Claims 'low' standards Former prof blasts Jenkins

A former ECU French professor, Dr. John Costa, recently had a letter published in the Kinston Daily Free Press denouncing Chancellor Leo Jenkins' claim to high academic standards among ECU faculty, and saying that Jenkins' emphasis on the expansion of the Medical School has caused the Romance Language Department to be "run on a shoestring."

Costa claims that Jenkins has "neglected...the quality of education at ECU," while seeking publicity about "his ill conceived Medical School."

Because of the long length of the letter, it could not be published in its entirety in the "letters to the Editor" section of the Kinston paper. Costa has given Fountainhead permission to print the portion of the letter appearing in the Friday, January 26th edition of the Free Press. The following is the entire text, verbatim as it appeared in its original publication.

Students must hurry to apply for summer drama in Chapel Hill

Advance registration is required to audition for the nine outdoor historical dramas and one summer musical at the University of North Carolina at Chapel Hill.

Application forms must be received by Feb. 23 for auditions on March 10. Only 250 registered applicants will be allowed to perform at the auditions.

The applicant must be 18 years of age or older and must be available for the summer season. Rehearsals for most plays begin the first or second week of June and run through Labor Day.

The N. C. directors scheduled to hold auditions are Joe Layton and Bob Knowles, "The Lost Colony," MANTEO; Bill Hardy, "Unto These Hills," CHEROKEE; and Edgar Loessin, East Carolina Summer Music Theatre, GREENVILLE.

Out-of-state directors scheduled to attend auditions are Tom Rahner, "Cross

Dear Editor:

It is disturbing to me that some newspapers allow so much publicity to Mr. Chancellor Jenkins of East Carolina University about his ill conceived Medical School. Although a Med School is a laudable "idea", Jenkins has willfully neglected more vital objectives.

The Quality of education at ECU. During the course of Jenkins' interviews nothing transpires about the side effects the fostering of this "idea" has caused. To balance the euphoria of the Chancellor I think I have the right, as a taxpayer and a professor, to let the people of North Carolina know where their money is going and the price that the faculty at ECU has paid. Despite the "family of individuals" concept, which he frequently speaks about, the Chancellor does not mention the anguish he has caused (and causing) to the academic well-being of the faculty as a whole.

Jenkins' irresponsible claim is that he has the best faculty on the Campus; this statement loses all credibility when one can perceive that the lowest possible academic standards on the part of members of the faculty are acceptable to the Administration of ECU. No wonder that the Board of Governors has found it difficult to allow a second year of Med School at ECU.

Besides, in the name of economic crisis (more suitably, to pay the expenses of his Med School) the Chancellor has caused my department to be run on a shoestring. We do not receive any more notes in the mailboxes regarding events, meetings, commitments, no; instead every morning we are obliged, subpoenaed, to read frantically the various departmental communications hanging all over the frame and walls surrounding the mail holes in order to discern the morning news. Do you call this common sense?

Fernandez resigns post, devotes time to study

DR. JOSEPH FERNANDEZ

Dr. Joseph A. Fernandez, chairman of the East Carolina University Department of Romance Languages, will resign his administrative duties in order to return to full-time teaching at ECU after the spring quarter.

In a formal request to ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins, Dr. Fernandez stated that a return to full-time teaching would enable him to give more time to research projects and other scholarly activities.

He has served as chairman of his department for five years.

Dr. Fernandez also noted that the projected merging of ECU's two foreign languages departments this fall contributed to his decision to resign as chairman this year.

The 1973-74 academic year would be "a particularly propitious time for someone else to take over the reins of the new department," he said.

Post-grad unemployment decreases

(CPS)—College graduates may no longer be threatened with the possibility of unemployment which has faced them for the past several years.

According to a recent survey by the College Placement Council, a Pennsylvania-based nonprofit organization, employment of college graduates increased by 6 percent last year. It is the first time in three years that an upward trend has been noted.

The employers surveyed reported that 47,600 graduates were hired as compared to the 45,000 hired the previous year. In 1969-1970 there were 70,000 college graduates hired.

The survey found that the openings made most available to graduates were in merchandising, federal government, banking finance-insurance, chemicals and drugs, and state and local government.

The biggest percentage boosts in hiring activity were in research and consulting—88 percent, chemicals and drugs—52 percent, aerospace—43 percent, public accounting—37 percent, electrical machinery—32 percent, building materials and construction—27 percent.

Unemployment in the engineering profession, which has increased 3 percent in 1971, has now declined to less than 2 percent.

Employment prospects for graduating engineers are getting brighter, says William M. Kays, dean of Stanford University's School of Engineering, and there may be a severe shortage of engineers by 1976, when demand may double the supply.

Kays noted that the publicity given engineering unemployment continues to affect enrollments across the U.S. To counter the effects of such publicity, the Stanford Engineering School, under Kays' direction, has begun a campaign to attract students to the profession.

The campaign will investigate alternate routes into engineering, which would introduce first year students into the program without stressing heavy commitment from the start.

Kays senses an increased interest among undergraduates in professional careers. According to two college placement directors questioned in the College Placement Council survey, seniors this year were more interested in finding employment than a year ago. This year's class was seen as being more practical in its jobhunting efforts and more aware of the reality of the depressed job market.

Liberal arts students, however, were said to be generally lacking in knowledge about the job market and the process of becoming part of it.

Employers today are more concerned with increased productivity and efficiency, says J. Dennis Ryan, placement director at Carnegie Mellon University. They want more of a demonstration of skills than just a grade-point performance.

"Employers are finding that students who are career-oriented in their extra-curricular and summer activities become productive much sooner than students without this additional experience. And they seem to have a much better perspective as far as their personal goals," concluded Ryan.

Drug films revisited

(CPS)—Remember when they herded your entire high school into the auditorium and showed you the film on drugs?

The "friendly stranger," who always looked like a villain in THE MAN FROM UNCLE, would unload a badly rolled joint on this incredibly straight couple for an outrageous fee. The next scene was the traffic accident where the couple had turned themselves into hamburger with their car headed for the recycling center.

Or someone slips a couple of hits of acid into Suzy's root beer and suddenly there is this third-rate light show and Suzy does a swan dive from the 25th floor into the pavement.

If you ever thought those movies were a bit sensationalistic you have backing from the National Coordinating Council on Drug Education. The four-year-old non-profit organization has just released its annual report on drug abuse films.

According to the group, only 16 percent of the 220 films reviewed were "scientifically and conceptually acceptable." The other 84 percent were rejected for a variety of reasons including scientific inaccuracy and scare tactics. Fear as a tactic came under special criticism from the group.

Drug films aimed at minorities were reviewed and results were even worse. Out of 220 films only seven dealt with minority groups and all were inaccurate. "All seven are stereotyped," said one spokesperson. "The black male is always pictured as emmeshed in an unbreakable cycle of addiction."

Smiley stepping down

Library to get new head

Chancellor Leo Jenkins has announced the appointment of Ralph Russell as Director of Library Services at East Carolina University, effective July 1, 1973.

Russell will assume the position upon the retirement of Wendell W. Smiley, who has served in that capacity at ECU since 1943.

Russell holds the BA and MA degrees in English, the MS degree in library science, and is currently completing requirements for the PhD degree from Florida State University.

His professional library experience includes work with the Queens Borough Public Library in New York City and the St. Petersburg, Fla., Public Library.

He was circulation librarian at the University of Southern California and at Florida Junior College and science librarian at the University of Georgia at Athens. In addition, Russell has taught at Emory University, Atlanta.

