Draft resister to speak Wednesday

Draft resister David Harris, husband of folksinger Joan Baez, will address the student body in Wright Auditorium on Wednesday afternoon at 2:00.

Harris is 26 years old. He entered Stanford University in 1962. He spent some time working with SNCC in Mississippi during his sophomore year. Later, he worked with the United Farm Workers Union in California.

The students at Stanford elected him student body president in his senior year by the largest margin ever at Stanford University. After a partial term as president, he resigned because he felt that people were using him as an excuse to sit back and do nothing.

Harris began organizing draft resistance in 1967. Along with others, he set up a call for a draft card turn-in; expecting a maximum of 200 cards. They received 1,600 cards.

Harris refused induction into the military of July 16, 1969. He was arrested, tried, convicted, and sentenced to three years in the Federal penitentiary. During his imprisonment at several medium security prisons, he organized a hunger strike among the prisoners for better living conditions. While Harris was doing time, his wife, Joan Baez Harris, gave birth to their son Gabriel.

After serving 20 months in prison, Harris was released on parole. Since his release he has worked with the People's Union in Palo Alto, California. He participated in the recent referendum to keep the USS Constellation from sailing from San Diego. His work and the work others resulted in the people of San Diego voting for keeping the Constellation from sailing for Vietnam. Harris will make a statement concerning upcoming resistance activities in the South. Members of North Carolina Resistance will - announce plans for upcoming actions in North Carolina. There will be a press conference at 12:30 at ECU with Harris and members of the North Carolina Resistance. The conference will be held in Room 206 Wright Annex.

Group to see Apollo

The ECU chapter of the Society of Physics Students will attend the launching of Apollo 16 from Cape Kennedy. As they have been given 'on base" passes for 38 persons, the Society would like to extend an invitation to any interested student or professor who would like to accompany them.

A chartered bus will leave the campus on Saturday, April 15 at a time to be announced. The bus will return following the Sunday launch. The cost will be $36 per person for transportation (round-trip). Meals must be paid for by the individual. . A non-refundable $18 deposit is required to hold a place on the bus. Anyone interested, please contact Dr. Seykora, Physics East 204. First-come-first-serve basis.

Campus discussed

Registration for ECU's unique overseas campus program at Bonn, Germany for 1972-73 is now possible for only one or two quarters, as well as for the entire academic year. This announcement was made last week by Dr. Robert W. Williams, University Provost, shortly after his return from a visit to Bonn. In addition to negotiating the terms of ECU's contract with the German foundation which owns Haus Steineck, the site of ECU Bonn, Williams discussed the current program with the Risedent Director, Dr. Hans H. Indorf of the ECU Political Science Department, German staff members, and most of all with the students. His findings generally coincided with the opinions expressed in The Forum (Fountainhead, Tuesday, March 21) by 29 of the 37 students currently at Bonn. Like most other major undertakings, international or otherwise, the Bonn program has had its share of problems, Williams acknowledged. These have been recognized and appropriate corrective action has been initiated.

Most of the problems have been due to inflation in Germany and the worldwide decline in the value of the American dollar. The monetary situation has been attacked in two ways. First, the fee for the Bonn program has been increased for next year by nearly ten percent. Second, the contract with the German foundation has been written in such a way as to reduce somewhat the total cost of leasing Haus Steineck. Another change, opening registration on a quarter by quarter basis, is intended to make the program available to more students, thereby reducing the possibility that it might have to be discontinued for lack of participants.

To make application or obtain additional information on cost and travel arrangements for one or two quarters or the entire year, see Robert Franke, campus administrator for the Bonn program, in Room A-105 of the Social Studies Building, between 8:30 and 5:00. If at all possible, Franke suggests that you see him before the spring holidays.

Voting aid offered

David Boone has been selected as ECU's campus coordinator in Allen Barbee's campaign for Lt. Governor. Campaign Headquarters will be established at Aycock 329 where campaign materials and significant registration and absentee voting materials will be available. Any person wishing to aid in the campaign come by Aycock 329 or Tyler 908.

