

Qualifications contrary to tradition

I see that I am to tell you of my qualifications and platform for the coming SGA election. Well my qualifications as a human being are numerous; although you may find my qualifications for office somewhat contrary to tradition.

Here lies the hope and motivation of my candidacy. Tradition at ECU is based on a negative relationship plane; Administration negates student, student negates student, student negates SGA.

There are no positive expressions of unity on this campus. Everyone is wrapped up in his own trip and it seems to be that these same people are the ones who yell loudest for progressive change, responsibility, and adult recognition of personal rights. You may continue to rant and scream your frustrated hopes away, that will be the extent of your influence at ECU until you realize that nothing is accomplished through negative action.

I come more as a candidate who seeks to change the expression of spirit on this campus than as a candidate who seeks to wield power over others. I come as a candidate who honestly feels no need for platforms or qualifications, for all they represent are token expressions of past deeds done. I am interested in the future and not in the past.

I come as a fellow student who knows the joy of living, the excitement of intellectual growth, and the freshness of a positive rapport with all those people who seek the same. I come as a man who feels deeply in his heart that my contribution to this university will never be measured in amendments passed, debates won, or offices elected to. My contribution to you the student, to you the teacher, to you the administrator will be a contribution of myself as a good person and a sharing of my spirit and confidence in a positive approach to life.

My only platform is the spread of a more fertile and positive atmosphere on the East Carolina campus. My only qualification is that I'll smile at you because your my brother. My closest inspiration is my excellent friend and fellow metaphysical wizard, Dave Holdefer. I claim to be no more than I am; a person who believes that ECU has the potential to grow and expand and become an institution of pride.

A renovation of attitude is needed before anything can be changed on our campus. You, the individual student, must grow to feel that it is your responsibility to help this university and your fellow student grow. If apathy is your game, please be kind to those who seek to alter the direction of East Carolina; the least you can do is take your negative vibrations home with you on the weekends. We need you, but we don't need any more negativity than we already have.

Think about this election, think about what you want to see done here, and then vote as a wise individual. The future of this institution lies in the efforts you are willing to expend on its improvement. Vote with your hearts fellow students, I shall continue to smile whether Dave and I win or lose.

When one thinks of "platform", one tends to have an abiding sense of campaign promises which, though often and sometimes never accomplished, are entities within themselves. I refuse to narrow my goals, if elected Vice-President of the SGA, to such absurdities. However, if elected, I will work industriously to carry out the constitutional duties of that office and to re-establish a respect in our SGA which has been lost through past and isolated administrations.

The SGA has lost the respect of not only the students it represents, but also, the faculty and Administration. The SGA cannot disregard the interests and desires of its students or the Administration which could prove an auxiliary vehicle for the attainment of its numerous goals.

A ceiling of $322,500 has been established on SGA appropriations this year, and, already approximately $317,800 has been allocated. The SGA is in a financial crisis which can be overcome if we formulate what priorities are most desirable - desirable, not to the SGA, but to the student population.

The SGA has become a "clique of buddies" who have established themselves in a bureaucratic hierarchy. This needs to be ended. Persons who desire to serve on judicial and other SGA related boards and committees are often screened and turned away because they will not commit themselves to the beliefs of the SGA hierarchy. Have you been one of these students? It's YOUR SGA!

These are a few of the many problems, injustices, and inconsistencies which are plaguing the SGA, and I commit myself to correct them. My only wish is to serve you, the students of ECU, and regain a mutual respect between the SGA, its students, and the Administration.

Luisana, Hicks pledge to work for students' rights

By Cecil Myers

Rob Luisana has been extremely active in student government for over a year. He was MRC dorm governor of Tyler, and one of the leaders of the student drive to obtain visitation rights. He has an extensive knowledge of student legal rights, and is presently vice-chairman of The Legal Aid Board. This past year, he lead the drive to allow students to register and vote in Greenville.

Jim Hicks, candidate for Vice-President, running on a ticket with Rob Luisana has also been active in student government and university affairs. Two years of Popular Entertainment and Publications Board committee work plus tenure on the Men's Honor Council make Hicks knowledgeable concerning the structure and function of the SGA. He was elected to Who's Who in American Colleges and universities as a senior at ECU.

These are the goals which Rob Luisana and Jim Hicks pledge themselves to if elected; Establishment of an educational affairs office uniting students and faculty in working toward academic innovation.

Strict enforcement of the Student Bill of Rights.

The hiring of a part-time lawyer for students.

Bail fund for students.

To increase the number of women active in student government by presidential appointment.

The raising of serious questions over the expenditure of student's non-academic fees, i.e. increased student voice in expenditure of said money.

Establishment of the Student Advocate. An office whose function will be to answer any and all questions students may have concerning any aspect of the university.

Requesting an account of what types of information are collected on students by the University and to whom this said information is made available.

The Fine Arts deserve and will get the needed support only through the leadership of a President and Vice-President who can effectively work with the legislature toward these ends.

If the East Carolina Student Government is ever to be as effective and responsive as it must be, it must be a body that strives for unity, reliability, and purpose. You can count on Rob and Jim to strive for these goals.

News Briefs

Symphony opens

GREENVILLE - The ECU Symphony Orchestra, conducted by Dr. Robert Hause III, opens its 1971-72 performance season with a fall concert Oct. 31, at 3:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium on the ECU campus.

Appearing with the orchestra as soprano soloist is Antonia Dalapas, new member of the voice faculty of the ECU School of Music. She will sing Richard Strauss's "Four Last Songs."

Dr. Hause noted that Miss Dalapas is "an experienced and highly gifted performer," and has sung leading roles in Boris Goldovsky's operatic productions.