An active member of several profession organizations, Russell has served as chairman of the Florida Library Association's Technical Services Section.

Smiley, a native of Bryson City, holds degrees from Mars Hill College, UNC-Chapel Hill and the University of Illinois. Prior to his appointment to the ECU staff, he was librarian at Mercer University.

correction

Due to inaccurate information received from our sources the wrong application date for filing for student union president was published in last Tuesday's paper.

The correct deadline for filing is Wednesday, January 31. All applications must be completed and filed at the glass enclosure of the Student Union no later than 2:00 p.m. on the above-mentioned date to receive proper consideration.

Social costs of pollution inflationary as clean-up, leaves program woefully short, says Merritt

NWF—"Woefully short" is the assessment of the bleak financial picture facing state agencies in their efforts to control and eliminate water pollution under federal standards. Grant J. Merritt, executive director of the Minnesota Pollution Control Agency, used the term to emphasize "...that continued costs resulting from water pollution are far more than the costs necessary to clean up."

The Nixon administration has announced that only $5 billion of $11 billion authorized by Congress would be spent in the next two years for sewage construction costs. The President intends to impound the rest of the authorized funds by Executive fiat.

Although the Federal Water Pollution Act provides $18-billion over the next three fiscal years for water treatment projects, the President vetoed the measure, claiming it appropriated more money than was needed or could be provided in the current Federal budget.

Congress overrode the veto. The legislation also increased from 55 percent to 75 percent the federal share of these projects and provided $2-billion in additional funds to reimburse municipalities for earlier federal funds that were promised but not delivered.

Minnesota is just one state that will feel the crunch, with their $161 million request being cut to $101 million for the two-year period. Merritt observed,

"These social costs of pollution are just as inflationary as clean-up costs, but apparently the President and his advisors failed to take that into account."

The states are not the only victims of the authorization reduction, as the National League of Cities noted in a plea to the Nixon Administration to revise its deadlines for compliance with water pollution standards if Federal funds are not going to be provided for municipal water purification projects. Roman S. Gribbs, the mayor of Detroit and a vice-president of the League, wonders, "If they aren't going to provide the money they've promised, then they'll have to stop hauling us into court for non-compliance and they'll have to adjust all those schedules."

'He must sell himself'

By BRUCE PARRISH
Features Editor

Egotist, public servant, journalist or what? What will qualify the future editor of the Fountainhead?

Many standards will be cast upon the applicants Wednesday, but perhaps the most important one will be the elected editor's willingness when solving a problem to consult the Publications Board, "Fountainhead" publisher, according to Kathy Holloman, Publications Board chairman.

Past editors have had a lack of respect for and understanding of the board, Holloman commented. "One reason lies in its caution to assert authority. It has bent over backwards too much in various problems confronting the board and editor, especially repeat problems." The Publications Board is the publisher of student publications and has the ultimate responsibility for their operations.

The board feels it justifies demanding a closer relationship between the editor and the board in view of its increased efficiency. "I have encouraged the board members to interest themselves in what each publication is doing. The board now has a continuity in membership which it previously has not had. Every member has been a member for at least this year," related Holloman.

A major concern for this closeness lies in the ambiguity of the board by-laws approved by the Student Government Association, according to Holloman. She feels there is a great need for cooperation with the editor in clarification of this matter, in relation to their working situation.

Aside from the minimal qualifications of being a student and having a "C" average, a person capable of "responsible editorial leadership will be given considerable consideration. We are searching for a person with a feel for student government, the campus, and everyday situations who can sort out the facts and editorialize with a feeling for the existing situation," Holloman said.

Other considerations the board will look at emphasize the editor's ability to organize efficient personnel and paper operations. As Holloman put it, "they must submit something of a battle plan."

Throughout the interview, particular notice will be paid to personality qualities capable of enticing personnel to come and remain at "Fountainhead" throughout the editor's term. In my past experience on the board, I've seen a great deal of turnover on the staff. We'll look at an applicant capable of giving an understanding of "Fountainhead" operational problems to its staff and attracting writers who produce good copy," asserted Holloman.

"The editor's background must also give some indication of a working knowledge of the paper," Holloman went on. "Although past editors have predominately had journalistic backgrounds, this in itself will not be a requirement. But we will note his extracurricular activities regarding managerial, financial, and journalistic capabilities."

In short, the applicants will undergo inquiries into their operational knowledge of "Fountainhead", how the Publications Board fits into this plan, and what specific changes will be made in these operations. "The editor must be able to delegate responsibility when needed and stimulate a team spirit within all concerned," Holloman concluded.

The future editor must sell himself Wednesday.

Theater goes invited to Europe

By KATHY KOONCE
Staff Writer

The School of Drama is sponsoring a theatre tour in London, beginning Feb. 25 with activities through March 11.

The price of the trip is $360.00 which includes transportation to and from Washington, round trip flight between Washington and London, meals on both flights, hotel accommodations and a private bath for the entire stay, a continental breakfast each morning, transportation to and from London airport, a half day sightseeing tour of London by motor coach and guide and six theatre tickets to current London shows.

The group will leave Greenville Feb. 25 at 12:30 p.m. E.S.T. and arrive in London Feb. 26 at 8 a.m. London time. The individual will be completely on his own during the time in London. Participating members will not meet as a group until departure time March 11 at 8 a.m. Scheduled return to ECU is March 11 at 11 p.m.

This trip is open to all registered students of ECU and faculty members including their immediate family. Three briefing sessions are held prior to the trip. Conflicting exam schedules are worked out with the professors on an individual basis. Pre-registration cards of the students taking the trip are pulled so that their registration would not be cancelled.

Students interested in making the trip should contact Bob Williams of the School of Drama immediately. Cut off date for booking is Feb. 1, however, this date may be possibly be extended. People had to be turned away last year due to overcrowding. Interested students should inquire immediately. Further information and copies of the itinerary can be obtained from Bob Williams.

Around Campus

-BONN ORIENTATION-Really enjoyed studying? Had a quarter that you used everything you learned? Eaten breakfast with your professors? Had a dignitary roll out the red carpet for you? Thought about studying in Europe? Heard about ECU-Bonn?

Tuesday night, Jan. 30, at 8 p.m., ECU's Office of International Education and ECU-Bonn alumni will present a slide show and discussion of ECU's European Study Center. The show will be held in the "B" wing Auditorium of the Social Studies building, room SB-102.

Come talk with us. We have information on course offerings, expenses, housing, clothing, extra curricular travel, etc., etc. Of course, we realize many students have unique problems to cope with in planning a year's study in Europe (including finances.) Chances are that previous students have experienced these problems and found ways to solve them.

We want to help you help yourself to a year in Europe!

-ECU PLAYHOUSE-"La Boheme," the most beloved opera by the Italian composer Puccini, will be presented at East Carolina University Jan. 30 and Feb. 1 and 3.

A joint offering by the ECU School of Music and the ECU Playhouse, "La Boheme" will feature June Laine, Charles Moore, Rosalyn Barlowe and Charles Smith in the principal roles. The opera will be sung in English.

Dr. Robert Hause will conduct the ECU Symphony Orchestra, and the production is staged and directed by Dr. Michael Hardy.

"La Boheme" includes some of Puccini's most memorable music, such as the popular Musetta's Waltz Song. Set in Paris in the 1880's, the story deals with the lives of four

-FILM SIGNIFICANT TO MOVIE HISTORY-THE ADVENTURES OF PRINCE ACHMED is a full-length animated film based on tales from "The Arabian Nights." Historically significant as the first full-length animated movie ever made (1926), PRINCE ACHMED remains of interest today for the breathtaking design and dramatic power that make it a unique and exciting experience for audiences of all ages and interests. The creator of the film was Lotte Reisinger, assisted by her husband Carl Koch, who worked on the film for three years in collaboration with several of Germany's avant-garde artists of the time. It will be in Wright Auditorium at 8:00 p.m. Wednesday.

