Impressed by the 'superior quality'

Trustees chairman praises Faculty Senate

By CINDY BROOME
Assistant News Editor

Troy W. Pate, Jr., chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees, spoke to the Faculty Senate during its meeting Tuesday, which marked the first known time that a Chairman has addressed the Faculty Senate.

Dr. Phil Adler, Chairman of the Faculty, introduced Pate after receiving old business.

Pate said he has been greatly impressed by the superior quality of the faculty, and that their achievements are reflected in the programs and in the high acceptance of ECU graduates in numerous professions.

"Your efforts provide a degree of academic excellence to our programs that we are all very proud of.

"We are fortunate to have over 700 on this faculty who can challenge and inspire our students to seek their full educational potential."

Pate discussed the matter of selecting a successor to Dr. Jenkins.

"As we approach this task, we should think of the major challenges in the years ahead and seek out the most highly qualified person we can find to lead this multi-purpose University which includes a degree-granting Medical School.

"We will solicit candidates from across the nation."

According to Pate, the Board of Governors has delegated the responsibility and authority to establish a selection committee to the Board of Trustees.

The selection committee will be composed of 13 members.

Five members will be appointed from the faculty, five will come from the Board of Trustees, one will be the Student Government Association (SGA) president, another, the Alumni Association president, and another, an at-large member from the alumni.

Pate will serve as chairman of the committee, at the request of President William C. Friday at UNC Chapel Hill.

The committee will make its recommendations to the ECU Board of Trustees, and after approval, two candidates will be submitted to President Friday.

The President will then make a recommendation to the Board of Governors, and upon their approval, the next Chancellor will be named.

Pate asked the Faculty Senate to nominate persons for three of the five faculty positions on the committee. He said he will appoint the remaining two faculty members from at-large nominations.

In other business, Dr. Tom Johnson and Conner Atkeson were elected to serve as UNC Faculty Assembly delegate and alternate, respectively.

Dr. Johnson is a professor in the Health, Physical Education, Recreation and Safety Department.