She has also performed with the Berkshire Chamber Music Society and the Lyric Theatre. In 1963, she was a finalist in the Metropolitan Opera's annual regional auditions.

Also included in the concert program will be the suite from Handel's "Water Music" and Dvorak's Symphony No. 8 in G Major.

The concert, first of six to be scheduled throughout the year, is free and open to the public.

Contest opened

Guess the weight of the pumpkin in the Union Lounge and win $25.

Entry blanks will be provided at the information desk of the lounge. You must give the weight of the pumpkin before carving, weight after carving, and the average of these two weights. Closest average weight wins.

The last day to enter is Saturday, October 30. The winner will be announced Monday, November 1st.

Delay registration

Voter registration work has been postponed because of the SGA elections. All workers are asked to come at their scheduled times beginning November 1. If there are any questions, please go by the Internal Affairs Office on the third floor of Wright annex.

Bixon feels qualifications sufficient

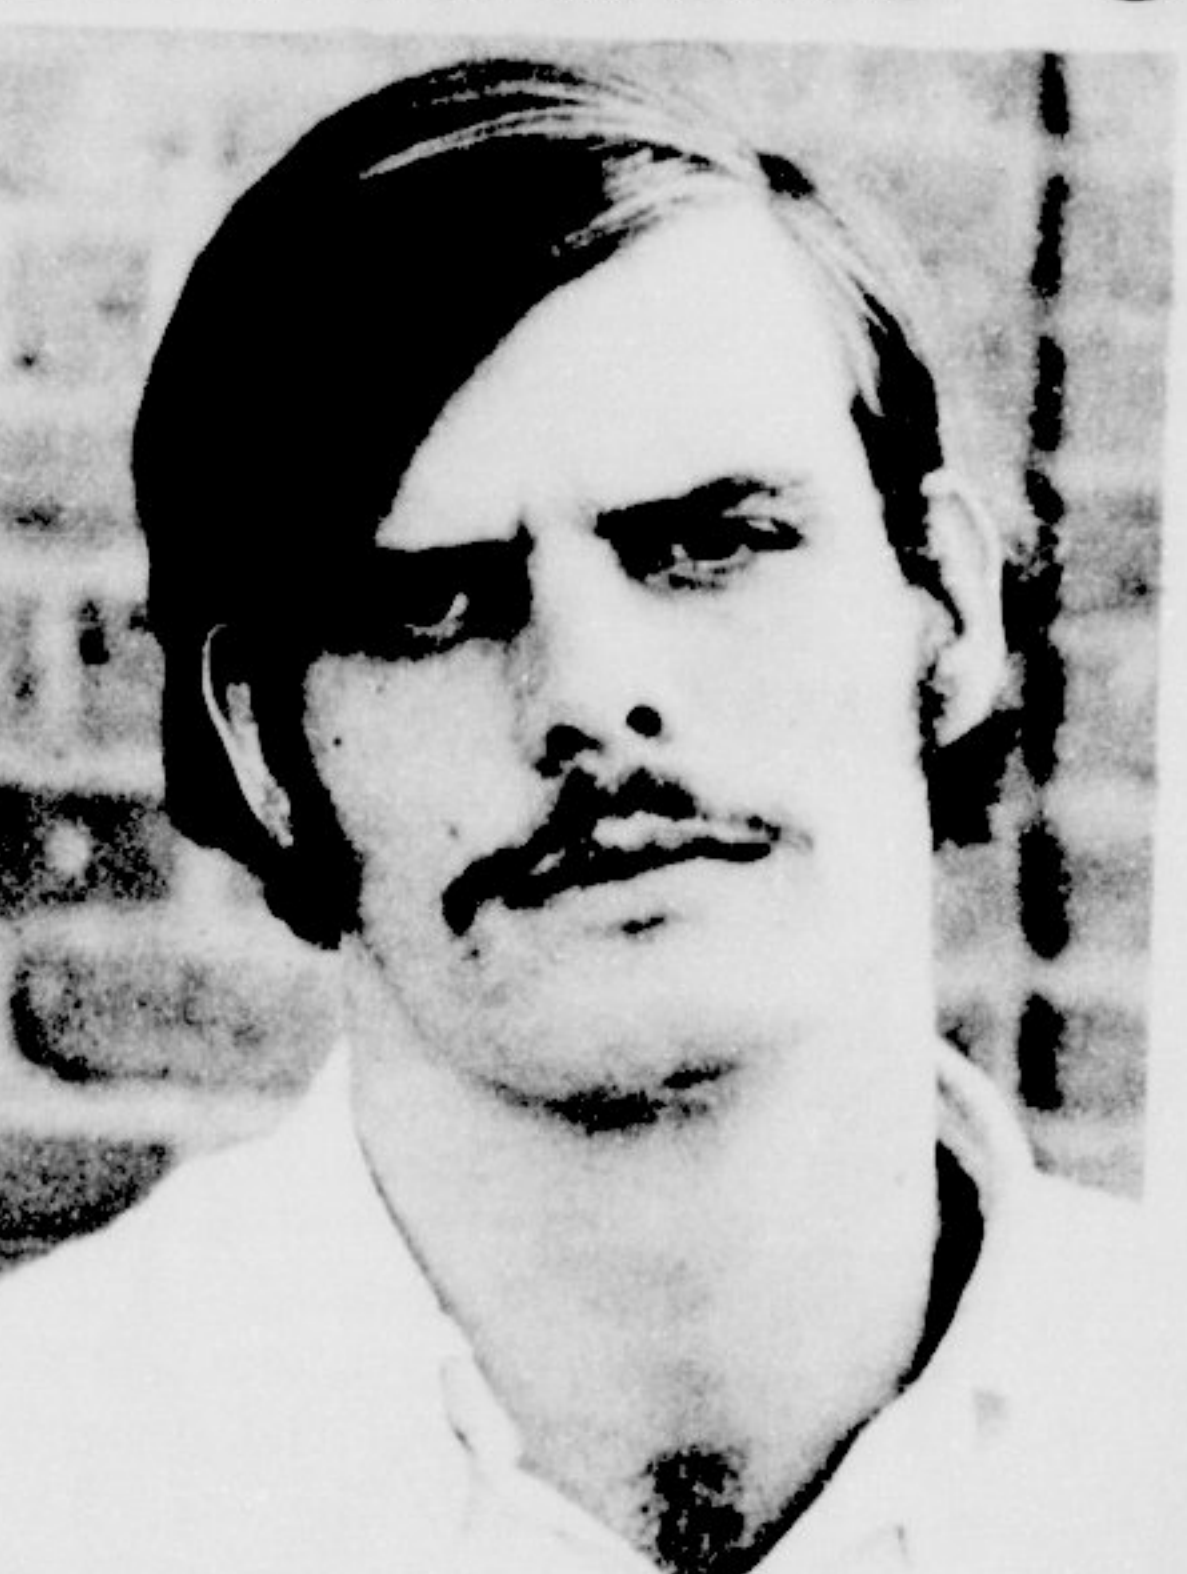

I feel that my qualifications are more than sufficient for the office of President of the SGA. I have served as a representative, the Vice-President, and the President of the MRC. Other than serving as ex-officio member of all committees I was the chairman of the MRC Visitation committee until the elections last Spring. I am now in my second term in the SGA legislature and am currently the chairman of the screening and appointments committee.

Some people may question my running for President of the MRC and the SGA, and I feel that this point deserves clarification. I had filed for the MRC before the resignation of the SGA president and as of the last MRC filing date, I am the only candidate for President. I feel that dropping out of the MRC race would be letting down the MRC reorganization effort.

It is my belief that I can better serve the students through the SGA but this should not jeopardize my responsibility to the MRC. If elected to the SGA I would of course not take the position as President of the MRC but would work closely with the MRC in its reorganization.

I feel that I know the views and needs of the men on campus through the MRC. The realization of the needs of the day students has come to me through the SGA legislature. Through past cooperation with the WRC I have become aware of the needs of the women on campus.

I was asked to write out my platform for this paper. I cannot do that because I feel that platforms tend to be a list of idealistic promises that are quite often impossible to fulfill and are often irrelevant by the time the candidate takes office. I feel that the candidate should wait until elected and then talk to the students and see what has to be done. I have established a good working communication with the administration and feel that this will be instrumental in obtaining the needs of the students.