-ELECTION COMMITTEE-All persons interested in working with the Elections Committee or serving as Chairman of the Elections Committee may file applications in the SGA office in room 303 of Wright Annex.

-FRESHMAN MEETING-There will be a Freshman Representative Meeting Thursday, Feb. 1. This meeting is important! All interested Freshman are encouraged to attend. The meeting will be at 4:00 in room 201 in the Union.

-ALLEN FILM IS TRIBUTE TO BOGART-Woody Allen needs no introduction to filmgoers of the 70's. He is one of the most inventive and generally successful comics working in the movie medium today. PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM is his tribute to star Humphrey Bogart and a film classic of 1942, CASABLANCA. Adapted from Allen's own Broadway comedy, PLAY IT AGAIN, SAM is the story of a movie buff who has no luck with women and who periodically receives advice from the spirit of Bogart. The film will be in Wright on Friday, February 2, at 7:00 and 9:00 p.m.

-TRANSCENDENTAL MEDITATION-There will be an introductory lecture on Transcendental Meditation on Thursday, Feb. 1, 1973, at 7:30 p.m., in EP 104. All interested persons should attend.

Thinclads conquer Carolina; State also bows in tri-meet

By DON TRAUSSNECK
Sports Editor

A performance described by ECU track coach Bill Carson as "perhaps the greatest ever" led his Pirates to victory over Carolina and State in a triangular indoor meet Saturday at Chapel Hill.

The Pirates became only the second team in seven years to defeat Carolina in indoor track at the Chapel Hill "Tin Can." The other team to do it was Tennessee three years ago.

Final team scores showed the Pirates with 49 1/2 points, Carolina with 44 1/2 and State with 32. Duke was originally scheduled to participate as well but the Blue Devil squad cancelled out.

The host Tar Heels officially won more events than did the Pirates (six to four) but one of the victories should have gone to East Carolina.

ECU's mile relay team of Palmer Lisane, Charles Lovelace, Maurice Huntley and Barry Johnson actually won the race by a wide margin in school record time. However, the track judge declared a lane violation, disqualified ECU and State, and gave Carolina the first-place points for the event.

CONTESTED

Carson and his runners hotly contested the call for several minutes but it was all to no avail.

Despite the disappointment, though, the Pirates did not need the event to win the meet as enough depth elsewhere enabled them to prevail.

Winning their events for the Pirates were Ivey Peacock in the shot (51-1 1/2), Ron Smith in the high hurdles (7.6 seconds), Walter Davenport in the triple jump (48-11) and Roy Quick in the high jump (6-8).

Peacock's winning heave in the shot and Gerald Klas' second place time in the mile (4:14.8) were recorded as school records.

The strongest event for the Pirates, and one that came at a time when the Pirates needed a lift to win the meet, was the triple jump. In addition to Davenport's victory, Larry Malone finished second and Willie Harvey captured third.

OTHER POINTS

In the quarter-mile, Barry Johnson finished second and Charles Lovelace took third to give the Bucs other important points.

