Interim Chancellor Dr. John Howell

Howell Interim Head

By DIANE ANDERSON
Assistant News Editor

Dr. John Howell, professor of political science at East Carolina University, has been named interim chancellor for the school until a permanent replacement is chosen for Chancellor Thomas Brewer who resigned last September.

Brewer has been granted a leave of absence until June 30, when his resignation takes effect.

The announcement was made last Friday, and Howell took over as top administrator of the university Monday morning. The appointment was approved by the UNC Board of Governor's personnel committee after a recommendation by University of North Carolina President William Friday.

Ashley Futrell, chairman of the ECU Board of Trustees, was quoted as saying, "We've got an excellent man. John Howell commands the respect of the people of the area...the students, faculty and staff and friends of the university. He's a good man."

"I was pleased to be the one who was chosen to do it," Howell said regarding his appointment.

"The job is primarily a job of seeing the university through this transition from one chancellor to another, and that means that I am not going to start any major changes because I wouldn't be here to finish them," he said.

"That doesn't mean, though, that I won't move ahead with things," he explained. "There are some things that have been in the process for some time and they are just coming up now. They need to be completed. I won't be just sitting here doing nothing. I will be moving ahead with things."

According to Howell, he is not a candidate for the permanent chancellor position. "I didn't apply," he said, and "I didn't apply last time when Dr. Jenkins retired."

"Taking it temporarily is different from taking it permanently," he said.

Dr. Howell, 59 years of age, is in his 25th year at ECU. He first came to the university as an associate professor in the social studies department, and has since been provost and vice chancellor for academic affairs, dean of the graduate school, dean of the college of arts and sciences, and chairman of the political science department.

"I have been here for a long time. I know all the people," Howell said. "It's not as if I am starting out on something I see as a great problem."

Once his duties as acting chancellor are completed, Howell says he will return to teaching and research.

Dr. Howell's wife, Gladys, is a professor in the department of sociology and anthropology. She will be on leave as long as Howell holds the position of acting chancellor.

COLD! Arctic Air Mass Rips Through State

United Press International
North Carolinians statewide shivered in record cold weather Monday that strained utilities, iced roads, delayed school openings and generally made staying outdoors painful.

Cape Hatteras, Wilmington, Raleigh-Durham and Asheville set record lows for the date, while the station atop Grandfather Mountain near Linville had the coldest reading in its 27-year history: 27 degrees below zero. Northwesterly winds were pushing that cold air at 50 mph.

Temperatures and winds were more moderate everywhere else, but conditions still were fierce.

Thermometers in the Macon County town of Highlands dropped to minus 13 degrees, while West Jefferson had minus 12 degrees and Boone dipped to 11 below zero.

Asheville's low of 6 below zero was seven degrees under the old record for a Jan. 11 and just one degree short of the city's all-time coldest reading, the National Weather Service said.

Further east, the other record-setting cities checked in at 4 degrees in Raleigh-Durham, 8 in Wilmington and 12 at Cape Hatteras. Considering the gusts that accompanied the frigid air, every part of the state experienced below-zero wind-chill conditions.

National Weather Service forecasters predicted the arctic high pressure that clamped a frigid hold would continue through Tuesday. More moderate weather is expected after that.

The cold triggered record demands for electricity from Carolina Power & Light Co. and Duke Power Co. CP&L, plagued by generating problems with some of its coal-fired plants, had to trim its voltage by 5 percent and appeal to customers to conserve.

CP&L spokesman Mac Harris said the biggest difficulty was the loss of a 685-megawatt generator at Roxboro.

The utility normally would buy extra power from other utilities, Harris said, but the cold weather along the entire East Coast left each utility with little or no extra electricity to spare.

Despite the appeal to conserve, the utility at 8 a.m. recorded a peak demand of 6,602 megawatts, eclipsing the old record of 6,402 megawatts set Jan. 13, 1981.

Duke Power Co. also set an all-time record of 11,145 megawatts that same hour.

The strain proved too much for a Duke substation in Charlotte. It broke down, leaving 6,000 customers without electricity for three hours.

Another 1,000 residences in Greensboro suffered outages, as did about 200 Forsyth County customers.

Many schools delayed the start of classes or cancelled school because of a lack of heat or frozen water pipes.

The Dare County Sheriff's Department said about three-tenths of a mile of N.C. 12 north of Avon was covered with a sheet of ice. The state Highway Patrol also found icy conditions in Ashe, Watauga and Alleghany counties.

Two North Carolina men are believed to have died of exposure about the time the cold wave began Sunday. In Asheville, James Drane, 65, was found dead outside his home. And in High Point, Willie Steel, 41, was found dead behind a furniture store.

In rural Wake County, 11 people bundled up together under blankets in an unheated home.

"We don't have any wood, no heat in the house. Young kids are here," Anne Bethel said. "The wood just ran out. We just bought it Friday."

Winston-Salem's Crisis Control Ministry saw a dramatic increase in calls for emergency help to pay heating bills. A spokeswoman estimated the ministry spent about $1,400 last weekend on fuel assistance for about 30 applicants.

In the same town, the Lighthouse ministry took care of 91 indigents Sunday night instead of the usual 75. All three of Charlotte's transient facilities were filled, as was the Raleigh Rescue Mission.

Plumbers reports a massive upsurge of businesses as water pipes froze, while service stations were equally busy rescuing autos whose batteries had failed to stay charged in the cold.

More than 70 school buses in Charlotte failed to start Monday.

Yearbooks Now Being Distributed

The 1981 Buccaneers are here. Amy Pickett, editor of the East Carolina yearbook, said Monday that the yearbooks were delivered on Dec. 23. She and her staff began distributing the books on Jan. 8.

According to Pickett, 40 percent of the books were given out Friday, the first day of drop-add.

"Between 2500 and 2600 books are left," Pickett said.

The Buccaneer, funded by student fees, can be picked up free of charge by all full-time students. Part-time students must pay $5 for a yearbook.

The yearbooks are only available in The Buccaneer office this year, Pickett said; there will be no other distribution sites. The office is on the second floor of the Publications Building.

Students must present their ECU identification cards in order to receive a yearbook. Freshmen or transfer students who did not pay the fees that funded the yearbooks may buy a copy for $10.

Front Page Story Remains A Mystery

By MIKE HUGHES
Staff Writer

In the Dec. 8 edition of The East Carolinian, a controversial story announcing the resignation of the former director of advertising, Chuck Foster, was printed.

The controversy resulted not so much from the content of the article but from the fact that the story's

SGA Adopts Loan Program Policies

By JIMMY DUPREE
Managing Editor

After an eight month absence the Student Loan Fund will return to operation Jan. 18 under policies adopted Monday by the SGA Legislature. The program was suspended by the 1981 summer legislature so a survey of its effectiveness could be taken.

The resolution concerning reinstatement of the loan fund was discharged from the Student Welfare Committee Nov. 30, but the policies governing the program were not ready to be presented to the legislature.

"(The policies were) more or less a compromise to get the loan system origin remains a mystery.

According to several sources on the newspaper staff, a story about campus construction was supposed to appear at the top of the front page.

"When I left, between 1:30 and quarter-to-two the morning of the eighth, the front page was fine," said Tom Hall, the news editor.

However, when he went to check the original paste-up sheets, which are returned with the published newspapers, Hall noticed that the Foster story had been removed.

The article on Foster's resignation, which contained extensive quotes from Foster himself, was highly critical of The East Carolinian's editor in chief, Paul Collins, calling him hot-tempered and "unbusinesslike."

Collins, who was at home when the paper was published, said he was shocked upon seeing the story. "I just can't believe that someone would go to that length to defame someone else," he said.

"Most of the 'facts' in the article were completely untrue," Collins said. "I must admit, I was upset when Channel Nine referred to the whole incident as a prank." Collins continued. "To me, when someone takes a deliberate stab at me and the newspaper, that goes a bit further than a mere jest. This was not something done in fun."

"I don't object to constructive criticism," Collins asserted. "I have to expect it. What I do object to is being defamed."

"At about 12:30 the next afternoon, when I first saw the issue, I couldn't believe it."

Hall says he then called the newspaper office, but there was no answer. Later that afternoon, Hall found the original construction story on a light table in the layout room at the newspaper office.

back into operation," said Speaker Gary Williams. "This was probably the best product we could have."

Students may obtain the loan only once during each semester according to the policies. An proposed amendment offered by Russell Overman would have allowed two loans per term, but it was defeated by a 13-9 margin.

"Are we in the banking business or the student service business?" asked treasurer Kirk Little. "We examined everything that had come before us. In the past some students had used the system as a revolving checking account."

Newspaper Awarded First Class Rating

The East Carolinian has received a First Class rating from the Associated Collegiate Press (ACP) for the 1981 spring semester, Editor in Chief Paul Collins announced Monday.

The newspaper received marks of distinction in three of the five categories rated by the ACP including writing and editing, opinion content and design.

In the judging, The East Carolinian received 3,435 points with 3,100 needed for a First Class rating. First Class is the highest of the four basic categories the ACP uses in judging newspapers. Papers that receive marks of distinction in at least four areas are also rated All American, the highest award given by the ACP.

