Dear Mr. Cranford:

I appreciate the invitation to attend the Congressional Reception to be held on Wednesday, December 12, 1979 in Room 1202 of the Dirksen Senate Office Building. It was kind of you to think of me.

I have placed this on my schedule for that evening and look forward to being with all of you. Should I be unable to attend, I would like for my Legislative Aide, Tom Polgar, to represent me.

Once again, thank you for extending this invitation. With best wishes for a Happy Holiday Season.

Sincerely,

Robert Morgan

Dear Senator Morgan

In celebration of the 50th anniversary this year of the Blue Cross idea, the Blue Cross and Blue Shield Associations are having a Congressional reception in Room 1202 of the Dirksen Senate Office Building on Wednesday, December 12, from 6 to 8 p.m. for all members of Congress, key administration officials, health committee staff, and health aides on the personal staffs of members.

While you will receive an official invitation from our national Associations, I want to personally invite you to this reception. Blue Cross and Blue Shield of North Carolina is most appreciative of your personal interest in providing good health care for North Carolinians and for all Americans in the most efficient and economical manner.

As a member of the national committee that planned the Blue Cross 50th anniversary program, I will be attending the reception, and I very much hope you and your health aide will be able to attend. I look forward to seeing you there.

Sincerely

the 1990s, the number of people in the UK who are aged 65 and over has increased by 1.5 million, and the number of people aged 75 and over has increased by 1.2 million (Office for National Statistics 1999). The number of people aged 85 and over has increased by 0.5 million in the same period.

There is a growing awareness of the need to address the needs of the ageing population. The Department of Health (1999) has published a strategy for ageing, which sets out the government's commitment to improve the health and social care of older people. The strategy is based on three main principles: (1) to ensure that older people have access to the services they need; (2) to ensure that older people are treated with respect and dignity; and (3) to ensure that older people are able to live independently and actively.
