SGA Election Date Winding Down

By DIANE ANDERSON
Staff Editor

With the Student Government Association elections scheduled for Wednesday, the candidates are gearing up for some last minute campaigning, and the elections committee is preparing for a full day of manning ballot boxes and counting votes.

Candidates for the various executive positions were introduced to the student legislature at its weekly meeting yesterday. David Cook, Eric Henderson, Andy Lewis, Jay Nichols and Bobby Pierce are the candidates for SGA president; Carter Fox, Bob Mills and Keith Newbern are candidates for vice president; Beisy Stoenier and Becky Talley are running for treasurer; and Sarah Coburn is running unopposed for secretary. All of the candidates are widely involved in activities on campus, with the majority of them currently holding positions on the student legislature.

Chuck Blake, elections committee chairperson, introduced a "resolution concerning the legislature's symbolic approval of the election committee's interpretation of the election rules concerning campaign financing," which states that, although candidates may receive endorsement from any organization at ECU, "other than recognized political parties, no organization or individual may spend funds on any campaign literature." The resolution was passed by a vote of 18-15.

"We are just taking a stand on who can spend money and who can't," stated Blake in response to some negative debate on the bill, which says that the committee has the authority to interpret and specify the meaning of the election rules.

The SGA Chancellor Committee will host one of the four finalists in the search for an ECU chancellor Wednesday. J. Fred Young, president of Elon College, will speak to all interested students and administrators from 10 a.m. to 11:15 a.m. at Mendenhall Student Center.

Another resolution was adopted by the SGA Monday to be presented to Gov. James Hunt at his press conference Wednesday at 9 a.m., urging President Reagan and Congress to seriously consider the negative effects of the currently contemplated budget cuts in student financial aid.

An appropriation of $13,550 was approved to the ECU School of Music to fund traveling for its various ensembles to perform outside the Greenville area. Representatives for the School of Music said this wide exposure will encourage more alumni interest and increase recruitment of top quality musicians.

The Biology Club received an allocation of $300 to cover registration fees for its members to attend the annual meeting of the North Carolina Academy of Sciences.

Varying Guidelines Trouble Candidate

By MIKE HUGHES
Staff Editor

With SGA elections rapidly approaching, most candidates for office are busy getting in last-minute promotions.

But as one SGA presidential candidate has found out, there are sometimes more impediments in the way of success than merely hanging up signs.

In fact, Jay Nichols recently found out that hanging up signs can sometimes be the biggest problem of all.

After hand-painting his own campaign posters and placing them at areas around the campus, Nichols learned from ECU Campus Security that several of his campaign advertisements had been placed in locations classified as out-of-bounds by the campus soliciting policy.

All of Nichols' posters that were affixed to or near the Jenkins Art Building were removed.

However, Nichols claims he adhered to the rules set forth in the SGA elections booklet, rules which allowed for posters to be hung at Jenkins.

Nichols said that 60 percent of his posters were taken down by the campus police because of the discrepancy.

"The elections booklet said it was okay to put posters on the art building," Nichols said.

According to Joe Calder of ECU Campus Security, elections chairman Chuck Blake did not check with Dean James Mallory before the boundaries were established.

But, according to Blake, the same election guidelines have been used in past elections. "To the best of my knowledge, these boundaries were in effect last year," Blake said.

Calder said that the posters were put up in violation of the campus soliciting policy, which forbids the hanging of advertisements on any walls.

"The problem is," Calder said, "the elections committee told him (Nichols) he could do it. They really overstepped their bounds."

Since his posters had previously been declared too large to hang in the dormitories — the guidelines also established a size limitation on election advertisements — Nichols affixed the posters in the art building in an attempt to reach the central and west campus students. He feels that he lost valuable exposure to these locations when the posters were taken down.

After discussing the problem with Mallory, Nichols was allowed to replace his posters.

"As far as I know," Blake said, "the situation has been rectified... the discrepancy has been cleared up."

However, Nichols claims that several of his advertisements were ruined in the process of removal.