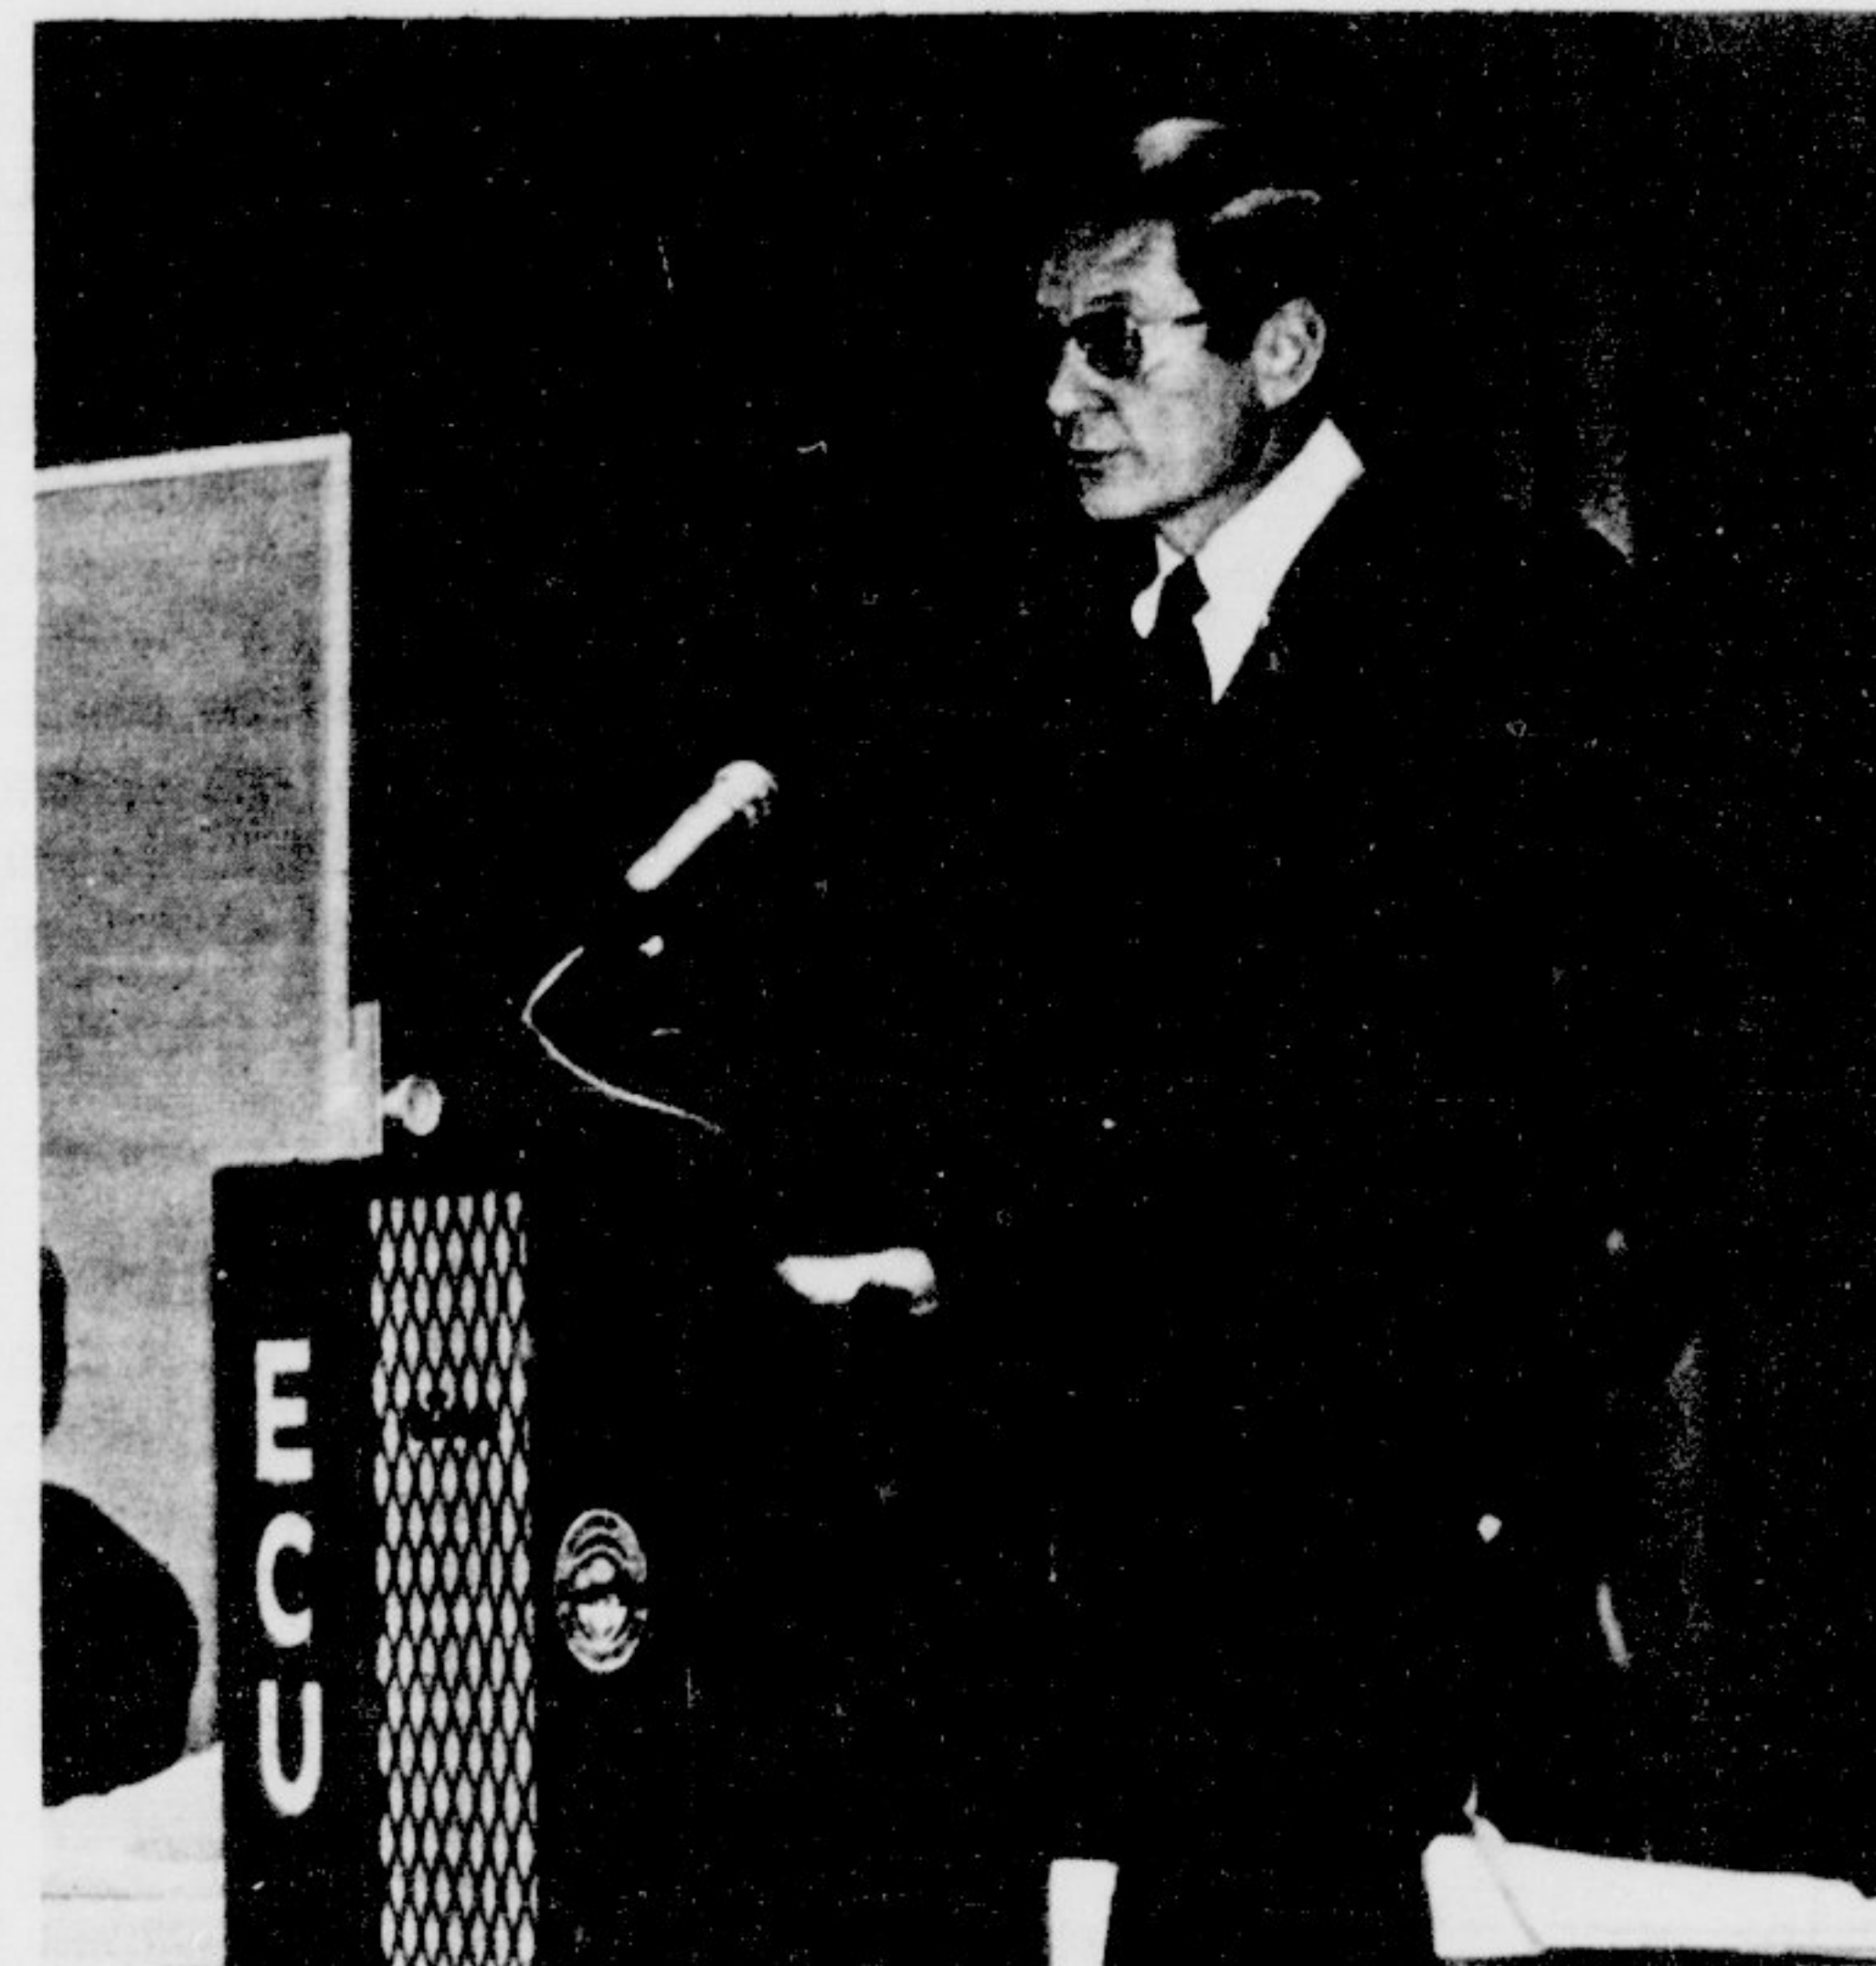

Atkeson is a professor in the history department.

Senate Nominating Committee members were also elected.

They are Ione Ryan, Vernie Saieed, Katharine Hodgkin, Michael Bassman, and Edward Reep.

They will nominate officers for the Faculty Senate for next year.

In other action, the Faculty Senate approved several proposed changes in various departments presented by the University Curriculum Committee.

News editor resigns to seek SGA office

By DEBBIE JACKSON
Co-News Editor

Neil Sessoms, candidate for SGA president, is on leave of absence from his news editorship at FOUNTAINHEAD while seeking SGA office.

"I took a leave of absence the day I filed to run for SGA president to prevent any conflict of interest," said Sessoms.

Concerning publications, Sessoms said he and Reed Warren, vice-presidential candidate, support increased independence.

"This should assure a BUC-CANEER for next year and provide a more effective campus newspaper."

According to Sessoms, increased independence will eliminate the need for a subscription fee for the BUC-CANEER. It could be funded from student fees as in the past, he said.

"We are going to avoid the kind of situation that we had this year," said Sessoms.

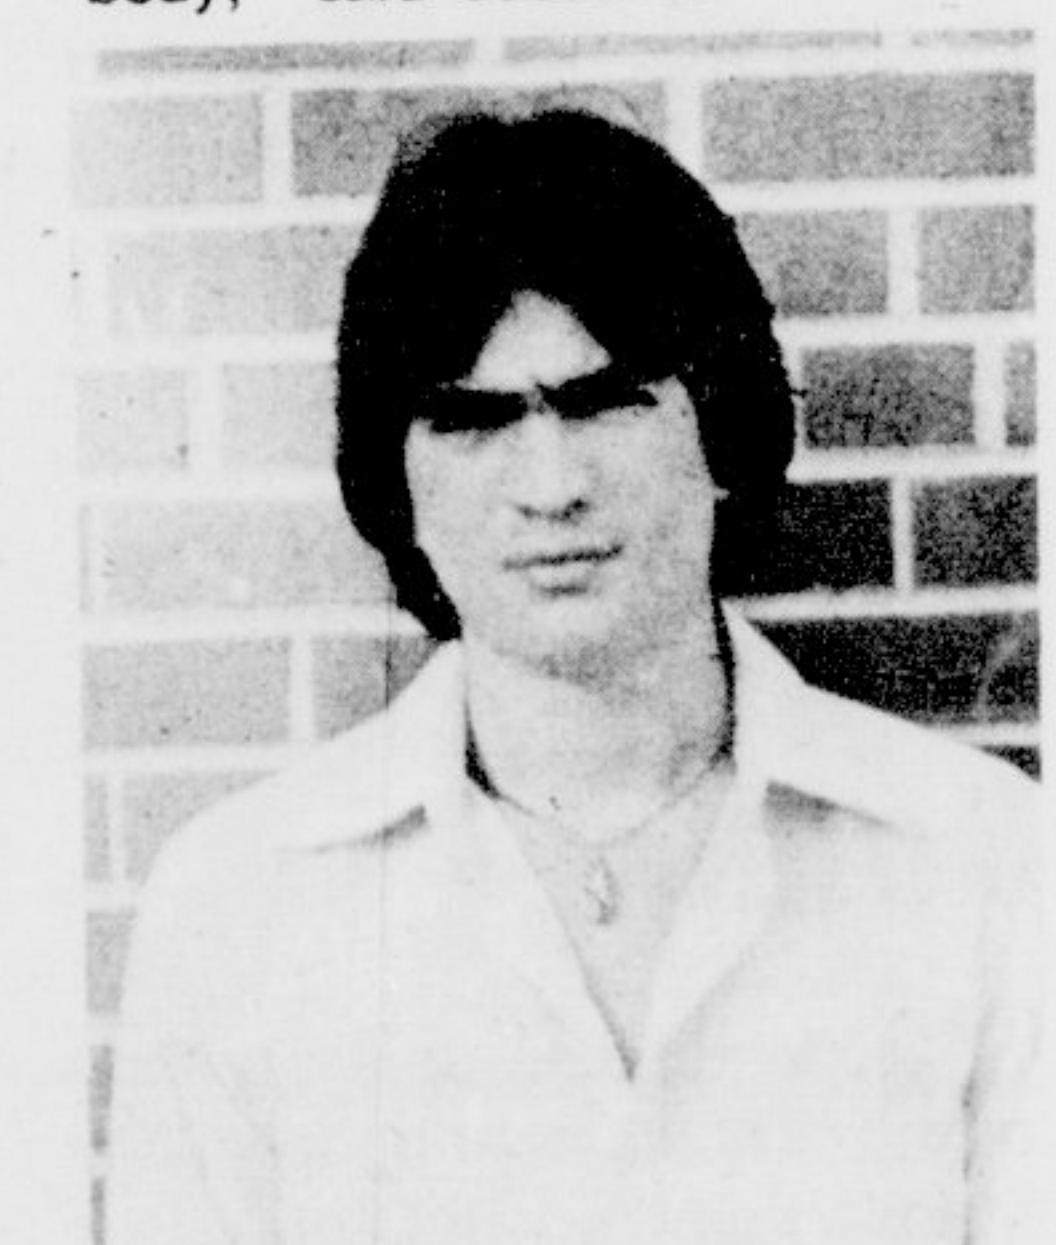

Sessoms said he plans to provide for a lump-sum appropriation to the media board at the beginning of the legislative session.

"Advertising revenue will supplement this appropriation instead of being reverted to the SGA as it has in the past," said Sessoms.

Sessoms said for the press to be an effective check on government it must not be dependent on that government for funding.