President wins prize

Kathy Tindall, president of Lambda Tau Medical Technology Honor Society, won second place in the National Honors award for Lambda Tau.

To enter, each chapter of Lamdba Tau had to choose a candidate to send to the National Headquarters with some information on the individual and why this individual contributed to Lamdba Tau.

Tindall received $175.00 for winning.

SGA candidates receive students' endorsements

To Fountainhead:

Undoubtedly, the candidates that receive letters, receive them by solicitation and the letter content is full of analytical reasons why so and so should hold a particular office. Well, this letter will not contain any qualitative analysis of each candidate nor was it solicited by any member of the S.O.A.P. platform committee, but instead it was offered to the committee as a token of appreciation.

Students of Anarchist Principles, is by far the most progressive student oriented organization on campus. Its platform is simple and to the point-abolish the SGA. Some on this campus can see the SOAP viewpoint, others on campus, they don't understand why the abolition of the SGA is needed.

It is needed so that the students on this campus, and others like it can control the student aspect of the University without having some political egotist telling the students what to do. The students on each and every university campus should and must control student funds. To do this certain steps must be taken: 1) the students must confront the student body as a whole and tell students of administrative controls, 2) the students must then tell the administration that reforms must be made and 3) after the administration has refused (as on this campus) the students must then become independent of the administration.

After the SGA has been moved off campus, then working through the court system the students will sue the State of North Carolina claiming legal control of their funds. The battle will be long and difficult, but students of every type complain about the administration but up until now no one would do anything. Well, SOAP is now the only alternative, and looking at every alternative that is put before the student, the logical road to take.

On Tuesday, March 28, vote SOAP. Michael Jacobson

To Fountainhead:

We, the undersigned Fine Arts students, officially endorse and support Rick Atkinson for Vice-President of the SGA, urging all students, particularly in Fine Arts, to do the same. We feel that his proposals to:

1) divert funds to begin a substantial recruiting program for the Fine Arts programs, 2)provide SGA funds to obtain a renowned musician-in-residence. 3) finance a rock band of students from the School of Music to perform at University functions at no cost to students, 4) convert the old heating plant into an art studio and area for building and storing theatre sets, prove him to be the candidate most condusive to the urgent needs of Fine Arts students and ECU, in general. We feel that he has the ability to transform proposals into reality. Vote Atkinson for V P. on March 28. Jan Lukens Mary Loughran Shannon McBride Marcia Studerbaker Ellen P. Mayer Christine Fisher John Foster

To Fountainhead:

On Tuesday, March 28, another SGA election will take place. Many students will perhaps fail to vote using as their reason the "powerlessness" of the SGA I would hope that all students could unite and vote in this election to help make their SGA more powerful and more viable. Several good candidates will be on the ballot for the various offices. One of the most exceptional candidates in my mind is Rick Atkinson. Rick, running for SGA Vice-President, is an individual who is not only concerned about students and their rights, he is an individual who has the intelligence, the rationality, and the deep-down guts to work to his utmost for the good of all students. I will consider it a privilege to vote for Rick Atkinson on March 28. I sincerely hope that all students will study each individual candidate and then cast his vote accordingly.

Sincerely. Jim Hicks Vice-President

As members of an oppressed majority, we urge all women students to cast their votes for the one Vice-Presidential candidate who will be truly effective in eliminating the repercussions of East Carolina's double-standard. We feel that Rick Atkinson is not only capable of talking about problems, but that he has the ideas, drive, and understanding to correct them. We hope that all women will cast their votes for more than an empty voice. Vote actio rad.i.cal [ME, fr. LL radicalis, fr. L radic-, radix root + alis-al more at root) 1: of or relating to the root: proceeding directly from the root; as ...e: designed to remove the root of a disease or all diseased tissue (-surgery) - compare conservative (from "Webster's Third New International Dictionary," unabridged).