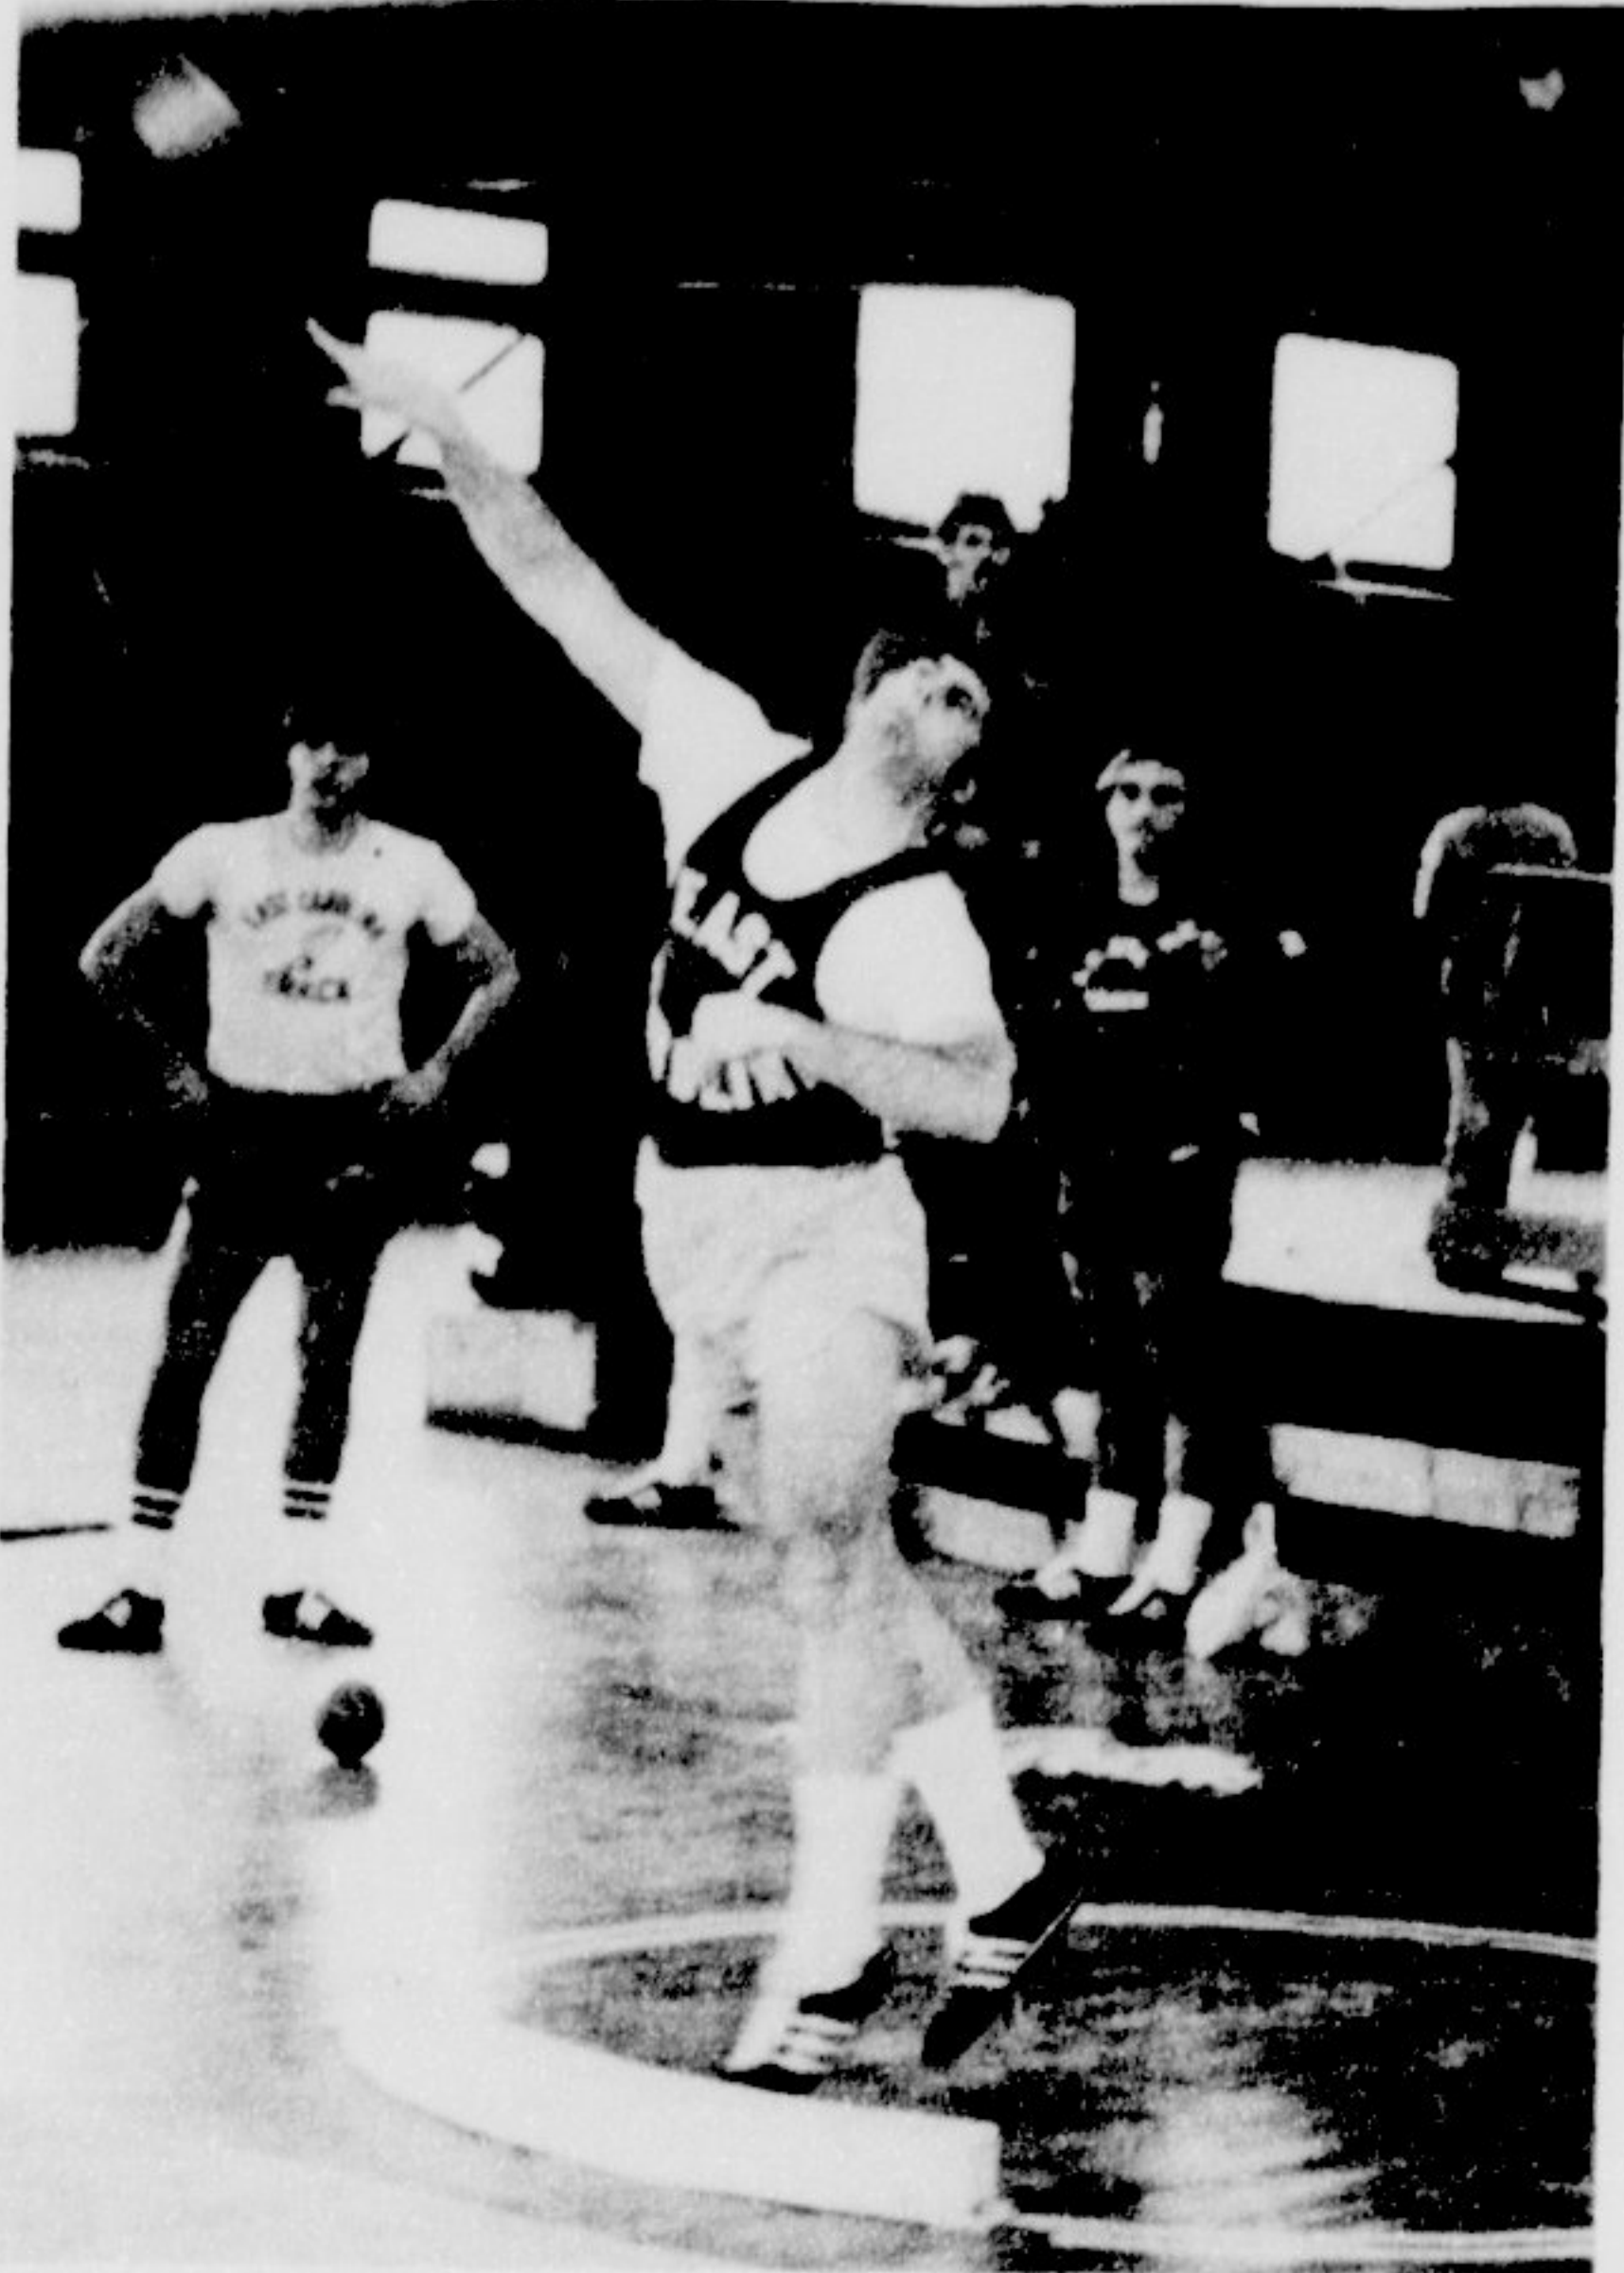

Although Carolina took one-two in the long jump, Davenport's third-place finish and Malone's fourth kept the Bucs out of trouble here.

