Population Increases Drastically

By MIKE HUGHES
Staff Writer

At the current rate of growth, the estimated world population will pass the eight billion mark by the year 2110, according to a United Nations report.

The world amounted to four billion people in 1975, representing a 100 percent increase in just 45 years. According to 1980 statistics, the world population is now 4,463,780,000.

The UN report shows that in 1830, the world population reached one billion. By 1930, that figure had doubled and by 1960, the world population had increased to three billion.

The statistics also show that if the current two percent annual rate of increase persists, the 1960 world population will double early in the 21st century.

The United States, with a population of 223,674,000, currently represents 5 percent of the world total. Even with a rapid decline in the rate of fertility, the US will reach 288 million by the year 2000, according to predictons issued by the World Bank in 1975.

Asia and Australia, with combined populations of more than 2.5 billion, comprise 58 percent of the world total, according to the World Bank, and that total is expected to climb to three billion by 1990.

Robert C. Cook, former president of the Population Reference Bureau, said that three-fourths of the world's people— more than three billion— are inhabitants of underdeveloped nations, including those in Latin America, Asia and Africa. Cook predicts that those countries will not be capable of keeping up with the "horrendous task" of providing food, education, housing and other essentials for their people.

"Personally," he said, " I can't see how such large numbers of young people are even going to survive, much less grow up to be useful citizens for their countries or of the world."

Board Begins Its Search For A New Chancellor

By TOM HALL
News Editor

The ECU Board of Trustees began its search for a new chancellor last Friday, disproving any rumors that the board would ask Thomas B. Brewer to remain.

A search committee will be named by the middle of this week, according to trustees chairman Ashley B. Futrell.

Futrell said UNC system president William Friday could not give the board a definite date in naming an interim chancellor. Brewer has requested a leave with pay until the end of June.

"Mr. Friday gave us every confidence that he would have a new chancellor by June 30," Futrell said after a closed board session. "The search committee will get the best man or woman available."

No resolution was offered to the board to ask Brewer to remain, according to Futrell. There were expressions by some trustees that Brewer had done a fine job and that they would like Brewer to stay, the board chairman added, but other trustees said they wanted to move forward.

"We are not going to let any grass grow under our feet," Futrell said. Since Brewer's resignation was made to Friday and not to the board, the trustees could not change the status of the resignation, according to Futrell.

Brewer left before the end of the closed session.

Dr. Joseph Boyette, dean of the ECU graduate school, will be the executive secretary of the search committee and will set up an office in the Willis Building "in a few days," Futrell said.

The committee will be made up of five trustees, four faculty members, the president of the alumni association and the president of the student body, according to Futrell. "The chairman has the prerogative of adding one or two more members," he added.

When asked to comment on his being named to the search committee, SGA president Lester Nail said it was "a great responsibility." Nail added that "due to the delicacy of the situation," the board had agreed that any comments about the search would have to come from the chairman.

In the board's open session, Dr. William Laupus, dean of the School of Medicine, announced that the Brody Medical Science Building should be completed by May 19, 1982. The medical school will accept 64 students into its program for next fall. A median age of 24 in ECU medical students shows the program's interest in students who decide to enter the school later than most, Laupus said.

All the students in the medical program are "bona fide residents of North Carolina," Laupus said, adding that this is the first year the school has permitted early admissions.

Dr. Elmer Meyer, vice chancellor for student life, said a survey of 1979 graduates showed that the area of highest dissatisfaction during their time at ECU had been in the campus food service.

"There have been no complaints about the food service this fall whatsoever," Meyer said. He added that food service revenues had increased 21 percent this year.

Dr. Robert Maier, vice chancellor for academic affairs, announced that 67 percent of the students enrolled at ECU were female. All North Carolina counties but one are represented at the university, and students from four other states and 30 foreign nations attend.

Career Experts Attend

By MIKE DAVIS
Staff Writer

ECU sponsored a journalism and publications workshop Saturday for approximately 130 North Carolina high school students.

Experts from journalism, public relations and speech and broadcasting discussed careers in broadcasting, magazine production, student publications and the law, yearbook production and design, layout, critiques and many other topics.

Separate workshops were held in the Jenkins Fine Arts Center auditorium and the old wing of Joyner Library. Dr. Robert Maier, vice chancellor for academic affairs, welcomed the students and Henry Hinton of WNCT-TV gave thne keynote address.

Students from North and South Durham, Southwest Edgecombe, Jacksonville Senior, Cardinal Gibbons, Cape Fear and Rose High Schools attended the workshop.

Monika Sutherland, a former ECU yearbook editor, stressed the importance of keeping a theme throughout a yearbook, making sure all aspects of student life are covered and always writing in the past tense.

Faculty member James Rees spoke on careers in broadcasting. John Warren, associate professor in ohe Department of English, addressed the group on editorial and column writing, legal considerations in student publications, and news and sports photography.

Ken Smith, assistant athletic director for public relations, talked about access to sports news.

Buccaneer editor Amy Pickett, Lisa Coleman, Monika Sutherland and Craig Sahli took part in the sessions on layout and critiques in yearbook design.

Education Plans Stymied

WASHINGTON (CPS)— It was an event that would "pay rich dividends in the future," President Jimmy Carter predicted.

It was "a remarkable, glorious day for education," Vice President Walter Mondale enthused.

At least that's what they thought 16 months ago, when beaming politicians and educators gathered at a "Salute to Learning Day" to christen the brand-new U.S. Department of Educaton.

Now, President Ronald Reagan has rendered the department moribund, a victim of his resolve to dismantle it.

Fulfilling a campaign promise, the president is expected to recommend either that the department be demoted to agency or foundation status, that it be returned to the U.S. Dept. Of Health and Human Services (which used to be the Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare before education programs were moved to their own cabinet home), or that its agencies be divided among a number of existing cabinet departments.

Reagan and his fellow conservatives have never hidden their dislike of the department, which they call a bureaucratic intrusion into state and local affairs.

Indeed, the first bill to dismantle the department was introduced in Congress in October 1979, before President Carter even had a chance to sign the bill creating the department into law.

More surprising than Reagan's proposal is the lack of alarm of college officials around the country. They generally greet news of the department's demise with cautious approval or, more typically, outright apathy.

Those most opposed to dismantling the department are Washington, D.C. college lobbyists.

"We'll fight this move to the end," vows Bill Stafford of the National Education Association (NEA), the teachers' union that had lobbied for three decades for a cabinet -level education department.

Many viewed the department's establishment as Jimmy Carter's political payoff to the NEA.

"Every other country in the Western world has a secretary of education," Stafford contends. "This is nothing new for him. He'd like to go back to his early days, back to the little red schoolhouse. He thinks, 'If I made it on my own, why can't everyone else?' "

Interestingly, the NEA's arch-rival American Federation of Teachers (AFT), which originally lobbied against establishing the department, now favors the department's continued existence, albeit mutedly.