"Politics, in the past, have hampered the newspaper's ability to thoroughly inform the student body," said Sessoms.

Sessoms

"I have seen the antagonism between SGA and publications as well as between SGA and other student agencies," said Sessoms.

"The newspaper can and should be a vital link between SGA and the student body," he added.

A SGA presidential candidates' debate will be held Tuesday, March 29, in Brewster building C-103 from 7-9 p. m. sponsored by the Elections Committee. The presidential candidates to debate are Scott Bright, Neil Sessoms, and Tim Sullivan.

Jenkins: senior citizens need involvement

A satisfying life for senior citizens can come through involvement and placing people above all else, Dr. Leo W. Jenkins suggested Monday.

"This is a very appropriate theme for senior citizens-involvement," he said. "The person leads a satisfying life who places people above all else.

"This fights off isolation and loneliness.

"This person knows that human value cannot be measured in terms of productivity, or gauged by the esteem of others. This inner need can only be satisfied by human involvement."

Dr. Jenkins, veteran president and ECU chancellor, spoke to the Carteret County chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons here.

He recalled that some 15 years ago he wrote an article published in the North Carolina Medical Journal about preparing for the late years in life.

"My perspective is not much different now," he said. "In other words, I do not think age depends entirely on years. It depends on health and mental outlook.

"Some men are born old. Some never grow old."

In less than 25 years the number of Americans over 65 years of age will be almost 31 million, Jenkins said.

"This is a great hunk of our society that cannot be allowed to withdraw.

"We are in an emerging new society and those of us here today are very much a part of this future."

Jenkins predicted a so-called "second industrial revolution" which he said "might very well free people's minds and senses in their working world and means age may see a strong friendship between science and religion.

"The scientist will probably see God more clearly, and the theologian will probably look upon science with less suspicion."

