SGA survey reveals student tendencies

By JIM ELLIOTT
Senior Editor

Editor's Note: This is the first of four articles concerning the results of a Student Government funded survey completed last Spring.

Females at this University are on the average smarter and thriftier than their male counterparts.

These and other statistics were the conclusions of a survey submitted to the Student Government Association in May that examined academics, attitudes and involvement of the student population at ECU. Titled "Student Opinion Survey," the report was prepared under the direction of Dr. Young-dahl Song with the assistance of Randy Doub, Jim Kyle and John Kellogg—all associated with the Political Science Department.

The survey was based upon information collected almost exclusively from questionnaires sent in December 1975, to 1,499 randomly selected students. The survey committee received 599 completed questionnaires that were usable.

A slightly higher percentage of females and upperclasspersons responded to the questionnaires. But, according to the researchers, there were less than two percentage points difference between the sample and the actual student body in terms of tuition status and housing status.

The report is divided into five chapters. The first deals with the research method employed and a justification for its use in the survey. The second chapter gives a profile of the ECU student body based on the survey. Chapter III is concerned with educational issues and attitudes—such as the desire to obtain a college education; reasons for coming to ECU; opinions on professors, course requirements, major fields of study, and finally how satisfied students are with regard to the education they receive from ECU in general and from various schools and departments in particular. The fourth chapter explores student opinion of their campus government and voting habits of students. Chapter V deals with some of the current issues on campus.

In Chapter II the survey describes the student body which ranges in age from 17 to 48. Of these, the majority, 84.5 per cent are between the ages of 18 and 22.

In terms of domicile while attending ECU 49.4 per cent of the students live in dorms, 38.4 per cent are day students living off campus and 12.2 per cent are commuters.

The greatest portion, 84.5 per cent of the students have never been married.

Overall, 12.3 per cent of the students are from outside the

Title IX strikes Homecoming

By BRENDA NORRIS
Staff Writer

According to the Homecoming Steering Committee, this year's Homecoming Queen may be a male.

Barry Robinson, Student Union President, said the phrase "Homecoming Queen" is in violation of Title IX.

Title IX is HEW's attempt to put an end to discrimination of the sexes.

The Steering Committee voted to term the position "Homecoming Pirate".

According to Dr. Dave

Stevens, co-ordinator of campus organizations, trying to comply with Title IX, "pirate" does not connote either male or female.

Any campus organization submitting a contestant should contact Bobby Harrill at the Kappa Sigma house.

Voting for "Homecoming Pirate" will be October 25-29th in the lobby of the old Student Union.

There will be a Homecoming Court consisting of the eight finalists and the winning "Pirate" will be announced during halftime of the Western Carolina football game.

ELECTION RESULTS

Results of the SGA elections will not be official until Thursday afternoon, according to Tim Sullivan.

As of Wednesday night, only the results of the referendums were available.

According to Ray Hudson, only one of the referendums failed.

TWO DAY voting period sets precedent.

Editor's Note: Some candidates were elected to more than one Student Government office according to last night's ballot count. These persons must be notified and allowed to choose which office they will serve in before the results can be officialized.

The students listed as winners below ran unopposed and are not official winners.

Class Officers

Sophomore President	Valerie Chaffin
Junior President	Craig Hales
Senior Vice-President	Kathy Mysinski

Dorm Legislators

Greene Dorm	Kathy Poe
Fleming Dorm	Jane Biddix
Cotten Dorm	Libby Lefler
Jarvis Dorm	Tina Padilla
Fletcher Dorm	Caroline Blackwell
Belk Dorm	John Bauer
Garrett Dorm	Tammy DeJaager
White Dorm	Denise Violette Anne O'Brien
Scott Dorm	Greg Boykin Jerry Cox

Referendums

Students voted in favor of having the Student Union President elected yearly in a campus-wide election. The president will remain separate from the SGA.

According to Hudson, students also voted in favor of the SGA President voting for the use of reserve funds for Ficklen's enlargement.

The majority of the students voted in favor of petitioning the N.C. Department of Transportation for a pedestrian overpass at the corner of 10th Street and College Hill Drive. Voters failed to support the proposed SGA Constitution.

Students receive financial aid

By DENNIS W. FOSTER
Staff Writer

ECU students received $2,184,857 in financial aid for the 1975-76 school year, according to Robert Bordeaux, financial aid officer.

$1,150,000 was received in federal grants, BEOG and the Supplemental Educational Opportunity Grant; $60 thousand was received from the student stores' profits and $125 thousand from tuitions, according to Bordeaux.

The remainder of the funds is distributed through loan and work-study programs, according to the report.

The Sara E. Clements Emergency Loan program is available to all full-time students. Students may receive up to $250 on a temporary basis. This loan must be paid in full during the quarter in which it is obtained.

A portion of student stores' profits go to the Athletic Dept.

"Years ago the Board of Trustees earmarked $5 thousand from the Student Stores for the financial aid of minor sports. This is all the Athletic Department has ever received of these funds," Bordeaux said.

Survey

North Carolina, 28.2 per cent are from rural areas, 39.7 per cent are from cities with populations between 5,000 and 50,000. Seven per cent of the students come from cities with more than 50,000 persons.

"In spite of the talk about 'gradeflation' at many universities in the country, there is no evidence of that phenomenon at ECU," according to the survey.

Trustees' actions promote degrees

The academic program at this University received a hardy boost Wednesday at the Fall meeting of the ECU Board of Trustees, the first of three scheduled for this school year.

The Trustees approved the addition of a Master of Science program in Environmental Health. As part of the curriculum this will give East Carolina the only post graduate environmental health program in the region.

Eastern North Carolina has been and will continue to experience increasing agricultural and industrial development. With this new program ECU will be able to train needed technicians to help protect the delicate balance of nature found in a coastal region.

The Trustees also passed without dissension a resolution to seek inclusion of a Masters program in Social Work in the university's curriculum. This program is not specifically authorized by the UNC Board of Governors' Five Year Plan for ECU but could be authorized by amendment. It should be vigorously pursued.

In addition, the Trustees voted to adopt six year programs in Music and Biology.

"Unbelievable Support!"

Do it now!

