Med School delays opening Fall to 1977

By DENNIS LEONARD
News Editor

The opening of the ECU Med School has been delayed by Dr. William Laupus, dean of the Med School, until September of 1977. Dr. Laupus has recently completed a series of meetings with the Liaison Committee on Medical Examination (LCME) where the progress of the school was noted since the last LCME accreditation visit, but has decided that the completion of the Med School will be until Fall of 1977.

During one of the site meetings, Dr. Laupus informed the LCME that the UNC Board of Governors will allow the development of several Ph.D. programs in the basic medical sciences in the new Med School.

In a report filed with the LCME, Dr. Laupus noted completion of faculty recruitment necessary for the teaching program of the school, the planning for the establishment of residency programs in family medicine, internal medicine, and pediatrics.

Dr. Laupus has recently named the hiring of several departmental chairmen in pathology, pediatrics, and psychiatry. Dr. Laupus is to name the chairman of the internal medicine department soon.

Approval of the residency program in the family practice is anticipated later this summer and planning for the residency programs in psychiatry will begin in the near future.

"As was indicated in the LCME's report following the early site consultation visit, the achievements above will be expected to reach operational status before an accreditation site survey can be scheduled," said Laupus in a recent Daily Reflector interview.

DR. WILLIAM LAUPUS - Dean of ECU Med School

Progress is being made in the developing Med School with the renovation of Ragsdale Hall being completed and the addition at Pitt Memorial Hospital presently under construction.

Dr. Laupus will hold a press conference for members of the media on July 8th at 10:30 a.m. The purpose of the conference is to brief the media on the progress being made on the Med School and future developmental plans.

OSHA makes move to old South Cafeteria

By BETTY GUNTER
Staff Writer

The Occupational Safety Health Association (OSHA) has moved from Spilman building to South Cafeteria, according to Julian Vainright, business manager at ECU.

Authur L. Coldough, safety health coordinator and Daniel Spran, radiation officer now have offices on the second floor of South Cafeteria.

A lab provided with equipment to count radioactive materials will be built on the second floor of the cafeteria, according to Coldough.

"The lab will not be completed to test the radioactive materials for 12 months or so," Coldough said.

According to Coldough, the testing done in the lab will not be dangerous but will involve a person who is licensed. All equipment must also be registered, he added.

In the past, East Carolina has not had a radiation officer, Coldough said. "The individual departments themselves had faculty who were individually licensed to handle control and recording."

It was recommended by the state that East Carolina obtain a radiation safety officer to take basic control of radioactive materials on campus, Coldough said.

"OSHA will work in cooperation with the ECU staff and faculty to set up a radiation safety committee which will permit members of faculty to use the materials that will be available," Coldough commented.

"The purpose of OSHA is to provide safe working conditions, spaces and buildings and to make them as safe as possible for all employees," Coldough said.

SGA chooses new attorneys

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Staff Writer

Student Government Association President Tim Sullivan announced Monday that the Blount, Crisp & Grantmyer law firm has again been retained to serve the students' legal needs.

Blount, Crisp & Grantmyer, which has served ECU since 1972, was selected from other Greenville law firms, according to Sullivan. "In my estimation, it is the firm that will look out for the students' interests," said Sullivan.

Sullivan cited the firm's experience and enthusiasm as the criteria for the selection.

"We were previously faced with legal service that provided students with only six hours of individual counselling per week," said Sullivan.

The new contract provides for twice the individual legal assistance, allowing 12 hours per week with service available on Monday, Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday, according to Sullivan.

Sullivan said that other duties of the firm are to advise the SGA on legal responsibilities, to counsel organizations under the SGA, to provide a notary public service, to publish a monthly legal advice column in the Fountainhead, and to take ECU cases to court.

A test case is pending concerning the right of the city of Greenville to tax students who do not have the right to vote in city elections, said Sullivan.

This case should go to court before Christmas, according to Sullivan.

The retainer for Blount, Crisp & Grantmyer is $800 per month during the regular school year and $400 for the summer session, said Sullivan.

"We are not saying other attorneys are not as good, but this firm shows enthusiasm and has experience. Now it is up to the students to use it," said Sullivan.

The contract expires January 31, 1977 when the firm will again be evaluated by the next SGA officers.

JOHN WELBORN

Welborn chosen as new Asst. Athletic Director

John Welborn, head wrestling coach at East Carolina for the past nine years, has been named Assistant Athletic Director, Bill Cain, Athletic Director, announced last week.