"It's better than nothing at all," says AFT publicist Scott Widmeyer, who adds his organization would approve returning education programs to Health and Human Services.

"The AFT doesn't like the idea of a federal agency telling state governments what to do," Widmeyer says. "Yet we don't want all the power to go back to the states, either. Local interference would be much worse than anything the federal government might do."

John Mallon of the American Association of State Colleges and Universities agrees. "There are just so many problems with state and local government as regards education that we'd hate to lose the kind of overseeing agency that we have now."

Yet general reaction among college administrators outside of Washington doesn't seem nearly as worried.

"I don't think it would have much effect on our university," observes Albert Jones, presidential assistant at the University of Georgia. "If abolishing the department would help do away with federal intrusion into state education, that would be fine."

"I don't feel the loss will have any significant effect on us as long a some form of body remains in Washington," adds Indiana University Vice President Kenneth Gros Lewis.

Columbia Vice President Gregory Fusco is sceptical about the importance of cabinet-level department. "Higher education, as a whole, never has been very concerned about a department of education; thus it's unlikely there will be much opposition (to its demise)."

Fusco says "it's the federal programs themselves that are important to us, not the organization of government bureaucracy."

Oklahoma Vice President Gerald Turner agrees. "In some ways, less government attention is better. It means less red tape."

Smaller schools seem as unconcerned as the larger ones. "We're on solid private footing," says Robert Haslun, presidential

Freshmen Now More Practical

WASHINGTON (CPS)— Is money everything? Is social idealism dead? Well, that may be true, at least in this year's college freshman class. A newly-released study by the National Center for Education Statistics indicated clear evidence that today's incoming college freshmen are more economically pragmatic and less socially idealistic in their career planning than their predecessors of a decade ago.

"There's no question students have become more conservative," says Dr. Samuel S. Peng, chief architect of the study, which observed the educational and occupational plans and activities of 1980 high school seniors and sophomores.

Among other things, the study revealed a dramatic shift of preference in expected college majors. In a similiar 1972 survey, social science (including such fields as history, sociology, psychology and social work) was the most popular option, chosen by nearly a fifth of all college-bound seniors. In the 1980 study, business ranked in a class by itself, the choice of 22 percent of future collegians.

Engineering came in second at 10 percent while social science preference was more than sliced in half, to a mere eight percent.

"Students are quite aware of what fields are economically 'safe' these days, says Peng, "and are eager to take advantage of the fact."

Just as revealing, Peng notes, is the study's tabulation of student "life goals." While most goal preferences remain similiar between the 1972 and 1980 surveys (success, a happy family life, good friends, etc.), "having lots of money" jumped a full 12 percent in importance. "Working to correct social and economic inequalities" dropped a corresponding 14 percent.

It's very clear," Peng asserts, "that today's incoming collegian is much more interested in making as much money as he can, and that this may indeed be the prime purpose in getting an education. Times have changed decidedly from a decade ago."

Peng's study team plans to follow the same group of students through its freshman year to see "how much the college experience may change their attitudes and themselves. This has never been attempted before. It should prove fascinating, to say the least."

Give to the college student of your choice.

Reagan Planning To Dismantle U.S. Department Of Education

presidential assistant at Oberlin College. "I don't think abolishing a department will mean abolishing the government's interest in education."

"It's doubtful (abolition) would have any effct on us," adds Barbara Lawrence of Middlebury College in Vermont. "We're pretty self-sufficient."

"There's no evidence that having a cabinet-level department directly over education has been a gain or a loss," points out Assistant Vice president Sam Baker of the University of Illionois. "Policy is made in Congress, not the education department. Yet, there's nothing apparent that the department's been effective even as a lobbying organization."

The prevailing administrative apathy seems best summed up by Glen Grant, assistant chancellor at California-Berkeley. "I doubt that there's any opinion on this one way or another here, even on a personal level. I just don't think having a department of education makes any difference."

Illegal Aliens

Immigrants' Adoption Pending

According to federal estimates, up to six million illegal aliens now live in the United States. In 1980 alone, American border patrols were eluded by about 1.5 million unauthorized immigrants.

They arrive hungry, tired, broke, frightened and almost always illiterate. They sleep on the ground or in makeshift huts and will jump at the chance to work 70 hours a week for as little as $60.

In many parts of the country, this overflowing resource of willing workers is taking over the unskilled labor market, depressing wages and forcing people out of a job.

Soon, President Reagan plans to ask Congress to grant temporary legal status to all illegal immigrants who entered the United States before 1980 and allow them a chance to become legal residents if they fulfill certain requirements.

In August 1981, according to the Census Bureau, 29.3 million Americans or 13 percent of the population were living below the official poverty line of $8,414. Next month, as part of Reagan's budget cuts, about 678,000 of America's welfare families will lose all or some of their benefits.

These families belong to America. They call this country home.

If the United States can't support her own citizens, it has no business adopting several million newcomers.

Send the aliens back where they came from.

Budget Cuts Affect South, Jeopardize Future Growth

Congress will cut taxes over the next three years by $280 billion and spending by only $130 billion. Economic experts now believe that the federal deficit next year could be $20 billion larger than President Reagan thought. All this means more cuts are coming.

We, the people of the South, will be the biggest losers. We live in the poorest region of this country. The South has 32 percent of the nation 's children, but what is more startling is the fact that 40 percent of this country's poor children reside in this region.

Just look at what is being cut. The Economic Development Administration, whose main responsibility is developing grants for water and sewer systems that mean growth to this state is being cut. The Appalachian Regional Commission, an organization that has supported growth throughout poverty-stricken mountain areas in North Carolina is being cut.