Other places were taken by LeBaron Caruthers, second in the shot; Sam Phillips, third in the high hurdles; Huntley, second, and Les Strayhorn, tie for fourth in the dash; Klas, third in the two-mile; John Pitts, third in the high jump; and Richard McDuffie, third in the pole vault.

Carson noted that his teams have come up with strong performances in conference meets in the past but this is one of the greatest efforts he has seen.

"Every man who had a job to do did it," he said. "Everything was solid and everybody today was a hero."

The Bucs will travel to Lexington, Va., this weekend to participate in the VMI Winter Relays.

MIGHTY EFFORT: Ivey Peacock seems to be letting out a grunt after his mighty effort in the shot put Saturday. In his prior heave, Peacock set a new ECU school record as he won the event in the Pirate tri-meet victory.

Compton is editor of trainers' journal

Rod Compton, head athletic trainer at East Carolina University, has been named editor of the National Athletic Trainers Association Journal.

The 25-year old Compton is in his third year as head athletic trainer here. In addition to being a member of the National Athletic Trainers Association, Compton is also a member of the American College of Sports Medicine.

Compton was instrumental in establishing an ultra-modern sports medicine complex for the athletic department. The complex now ranks as one of the best of its kind in the country.

In addition to his duties with the ECU Athletic Department, Compton is also a teaching associate in the department of health and physical education. Recently, his work was instrumental in initiating a curriculum for the University in sports medicine.

A native of Newark, Ohio, he was graduated from Ohio University in 1969 with a B.S. in health and physical education. A year later, he received his masters in education from Bowling Green State University.

The NATA Journal is a national publication distributed among some 3,000 association members and publishes four times a year.

Compton will begin his duties on the Journal immediately.

Good outlook

Stick season approaches

(First of a series)

Coach John Lovstedt and his brand new edition of the ECU lacrosse team are looking forward to turning over a new leaf.

Viewing the past shows that the Pirate stickmen have had only one season in which their wins have equaled their losses.

Nine new faces mark Lovstedt's lineup this year, with eight of these newcomers being freshmen with high school experience.

Attackmen Andy Stanick, Danny Mannix and Bill Harrington will see more than their share of action this year.

Will Mealy, last year's captain, will alternate at defense and attack. Larry Hays is switching from defense to midfield and Mark Krinovak will take Hays' place on defense. The big question appears to be who will play goalie. Lovstedt is counting on Bruce Strange to fill the bill.

With no hopes of a Southern Conference championship, because none is given, the Pirates look elsewhere to meet their goals.

Dartmouth, UNC, Duke, N.C. State, VPI and William and Mary will be the tough matches of the year.

Pirates split hoop contests in tuneup for Davidson tilt

By EPHRAIM POWERS
Asst. Sports Editor

After suffering a devastating 100-61 loss at the hands of the Jacksonville Dolphins, coach Tom Quinn's Pirates roared back to blast the VMI Keydets 71-45 Saturday night in Lexington, Va.

The Bucs were never really in the game at Jacksonville. Almost from the start the Dolphins took control and they were never threatened.

Though the loss was a one-sided affair, Quinn did see things he liked and later he praised Al Faber and Dave Franklin for their efforts.

Following this game, the Pirates blasted apart the Keydet zone defense in the early going to run out to a 16-point first half lead. They continued to bomb away for the tremendous victory.

NIP-TUCK

ECU battled nip-and-tuck with the home team for the first few minutes and eased out to a 10-8 lead before exploding for 12 straight points and a 22-8 margin. The Keydets then found the range again and the halftime score was 28-17.

In the first half, VMI managed only seven of 25 shots for a miserable 28 per cent.

In the second half, after ECU's Jerome Owens opened with a jump shot, VMI closed to within seven points. But that was as close as the Keydets could come all night.

Several minutes into the second half, the Bucs exploded and put the game away for good by stretching the lead to 20 points, 51-31, on a shot by Earl Quash.

The Bucs then extended it even more to 65-39 on a bucket by Ken Edmonds. The lead went out to the Starting times against Davidson Wednesday have been changed. The junior varsity game will begin at 5 p.m. with the varsity contest scheduled to begin at 7 p.m.

Richmond will be the foes and wins over Davidson, Furman and Richmond could help the Bucs quite a bit in the conference race.

Davidson comes in Wednesday night and the Wildcats are coming off a fine win over Wake Forest. The 'Cats are paced by John Falconi, Mike Sorrentino and John Pecorak, stalwarts all year.

The rugged home stand for the Pirates should prove to be a key part of the hopes for the ECU season.

Prior to the varsity game Wednesday night, coach Dave Patton's jayvee cagers meet the Davidson jayvees at 5:00 p.m. ECU's young hoopsters are 7-3 and have seven men scoring in double figures. Al Edwards leads with 17.6 points per game pace.

Tankers suffer setback at State; hope to rebound in future meets

Can the East Carolina swimming team rebound after a 70-43 thumping at the hands of the N.C. State Wolfpack and defeat the University of Virginia? That question should have been answered Monday night as the Bucs were as keyed up as their coach, Ray Scharf. They were expected to have little trouble with the Cavaliers.

Last week, the rugged Wolfpack captured nine of the thirteen events in breezing to their sixth straight win of the year. State seized event number one, the 400-yard medley relay, and from that point on the 'Pack was never headed.

ECU freshman Larry Green sparked as he won both the 500- and the 1000-yard freestyle events.

Green's time of 4:56.9 set a new freshman and varsity record in the 500. Paul Trevisan's time of 48.8 gained him first place honors in the 100-yard freestyle and Wayne Norris, Chris Vandenoever, Jim Hadley, and Trevisan made up the Bucs' victorious 400-yard freestyle relay.

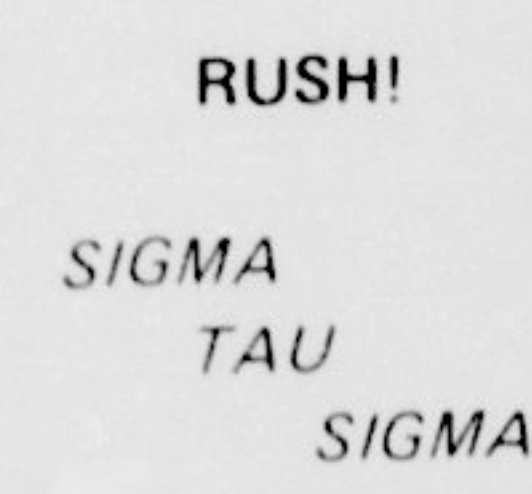

With their record of 5-2, the tankmen look forward to upcoming meets with Old Dominion, Appalachian, Catholic, Maryland and VMI.

Saturday afternoon, a sparse crowd looked on as the ECU junior varsity swimmers soundly thrashed Fork Union Military Academy, 67-28.

The biggest story from that meet was diver Jack Morrow. The junior from Charlotte put on one of the greatest displays of one-meter diving ever seen at Minges Natatorium.

Morrow's score of 287.10 points set a new meet, pool and varsity record, in addition to qualifying him to participate in the National Championships, to be held at the University of Tennessee in late April.

Cadets distinguish themselves from public's opinion

Special to Fountainhead
Dennis R. Crawford
Police Science Curriculum II
Pitt Technical Institute

It seems to me and to my fellow, future police officers, that the time for "put-downs" is over. Day after day, we take bullshit from everyone dealing with the profession which we have chosen—law enforcement. For those of you who do not have sense enough to know the job of a law enforcement officer and of what it consists, I would like to fill you in on just that.