Students will have to eat their words when they claim a lack of representation at this university. When it comes to course and professor evaluations, course scheduling, and even what plants will be planted where on campus as well as many other regularly made decisions we have no one to blame but ourselves for lack of a voice in them.

Several committees on the Faculty Senate which provide for a student representative are acting without our input. All that is needed is a little concern by a few students for the welfare of all students.

So for the sake of us all, get involved. Contact Tim McLeod, SGA secretary for academic affairs. His office is on second floor of Mendenhall Student Center. Do it now!

The Forum Give grass a chance

To Fountainhead:

I would like to reply to Raymond Neal Linville's (Pres. of S.H.I.T.) letter concerning protection of shrubbery around the campus and his opposition to it (Sept. 21 issue).

There's quite a big of difference between playing on grass and enjoying it vs. killing it in order to get from one point to the next faster. This applies to trees, flowers, and shrubs as well. Even though sidewalks are not put in the most convenient places, people ought to use them in consideration for what greenery and natural beauty there is still left around here. Look at all the dirt and mud paths people have made on campus, ruining potential beauty of many areas. The consequence of this is either more sidewalks or roped areas. Take your pick. Eventually, concrete will cover the whole campus as it does already in many big city colleges. Trees will be in pots!

Enjoy your freedom Mr. Linville, at the expense of Mama Nature!

Playing the numbers game

To Fountainhead:

I'd like to know what's this jazz about a computer that will have a number for each person on earth? From what I hear the number is an account number; one works for the government, they keep all the wages, they pay for all that you need. You pay for goods and services buy showing the money man a number that has been stamped on your (or yurr) hand. Those not wanting to be stamped nor work for the government do not get a USNB 24 card and must get along on their own.

I ask the heads of the Fountain what they think about this topic.

Econ 111, 112 need commercials

To Fountainhead:

Why are Economics classes 111 and 112 taught on television? Why doesn't the Economics Dept. let the proctors teach the class? Having to sit in front of a television set for 50 minutes is extremely boring. Especially since there are no commercials. I have studied my class over a period of a week. During the period only two people had the will power to stay awake all class long. I feel the students would enjoy the classes more, if that's possible, by letting the graduate student teach and let the professors help them if they have any questions. I wish the Economics Dept. will answer this letter so the students will know why they are forced to learn from a TV.

Pledges big in Ficklen expansion fund drive

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Co-News Editor

The Ficklen Stadium Fund Drive has been pledged $300 thousand, ECU Chancellor Leo Jenkins announced at the Board of Trustees meeting Wednesday.

The fund drive officially begins Friday, Oct. 1.

According to Jenkins, the pledges came from local businessmen, alumni and five board members.

Jenkins said he was pleased with the enthusiasm surrounding the stadium expansion.

In other business, Vice-chancellor C.G. Moore reported that the Greenville City Council had passed resolution asking for a 50-foot right-of-way, extending into the north parking lot of Ficklen Stadium.

Moore said the school spent $40,000 this summer in leveling and re-seeding the fields.

Greg Pingston, SGA vice-president asked for the board's support of the proposed Greenville bikeway.

According to the resolution, Sanford Drive would cut across a third of the intramural field.

Pingston said the city and SGA are trying to get a Bureau of Outdoor Recreation grant which required that "property must be allocated to the controlling agency."

According to Pingston, there is still land to be acquired from the railroad and homeowners.

"This would be a 50-50 type grant, with the city and the SGA splitting their 50 per cent," said Pingston.

The proposed bikeway would provide easy access to Minges and the Allied Health building for students, said Pingston.

A committee was appointed to work in conjunction with the Board of Trustees' property committee and the SGA.

Miller announces Pick-Em-Up winner

By JACK LAIL
Staff Writer

Winners of the ECU spring 1975 'Miller-Pic-Em-Up' contest were announced this week.

"Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity won a Panasonic Quad stereo for their first place victory with 9,215 points in the fraternity division," said Greg Grauel, ECU Miller representative. Phi Kappa Tau was the only entry in the category.

"Alpha Xi Delta sorority racked up 11,904 pts. to capture first place and a $500 prize in the open division."

There were two second place winners in the open division. Sigma Sigma Sigma sorority 9,314 pts. won a microwave oven and Kappa Delta sorority 4,570 pts. won a Magnavox FM/AM tape player. The two third place winners were Clement Dorm 3,809 pts., winning a tent and White Dorm winning an electric grill.

A pound of Miller bottles counted one point, a pound of Miller cans earned 30 points, and a keg sticker counted 50 points.

"This fall the 'Pic-Up' is not being held at ECU but it may resume in the spring," said Grauel.

Two 'Pic-Ups' a year have been held since 1973, with six prizes awarded. Phi Kappa Tau social fraternity has the most wins according to Grauel.

"In 1973 ECU came in first in the nation in point totals," said Grauel. "The 'Pic-Up' is now held on 85 campuses."

Miller offers other things for any campus related activity, such as films trophies, banners and beer, according to Grauel.

Any group interested in further information can contact Greg Grauel, 758-5963.

"Miller plans to sponsor a bike race this spring at ECU," said Grauel. "There will be a student race and then a professional race."

The "Pic-Up" and other activities are sponsored through C. O. Tankard Co., Washington, N.C.

DIVISION OF CONTINUING EDUCATION

Non-Credit Course Program - Fall, 1976

BASIC GUITAR (10)
Mon., Oct. 4 - Dec. 13 7:30 - 9:00 p.m. 10 sessions

This course is designed as a classical approach to the development of basic guitar technique. Instruction will be concerned with: the instrument—its parts and care, tuning and various playing positions, graduated exercises and practice studies beginning with the open strings, and different hand techniques leading to intermediate-level pieces. Included with the classical guitar style will be an introduction to the folkfinger style. Students will learn basic chord progressions and diagrams in familiar tunes and the reading of guitar tablature.

Applicants should be at least 16 years old. Please contact the Continuing Education office for information about guitar rental arrangements.

Instructor: Mr. Mike Thompson, a graduate student in the ECU School of Music. He received the B.M. degree in Classical Guitar Performance from UNC-Chapel Hill, and has studied with Jesus Silva of the N.C. School of the Arts. Mr. Thompson was also a first prize winner in the 1974 Union Grove guitar competition.