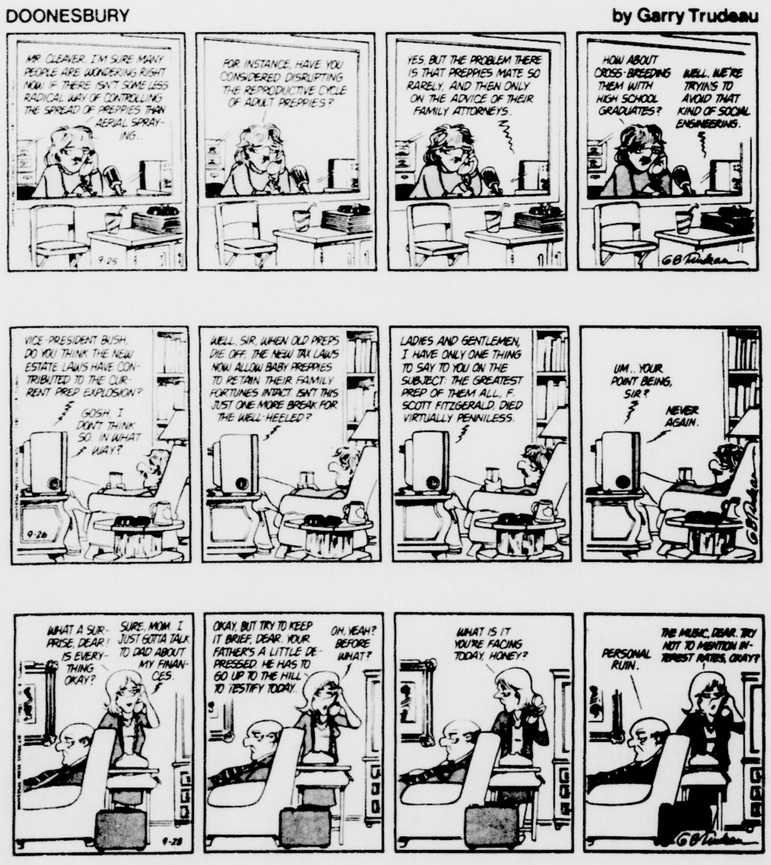

Our region is becoming more and more attractive to industry because of climate, location and most importantly, because of hard-working people. We need good health care for children, good schools, good nutrition and good job training for adults. What is more important to President Reagan? Defense, interest on the national debt and veterans' benefits will only be scrapped while we will feel the full impact of his knife.

Roads in this state are in terrible condition, yet hopes of improving I-40 have vanished, along with special water projects, because of these senseless cuts. These projects not only would have meant growth to our state but would provide badly-needed jobs.

We are having the rug pulled out from under us at a time when our region is growing faster than any other section of the United States.

The Future is Now, President Reagan. We, the people of the South, need these programs so we can continue to grow, not fall back into the Reconstruction Era.

Cartoonist 'Voices' Unpopular Ideas

By JOHN WEYLER

Campus Spectrum

I usually express myself editorially in the rectangle in the upper right hand corner of this page, but since my cartoons have stirred up a storm of controversy lately, I thought I'd take advantage of the opportunity this Campus Spectrum column offers to discuss exactly what an editorial cartoonist does.

Simply put, an editorial cartoon is a visual editorial. It uses graphic techniques and humor to make a statement of opinion on current events. Ironically, while an editorial cartoonist's tools include distortion and over-simplification, his drawings often express the truth better than a written editorial. And a wise man once said, "The truth shall set you free." But it shall also get you into trouble.

Thomas Nast, the Babe Ruth of political cartoons, turned down a bribe offered him by Boss Tweed, the nineteenth-century politician whose corrupt career was cut short by Nast's drawings. The great caricaturist, Daumier, was thrown in jail by King Louis Phillippe after one of his cartoons offended the monarch. I get nasty letters from SGA presidents and football managers, among others.

Let us examine one of the cartoons in question and the resulting controversy. One, which was quoted in The News and Observer depicted Chancellor Brewer on a boat waving to an empty dock, with a child beside him saying, "Daddy, where's all the crowds you said was gonna wish us goodbye?" The caption read "Bon Voyage, Mr. Brewer." The drawing engendered a few angry letters in The East Carolinian's Campus Forum, stating that it "gives the university a very bad image."

Personally, knowing little about the man, I have no opinion of Dr. Brewer at all (except that I think his toupee is atrocious). The cartoon was a comment on the fact that most students couldn't care less about Dr. Brewer's impending departure and also that some of the high-ranking officials at ECU are not exactly sad to see him go. Of course, if every faculty and staff member here was forced to make a public, printed statement on the chancellor's resignation, each and every one of them would say, "I am deeply saddened at his leaving. ECU is the greatest university in the world solelly through his mighty efforts," or words to that effect. Why? Because faculty and staff members (not to mention SGA politicians) have jobs to protect. Cartoonists are paid so little that we don't have to worry about that. Therefore, through our cartoons, we can state the truth while others sometimes cannot.

If you think I've been in hot water lately, you should see the tidal wave rising around Doug Marlette, the cartoonist of The Charlotte Observer. He is so deluged with hate mail that an Observer editor, Richard Oppel, recently rose to his defense in an editorial entitled "A Cartoonist's Irritating Mission."

One important point Oppel made was, "Rather than riding the bandwagon of popular sentiment, a cartoonist can serve a higher purpose by standing on the curb and screaming, 'Do you really know where you're going?' "

Another controversial cartoon of mine appeared in the latest issue of The Ebony Herald, showing a plaque bearing the letters "N.C." defaced with an assortment of grotesque graffiti such as "Nigger Go Home" and "Death to All Commies." Now, unless the city of Greensboro is a figment of my imagination, everyone knows North Carolina is full of fascists, freaks, KKKers, Nazis and other varieties of humanoid scum. How then, can anyone object to a cartoon reminding people of this fact, unless they'd rather pretend the problem doesn't exist and try to ignore all the blatant violations of human rights (and lives) committed by such creeps?

As long as newspaper publishers and editors remain firm in their commitment to bring responsible opposing viewpoints, we editorial cartoonists will continue to say what has been left unsaid or what needs to be said and at the tops of our lungs.

An editorial page is large enough for all sorts of opinions, and if anybody else out ther doesn't like mine, by all means feel free to write in, criticize my opinions and express your own. Open exchange of ideas is what freedom of speech is all about.

Besides, I love publicity.

ECU Soccer Deserves Attention

Hopefully you could publish this letter before the ECU-N.C. State soccer game this Wednesday the 30th. I'd like a moment to shed some light on the importance of this game. I played soccer for N.C. State back in '75. We played ECU and tied 3-3. State is a bitter rival for ECU and vice versa. I've watched the program here progress over the past six years, and the change is astonishing. Considering that almost every other soccer supporting school in the nation spends seven or eight times more on their programs than we, I'd say Brad Smith has performed a miracle (the miracle of Pitt County, anyway). ECU offers no full scholarships for soccer; the only schools I know of that offer anything less than full scholarships are junior colleges. ECU is in Division I, which is the tops in the nation, competition-wise. How we manage to win any games in that or any other division is pure testament to the character of the players here.

No, they are not playing here for The Bucks, but only for the love of the game itself. That says it all. If you all never see another soccer game again, go see this one — it should be a good one. State is in the top twenty, with one player who has already been drafted by the pros. This is the strongest team ECU has ever fielded, so come out and enjoy watching them.

'Poor Taste' Displayed

The Mushroom opened its doors on Oct. 12, 1967. For these past 14 years I have enjoyed the friendship of ECU students– a friendship born in the era of Woodstock, Vietnam, Love and Peace — an era today's students didn't experience. But The Mushroom and ECU students have been through a lot together. I'm happy the friendship we've shared still exists.