A law enforcement officer, or "PIG," whichever you prefer, is a public servant. He has gone through a deep, thorough, factual and extensive program before he is able to become an officer. Pertaining particularly to the existing Police Science Program at Pitt Technical Institute, I, as a student-member of the program, can tell you that such a statement has this program as a basis—a solid foundation. By being a public servant, the police officer does a little bit and a whole lot of everything. The officer does not have to be smart to attend to matters dealing with everything, but he must have and use a little common sense. This "little" common sense must be more than the common sense that has been shown by many students and staff writers of the FOUNTAINHEAD; namely, their editorial commentaries and stupid comic strips.

In reality, I am prejudice towards the police profession and to the Police Science Program at Pitt Technical Institute. I, as a future police officer, am smart, and I know it. I don't mean smart from a philosophical point of view, but smart from a common sense point of view. Few of you will be unable to understand the meaning of common sense. I know that the police have a damn hard job and that they do a damn good job, but the students and citizens of Greenville, including Brenda Pugh of the FOUNTAINHEAD staff, evidently aren't smart enough to realize this. They fail to realize that professionalization of the police is a prominent and ever present fact STUCK in the back of the mind of each and every citizen of this town.

Now, I would like to reiterate on what I have tried to get across to you, using as a basis the article written by Brenda Pugh entitled, "City Initiates Cadet Training Program for Tech Students."

First of all, the "novice" officers have graduated from high school and ARE able to enter college.

Secondly, to even begin to include the courses involved in the program taken by the cadets as their basis for understanding the law, Miss Pugh should have added over 40 other courses in Police Science and included over 100 more quarter hours credit. Then, her statement would have been near correct.

Thirdly, the program offered at the Coastal Plains Police Academy at Wilson should not be compared to the program at Pitt Tech for understandable reasons.

