Kappa Delta Faces Battle

employee of the Tafts, but his vote was needed to ensure a quorum.

At the board meeting, Mamie Ruth Taft, who lives next door to 1801 E. Fifth St., said that she and her husband opposed the sorority because of the traffic congestion they felt it would cause. "We have book club meetings, church meetings, bridge club meetings and even friends come to our house and they have difficulty parking," she told the board members. "Lots of times they have to park two or three blocks away to get to my house which is very annoying sometimes, but we have to put up with it because the traffic is there and the parking is there."

She felt that the sorority would add to the problem. She also said, "I understand and note that sororities and fraternities have to have dumpsters to put their trash and garbage in. They cannot use garbage cans like residential places do. They have to be the big dumpsters and they would have to have one of these dumpsters my backdoor almost, and you know how unsightly a dumpster is and how smelly they can get."

The Tafts have since refused to comment on the matter. William Taft Sr. said, "I think it would be inappropriate to say anything at this time since the matter is in litigation."

The Kappa Deltas present house, shown here, is too small the sorority says.

Student Benefits Face Cut

By CHAD BUTKIN
Assistant News Editor

Congressional sources have revealed that the Reagan administration is strongly considering a proposal that would put an end to Social Security benefits received by students.

The cut, along with other slashes in spending that are under consideration, must be approved by Congress if a proposal is made. The program is designed to make monthly Social Security support payments to students who are children of dead, retired or disabled workers. Payments usually stop when the child reaches 18, but if the child is still in college the payment can continue through the 22nd birthday.

An average monthly check is $229. In November, 1980, 772,000 persons were receiving the benefit.

For the fiscal year of 1982, the estimated cost to Social Security will be $2.4 billion.

No test is administered to determine if the recipient has a financial need. General Accounting Office findings two years ago revealed that about 70 percent of the recipients had family incomes of under $15,000 a year. Loss of the benefit would force many families into a low income range.

The Carter administration made the argument two years ago that with other forms of federal financial aid available to students of low and moderate incomes, the need to continue with the Social Security student benefit might stand to be reduced.

According to the GAO the benefits are overlapping, some individuals continue to collect the benefit after dropping out of school.

Med School Places Interns

By Mike Davis
Staff Writer

Dr. Edwin Monroe of the ECU School of Medicine set as associate dean for external affairs and student life.

Monroe's main responsibility is to keep a working relationship between the medical school and regional hospitals and health departments.

At any given time Monroe can be found contacting various area hospitals trying to place students in internships.

Hospitals in such areas as Jacksonville, New Bern, Goldsboro, Kinston, Mount Olive, Tarboro, Edenton and the Outer Banks have been contacted by Monroe on various occasions.

Monroe arranges for third and fourth year medical students to obtain experience in rural community settings. These internships offer experience in family practice, pediatrics, surgery, obstetrics and psychology.

Second year students have started the physical diagnosis portion of their training.

Beginning this summer these students will be spending two months on major clinical disciplines. These disciplines include medicine, pediatrics, surgery, obstetrics, psychology and family practice.

Fourth year students have just finished their January term.

The residency matching program has now begun and is designed to pair students with hospitals where they can complete their residencies.

About 50 percent of the class will be taking residencies in family practice, Monroe said.

"I feel the majority of the students will return to North Carolina after finishing up their residencies," he said.

Monroe added that the construction of the school's Brody Building is right on schedule, as is the new bed tower. The tower will hold 160 beds once completed.