Blacks arrested

AYDEN, N.C. (AP) - Nineteen more blacks were arrested in Ayden Saturday for parading without a permit, bringing the total arrests during two months of racial turmoil to more than 400.

The latest arrests came near the police station after the group reportedly was dropped off near the town post office from a rental truck.

Golden Frinks, field secretary for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said the arrests were part of a "continuing jail-in."

The blacks held an early morning unity service Sunday at the Pitt County courthouse.

The protests started in August after the slaying of a black farm worker by a state Highway Patrolman near Ayden.

Applications due

Students who expect to complete requirements for graduation by the end of spring quarter, 1972, are reminded that their application for graduation should be in the registrars office at least two and one half quarters prior to the expected date of graduation.

Will make no promises

Campaigns usually delight in an overabundance of unfulfilled promises and platforms. But I have none and I make none. I can only tell you how I feel, and let my feelings be reflected in my decisions.

Up to this point I have been a part of the silent majority observing that "the times they are a changin'" and that East Carolina has definitely not been keeping up. The time for a revolutionary turnover in the old blood in the SGA is long overdue.

NEW REVOLUTION

I am not advocating a radical, non-directional revolution but one directed toward the well-being of, and a stronger voice for, East Carolina students. As it stands now, I feel that the voices of the vast majority of the students are not being heard in the present system - thus the necessity for "the new blood", of which I am a part.

WILL BE FLEXIBLE

I will be flexible in all decisions to be made, yet will remain consistent with my basic philosophy - aimed at the necessity for change, and the support of a stronger voice for the students in their government system.

Paulsen to appear

Pat Paulsen, sad-eyed comedian of ABC television fame and unsuccessful candidate in the 1968 presidential election, will be the featured performer in a variety show at ECU Oct. 30.

Paulsen will "lecture" in a series of routines entitled "Pat Paulsen Looks at the 70's" in Minges Coliseum at 1 p.m.

While he has not announced that he will run in the '72 presidential race, Paulsen has remained as concerned with the critical issues of our times as any other political figure.