I doubt if there is an organization, Fraternity, Sorority, or Dorm on campus that hasn't more than once solicited by help in one way or another — and, that help was gladly given (everything from door prizes to bail money). It has NOT been "taking, taking, taking" and "never giving" as your editorial of Sept. 22 suggests.

I cannot speak for all of Greenville, and neither should you make such generalizations. I do not think all merchants are "leeches" and I think most of us are sincere when we say "Welcome Back Students".

Respect is a two way street. I suggest that your article will do little to foster that respect you are demanding.

This editorial was just another example of the poor taste The East Carolinian has displayed recently. Some of us remember when East Carolinian – Fountainhead was a fine little student paper! Of course, that was back in the old days before YOU "put us on the map"!

I'm confident it does not reflect the attitude of the students I know.

Have fun with your boycott — I guess that does beat a Panty Raid!

Ad Staff Apologizes

On September 22, 1981, the downtown merchants of Greenville contributed greatly to a Student Appreciation Issue of the East Carolinian. In the same issue, without any foreknowledge of the advertising staff of the East Carolinian, Paul Collins, the editor of our paper, wrote a cynical and entirely unfounded editorial centered around his personal viewpoint that the Greenville merchants were "bleeding the students" of East Carolina.

We, the advertising staff of this newspaper, working on our own valition, would like to apologize to the subjects of this unreasonable editorial. Where would we, as students, be without The Attic, Grogs, Pantana Bobs, The Rafters, The Elbo Room, The Treehouse, Chapter X — just to name a few — to go to and relax, party and generally unwind? These places do not "bleed" students — they give students needed sustenance by providing them with entertainment with low or no entrance fee policies, as a general rule. The remainder of the businesses downtown also contribute in their own individual ways. Somehow, Heart's Delight and Bissette's — just examples — do not seem to be "bleeders"!!

If Mr. Collins wishes to view "bleeding" — well, Atlantic Beach is a scant hour and a half from here. THERE one can learn the true meaning of the term "to bleed."

The entire advertising staff of The East Carolinian, in complete cooperation with the Greenville merchants, worked extremely hard on the September 22nd issue — not solely with the support of the editor at times. It is indeed a shame that it came out the way it did.

Again, the advertising staff of this newspaper feels an apology is in order. We would like to take this time to say that we appreciate ALL the merchants of Greenville — not just the downtown merchants — and we feel this is the sentiment of the majority of the students of East Carolina. BOYCOTT? NAY, SUPPORT!!

Maynard Ferguson: Forty-Year Jazzist Still Going Strong

The Student Union Special Concerts Committee will present "An Evening With Maynard Ferguson" on Monday, October 12, at 8 p.m. The concert will be held in Mendenhall Student Center's Hendrix Theatre.

Tickets are $4.50 for students and $6.50 for the general public and are currently on sale at the Central Ticket Office in Mendenhall Student Center.

Maynard Ferguson is one musician within the jazz world who can truly be labeled a "legend in his own time." After 40 years as a musical veteran, Maynard is releasing his first album of the 1980's (and his twelfth Columbia release) aptly titled It's My Time.

Born outside Montreal, Quebec on May 4, 1928, he started studying piano and violin at age four. Five years later he enrolled at the French Conservatory of Music in Montreal (Oscar Peterson's Alma Mater). There he studied all the reed and brass instruments (saxophone, clarinet, oboe, french horn, trombone), and eventually settled on the trumpet.

We were first introduced to Maynard in Boyd Raeburn's briefly reorganized band of the late '40's, then with Jimmy Dorsey for a while. Bandleader Charlie Barnet got Maynard to leave Canada for Los Angeles in 1949, when his stormy reputation was confirmed on a recording of "All The Things You Are." Jerome Kern wrote the love song for his wife, and sued Capitol Records (Barnet's label) for their "bastardization" of the song. Maynard won unanimous, critical acclaim though, and within a year was hired as Stan Kenton's high-note trumpet man. Over the next three consecutive years, 1950-52, he won the Downbeat poll hands down.

After the Kenton years, Maynard was chosen first-call trumpeter for Paramount Pictures in Hollywood, in the heyday of the contract orchestras. For instance you can hear

如何接中待華民國青年友好

The Youth Goodwill Mission of the Republic of China will present Chinese songs and dances in an appearance at ECU on Wednesday, October 7, at 8 p.m. in Minges Coliseum. The group is currently on its seventh U.S. Tour.

The Mission consists of 14 members, six male students and eight female and a stage manager, selected from more than 20 universities and colleges in Taiwan.

Their backgrounds and majors are as different as any group of students around the world. Like all other students, they wear blue jeans, drink Coca Cola, listen to rock 'n' roll, and dance to the disco beat. But deep in their hearts, they are Chinese, greatly influenced by the Confucian heritage.

They are a good sample of the youth in the Republic of China: in tune with their time, idealistic, always full of hope for the future.

Among the members of the group, only a few major in Dance or Music. With a little help from artist friends, they prepared a one-hour show called An Adventure in Chinese Songs and Dances in which they present their cultural heritage, in a four part program, in their own way.

Part One: Chinese martial arts have a long history. They began by initating the movements of birds and animals. Since then, they have been handed down from one generation to the next. They can be divided into hundreds of schools and branches.

However, there are two main branches: the internal and the external schools. The internal school, also known as the Wu-Tang School, is concerned with strengthening muscles, breath control, harmony between one's inner self and external forces, and intuitive response to attack.

The external, also known as the Shao-Lin School, emphasize the manipulation of the bones and muscles, the repidity of movement, and coordination of hard and soft movements. Chinese martial art may also be classified according to locality.

In the south, punching with the fist is emphasized; whereas, in the north, kicking with the feet received more attention. Although employing different methods all the schools of Chinese martial arts have attained a high level of excellence.

The program will include an internal form and five external styles: Tai-Chi boxing as the internal form, and Montis Boxing, Eagle Boxing, Tiger Boxing, Crane Boxing, and Snake Boxing as the external styles.

From them, one can apprehend the basic characteristics and the specialized movements of Chinese martial arts. At the end of the program, the group will present the Boxing Dance which is a combination of dancing and Chinese boxing.

Part Two: Chinese dancing may be traced all the way back to the time before the invention of written characters, when ancient people commemorated the creation and discovery of skills by their ancestors through dances.

It was during about 400 B.C. that fork dances of the northern and southern areas were merged, as were palace dancing and tribal dances of people along borders. For thousands of years, dancing has be an intergral part of the Chinese people's daily life.

This program will introduce five newly created dance members, the titles of which, in order, are Miao Tribe Lass, Love Songs of the New Territory, Love Songs of Kangting, Sword Dance and Lantern Dance.

Part Three: The movements of kites soaring high in the crystal-clean autumn sky resemble the contented hearts of this generation. In Taiwan, people are enjoying peace, happiness, and prosperity. The boys tending cows are playing flutes and singing merrily, while the little girls sing along in harmony. Without a worry in the world, they fly kites, buy a string of plums, and chase each other in play. Later the girls will take their hoes to the fields.