"I feel like someone was in the wrong," Nichols said, "but I end up suffering."

Former Statesman Opens Conference

By TOM HALL
and DAVIS NAGY

He would give Alexander Haig an "F" for "Incomplete," deploring "Doomsday" talk about nuclear war and was instrumental in scuttling a two-year, $200 billion trip to Mars.

Dean Rusk — the man who can make all these statements — kicked off a series of seminars and lectures at East Carolina at a news conference Monday morning.

Rusk, secretary of state under the Kennedy and Johnson administrations, is now a professor of international law at the University of Georgia in Athens. He was directly involved in the handling of the Cuban missile crisis and the conflict in Vietnam.

Rusk now says that U.S. influence in international affairs is much less than many people think. "We're not the world's policeman; we're not a den mother," he said.

He added that "one has to be very careful about linking human rights to world business" or risk isolationism. While 30 of the world's nations have varying forms of democracy, 130 do not, according to Rusk.

The former secretary of state added that the United States does much more trade with the Soviet Union than with many democracies. "We can't solve national problems without a great deal of international effort," Rusk said.

Rusk only briefly touched on his record in the 1960s. John F. Kennedy was "deeply concerned" that the United States put a man on the moon as a symbol of achievement, according to Rusk, who noted a "tremendous spinoff from space in all aspects of technology." However, it was Rusk who was instrumental in stopping plans for a U.S. mission to Mars.

He spoke much more about U.S. foreign policy today, including the possibility of military involvement in El Salvador.

Rusk called the Salvadoran conflict a "hemispheric problem," not merely one for the United States. Rather than dealing with the conflict unilaterally, U.S. involvement should come through the Organization of American States, he said.

"I see almost no correlation between El Salvador and Vietnam," he added. "Obviously there's a political connection."

Speaking about the defense budget, Rusk said he would "like to be sure that we're getting a dollar's worth of defense for a dollar."

What about current Secretary of State Alexander Haig? "Now that I'm a professor, I'd give him an 'F'."

Group Explores Prison Alternatives

By PATRICK O'NEILL
Staff Writer

Last of Two Parts

"We need to have a strict public policy favoring pre-trial liberty for most defendants," said Prison and Jail Project staff member Kristin Paulig.

Paulig says that pre-trial detention is often indiscriminate and harmful to the defendant who cannot afford bail. According to the Prison and Jail Project, studies show that pre-trial release creates no risk to the public safety and does not increase failure-to-appear (in court) or re-arrest rates.

Client specific planning and restitution are two other alternatives to incarceration the prison and jail project supports in its work for prison reform.

Client specific planning is used to "develop individually-tailored alternative sentencing plans," Paulig says. This applies after a person is convicted of a crime. "Client specific planners are consultants who take clients at defense attorneys requests," she continues.

Some of the sentencing alternatives include unpaid work orders and community service projects at non-profit agencies, as well as paid employment so the convicted person may begin restitution payments to the victim.

Client specific planning can also arrange for released supervision, treatments for substance abuse or counseling that defendants might need. Drugs and alcohol are "certainly a part of it (crime)," Paulig says. More than 50 percent of the persons arrested are "under the influence at the time of the offense."

"Court-ordered restitution to the victim" is an important alternative that needs to be used more Paulig says. "This is certainly appropriate in property crimes and much more cost effective than taxpayers paying $9,500.00 a year to keep somebody in prison."

According to Paulig, restitution also satisfies the victim. "It's more meaningful to get a stereo back or to get the money to buy a new one than to see a person locked up," she emphasizes.

One of the pit-falls of court-ordered restitution, according to Paulig, is that the defendant is usually required to pay court cost first, and "the victim often doesn't see any restitution for quite some time."

Robert Wever, ECU Professor of Social Work and Corrections also suggests "periodic confinement" as a constructive alternative to incarceration. Wever adds that North Carolina has one of the most serious overcrowding problems in the country and that prisoners are probably "more bitter and hostile" after their release, which can often lead to re-arrest for more serious offenses.