Zoning Laws

Attempt To Restrict Greeks

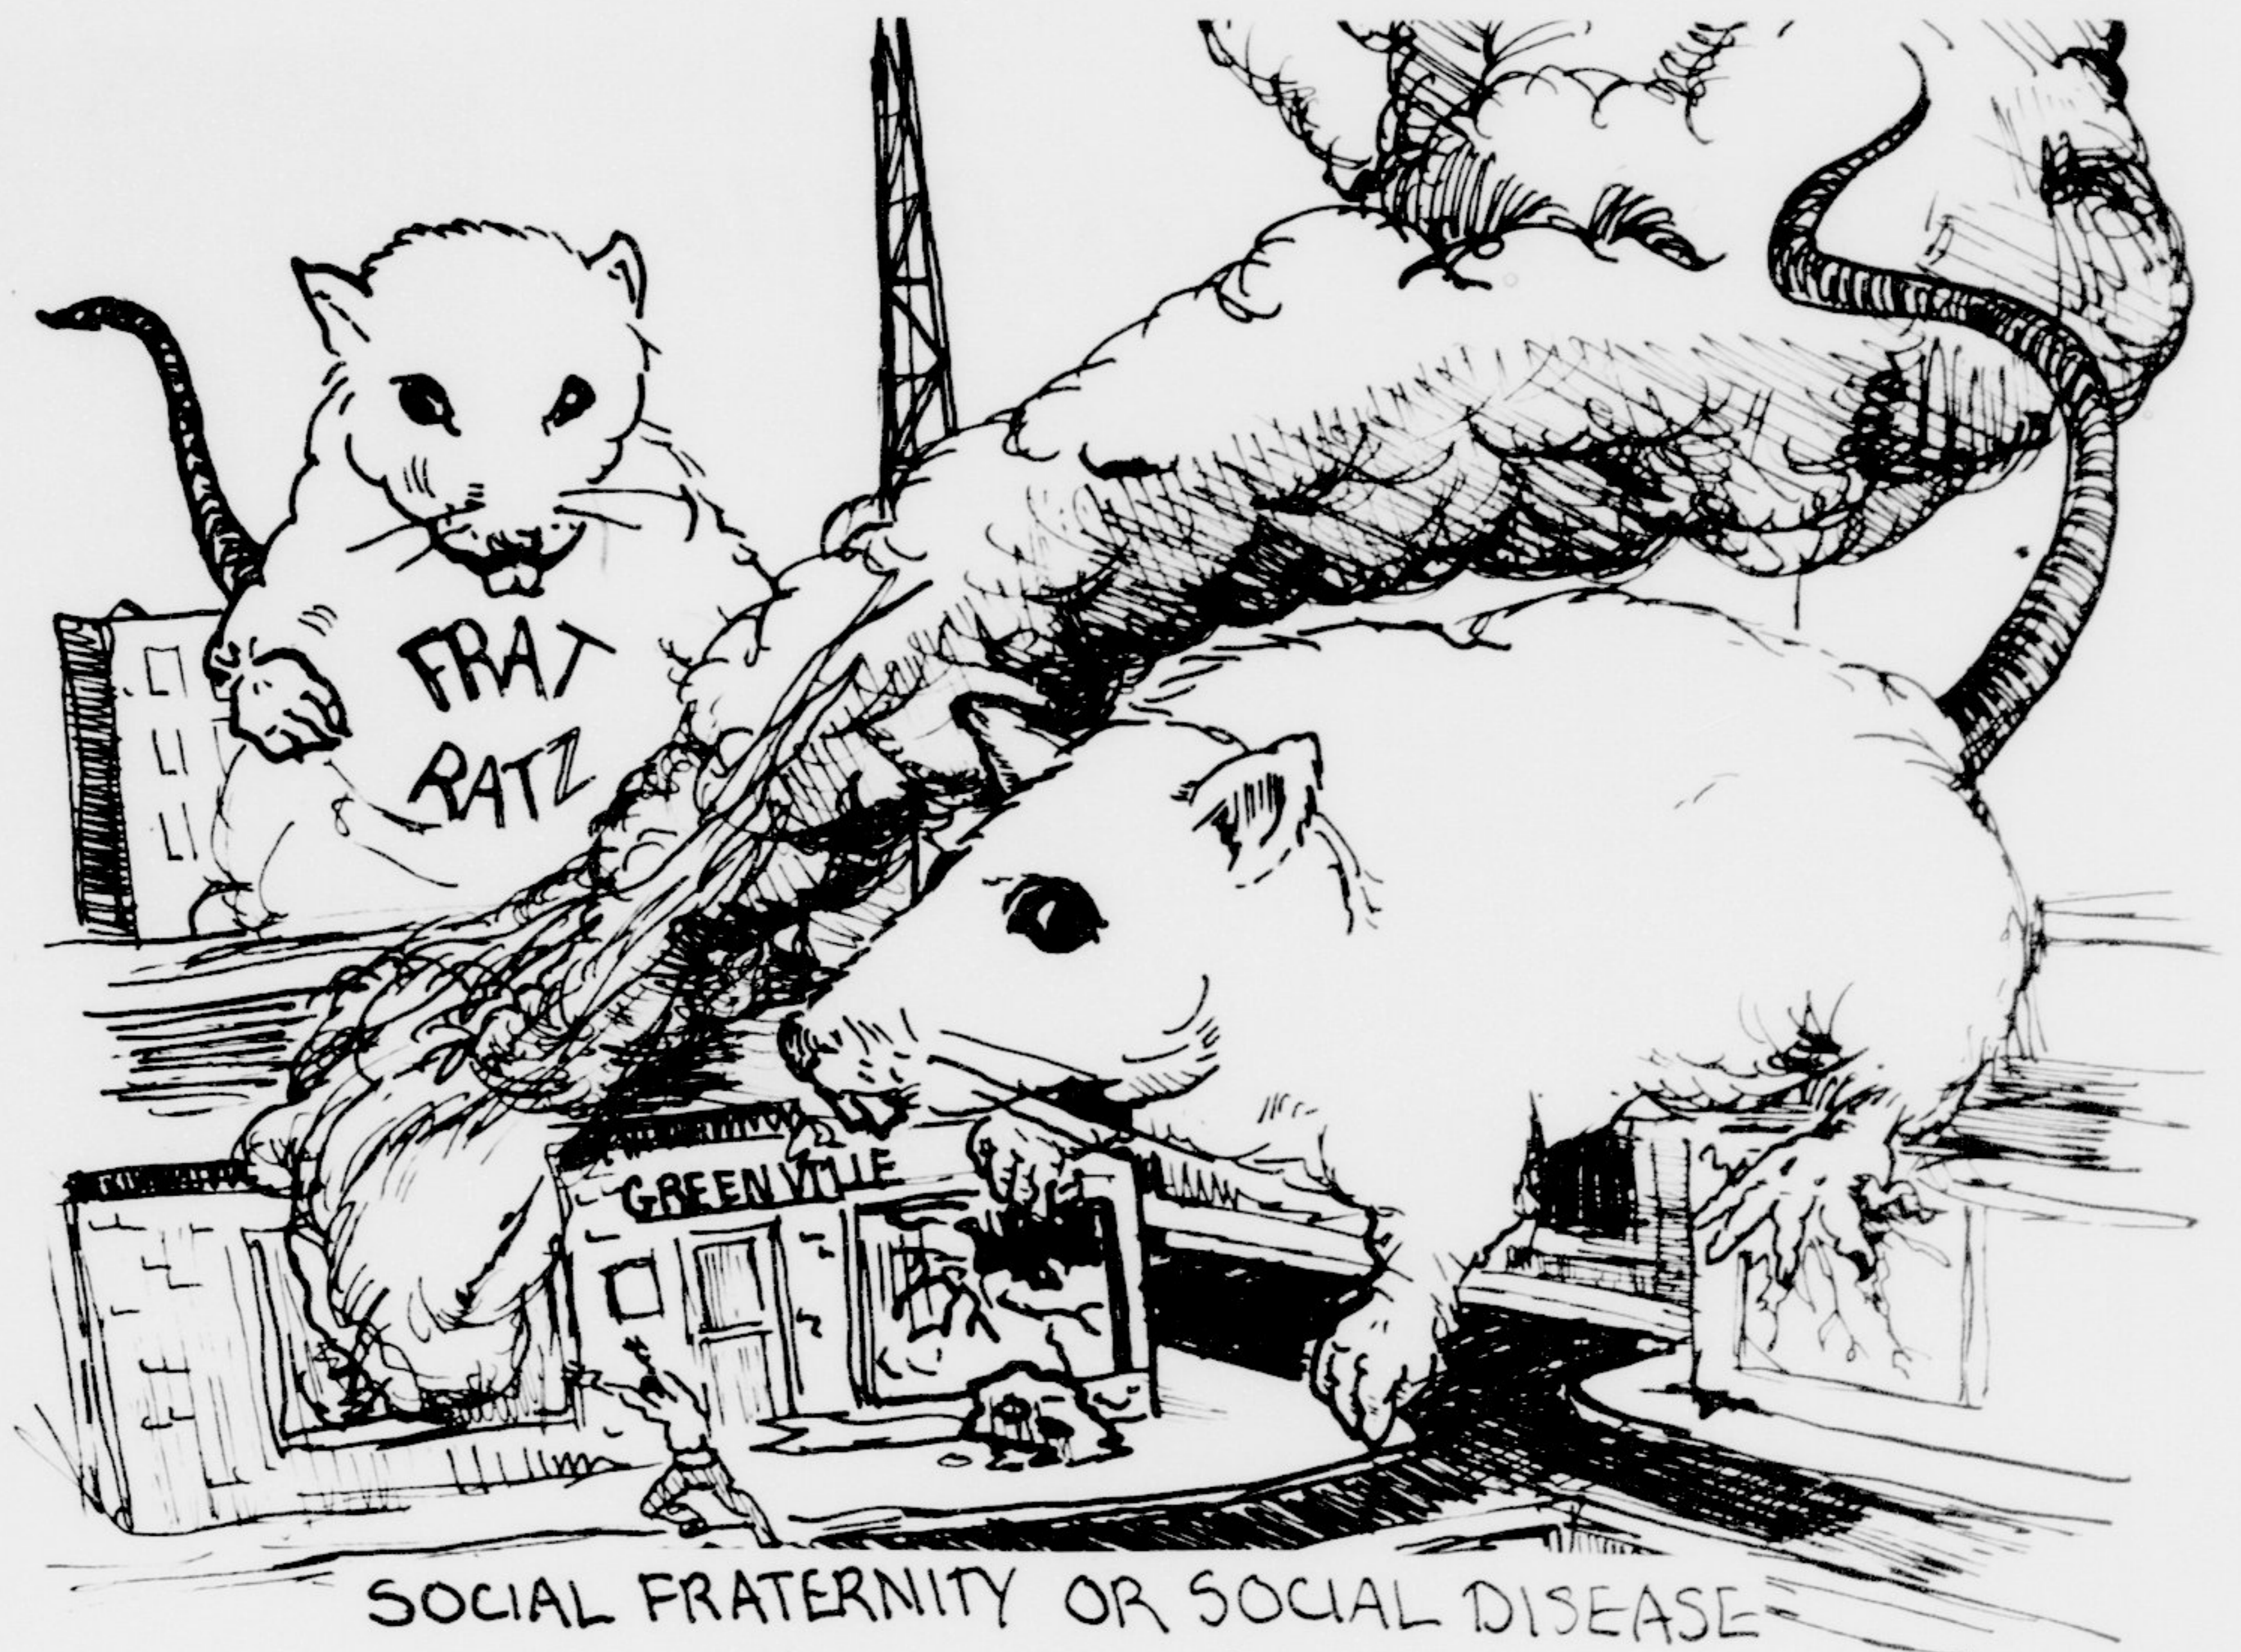

There are some individuals here in Greenville who are trying to have the city limits rezoned to prevent any sororities or fraternities from purchasing housing within this area, which includes the area directly surrounding the campus. This rezoning law would deny any of the existing chapters that are located a long distance from campus the opportunity of moving within a more convenient range, it would also stifle the growth of the Greek system in the future.

This action is being spurred by some well known families in the Greenville area. At this time, it is directly aimed at the Kappa Delta Sorority here at ECU. The KDs, located now about a mile off campus were in the process of relocating to a house that would be safer and more convenient for their members in relation to the campus when this action was started.

It appears that some powerful forces are at work to make this rezoning a reality. It is interesting to notice that, the day before the KD's had their first hearing in October, a local paper printed an incriminating picture of one of a fraternity's yard, covered with debris from their Homecoming float, soggy because of all the rain that day. Also, the most recent hearing date, January 22, 1981, was cancelled because the city couldn't get enough board members together.

The next hearing in this matter is set for February 5, 1981, at 7:30 p.m. at the City Hall in downtown Greenville. A show of support on the part of the entire ECU community will be helpful in fighting this damaging and unfair legislation.

Military Preparation Essential

Robert M.

Swaim

"The history of Failure in War can be summed up in two words: Too Late. Too late in comprehending the deadly purpose of a potential enemy; too late in realizing the mortal danger; too late in preparedness; too late in uniting all possible forces for resistance; too late in standing with one's friends."

—General Douglas MacArthur

It will greatly behoove the United States, not only the government, but the citizenry as well, to heed the words of that great soldier.

Those words, uttered decades ago, are more appropriate than ever with regards to our nation's foreign policy and military preparedness.

We cannot be too late in comprehending the deadly purpose of our enemy. Our greatest enemy, make no mistake about it, is the threat of the onslaught of communism, not only abroad but at home as well.

The Soviets have never made any bones about their intentions. They are firmly committed to world domination and the enslavement of free people throughout the world. Our nation is a primary target and the apple of the Russian eye. For they know that to conquer the rest of the free world they must first defeat us, the most powerful bastion of freedom the world has ever seen. We must be aware of the danger that the Russians pose to our society and realize that it is not an idle threat but a very real one. Liberals condemn those who warn of the communist threat as "war mongers" and call the warnings "rhetoric" or "McCarthyism" in an attempt to discredit prophets like Alexander Solzhenitsyn.

If we are too late in preparedness then there is no hope. The only thing that communists fear is brute force and military might. In the Cold War, only the strong survive.

Whenever I here the liberals rave and plead for arms limitations, particularly their beloved Salt treaties, I am reminded of a bit of historic folly.

In 1939 Europe became fearful of Hitler's military buildup which was done in violation of the Treaty of Versailles. Those European leaders who possessed no foresight instituted "peace treaty negotiations" with Hitler rather than forcing him to halt his military buildup. So the leaders of Europe sent the British Prime Minister as their representative to negotiate with a mad German dictator.