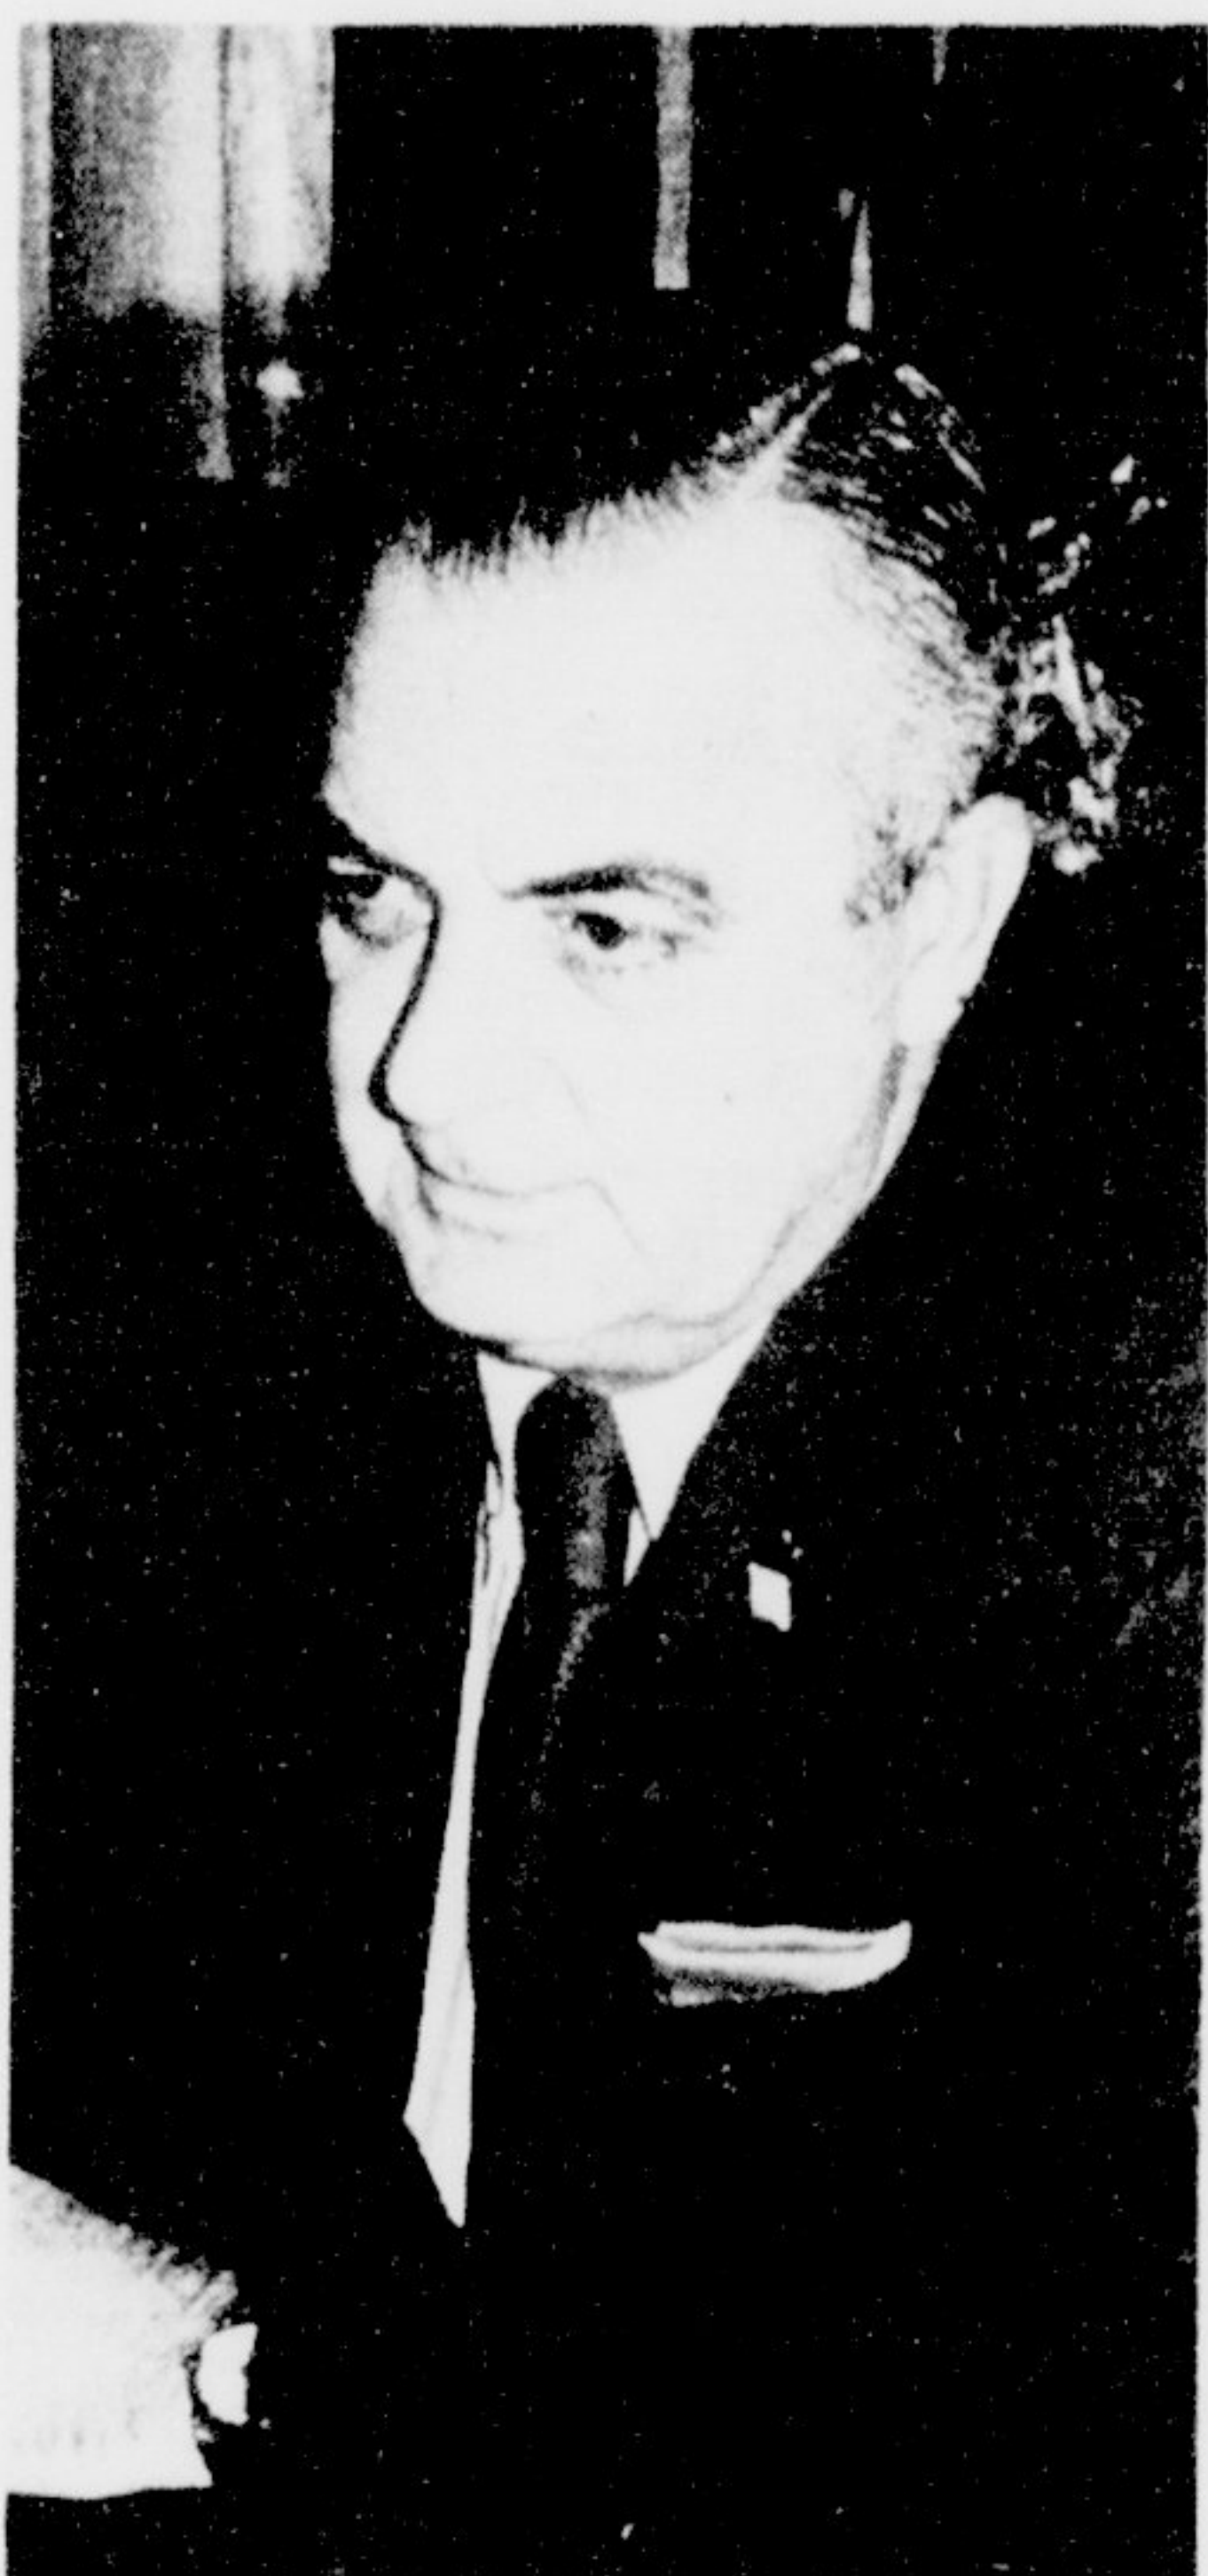

He also warned that senior citizens "are the target for hucksters, confronted by many peddlers seeking their time, their interests or their money." Actually he said, the hucksters are "offering bribes."

The senior citizen, he said, is looking for challenge—challenges to usefulness, to service and to serenity. "This large segment of society should be encouraged to bark often," he said. "You should not sit back and watch various schemes designed to shape your lives.

"We at East Carolina University place great emphasis on the second career potential of thousands and will continue to do so," he said.

He said a second career is "a possibility for many opportunities for further growth," pointing out that only one of every five retired people is employed. With an average of only $600 per month income, these people "could use more financial resources." He said Social Security laws should be amended to encourage people to work longer without penalty of lower benefits.

Jenkins plans for future

With more than a year left in his tenure as ECU Chancellor, Dr. Leo Jenkins has already begun laying the spiritual groundwork for his senior citizenship.

Speaking to the Carteret County chapter of the American Association of Retired Persons Monday, Dr. Jenkins opined involvement as the individual's gladiator against isolation and loneliness.

Dr. Jenkins has lead this University from a glorified teachers' college to a full-fledged institution replete with medical program since his appointment as chancellor. Next year, when Dr. Jenkins reaches mandatory retirement age, he will have served ECU in the top post and the Eastern Carolina Community for 18 years.

Now the venerable academician must prepare for a life without the responsibilities of several hundred faculty members, several thousand students and a yearly budget of several million dollars.

In his speech to the Carteret group, Dr. Jenkins alluded to the possibility of a second career, citing it as an opportunity for further growth.

Doubtless, the indefatigable chancellor will not relegate himself to a rocking chair after retirement. Whatever endeavor he should choose, let us hope the chief administrator of this University maintains close association and relays frequent advice to this rapidly growing institution of learning.

Porno pendulum swings

To a deeply religious or extremely naive person the apocalypse must seem near. The "forces of good" would now appear to be mounting the final attack against the obscene purveyors of pornographic smut.

The presses recently ground to a halt on Larry Flynt's Hustler magazine fueling the optimism of ambitious district attorneys and anti-porn groups around the country. And just this week two bills were introduced in the North Carolina General Assembly which would make it easier to obtain convictions against alleged pornographers.

Despite the obvious scenario, the final battle between good and evil is not on the horizon. The seesawing of society from prudish to progressive may have reached its apogee on the one end and, with the aid of ambitious local officials, will now begin the opposite swing. If so, the forces of a free and open press must be on guard to assure that the perigee is reached long before censorship becomes a reality.

CHOOSING A QUALIFIED CANDIDATE

Pingston offers insight on SGA election

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

Attention: ECU Students

Spring elections are upon us once again, and candidates are beating the bushes to achieve a majority of the twenty percent of students who will actually vote.

This election, however, is quite unique. This is the first time an incumbent President is seeking re-election. This is the first time a Vice President will be running on, and presiding over, the newly created Communications Board. This is also one of the few times that a major office is being sought unopposed - that of Treasurer.

So, overall, this election is shaping up to be highly competitive, and one in which the student body should be greatly interested.

The outcome of these elections will affect the transportation system, the legal service, the overpass problem, the semester system and other services that directly involve you, the students. So get out and vote.

Maybe I can help you by giving an inside viewpoint of how the races for President and Vice President are developing.

Seeking the Presidency are Scott Bright, Tim Sullivan and Neil Sessoms. Scott Bright has been involved in operations of the Buccaneer and was involved in several controversies between himself and the SGA over screenings and also between the BUC and the SGA. Neil Sessoms has worked for FOUNTAINHEAD as News Editor and also has had numerous conflicts with the SGA and also with Tim Sullivan directly. Tim Sullivan is/was SGA President and also has served in the Legislature. His administration has achieved a great deal, but has been marred by numerous conflicts between publications and administrators. To be very blunt, students, there is no love lost between these three. All three are energetic, and seem to have a genuine desire to serve the students. The big difference is technique in implementation of their goals.

The Vice President race is also wide open. Greg Boykin, Tommy Joe Payne, and Reed Warren are vying for this position. Greg Boykin has long been a member of the SGA Legislature, as has Tommy Joe Payne. Both of these gentlemen are good workers and have served the Legislature admirably. Reed Warren served as public defender in the Student Judicial system. He was fired by President Sullivan in the winter of this year. Reed is running with Neil Sessoms in a coalition. This race shapes up as two SGA members and an ex-public defender seeking the number two spot. How much knowledge of the Communications Board these three possess is questionable. Boykin has been the only one of the three to speak with me about the operations of the newly created Communications Board. The power of the Vice President has been greatly increased and a knowledgeable individual will be needed.

That's it as I see it. There are a wide variety of views and issues involved. There are many individuals with contrasting styles. As Vice President this past year I have come in contact with these individuals, some more than others. I have my personal impressions of all these and have related somewhat to these here. I shall endorse none of these, not because I favor none, but because I owe some loyalty to those involved and some loyalty to my position as Vice President and as a student.

I hope these insights will help you understand the race upcoming. I urge all students to vote, to get involved, and to understand the importance of this wild democratic affair. I have enjoyed my term in office and I hope all you students out there have somewhat benefited from my work this year.

Candidate's promises are nothing new

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

I would like to make a few observations about the platform that one candidate for SGA president is running on.

The candidate is our illustrious SGA President, Timothy K. Sullivan, who in his infinite wisdom is promising nothing new.

He seems to be riding on his record of past performance, which is somewhat tarnished and not very distinguished either.

In his platform, Sullivan says that he promised better transit, free legal service, cuts in SGA salaries and better relations with the city; Sullivan says that he has kept his promises, to that I say BULL !

If the transit system is running any better than it did last year it is because of a hardworking and diligent transit manager and his staff, not because of Tim Sullivan. As for that legal service being free, well it costs the students a pretty penny, to the tune of $800 a month from students' fees. Well Sullivan promised to cut SGA salaries, and that he did. He cut a lot of students out of money that could have been used to support themselves, money that workers in SGA-funded organizations work hard for. Sullivan did not save very much by cutting salaries. He brags about how he cut his own salary by $25; big deal, what did that $25 cut do for the students, nothing.

And talk about better relations with the city, well do you call sitting around plotting how to sue the city of Greenville good relations. Sullivan took credit for the peaceful Halloween we had this year, you would think he did everything single-handed. People, let me tell you who we can thank for that: Mayor Percy Cox, the city police, and the downtown bar owners.

Lo and behold, the president has promised that if re-elected he will continue the SGA bid for the 10th St. overpass. I would like to know what the hell he has done for it thus far. Was it Tim Sullivan who prepared the overpass reports, kept the records, kept the students informed as to the progress of this project? No indeed, it was Greg Pingston who did the bulk of the work. Was it Sullivan who went to Raleigh and asked for and received the support of the governor, Lt. governor, and attorney general? Was it Sullivan who went to Raleigh last week and submitted an update report on the overpass to the governor, and had a conference with the engineers at DOT about giving the overpass top priority, and had a meeting with Lt. Governor Jimmy Green concerning the overpass. Hell no, Sullivan did not do any of this, I did it.

I might also mention that while I was sitting here typing this letter I was handed a letter from the Office of the Lt. Governor. The letter says that I will be receiving an updated report from the Lt. governor's office on the overpass in about two weeks.

Well all I have to say is that if Sullivan expects to be re-elected on his previous record, I feel mighty sorry for that boy, 'cause he ain't gonna get a whole helluva lot of support.

As I have said before, to quote Abe Lincoln, "You can fool all of the people some of the time, and some of the people all the time, but you can't fool all of the people all the time."