Class Location: Room 269, A. J. Fletcher Music Center.
Tuition: $35.00

SCRUGGS-STYLE BANJO PICKIN' (10)
Wed., Oct. 13 - Dec. 8 7:30 - 9:00 p.m. 8 sessions

Seventy-five or a hundred years ago, the five-string banjo was played by thousands of people; but, by 1940 our national instrument had lost its popularity. The uniquely-American folk art of the five-string banjo was preserved and returned to popularity in the late 40's by musicians in the Appalachian Mountains and the Carolinas, people like Earl Scruggs.

This course will give music lovers of today a chance to learn to play finger-style bluegrass banjo. Emphasis will focus on a brief history of the five-string banjo, its parts and care, use of finger picks, various tunings, chord positions, the reading of tablature and exercises in picking. Students will learn to play several popular Scruggs tunes (Cripple Creek, Cumberland Gap, Foggy Mountain Breakdown), and will gain a basis ability necessary for further personal development in banjo playing.

Applicants should be at least 16 years old. Information about instrument rental is available from the Office of Non-Credit Programs.

Instructor: Mr. Mike Thompson, a graduate student in the ECU School of Music. Mike has been playing and teaching banjo for a number of years and is the featured banjo player with a bluegrass band that he recently formed called, "Ground Speed".

Class Location: Room 269, A.J. Fletcher Music Center.
Tuition: $32.00

PIANO FOR BEGINNERS (9)
Tues., Oct. 5 - Dec. 7 7:30 - 9:00 p.m. 10 sessions

Applicants for the beginning piano class should be 16 years of age and over. The course will emphasize note reading, development of sufficient dexterity to perform easier piano repertoire, and the understanding and use of chords. Individual student interests will also help determine course content.

Each student will be assigned a separate instrument during the group instruction. The group setting will allow the ideal combination of individual attention plus the advantages of class participation. Students will have access to pianos for practice between sessions.

This course is for the person seriously interested in learning to play piano and willing to practice regularly between sessions.

Instructor: Dr. Richard Lucht, a member of the ECU Piano faculty. He is known on state and national levels for workshops and seminars in his specialized field of group piano instruction and piano pedagogy.

Class Location: Room 374, A. J. Fletcher Music Center.
Tuition: $45.00

PHOTOGRAPHY (18)
Tues., Oct. 5 - Nov. 23 7:00 - 10:00 p.m. 8 sessions

Designed for beginners who want to learn to take good pictures, this course will cover such topics as: the four basic types to cameras and how they're used; basic principles of lenses; the elements of design and composition; and simple lighting techniques. No darkroom work will be required, and any still camera will be sufficient. While studying photography as a process and as an art form, students will have the opportunity to take pictures to be critiqued by the instructor.

Instructor: Mr. Bob Rasch, Associate Professor and Chairman, Communication Arts Department of the East Carolina University School of Art.

Class Location: Room 1019, Leo W. Jenkins Fine Arts Center.
Tuition: $35.00

THE ART OF REFINISHING FURNITURE (20)
Mon., Oct. 18 - Nov. 22 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. 6 sessions

Refinishing of woods and metals can be an enjoyable and personally rewarding pastime. Class sessions will proceed from a brief discussion of the history of furniture to students actually working step-by-step on the refinishing of a piece of furniture (supplied by the student). Instruction and demonstrations will cover: identification of woods, use of different tools, stripping the old finish, preparing and finishing the surface, and working with gold leaf. The sixth and final session will be devoted to metals—identification, refinishing and preserving.

Instructor: Mr. Jeffrey Verheyen, Instructor of Interior Design with the East Carolina University School of Art.

Class Location: Room 229, Leo W. Jenkins Fine Arts Center.

Tuition: $25.00

PRACTICAL ORAL COMMUNICATIONS (20)
Thurs., Oct. 14 - Dec. 9 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. 8 sessions

This course has simple objectives: to develop the skills, confidence and ability to present your ideas to others. If you are involved in civic, business, church or social organizations, you are involved in speech. You need the power of the spoken word to make your ideas clear and convincing to others. You need the assurance that will help you make the most of your speaking opportunities, not cause you to shrink from them.

Just a few of the questions this useful short course will answer are: How do I overcome my fear of getting up before an audience? What makes a speech or demonstration interesting to people? How can I be sure people understand me? How can I get an audience to accept my ideas?

These and many other questions will be answered, and personal guidance plus supervised speaking experiences will be provided. "Practical Oral Communications" is more than a speech course... it is a growth experience in the most important area of our relationship with others—communication.

Instructor: James L. Rees, has taught speech communications at East Carolina University for ten years. Prior to his tenure at ECU, he taught speech at Syracuse University, and has served as a communications consultant for business, educational, and civic organizations.

Class Location: Room 101, Rawl Building
Tuition: $22.00

BEHAVIOR IN ORGANIZATIONS: EMPLOYER/EMPLOYEE RELATIONSHIPS (30)

Mon., Oct. 18 - Dec. 13 7:00 - 10:00 p.m. 8 sessions

In dealing with interpersonal relationships in an organizational setting, this course will begin with such basic psychological concepts as perception, attitudes and motivation. Knowledge of these concepts will help students from various organizational backgrounds gain a better understanding of the self-concept of an individual. Study will then focus on groups—the formal and informal organization—and the individual's position in both.

Following will be an examination of supervision and leadership styles and how the supervisor affects his peers, his superiors, and his subordinates. Finally, students will learn about leadership and basic elements of effective supervision.

Instructor: Mrs. Betty Grossnickle, who has served for several years in personnel administration with Hanes Corporation and now is an educator and consultant.

Class Location: Room 103, Speight Building
Tuition: $30.00

FUNDAMENTALS OF REAL ESTATE (30)

Tues., Oct. 5 - Jan. 18 7:00 - 10:00 p.m. 15 sessions

This course is designed to provide both the beginner and real estate practitioner with a basic knowledge of real estate law, finance, math, brokerage (including transactions and ownership), appraising, and the mechanics of closing. In addition to helping students understand real estate fundamentals, the course will assist them in preparing for the N.C. Real Estate Licensing Examination.

Since the course is approved by the Real Estate Licensing Board, students satisfactorily completing it are allowed to take the brokerage or salesman's licensing examination.