So they worked out what amounts to a 1939 version of SALT. Chamberlain proclaimed, as he stepped off the plane in England after returning from Germany, that we would have "...peace in our time," as he waved a worthless piece of paper with Hitler's worthless promise that he would not promote military aggression against his neighbors in Europe.

The Communists cannot be trusted. As President Reagan recently said, they will lie, cheat and commit all manner of evil in pursuit of their world domination goal.

For those who would dismiss the warnings of our conservative leadership as cold war rhetoric, I ask them to consider a few sobering facts. Angola, Ethiopia, Afghanistan, South Yemen, Mozambique, Laos, Cambodia, and South Vietnam; over 100 million people in all, have fallen under the cruel yoke of Communism since 1974.

"Iran has been plunged into bloody chaos and turned overnight from a bastion of Western strength into a cauldron of virulent anti-Westernism, its oil treasures lying provocatively exposed to lustful Russian eyes. Cuba acts increasingly as an agent of wide-ranging Soviet ambitions. These are examples of how the pieces will continue to fall if we take a piecemeal approach," said President Nixon in his recent book The Real War.

America is still suffering from the radical liberalism of the 1960's when fantasy and idealism, which is usually the opposite of realism, swept the campuses. Attacks on anything that represented America and the established order were the tad of the day.

The notion that beyond a certain minimum level, the less military strength you have, the better, is a fallacy. The hope arose among liberals that if the United States limited its own arms, others—particularly the Russians—would follow. It's a beautiful theory but that's not the way it works in the real world. The Russians, masters of pragmatic action, performed admirably according to their theory. In fact, during the same period when arms control was becoming fashionable, the Soviet five year plan charted heavy increases in their military spending.

It is time we realized that might does make right and there is strength in numbers.

We must begin rebuilding so that never will our people have to face the threat of Communist takeover with uncertainty as to whether our government and armies can protect us.

Sudden Attendance Boost At Women's Games Questioned

I wish to comment on the recent success of the women's basketball team and the attendant hoopla which has suddenly arisen around them.

The ladies have been playing before obscenely small crowds over the years, but their recent successes and their rise into the national rankings has precipitated a mad rush by certain campus organizations and area people to get on the bandwagon.

On Wednesday past, I observed a crowd of over 4,000 which, while consisting mainly of students, doubtlessly had a number of people who have not regularly attended the women's games. Also, I noticed that the varsity cheerleaders and the gymnastics team deemed it necessary to honor us with their presence to arouse the crowd and exhibit their skills during half-time, respectively.

It strikes me as odd that these organizations would not have chosen to show themselves in earlier contests in which the ladies have been involved. Why have the cheerleaders suddenly begun attending women's games to put forth their foolishness and imbecilic behavior before the also suddenly-arisen crowds? For those who may be freshmen, the cheerleaders pulled this same stunt last year when the ladies played State and U.N.C.

Those of us who have been regular in attendance in the ladies' games are upset over this sudden increase in organizational and individual attendance at these games. Where were you last year and earlier in the season? The ladies have been winning without you and the faithful do not want you!

I wonder how many of you would continue to come to the ladies' games if they were to go into a decline and be left out of post-season play? Certainly very few of you would stick with them.