Sorry Tim,

Concerned Student

Secretary hopeful seeks support

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

As a candidate for SGA secretary, I would like to urge all students to go to the polls on March 30th and cast their vote for the candidates of their choice.

SGA is one of the few means by which students have a voice, and it is a very important voice concerning the rules which govern them and how they want their student fees to be spent. As a student, I would very much like to be an instrument through which your voice is heard.

I agree that the SGA secretary should definitely have had previous secretarial experience, or else the students would never know what happens in meetings. I believe I fulfill this qualification since I was secretary for several clubs during high school. Thus, I will not only know what needs to be done, but how to do it. However, this is not my only qualification. I was a Dorm Representative this year and I am acquainted with the SGA. I served on the Rules and Judiciary Committee and gained invaluable experience about the constitution and the workings of SGA.

Through your support and votes, I can put my experience to work for YOU, the students.

SGA coalition maps out platform

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

We (Neil Sessoms and Reed Warren) consider an extended drop period and longer breaks between classes very needed and attainable goals.

The only way to accomplish these objectives is to work with and through the university administration. The present SGA administration's relationship with the university administrators is not conducive to progress and cooperation. Ours will be a marked improvement.

Other universities enjoy both longer breaks and extended drop periods. We see two basic ways to start working towards these objectives: 1(submit a resolution from the SGA legislature to the administration, the faculty senate, and the board of trustees, or 2(submit an affirmative student referendum to the same authorities.

These approaches cannot guarantee the enactment of our proposals. But with a better working relationship with the university administration we feel we will have a firm base to launch these steps.

Sincerely,
Neil Sessoms and Reed Warren

Diabetic rodent

Six-foot rat missing, robbery suspected

By JOHN DAYBERRY
Staff Writer

A six-foot, gray rat disappeared from Speight building on the ECU campus Tuesday, March 22, and is believed to have been stolen, according to Ed Saunders, publicity chairman for Psi Chi, psychology honor fraternity.

"The rat was last seen at 7 p.m. on the 22nd, its head sticking from the trunk of an old, white, four-door car parked at a restaurant on the corner of Fifth and Reade Streets," said Saunders.

The car was attended by a woman in her early 20's, with mid-back length brown hair, according to Saunders.

"The rat was wearing tennis shoes, and nothing else at the time of his apparent abduction from the rear lobby of Speight," said Saunders.

The estimated value of the cardboard rat is $20. It was built by members of Psi Chi to attract attention to the psychology department's Spring retreat to Atlantic Beach, which will be on Saturday, March 26.

"The rat's disappearance is really hurting the retreat, since he was carrying almost all of the advertisements and sign up slips," said Saunders.

"Besides, he is diabetic, and must have insulin shots regularly."

A reward is being offered by Psi Chi for the return of the rat, which will go unquestioned, or for information leading to its return, according to Saunders.

"If we don't get him back soon, I'll report it to the police and have the thief or thieves prosecuted," said Saunders.

Saunders can be contacted in the psychology office, telephone number 757-6800, or at his home number, 752-6993.

Women protest obstetrical delivery ruling

(LNS)--Women's health groups throughout California are rallying against a proposed state medical association resolution which would prohibit physicians from attending at births outside of hospitals.

Over 75 people demonstrated outside of the convention hall at the Disneyland Hotel on March 10 where the California Medical Association was holding its annual meeting.

As a result of the demonstration delegates in the convention hall moved to send the proposal to the Scientific Committee for further consideration, essentially tabling the issue until next year's convention.

The resolution, #126-77 "Obstetrical Delivery in the Home or Outpatient Facility," would originally have considered physicians who attend home or clinic births to be engaging in unprofessional conduct.

Later the resolution was modified, but the intent--to restrict births to hospitals and to maintain doctors' control--remains the same.

Women opposing the resolution say that the doctors support #126-77 in order to justify the use of their technology which increases profits for doctors, hospitals, pharmaceutical companies and manufacturers of fetal heart monitors.

They argue most births are normal and that hospital intervention in normal birth with the use of drugs, electronic monitoring, forceps and surgery is both unnecessary and dangerous to mother and child.

Technology should be available in the event of complicated births, say the health groups, but they stress that complications in home births are no more frequent than those for the general hospital population.

Science Ed. gets NTSA

The March 10 demonstrations Science education students at ECU have formed the nation's first collegiate chapter of the National Science Teachers Association.

ECU's chapter was officially recognized in the March issue of "The Science Teacher," a journal published by the NSTA.

President of the newly-chartered ECU chapter is Jerry Everhart, a graduate student and teaching fellow in the ECU Department of Science Education.

Pamela Fisher and Julia Hughes, both of Wilmington, are vice president and secretary-treasurer, respectively.

were called by the Feminist Women's Health Centers in Los Angeles and Orange County, Womenscare in San Diego, and the Association for Childbirth at Home.

They plan to keep up pressure on the Association's Scientific Committee and encourage people to write or call the California Medical Association expressing opposition to the proposal.

History undergrads finish honors work

Mary Hartman

As if he hasn't done enough for the comedy-starved audiences of American TV in the past, Norman Lear has once again come to rescue us from the coldrooms of the medium.

Lear's latest redemption has come in the form of Mary Hartman, a freckle-faced, pig-tailed paragon of soap-opera womanhood. From her home in Fernwood, Ohio, Mary Hartman has a bird's-eye view, not only of the personal dilemmas of friends, neighbors, and kinfolk, but also of some of the most relevant issues and problems modern Americans face.

Mary is joined daily in her kitchen by Tom, her husband, Heather, her daughter, and a host of other folks, including a neighbor who aspires to sing country music, a sister who actively and indiscriminately practices free love, and a grandfather who in the premiere episodes is picked up for indecent exposure.

For all of you who are faithful watchers of "MH2," this brief summary of the storyline is no more than a spring rerun. What Mary Hartman symbolizes goes much deeper.

Louise Lasser's characterization of the heroine started as pure parody. Every soap has at least one all-knowing, all-understanding female character. The difference between Mary and other soap ladies is exhibited later in the season, when she breaks down. Other soap opera heroines may face a multitude of problems, but they never exhibit more reaction to their woes than a sympathetically wrinkled brow.

Here is where Lear shows his insight into the human, female, American condition. He shows his heroine feeling inadequate, frustrated, and guilty, and he has the grace to let her react the way "real people" are bound to.

Non-watchers of Mary Hartman are probably convinced by now that the show is nothing more than an exercise in morbid reality. Not so, "MH2" is, at times, one of the funniest shows around.

The humor is, granted, offensive to more sensitive souls. When the country singer gets in a wreck with a station wagon full of drunken nuns, a lot of folks might take offense. But a lot of folks are gonna laugh.

In essence this is the major statement Lear is making with Mary Hartman. We have a tendency to take ourselves entirely too seriously, entirely too often. Mary Hartman and company do the same thing. But the end result always seems to be when we realize that we can maintain our dignity and individuality without arching our collective backs at anyone who sees us from a less than serious outlook.

You may have noticed that I am way ahead of Channel 12 on the Mary Hartman storyline. This is true, by virtue of the fact that I spent the summer in a more progressive area than Greenville.

Way back last year, Mary Hartman debuted here, on WNCT. She exited from Channel 9 less than two weeks later, thanks to the reaction of the "decent community." It seems that many of the town's finest citizens felt that Mary and her life were too sordid for our innocent eyes. They supposedly feared that the show would exert a corrupting influence around here.

There's nothing more sordid than reality.

Beverly Pepper

Famed sculptor coming

By JOHN DAYBERRY
Staff Writer

It creeps, it soars, it embraces the earth, and springs into the sky. It's the sculpture of Beverly Pepper, and it stakes its claim in the future.

Beverly Pepper, a professional sculptor of international standing, will appear in the Mendenhall auditorium on the ECU campus on Tuesday, March 29, at 8 p.m.

Pepper will speak of her works, and present slides of them to her audience. The lecture and slide-presentation are free, both for ECU students, and the public.

Pepper began as a painter in the 50's, according to John Mizell, an ECU graduate student in sculpture, who worked as an assistant to Pepper last Fall, in her studio outside of Todi, Italy.

"In 1960, 36 olive, elm and mimosa trees were felled in her garden, and she was irresistibly tempted to shape them," said Mizell.

Pepper worked with purely organic forms for a while, and then progressed to incorporating metal into her works, according to Mizell.

"Her works became more geometric in the 60's," said Mizell.

"She started carving up pre-existing stainless steel forms, and rearranging the elements."

Pepper's works incorporate cubes, triangles, and rectangles, both open and closed.

"Hers is the basic understanding of form as monumental not simply in size but in concept," said Stephen Greene, a well-known art critic.

"Perhaps her true aesthetic ancestors were those builders of the pyramids," said Greene.

Pepper's most recent works are tremendously big, and are designed to be displayed outdoors. "Excaliber" is a 32' X 40' X 60' steel sculpture, painted black, which is displayed outside the San Diego Federal Courthouse Building in San Diego, Cal.