"With his success in athletics, he'll be a great asset to our program in this new capacity. He's well-known in athletic circles and has made a name for himself," Cain said.

His duties, primarily concerned with the non-revenue sports programs, will not prevent him from continuing as head coach of the ECU wrestling program, where his teams have amassed an .894 winning percentage with an 84-10-3 record. The Pirate matmen under his direction have completed a five-year sweep of the Southern Conference Championship and he has been named Southern Coach of the Year annually ever since the award was established three years ago.

Welborn also coached the Pirate golfers from 1968-1973, during which time the team captured the conference title twice and never finished below third. The new assistant athletic director directed the soccer team during the 1967-68 seasons.

He received his B.S. in Physical Education from Appalachian State University in 1964 following two years at

Surplus exists in 75-76 budget

By DENNIS C. LEONARD
News Editor

The Student Government Association has received all unappropriated funds for the academic year 1975-76, leaving the SGA with $33,000 remaining in the budget.

According to Tim Sullivan, SGA president, these unappropriated funds will revert into a surplus beginning Fall Quarter of 1976, but will be spent on pressing projects during the summer session.

"The BUCCANEER has recently been appropriated $3,000 for the summer budget, the legal retainer fee has been doubled, and the new bus system will be operating sometime during second session summer school to name a few of the projects we are going to spend money on," said Sullivan.

According to Sullivan, the SGA treasurer is anticipating approximately $12,000 in unappropriated funds at the end of summer school.