It is really unfortunate that such an excellent basketball team as the Lady Pirates are saddled with such a large contingent of fair-weather fans.

English

EDITOR'S NOTE: While the author of this letter feels "the faithful" are upset over the sudden popularity of Lady Pirate Basketball, we feel that it is in the best interest of the program and the University to urge these organizations and individuals to continue their support and attendance.

Valentine Alternatives

Valentine's Day is a special day set aside for expressions of affection, letting those significant others know you appreciate their friendship. The celebration is important, and how we celebrate is important too. Often, the only way we know how to reach out is through commercial cards and candy valentines. Giving other peoples' words, other peoples' feelings, other peoples' creations, can be the same as giving nothing. A small risk is involved in the alternatives, for we share a part of ourselves. Receiving, the other hand of giving, is a response that focuses on the good will of the giver than on the quality of his gift. An alternative celebration checklist:

- Stop buying candy and commercial cards
- Make homemade "alternatives"
- Give yourself
- Contribute to person's favorite cause
- Contribute to prison reform project

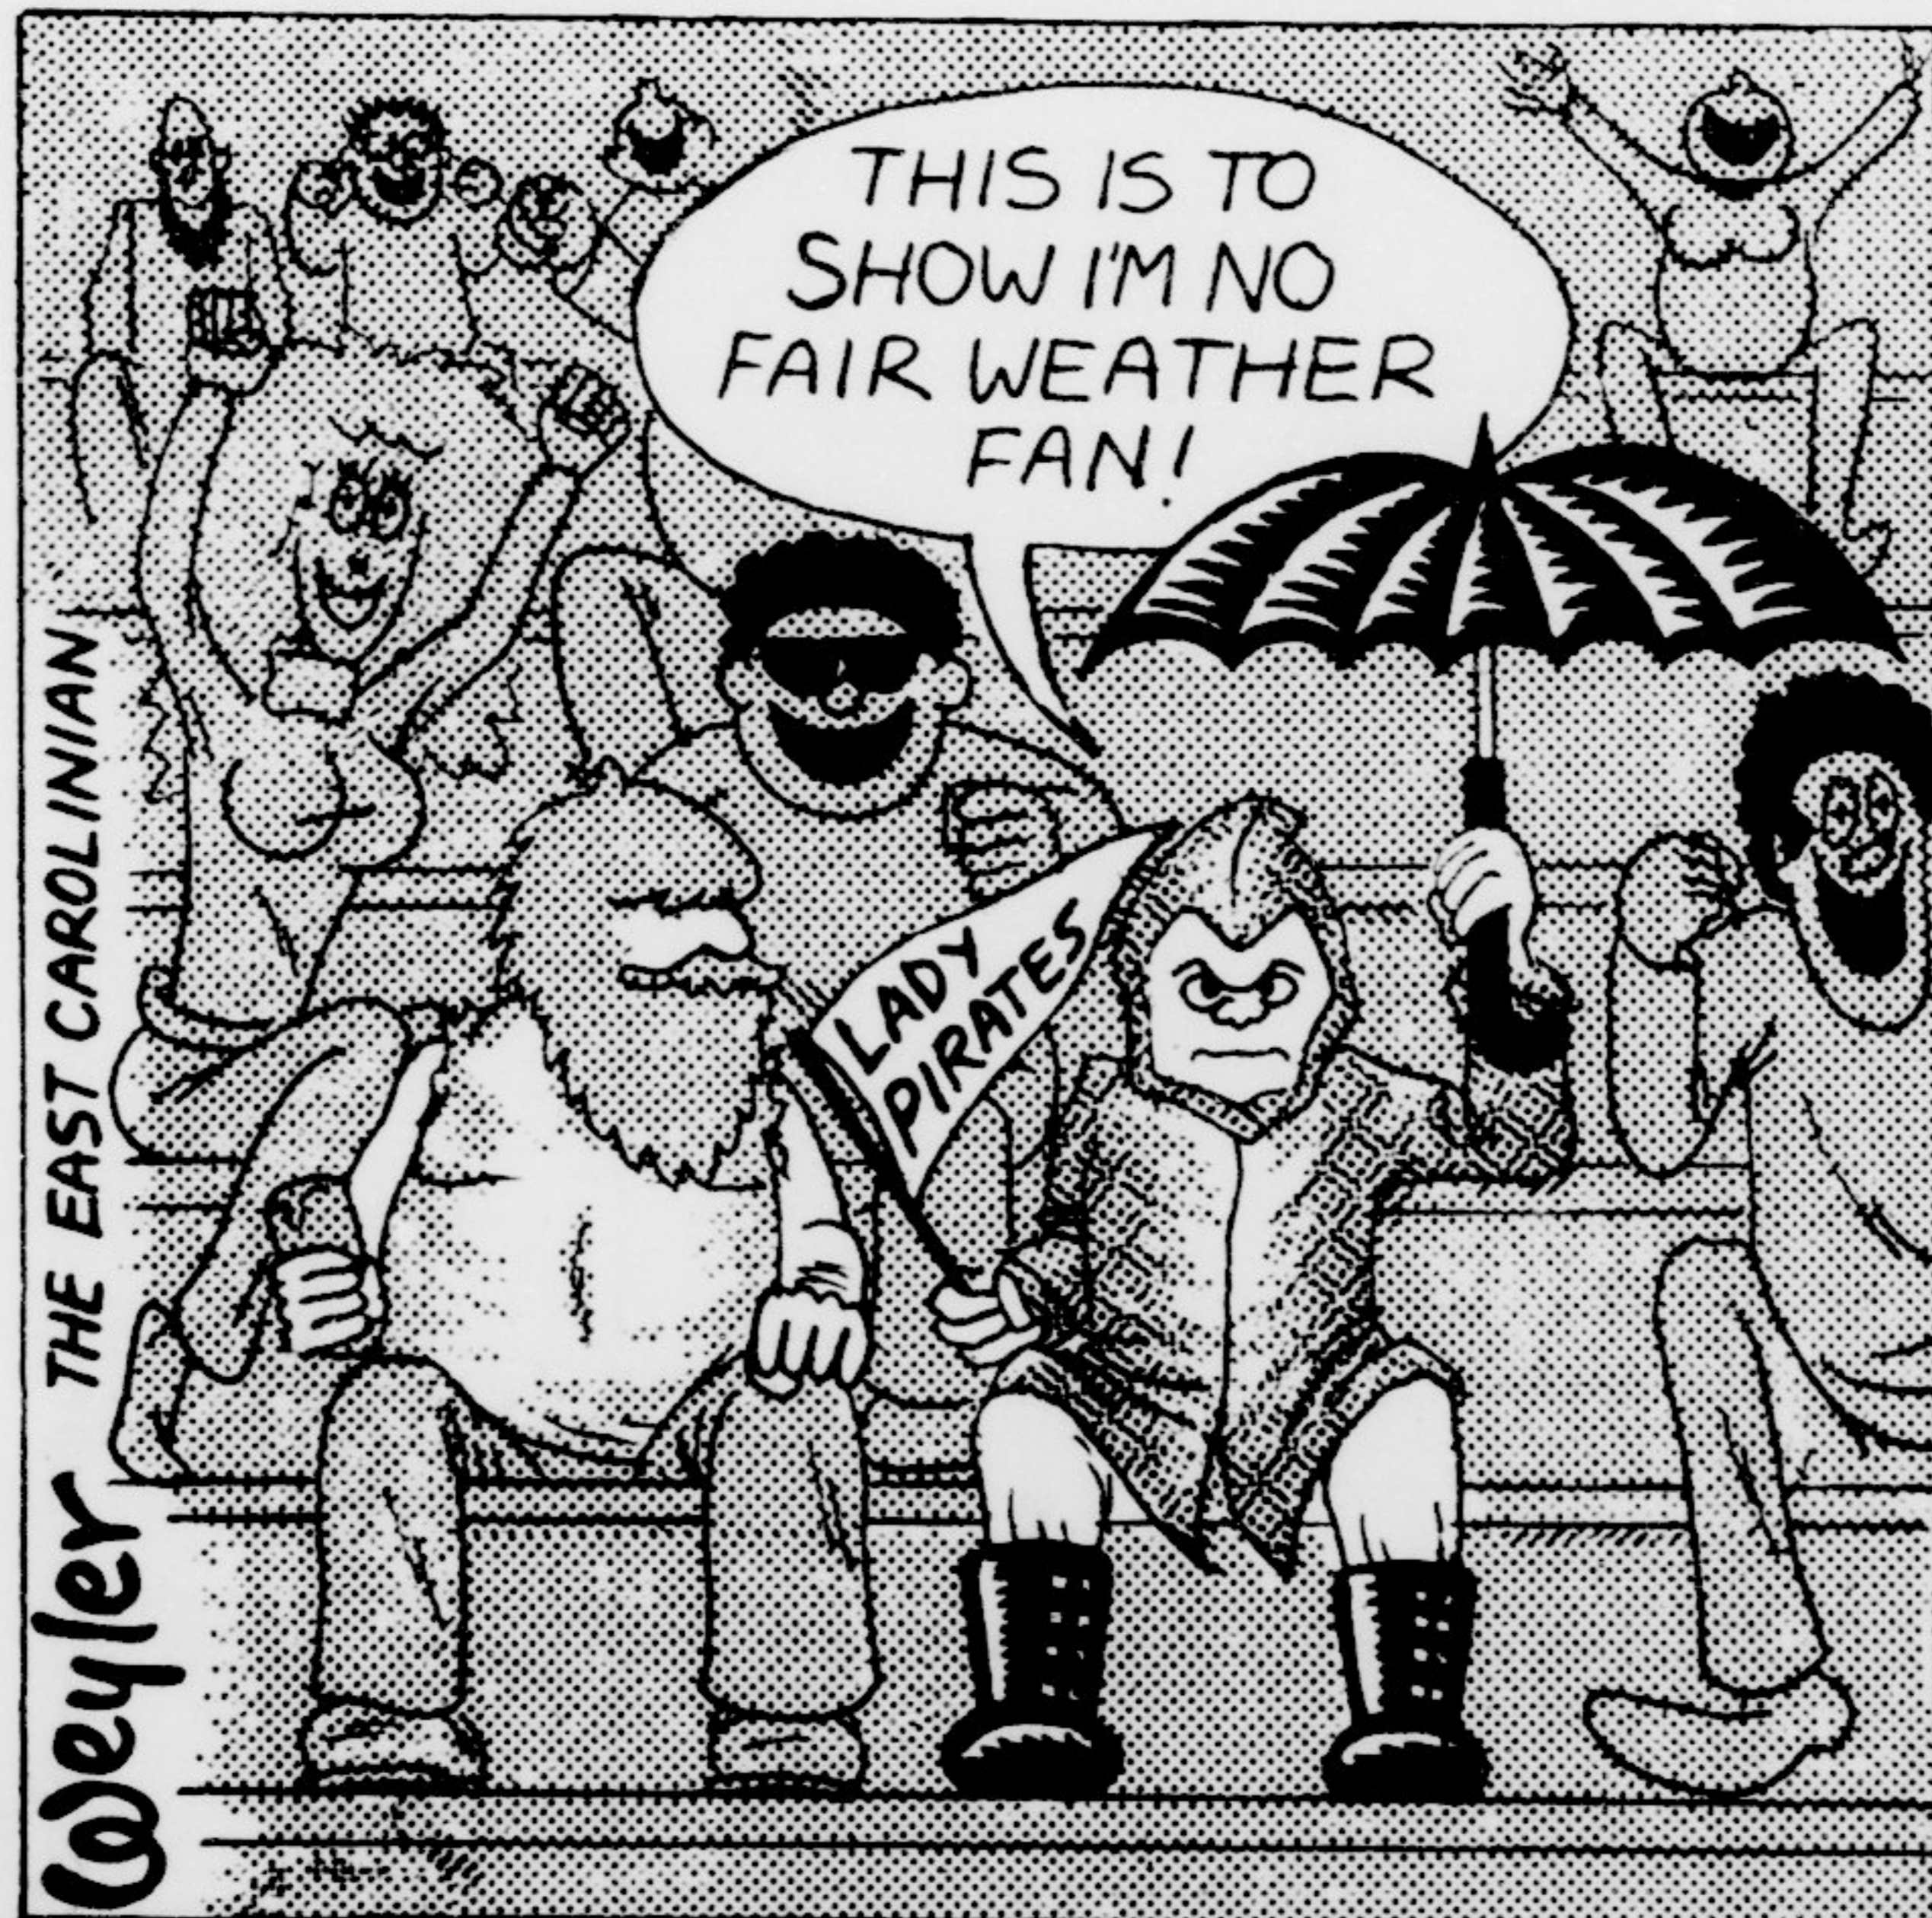