It has been so long since I have made a public statement on ANY issue that I may have some difficulty expressing my thoughts on a subject which I feel should be addressed most strongly, however, those of you who remember the name Bob Thonen may feel what I have to say worth the extra effort. Since late last spring I have maintained a moratorium on public statements and overt actions. The reasons for this decision included severe family sickness and financial as well as other problems in addition to a general feeling on my part that one individual is simply not capable of bringing about radical (see above) change without a large amount of support.

The emergance of the Students of Anarchists Principles (S.O.A.P.) has indicated to me that there is an unknown number of students who seem to view the current student situation similarly to the way that I do. From the S.O.A.P. platform: "It is time that students realize that the SGA is nothing but a puppet government sanctioned by the Administration to be used for its purposes. It does not represent the student body; rather, it becomes a buffer between the wishes of the students and the ruling hierarchy, diverting attention away from the true source of corruption, the administration. It is quite simple. The SCA is simply a lackey of Leo W. Jenkins and his cronies."

The answer to this problem cited by S.O.A.P. likewise reflects the views that I hold: there is "...only one major issue in our campaign. That is the complete abolishment of the present Student Government Association, through its constitution." And further, "We propose that the constitution be abolished and an entirely new one be drawn up by a delegation of concerned students, elected at large from the student body specifically for this purpose. The document would then be required to be ratified by a 2/3 vote of the students voting."

Such extensive surgery as this is only justified when all other actions have been found to fail. For this reason I bring to your attention the occurances of last spring including such depressing events as the total failure of visitation and the massive administration attack on the campus newspaper. The resignation of Glenn Crowshaw following the crushing, behind the scenes, actions of the administration, the similar resignation of David Edwards and the control the administration holds over the very qualifications of those the students can elect to represent themselves should indicate that more has to be done than simply elect a good man to SGA office. It is beyond me how anyone can expect that an organization such as the SGA which is subject to the approval of the university president can hope to accomplish. anything which is counter to the wishes of that same individual. Logic dictates that this is a poor weapon indeed to use to advance the wishes of the students over those of Leo.

The massive amounts of student apathy at EZU does not indicate to a sensible person that no one cares. Rather, it indicates that no one feels an expenditure of effort on their part will, in the end, result in effective change. If you offer a man no reasonable alternatives to silence how can you expect him to be anything but silent?

It is my contention that there is massive support for reasonable, rational control by students of student affairs and that if the students are provided with a means of accomplishing this change they will jump at the opportunity. Specific priorities are reflected by the points in the S.O.A.P. platform as well as in the platforms of Rob Luisana and Rick Atkinson, two individuals I regard as sincerely interested in the welfare of the students. Rick's point about disarming the campus police makes a great deal of sense when you stop and think who these weapons will be used against if they are ever used.

At a meeting last week Rob Luisana made a personal promise to me that he would call for a referendum on the major point in the S.O.A.P. platform should he be elected president. This would be a referendum on the abolishment of the present SGA constitution and that a new one be drawn up by a delegation of concerned students, elected at large from the student body specifically for this purpose. At the same time if this is not the will of the students an individual will be in the office of president who will be able to do the most with the tools that the present

I suggest that the following course of action be taken: 1. That those students who feel this course of action holds promise should vote for Rob Luisana who will then instigate the referendum procedures as provided by the existing constitution. 2. Should the students indicate by their votes that they do in fact desire the rewriting of the SGA constitution an election would then be held to select the composition of a Constitutional Convention which will be responsible for determining the form the new constitution shall take. This same convention will be responsible for contacting the colleges and universities, by either structure provides.

not legally be subject to the approval of Leo. 3. The election of these representatives would not have to be bound by such current assinine qualifications as having a 2.0 average or belonging to a certain class or group or any other divisive requirements because there is no mention of "qualifications" for any Constitutional Convention in the SGA personal or phone contact, which have already taken this course of action in order to put together an entire package which would constitution. 4. Give these individuals enough time to thoroughly research and draw up the proposed new constitution which would be presented to the entire student body in the first two or three weeks in the fall and would require a 2/3's vote for approval.