Paulig says that "new (prison) construction is the common response by the Department of Correction to the problem of overcrowding." She adds that new construction "often backfires," and the number of people incarcerated will increase as more prisons are built.

"Alternatives are cheaper than prisons," she says. "Prisons are very very expensive."

It costs $54,000 per cell to build a prison, and North Carolina has spent $111 million since 1975 on new prisons. "We're still overcrowded," she adds.

"The Department of Corrections is not in the business of alternatives."

Rae McNamara, the new Department of Corrections head "is very open to (and supportive) of alternatives," Paulig affirms. She adds that she is very optimistic and sees "a promising new prospective in the Department of Corrections."

Funding is usually raised from grants or private funds, but some funding comes from the counties and the Governors Crime Commission. The Prison and Jail Project is also supporting a "community corrections act," which makes money available for alternatives.

"I think that (an) examination of the criminal justice system) would lead to the conclusion that in many cases the intent and purposes of the system can be best met outside of prison," says ECU Accounting lecturer and former department of corrections employee Delano Berry. He is calling for a "re-evaluation of their (prisons) use," and that "most people realize that in some cases,

Conflict With Carolina Telephone Delays Installation Of ECU Phone Security System

By GREG RIDEOUT
Staff Writer

Installation of telephones on the Blue Light Security System poles on campus has been delayed due to a conflict with Carolina Telephone and Telegraph Company.

According to Vice Chancellor for Student Life Elmer E. Meyer Jr., the problem lies in the cost of certain telephone equipment.

"The exact date to begin use of the system is undetermined at this time," Meyer said.

The cost of each unit is estimated at $100, according to James J. Lowry, director of the physical plant. This breaks down to $20 per light, $40 per pole and an undetermined amount for the telephone. The system has 14 poles.

"The cost is being allocated over the areas served," Lowry said.

"The installation costs are being absorbed by the university."

Meyer first proposed the system in September, 1980. One like it had been in use at Cornell University, where he worked before coming to East Carolina.

When the system was proposed, the phone bill for the university would have increased $72 a month, according to the vice chancellor. The cost will be more now.

According to Lowry, two blue lights have been stolen already.

Archbishop Honored

By PATRICK O'NEILL

Staff Writer

The Greenville-ECU Committee on El Salvador is announcing a "Candlelight Memorial Vigil" on Wednesday, March 24, in remembrance of Roman Catholic Archbishop Oscar Romero. Similar vigils will be held nationwide. Romero was killed while celebrating a Catholic Mass the day after he appealed to the El Salvadoran military to "stop killing their own people."

"We commemorate the death of Archbishop Oscar Romero," said ECU Catholic Chaplain Rev. Girard Sherba, "...a prophet of the social dimension of the Christian gospel... a herald to the call for peace."

"Figures like Oscar Romero represent sanity, the human element, in a region where insanity is prevailing," said Randy Alley, the committee's spokesman.

"As Christians, we all should evaluate our dedication to the gospel of Jesus Christ," Sherba said, "our awareness to the needs of the poor, and strive to follow the example of Archbishop Romero, the example of Jesus himself, who came to proclaim peace, not war; generosity, not selfishness; freedom, not domination."

Rusk Holds Conference

for "Incomplete," Rusk said, explaining that Haig had not been in office long enough for his predecessor to make a judgment.

On the possibility of nuclear war, Rusk said he deplored "gloom and doom" talk. "I think we are further away from nuclear war today than at any time in the last 30 years," he explained. "I don't buy the Doomsday talk."

However, Rusk said "we have some rethinking to do" about worries of a U.S. Soviet conflict in Europe. "A new generation is arriving on the scene," he added. "They don't take the same things for granted."

SATO has "brilliantly achieved" its purpose, according to Rusk. Use of the neutron bomb in Europe "leads itself to a good deal of agitation," he said, but "if Europe doesn't want it, it won't have it."

He called the recent Soviet suggestion to freeze the deployment of nuclear weapons near Europe a "time step toward a zero solution." Nothing can win a third world war and the human race has reached the point where it must prevent that war, Rusk stated.