Diligent work brings the pleasures of a rich harvest, and this all the people in the village will celebrate together.

Part Four: Music is an international language. At the end of the program, the group will sing songs in English and Chinese.

New York Mime Keith Berger Says It With Silence

One of America's most exciting performers of the art of mime will be on campus today for teasers, an afternoon workshop, and an evening performance at 8 p.m. in Mendenhall Student Center's Hendrix Theatre. Berger has studied the classical French mime of Marcel Marceau as well as ancient oriental methods. He is called "The Prince of Mime" by his former teacher, Marceau. Tickets for his performance are selling fast at only $2 for students, $3 for faculty and staff, and $4 for the general public. They can be purchased at Mendenhall's Central Ticket Office. For information regarding the workshop call the Program Office, Mendenhall Student Center. The appearance is sponsored by the Student Union Special Events Committee.

College Bowl Begins Shortly

Many remember College Bowl from television (to which it will soon return). Some started playing simply to add an additional activity for their group and discovered they really had fun. A few are trying to prove somehthing to themselves or someone else. All are engaged in the spirit of competition which rests on the quickness of one's brain and reflexes. All soon discover that College Bowl is both an individual and a team sport.

Team registration for College Bowl began Monday, September 14,1981 and will end Monday, Octover 5, 1981. College Bowl is sponsored by Mendenhall Student Center, and all matches are played there. Any four full-time students, graduate or undergraduate, may form a team. Each team must have an alternate and a coach. For further information contact Mary Ellen Norton at Mendenhall Student Center. Telephone 757-6611, Ext. 213.

50's 'Saucermen'

It Provided Work For Midgets

By JOHN WEYLER
Staff Writer

Invasion Of The Saucermen (1957)

"Teenagers vs. space men. Offbeat, sometimes grisly, with strange bits of humor." The above quote, from Horror and Science Fiction Films: A Checklist by Donald C. Willis, aptly describes Invasion of the Saucermen, a 1957 film so insistent in its ineptitude and inherent idiocy to be amazing.

Bad Sci Fi

Produced by Samuel Z. Arkoff, one of America's leading sellers of cinematic schlock, Invasion is one of the worst examples of that bizarre 1950's film phenomenon, "teenagers meet the monsters" movies. (Who can forget the young Steve McQueen battling The Blob or Michael Landon saying "I was a teenage werewolf"?)

The title characters are three-foot tall aliens (played by three-foot tall midgets) with long, withery fingers and huge heads which resemble overripe cabbages with hard-boiled eggs for eyes. What they invade is the local lovers lane of Hicksville, U.S.A.

This adolescent hero and heroine, played by Steve Terrell and Gloria Castillo who prove to be poor substitutes for Frankie and Annette, are unlucky enough to run over one of the little creatures. The saucermen get their revenge, as they have the habit of releasing elongated needles from their fingers and slashing people's tires. (A bit of vandalism they must have learned from observing the neighborhood hoods.)

Various events of varying degrees of suspense and silliness (mainly the latter) occur, including an old farmer with a pitchfork scaring off the aliens, thinking they are more pesky teens; the farmer's cow scaring the teenagers, who thought it was more aliens; and two young con artists attempting to steal the auto-flattened alien for personal profit.

This pair, used for comic relief in an already (often unintentionallly) funny film, are portrayed by Frank Gorshin, who is most famous for being The Riddler on the Batman TV series; and Lyn Osborn, who is not famous for anything but should be noted for his uncanny resemblance to the hero of the undeground cult classic Eraserhead.

Most of the movie takes place at night, to obscure the cheapo production values and special effects, and to provide an easy ending to the story: it turns out tha' the saucermen can't stand light, so the ever-resourceful teens get their hot rods together and shine their headlights on the mini-monsters, who evaporate.

Invasion of the Saucermen is also known as Hell Creatures, Invasion of the Hell Creatures and Spacemen Saturday Night. All the alternate titles probably exist to sucker more people into seeing this sure-fire sleep-inducer.

The movie was re-made in 1965, when Arkoff's American-International took some of their old scripts and re-made them as TV movies. Saucermen became The Eye Creatures. Describing that film in particular and the TV film series in general, the authors of The Great Science Fiction Pictures say, "The pictures were shot . . . at such a rapid pace that no master shots were filmed to hold the action together; the resultant films seem like puzzles with many missing pieces. The remakes were so inferior that by contrast the originals (mostly grade B and C entries) seemed classic."

Ferguson Still Top Jazz Man

his musical signature on the soundtrack of The Ten Comandments (released in 1956). These years became Maynard's freelance period. Maynard then moved to New York in 1956 as a charter member of the all-star Birdland Dream Band that featured the likes of Al Chon, Clark Terry, Clifford Brown, Ernie Wilkins, Willie Maiden, Manny Albam and others. Maynard was quickly nicknamed "The Fox", and, was elected the leader of the group. Their recordings for Mainstream are a part of the legacy of big band genre.

In March of 1957, Maynard organized his own 13-piece outfit calling it the Jazz Farm. The band was soon off and running with names like Don Ellis, Slide Hampton, Bill Chase, Joe Zawinul, Chick Corea, Bill Holman and Chuck Mangione.

As the youngest of the big band leaders, the '60's forced Maynard to cease retaining the whole band on a full-time basis. So, he began performing with a sextet. At the same time, he abandoned his 30-room mansion in Riverdale, N.Y. and his three-piece suits for a mobile school bus and blue jeans. In the fall of 1967, he made a big transition trading in his New York state of mind for the country life in Manchester, England.

A guy by the name of Ernie Garside, a trumpeter and owner of the local club 43, helped him organize an all-British crew for a tour as Top Brass: The Anglo-American Jazz Band which toured Europe extensively.

Maynard dissolved the band though, and moved his wife Flo and their children to the Rhishi Valley School near Madras, India. There he experimented spiritually and musically with Indian religion and music theory.

In 1969, he returned to England and embarked on a new phase of his career. He quickly signed with CBS Records and went to work with producer K. Mansfield on incorporating pop and rock compositions (and dynamics) into a fusion of the big band format. A U.K. hit single resulted entitled "MacArthur's Park," and Maynard had a best-selling album, M.F. Horn, which set the pattern for future projects.

He released two more albums (Maynard Ferguson and M.F. Horn 2) before Maynard moved his family back to the United States. He then changed the band's personnel from British to primarily American players.

What followed in Maynard's life was a string of successful albums (M.F. Horn III, M.F. Horn 4 and 5 Live at Jimmy's, Primal Scream), constant touring of the U.S. market and several overseas tours.