"We're proud to have been given a First Class rating," Collins said. "If we had received just one more mark of distinction, the paper would have been All American. I think The East Carolinian is something everyone at East Carolina can be proud of."

Among the comments made by the judge was: "The East Carolinian is, overall, an impressive newspaper. It is well-written and presented in an attractively designed package."

Students unpack their belongings and get settled in as they return to school for the spring semester.

Happy New Year A Few Resolutions For ECU

What New Year's resolutions did you make this year, and how many of them have you broken already? Well, it still is not too late to make some additional resolutions and stick to them. In that vein, we would like to make some suggestions.

First of all, an easy one. Professors can resolve not to give any tests on Fridays and to cancel class on days preceding holidays. Students, in turn, can vow to attend class regularly, work harder and really get something out of their educations.

The varsity cheerleaders could resolve to refrain from practicing on the second level of Minges while there is a Lady Pirate basketball game in progress. Let's not forget the jayvee unit, who could easily find accommodations other than seats in the stands.

The chancellor selection committee can resolve to choose the best possible successor for Dr. Brewer by keeping an open mind and bringing as few prejudices to the selection process as possible. Interim chancellor John Howell can do his best to bring the university community together again in the wake of rifts created in recent months.

The Campus Police can resolve to think before they tow.

The bars downtown can resolve not to raise the price of beer for the remainder of the year.

The SGA can resolve to be more calm and deliberative as befits a body of its stature and importance.

On the sports scene, Dave Odom can resolve to bring, by hook or by crook, a seven footer to ECU. And Ed Emory can resolve to say "Carolina" instead of "Kerlina." By the way coach, your All-America's name is "Robbins" not "Robinson."

Rudy Alexander can resolve to buy new Christmas decorations for Mendenhall to replace the current ones which have widely been described as tacky.

The Student Union can resolve to bring the Rolling Stones to Minges Coliseum.

Everyone can resolve to do something to make ECU a better university, a place we can all be proud of.