Instructor: Mr. James Stainback, President of Hill Realty Company, Kinston. He is a graduate of the Realtors Institute and a member of several professional real estate associations.

REQUIRED TEXT: North Carolina Real Estate for Brokers and Salesmen by Webster (copies will be sold at the first class session for approximately $10.00 each.)

Class Location: Room 101, Rawl Building.
Tuition: $45.00

WRITTEN COMMUNICATIONS (25)
Thurs., Oct. 14 - Nov. 18 7:00 - 10:00 p.m. 6 sessions

A practical writing course, involving study and practice, for persons whose work requires them to be clear, correct, tactful and persuasive in written communications. The student will have an exposure to the uses and formats of letters, including applications and vita sheets, memoranda, reports and other sources of written communications.

Instructor: Dr. Keats Sparrow, East Carolina University English Professor. Dr. Sparrow has written numerous articles on language and literature and was the director of the Technical Writing Program at the University of Kentucky.

Class Location: Room 202, Austin Building.
Tuition: $25.00

SPEED READING (30)
Thurs., Oct. 7 - Dec. 16 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. 10 sessions

Serious students will have an opportunity to at least double their reading rates while improving comprehension. Poor reading habits such as vocalization, sub-vocalization, word by word reading, and regression will be gradually replaced by the practice of good reading habits.

Use of the tachistoscope, an eye training machine, will improve eye movements, broaden the span of visual recognition, increase speed and accuracy of perception, and develop skills of concentration. Use of another machine, the controlled reader, will replace word for word reading with increasingly longer phrase reading, develop "thought unit" reading, "idea" reading, and gently force the reader to increase speed daily. Three workbooks will assist in developing speed and concentration, expanding vocabulary and developing the skills necessary to further develop speed and comprehension after the course is over. These books are included in the course registration fee.

Instructor: Mr. Homer Yearick, Associate Professor in the Department of Social Work and Correctional Services, School of Allied Health and Social Professions. Mr. Yearick has had several years experience in teaching speed reading to college students and members of the business community.

Class Location: Room 108, Carol G. Belk Building
Tuition: $42.00 (includes $14.00 for textbooks)

PREPARATION FOR PARENTHOOD
Wed., Oct. 6 - Nov. 17 7:30 - 9:30 p.m. 7 sessions

Young couples thinking about starting a family or perhaps in the early stages of parenthood should find this course of great value. The course is designed for both husband and wife who desire an understanding of the maternity cycle, the newborn and his care, and increased confidence in the role of being a parent. Instruction will be provided to promote skills and achieve optimum conditions for labor and delivery. Hospital routines and procedures will be discussed, along with information on characteristics of the newborn, home preparation, and infant care and development through the first year. Course material will be presented through lectures, discussions, demonstrations and practice sessions. Pre-registration is recommended but not required for this course.

The course will be taught by junior level students of obstetrical nursing under the direction of Lona Ratcliffe and Hazel Browning, R.N., of the School of Nursing, ECU.

Class Location: Room 101, Nursing Building.
Tuition: $13.00 per person or $17.00 per couple

BASIC SCUBA CERTIFICATION (20)
Tues. & Thurs., Oct. 7 - Nov. 2 7:30 - 10:30 p.m. 8 sessions
This course is designed to prepare persons who enjoy water sports to become safe, competent, well-informed divers. Students will be trained to react favorably to both normal and adverse conditions on the surface and under water.
The first session will be an introductory session during which a swimming test will be administered, medical forms will be distributed, and course objectives will be outlined. All class dives will take place in the Minges diving tank except for three* (additional) open-water checks which will be scheduled with the instructor after the eighth class session. These deep dive checks are generally held off Radio Island, Morehead City, N. C.
Each student must have his own flippers, mask and snorkel. The remainder of the equipment, including air, may be obtained from the instructor for $32.50 for the course duration.
Instructor: Mr. Robert Eastep. He has taught the Los Angeles County Certification Program for several years and is recognized as one of the outstanding SCUBA instructors in the Southeast.
Class Location: Room 145, Minges Coliseum.
Tuition: $42.00

ADVANCED SCUBA CERTIFICATION (20)
Wed., Oct. 27 - Nov. 10 7:30 - 10:30 p.m., three week-night sessions; and Saturdays (or Sundays, depending on class preference), five week-end sessions.
ADVANCED SCUBA CERTIFICATION is designed to offer well supervised extensive training beyond the level of the BASIC SCUBA CERTIFICATION course or any other such basic program. This course should be of interest to divers interested in adapting their skills to the waters of Eastern North Carolina.
The first three sessions of the course will consist of lectures and a pool SCUBA test, with the remaining five sessions consisting of open water dives (river, sound, and ocean dives). The open water sessions will be held on either Saturdays or Sundays, depending on class preference as to days and times.
Students must provide their own SCUBA equipment and must come fully equipped (including wet suit and gloves, B.C., tanks and regulator, extra weight, mask, snorkel and fins) for the first class session, and show proof of a basic certification. Boat transportation for three ocean sessions will be available at an additional cost of $10.00 per student, per session; or, a student may wish to provide his own boat or team up with a classmate with a boat suitable for ocean work.
Instructor: This course will also be taught by Bob Eastep (see Basic SCUBA). It is approved for certification by The Professional Association of Diving Instructors (PADI) and The Los Angeles County Underwater Instructors Association.
Class Location: Room 144, Minges Coliseum.
Tuition: $37.00

Would you believe...

A Little social variety

By PAT COYLE
Trends Editor

It hasn't been my habit in the past to divide this highly respected journalistic forum into a two-part discussion, but in view of the fact that there are two highly important social subjects on my mind, I decided to break with tradition.

WHAT'S IN A ROLE?

While I was downtown last Saturday night, I became involved in a discussion, the point of which was both valid and thought-provoking.

The topic was the long-accepted belief that, in normal situations (at the Jolly Roger, on campus, in the back of a Greyhound bus) it is the man who takes the prerogative in picking up.

Since the beginning of time, all decent girls knew that it is their role to be demure, introverted, like a flower waiting to be picked, when it comes to meeting men.

Likewise, boys came into manhood filled with fear and awe at the responsibility society has put on their shoulders; the responsibility to "make time" with ladies.