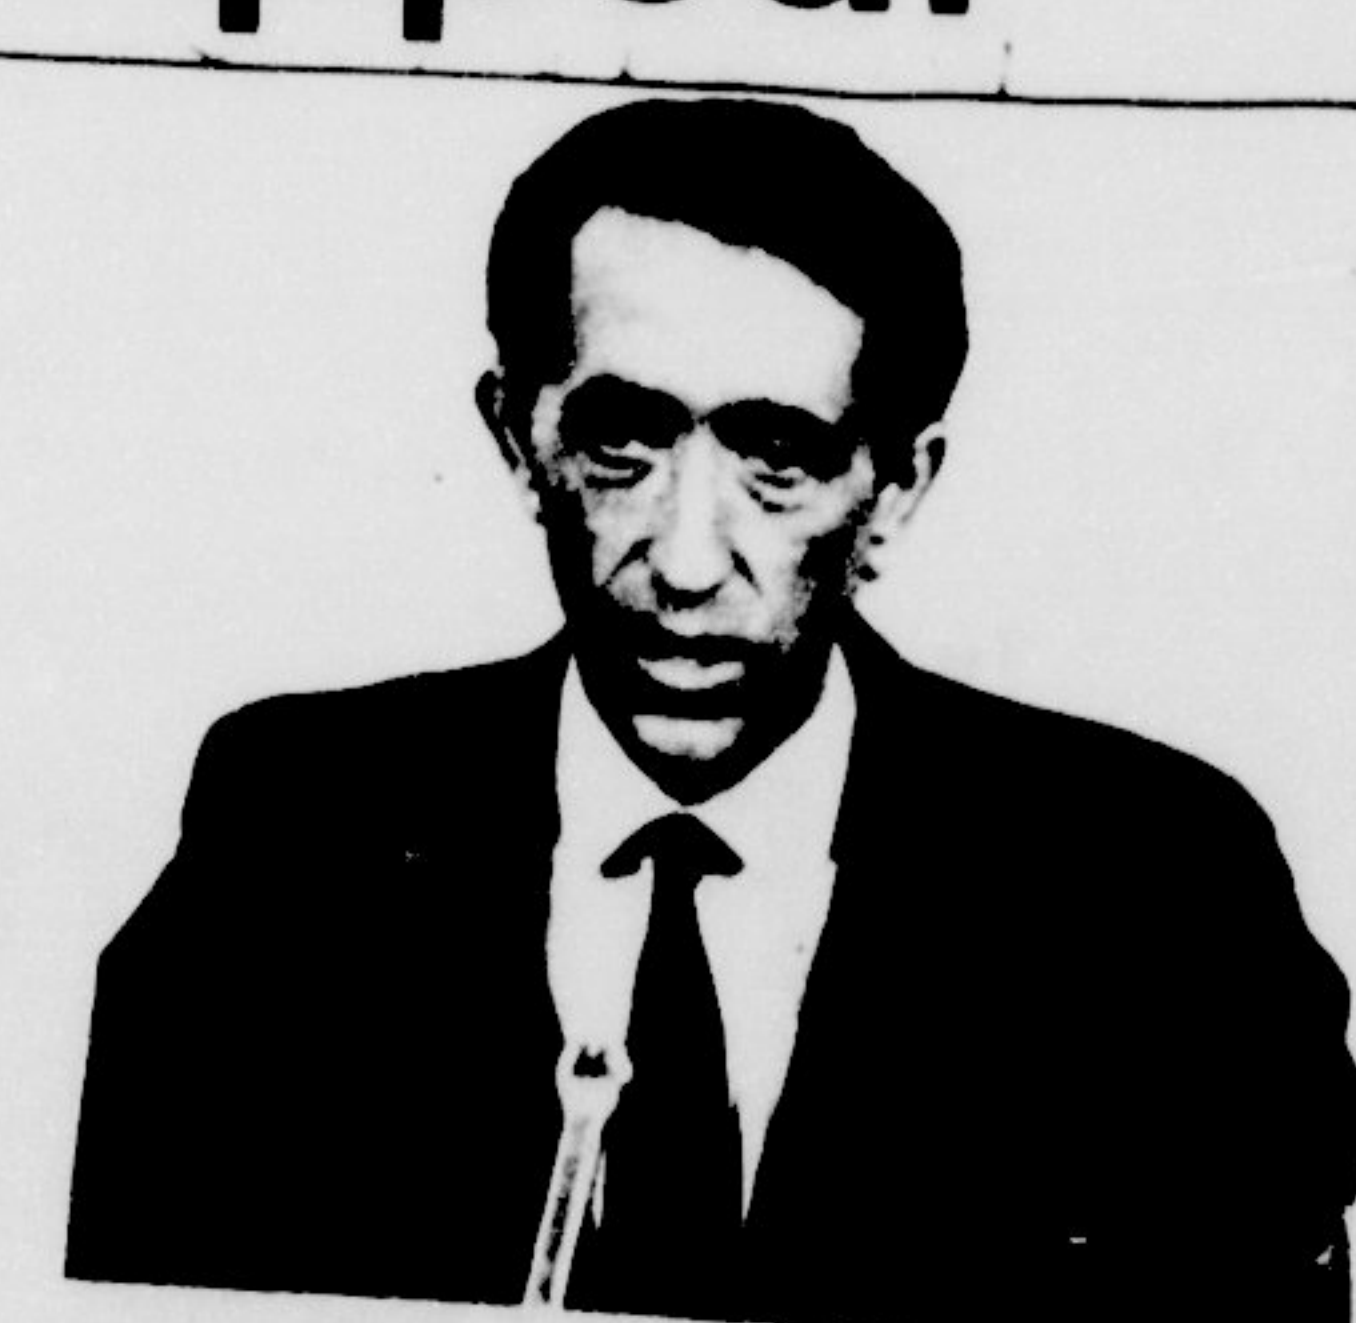

Among the topics he will cover in his humorous but meaningful look at the 70's are ecology, politics, education, the sexual revolution and the space program. Included in the presentation will be film clips, slides and other visual aids.

Appearing with Paulsen are popular singers Jennifer and John Stewart.

Jennifer, who records for Reprise and London records, starred in "Hair" for six months and has toured with Mason Williams. She has made guest appearances on television with the Smothers Brothers, Dean Martin and Dick Cavett.