In 1977, Maynard scored another big success. With the release of Conquistador (which was recently certified gold), he found newfound popularity spurred by the success of "Gonna Fly Now" (the theme from Rocky) which became the year's major jazz-pop crossover story.

After performng at the 11th Montreaux International Festival in Switzerland, a stint that yielded two double-LP albums (Montreaux Summit I — October '77 and Montreaux Summit II — June, '78), Maynard released New Vintage. 1978 began with the jazz and disco charting of "Maria" (from New Vintage) and backed with the nomination of "Gonna Fly Now" for the Best Pop Instrumental Grammy award.

Graduation Can Evoke Trauma

By PATRICIA McCORMACK
UPI Education Editor

Graduating from high school or college brings more than diploma parties, dances and a plunge into "the real world."

Graduation evokes mixed feelings — joy, sadness, says Mr. Gary Margolis. Graduates who understand that will suffer less from "separation trauma" as they cut the old school ties he claims.

It will help too if graduates recognize that commencement does not mean one door slams and others open all at once said Margolis. He is director of counseling at Middlebury College in Middlebury, Vt.

Elaborating on a report on the subject in the school's magazine "Middlebury" and in "The Journal of College Health", Margolis said graduation is part of the gradual transition to full adulthood. There are stages — from high school to work, from high school to college, from college to work, from college to graduate school, from graduate school to work.

The main transition periods are from 18 to 22, from 22 to 26, from 26 to 30, according to Margolis. No one he guarantees ever gets to where he or she intends to be all at once. "It is important to recognize during all those post school periods, including the one from 26 to 30, that most are in the process of experimentation and growth — which requires a good degree of flexibility toward decisions," he said.

No one, Margolis said, should expect to go straight as an arrow to a career goal. Changing course, a bit of meandering, probably is in the cards for most heading out.

As a result, Margolis said, graduates who keep flexible will encounter less turbulence in the transition that for most will span years.

Margolis said that goes for all kinds of graduates. This season the numbers include:

— 2.2 million graduating from high school and on their way to the work world.

— 1.3 million coming out of high school and headed for college.

— 1.3 million coming out of college and set for jobs or — more college.

Margolis also took on "the real world" versus the school scene.

"I have a few bones to pick about that phrase 'the real world' " he said. "By using those words one reinforces the idea that school is a different kind of world.

"I think that is a disservice to what happens in high school or college. Tasks of education are basically the tasks of adult life. They are real tasks even though not performed on the job.

"The tasks include meeting commitments forming relationships and developing personal and intellectual skills.

"When we say things are different in the real world we discount skills learned in school and do not recognize academic achievements as real.

"Even with the ritual, strong feelings of sadness, love and relief surface."

Early Scores Push Pirates By Toledo

By CHARLES CHANDLER
Sports Editor

East Carolina scored four first-half touchdowns and held off a furious second half rally by Toledo to gain a 28-24 win over the Rockets Saturday.

The win evened the Pirate record at 2-2 and brought an end to a two-game losing streak.

ECU was very impressive in jumping to a 28-7 halftime lead, but the Pirates were equally unimpressive in the second half as the Rockets, now 1-2, trimmed the Pirate margin to four with 17 points in a 12-minute span.

"It's great to win," ECU head coach Ed Emory said following the contest. "That doesn't mean I'm not mad, upset and disappointed. But I'll take the win any way I can get it. Maybe it wasn't pretty in the second half but anytime you win it's pretty."

The Pirates appeared determined in the first half to make ammends for consecutive losses to arch-rivals North Carolina (56-0) and N.C. State (31-10), rolling up 217 yards in the first two quarters.

Harold Blue, who was the game's leading rusher with 98 yards on 18 carries, scored first-quarter touchdowns of two and three yards to put the Pirates up 14-0.

Blue's second TD was set up by a 26-yard run on a reverse by speedy freshman split end Ricky Nichols.

Toledo quarterback Jim Kelso and fullback Mel Tucker comprised a one-two punch that brought the Rockets to within a single touchdown of the Bucs midway through the first half. Kelso rambled 23 yards on one play and Tucker covered the same amount of ground over the next two plays to move the ball to the ECU eight-yard-line.

Kelso took it in from there, breaking several tackles along the way. Tony Lee's extra point cut the ECU margin to 14-7 with 6:32 left in the half.

The Pirates moved back ahead by 14 with a score on the ensuing possession. A 31-yard run by Earnest Byner set up quarterback Carlton Nelson's scamper from 14 yards out.

The Buc lead went to 28-7 when the Pirates successfully converted defensive back Smokey Norris' recovery of a Kelso fumble on the Toledo 28. Reserve signal-caller Kevin Ingram, a transfer from Villanova, ran 20 yards for the team's fourth TD of the night.

Toledo came out roaring in the second half, marching to the ECU 19 on their first possession following intermission. No points resulted, though, as the Rockets turned the ball over on downs.

An interception three plays into the Pirate possession by Rocket defender John Brady gave Toledo the ball on the ECU 33. This time the Rockets would not be denied, Kelso hitting wide receiver Butch Hunyadi on the first Rocket play following the pick-off as the ECU lead was narrowed to 28-14.

Five minutes later Kelso capped a 54-yard drive with a two-yard dive into the endzone.

Down only 28-21, Toledo took over on its own 30 with 11 minutes remaining in the game. A few moments later the Rockets were on the ECU eight-yard-line with a first-and-goal situation.

The Pirate defense held, though, and the Rockets settled for a 22-yard field goal by Tony Lee with 6:54 remaining that carved ECU's once comfortable lead to a skimpy four points, 28-24.

Following Lee's kickoff, Pirate halfback Harold Blue dealt the Rockets and their comeback hopes a staggering blow, running 45 yards from the ECU 20 to the Toledo 35. The Rockets never regained momentum after that.

The Pirates ended the game on the Toledo two-yard line, failing to score a fifth touchdown despite having three shots at paydirt from within the ten-yard-line.

The Pirates now must turn their attention to Duke, a 29-24 winner over Virginia this past Saturday and host of the Bucs this weekend.

Toledo's 134 yards through the airways in the second half left Emory concerned about facing the Blue Devils' pass-oriented attack.

"Duke's playing the best they have in five years," Emory remarked. "It'll be tough for us. We have less than 24 hours to celebrate this win. Starting tomorrow afternoon, we will start getting ready for those Blue Devils."

Stobart Is Glad 'Bone Is History

Praises Pirate Quarterbacks

By WILLIAM YELVERTON
Assistant Sports Editor

Outside the Toledo dressing room Saturday night, Rocket coach Charles Stobart breathed a huge sign of relief. He won't have to see the wishbone any more this season.

"We couldn't shut down the inside belly play," the fifth-year Toledo coach explained after his team's 28-24 loss to East Carolina. "They killed us with it all night long. That was the key.

"East Carolina said all week long that it was a 'must' game for them. They certainly played that way."