So it was, during my downtown discussion, that several of us, both male and female, asked why this should be so. Why should men have all of the hassle when it comes to the meeting of the sexes? Why also, should men have the right to pick and choose, while women are forced to take pot luck?

In answer to this question, one friend hypothesized that men would feel threatened if the women started making moves on them. To this I say, BAA!

In my encounters over the years, I have met both men and women who were shy, but the men far outnumbered the women. There's nothing sadder than a 32-year old man who turns red if he's in the same room with a member of the opposite sex.

Now all of this pain and embarrassment could have been avoided if only some normal, decent girl had taken the first step with him way back in '62. His whole life could've been different.

Many of you women might wonder what kind of nerve it would take to even consider walking up to some perfect male stranger and start a conversation.

Well the key to the whole thing is the idea of a "perfect male stranger". Look at it this way girls, how many times have you seen a male person who was, without a doubt, exactly your type, standing alone while some first class turkey was making time with you?

So you see, a little well-timed role-changing could serve not only to liberate the shy male, it could also make life a lot more interesting for girls who are tired of being surrounded by male nerds.

THE OTHER SIDE OF THE TRACKS

While we're discussing the possibility of change in one's social life, I think it is pertinent to share another experience I had last weekend.

It happened late Friday night when, after a short, dull trip downtown, several friends of mine invited me to go with them to another of Greenville's nightspots - Louie's Lounge.

In case you don't know, Louie's is an establishment on Tenth Street. Nestled in the midst of service stations, used-car lots, and tobacco warehouses, Louie's is one of the local bastions of the country music culture.

Anyway, my friends were quick to explain that it wouldn't really be a pleasure trip - that they simply had to deliver a message to someone.

It all sounded harmless enough, we would walk down to Louie's, leave the message, then depart as inconspicuously as possible.

The walk over made us extremely thirsty, so we decided that one quick brew wouldn't hurt.

As we opened the door, we were jarred by a blaring juke box playing last year's disco sound. We walked in and were amazed to see couples doing the bump.

We went through our first beers and then a couple more, fascinated by the activity around us.

Some people looked at us with curiosity, as our jeans and plain hair set us apart from the painted ladies. But, for the most part, we were allowed to blend into the scene.

I was disappointed that there was no country music playing, but the disco-lover's songs soon ended and Nashville came to stay.

The arrival of country music turned Louie's into the CandW haven it's reputed to be. I could almost imagine Charlie Rich and Loretta Lynn were sitting at the table next to ours.

We finally left, without incident (except for the old man who followed us to Krispy-Kreme).

My impression of Louie's is that there's nothing wrong with an occasional change of pace, and that no one will laugh at you if they see you going there.

Oh, by the way, you can borrow my fake nose, dark glasses, and wig if you want. I won't be needing them anytime soon.

Union Black Arts Festival offers variety of programs

The various committees at the Student Union have collaborated on the 1976-77 Black Arts Cultural Festival, to be kicked off Sunday night at Mendenhall Theater.

GOSPEL MUSIC FESTIVAL PLANNED

A gospel music festival has been planned as part of the festival. Stated for Sunday, October 3 at 6:00 P.M., the program will be held in Mendenhall Student Center Theatre under the sponsorship of the Student Union Minority Arts Committee. No admission will be charged and the public is encouraged to attend.

Music has always been a vital part of the Black experience, especially religious music. Even from the days of slavery, the Negro Spirituals were used to communicate messages and to inspire hope.

Performing in the festival will be four outstanding area musical groups who will offer selections covering basically the entire range from the Spiritual to "rock gospel" such as that popularized by such artists as Clara Ward, The Staple Singers, and The Edwin Hawkins Singers.

Appearing on the program will be the Andrew A. Best Chorale of Greenville, The Interdenominational Choir of Farmville, The Carrie Harrison Singers of Roanoke Rapids, and The Revelation Singers of Goldsboro.

The Andrew A. Best Chorale is under the direction of Johnny Wooten. Organized in 1975, the group has released two albums.

The Interdenominational Choir is under the direction of Mary Streeter and Dollie Brown. The group has toured widely throughout North Carolina spreading the gospel in joyous song.

The Carrie Harrison Singers originated in the Halifax County area and consist of twenty-five members. Members of the choir came from various churches at which Carrie Harrison was musician.

The Revelation Singers were originated in 1971. The group, which consist of twenty-five members has toured throughout the east coast. Recently their first album "Revelation Plea" was released.

AFRICAN FOODS AND DANCE SYMPOSIUM

Mendenhall Student Center Multi-Purpose Room will be the site of an African Foods and Dance Symposium on Monday, October 4 at 7:30 P.M. The program is being held in conjunction with the Black Arts Cultural Festival.

The symposium will be conducted by Dr. Robert Bunger of the ECU Dept. of Sociology and Anthropology, Mrs. Jo Saunders of the ECU Health and Physical Education Dept., and several African students.

Dr. Bunger will prepare several African dishes and they will be made available for sampling. Other dishes will be prepared by African students who will also give tips on African cooking.

The dance portion of the program will be conducted by Mrs. Saunders. She will demonstrate several dances and then have an audience participation session where members of the audience will be taught various dances.

Tickets will be available at the door on the night of the program and are priced at twenty-five cents.

DISCO JAM VICTORY DANCE

The SOULFULL STRUTTERS one of the state's hottest disco bands will be featured for a victory dance following the ECU-Southern Illinois game on Saturday, October 9. Stated for Wright Auditorium, the dance will begin at 10:00 P.M.

The name SOULFUL STRUTTER suggests the type of energy this group releases during a performance. A young, happy, and zestful love of life is translated into music action by this enthusiastic and highly motivated group. They compose and play their own music, but they also perform chart music by EARTH, WIND, & FIRE, TOWER OF POWER, AVERAGE WHITE BAND, GLADYS KNIGHT, and many other artists on today's scene.

The group hails from Fayetteville and has traveled extensively throughout the United States.

If rhythm is what you want and today's soul turns you on, the the SOULFULL STRUTTERS will deliver. For an unmatched evening of disco entertainment don't forget the SOULFUL STRUTTERS following the ECU-Southern Illinois game.

Tickets for the dance are available from the Central Ticket Office and are priced at $1.00 for ECU students and $2.00 for the public. The program is being sponsored by the Minority Arts Committee of the Student Union.