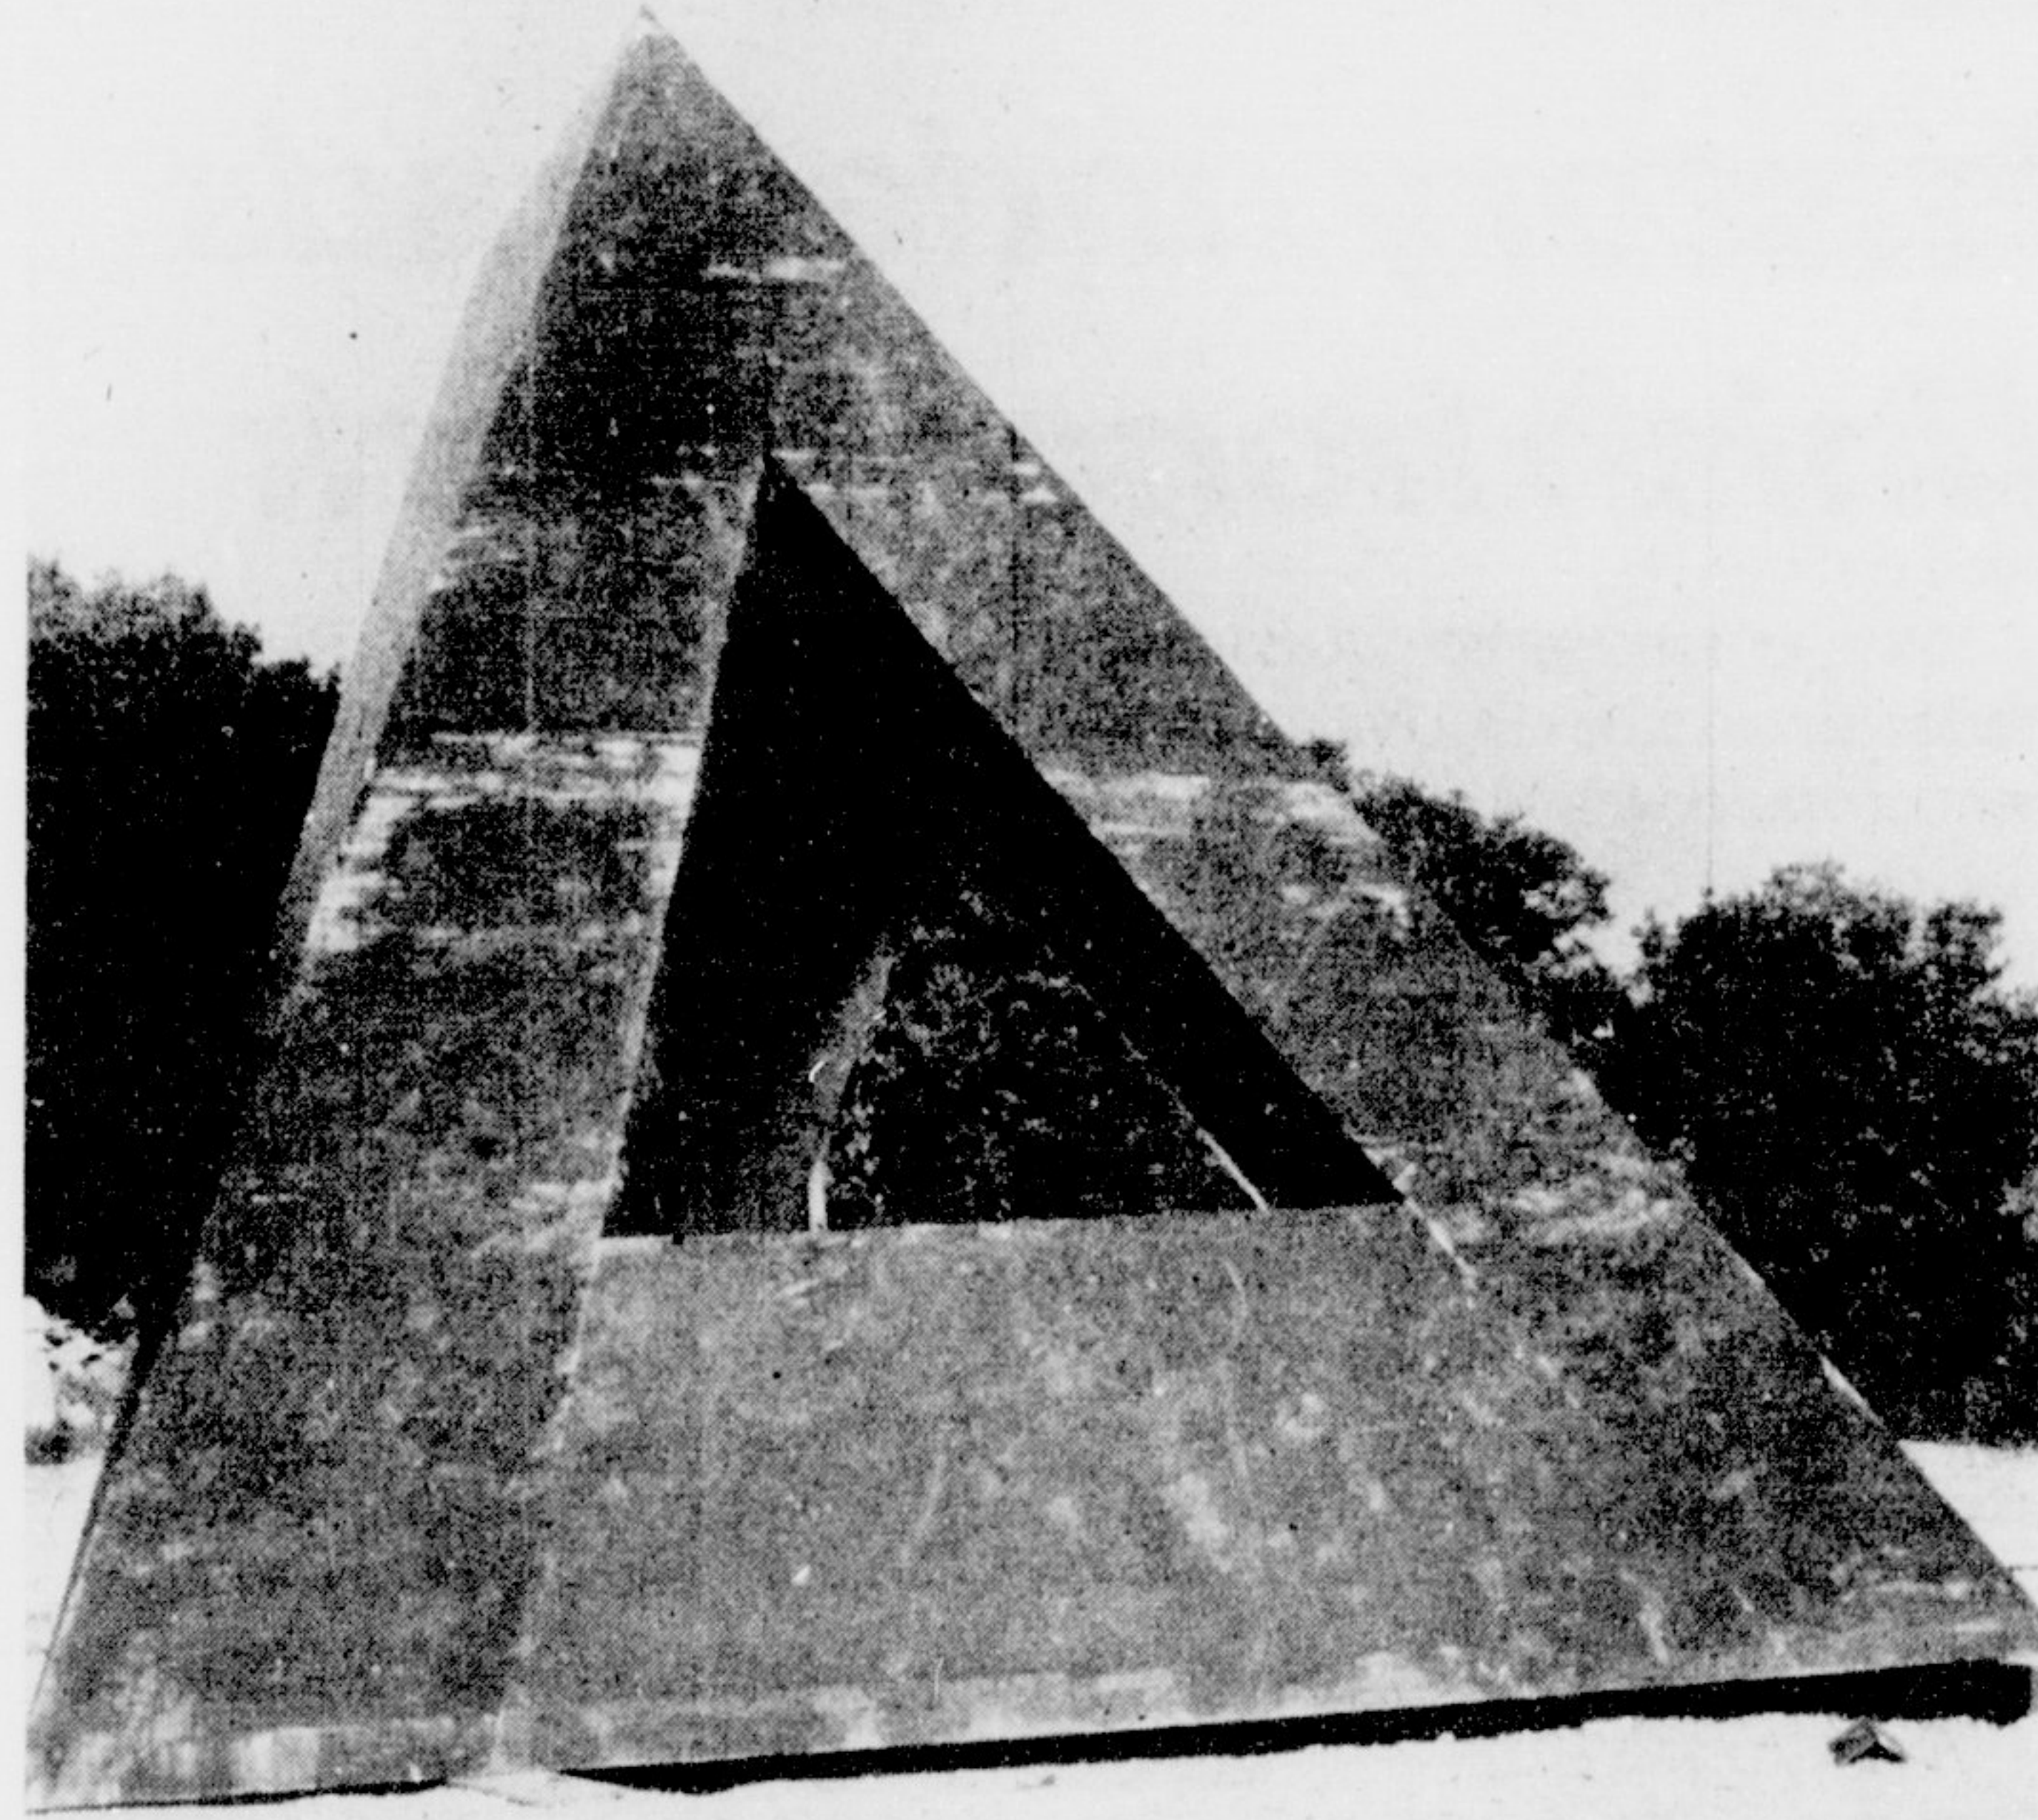

"Her Todi studio is like an airplane hangar," said Mizell.

"Several persons work at constructing the sculptures, because their size makes it virtually impossible for one person to handle the entire project."

The works are constructed in and around the Todi studio, then dismantled, crated, and shipped to their destinations, where they are reassembled, according to Mizell.

"What made the work so exciting to me was that Pepper made frequent alterations in the original designs, according to her

Various artistic genres make up Spoleto Festival

CHARLESTON, S.C.--South Carolina will be involved in an unpredictable international event this spring when the Spoleto Festival of Two Worlds presents its American premiere in Charleston.

When several of the leading representatives of the arts converge on Charleston May 25-June 5 along with up-and-coming geniuses and the public, no one knows exactly what will happen, and that is the way it always is with the world's most comprehensive arts festival.

Since its inception 19 years ago in Spoleto, Italy, the Festival has embraced both the great established examples of music, dance, theatre, painting and poetry and the experimental. The Festival has also always included many noteworthy American as well as European artists. Thus, the Festival's founder-director Gian Carlo Menotti envisioned a counterpart in the United States. According to the renowned Italian-born composer, "I knew Charleston would be the town as soon as I set foot in it."

Entire sections of the Port City will serve as a stage for not only scheduled performances and exhibits but also spontaneous art forms ranging from wandering minstrel and mime shows to storytelling and gravestone rubbing.

The planned part of the Festival calls for a full-scale production of the "Queen of Spades," an opera by Tchaikovsky and performances of the famous Menotti opera "The Consul."

Charleston's Dock Street Theatre, setting of the nation's first plays and subscription chamber concerts, will be in constant use throughout the Festival. Daily noontime con-

Treat in store for Monty Python fanatics

By GARY CARTER
Staff Writer

This coming Friday and Saturday night, ECU will have its first taste of the absurd comedy Monty Python is known for. A comedy group that was formed at the drama department of ECU called the Ghana Hardware Co. will be performing various sketches by Monty Python, The Firesign Theatre and Beyond the Fringe '64 under the title "Over the Top."

The performances will be on March 25th and 26th at 7:30 and 9:30 p.m. in the Workshop theatre, second floor of the drama building in room 205. Admission is free.

The members of The Ghana Hardware Co. are Rob Maxon, Susan Cole, Mac McKee, and Gary Carter, who organized the group and directed the show, (and is no relation to the author of this article).

Gary talked about how the group was formed. "We started out with eight people, but due to some time conflicts, four of them had to drop out. We had to drop some of the larger sketches and bring in a few smaller ones."

Where did the material come from? "All the Firesign and Fringe material came from records. The Python material was half from records and half from their television program. I have every record they've recorded up to the present, and I also have five and a half hours of their television programs on tape."

This workshop production is rather unusual in that most of the performers are not in the drama department, with Gary being the only drama major. Susan, Rob, and Mac have all been in plays at one time or another. The binding force is that all four are hopeless cases of "Pytho-mania." "We're not out to win any awards," says

Susan, "we just want to have some fun with what we're doing, and I think the audience will enjoy that."

Four shows have been slated because the Workshop Theatre only holds 50 people. "So if you're going to come, don't all come to the 7:30 performance on Friday night," says Gary. "We want a good crowd at all four performances, and we don't want to turn anyone away due to the lack of seats."

PEPPER

aesthetic judgement," said Mizell.

"You never knew quite what the final product would be until it was completed."

Pepper's works do not rely on their size to make an artistic statement, however.

"Put briefly, I wish to make an object that has a powerful physical presence, but is at the same time inwardly turned, seeming capable of intense self-absorption," said Pepper, in an issue of "Art Journal."

"The works of highly polished stainless steel made in the late 1960's achieved this kind of dualism, primarily through the mirrorlike finish of their surfaces.

"Those surfaces acted to emphasize the actual density and weight of the steel. At the same time, they made the physical bulk of the sculpture withdraw behind a screen of reflections," said Pepper.