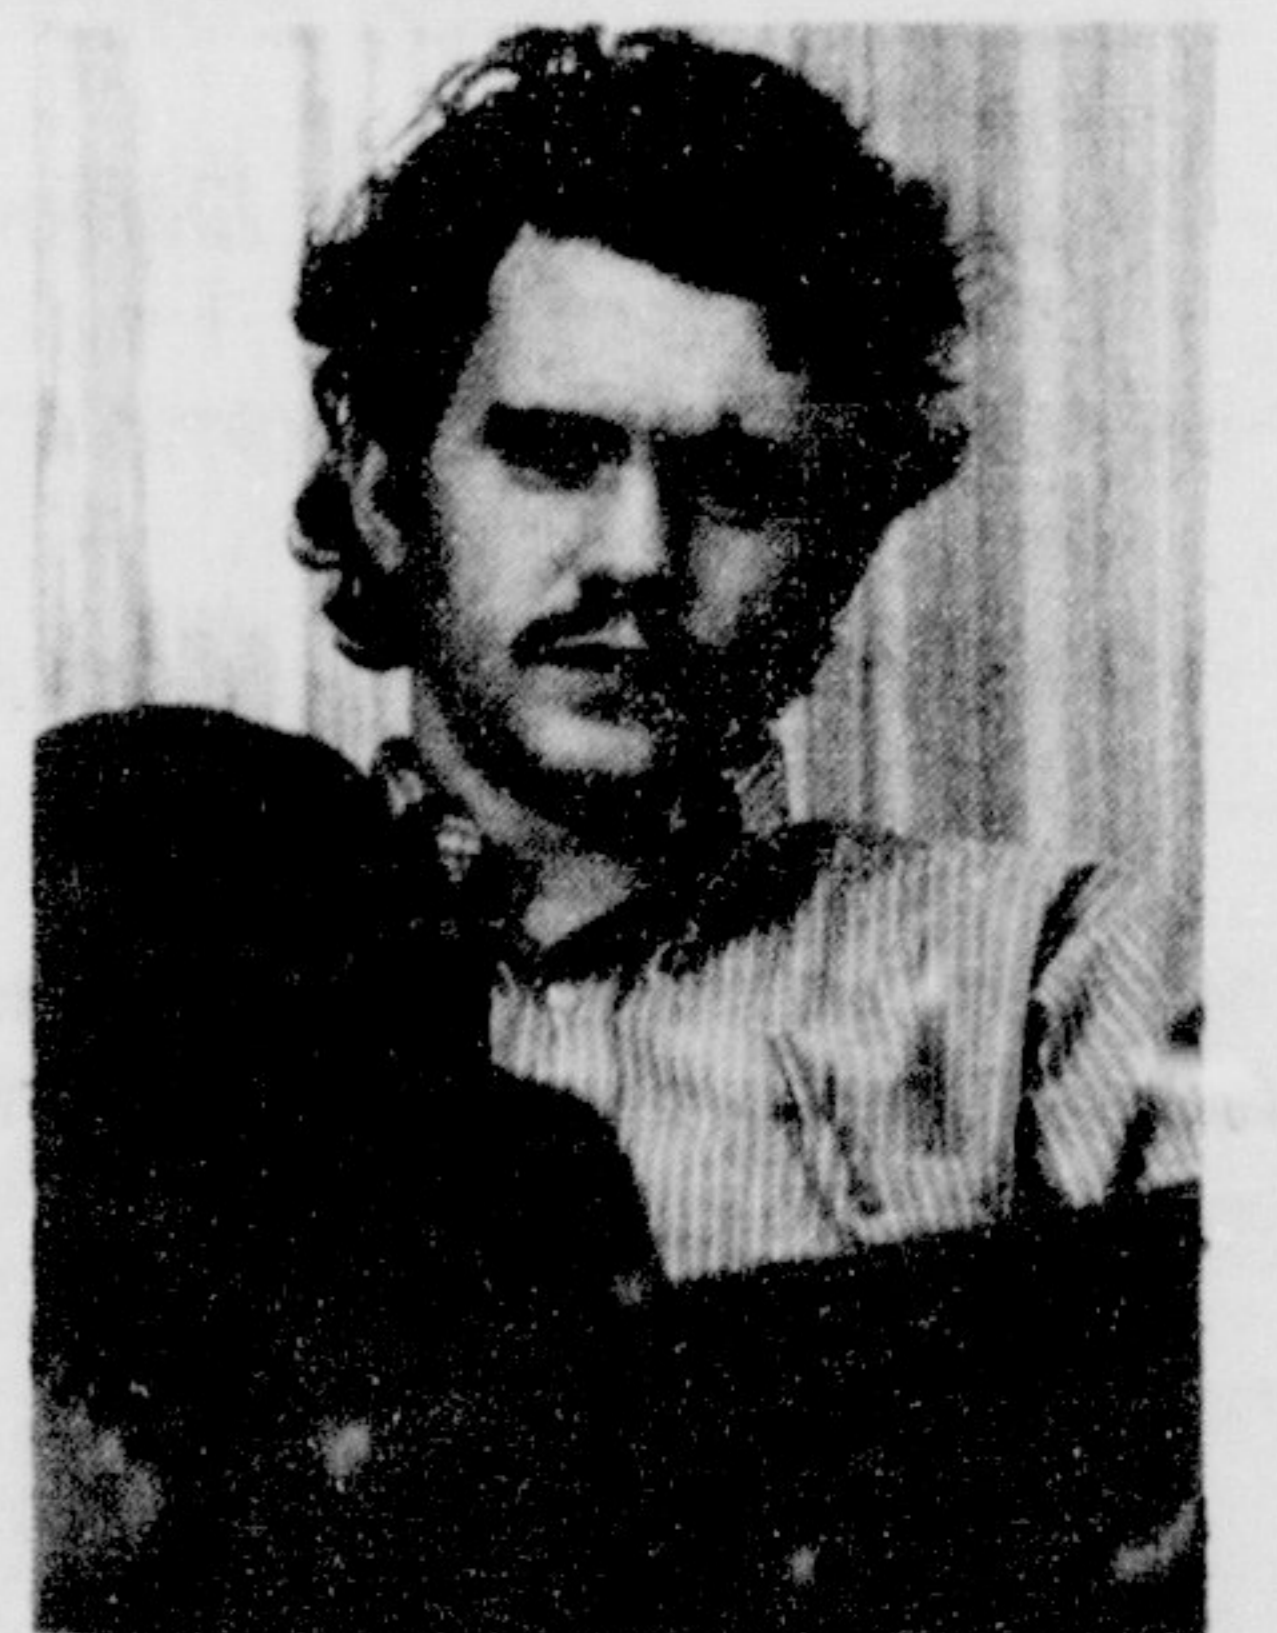

For the upcoming Fall Quarter elections, more money is going to be spent in assuring better elections according to Sullivan.

"I would also like to see more money spent on public relations for the new transit system and for the expansion of the legal service," added Sullivan.

"I do not believe in keeping a surplus of over 10 percent for the total budget."

According to Sullivan the students' money is going to be spent when it comes in instead of several years after the students leaves ECU.