John Stewart, a veteran of the Kingston Trio, has recorded two albums for Capitol, "California Bloodlines" and "Willard." He and Jennifer are currently touring 70 colleges and universities throughout the U.S.

Admission to the Paulsen show is $2 per person. Tickets are available from the ECU Central Ticket Office in Wright Building.

Bonn students study while seeing subject

By PAUL DULIN

Special Correspondent
ECU European Study Center
One advantage of extension study is that of seeing and being in the presence of the subject studied. European Studies 201A, a three-hour credit course, concentrates study of a local German town.

The objective of this course is to afford the opportunity for in-depth study of a specific problem, permitting the interdisciplinary application of history, geography and political science. The topic for fall quarter is "The Structure and Composition of a German Community: Historical Antecedents, Population Patterns, and Political Organization."

The 38 students attending ECU, Bonn are divided into three groups, each of which is assigned a community in the vicinity of the school for more intensive study. Each group consists of students who concentrate upon either geography, political science, or history.

One group, under the direction of Dr. Ralph Birchard, is investigating Koenigswinter, directly across the Rhine River from the school. Dr. Loren Campion and his group are concerned mainly with Ahrweiler, southwest of the school. Bonn-Bad Bodesberg, north of the school and Bonn (the national capital of West Germany) is being visited and studied by the group of students under the direction of Dr. Hands Indorf.

The end product of the course should be a comprehensive and well-balanced written report of about 45 to 50 pages, representing a composite effort of an entire group. The paper can include sections reflecting the work of the geographical, historical and political subgroups. Each student is expected to contribute about 4 pages which the editorial committee of his group will incorporate into the group report. The research will inevitably involve many personal interviews and delving into old documents and files.

During the first meetings with town officials, all groups were met with a cordiality given a king, wine, tobacco and souvenir glasses are some material examples of the courtesies. In Koenigswinter, Dr. Birchard and his group were received by Bürgermeister Hank, the head city official, who tried to answer all questions and later escorted them to the city museum.

The group studying Bonn with Dr. Indorf were given a standing ovation at the City Council, and Dr. Campion and his group journeyed to Ahrweiler to be escorted on a wine tasting tour and the city. The people of Ahrweiler were so excited at the visit of the students from the United States that the group broke into the "Kreis Ahrweiler"-the local newspaper.

We are all having a tremendous time here at ECU on the Rhine. "Amerikanischen Fussball" and the "Rhine Bowl" on Sunday afternoons are a real highlight. It seems that the Germans have not been exposed to the All-American Frisbee. When we throw the strange disc, young as well as oldsters stop and look in amazement-when the frisbee falls at their feet, they pick it up and give it an uneducated fling.

The men of Haus Steineck really give the female employees a hard time. All of us want to flirt with them, but there is in many cases a language barrier. The women of Haus Steineck are complaining that the working girls are partisan to the males because "they fold their clothes up-but they ball ours up and throw them in the closet."

Most of the men here at the school feel that the German girls are beautiful and big busted, but run around with their nose up in the air, and that they are hard to "get-up" with. The women of the house have had better luck, leaving us men in a state of cold, lonely solitude (heh-heh).

October 24, most of us attended our first wine festival, held in the resort town of Koenigswinter, right across the river. What a wild place it was, with wine coming out of an old stone fountain, dancing in the streets, and a giant fireworks event. The Germans are usually a quiet, composed people, but they do know how to throw a party.

This is probably the first time any of the students have lived in a co-ed dormitory. Since the entire ECU, Bonn complex is in one building, everyone sees each other the entire day. The students, male and female, are growing closer within the "family," except for an occasional "Peyton Place" scare. It's kind of exciting trying to guess who may pair up with who.

Great pastimes of the

"Haus" are the number game "Buzz" and a card game called "Wink" or "Killer." The latter is a game in which the person who holds the assassin card has to try and "kill" the other players by winking them out. After two German beers, this game is extremely hard to play.

Most of us find it hard to study with these fantastic surroundings. One day during the first week in October, it was extremely rainy. Many of us were in one of Dr. Birchard's geography classes. Soon after we settled down for the second hour of class, the sun began to peek out of the clouds and shine on Koenigswinter across the river, making all the yellow and white houses bright as chrome. As the sun gradually crept up the mountains to the Hotel Petersburg, reflecting off its windows as facets on a diamond, people began turning around and craning their necks to see the beautiful landscape.

Then the sun's rays crept over and shone on the castle ruin of Drachenfels, a medieval fortress of many years past. The scene came to a climax when a rainbow appeared above the mountains across the river. This event took the class into hysterics and everyone jumped from their seats, climbing over each other's backs to see the colors. I'm afraid we totally disrupted Dr. Birchard's class.

It is hard to try to tell others

JOHN STEWART, FORMER member of the Kingston Trio, will perform in concert on Saturday, Oct. 29 in Minges with Jennifer, a former star of the cast of "Hair." Tickets for the program, which includes Pat Paulsen and begins at 1 p.m., are $1.50 for students and $2 for all others.

Bicycle rally

Peddlers push for prize

Attention all you bicycle freaks! On Saturday, Oct. 30, Delta Phi Delta, the art fraternity, will sponsor a bicycle rally in Greenville. Ancient models will be as welcome as the new ten-speeds, since speed will not be a factor. What is a rally? It is a clocked event in which individual vehicles follow clues and signs to a pre-determined finish line, which is known only to the person who mapped out the route. The participant who arrives at the finish line in the amount of time closest to a previously determined clocked time wins the prize of $50. The closest amount of time does not mean speed. This will not be a race. Each participant will proceed at a certain speed, following directions: the approximate length of time needed will be two hours. Interested persons may register for the event Wednesday, Oct. 27 through Friday, Oct. 29, from 10 a.m. to 2 p.m., at a table across from the bookstore (where checks are usually authorized). Registrants must pay one dollar, and will be given a set of instructions to acquaint them with the rally. The bicycles should be registered with the Greenville police. The rally will begin at 1 p.m. on the Mall, and will end somewhere in Greenville.