5. Should the students not accept the first rewrite the convention would be required to remain in session and offering changes in the form of formal votes at a minimum of once a month until they offer the students a constitution which they find acceptable.

6. The existing SGA structure would remain in effect and continue functioning until such time as the students formally accept a new constitution, at which time whatever structure contained in the new constitution would be implemented within one month.

If such a course of action is going to succeed then the students will have to indicate to the individuals running that they will no longer accept lackeys of the administration representing them and that they will no longer accept continuation of a form of government which is not representative of themselves. Such drastic surgery as this is necessary if we are to have a form of government which is not diseased and rotten to the core.

I wish to address this letter to all students who consider themselves open-minded and clear-thinking human beings.

To Fountainhead:

Of late, the cry on this campus has been. Why are we living in the past?" The Administration seems to be leve that we are lobotomized zombies who can't make intelligent and rational decisions on our own. The students' task is to make this idea an idea of the past. If we intend to make this institution into a true university, we must elect someone who is strong-willed and well-informed. The office of SGA President can no longer be a vital office if it is 'manned" by self-satisfied egotists. For those of you in the student body who want this university and it SGA to become the progressive and well-organized body it must, I urge you to THINK and THINK AGAIN on election day. The future of this student body (and its power) isn't worm a damn if its head (the SGA President) is screwed on backward. decapitated or made of mud. In other terms, we need a living leader. As an ex-Arm, Servicewoman, she has discipline and dedication. As an honor graduate (4.0) of a junior college, she is a strong believer in the power of education. As a person, she is decisive, diplomatic, strong- willed and prudent. But all these are just words, and words can never adequately present the true

If you are truly open-minded, and feel that this school needs a progressive change, then make your vote worth something toward that change. Don't succumb to out-dated traditions and peer group pressures. Come out of the past and vote intelligently - vote for Lee McLaughlin

Sincerely. E.M. Ronzo

To Fountainhead:

After reading the presidential candidates' views on the issues on this campus, I was amazed at the lack of reality in the majority of their opinions. What can the student body do about the construction of the new student union when the land has been purchased and the money appropriated, with the approval of a previous Student Government? If the aim of candidates seeking office is to completely undo what past Student Governments have done, the end result will be chaos. What guarantee do we have that the money would be rechannelled into "more useful areas" if stopping construction were possible?

I realize that appealing to the student body emotionally over issues out of our control is good political tactics, but we are in college now and should be responsible enough students to demand representatives who are capable of cutting through this garbage and accomplishing realistic goals.

Lee McLaughlin is capable of this. As a candadate for SGA President, I feel that she is the most competent and truly concerned candidate running. When you vote today, consider the issues and the proposed plans of action. Wouldn't a realistic person with insight be a refreshing change?

Rob Lusiana has received publicity for his participation in campus causes. I noticed that along with Lusiana two people unknown to me for their contributions on campus are running with him. This coalition makes you wonder about the courage and self-esteem that the other two people may have. Whether true or not it seems they are trying to ride Lusiana's tale of fame into office. This is similar to when Agnew an unknown ran on Nixon's tail. Of course, I'm not saying that these two people are as qualified as Agnew (I mean unqualified). As has been stated in the past, we need leaders, not yes men to the executive. Whether this coalition suffers a lack of courage to stand on their own without Lusiana's publicity is a matter for the people on campus to decide. We need people who will stand by themselves, for what they are and have done. Not people who will stand in the shadow of someone else's ability and courage. I feel people should be elected that have something to say and do, people who take a stand on their own and who have the guts to back it Frank Stephens

We the undersigned do pledge our support for Rob Luisana for President, Rick Atkinson for Vice-President, and Mark Brown for Treasurer. The reason for our support for these three men are: they are the best qualified, they have the ability to arouse student support, their determination, their goals, their stand on the issues, their ability to work with each other and they are needed for a student Government.