TIM SULLIVAN

Student fees face 'court' challenge

Full-time students who play tennis on the College Hill Drive courts are all losers. No matter who comes out on top score-wise, all still suffer, not because of their game but because of an on-going volley of responsibility for maintaining the nets on these courts.

Tennis-playing students who use these courts are represented by three different administrative units: Physical Education Dept., athletics and intramurals. So when the courts come into disrepair, who pays?

The courts "on the hill" have been in a delapidated condition since winter--ragged, loose nets and poor lighting. But intramurals was reluctant to pay because the varsity tennis team used these courts. Athletics seems hesitant to pay because these courts are used by the general student body and because it has more important things to buy, like umpteen-watt light bulbs for an expanding stadium.

For the record: It should be noted that improvements to the intramural field adjacent to the stadium are being paid for out of the university's capital improvements budget, separate from athletics and intramurals. Nonetheless, it will be interesting to see who has priority use of this area--especially if and when the additions to Ficklen Stadium are completed.

Commentary

So tennis-playing students, after seeing their intramural fee raised $3 last year for a bigger and better program, were denied decent maintenance on existing facilities.

But alas new freshmen and returning upperclasspersons, take advantage. You may be serviced with new nets come September.

Intramural Director Wayne Edwards said he has met with Bill Cain, director of athletics, and a compromise has apparently been reached. Nine new nets have been purchased with intramural money and should be installed by the beginning of Fall Quarter. Wind screens for these courts have also been bought. In return, the tennis team will be using the College Hill Drive courts only between 6:00 and 7:30 in the morning.

With the game apparently even, match point has yet to be played. Sometime in the near future the courts at Minges Coliseum will be lighted. Ironically, plans call for using the old Ficklen Stadium lights. The question is: who will pay the $7,000 installation charge University Maintenance is asking for the job. It is our contention that if athletics pays for the lights it should receive priority use of these courts, the same for intramurals. However, if the bickering continues, even past one quarter, then all full-time, fee-paying students are being cheated of their money's worth because of the squabble. Let's get politics out of student services and back into the Chancellor's office where it best thrives.

Pingston comments on improved lighting

To Fountainhead:

The Student Government Association has been contacted numerous concerning the poor lighting of the tennis courts on College Hill. I recently contacted Mr. C. Moore about improving the lighting system, and was told he would look into it and would contact me about what would be needed to bring the lighting up to the level presently at the Elm Street Courts. Five days later Mr. Moore informed me that faulty wiring was the cause for the poor lighting and that this would be taken care of immediately.

I would like to thank Mr. Moore for his immediate response to this problem. I urge all students to use these facilities and if future problems arise concerning the tennis courts or any other are on campus, feel free to get in touch with me.

Thank you.

The flick, sponsored by the Student Union Films Committee, will be shown Monday, July 12, at 8:00 P.M.

Poop Art

The Great American Centennial Poop Art Show will take place August 1-19. A wacky American art and objects will be collected every Wednesday until then from 2:30 to 5:00 at the Mendenhall Information Center. Bring something! Sponsored by ILLUMINA.

ILLUMINA sponsors patriotic art show and 'poop party'

By BRENT FUNDERBURK

My fellow Americans; there comes a time when we must huddle in masses and yearn to breathe free; a time to loosen your double knit ties; a time to secure your mobile home so it won't blow away; a time to look gallantly skyward into the Greenville monsoon. Yes, my fellow Americans, now is the time.

IN celebration of our nation's 200th birthday, the ECU Student Union Art Exhibition Committee

ILLUMINA (take a breath) has drummed up a Red, White and Blue surprise for everyone. From August 1 to August 19, Mendenhall Student Center Gallery will become a mecca of Americana, with your help of course. If anyone on campus (students, faculty, and staff) has any piece of humorous, intriguing or just plain strange American folk, assembly line, or art object, ILLUMINA invites you to submit it as an entry in our contest (pink flamingos, patriotic jokes, etc.) Awards will be given to the first, second, and third place winners, with several honorable mentions thrown in, and all will "win" because of the exciting climax of the event on August 4.

"POOP PARTY"

On August 4, Washington, D.C. will be envious of Greenville, N.C.! The "Be An American" Poop Party unfolds in glorious Technicolor and Artovision in Mendenhall Gallery and thereabouts. Featured, starting at 8:00 p.m. will be the premier of the internationally unclaimed film "America On /No Parade" by Hob Fungood and Burke Der Wad, the famous Tierra Del Fuegan sheep-shearers and filmmakers. Also on the agenda will be a giant 200 candle birthday cake for maximum consumption (volunteers are being interviewed to jump out of the cake), a bicentennial band, and of course the Awards Ceremony.