Considering alternatives is a step in the direction of living a way of life that is outwardly simple and inwardly rich, the essence of voluntary simplicity. Let's make this day responsive and life affirming, not mechanical and materialistic.

The Boss: Jersey Success Story

By FRED SCHRUERS

Bruce Springsteen, in the abstract, is just the kind of guy my little New Jersey hometown school-prisoners sometimes bust out of their cages with a special vengeance. The fear was as real as a black Chevy rumbling down your tree-lined block, and inside are six guys with baseball bats and tire irons.

One. As the entourage loads itself into a string of station wagons, a kid who has been hanging at the edge of the pack tells Bruce about a friend who's critically ill in a local hospital.

After the kid appeared, and was duly loaded up with autographed mementos, I pondered the gesture. Springsteen could have scribbled his good wishes on an album at the airport and been done with it.

probably why we come out and play every night, there's that fear, 'cause then nothin' works, nothin' makes sense. Music Faculty Duo To Give Recital

Soprano Antonia Dalapas and bass-baritone Edward Glenn, members of the East Carolina University School of Music voice faculty, will perform a recital of arias and duets from operas and songs from modern musical comedies Sunday, Feb. 8.

The program, scheduled for 8:15 p.m. in the A. J. Fletcher Music Center Recital Hall here, is free and open to the public.