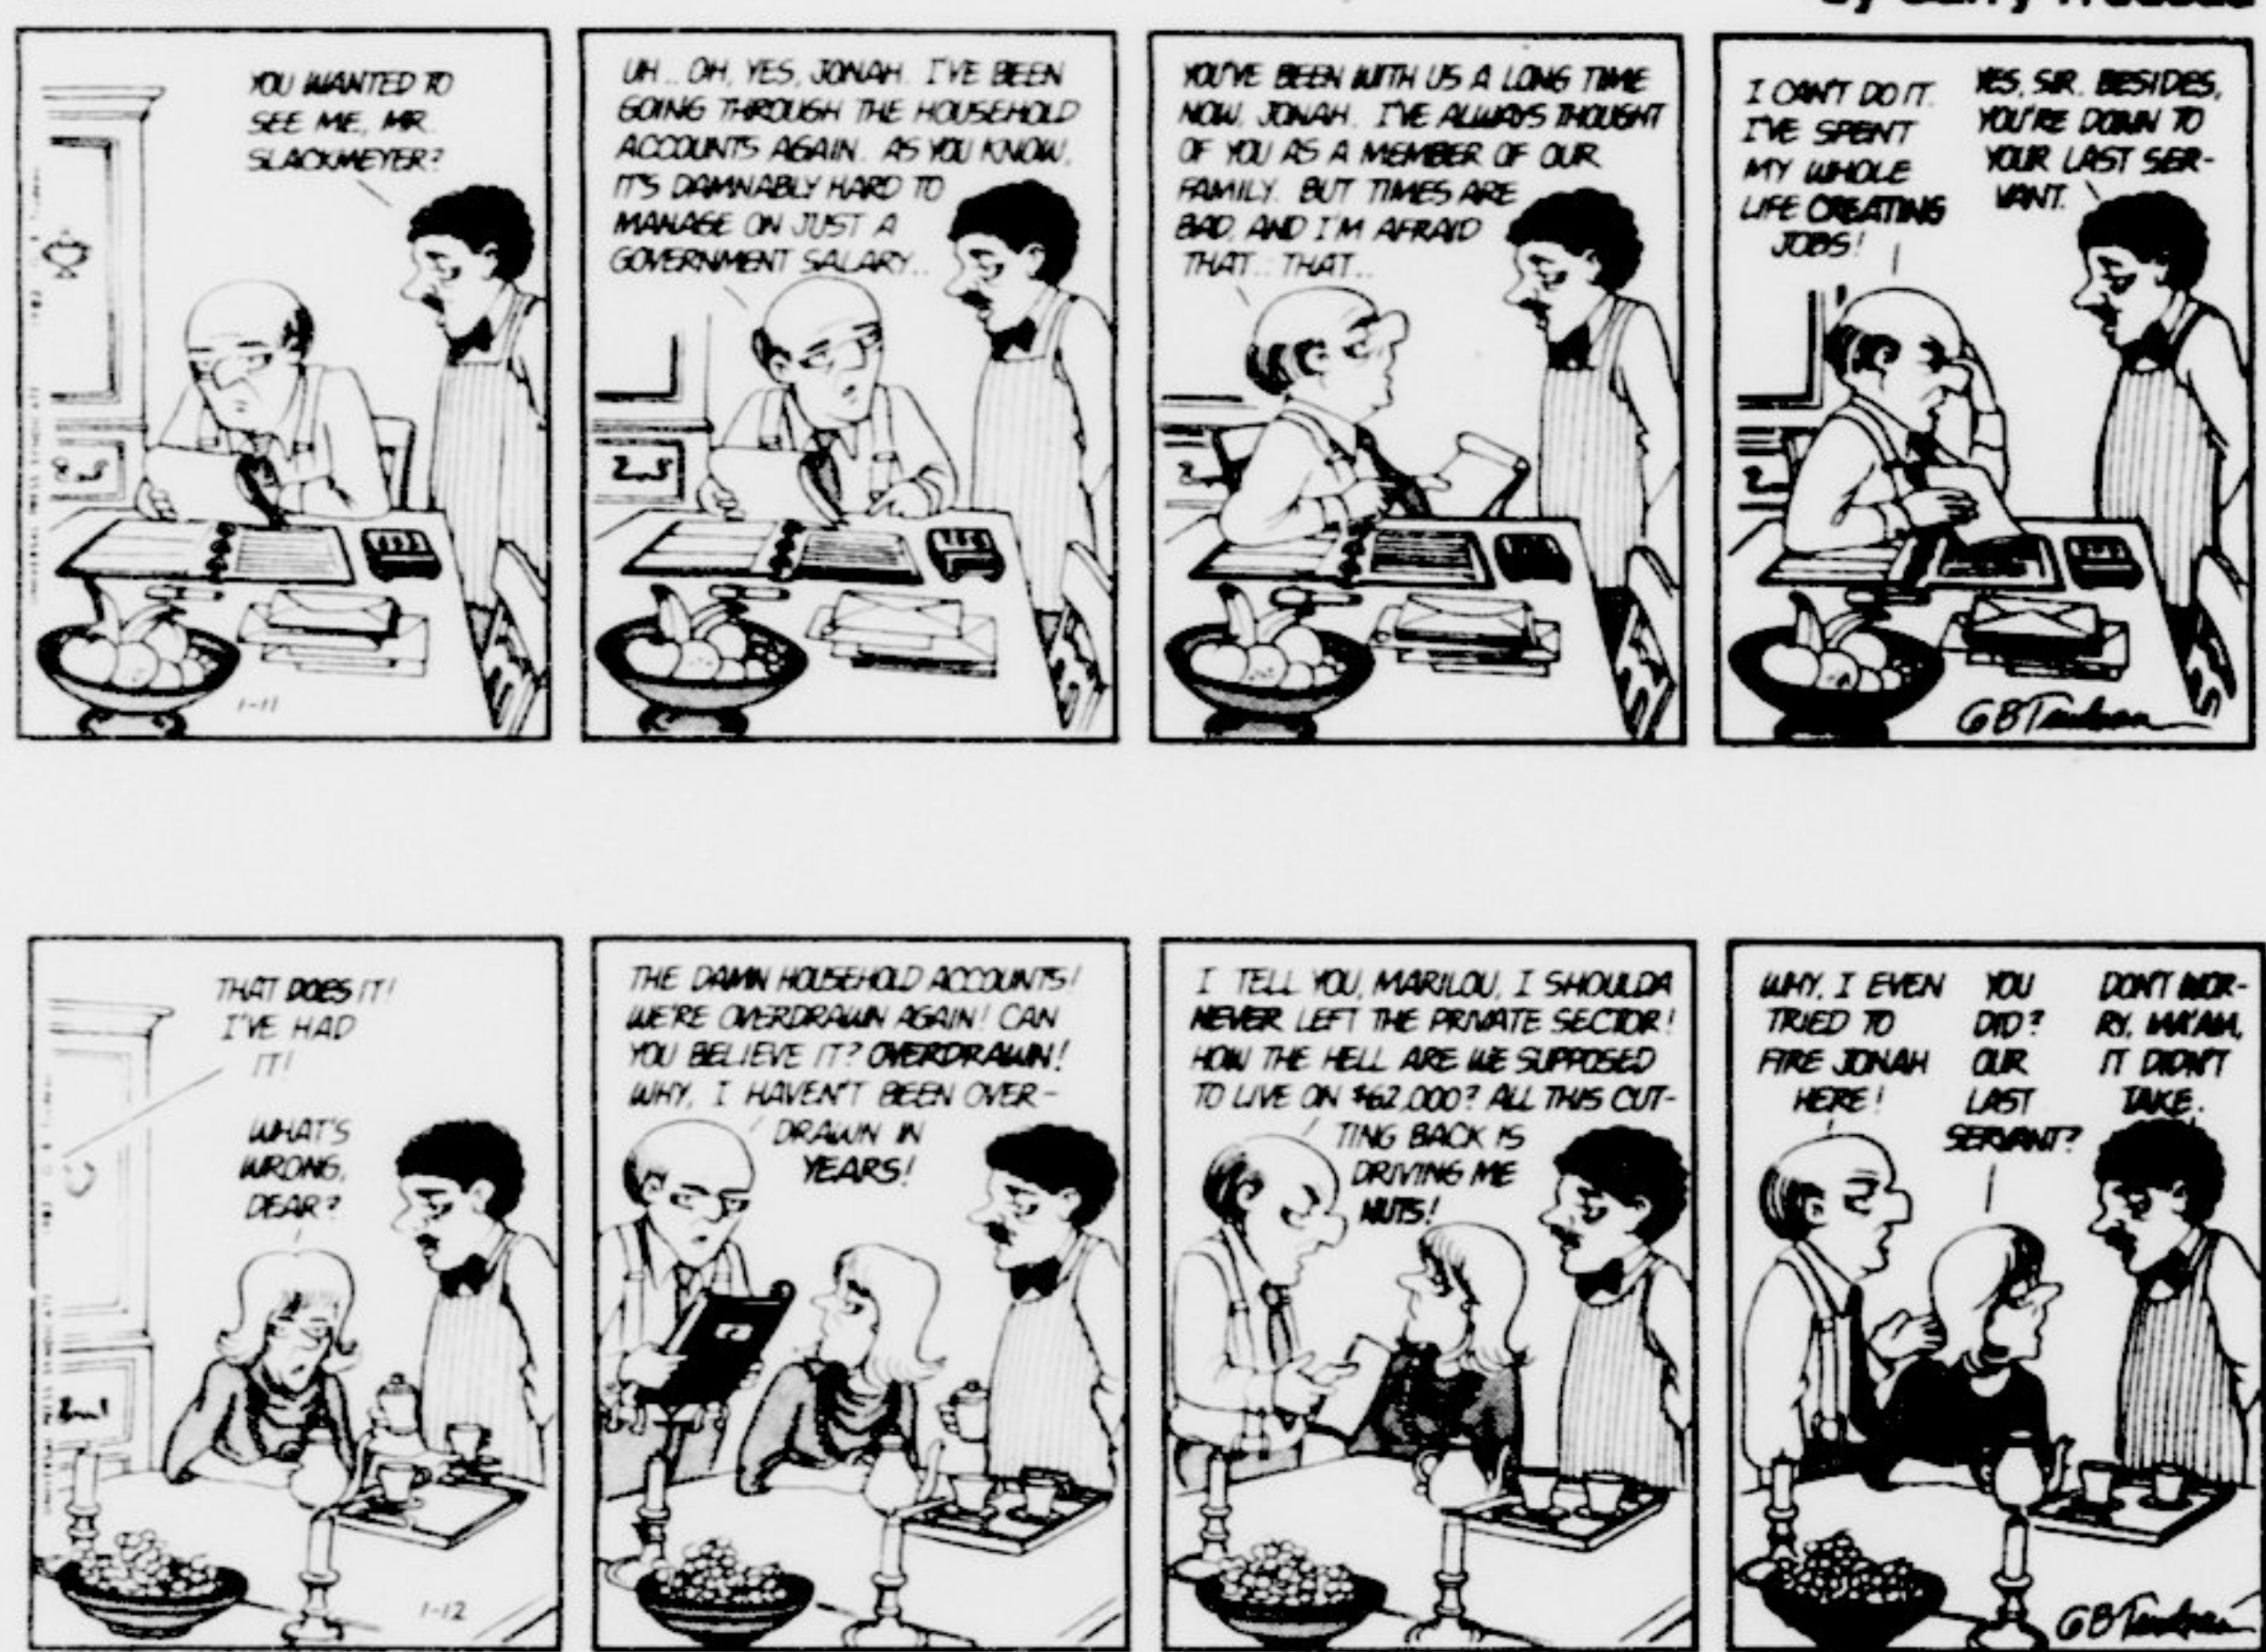

And we at The East Carolinian, what can we resolve? We can resolve to be more sensitive when we criticize someone and remember always to offer possible solutions for the problem.

We can also take a few extra minutes to be sure of what we say and do, but that is something everyone can do.

Happy New Year.

Questionable Practices Haunt Alexander, Travel Committee

By CHARLES M. SUNE

Anytime a student challenges the integrity of a university official, doubts immediately arise as to the validity of the charges. This is as it should be since in our society one is presumed innocent until proven guilty. However, that benefit of doubt is not the result of presumed innocence but the assumption that a student is generally uninformed, making any charges of wrong-doing invalid.

I find myself at a disadvantage not because I am uninformed — such is not the case — but because I am only a student in the minds of those at this university who possess the power to bring about change. Those with authority may desire to ignore their responsibility — not because they are uninformed — but because it is a student who has made the charges.

Having been active in the Student Union for the last four years as president and as chairman of the Major Attractions Committee, I have had a close working relationship with Rudolph Alexander, associate dean of students and executive director of Mendenhall Student Center. I realize that my involvement qualifies me as a competent judge and at the same time may disqualify me because I may have been so closely associated with Alexander. In spite of these possible qualifications or disqualifications, the facts shall remain clear. It is up to those who read this column to decide if my interpretation of the facts is accurate.

Two months ago I began what was to be a series on the public record of Rudolph Alexander. The initial installment, "Rudygate" — Trip Funds Questioned — appeared Nov. 17, 1981. In that column I questioned a trip made by Rudolph Alexander and his girlfriend, Sara Henderson, to New York City in 1978. Although I feel I covered the subject of that trip thoroughly, a letter to the editor by Bill Martin in the Dec. 8, 1981 edition of The East Carolinian may have confused a number of readers. One more word about that column and I will move on.

Alexander, according to two university administrators that I have spoken with, now claims to have received permission to make exceptions to Student Union policy and that Bill Martin, then chairman of the Travel Committee, gave him permission. In order to understand why this excuse or justification is not valid, there are a number of facts that need to be noted.

First, Travel Committee bylaws do not authorize the chairman to make exceptions to written policy. Although Martin may have indeed given Alexander permission to take his girlfriend at student expense to New York, he never had the authority to make such an exception. Alexander is aware of this since he helped write the committee bylaws. Only the full Travel Committee can authorize exceptions to policy and the committee minutes from 1978 show that no exception was ever suggested, much less authorized.

Although there may be occasions when time limitations require the chairman and committee advisor to make decisions on the committee's behalf, this was not such an occasion since the deadline for registering for the trip was Oct. 16, 1978 — more than a month before the trip took place.

Prior to the Christmas Break, I made an appointment to interview Alexander concerning decisions related to his public record. The interview lasted about two minutes, with Alexander refusing to answer any of my questions. According to Alexander, his refusal was based on his attorney's advice. If I had had the opportunity to interview Alexander, I would have asked him about:

The 1977 Florida Trip: On this trip Alexander took his daughter Christy. Alexander paid only for her bus fare. Because Christy stayed in his complimentary room, Alexander apparently felt no need to pay the Student Union anything for her accommodations.

It is probable that there are some who see nothing wrong with an administrator taking his daughter on a student-sponsored trip and keeping her in his complimentary room. Some might say that it did not cost the students anything. However, Christy Alexander received a trip that would have cost anyone else at least the double occupancy rate. Because Rudolph Alexander was her father, Christy Alexander was able to go to Florida for bus fare. The trip itself is small potatoes compared to the student trust that was again violated.

In his many roles, including adviser to the Travel Committee, Alexander has been vested with a student trust. I question whether or not his decision was ethical. I would have liked to ask him his thoughts on the subject.

The 1977, 1978, 1979 & 1980 Association of College, University and Community Arts Administrators (ACUCA) Trips: On at least two of these trips, Alexander saw Broadway plays and was reimbursed by the university. He "previewed" plays for future "possible booking." Considering the university does not now, and particularly did not earlier, have either the facilities or financial support necessary to book such plays, one has to ask why they were "previewed" for us. Also, it is unusual for a man who prides himself on documentation not to have reported his "findings" to the proper organizations — in one case the Student Union Theatre Arts Committee and in another case the Mendenhall Program Office. According to the former adviser of the Theatre Arts Committee, he made no report of his findings to her. I suspect his intentions were never to book anything since there is no correspondence in his files with agencies inquiring about the plays. Additionally, just because a play is on Broadway does not mean it will tour.