AN INTERPRETIVE HISTORY OF BLACKS IN AMERICAN FILMS

Donald Bogle, author of the award-winning book Tom, Coons, Mulattoes, Mammies and Bucks, will present a lecture/slide program of an interpretive history of Blacks in American films. Bogle will appear on Tuesday, October 5, at 8:00 P.M. in Mendenhall Student Center Theatre.

Donald Bogle started learning about the movies when he worked as story editor for the film director/producer Otto Preminger. He learned even more researching his book, Toms, Coons, Mulattoes, Mammies and Bucks, the first specifically documented history of the black actor in the American cinema. He's still learning more, "running out to the movies whenever possible".

In his book, Toms, Coons, Mulattoes, Mammies and Bucks [Viking, 1973], he takes a close look at the stereotypes black actors have always been forced to portray, examining film from Edwin S. Porter's 1903 one-reeler, "Uncle Tom's Cabin," through "Birth of a Nation," "Our Gang", "Gone With the Wind", "St. Louis Blues," "Imitation of Life" and "Carmen Jones," to "Dutchman," "The Pawnbroker," "Putney Swope" and "Shaft". He has interviewed a number of old-time black performers and has come up with his own theory about the ways in which blacks have been exploited in American movies--"and also the grand manner in which individual black actors, through their talents and their ingenuity, triumphed over the system to come up with really remarkable and stimulating performances. Blacks have always been stereotyped in movies, but the great actors were able to individualize these roles and make a personal statement."

Among the actors whose roles he examines are Steppin Fetchit, Paul Roberson, Rochester, Buckwheat, Mantan Moreland, Farina, Bill "Bojangles" Robinson, Butterfly McQueen, Hattie McDaniels and Dorothy Dandridge. His discussion also focuses on contemporary actors such as Sidney Poitier, Roscoe Lee Brown and Jim Brown, as well as the current rush of new black films on the scene.

Currently at work on a novel for Bantam Books, Donald Bogle recently presented two popular lecture series on black film history at the Studio Museum in Harlem.

Tickets for the program which is being sponsored by the Minority Arts Committee of the Student Union are priced at $2.00 for the public and are available from the ECU Central Ticket Office. ECU students will be admitted with their ID and activity card, and ECU faculty and staff with their Mendenhall Student Center membership card.

By CHRIS FARREN
Staff Writer

HALL AND OATES "BIGGER THAN BOTH OF US"

After four previous albums of changing styles, producers and labels, Daryl Hall and John Oates in their fifth album, Bigger Than Both of Us on RCA, have apparently settled down to the same formula which brought them national prominence. Utilizing the same musicians, producer and concept as their critically acclaimed fourth album, Hall and Oates have created an album which is as good as their fourth in nearly every category.

Once again Christopher Bond's production and arrangement work is impeccable, and immaculately done. Leland Sklar's bass lines and Jim Gordon's drumming is, as usual, distinctive and unique. The Hall and Oates trademark of intertwining falsetto harmonies has never sounded better, especially in cuts like "Back Together Again" or "Do What You Want, Be What You Are" where Daryl Hall really shows off his vocal talents. Add to that a cameo appearance by the genius of the woodwinds himself, Tom Scott, and one would think this album would have all of the qualities for being great.

However the shortcoming of Bigger Than Both of Us lies not in the mentioned qualities but in a much more basic component part of any album, namely the songwriting. There are no "Sara Smiles" or "She's Gones" on this album. Instead it is filled with nine lack-luster cuts that vary stylistically from slow ballads to off-the-cuff rock n' roll, none of which really generate any great excitement within the listener. The best cuts are probably the soulful "Crazy Eyes" and the bouncy AM tagged single called "Rich Girl". However as we look at the album as a whole it would have to be considered a disappointment, but maybe we were just expecting too much.

AMERICAN FLYER

Looking more like a club for the diverse and unwanted than a musical group, American Flyer, a name meaning nothing to most people, has put out an album that deserves attention. Led by the originator of Pure Prairie League and the writer of that group's hit single "Amie", Craig Fuller's presence is felt throughout the album's twelve cuts. Other members include the original guitar player from Blood Sweat and Tears, Steve Katz, and Eric Kaz who some might recognize as being the author of Linda Ronstadt's knock out "Love Has No Pride."

The album is split up with each member lending a hand in the songwriting, but most of it being handled by Craig Fuller and Eric Kaz. All twelve of the songs are pretty solidly constructed and the production, vocals and instrumentation are terrific. They are aided in their efforts by such musical luminaries as: Larry Carlton on guitar, Rusty Young on pedal steel, Leland Sklar on bass and Byron Berline on fiddle. If there is a pitfall to the songs it would have to be in the lyrics, where eight of the twelve deal with a pitiful love lost theme.

The music on the album is acoustic and very pleasant to listen to. While all the songs are solid the best cuts are probably "Light of Your Love" and "Let Me Down Easy" both of which were written by the team of Fuller and Kaz. These four men who call themselves American Flyer while being from very diverse backgrounds, have put together a quality album. One which I think will greet the public with a most unexpected pleasure.

THE SANFORD TOWNSEND BAND

It has become a common occurrence in today's pop music that we the listener are very often dissatisfied by people who we expect a lot from, probably because we expect so much. On the other hand, when a group puts out their first album we normally have no reason to anticipate either good or bad. In essence we can listen more objectively. Subsequently after objectively listening to the album by the Sanford Townsend Band, it is easy to see that this is going to be a group that we will tend to expect quite a lot from.

While the names might sound unfamiliar to most, these guys are no strangers to the music business. John Townsend has worked very closely with Kenny Loggins in the past year and even collaborated with Loggins on two songs from the Native Sons LP by Loggins and Messina. Ed Sanford is known for his keyboard playing and has done studio work with many big timers.

The album has all of the aspects for being great. John Townsend's vocals are clear and strong as anyone in the business, while the production and arrangements are refreshing and appropriate. All the songs on the album were written as a team by Sanford and Townsend, and they vary quite a bit in style but still contain a controlling aspect which holds them together as being under the Sanford Townsend style. The best cuts are the up tempo "Smoke From a Distant Fire" and "Oriental Gate" a la Loggins and Messina. The band is new, the music is terrific and the sound truly deserves to be heard.