The program will include the Figaro and Rosina duet from Rossini's "Barber of Seville," "non piu andrai" from Mozart's "Marriage of Figaro," "Tu, che di gel" from Puccini's "Turandot," the duet from Mascagni's "Cavalleria Rusticana," the Nile scene from Verdi's "Aida" and selections from musical comedies by Noel Coward, Rodgers and Hammerstein, Jerome Kern, Victor Herbert and Rodgers and Hart.

Antonia Dalapas, who has degrees from the New England Conservatory of Music, has performed in Oregon, New York and Washington, D.C., as well as extensively in the New England area. Edward Glenn has performed throughout Washington, D.C. and the southeastern U.S. and has been featured baritone soloist with the U.S. Navy Band.

Ensemble Concerts Presented Friday

Traditional and contemporary band and jazz music will be presented by the East Carolina University Symphonic Wind Ensemble and the ECU Jazz Ensemble in a joint concert Friday, Feb. 6, at 8:15 p.m. in Wright Auditorium here.

The program, free and open to the public, is a featured performance for participants in the All-State High School Band Clinic hosted by ECU Feb. 6-7.

The Wind Ensemble, conducted by Herbert Carter and Harold Jones of the ECU School of Music instrumental faculty, will present Gordon Jacob's version of "The Earle of Oxford's March," "Blue Lake Overture" by John Barnes Chance, Fisher Tull's "Jargon" (For Percussion Ensemble and Band) and "Variations on 'America'" by Charles Ives and William Schuman.

The Jazz Ensemble, conducted by ECU music faculty member George Broussard, will play contemporary jazz selections.

Wrestlers Seek Team As ECU Program Ends

By WILLIAM YELVERTON Staff Writer

When walking through the Minges Coliseum doors near the north end of Ficklen Stadium, the first object someone sees is a large trophy case containing awards and mementos of ECU's athletic past. These awards, to say the least, bring back many fond memories.

In the center of this trophy case is a section that stores the accomplishments of the ECU wrestling program. These awards are numerous and are the result of winning such competitions as the Monarch, Maryland and First Colonies Open tournaments. Also included is a plaque that signifies ECU once was named the N.C. Collegiate Wrestling Champions.

There will be no more trophies to add to the collection after this year, however, since the ECU wrestling program is being terminated because of its reported strain on the athletic program's budget.

The members of past ECU wrestling teams were once promising newcomers who developed into winners after gaining vital experience. But what about the newcomers on this year's squad? Where will they go? What will they do?

Some will transfer, like freshmen Jeff Leaf and Gary Webb, with the help of their coach, Hachiro Oishi.

"I'm thinking seriously about transferring right now," says the 118-pound Leaf, who hails from Mt. Pleasant, Pa. "Coach Oishi is in the process of talking to some schools for Gary and me, such as the University of Maryland, North Carolina and a couple of others."

Webb, who is a native of Newport News, Va., also looks to his coach to help him take his talent elsewhere.

"I think since Coach Oishi is popular on the wrestling scene is a very important factor. His popularity is going to help a whole lot of us find a school to attend."

East Carolina dominated the Southern Conference in wrestling for five straight years, being conference champions from 1971-1976. During these years the Pirates manhandled Atlantic Coast Conference teams while under Coach John Welborn. Those teams compiled a 74-8-3 record, which translates to a winning percentage of .870.