Alexander refused to supply me with a copy of his 1980 ACUCA travel report, though N.C. General Statute 132-6 requires that he do so. I therefore have no idea if he "previewed" any more plays for us last year. Also, I wonder if he "previewed" any plays for us at the ACUCA Conference last month.

Mendenhall Staff Turnovers: Within the last year, three major staff positions have been vacated — one position twice. Last year, it cost $2,000 and six months research time to fill a position with a starting salary of $11,940. The shocking thing is that the position — assistant program director — was vacated again last month.

After discussing the turnover matter with three of the four former staff members, I have found that the departures were not due to career advancement alone but also to Alexander's questionable leadership. In addition, according to sources at Mendenhall, there may be other departures within the next six months. Those departures, likewise, are attributable in part to Alexander. I would have liked to ask Alexander if he knew why it took so long and cost so much to fill the assistant program director's position. Also, I would like to have asked Alexander if he knew why there has been the sudden staff exodus, but unfortunately those questions remain unanswered.

Every public official has to be accountable for his actions, and Alexander is no exception. Although it is his prerogative to refuse an interview, as a public official he is considered to be public property.

Bushbecks Thankful For Support

In August, our son Chuck Bushbeck, while in preseason camp and looking forward to playing his final year of collegiate football at East Carolina University, as stricken by Hodgkins Disease. From that moment on, mere words will never be able to describe the many, many acts of support, friendship and humanity unselfishly extended by the wonderful people of ECU, the City of Greenville and the State of North Carolina.

It is honest to say that without you the feeling of apprehension and helplessness we felt as parents would have been almost too much to bear when our son decided to remain at the university. Our worst fears proved to be unfounded when the people of Greenville opened up their hearts in the most generous demonstration of love we have ever experienced.

Coach Ed Emory and his beautiful wife Nancy, were Chuck's parents away from home. We could have done no more for our son than they did. They are two of the most gracious, giving people it has been our good fortune to meet. May their efforts at ECU be rewarded with much deserved success.

We would also like to express our appreciation to the ECU coaching staff, sports medicine people, Pirate teammates, fellow students, doctors and nurses who attended Chuck and all the other wonderful people in the great state of North Carolina we never had the opportunity to meet. God bless you.

Chuck is a determined young man and has pretty much accomplished what he has set out to do in his life. We feel that he will make his friends in North Carolina proud of him, as we have always been.

We would like to conclude by saying that we will never forget you for your kindness.

Buccaneer Errors

When my husband Steve and I agreed to do an interview with the Buccaneer last spring, we asked that the story be available for us to read before the article was printed in the yearbook because of our fears of misrepresentation. We were never consulted before the printing of the article; we thought perhaps they'd dropped the story.

What was printed in the Buccaneer about our life together in the dorm and our opinion of my job was a definite misrepresentation. Being married and living in the dorm can be, as the article states, "Hardly The Honeymoon Suite." But during the hour-long interview we talked about several positive aspects of our situation that were never brought out in the article.

The article makes it sound as if I am an unsatisfying person who thinks only of my own needs, not those of the students. Steve and I are grateful to the university for the opportunity to live on campus. We know what it's like to pay off-campus rent rates and utility bills. Our situation in Slay has made it possible for us to continue our education. As for my job, life in Slay isn't bad at all. True, it is a single's environment, but I have good friends here and get personal fulfillment out of my job. There are inconveniences in any job. That's reality. I am paid to be available. It's true that sometimes we don't answer the door — but this is not irregular for any staff person. When you are a staff person you are still responsible for your grades and personal life and naturally this can be complicated with a live-in job. But let me reassure my superior and the residents of Slay that my availability to them is in no way endangered. I have handled emergencies at many hours of the day and night and don't want anyone to be misled. As they say, don't believe everything you read!

We also noticed the Buccaneers coverage of the ECU music department and the famous Marching Pirates did not extend past Steve's T-shirt in our picture.

Worthy Newspaper

Typically, it requires outrage to drive a person to write to a newspaper. But enough quality can also be forcing. Beginning with your decision to run the Doonesbury strip, you've made The East Carolinian this semester a worthy university newspaper.

Here are some examples of what I liked: the editorial defending free speech, the cartoon showing the chancellor and the football coach sitting on a park bench studying the help-wanted ads, the lively letters to the editor page and the coverage of campus actions on serious world issues — hunger, human rights, the arms race.

This letter is by convention addressed to the editor, and he certainly deserves credit. But as I go over what has left the good taste, I am reminded of the old — but often ignored — fact that any big undertaking depends on many people working together. Thank you all.

Nixon, Carter Among 10 'Worst' Presidents

CHICAGO (UPI) — Harry Truman and Dwight Eisenhower ranked among the best presidents and Richard Nixon and Jimmy Carter among the worst in a survey of historians and political scholars.

The survey, conducted for the Chicago Tribune Magazine and published Sunday, rated the 10 best and 10 worst presidents.

The current and 40th commander-in-chief, Ronald Reagan, was not included in the survey because he is only in his first year of office.

Abraham Lincoln was the choice as the best president, George Washington was second, Franklin Roosevelt, third;

Theodore Roosevelt, fourth; Thomas Jefferson, fifth; Woodrow Wilson, sixth; Andrew Jackson, seventh; Truman, eighth; Eisenhower, ninth; and James Polk, 10th.

In the worst category, Warren Harding was first, Nixon second; James Buchanan, third; Franklin Pierce, fourth; Ulysses Grant, fifth; Millard Fillmore, sixth; Andrew Johnson, seventh; Calvin Coolidge, eighth; John Tyler, ninth and Carter, 10th.

The Tribune sent questionnaires to 49 leading historians and political scholars across the country in November.

The presidents were judged on their leadership qualities, accomplishments and crisis management, political skill, appointments and character.

One respondent in the survey, Columbia University Professor Henry Graff, said, "The context in which a judgment of the presidents is made is constantly shifting, reflecting much more than simply lengthening of the list of the chief executives."

A similar poll was conducted by Arthur Schlesinger Sr. for Life Magazine in 1948 and the New York Times Magazine in 1962. Lincoln, Washington and FDR were also rated high in those surveys.

But Eisenhower, who did not make the top 10 in the 1962 poll (the earlier poll was before his presidency), reached the No. 9 spot in the Tribune survey.

"I'd put Ike rather high," Indiana University historian Robert H. Ferrell told the Tribune, "because when he came into office at the head of an only superficially united party — a party so hungry that it could taste almost anything political, he had to organize that heterogeneous group and get it to cooperate, which he did admirably — with all those keen political instincts of his."

Respondents seemed to agree the best presidents in the survey were men with "a vision."

"The best presidents have been strong political leaders with a vision, if not a complete program, of where they think the country should go to preserve, protect and sometimes advance the liberty and rights of all people," Robert V. Remini, history professor at the University of Illinois said.

"The worst presidents have usually lacked this vision," he said. "They simply drifted or were so inept in their relations with the people and Congress as to frustrate any effort toward achieving their goals."

Although he's the father of our country, George Washington lost out to Abraham Lincoln as the United States' best president.

Drinking Increases

GAINESVILLE, Fla. (CPS) — More college students are drinking alcohol than ever before, and one-third of all students in the country are problem drinkers, a new study from the University of Florida reports.

According to the study 88 percent of the 1,020 Florida students questioned now drink, the highest ever recorded among the college-age population.

About a third of those student drinkers, moreover, are "problem drinkers," making alcohol abuse on campuses "one of the greatest health problems in the country," the survey concluded.

"The study confirms what has been an assumption for a long time," says Dr. Gerardo Gonzalez, director of the Campus Alcohol Information Center at Florida and president of the nationwide BACCHUS (Booze Alcohol Consciousness Concerning the Health of University Students). "A significant number of college students are problem drinkers, and the amount is rising all the time."

Gonzalez adds the study also confirmed the impression that college students as a group drink more than other sectors of the populace.

In the 1950s, about 70 percent of the nation's college students drank, compared to around 80 percent in the sixties and seventies.

"We want to focus on how to drink rather than whether or not to drink," he says. "We want the majority of drinkers, who are responsible, to lend their support and advice to their peers who are having problems with alcohol."

Alcohol abuse among students usually shows up when a student misses classes because of hangovers, forgets what happened the night before, skips classes, attends classes while drunk, drinks alone, or incessantly drinks to the point of intoxication.

Furthermore, nearly 80 percent of all campus vandalism is related to alcohol drinking, Gonzalez reports.

About 70 percent of the general population indulges, while nearly 90 percent of the campus population drinks alcohol, Gonzalez says.

Acting Director Of Admissions Appointed

ECU News Bureau

Dr. Susan J. McDaniel, director of the university's summer sessions since 1973, will become East Carolina University's acting director of admissions effective Feb. 1.

The appointment was announced jointly by Dr. Robert H. Maier, vice chancellor for academic affairs, and Chancellor Thomas B. Brewer. McDaniel will succeed Walter M. Bortz, who is resigning to become admissions director at the University of Hartford in Hartford, Conn.

Dr. McDaniel will continue to serve as director of Summer School, Maier said. She holds faculty rank as associate professor of biology and has held appointments of increasing responsibility in the Division of Academic Affairs, including having served as associate vice chancellor since 1978.