Union sets October 15 as deadline for trips

The nation's bicentennial is quickly coming to a close! Want a way to close out the bicentennial with a bang?

The Travel Committee is giving you an opportunity to visit two of the nation's most historic cities.

For only $59 you can visit the nation's capital--tour historic buildings and see where history has been and continues to be made.

If Washington is not exactly what you had in mind, how about New York City.

For only $69 you can go to the nation's first capital city.

New York has many things to offer--fine dining, Broadway shows, interesting museums and exhibits, plus the Statue of Liberty and Empire State Building.

The dates of both trips are Nov. 24-29. The prices include transportation and accommodations and are based on quad occupancy.

Bill Keyes raps with Pat Dye

Editor's Note: Pat Dye is in his third year as head of the ECU football program. Many expect this to be his best season to date, and possibly the best season in the University's rich football history. Following is a conversation between Coach Dye and FOUNTAINHEAD's Bill Keyes.

FOUNTAINHEAD: Some game at William and Mary, huh?

DYE: We were happy to win it, but that certainly wasn't our best performance. As a matter of fact, that was about the flattest I've seen a team since I've been here. We played with no emotion, no enthusiasm. And that was a reflection on me, our coaching staff, and our senior leadership. You can expect sophomores and freshmen to not be ready to play, but seniors should know what that type of game means.

But a conference win keeps things alive, and some good things came out of that game. Pete Conaty continued his perfect string of PAT's and field goals, and Raymond Jones played a heckuva game and was named offensive Player of the Week in the Southern Conference.

Also, we hope that game has waked us up. We'll be better off knowing we can't take anyone for granted.

FOUNTAINHEAD: You said on TV we haven't been a disciplined team. What are you doing in practice this week to remedy the situation?

DYE: Today (Tuesday) we are having officials on the fields. If the players are penalized by the officials, then we penalize them against the number of yards they receive in penalties. Also, through the media we have appealed to their pride for more discipline and less mistakes.

FOUNTAINHEAD: In August, you praised the team for reporting in the best shape you've ever seen a team report in. Then every time we picked up the papers you were unhappy with the team's progress. Then finally on the week of the first game, you were optimistic. What was going on?

DYE: We've run as much or more this fall than any team we've ever had here, and after a while they were just mentally and physically exhausted. We had scrimmages on the Tuesday and Friday of the week before the first game and we could tell they needed a rest. So we practiced on Saturday morning and gave them that afternoon and Sunday off. But they still looked poor on Monday and Tuesday. I had hoped they'd have a little spring in their walks and a different look in their eyes, but they were still listless and lacked enthusiasm. I chewed the defense out about not going to the ball full speed and I stayed on them pretty good. We started getting a few more folks around the ball.

I thought about it alot and prayed about it on Tuesday night, and we had a team meeting on Wednesday. I was afraid they'd lost their ambition, their desire. We put them under the lights Thursday and had a super practice. We didn't workout on Friday, just had a meeting. I had to take it for granted we were ready to play.

You never know how they'll react, how they'll respond, but they played as perfect a football game as you'll ever see.

The next week against N.C. State we played awful hard but made mistakes. I didn't get all that upset about the fumbles, but the thing we were concerned about was the penalties. Those fifteen-yarders on Madison, Pinkney, Randolph...well, there's no excuse for them. We had 86 yards in penalties and they possibly could have called more than that. At William and Mary, we were guilty of alot of penalties. You can't play like that against a good football team. You'll have no chance.

FOUNTAINHEAD: Do you believe you can build a program at ECU which could win against the best in the country?

DYE: Well, I think it'll take time. But it can be done.

FOUNTAINHEAD: But how can you achieve this by recruiting players the bigger schools don't think can help them?

DYE: How do you account for us beating North Carolina last year with not one player who was offered a scholarship to play there, and beating N.C. State, who offered only three or four of our players scholarships?

FOUNTAINHEAD: How do you account for it?

DYE: Intangibles. (pause) We have a coaching staff that's done an outstanding job working with our players, and the players have been hungry enough to work and sacrifice to reach heights others don't believe they can reach. We have hungry people who believe winning is important enough and are willing to pay the price for success.

Miami of Ohio has been taking players Ohio State didn't want and have had winning football teams for years. But that's because they've been able to get the most out of the players they've signed.

FOUNTAINHEAD: How's your recruiting program set up?

DYE: Comparing our budget with Carolina, State, Duke, Wake Forest, and Virginia Tech, we recruit on less than one-fourth of what they do. But that's alright. We recruit good football players from North Carolina. That's what we've done for the past two years and that's what we'll continue to do.

FOUNTAINHEAD: What kind of game do you expect from the Citadel Saturday night?

DYE: They have alot of class. They're a sound football team offensively, defensively, and in their kicking game. They try to beat you physically. When you stay on the field with them for 60 minutes you know you've been in a heckuva contest. Ask our players what they think about 'em.

Pirates face Bulldogs in key Southern clash

By BILL KEYES
Assistant Sports Editor

Coach Bobby Ross of The Citadel: "Geez, are they (the ECU Pirates) good! Defensively, they are very, very quick. Their speed parallels that of Furman, and we thought Furman had excellent speed. They have more size than Furman and I think their linemen are a little better. Offensively, Mike Weaver is better than ever. They have some excellent running backs. You've got to stop the running game first when you play East Carolina, but you can't overlook the pass. They have proven they can play with just about anyone."

Ross praises the Pirates, but brings in a Bulldog team which is also very highly respected. Offensively, they run a veer option from Pro-I and Slot-I formations with quarterback Marty Crosby giving the football to fullback Felix Hooks or tailback Andrew Johnson when he doesn't run himself. Johnson, out last season with a knee injury, is in fine form and has been running as hard as he did two years ago when he was Player of the Year in the SC.

The passing game is the same as it has been for the past two seasons with flanker Doug Johnson and big tight end Dickie Regan, a three-year starter, returning.

Defensively, the Bulldogs will cause ECU problems from the moment they break the huddle. They use a 6-2 defense, but they never line up the same way twice in a row. That eight man front constantly shifts and stunts. The intelligence of Pirate linemen Clay Burnett, Ricky Bennett, Randy Parrish, Tim Hightower, Wayne Bolt, and Matt Mulholland will be valued and appreciated on Saturday night.