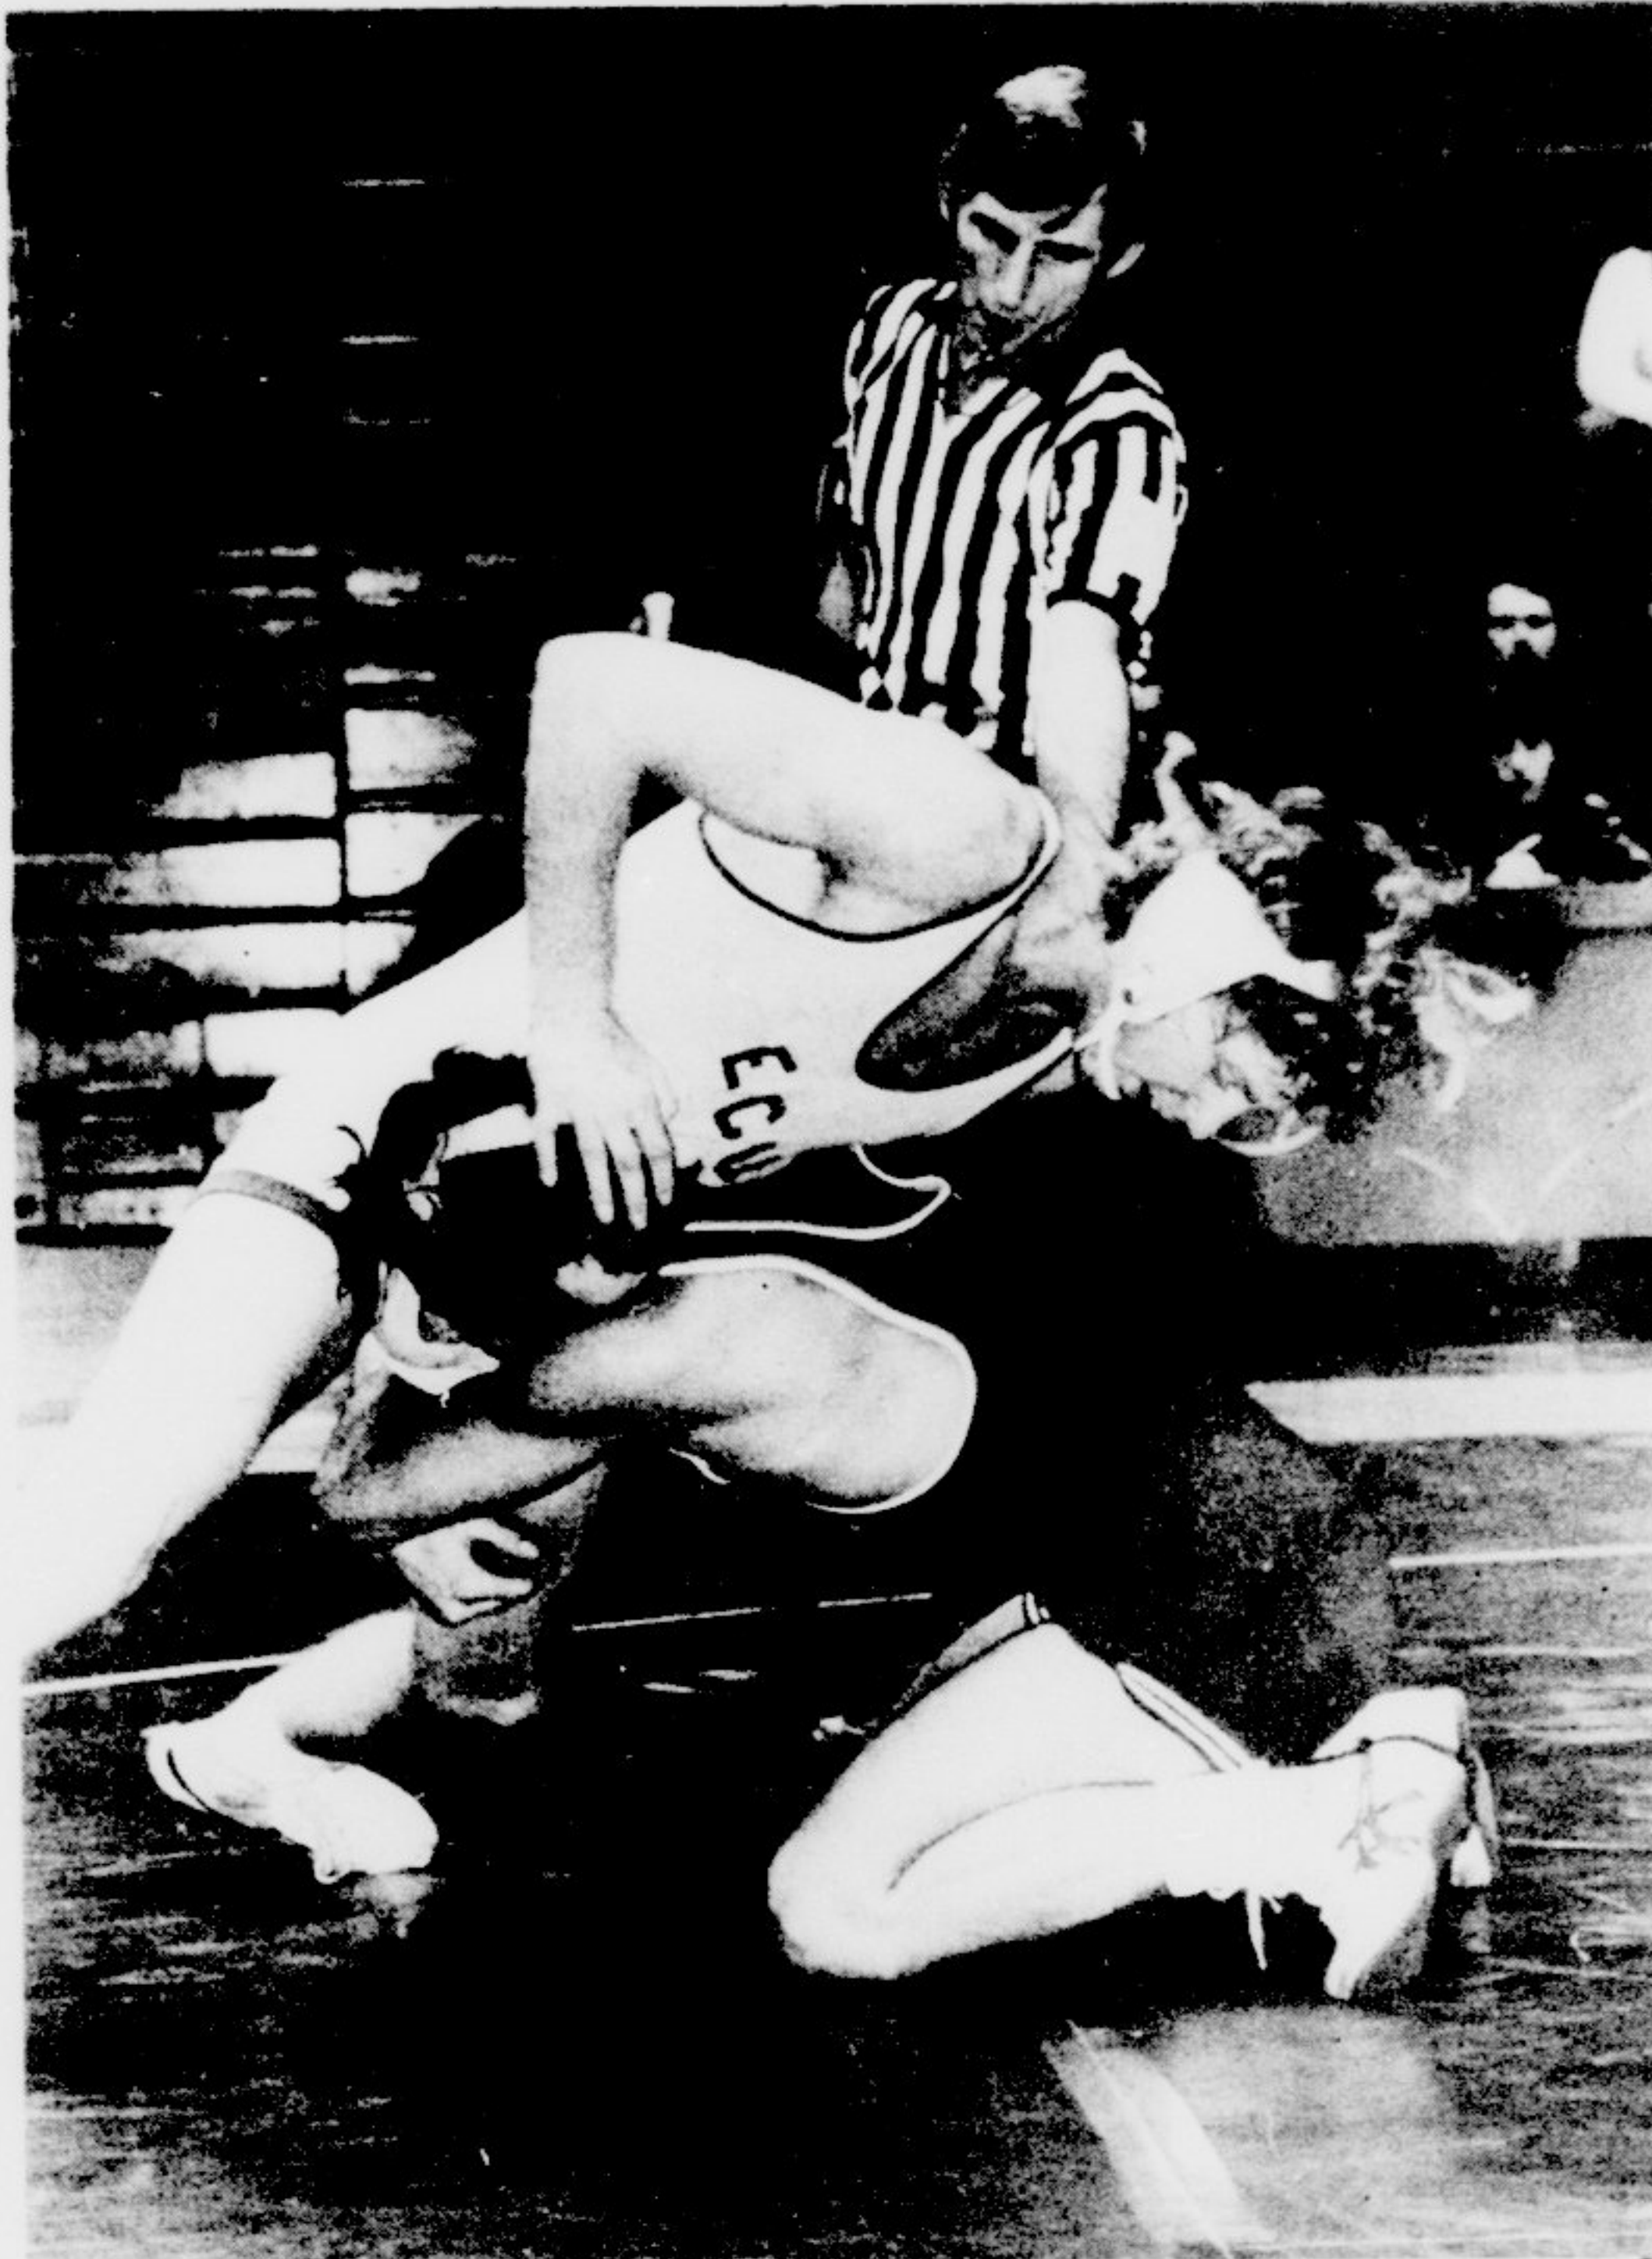

ECU wrestling was also very successful under Coach Ed Steers, who followed Welborn and was responsible for Webb and Leaf bringing their talents to Greenville.