To Fountainhead: We, as students of ECU having lived with SGA presidential candidate, Lee McLaughlin, in Tyler Dorm this year feel that she best meets the requirements of an SGA with a future. Although of an older generation, Lee has an uncanny insight into the needs of the youth of today. She is the only candidate running for president that has a sensible campaign. She doesn't ask for blood and reform, but equality for the students and an understanding with the administration of ECU. Lee McLaughlin has tact, sensibility, and a need to see the student in his proper

Why not have Kathy Holloman as SGA Vice President? At least she has the fortitude to run independently - and isn't depending on some mythical coalition to pull her through. Even more credible is the fact that she's been shouting criticisms of the status que since last year - and has not suddenly taken up ten popular issues to insure election. Her interest has been consistent. Someone must surely be rational enough to vote for an individual, not for a wall of people. The straight ticket is hardly a progressive practice.

Let's take a worthwhile stab at independence. Cynthia McCollum

To Fountainhead:

I'm writing to announce my support for Tim Wehner as Treasurer of the SGA

As a visiting student this quarter, I have no campus pull, political muscle, or such credentials like being in varsity sports, being in the SGA being in a fraternity and so on, but do plead guilty to being only an individual who would like to be heard like anyone else.

I have known Tim Wehner for a short time, but he has demonstrated to me a clear, unshakable determination to be an open, above the board, people's treasurer. Tim Wehner can be believed. I trust him. In this busy election year, so full of promises and various bull, knowing there is somebody running we can just simply trust might be all we can honestly hope for. Charles Malone

To Fountainhead:

Concerning the upcoming SGA elections I wish to encourage all students to consider carefully the candidacy of Kathy Holloman for the office of vice-president. I have known Ms. Holloman for two years and I am excited by her ability to think and act. I have absolutely no doubts that our SGA and the entire student body would benefit from her leadership. Of all candidates for all offices, she is the only one with whom I am completely satisfied.

Eric A. Slaughter Graduate Student

To Fountainhead: Since spring elections are here again, the voters on campus should take time to look at the candidates, Each candidate's views should be considered

Rob Luisana is a candidate for SGA President. He has been active for more than two years working to help the students. He was one of the leaders of last year's boycott to gain visitation in the dorms, among other student-oriented activities. For most of this year he has worked towards gaining student voting rights in Greenville. He believes "that students should have a voice and be able to make decisions on issues that affect them."

Some of his ideas on issues are CONSUMER PROTECTION: The SGA will publish a list of available apartments and houses whose owners have in the past treated students fairly. BOOKSTORE: The exorbitant prices of the Student Book Store have been tolerated by students long enough. The SGA should undertake the establishment of a co-operat book store run by and for the students.

STUDENT FEES: The spending of student fees should become a primary issue. The building of a new Student Union is ridiculous in view of the shortage of funds in other more vital LAWYER AND BAIL FUND: "I will see to it that the SGA completes the final steps necessary to secure the services of a full time lawyer, available to the student body. The Greenville ministry has established a bail fund. I will try to make this fund available to any student arrested downtown.

OUT OF STATE TUITION: The drastic increase in tuition for out of state students will be challenged in court. ENTERTAINMENT: Free concerts on the Mall every second Sunday afternoon (weather-permitting) could be easily arranged by using local bluegrass and rock groups.

"If elected President, I intend to make the SGA more than a poll-taking service. I will work vigourously on issues and take definitive stands on controversial matters.

This is the person the student body needs as the SGA President. Vote for Rob Luisana next Tuesday. Mark Browne is a candidate for SGA Treasurer and is concerned, as is Rob Luisana, that the School of Art, School of Music, and Drama Departments finally be recognized as real assets to ECU and that priorities in university and student government tinancing be changed to give the Fine Arts their deserved portion.

If elected, both Rob and Mark will attempt: 1. To divert at least 25% of the funds for athletic recruiting for recruiting outstanding students for the Fine Arts programs. 2. To provide SGA funds to make it possible to get a renowned musician in residence.