Oh yes, one last thing; everyone attending the gala event must dress accordingly. Red, White and Blue must be displayed in some provocative manner or one will not be admitted to the event. It's all for free in our free land and the price of admissions is your true colors, your free spirit, and a bit of breath to blow out a bicentennial candle.

SUBMITTRIES

Entries for the show can be submitted on four dates in July: July 7, 14, 21 and 28 from 2:30 - 5:00 p.m. Original artwork of an American theme as well as objects found in the American suburban jungle, and folk objects of long ago will be considered for space in the show. As there will probably not be enough space for all, the Art Exhibition Committee will have to reserve the power to accept or refuse work. Work is to be submitted to the Service Booth next to the Information Center in Mendenhall Student Center and labels will be available at registration. All objects will be insured. (ILLUMINA insists, however, that your bald eagle must wear a toupee).

FM station airs School of Music performances

Recorded performances by two instrumental ensembles of the ECU School of Music are being broadcast in July by WGH-FM, Newport News-Virginia, Va. (97.3 Mhz).

The station is airing concerts by the ECU Symphonic Wind Ensemble and the ECU Symphony Orchestra as part of its bicentennial programming. WGH-FM can be received in several eastern North Carolina locations.

The "Chancellor's Bicentennial Concert," performed by the Wind Ensemble last fall, was aired July 3 at 8:15 p.m.

The program featured the following works: "Cazona," by Peter Minnin, "The Red Pony" by Aaron Copland, a William Schuman arrangement of William Billings' "Chester," "Variations on 'America,'" by Charles Ives and William Schuman, "We Hold These Truths" by Floyd E. Werle, and "The Free Lance March" by John Philip Sousa.

Wind Ensemble conductor Herbert Carter arranged the program as a salute to ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins as well as a bicentennial presentation.

The ECU Symphony Orchestra's spring concert, a bicentennial program of American music, will be broadcast July 25 at 12:10 p.m. Robert Hause is conductor of the orchestra.

Works included on the program are the Overture to "Candide" by Leonard Bernstein, George Gershwin's "Cuban Overture" and "An American in Paris," a Bennett arrangement of themes from

Gershwin's opera "Porcy and Bess" and Darius Milhaud's "Concerto for Percussion and Orchestra."

The taped programs were produced and arranged for broadcast by James L. Rees, Director of Radio Services and Speech professor at ECU.

Pirate all-stars perform well

By RAY BRINN
Assistant News Editor

East Carolina Collegiate Summer League All-Stars fared well in Monday night's 8-4 All-Star win against league-leading UNC in the annual all-star game at Wilson's Fleming Field. The Monday game was the beginning of a busy week for the Pirates, who are hoping to move out of third place in the league standings while improving on their 10-8 record following a 10-2 rout of Methodist College last Friday.

The six Pirate All-Stars "did a good job," according to their coach Monte Little. Sonny Wooten, who played five innings, hit a double and a homerun, driving in three runs. The premier first baseman was complimented in the infield by third baseman Bobby Supel, who hit a grand slam homerun in the Methodist game and second baseman Pete Paradossi, both who played a solid defensive game.

In the outfield Louisburg's J.C. Daniels of Greenville and ECU's Robert Brinkley both put in creditable performances. Catcher Howard McCullough's arm and glove-work which prevented several attempted steals also received praise from Little. Greenville's Kelly Heath of Louisburg also played in the contest.

Pitcher Terry Durham also pitched one inning and retired the UNC side with five pitches.

The Att-Stars were coached by Louisburg's Russ Frazier.

Following the All-Star contest and a game yesterday with Louisburg, the Pirates travel to Wilson today to face Atlantic Christian and end the week facing Elon away Friday. The Fighting Christians, although now only 9-14 and tied for sixth place, feature "probably the fastest outfield in the league," Little says.

The team started strong in the early season but has had pitching problems since the first week of play. Coach Bob Jones' club is led by pitcher Ronnie Johnson whose one-hitter defeated ECU earlier this season.

ALL-STAR PIRATE CATCHER HOWARD McCULLOUGH tries to make the tag in action earlier this season. McCullough and his all-star teammates defeated UNC in Wilson Monday in the North Carolina Summer Collegiate League All-Star game.