She has served on the committee since 1972 as a faculty representative and later as ex-officio representative of the division of academic affairs.

"For years, Dr. McDaniel has served on our University Admissions Committee and has acted as the Academic Affairs administrative liaison with our Admissions Office," Maier said. "She is totally familiar with our Admissions Office operation and is very well qualified to assume this key responsibility. We feel fortunate in having the services of such a capable and experienced administrator to assume the duties of the acting Director of Admissions."

A native of Kansas, McDaniel earned her bachelor's and master's degrees in biology and zoology at Kansas State University and received the PhD in zoology and botany from the University of Oklahoma in 1966. She joined the ECU faculty as assistant professor of biology in 1967.

ECU Summer Plays Should Bring 'Em In

The East Carolina Summer Theatre is coming back in 1982 with big Broadway musicals in a newly renovated multi-million dollar theatre center that will serve the entire play-going community in eastern North Carolina, marking the return of one of the state's largest and most popular theatre companies.

Producer/Director Edgar Loessin of East Carolina University has announced productions for July, 1982 of Grease, Shenandoah, Cabaret and She Loves Me. Grease, the longest running musical in Broadway history, will play in McGinnis Theatre July 5-10.

This rock-rollicking stage evocation of high school shenanigans in the late 50's has played to Standing Room Only in all the theatre centers around the world.

Shenandoah, an old-fashioned Civil War charmer that ran in New York for over a year and garnered a number of Tony Awards, is scheduled for six performance from July 12-17.

Immediately following will be one of the most popular and belauded musicals of the century: Cabaret. This play has been honored with the New York Drama Critics' Circle Award, The Outer Critics' Circle Award, The Tony Award, The Variety Poll of New York and The Plays and Players Award — all for the Best Musical of the Season.

July 26-31 are the performance dates for She Loves Me, still another Best Musical of the Season and Tony Award winner that ran in New York for over 300 performances. This musical has so many songs that it took two LP records to contain them in the original cast album.

During its 13 years, the ECU Summer Theatre has given lavish treatment to 52 major musicals and a score of plays. Over a quarter of a million people have seen the shows which played to an average of 87 percent capacity.

After a period of several years

Trudeau Writes Of Affair With Jack Nicholson

TORONTO UPI — Margaret Trudeau, the Canadian prime minister's estranged wife said today in her new book that Jack Nicholson was the "first real rival" to her husband but the actor left her for another woman after a brief, torrid affair.

In an excerpt from her biography published in the Toronto Star, Mrs. Trudeau also discussed a drug-filled relationship with rock musician Tom Sullivan, whose appeal was his "extreme youth."

In the follow-up to an earlier book about her escapades, Mrs. Trudeau said she left Prime Minister Pierre Trudeau in 1977 after choosing "independence over marital vows."

Mrs. Trudeau, the mother of three boys who are being raised by Trudeau, described the prime minister as "mean about money" and said every night for two years before the separation she whispered to herself "Pierre, please give me a divorce."

The first of five excerpts from her book Consequences, to be published Jan. 30, focuses on her 1978 trip with Sullivan to London at the invitation of British publisher John Marquess, who wished to discuss her writing.

Mrs. Trudeau said she was drawn to the 23-year-old Sullivan's "extreme youth" after leaving French bottled-water-magnate Bruce Nevins in New York because he was "a confirmed bachelor."

"As a rock musician he was offering me a glimpse of another culture, one laced with drugs and sex," wrote the woman who ended Trudeau's bachelorhood in 1971, when he was 51.

"There were many times when I would have liked to blame all my mistakes on cocaine. I can't in all truth do that," she said, adding that her consumption of drugs led her to become "a manic depressive."

While in London, Mrs. Trudeau met actor Jack Nicholson — "the first real rival to Pierre."

However Nicholson was in love with another woman and the romance ended, although she said that on their last evening together "we made love all night."