Sorority interest declines

By MADELYN VOIGTS

Kansas City Star Writer
KANSAS CITY, Mo. (AP)—There was a time when it didn't matter on campus who you were but "What" you were.

Membership in certain sororities and fraternities held as much prestige as being a student at an Ivy League school. Sororities were so over-emphasized that women, not pledged to the group of their choice, were dropping out of college before they even began.

But things are changing. Five years ago, 680 young women registered for fall rush at the University of Missouri-Columbia. This fall, only 363 coeds participated. Last year 90 young women went through rush week at the University of Missouri-Kansas City. In comparison, only 19 were interested enough to register this fall.

At Northwestern University in Evanston, Ill., houses unable to fill their quotas, opened their doors to students on the campus who needed housing. What's happened to the Greek system?

"I deliberately chose a city school so I wouldn't have to go through it," said a young woman recently graduated from Boston University. "If you need a sorority in Boston you have problems."

"It never entered my mind not to go through rush," said a senior at Northwestern. "But I felt pressured while going through and decided I didn't need the ego preening or a ready-made circle of friends."

"I was nauseated after the first cut session," said a sorority girl who pledged at Southwest Missouri State College in Springfield, but did not affiliate when she transferred to UMC.

"I liked it," said one coed, who was the first black to integrate a white sorority and the first Christian to integrate a Jewish sorority in 1960 at Syracuse University in New York.

"You can talk to 15 people on campus who will be pro fraternities and the next 15 will be con," said Caroline Peine, assistant dean of students at Kansas State University. "Nationally, sororities are growing and to isolate one year could be misleading."

Twenty years ago at Northwestern 80 to 90 percent of the women enrolled were sorority girls," said Mrs. Kay Miller, assistant dean of students. Last year sorority members represented 40 percent.

However, Panhellenic Association leaders are quick to point out that sorority chapters are being added rapidly at new schools, and many students will note the benefits of sorority life.

"I don't like having to defend being in a sorority," said a senior at Northwestern who pledged as an upperclassman after spending two years as an independent.

"I prefer this way of life," said Anita Black, a junior at the University of New Mexico, writing in the Albuquerque Forum. "Members are not pushed into joining activities. Instead, they are simply made more aware of what's going on. It's like having another pair of eyes and ears for every member in one's house. Information is always being shared." "At a time when college campuses are getting larger and students are becoming numbers, sorority life restores the feeling that someone really does care about what's happening to you."

Pirates trounce State, 31-15

'Yes, Virginia, there is a Big Five'

Rich Peeler (71) was killer in first appearance since September.

Frosh lose

FORK UNION, Va. — Steve Clark scored two touchdowns for the Baby Pirates here Friday afternoon but it wasn't enough as the frosh made numerous mistakes in a 22-12 defeat at the hands of Fork Union Military Academy.

Both scores came in the second period, sandwiched around a FUMA score, after the hosts had grabbed a 10-0 lead.

The Baby Pirates dominated the statistics, outgaining their foes, 241 yards to 206, but two interceptions and three lost fumbles hurt their chances. Jimmy Howe led the Baby Pirates in rushing with 45 yards in four carries while quarterback Ricky Cheatham hit on 12 of 22 attempts for 156 yards.

Vic Wilfore was Cheatham's prime target as he grabbed five of the tosses for 88 yards but it was not enough to avert the second loss in three games for the ECU frosh.

ECU, which will host The Citadel frosh in a jaycee sponsored charity game Friday, fumbled on the first play from scrimmage. FUMA drove 23 yards in five plays for the first score as Tom Woodard raced in from seven yards out.

Bob Crumpton kicked the extra point and a 28-yard field goal later in the first period.

After Clark's first score, FUMA struck again for a 16-6 lead and eventual 16-12 halftime margin. The final FUMA score came on Woodard's 29-yard run in the third period.

It was FUMA's fifth straight win this year and 23rd consecutive triumph overall.

Defense bottled up State all night to pace win.

RALEIGH—Fireworks lighted the sky and the Pirates lighted the scoreboard Saturday night in an inspiring 31-15 victory over N.C. State's Wolfpack "football team."

At rain soaked Carter Stadium, the Pirates finally put it all together while taking State's game apart.

ECU fumbled on its second play from scrimmage allowing the Pack to score the game's first touchdown on a one yard run by Willie Burden.

But after that series, which would ordinarily break the back of some defenses, the Pirates drove 59 yards for a score with the final 10 yards coming on a John Casazza to Carl Gordon pass.

CONVERSION

Bob Kilborne added his 13th extra point in as many tries.

The Pirate defense was strengthened for the game with the return of team captain and defensive tackle Rich Peeler from Shelby.

Peeler played with his left elbow taped heavily to prevent another dislocation. Even so, he was able to force and recover a fumble which set up ECU's go-ahead touchdown.

Les Strayhorn scored it on a one foot plunge but Kilborne missed his first conversion of the season.

The Pirates made it 20-7 with just 35 seconds to go in the first half as Strayhorn went over once again from one yard out and Kilborne was successful with his boot.

The Pirates scored a safety in the second half as State fumbled a punt and a Wolfpack player fell on the ball in the end zone.