Pepper's works, on one level, are an attempt to connect the community of everyday life with art.

"Since modern art has become increasingly large and moved outdoors, it inevitably must mix with the life of people in cities and along the highways," said Pepper, referring specifically to one of her freeway sculptures.

Pepper is a highly-entertaining lecturer, according to Mizell, who attended a lecture given by Pepper in New Orleans.

"She's a fireball of a woman, incredibly energetic and dynamic," said Mizell.

"Her lectures and her slide presentations are incredibly informative and entertaining."

Pepper is coming to ECU directly from lecturing engagements at Harvard, and at the University of Georgia.

In addition to the Mendenhall lecture, Pepper will give an informal presentation to art students in the art building's auditorium, at 8 p.m., on Wednesday, March 30.

local residents are preparing to accommodate a portion of the 50,000 visitors expected for the Festival in private homes, and one citizen committee has even invented a new mixed drink in honor of the Festival and patterned after the mint julep.

A small official staff directed by Mrs. Christine Reed is working closely with volunteer committees to ensure the Festival runs smoothly. However, with such a variety of art forms celebrated simultaneously by so many people, Spoleto U.S.A. will create itself.

Anyone interested in doing volunteer work or receiving program, ticket and accommodation information should contact Spoleto Festival U.S.A., P.O. Box 157, Charleston, S.C. 29402 or call (803) 722-2764.

certs, under the direction of Charles Wadsworth and Peter Serkin, will continue a favorite Spoleto tradition. On alternating evenings, Stringberg's plays "The Creditors" and "Miss Julie" will be staged, each preceded by the one-act play "The Stronger," starring Geraldine Page and Rip Torn.

The Spoleto Festival Orchestra, conducted by the young American virtuoso Christopher Keene, will render Hayden's "The Creation" at the College of Charleston and will also accompany several performances by the Eliot Feld Ballet Company.

The Ohio Ballet and world-acclaimed Westminster Choir from Princeton, New Jersey are also scheduled to perform at the College. A special Spoleto Festival Brass Quintet will open the Festival on May 25 with a fanfare newly composed by Gian Carlo Menotti and play at various sites around the city throughout the Festival.

The Gibbes Arts Gallery will feature the unique Serge Lifar Collection of Ballet Set and Costume Designs by such artists as Picasso, Matisse, Miro, Modigliani, Leger, Gris, Ernst, de Chirico and Baroque.

The Festival will utilize the city's historic churches and parks for other exhibits and activities, and a grand finale involving several art forms is planned for Middleton Place, the Charleston plantation that boasts America's oldest landscaped gardens.

In keeping with the famous Spoleto element of improvisation,

Wrestling finals Monday

The finals of the men's wrestling tournament will take place Monday beginning at 6 p.m.

From a large field of over 125 wrestlers 24 remain in the running for championship titles.

Lined up to do battle in the championship match of the 126 pound class are Phillip Whited and Eric Davidson, two unknowns who came from out of the pack to reach the finals.

In the 134 pound class there will be a classic matchup between Michael Avent and Teddie Caudle. Avent won the 126 pound title last year, but moved up a notch this time. Caudle is the brother of former ECU wrestler Eddie Caudle, who has reached the finals in the 150 pound class.

At 142, Brad Middleton is out to defend his title against Doug Reed and he is favored to make it two Intramural Wrestling titles in a row.

In the 150 class, Eddie Caudle will meet Joe Collins in the finals, while Kevin Gaghan and Brad Stocum will provide an interesting matchup at 158 pounds.

In the 167 class Alex Chandler and Bobby Williams square off while Steve Satterwaite will wrestle Alan Wilson for the 177 pound title.

The two heaviest classes should give some interesting pairings. In the 190 finals Mark Hutchins and Andy Stucky will meet and in the Unlimited Class Judd Larrimore wrestles Steve Hinson in the finals.

SOCCER

Soccer playoffs begin in earnest this week with Scott and Aycock dorms seeded first in the Dorm league and Tau Kappa Epsilon the top seed in the Fraternity League.

Two dorm playoff games will be played on Monday and Tuesday with the rest of the 10 playoff teams meeting Thursday.

Other qualifiers that have been determined are the Rugby Club, Phi Epsilon Kappa and Jones in the Dorm-Club league and the Kappa Alphas and Kappa Sigmas in the fraternity league. Two more fraternity spots will be determined by play on Monday and Tuesday.

WOMEN'S SOFTBALL

The women got a head start in softball action last week, opening their season with an unusually large amount of one-sided games.