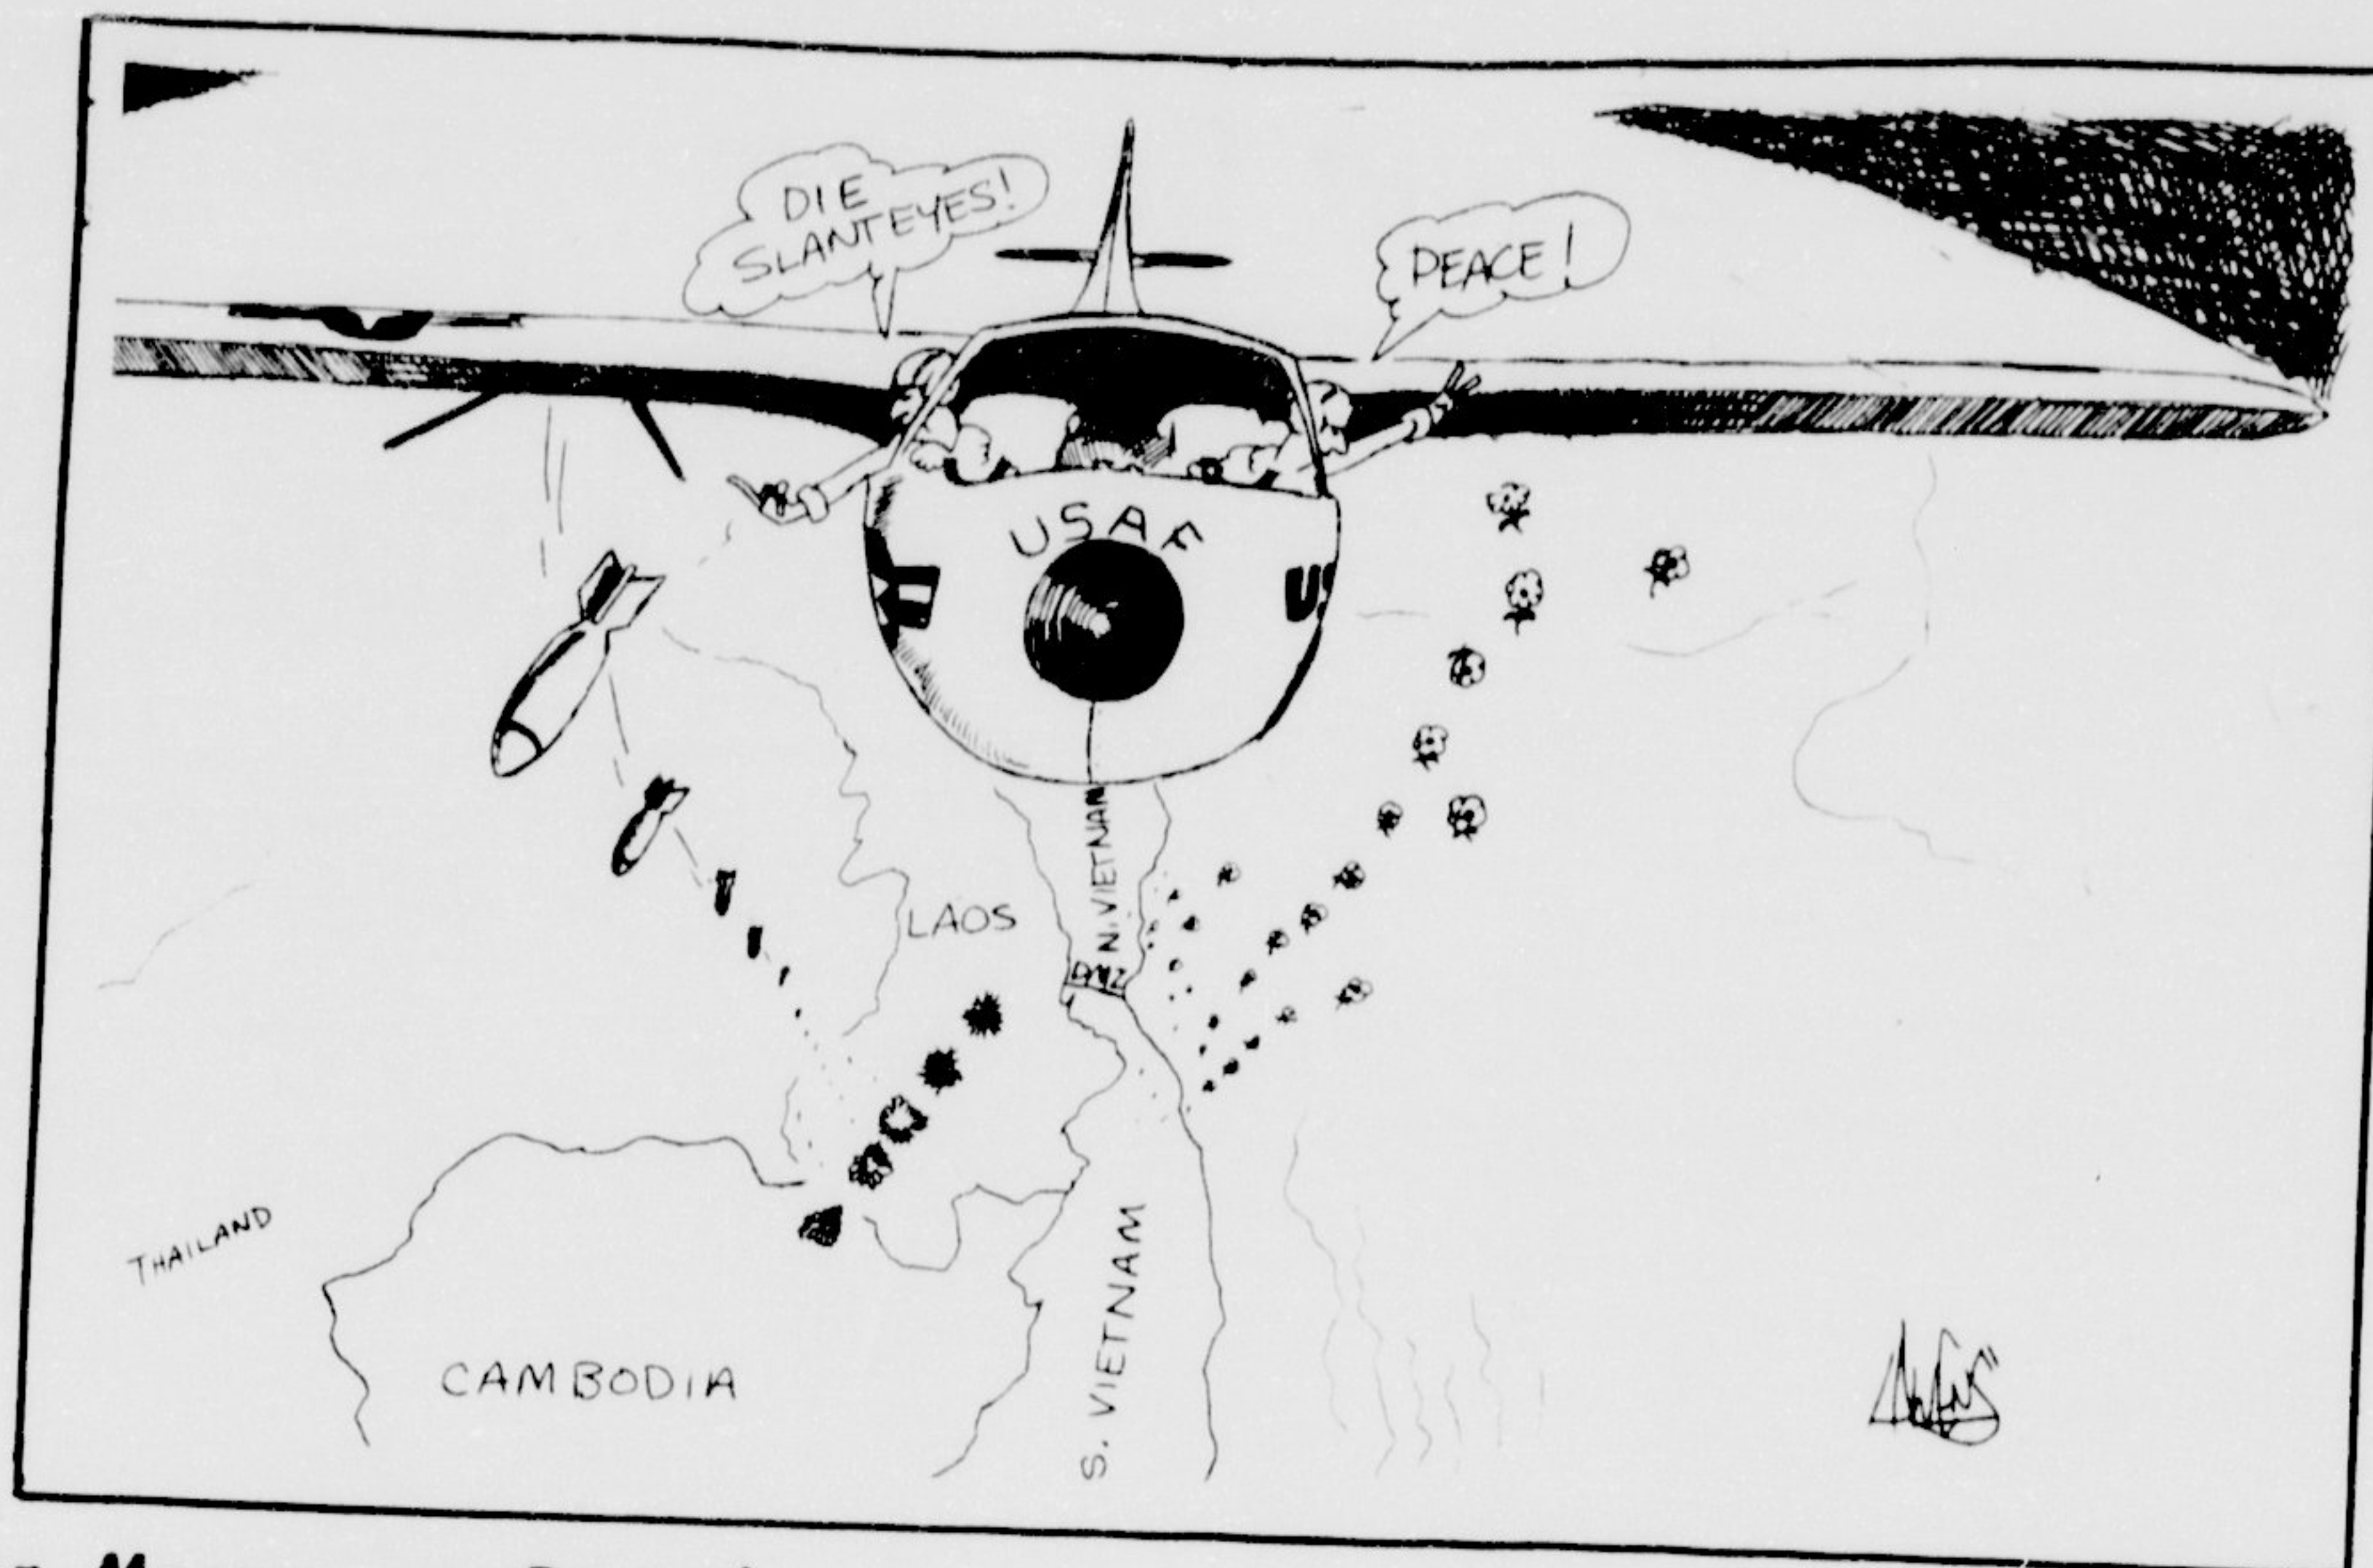

Fourthly, and hopefully, any student who is a sworn police officer or cadet and who upholds the basis of the Law Enforcement Code of Ethics, will know and realize that there are more important things for police officers to do than "to serve as school crossing guards and meter attendants," especially those who have sought and attained a degree in Police Science!

Fifthly, a police officer has a full-time job—not eight hours a day like you may think, but a twenty-four hour a day job. He knew this fact when he took a law enforcement job just as the cadets know that the same exists for them, as future police officers.

After all this, I wish to compliment Greenville Police Chief, Edward G. Cannon, for his "complimentary" statements, both about the cadet program and the "professionalization" of the police profession. I hope that this commentary will entice you, as citizens of this fair city and great state, to look at your police officers and your cadet officers as true professionals in every sense of the word. Also, I hope that you will look into and ask about the program at Pitt Technical Institute, which is responsible for sending forth YOUR future police officers. Hopefully, within the very, very near future, East Carolina University will adopt a Police Science program of the same caliber of that at Pitt Technical Institute. This would truly be a blessing for this city, state, and nation whether you as citizens wish to realize it or not.

As a favor to you and to myself, I would like to ask everyone who reads this to acquire and to read the Law Enforcement Code of Ethics as set forth and adopted by the International Association of Chiefs of Police. If you cannot acquire a copy, please contact myself or any member of the East Carolina University Police Department. Both departments are composed mainly of Pitt Technical Institute students or graduates, and the reason may simply be that the Police Science Program at Pitt Tech is recognized as the best program in the State of North Carolina.