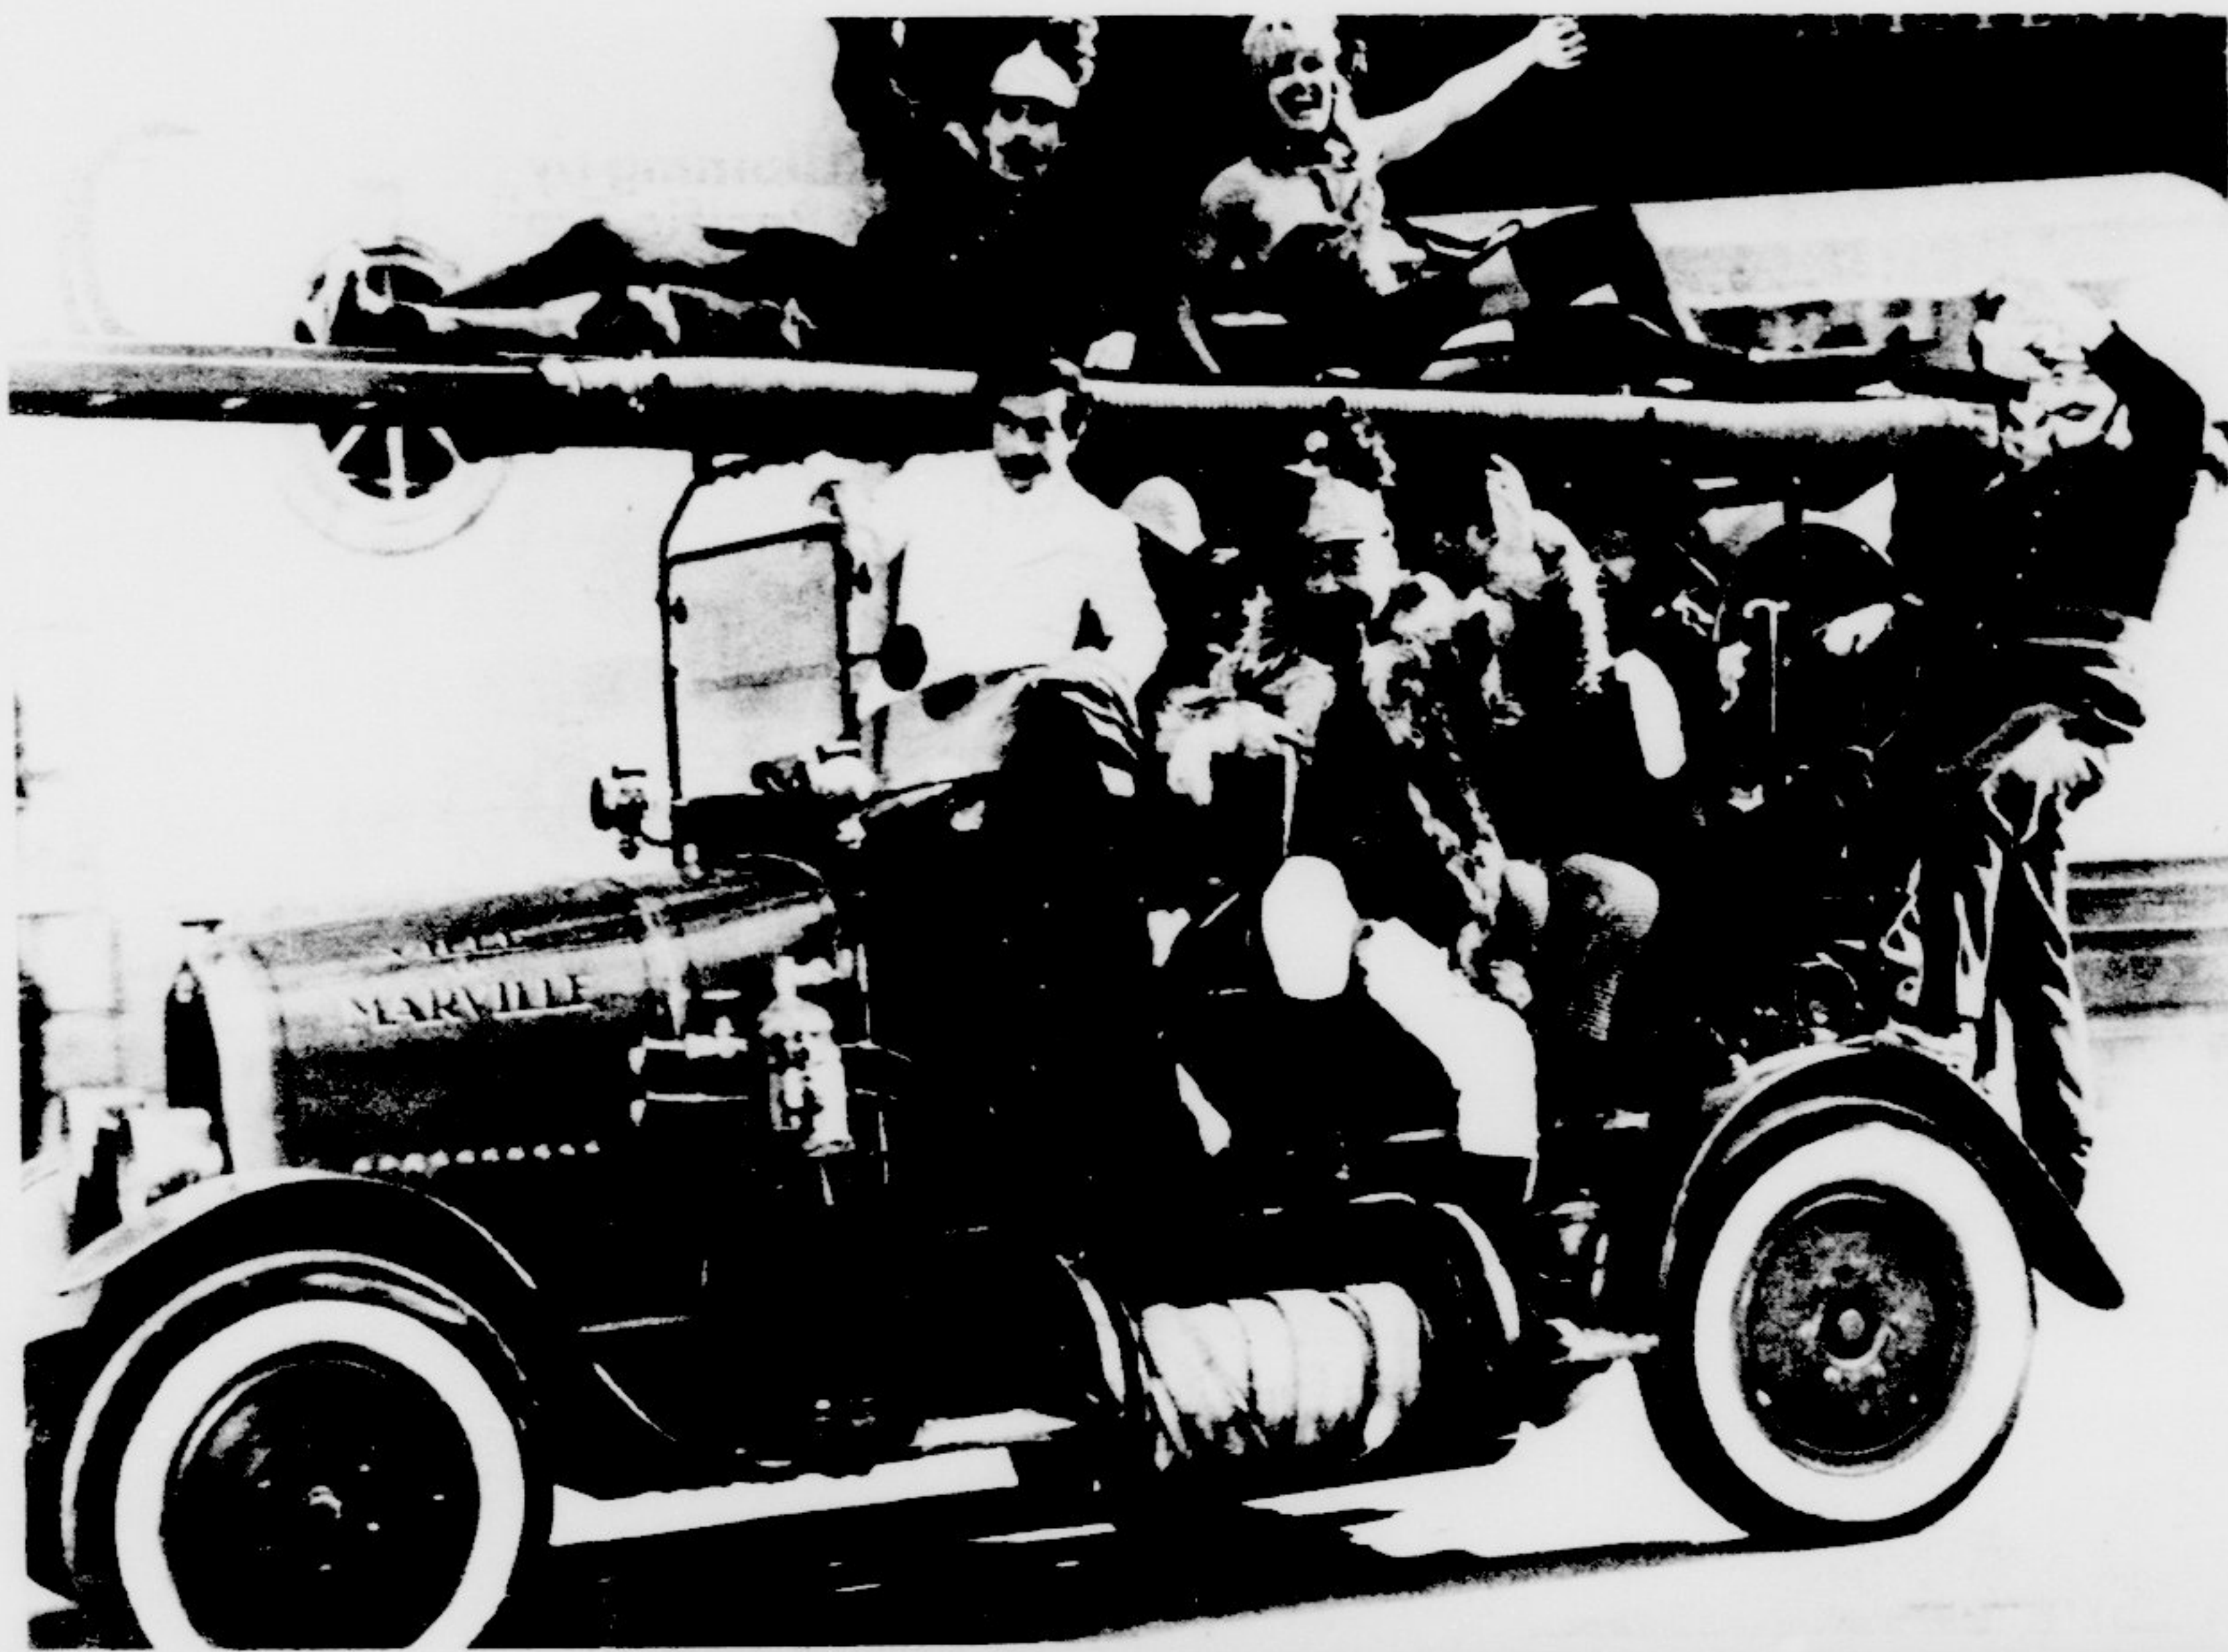

The brief affair left her "crushed" and feeling like a "fool." The woman, 29 years younger than Trudeau, said "I wanted him badly," she maintained, "but I didn't need him."

In a 1979 interview she had discussed romantic involvements with actor Ryan O'Neal, singer Lou Rawls and a friendship with Sen. Edward Kennedy. Kennedy denied any romantic involvement with Mrs. Trudeau.

In her earlier book, Beyond Reason she wrote of her split with Trudeau after making headlines by befriending the Rolling Stones.

The 32-year-old Mrs. Trudeau was last reported living with Ottawa businessman Jimmy Johnson who runs a furniture store. When asked last year about marriage, she replied "We're still both married, each of us with children we're trying to bring up."

Free Flicks Rich In Variety

By JOHN WEYLER
Staff Writer

Werewolves, Victorian temptresses, juvenile delinquents, France, Germany, Australia, Russia, Sylvester Stallone playing Soccer, Paul Newman playing hockey, Alan Alda, Charlie Chaplin, Malcolm McDowell.

These are only a few of the sights ECU students and faculty have to look forward to, courtesy of the Student Union Films Committee. This semester's cinematic lineup consists of a combination of recent American movies, current and classic foreign films, the avant garde and the unusual.

The Popular Film Series is composed of box-office triumphs. Last year's biggest hit, Raiders of the Lost Ark, isn't available yet, but the second biggest hit, Superman II, is. The Man of Steel's exploits will be shown Jan. 14-16, followed by The Four Seasons (Jan. 21-23), Alan Alda's tribute to friendship. The next weekend (Jan. 28-30) will be enlivened by Excalibur, John Boorman's bold retelling of the tales of King Arthur.

One of the strangest developments in cinema in 1981 was the werewolf craze, which included An American Werewolf in London (Feb. 18-20) and Wolfen (April 15-17). The year also provided employment for out-of-work Not Ready For Prime Time Players, including John Belushi in Continental Divide (Feb. 5, 6) and Bill Murray in Stripes (Feb. 11-13).

More comedy is provided by Dudley Moore in Arthur (March 19, 20), while the mystery/suspense genre is well-represented by the Hitchcockian Blow Out, with John Travolta (Feb. 26, 27), Body Heat (March 26, 27) and Eyewitness (April 22-24), both of which star William Hurt. Further thrills are supplied by Sly Stallone and company in John Huston's action-filled Victory (April 15-17).

Wednesday nights are reserved for films that show less popular appeal, but have received critical praise for their artistry. Especially notable is the winner of the 1981 Academy Award for Best Foreign Film, Moscow Does Not Believe in Tears (March 3).

Other excellent European efforts include Francois Truffaut's The Last Metro (Jan. 13), Philippe de Broca's 1967 classic King of Hearts (Feb. 17) and David Hemming's Just a Gigolo (Jan. 27), which stars the unlikely pair of David Bowie and Marlene Dietrich.