In the only close game Bad News Broads nipped the Sun Kissed Lemons, 11-9, as Kim Fesperman blasted a triple and a home run to lead the way.

The most one-sided game was the Mac Attackers 36-0 rout of the Bad News Bunch. Kim Michael led the Mac Attackers with four home runs. Clements A team put the swing out of the Tornado with a 28-5 rout. The Tornado was plagued with pitching problems as Clement received many free trips to first, and Pam Shennenhouse did get four hits, including 2 doubles and a triple.

Alpha Phi stopped the Tri Sigma "B" team 26-2, but the Tri Sig "A" team gained a measure of retribution with a 21-4 win over Alpha Omicron Pi. Marcia Goughnour led Sigma's hitting with three hits and a home run.

In other Greek play, Alpha Delta Pi topped Delta Zeta II, 17-5, behind the slugging of Jeanne Newman.

Hypertension opened their season with a 27-4 rout of the Batwomen. Cynthia Averett blasted two home runs in the game. In the final game of the week, Hits and Runs stomped Clement's C team, 25-0.

In the weeks to come there will be some tougher games so don't be discouraged by this week's one-sided scores.

Due to the large number of teams entered in women's play not every team will play each week.

CO-REC VOLLEYBALL

Co-Rec volleyball will start Tuesday with 12 teams entered. All games will be played on Tuesday nights in Minges Coliseum with 4 games each night at 7:30 and 4 more games each night at 8:30.

The pre-season favorites are Lehman's Losers, the defending champions, and the Volley Follies. Lehman's Losers open their title defense with two games Tuesday night.

Pack takes doubleheader

By JEFF BROOKS
Assistant Sports Editor

Despite pitching heroics by Pete Conaty, the Pirates were defeated by the Wolfpack of North Carolina State 1-0 in the first game of a double-header here Saturday. Conaty held the Pack scoreless until the top of the tenth, striking out fourteen batters along the way. Managing to push across a run in the top of the tenth, the State nine then shut ECU out in the bottom half of the inning to take the opener.

The second game became a slugfest for the hungry Pack as they scored in the second, fourth, fifth and sixth innings to defeat the Bucs 10-2. Tom Willette was the winning pitcher while Terry Durham was charged with the loss. Highlight of the game was N.C. State's Ray Tanner who hit a grand-slam home run in the fourth inning. Charlie Stevens drove in both of ECU's runs in the second with a single.

Playing away and in the rain, ECU defeated ACC power UNC-CH behind the brilliant pitching of Mickey Britt. Allowing only four hits, Britt wasn't scored upon until the fifth when the Tar Heels managed three runs. Sonny Wooten led the Pirates at the plate with a two for four performance and two RBI's while Best, Stevens, Brinkley and Koryda distinguished themselves on the bases. Scoring one run in the second, and three in the fourth, ECU made the final score 5-3 with another run in the top of the sixth.

Bikers wheel into town Sunday for first major competition

By KIP SLOAN
Staff Writer

Greenville will host its first major bicycle race this Sunday, as competitors from North Carolina and surrounding states will compete for $1500 worth of prizes and merchandise in the Miller High Life Greenville Bicycle Classic.

The race, sanctioned by the United States Cycling Federation, (USCF), will cover the downtown streets of First, Reade, Evans, Second, and Washington in a one kilometer loop.

Seven races will be held, starting at 11:15 for the women racers and veterans (racers over 40), with the main race of the day (senior I and II classes) starting at 4:00.

Bicycle racing has become another competitive sport in which the United States is beginning to excel in.

In 1976, an American placed 6th in the Olympic road race, while another U.S. rider placed 10th in the Professional World Championships. These were remarkable achievements, since no American rider in recent times has ever done well in a road race.

The main race for senior I and II classes (riders 18-39 yrs. who have shown exceptional ability) will be quite a race to see.

As of Wednesday, Bobby Phillips (several time National Champion on the track), and Bill Humphreys (North Carolina State Champion) will be competing, along with other riders from Virginia and Georgia.

This feature event will cover 75 kilometers (about 47 miles) in about 2 hours or less, as racers attempt to pull free of the "pack" to fight the wind on their own.

Golfers 12th in invitational

By JEFF BROOKS
Assistant Sports Editor

East Carolina finished 12th in the recent Iron Duke Collegiate Invitational Golf Tournament held March 20th and 21st in Durham.

North Carolina State was the winner of the event, finishing two strokes ahead of second place UNC-CH. Third place Marshall trailed by 9 strokes while Wake Forest finished fourth.

Gary Harborough of Wake Forest was the individual medalist, taking a second hole, over-time, birdie to clinch the title. East Carolina's David Brogan ties for 10th with a 219 while freshman Donnie Owens was ECU's second lowest with a 227.

Coach McClendon noted that he was "pleased with freshman play, but the upperclassmen were very inconsistent...they will have to improve."

ECU's next match begins today at Furman University, as the Pirates participate in the Furman Intercollegiate Invitational.

Five Buc swimmers in nationals

Five East Carolina swimmers will leave Wednesday to attend the NCAA Swimming and Diving Championships at Cleveland (Ohio) State University, March 24-26.

Ted Nieman leads the group, as he will be swimming in three events. His events are the 200 freestyle and the two freestyle relays, the 400 and 800. John McCauley will swim in the 50 freestyle championships, as well as the 400 free relay. Joining Nieman and McCauley on the 400 free relay will be John Tudor and Billy Thorne. Nieman will team

Pirates scrimmage Saturday

East Carolina University will hold its first public scrimmage of spring football drills this Saturday. The Pirates will play in Wilson at Fike High School Stadium at 2:00 p.m.

Thus far, coach Pat Dye has been most pleased with his club's work in spring practice.

"It's been a good spring practice thus far," said Dye. "I've been very encouraged by what I've seen. The entire group has really worked hard and had great enthusiasm. In fact, this group has been as enthusiastic as any I've ever been around in the spring.

"The areas we were most concerned with are looking fine at this point. The only thing we need is just repetition and game-type experience. I have complete confidence in the talent and ability we have."

The defensive secondary was one of the major concerns. At this point, Charlie Carter (Fr-Fayetteville) has been one of the major highlights of spring drills at corner back. Steve Hale (Jr-Columbus, Ga.) at free safety, Willie Holley (Fr-Edenton) and returning safety Gerald Hall (Soph-Edenton) are out front in the other positions.

One of the most pleasing aspects of the drills has been the punting of Rodney Allen of Henderson. He's a walkon that's out front for the open punter position.

Sam Harrell (Soph-Ahoskie) has been outstanding at running back, assuring the Pirates of three fine runners next year, with Eddie Hicks (Soph-Henderson) and Willie Hawkins (Jr-Grimesland) returning.

At center, another problem spot, Rickie Holliday (Jr-Williamston) is in the number one spot, but is being pushed hard by Jeff Hagans (Fr-Greenville), Rob Wirthlin (Fr-Montgomery, Ohio) and John Wrape (Soph-Asheboro).

Saturday's scrimmage is being sponsored by the Wilson Pirate Club. Following the scrimmage a talk will be made by Governor Jim Hunt, and then a barbeque dinner will be held. Tickets for the entire day are $5.00 for adults and $3.00 for youngsters.

with Tudor, Thorne and Stewart Mann to comprise the 800 team. "I think this is our first legitimate chance to gain all-America status for some of our swimmers, said Coach Ray Scharf. "It is one of the fastest pools in the world, the competition is good, and we have some experience which we lacked in the past."

McCauley was ranked ninth in the United States last year before the nationals at Princeton, but failed to make the top 12 (which gives a swimmer all-America status).

"John's a junior now and has been to the nationals twice," Scharf added. "The jitters should not work against him this year."

A breakdown of the Pirates shows two juniors, two sophomores and a freshman bound for the nationals.

"Four of our guys have been to the nationals before," Scharf continued. "And Nieman (freshman), is a cool performer. I don't think any pressure will hamper him."

Nieman was probably the top performer on the ECU team this year. He holds four varsity records in individual events (200, 500, 100 and 1650 frees) and has swum on the record 800 freestyle team (6:50.61). He has been named the top athlete on the ECU campus twice by the school paper and is likely to walk off with the MVP award for swimming.

"I am anxious to swim at the Cleveland State pool," Nieman said recently. "I hear it's one of the fastest around. I'm hoping to knock a second off the 200 free time I had at the Easterns (1:40.87). If I do that I'll be happy. But I don't think that will give me all-America status. But, only about 30 people are qualified for the nationals, so who knows, anything can happen."

When asked if he would be under a lot of pressure, being a freshman at the nationals, Nieman said, "I'll probably be a little shaky going up on Wednesday, but I'll be loosened up by Friday when I swim."

Scharf thinks the relays are the most promising for East Carolina to place in.

"I think we can knock five or six seconds off our 800 (free relay) time," Scharf said. "That should be good enough to place. We'd have to knock four seconds off the 400 (free relay) time (3:07.14) to make it. But with the good competition and the faster pool, who knows. Just maybe we can do it."

Nieman is the only one of the five Pirate qualifiers who is not a resident of North Carolina. He hails from Winter Park, Fla., while Mann and McCauley are from Charlotte, and Tudor and Thorne are Greensboro residents.

"I think it says a lot for the caliber of freestyle swimmers that come out of North Carolina," Scharf said. "McCauley is always ranked in the top 20 of sprint swimmers and the others have shown they can go with the best of them."

East Carolina, while NCAA Division II and NAIA in the late 50's and early 60's, won two national championships and had 82 all-America swimmers. But, since 1968, when ECU entered Division I, they have failed to gain an all-America. Maybe this is the year.