Though they line up with only three deep backs, the Bulldog defense has been more than adequate. They intercepted three passes against Furman, two of which led to scores. Free safety Ralph Ferguson is particularly good, according to ECU assistant linebacker Brian Ruff was second team All-America last year.

The Pirates are going with the same lineups and will use the same offensive and defensive strategies.

Coach Pat Dye: "Saturday night's game with The Citadel will be a jaw-to-jaw, toe-to-toe, skull-bustin' time. Those folks down there know how to play football and how to hit people. I'm worried to death because they are a great team. But at the same time I look forward to it. We don't want any patsy games. We want to play the tough ones and win those. That's when you're good. And I know, based on the last two years against The Citadel, Coach Ross will bring a team in here that will give us everything we could possibly want. It's time to buckle up the chin straps, get in the trenches and go to war. If folks want to see football at its best, then they had better be in Ficklen Stadium this week."

RAYMOND JONES led the Pired with 109 yards in 22 carries against William and Mary and attained Southern Conference offensive player of the week accolades for his performance.

Netters beat Wolfpack

By KURT HICKMAN
Staff Writer

The East Carolina women's tennis team won their second consecutive match of the season by defeating N.C. State, 6-3, Tuesday in Raleigh.

It was a tough win as four of the six singles matches took three sets.

In the singles competition the Lady Pirates outlasted State as Dorcas Sunkel, Cathy Portwood, Leigh Jefferson, Susan Helmer, and Vicky Loose collected victories.

Sunkel fought back to beat Alicia Jones, 2-6, 6-2, 6-4, Portwood defeated Helen Stockinger, 6-3, 6-4, Jefferson outdued Cathy White, 6-7, 6-3, 6-2, Helmer took Margie Acker, 6-2, 6-1, and Loose beat Carol Woodard, 4-6, 6-0, 6-2.

State's only singles victory came as Gloria Allen defeated Marie Stewart, 7-6, 3-6, 4-6.

The doubles matches were also close as State won two of three.

State's Jones and Stockinger defeated Sunkel and Portwood, 8-6, while Allen and Woodard beat Helmer and Loose, 11-10.

The Pirates' doubles win resulted with Jefferson and Karen Clark's 8-5 victory over Acker and White.

"This match was so close yet our girls played tough and pulled it out," stated ECU coach Ellen Warren. "State has a fine team but we displayed a lot of character against them."

This leaves ECU with a 2-1 overall record. They play Friday and Saturday in the Methodist College Invitational at Fayetteville, N.C.

Other teams involved in the tournament will be Methodist, Guilford, UNC-Wilmington, Atlantic Christian, High Point, Pembroke St., and Campbell.

Volleyball team optimistic as season begins

By BRUCE PROCTOR
Staff Writer

Coming off a 6-11 record from last year, volleyball coach Catherine Bolton is optimistic on the team's chances for the upcoming season going into today's opener at Chapel Hill against Appalachian State and North Carolina.

"Last year we lost alot of close matches, so we won't be coming into this year with a big reputation," Bolton said. "We'll be the underdogs, but we will have a good season."

Bolton will be aided by Sheila Cotton and Terry Ward this season.

The team will have the benefit of several experienced sophomores this season to replace graduating seniors from last year.

Fireworks display Saturday

Saturday night will be Bicentennial Night for East Carolina as the Pirates play host to The Citadel in a Southern Conference football game.

Joining the Pirate fans will be 2,000 boy scouts from the Eastern North Carolina Council in cooperation with the "Partners in Scouting" Roundup Program with ECU.

At halftime, there will be a special salute by the Marching Pirate band and a fireworks display. Athletic Director Bill Cain commented on the celebration.

"We decided that we should honor America on its 200th birthday and thought this would be appropriate."

The game itself should be enough to bring in a fullhouse as the Bulldogs bring a 2-1 mark into the contest. Their only loss was to Clemson on a last minute field goal and they defeated previously unbeaten Furman, 17-16, last Saturday.

Gale Kerbaugh is one of the best all-round players on the team, while standing just 5-6. "But Gale has perfect timing and is a tremendous jumper, therefore proving to be an excellent blocker."

Kerbaugh will be joined by two more second-year women, Lori Calverley and Kim Clayton, who will be setting the plays for the spikers.

Charlotte Layton will be seeing alot of action this year. Bolton stated that the senior's spike was looking real good as well as her blocking ability.

Last year's co-recipient of the FOUNTAINHEAD's Athlete-of-the-Year Award, Debbie Freeman, will miss the first few matches with a sprained ankle. Freeman, a junior, shared the honor with all-America football player Jim Bolding.

Other players to see a lot of action will be transfer junior Gay Hines, freshman Linda McClellan, and Rosie Thompson, a sophomore.

The team will be aiming at a strong showing in the state tournament to be held at Duke University in Durham in November.

Bolton sees height as being one of the few problems her team will have to deal with this season, with most teams towering over the Lady Pirates. Carolina has several girls standing 6-1 or taller.

Golfers place fifth

By DAVID ROBEY
Staff Writer

Freshman Heather Jones topped the individual medalist honors but the ECU Women's golf team placed last in a field of seven at the Blue Ridge Ladies Tournament Tuesday in Boone.

Carolina won the team championship with a score of 335, while Duke placed second at 350. Appalachian State finished third with 351, while Wake Forest took fourth at 365. The Lady Pirates scored 385 to place fifth. UNC-Charlotte and Winthrop College failed to have enough team members to compete for team title.

"This was our first collegiate tournament of the year, and although our placement was not high, the experience and learning was most beneficial for the girls,"

Heather Jones won the individual medalist in the tournament with a score of 80 and also bogied the last three holes.

"For her first collegiate tournament, Heather shot extremely well despite the pressure and lack of collegiate experience," McLendon added.

"UNC-Chapel Hill and Duke are favorites for the championship at this point. We're not discouraged with the score, in fact I'm highly pleased with the girls attitudes and their determination to win and improve."

The Lady Pirates will be in action again tomorrow in the Mary Baldwin Golf Tournament in Stanton, Va. said coach Mac McLendon. "Four out of five of our girls had their first collegiate tournament, with three out of five having their first tournament ever."