"The reason I came to ECU," says Leaf, "was because of the way Coach Steers recruited me. I really thought ECU had a good wrestling program, but when I got here he accepted a job at the U.S. Military Academy. Coach Oishi is a real good coach, though, but with the situation the way it is, it just seems the whole program is being overlooked."

Both young men said they had opportunities to attend other schools in Pennsylvania, Ohio, West Virginia and Virginia, but were sold on ECU's wrestling tradition.

"My brother was recruited by Welborn," says Webb, who wrestles at 142 pounds, "so I was familiar with how strong this program was. I also knew Coach Steers well because he coached at a college in my area."

Even though both wrestlers were recruited by Steers, they pointed out that they were told he would be leaving before they enrolled at East Carolina.

ECU WRESTLING: Last action in Minges is set for Saturday. With the termination the younger Pirate team members are looking at possibility of transfer.

"Steers gave me the option of staying here or talking to some other coaches," Webb recalled. "I had some other offers still available, but I decided to stay here and stick it out. I figured there was always a chance that the wrestling program would be continued."

Leaf summed up many of the team members' feelings. "I really like ECU and especially the area. I surely wish they would continue the wrestling program here."

These young men won't be able to follow in the footsteps of former greats Bill Hill and Phil Mueller at ECU, but perhaps they will be successful at other schools.

As for the ECU wrestling program, there will be no more matches in Minges Coliseum after Saturday's encounter with VPI, Appalachian State and NCCU. There will be memories, however; memories of a wrestling program that once achieved greatness.

Swimmers Seek Revenge

A close defeat is not soon forgotten. This seems to be the feeling of many of the ECU swimmers as they approach this Saturday's men's and women's swim meet with Duke University at 1 p.m. in Minges Natatorium.

Both teams lost close meets to the Blue Devils last year and now have revenge on their minds. To make the challenge even greater, at least for the Lady Pirates, ECU will be facing a "world-class" swimmer in Nancy Hogthead. She is currently fourth in the nation (Division I) in the 200 individual medley, fifth nationally in the 100 butterfly, and eighth in the country in the 100 individual medley.

THE GREAT AMERICAN BEER SWITCH

Advertisement

50% of Michelob fans pull the switch for Schlitz

48% of 200 loyal Budweiser drinkers also prefer Schlitz

Schlitz' impressive showing against Michelob wasn't the first time loyal beer drinkers picked Schlitz over their brand. Results were similar in earlier tests against number one selling Budweiser.

In a live TV taste test conducted just before the second half of the Oakland-Houston playoff game, 46 out of 100 loyal Bud drinkers preferred Schlitz over their own beer. A week later, 100 more Bud drinkers were tested. This time 50%—exactly half—pulled the switch for Schlitz.

All in all, 48% of the loyal Bud drinkers tested liked Schlitz better. Prior to the test, the panelists had signed affidavits affirming that Budweiser was their beer. Most of them seemed confident that Bud would be their choice in the test. At least 48% left with a new outlook—and some, perhaps, with a new beer.

"I was confident" states Schlitz Chief Frank Sellinger

The results of the taste tests were not unexpected for Schlitz Chief Executive, Frank Sellinger.

"Some people thought it was risky to do live TV taste tests in front of millions of people," says Sellinger, "but it didn't take nerve, it just took confidence."

Sellinger, a master brewer for 40 years, has helped brew some of the world's finest beers. Since joining the company three years ago, he has concentrated on making Schlitz the best premium beer on the market.

"They brought me here to brew the best," says Sellinger. "And this Schlitz is it."

It seems quite a few of the Bud, Miller and Michelob drinkers tested agree.

It was Schlitz vs. Michelob Beer—and former NFL Retiree Tommy Bell called the score for Schlitz in the live TV taste test.

50 out of 100 Michelob drinkers pick Schlitz on live Super Bowl TV

100 million fans watched as Schlitz took on Michelob in the finale of "The Great American Beer Switch." The dramatic test was conducted live during half-time of the Super Bowl game.

The huge audience witnessed 100 loyal Michelob drinkers choose between two unlabelled beers—their own Michelob and today's Schlitz. The outcome proved a surprise to many Michelob drinkers who found themselves preferring the taste of Schlitz over the taste of Michelob.

Each of the 100 loyal Michelob drinkers was served two beers, one Schlitz and one Michelob, in unlabelled ceramic mugs. Tasters were told to indicate a tie, or make a choice by pulling an electronic switch left or right in the direction of the beer they preferred. To insure fairness, the testing was conducted by a leading independent consumer research firm. The results were validated by another top statistical research company, Erick and Lavidge, Inc.

Before the test, the Michelob drinkers probably thought they would pick their own brand. A lot of them seemed surprised as they watched the number of Michelob drinkers who preferred Schlitz flash up for national TV.

200 Miller drinkers tested: Schlitz is preferred by 37%

In the weeks following the impressive showing against #1 Budweiser, Schlitz went head to head against another leading beer—Miller.

In two taste tests appearing on live television, a total of 200 loyal Miller drinkers were asked to choose between their beer and Schlitz. Again, a significant number of Miller drinkers decided their beer was second best and pulled the switch for Schlitz.

Beer fans surprised at choice of Schlitz

Panelists who decided their beer was second best and chose Schlitz expressed surprise. Similar reactions have been registered in other taste tests across the country.

"I honestly selected the beer I preferred and it wasn't Miller," admitted Miller drinker, Albert Gualano.

"I'm genuinely surprised," exclaimed Guy D'Anne, "I thought Bud was better but I've been proved wrong." Schlitz has much better flavor than Miller, and it goes down easier.

attested Bill Weber: "I could drink it all night."

Panelist Bernie Felsbit summed up the reaction of many of the Bud, Miller and Michelob drinkers when he said, "There may be a new beer in my future."

Do it yourself—try the "Great American Beer Switch" test

This test requires two identical mugs, a Schlitz and your regular beer, at equal temperature. Label the mugs "1" and "2" so the taster won't know which beer is which. Pour the beers to equal heads out of the taster's sight.

To ensure that the choice is made on taste alone, serve the beer in non-transparent mugs or have the taster close his eyes. Now let the taster sample both of the beers and choose the one that tastes better. Now you taste both beers yourself. Did you pick your regular brand? Or today's Schlitz?