The current Australian film renaissance is represented by Gillian Armstrong's My Brilliant Career (April 14); while American artistry is displayed in The French Lieutenant's Woman, a Victorian saga starring Meryl Streep (April 21) and Return of the Secaucus Seven, John Sayles' lovely look at 1960's radicals grown older, and perhaps wiser.

Wednesday evening Double Features include a mini-Charlie Chaplin Festival on Feb. 10. Two of the Tramp's greatest films will be shown: City Lights (1931) and Modern Times (1936).

April 7 features a double-bill devoted to the Sporting Life: Slapshot (1977), a brutal but humorous examination of professional ice hockey starring Paul Newman, and Bang The Drum Slowly (1973), a sensitive study of a slowly dying baseball player, with Robert De Niro in one of his early roles.

Future Shock (April 28) is the title for the pairing of two films about gang violence: Stanley Kubrick's A Clockwork Orange, a bizarre, bloody tale taking place in Britain in the near future, and Walter Hill's The Warriors, a stylized saga about New York City street gangs.

More futuristic film fare is offered in a special Science Fiction Film Festival (Feb. 28). Sci-Fi of the present, the 60's and the 50's will be represented by Outland (1980) with Sean Connery as an outer-space sheriff; 2001: A Space Odyssey, Stanley Kubrick's intriguing epic from 1968, and The Day The Earth Stood Still, the classic film of 1951.

Finally, for the especially adventurous filmgoer, two Late Shows will be represented. Heavy Metal (Feb. 5, 6) is a sexy, very violent animated piece based on the popular fantasy magazine of the same name; while Eraserhead (April 2, 3) is beyond description. You'll have to see it for yourself to believe it.

All Student Union Films will be shown in Hendrix Theatre in Mendenhall Student Center. Admission is by Student ID and Activity Card or MSC Membership. Check The East Carolinian or go to Mendenhall Student Center and pick up your free film card, poster or Student Union calendar for show times.

Local Disk Jockey Cast As Wife In Simon's 'Barefoot'

Allison Thompson, WOOW disc jockey, will be playing the young wife, Corie. Allison is an ECU graduate and has appeared in several ECU Playhouse productions including Getting Out and Talk to Me Like the Rain and Let Me Listen.

Gregory A. Watkins, current ECU English major, has been cast as Paul, a new lawyer and newly married to Corie. Greg recently appeared as Jim in Timpan's production of The Glass Menagerie.

David Stapleton, ECU Psychology professor, will be playing Corie's mother, Mrs. Banks.

Stapleton has performed in a number of ECU Playhouse productions including The Runners of Death, Heidi's Gables, and The Children's Hour.

Local poet, Jim Rivers, will be making his acting debut as Victor Velasco, over the hill Bohemian and suitor to Mrs. Banks.

Dwight Fastwood, a social worker at the Caswell Center in Kinston, will play the Telephone Man. Greenville audiences will remember Dwight's performances in the ECU Playhouse production of Getting Out and Timpan's Dinner Theatre production of And Miss Reardon Drinks a Little.

Critics have agreed in their acclaim for Barefoot in the Park. "A funny, funny play," N.Y. Times, "Simon at his best... a laugh riot."

— Newsweek

Barefoot in the Park will open at the Methodist Student Center on February 24 for five performances. Tickets will soon be available through the Central Ticket Office at Mendenhall and the Methodist Student Center, Fifth and Holly Streets.

Newly Renovated McGinnis Theatre Site Of Summer's Splashy Broadway Musicals

when the theatre could not produce major musicals, it will now move into the newly renovated McGinnis Theatre.

The new facility features 600 seats with improved sightlines, a sophisticated computer lighting control system, 4,500 square feet of backstage space (four times the space before renovation), a 40-line counterweight fly system, and a soon-to-open 9,600 square foot scenery construction building with newly acquired heavy-duty commercial power tools that will facilitate the job of constructing the elaborate scenery and properties for the big-budget shows.

Producing large-scale elaborate musicals requires year-round work for the managerial staff. General Manager Scott Parker said, "We expect to have a company of 85 actors, singer/dancers, designers, orchestra members, technicians, apprentices and management staff."

"Most of the company will come from the 10 southeastern states; however, we have already scheduled auditions in New York, Washington, D.C., and Louisville, KY, as well as local and state wide auditions for the on- and backstage personnel."

According to Loessin, "This is no small venture. We are committed to giving the best possible production of these shows. We already know the audience wants us back on a large scale. We have received wonderful support from the University here, and we have applied for additional support from the Theatre Arts Section of the Department of Cultural Resources in Raleigh."

"We are now very busy seeking other funding as well. So far we're very encouraged. All indications are that eastern N.C. wants the big musicals back and that's what we're out to produce, even bigger and better than before."

Parker noted, "Initially there were no plans to begin selling tickets this far in advance; however, even before we announced the season to the general public, orders were coming in over the phone. So, we moved our timetable ahead and made season tickets available to the public in time for Christmas."

Telephone orders will be accepted during normal business hours, Monday-Friday, at 757-6390.

Green Paces Impressive Win Over Leathernecks

By CHARLES CHANDLER
Sports Editor

East Carolina forward Charles Green scored 20 points, dished out eight assists and defensively put the stops on the nation's number three scorer to lead the Pirates to a surprisingly easy 85-69 win over Western Illinois Monday night.

The Bucs evened their record at 6-6 by posting an early lead and hanging on despite a strong first-half rally by the Leathernecks. Western Illinois fell to 8-5 with the loss.

ECU jumped to a quick 27-16 advantage during the game's first ten minutes and survived a Western comeback that narrowed the margin to one, 37-36, late in the first half.

The Pirates carried a 42-38 lead into the locker room during intermission and came out strong in the second half. ECU outscored Western 21-10 during the first nine minutes of the final period to take a 63-48 advantage.

The Leathernecks could never make it back after that. The Pirates jumped to a maximum lead of 18 points, 85-67, before settling for a 16-point win.

The loss was Western's second worst of the season, the biggest defeat coming by 26 points at the hands of powerful Lamar.

Just one night earlier Western Illinois had battled Big Eight power Kansas State hard before falling just ten points, 67-57.

ECU head coach Dave Odom said the tough loss to K-State and fatigue may have hurt the Leathernecks' chances.

"I really believe we caught them on a bad night," Odom said. "They are a fine team. I'm sure they can and will play better than they did tonight. We are truly thrilled to have won by this margin over such a fine team."

Odom called his team's performance its finest of the season.

"I think definitely this was our best overall effort of the year. We were efficient in almost every area. As well as we played offensively — and we did play very well — I think we played better defense."

Green, especially, played well defensively. Most of the night he was assigned to guard Western forward Joe Dykstra, who came into the game as the nation's third-leading scorer with a 25.8 ppg average.

Though Dykstra finished with 25 points he connected on but eight of 23 field goal tries. He had been shooting well over 50 percent from the field. In addition, 13 of Dykstra's points came during the nine minutes that Green was not in the game.

Green's offensive output of 20 points was well-supported. Point guard Tony Byles added 16 points and five assists. Center Michael Gibson pitched in with a 14-point effort, while forward Al Mack had 13 points.

ECU shot an impressive 55.2 percent from the floor en route to victory.

The Pirates return to action Thursday, hosting arch-rival UNC-Wilmington at 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

ECU point guard Tony Byles moves against Western Illinois. He scored 16 points in the Pirate win.

Lady Bucs Post Upset Of Virginia

By JIMMY DUFRÉE
Managing Editor

East Carolina's Lady Pirates staged their biggest upset of the season Sunday as they held off highly-touted Virginia 64-62.

ECU's Mary Denkler struggled through the first half but battled back for 16 of her team-high 19 points in the final frame. Lorraine Foster added 12 and Sam Jones 10 to push the Lady Pirates to their fifth win in 12 outings.

The Lady Pirates never trailed in the second stanza, building to a 13 point lead on a Jones jumper with 14:47 remaining. But the Cavaliers fought back and tied the score at 45 with on a pair of free throws by Jill McKane with 8:15 remaining in the contest.

A layup by ECU's Loletha Harrison with less than two minutes on the clock put the Pirates up by 10. Virginia again mounted an offensive, as Cathy Grimes connected on a free throw and 15 foot jumper before connecting on a follow shot with :39 remaining to cut the score to 62-59.

Denkler's field goal from the free throw line apparently iced the game for the Lady Pirates at 64-59, but Sally Lewis tossed in a free throw with :13 on the clock and McKane's field goal at the buzzer squelched Cavalier hopes.

"I just can't tell you what a tremendous win this is for us," said head coach Cathy Andruzzi whose squad had not played in Minges Coliseum in almost a month. "I think we've improved a lot since the last time we played in Minges."

"They've been up for national rankings all year. They have a lot of talent — two all-Americans."

"Virginia did a great job against Mary Denkler. The only real sore

scored ten points in the game. She and her teammates now have their sights set on tonight's (Tuesday) game at UNC spot for us tonight was free throw shooting. I mean for Mary to miss five is really rare."

Grimes led the Cavaliers with 22 points and 10 rebounds, while Lewis added 12 points and McKane and Melissa Mahony 10 each.