Kilborne set a new school record as he sent a 38-yard field goal through the uprights. This broke the old record by one yard.

ECU was not penalized throughout the first 35 minutes but the Pirates drew a holding call in the third quarter as Strayhorn raced 68 yards for a score.

LONG SCORE

The Pirates made up for the call, though, after the Wolfpack scored again, as Billy Wallace outran two defenders for a 57-yard scoring run. Just as the ball was snapped, fireworks had begun at the nearby State Fair. It was as though they were celebrating the ECU triumph.

Wallace carried 117 yards for the game, as compared to 127 for the entire State team.

Throughout the contest, it was not merely a spectacular offense that led ECU to the victory. The defense put together a strong game and held the Wolfpack to 127 yards total offense.

Jack Patterson led the defense which kept State receivers bottled up all night. He also returned five punts for 140 yards.

The Pirates dominated the ball game in every statistical category. They led in first downs, 19-9; rushing yardage, 237 yards to 80; passing yardage, 118 to 47; and return yardage, 140 to minus 2.

The versatile Pirate backfield was led by Wallace all night and sophomore Carlester Crumpler ran well before suffering an eye injury midway in the second quarter.

Strayhorn played his usual great game and scored twice while Rusty Scales ran hard all night, adding to State's woes.

In this, their first victory against another "Big Five" opponent since the 1963 trouncing of Wake Forest, the Pirates were able to pull all stops.

BEFUDDLED

Scales even completed a 42-yard halfback pass to split end Stan Eure, befuddling the Wolfpack defense.

With the biggest victory in ECU's football history behind them, the Pirates go after two more league foes and an outsider to complete the season.

Saturday night, the Pirates take their 2-5 record (1-2 in the conference) into a home affair with Furman.

Game time in Ficklen Stadium is 7:30 p.m.

Bucs fifth

RALEIGH — If Saturday's North Carolina State Cross Country's Championships is a true indication, ECU's team is the fifth best in the state.

The Pirates, led by Ed Rigby who finished 13th in the overall meet, eked out enough points to finish behind Duke, Carolina, State and Western Carolina in the rain-hampered annual event.

Rigby finished in 27:06, just one minute, 48 seconds off the pace of individual champion Bob Wheeler of Duke.

Other Pirate runners to place among the first 30 finishers were Gerald Klas, 22nd in 27:31; and Jim Kidd, 26th in 27:39.

Duke won the meet with 39 points followed by the Tar Heels with 46; State, and earlier dual meet victim of ECU's, with 94; Western Carolina with 113 and the Pirates with 124 points.

SGA candidates rated, Harris draws criticism

Thursday's student government elections will decide the presidency and vice-presidency of the SGA, and the presidency of the Men's Residence Council, three major positions of student representation.

Some students have recommended that no one vote because the candidates for the most part have been too apathetic to campaign or even write up a definite platform. Those candidates without any sort of platform obviously expect that a warm and friendly smile and open heart can conquer all. Even though legislature and trustee meetings both bear a resemblance to Micky Mouse Fan Club meetings, sometimes a smile is not enough.

In reviewing the presidential candidates, the two that seem most qualified are Rob Luisana and Tommy Clay. Their past records of service to the students are unparalleled and impeccable.

Of the candidates for vice-president, it is less a consideration of credentials than boredom with the same candidates running over and over. The two standouts in the race are Jim Hicks and Janet Dutkas.

Tim Bixon's race for MRC presidency will be made a little easier by the fact that he is the only candidate for that office.

A few observations can be made concerning the political honesty of a certain candidate. Moffette Antwan Tony Harris has been trying to ride the wave of artistic sentiment by proclaiming great sympathy for music and drama department causes. It should be remembered that this is the same Mr. Harris who was Chairman of the Appropriations Committee last year that drove the SGA so deeply into debt, causing the present financial difficulties (no kidding gang, check his posters). This is the same Mr. Harris who condemned those seeking visitation last year, and insisted that visitation was only a privilege, even though he has never resided in the dorms.

We hate to even mention these glaring inconsistencies, because surely Mr. Harris, political opportunist that he is, will add to his list of "important positions held" the line, "subject of Fountainhead editorial attack." This should go far towards endearing ECU's Uncle Tom in residence to those he wishes to impress but frankly, we don't see how he'll ever fit it on his posters.

Campus planners extend 'ECU at Pitt Plaza'

The campus planners have once again exhibited disregard for the students' interests by placing yet another building at the periphery of civilization, this time the Medical Arts Building.

This new structure, which one campus wit has called the "University of East Carolina at Pitt Plaza" is scheduled for opening in January. Undoubtedly, the administration expects the SGA bus system to service this new facility. Without bus service the Medical Arts building cannot hold regularly scheduled classes, due to its distance from the main campus.

This reliance on the SGA transit system by the administration puts the legislature in a unique and fleeting position to wring a compromise from the administration.

The student body directly shoulders the burden of the campus transit system, a system that would be unnecessary if Minges and the Medical Arts Building had been built in more convenient locations. The administration has been shying from its moral obligation to underwrite the busses too long.

The SGA can now say, 'pay for the busses or let the Medical Arts building rot.' How could opportunity knock more clearly?

Student voters asked to write representatives

In the upcoming North Carolina primary elections, absentee ballots will not be allowed, therefore many North Carolina students will not be able to use their newly attained status as voters.

The Duke delegation to the North Carolina Student Legislature is presently trying to change this. They have sent letters to seven potential gubernatorial candidates in the state, along with Governor Scott and the Speaker of the House, Phil Godwin, asking their help in getting absentee ballots allowed in the May primary. The method for getting the change involves getting the General Assembly to suspend its rules when considering the restructuring of higher education at a special session convening on October 26.