I wish to thank the "FOUNTAINHEAD" for printing this article, and most of all, I wish to thank you for reading it.

Washington Merry-go-Round

Internal conflict separates Muslim sects

By JACK ANDERSON

Police fear the slaughter of seven black Muslims in a fashionable Washington home and the two-day shootout at a Brooklyn sporting goods store may be the beginning of a bloody holy war between rival sects.

The seven victims belonged to a sect which has accused the Black Muslim prophet, Elijah Muhammad, of preaching false doctrine. Muhammad preaches hatred against the whites, whom he calls the "devil." The smaller sect has condemned this doctrine and has criticized Muhammad for excluding whites.

The gunmen in both incidents have been linked with the Muhammad loyalists.

Even before this outbreak of violence, both the FBI and the Secret Service had anticipated possible trouble from the Muslims. One classified Secret Service report states:

"Despite leadership statements enunciating a policy of non-violence (and) non-participation in demonstrations, the existence of an organization whose philosophy is directed toward race hatred and whose members are organized into a parliamentary contingent, constitutes a potential for violence."

The total adult membership of the Black Muslim movement, according to the confidential files, runs between 6,000 and 6,500. The Secret Service memos add: "Recruiting efforts are primarily directed to the uneducated, underprivileged Negroes and suspected or known criminals. There is active recruitment within penal institutions."

An FBI summary, stamped confidential, gives this background on the Muslim movement: "the Nation of Islam, an organization for representatives of the black race only, had its origin in Detroit, Mich., in the early 1930s. Headquarters is Muhammad's Temple No. 2, 5335 S. Greenwood Ave., Chicago, Ill., which affords direction to numerous affiliated branches, commonly referred to as Muhammad's Temples or Mosques, located throughout the United States.

"The leader is Elijah Muhammad, self-styled 'messenger of Allah' and the only divinely appointed leader of the black race in the U.S., who controls all policies and programs. Muhammad's teachings stress Allah (God) selected him to lead the so-called Negro out of slavery in North America through establishment of an independent black nation in the U.S.; the white man is the 'devil' and open enemy of the black man; the black and white races must be separate; the white man, his government and religion will be destroyed by Allah through the forces of nature in the 'War of Armageddon', a war between Allah and the 'devil.'"

"...Muhammad and other Nation of Islam members have refused to comply with Selective Service laws, stating that they respect the laws of the U.S. provided they do not conflict with NOI laws. They do not believe that government should force them to participate in wars when they have nothing to gain."

'NEWS' FROM WASHINGTON

Now that Congress is back in session, the voters at home can expect a barrage of "Reports From Washington." The representatives will send home solemn accounts of their activities, emphasizing their political conquests and legislative triumphs. Nothing will be said about the votes they lose, the meetings they miss, the deals they make and the junkets they take.

Some of the reports to constituents will arrive by mail. The reports will be printed in ink splattered printing shops deep in the bowels of Congress, where the tourists are never taken. Photographers are also provided by the taxpayers to record such historic events as the Millville High School's senior class calling on their congressman.

Other reports will be taped for the radio-TV stations back home. Both the Senate and House provide radio and television studios. The TV studios offer an elaborate set, designed to look like a congressional office, with a stunning view of the Capitol dome beneath a bank of cumulus clouds. The studios, of course, charge about one-twentieth what the congressmen would have to pay to a commercial studio.

The taxpayers not only provide print shops and radio-TV studios, at bargain rates, but most Senators and Representatives use part of their federal payroll money to hire public relations men. In many offices, this media man will write all the press releases, speeches, newsletters and radio-TV scripts. Busy legislators merely have to slip down into the basement to the TV studio, assume a suitably solemn expression and read whatever is handed to them by their press aide.

Congressmen justify all this, of course, as their solemn duty to keep their constituents informed. But the real purpose, of course, is to build up their political stock for the next election.

Meanwhile, you may as well enjoy your "Reports From Washington." You are helping to pay for them.

THE FORUM

Cheerleaders loud fans silent

To Fountainhead:

I would like to thank our "concerned sports fan" for his letter in the past issue. I was wondering if we had anyone on campus interested in the cheerleaders' performance at the games.

I must admit our cheerleaders have not been at their best lately. After losing our captains, we have been in the process of reorganization. At the present time we are trying to develop new cheers and stunts. Cheerleading is not an easy job. Most students do not realize the number of hours spent on learning new routines.

In my opinion only a few of our cheers lack spirit. One reason for lack of spirit is the student's response. If the students would really "let go" and become involved the cheers would not lack as much spirit. Other schools have performed at our games and their students have gone wild. I thought some of their cheers were terrible but when the students joined them they turned out to be quite good. So "concerned sports fan" why don't you get your fellow fans to join in the cheering. Through the joint efforts of the cheerleaders and the concerned sports fans our cheers will not lack spirit.

As chairman of the Spirit Committee, I ask that all interested persons contact me in room 214 of the Student Union. Maybe we can get together and discuss ideas concerning cheerleading and spirit projects.

Sincerely,
Morris Holloway, Chairman
Spirit Committee

P.S. That damn good football cheerleading squad is the same one used for basketball.

Thief goes to the dogs

To Fountainhead:
Dear Dog Lover,

You may know who you are, then again maybe you don't. On Tuesday, January 23, you removed the collar from my dog, took the I.D. card off the collar, attached it to the flea collar and aquired yourself a free dog collar.

I don't care who you are. But if you are a respectable person, you would return or replace the collar on the dog. Dog collars ARE EXPENSIVE. I am not able to afford another one. I think the dog would appreciate his collar back too. Where has human respect and dignity gone—to the dogs?

Owner of a dog demonstrators showed up for the crowning but the media coverage just mentioned in passing that a few thousand protestors showed up, a blatant lie. But who can blame the press for slanting the news when they run the risk of being shut down or imprisoned for printing the news that the government does not approve of. We ask you Mr. Deffenbaugh, are we to sit back and let the state take control of the press, kill civilians in foreign lands, run foreign governments to the US's advantage, sabotage the opposition's office, convert NC towards a militaristic state, turn our cities into Fayetteville and our ports into Sunny Points, or are we to demand a government "for and by the people?"

Resistance for Americans

To Fountainhead:

In response to a letter printed in the Jan. 25 issue from a Rex T. Deffenbaugh we would like to say that it is wise to investigate before publicly criticizing any activity. The collection Mr. D. so rabidly opposed as being "spent in vain" to send protestors to DC for the coronation was not intended for that at all, but to help rebuild a greatly needed hospital in Vietnam that was flattened by American bombs, Bach Mai, and to help in the conversion of Sunny Point to a civilian port instead of one that ships death out of NC every day. The bus that went to DC is privately owned and was gratuitously donated for the trip by a Greenville citizen who agrees with Abraham Lincoln that "It is a sin to be silent when it is your duty to protest." In Washington over 150 thousand concerned sports fans, that think they are capable of doing a better job, to come and take my place. Then they may experience the sickening feeling that you get when you have to cheer for an audience with no spirit.

Sincerely,

A concerned group of cheerleaders

More apathy

To Fountainhead:

Especially for the "concerned" sports fan: Thank God for each and every cheerleader. They have a cheer to yell. While others may be jealous. Our cheerleaders cheer damn well. With this school's kind of spirit, You shouldn't want to fuss. We should all feel lucky To have them cheer for us.

A real sports fan