Defending A Cav

scored ten points in the game. She and her teammates now have their sights set on tonight's (Tuesday) game at UNC

"It goes to show you . . . our tough games have paid off for us," said Andruzzi. "To be 5-7 with the schedule we have and the youth of this team is not that bad. We still need balance, but that's coming."

The Lady Pirates travel to Chapel

Hill tonight to face the Lady Tar Heels of North Carolina in an NCAAAW matchup. UNC defeated the Pirates in two of their three contests during the 1980-81 season, including an 89-83 victory in the state tournament.

Take Conference Lead

Spiders Upset James Madison

Surprising Richmond upset James Madison, 56-51, last night to take over the ECAC-South lead.

The Spiders, 1-0 in the conference and 10-4 overall, used 73 percent first-half shooting to jump to a 25-15 halftime lead.

James Madison, which fell to 2-1 in the league and 9-3 overall, shot but 28 percent during the first 20 minutes.

The Dukes shot some better in the second half, finishing with a 37.3 percent field goal accuracy. Richmond, meanwhile, finished with an impressive 62.5 percent performance from the floor.

Sharp-shooter John Schweitz paced the Spiders with 17 points. Bill Flye added 16 and Bill Dooley 10. Linton Townes topped the JMU scorers with 16 points. Center Dan Ruland added 13 for the losers.

The Dukes only other two losses came against third-ranked Virginia. Richmond's victory comes on the heels of an impressive win last weekend over South Carolina. Earlier in the year the Spiders upset Atlantic Coast Conference power Wake Forest.

ECAC-South Report

- JMU Shooting Goes Cold In Loss To Spiders
- Old Dominion Hosts Mighty DePaul Saturday
- Pirates To Take On Arch-Rival UNC-W

bounce back from an upset at the hands of Richmond Monday night.

Madison is 2-1 in the conference while the Indians only conference game resulted in a loss to East Carolina.

The two big non-conference games also will be played Saturday. Old Dominion hosts Top Ten power DePaul and George Mason hosts Pennsylvania.

DePaul's Blue Demons will be looking to avenge the team's only regular season loss last season. The Monarchs traveled to DePaul last year and upset the then-undefeated and top-ranked Blue Demons.

Penn is consistently an NCAA tourney team and promises to make things hard on George Mason.

ECU has but one game scheduled in the next seven days, hosting arch-rival UNC-Wilmington on Thursday. Both clubs are young, and struggling to finish strong after slow starts. Gametime is 7:30 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

ECU forward Mark McLaurin was hampered with a hand injury when the fall semester ended early in December. McLaurin has returned to the Pirate line-up since. The 6-6 sharpshooter scored 15 points in his first game back against Long Island and is averaging 6.8 ppg.

Several Tracksters Qualify During Kodak Invitational

By WILLIAM YELVERTON
Assistant Sports Editor

There were no victories and not much jubilation for East Carolina at the Eastman-Kodak Invitational in Johnson City, Tenn., this past weekend, but in no way does that mean there was a lack of success for Bill Carson's squad.

No Pirate placed in the top five, but three individual runners and the mile relay squad qualified for the IC4A Indoor Championship meet scheduled for Princeton, N.J., in early March.

The IC4A — "the greatest track conference in the country" says Carson — is one of the oldest track conferences in the nation, a conference the Pirates have waited seven years to be a member of. East Carolina was admitted in late December.

Qualifying were Ray Dickerson in the 600-yard run with a time of 1:11.82, Tim Cephus in the 440 at 49.22 and Jeff Golden, timed at 5.43 in the 60-yard dash.

The mile relay squad was clocked at 1:11.82 and consisted of Dickerson (49.4), Terry Ford (49.5), Keith Clarke (48.4) and Cephus (47.9).

"A (3:15.67) in the mile relay was bad for us," Carson admitted, "but we do show great potential. We have been trying to reconstruct this relay without our lead-off man and anchor from last season (Charles Watkins and Carlton Bell). What we did in this meet shows what's down track.

the road for us. We are a young team. I'm pretty pleased right now."

Clint Harris was ill and did not compete, but he did qualify for the IC4A meet at the Dec. 5 competition at the University of West Virginia by running a 6.37 in the 60-yard dash.

Freshman Terry Ford was clocked in the 440 in a time of 50.10, followed by Clarke with a time of 50.28.

In the 600, Shawn Laney was timed in 1:12.64 and Lawrence Ervin turned in a time of 1:13.44.

The Pirates compete in the Florida Invitational at Gainesville Jan. 16. "We're going to concentrate our efforts again on qualifying for the IC4A," Carson says. "We hope to see some good things happen in Florida."

Carlton Frazier, who did not run during the fall, has rejoined the squad this semester and will compete in the Florida Invitational.

Freshman Michael Goins should prove to be a fine addition to the team, Carson says, and he will be competing in the 4 X 100 relay and the 400 meters in the outdoor campaign.

Former lead-off man Charlie Watkins is no longer in school, and Carlton Bell has stopped running

What In The ... Was That?(!)

Like most college coaches, ECU's Dave Odom often cannot understand calls by game officials.

Women Swimmers Down JMU

The ECU women's swim team had a happy Monday yesterday but for the Pirate men it was no more than an average "Blue Monday."

The Lady Pirates downed James Madison, 69-42, to improve their record to 3-1. The Pirate men, though, dropped a 76-37 decision to Maine.

The Lady Buc win featured a number of outstanding individual performances. Three squad members made national cutoff times.

Sally Collins made the mark in the 200-yard freestyle with a time of 1:59.32.

Moria McHugh made it in the 100-yard freestyle, coming in with a time of 55.22. In the 100-yard backstroke Jennifer Jayes made the national cutoff with a 1:02.69 showing.

One varsity record was set in the match, Nan George establishing a new mark in the 50-yard freestyle with a time of 25.33.

Advance Pick-Up Of Tickets Available

In an attempt to avoid congestion in front of Minges Coliseum on game nights, the ECU athletic department is making tickets to both men's and women's basketball games available to students prior to the contest.

Students may pick up tickets either at the Minges ticket office or at ticket booth at Mendenhall Student Center beginning two days prior to a game.

For example, tickets to this Thursday's men's game with UNC-Wilmington can be picked up at either location during regular business hours.

Students are asked by the athletic department to take advantage of the pre-game pick-up. Doing so, say of officials, could be very advantageous, especially considering the cold weather of late.

Kelly Paces Women Tracksters In Event

The ECU women's track team competed in the East Coast Invitational this past weekend, but came home with but one top finisher.

That was Arnetta Kelly in the 60-yard dash, who reached the semi-finals with a 7.4 run. In the semis, though, Kelly could manage only a 7.6 time and was eliminated from the final run. The top ECU in the 1,000-yard run was a 3:06 turned in by Lisa Whitley. Anne Hartman posted a 1:34.91 in the 600-yard run and was the top Pirate finisher in that race.

The ECU mile relay team of Davena Cherry, Carolyn Moore, Kelly and Hartman came in a 4:29.8.

Holidays Were Both Up, Down For Bucs

The ECU men's basketball team jumped to an early lead in the ECAC-South race over the holidays, only to have that lead spoiled this past Saturday night.

The Pirates bounced back from an embarrassing 70-57 loss to Duke on December 22 to claim three consecutive wins, two of them in the conference, to even their record at 5-5 heading into last Saturday's big game at James Madison.

The three-game winning streak began on December 30 when the Bucs picked up a big conference win on the road, downing George Mason in a 66-64 squeaker. Tony Byles led the way for the Bucs with 16 points. Center Andre Gaddy led Mason with 21 points.

A 70-56 win over Baptist followed on January 4. Again, Byles led the way, scoring 15.

ECU went to 2-0 in the ECAC-South and 5-5 overall last Wednesday with a 61-58 win over William and Mary. The Indians, fresh off a loss to top-ranked North Carolina, lost despite shooting a crisp 58.3 percent from the floor.

The ECU forward tandem of Morris Hargrove and Charles Green paced the Pirate effort, the two combining for 27 points.

The win over William and Mary set up a showdown last Saturday between the two conference leaders. As it turned out, there was no real showdown. James Madison went to 2-0 in the league with an impressive 72-50 win over the outmanned Bucs.

ECU was playing without starting guard Charles Watkins, who was taking a temporary leave of absence.

More than that, though, it was poor shooting that led to ECU's first-ever ECAC loss. The Pirates connected on only 30.9 percent of their shots. ECU was especially cold early in the contest, when Madison took a commanding 18-4 lead.

All-star candidate Linton Townes paced JMU with 12 points. Three other Dukes scored in double figures. Forward Charles Green was the only Pirate in double digits with 10 points.

ECU's next conference action is not until January 30 when surprising Richmond invades Minges Coliseum. The Bucs play five non-conference games, including a January 23 date at 15th-ranked N.C. State, before the matchup with the Spiders.

ECU sophomore guard Mike Fox poured in 29 points to pace the Pirate jayvee team Monday night. The big performance by the Raleigh native could not prevent Frederick Military Academy from taking a narrow win over the Pirate JV's, though. Most of the points came on long-range jump shots.