Pirate running back Harold Blue picked up 99 yards on 19 carries, many coming on the inside belly play. In all, East Carolina rushed for 348 yards while limiting Toledo to 194.

East Carolina jumped out to a large lead, only to see Toledo fight back when their passing game began to click. Rocket quarterback Jim Kelso lead the surge as he finished with 214 yards in total offense— 80 rushing and 134 passing.

However, after the first 30 minutes, Kelso had yet to complete a pass and had rushed for only 17 nets yards in 9 attempts. The sophmore did have one scoring run.

"He (Kelso) had a very shaky start," Stobart said. "But he showed what kind of player he is by coming back and playing well."

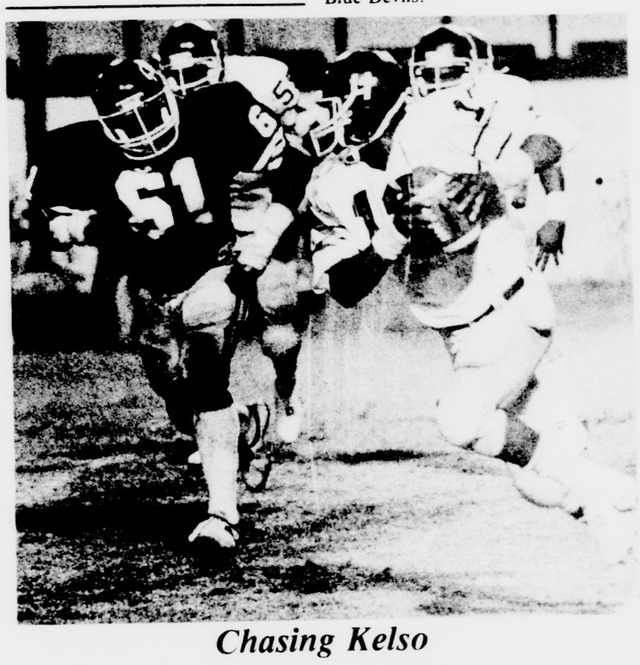

Stobart said the key to the game was the East Carolina quarterbacks. "Their (quarterbacks) were very quick, as was the whole team. They executed very well.

"I was proud of the kids for the way they fought back. I just don't think we were ready to play them."

When the Pirate offense bogged down in the third quarter, Toledo stormed back, scoring 17 straight point before the East Carolina offensive line began to control the line of scrimmage, running out the clock.

As in Toledo's first two games against Louisville (31-6 Toledo defeat) and Ball State (a 40-0 Toledo victory) Stobart said his team was in consistent. "Some of our players played pretty well," he said "and some came close to playing very good. The ones who didn't play well in the first half did come back and do a good job for us in the second half, though."

Stobart is sure his team's overall experience will lead to an opposite result against Ohio this week. "We're fairly well-balanced in our number of returnees and youngsters," he says. "We have more seniors who've played for us this year than last."

Booters Fall, Set To Host Pack In Ficklen

By WILLIAM YELVERTON
Assistant Sports Editor

East Carolina soccer coach Brad Smith was quick in pinpointing the reason for his team's 5-1 loss to the Guilford Qua kers last Saturday.

"We simply weren't ready to play," the fifth-year coach said as his team fell to 2-4 on the season.

"I was embarrassed."

Mark Hardy scored the only East Carolina goal, coming in the first half. The Pirates were down 3-1 at the end of the half.

For Guilford, Hood, Tunney, Garstan each chipped in with a goal. Polinchock added two scores for the Quakers, now 4-3 this season.

East Carolina, goalie Steve Brown had 10 saves. Guilford took 15 shots, compared to only 7 by East Carolina.

"Guilford was good, but not that good," Smith said. "They were a mature team."

The Pirates now must regroup for the N.C. State match to be held under the lights at Ficklen Stadium Wednesday night at 7:30. East Carolina must face a State team ranked 16th in the nation that Smith describes as "loaded."

"I'm sure we'll rebound. I promise you that we want play like we did at Guilford."

The match will begin at 7:30 and special prizes will be given to lucky spectators.

Byner Injured, May Be Out For The Season

Charles Chandler

The East Carolina football team broke a two-game losing streak by defeating Toledo Saturday, but the club may have lost something just as valuable — the services of starting halfback Earnest Byner.

Byner injured his knee in the second half of the 28-24 Pirate win and will miss this weekend's game against Duke.

In fact, Byner may be lost to the team for the season. That determination will be made sometime this week. He has been tested here in Greenville and will go through more tests in Chapel Hill today (Tuesday) before a final decision is made on his status for the remainder of the season.

"This is definitely a big blow for us," ECU head coach Ed Emory said Monday. "It will hurt a great deal. He's a fine blocker as well as a great runner. He's one of the best sophomore backs I've ever coached."

Byner gained 63 yards on seven carries Saturday night, including a 31-yard scamper that set up one of the Pirates' four touchdowns.

On the season the Milledgeville, Ga. sophomore has carried 30 times for 193 yards, which translates to a 6.4 yards per carry average.

Either freshman Jimmy Walden or junior Leon Lawson will start at the right halfback spot in place of Byner. Walden, who rushed four times for 23 yards Saturday, is bruised up himself. Lawson also had a good night against Toledo, gaining 41 yards on seven carries.

Emory Concerned About A More Devilish Duke

ECU head coach Ed Emory sat in his office Monday and expressed concern over his team's matchup this weekend with Duke, a club the second-year Pirate mentor says poses many a problem.

"Our major concern is that they are twice the football team they were a year ago," Emory said. "They made great improvements week-by-week last year and have continued to do so this season."

Emory says the fact that the Duke team that will face the Pirates is virtually the same team the Bucs beat 35-10 last year did not please him either. Emory, no doubt, must be worried about the Devils having a psychological edge.

The Two-Faced Pirates

Through four games the young East Carolina football team has shown us two faces — one good and one not so good.

The Pirates started out hot against Western Carolina, cruising to a 42-6 victory. The next week the Bucs looked just awful in losing to powerful North Carolina, 56-0.

The team then rebounded for a respectable showing against N.C. State before losing 31-10 in a game that was much closer than the final score indicated.

The team showed both faces this past Saturday night in a 28-24 win over Toledo.

The club came out hot and took a 28-7 lead into the dressing room at halftime. The second half, though, was another matter as the Rockets made it look easy in coming back to cut the lead to 28-24.

The Pirates came through when they had to in Saturday's fourth quarter, though, holding Toledo on the final Rocket possession and controlling the ball most of the game's last five minutes.

Which face can we expect to see this Saturday? The answer to that one is unknown to all. Even Emory does not always know what to expect from a team that starts only seven seniors.