3. To have the SGA finance a rock band of students selected from the School of Music to perform at university functions for the students at no cost to the students. 4. To convert the main building of the old heating plant into an art studio and an area for buildin g or storing theater sets. Give Mark Browne the chance to help the Fine Arts at ECU.

Vote for him for treasurer on March 28. You owe it to yourself.

To Founta nhead

While scanning the 'Election Issue statements by the candidates for SGA. I see far too many horse-hockey promises made in desperation by floundering candidates who are out-of-touch with the student body.

There are candidates who want us to vote for them just because they are women; candidates who promise to work for fine arts; candidates who are running on their-looks and charisma; candidates with really shakey grasps on reality (a la McLaughlin "dorms are quite comfortable ... and particuriarly the situation with the mice at Tyler Dorm.")

I would sure hate to see most of these dildoes across the table from Leo or Mother Tucker trying to get the students point over. Realist that I am, S.O.A.P. looks pretty far out. But for Christ's sake, they're the only ones who are saying anything that hasn't been promised before.

Before you throw your vote away on some "loose coalition" that would like to tighten up on your money, check out your last or and see what these S.O.A.P. dudes said.

To Fountainhead:

This is an in.portant letter. We can only hope you'll read past the statistics to take in the message.

Kathy Holloman is running for SGA vice-president in Tuesday's elections - one of the few women candidates for a higher office in recent years. While Kathy is closely associated with women's rights, she is interested primarily in the rights of all students of both sexes.

Kathy has had more than adequate experience in student government, having served on the SGA Legislature, on the WRC Court and on a number of committees in her two years at ECU. As head of the Committee on the Status of Women, she has attempted to investigate sex discrimination on campus, and has encouraged women to take a more active part in student government. In addition, she reorganized the WRC Court to fully advise women of their legal rights prior to trial. Kathy has also shown a strong interest in the welfare of the arts, and helped set aside much needed funds for the arts on campus. Those of us who have seen Kathy in action know more. We've seen her at meetings, scrawling memos, camping out in the SGA offices - and most often raising a little hell. At a time when many people regard an SGA office as merely an attractive brownie point to tack on transcripts, Kathy Holloman offers an opposing view - based on a fair amount of sweat and perserverance. The university is in desperate need of a new attitude in student government, and Kathy Holloman promises to supply it. Her record shows it, her plans show it, and you can make it work.

To Fountianhead The SGA elections are upon us once again. For some this is of no consequence, for others, the candidates themselves, it is a time of anticipation of the future. For those of us that are not involved except by way of our vote, it should be a time of reflection on the past and planning for the future. The SGA is an active force on campus and it should be represented by dynamic leaders. The SGA does have a certain bit of power (i.e. influence upon the administration) and it should be represented by capable leaders. The SGA can not act impusively or it will be stepped on (i.e. visitation last year) so it must be represented by patient leaders. Naturally there are a great deal more demands on the SGA also, which means that the leaders must have various qualities to meet these demands.

It is now the time for each and every voter to study the candidates. What have they done in the past? What are their stands on the issues? What are their plans for the future? Consider all of these things, and also consider. Has any candidate made any promises? What kind of promises? Especially consider this, because this will tell you what type of person that candidate is. If a person makes rash promises which he will not be able to follow through on, then he should not be considered a good prospect for an SGA office. As I am in the SGA legislature, I know just about all of the candidates. Most of them would, in my opinion, be worthy office holders. However, I believe that some would be better than others. I have asked myself many questions conserning those running and have formed my own opinions. Personally, for president I prefer Tommy Clay, the present president. For V.P. I think the best prospect is Rick Atkinson (by the way, you can vote for one member of a coalition without voting for the other members), and for Secretary, I am for the write-in candidate, Frieda Clark. For treasurer I am in favor of Tim Wehner, the only candidate I am actively supporting. I think that more so than the rest, these candidates would work for the SGA, the school, and most importantly, the students. These are only my opinions, but they are based on a knowledge of all the candidates, not just promises. No matter who you are supporting, please vote on Tuesday, March 28, and no matter who wins the students must support that person fully if we are to move forward in the future.