The delegation from Duke asks that students from across the state write to their representatives from home or those in the district in which they go to school urging them to suspend their rules and consider this vital question. A list of addresses is available with the editor of the school newspaper.

If letters cannot be mailed before Saturday they should be sent to the Legislature Building, Raleigh, North Carolina.

These students feel that this is a vital and important issue to all North Carolinians since it would make it more feasible for 200,000 citizens to vote. Only by unified student support of this issue, can something of meaning be accomplished. This is a real opportunity for students to have some positive input into governmental system. All students are strongly urged to contact their representatives immediately.

Back candidates

To Fountainhead:

As members of the Fine Arts Committee for Luisana and Hicks we firmly back both our candidates because of their striving force behind student bill of rights, their belief in a student's right of speech and expression without the threat of expulsion by administration. We support our candidates because of their interest in our fine arts departments and for their plea of equality of funds the administration distributes to extracurricular activities from our activity fees. Most of all, Rob and Jim, as President and Vice-President will be very receptive to your views, opinions and suggestions as students. We urge your support at election time for Rob Luisana and Jim Hicks.

Thank you,
Fine Arts Committee for Luisana and Hicks

Supports Rob

To Fountainhead:

With the recent resignation of Glenn Croshaw as SGA President, the students are faced with the problem of electing someone to replace his fine leadership qualities.

Fortunately, there is such a person. Rob Luisana can and has led the student body. Remember the boycott last year for visitation rights? Remember all the rallies on the mall? Remember Rob leading us and calling the shots?

Not only did he act in favor of the big problems, but also the 'little things that count.' When the men in Tyler wanted to make living a little more bearable by changing the furniture arrangement, Rob marched down in the rain to present the problem to the Director of Housing, Dan Wooten himself.

Rob supports the students; Rob supports the students' wishes. He wants the students' voices to be heard and listened to. He understands the problems and knows how to solve them.

Help yourselves! On Thursday, election day, vote for the man who wants to work for you. Vote for Rob Luisana for SGA President.

Sincerely,
John Palmer

States reasons

To Fountainhead:

Throughout the (somewhat-less-than) illustrious history of political elections at this university, subjective public endorsement of a particular candidate or candidates has proven remarkably ineffective in swaying the masses to cast their ballots for either one candidate or the other in fact, swaying the masses on this campus to cast their ballots for anyone at all would seem to be a feat of Herculean proportions. However, the following objective observations might be of interest to the students:

1) The SGA seems to be coming to a crucial crossroad which will determine whether or not it is worthy of the adjective 'student.' Decisive, yet intelligent, leadership is not only desirable, it is imperative.

2) Pure self-interest voting and a non-realistic, non-objective evaluation of the candidates could sound the death knell for a student voice in student affairs.

3) Rob Luisana probably knows more about the ins-and-outs (as well as ups-and-downs) of the SGA executive branch than all the other candidates combined. His interest and expertise in such areas as student voter registration, faculty-student coalitions, and student's rights, as well as a knowledge of legislative proceedings make him eminently qualified. His ideas and plans are refreshing, as well as exciting. It would seem that he is not only a man for the job, but the man.

4) Luisana's running mate, Jim Hicks, offers an excellent choice for balancing the ticket, as well as filling the vacant vice-president's chair. As a graduate student with excellent rapport with the administration, Hicks has experience and knowledge concerning the campus media and university judicial system. He also holds some sound ideas for executive reforms.

5) East Carolina's Student Government is in trouble. Help is available, depending on how the student body votes this Thursday.

Vote, people, and vote wisely. As Lincoln stated:

"The occasion is piled high with difficulty and we must rise to the occasion."

Rick Atkinson
Chairman, Legal Aid Board
Chief Public Defender

Don't vote

To Fountainhead:

As two members of this student body we feel that it is our duty to voice our opinion on a particular subject. The subject is ELECTIONS. According to the "Fountainhead", not over 500 of a possible 10,000 students voted on "Election Day" September 28, 1971. Is that apathy? NO! We did not vote and we wish no one else had. How does anyone have the nerve to term ECU students apathetic? It is not the students who are to blame for poor "turnouts" at the polls. It is the candidate's fault! If a candidate wants our vote he must campaign for it. How does the candidate expect the students to vote for him if they do not know his beliefs or platform? Posters and handbills do not do the job. Most posters just give the students a candidate's name and the office he is seeking. (But the major contribution of posters and handbills is adding to the litter on campus!) Before we will vote for anyone we have got to meet him and find out what he hopes to accomplish while in office. And it is not OUR duty to come to HIM. It is HIS duty to come to US. We hope that during the next election no one will vote! Maybe then somebody will realize the need for a change in the election procedure.

Horace Hull
Raymond Winfree

Makes pitch

To Fountainhead:

This Thursday the students must vote for persons to fill the vacancies left by the recent resignations by Mr. Croshaw and Mr. Edwards. We need a hard working person to take over the various duties of SGA Vice President. We need someone who can get along with the members of the administration and still accomplish the students' wishes.

Jim Hicks is the man to do this. A graduate student this year and President of Alpha Kappa Delta (honor) fraternity last year, Jim wants to continue working as he did for WECU.

Please vote for Mr. Hicks on Thursday. Do yourself a favor!

Sincerely,
John Palmer

The art review by Joseph Wallace in the October 19 'Fountainhead' was very interesting. One drawing in particular that I found of interest was "Long Shadows" by Elizabeth Ross. The drawing looks even better upside down! (strangely resembles a tobacco barn and countryside.)