Wednesday A Big Night For Soccer

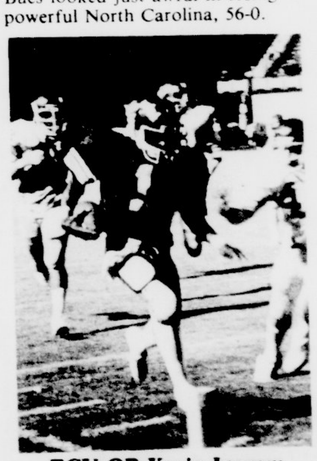

The ECU soccer team sets precedent this Wednesday night when it plays host to powerful N.C. State under the lights in Ficklen Stadium.

The move was done to showcase the nation's fasting growing support, in hopes of drumming up more of that support in Greenville.

The Pirate booters are a young squad, one that has head coach Brad Smith filled with high hopes. State, of course, can boast of one of the top clubs in the nation again this year.

It would be worth the while of anyone even vaguely interested in soccer to go out and watch Wednesday's event. This columnist remembers his first attendance at a soccer game (some four years ago) and the interest in the sport that was suddenly present when the match was over.

If Wednesday night goes as it should, maybe a lot more people will have such an experience.

ECU QB Kevin Ingram Scores His First Career TD

Pirates Capture Fourth At Campbell Invitational

By WILLIAM YELVERTON
Assistant Sports Editor

East Carolna golf coach Bob Helmic has a firm belief in his Pirate team after their fourth-place finish in the Campbell Golf Invitational. "We should have won it," he says firmly.

The Pirates finished with a team total of 776, 10 strokes off the pace of third-place North Carolina. The Wolfpack of N.C. State won the team championship with a 752 total, followed by Campbell seven strokes behind at 765. The Pirates were just one of 13 competing teams.

The individual champion was N.C. State's Roy Hunter, who was tied with UNC-Wilmington's Mike Williams. Both were tied at 146 before a playoff determined the winner.

The third-place trophy went to host Campbell's Bobby Sears, who was tied with East Carolina's Don Sweeting at 147 before a playoff decided the winner.

Another Pirate, Don Gaffner, was a winner in a playoff for fifth place. Gaffner was tied with Charles Bradshaw at 149.

Other East Carolina performers icluded Chris Czaja at 158; Greg House at 161, Jerry Lee at 163 and David Wodard who turned in a score of 165.

In the tournament format, six players compete and five scores are counted. "Three of our players had never played in a college match before," Helmic commented. "We're experimenting now. We're trying to find the right combination for a good season. We had enough talent to win it. Our only competition would have been North Carolina State."

Helmic was pleased with the performance of Gaffner. "Don played well. He shot a 73 but really should have been at even par. He missed a few short putts, but he did make a few long ones. We expect a lot from him this year.

Another Pirate catching the eye of his coach was Czaja, who shot 79-79. "He had a couple of bad holes—one each day. If you eliminate those two holes, he would have been at 150.

"We're looking for him to get much better."

The Pirates travel to Ground Hog Mountain this weekend to participate in the James Madison University Invitational. Teams competiting include Penn State, Michigan State and West Virginia. "It is a very strong field," Helmic said.

"We should win it. I look for us to get stronger this week. I really feel like we can win it. I'm going out each week thinking we have a good chance to win."

Lady Pirates Win One, Lose Five

The Lady Pirates of East Carolina, with starters Lita Lamas and Revardale LaVant out because of injuries, picked up one win against five losses in the N.C. State Volleyball Invitational this past weekend in Raleigh.

The Lady Pirates were defeated by the College of Charleston (9-15, 13-15), N.C. State (5-15, 15-7 and 8-15), Miami Dade (11-15, 18-15) and East Tennessee State (15-13, 10-15 and 14-16) in the round-robin affair.

In the consolation bracket Saturday, the Lady Pirates defeated Jacksonville University, 15-6, 2-15, 16-18, 15-8 and 15-7.

The Lady Pirates host the University of North Carolina tonight at Minges Coliseum. The match begins at 7:30.

NASCAR Champ May Turn To Political Race

RALEIGH, N.C. (UPI) A North Carolina magazine reports that seven-time NASCAR driving champion Richard Petty has indicated he will retire from stock car racing within five years and become more involved in politics.

Petty, a Randolph County commissioner since 1978, told Tar Heel magazine "politics is not my whole life right now, racing is. But when I decide to get out of racing, I might decide that politics is my life."

The Level Cross resident said he "wouldn't have a whole lot of interest in being senator, congressman or whatever" right now. "But you come back in four or five years, and I'm going to look at it differently," he said.

"We're getting into the final three, four, five years of racing," said Bob Preddy of Raleigh, Petty's business manager for 14 years. "I never told anybody that.

"He doesn't want to run second in a race... and he doesn't want to run second in politics," Preddy said, indicting Petty, who has won three races this season, was serious about politics. "If he's going to voice his opinion, he wants to be a winner and he wants to be number one."

The 44-year-old Petty, who oversees a multi-million dollar stock car racing enterprise in Level Cross and is the winningest driver in NASCAR Grand National history, paced a Republican ticket that swept every Randolph County office in 1978. The state's top Republicans have said they are ready to back Petty for any other political office.

"He's got the background, the name recognition and the conservative principles," said Thomas F. Ellis, director of the politically powerful Congressional Club. "He could run for whatever he wants. He could run for state wide office ' governor, lieutenant governor or a congressional race."

"If he decides he wants to go for some other office, he'll work hard at it," said Sen. Jesse A. Helms, R-N.C., who swapped endorsements with Petty in 1978. "I would not want to be his opponent.

"When he's given public exposure as a man and as a citizen, then the people of North Carolina are going to realize that this is a man of ability."

Petty, who once declared he would like to run for president, has nixed that idea. Aside from saying he will run for re-election as a county commissioner in 1982, Petty will not divulge his political plans, although the topic of running for governor has been broached.

Although Petty still competes in all 31 races on NASCAR's schedule, he finds time to venture into other businesses.

In October, construction is set to begin on the $36 million Richard Petty Recreation Park at Kerr Lake near Henderson ' a 1,041-acre resort featuring a hotel-convention center, amphitheater, golf and campground.

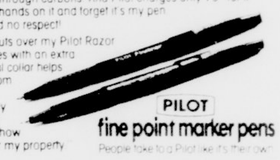

"Pilot. The pens you have to hold onto with two hands."
– Rodney Dangerfield

"I don't get no respect! I make a deposit this guy's making a withdrawal" – including my Pilot pen.

It's almost criminal how people go for my Pilot Fineliner. Why? Its fine point writes through carbons. And Pilot charges only 79¢ for it. People get their hands on it and forget it's my pen. I got no pen. And no respect!

People go nuts over my Pilot Razor Point too. It writes with an extra fine line. Its metal collar helps keep the point from going squish. For only 89¢ they should buy their own pen – and show some respect for my property.
