Dear Creighton:

I appreciate the invitation to attend the reception and dinner to be held at the Carolina Country Club in Raleigh on Saturday, December 1, 1979. It was kind of you to think of me.

I will be in Asheville that day, but believe I will be able to get back to Raleigh in time for the dinner. I look forward to being with all of you that evening.

Once again, thank you for extending this invitation. With best wishes and warm personal regards.

Sincerely,

Robert Morgan

Dear Robert:

As you are aware, Naval Reserve Volunteer Training (LAW) 0708 and its predecessor Unit, Naval Reserve Law Company 6-1, has for a number of years had a no drill credit reception and dinner with appropriate presentations for its members, former members and distinguished guests and their spouses. Traditionally this affair has been held immediately preceding the Christmas Season.

On behalf of the Naval Reserve Volunteer Training Unit (LAW) 0708, I cordially invite you and Katy to be our guests at the reception and dinner to be held at the Carolina Country Club in Raleigh, North Carolina on Saturday 1 December 1979. The usual schedule is for the reception to commence at 1830 followed by dinner and special presentations at 2000.

This invitation is sent far in advance of the event in the hope that you can arrange your busy schedule so that you can attend.

My term as Commanding Officer expires 30 September 1979 and it is expected that Commander John B. Lewis, Jr. of Farmville will be designated as my relief. As detailed plans are formulated you will be advised by either me or Jack as to the final schedule of events and other information.

Among the other distinguished guests who have accepted are: Admirals Charles E. McDowell and Penrose L. Albright and Captain Edwin R. Fink, the Judge Advocate General of the Navy, Director of Naval Reserve Law Programs and Director of JAG Reserve Officer Personnel, respectively of the Washington, D.C. area, Admiral William J. Gilmore, Commander of Naval Reserve Readiness Command Region Seven of Charleston, South Carolina and Admiral H. B. Robertson, Jr., Retired Judge Advocate General of the Navy and now professor of law at Duke University Law School. Others who have been or will be invited are: Admirals William O. Miller and Hugh H. Howell, Jr., Retired Judge Advocate General of the Navy and Director of Naval Reserve Law Programs, respectively, of Atlanta, Captain M. F. Fasanaro, Officer in Charge of the Naval Legal Services Office at the Naval Base in Norfolk, Virginia and several members of Admiral Gilmore's staff.

Honorable Robert Morgan

We all hope that you and Katy can join us for this occasion this year.

Very respectfully,

Z. Creighton Brinson
CAPT (Sel), JAGC, USNR-R