Rusk later said "we've all been deeply disturbed by what has happened in Poland," but added that eastern Europe has never been an issue of war and peace between the East and the West.

"What happens in eastern Europe in the long run will depend on the people in eastern Europe — not on us," he said.

However, events in the Western Hemisphere need more attention by U.S. officials, Rusk said. Latin Americans "want two things from us ... interest and respect," he explained. Lyndon B. Johnson was more concerned with them, Rusk said, but the Latin American nations "seem to be put on the back burner now."

According to Rusk, Fidel Castro has "no intention" of normalizing relations with the West — something in which the Russians are more interested than Castro because of potential expense to the Soviet Union.

Rusk said the American people were better served by their press than any other nation although there is a "wholesome" tension between reporters and government officials. He also made comparisons between the Soviet and American press.

In the Soviet Union, if a reporter publishes top secret information, he goes to jail, Rusk said, and if an American journalist wrangles confidential information out of the State Department, he gets a Pulitzer Prize.

The Rusk lectures are part of the 75th anniversary celebration of ECU. According to English professor Dr. John Ebbs, chairman of the lecture planning committee, the lecture may be the beginning of an annual lecture seminar series. Guest speakers would be selected to interest a variety of university disciplines.

For the seminars, professors will be asking questions. However, there will be opportunities for the audience to pose questions during the seminars as well as the lectures.

Rusk was scheduled to give his first lecture Monday night. The schedule for the rest of the lecture-seminar series is as follows:

Tuesday, March 23. Seminar 1: 9:11 a.m., Jenkins Fine Arts Center Auditorium. Monday night's lecture, "War, Peace, Diplomacy — Retrospects," will be discussed.

Seminar 2: 2:4 p.m., Jenkins. More discussion is scheduled of the first lecture.

Wednesday, March 24. A reception will be held from 10 a.m. - 12 noon in the Mendenhall Student Center main lounge. Rusk will be available to talk to the general public. Refreshments will be served.

Thursday, March 25. Lecture 2: 8:9 p.m., Hendrix Theater, Mendenhall. The topic will be "War, Peace, Diplomacy — Prospects."

Friday, March 26. Seminar 3: 9:11 a.m., Jenkins. Thursday's lecture will be discussed.

Project Explores Alternatives To Current Prison Reform

prison is the only answer," Paulig notes the importance of alternatives in targeting "prison-bound people" and not people who would have gone on probation anyway. "Alternatives have to cut into the commitment to prisons" and not be "add ons" if they are going to be effective she adds.

"We have virtually no choice right now in North Carolina," but to support and introduce alternatives," because our prison system is so big," said Paulig. "Chief Justice Warren Burger has said clearly, 'prisons do not rehabilitate'."

Many feel that North Carolina prisons are also disproportionately filled with the poor and minorities. Furthermore, in 1980, 76 percent of all people admitted were convicted for "non-assaultive crimes."

Leadership

Campus Politics Deserves Best

Tomorrow's the big day — a day when fortunes will be won or lost.

But seriously, the election of SGA officers for the coming year is important to each and every member of the East Carolina University community. As estimated at Monday's legislature meeting, the 1982-83 SGA will appropriate over $100,000 to various campus organizations — hardly a sum which should be entrusted to baf-foons.

Cook, Henderson, Lewis, Nichols and Pierce (alphabetical order) — five students who have shown dedication to ECU through service of various nature. Some have come through the ranks of the SGA, others have generated support from minorities, i.e. Greek and independent social factions.

These individuals along with the seven candidates vying for other offices have the highest interest of East Carolina at heart. This university is entering what well could be its most trying period.

The search for a new chancellor has been narrowed to four candidates, and the possible paths ECU will take could be symbolized by the directions of a compass. East Carolina will need strong SGA leadership capable of projecting a positive image of the students on the administration.

Advancement through teachers' college and college status along with the fight for the medical school highlighted the Leo Jenkins tenure in the big house on Fifth Street, while the expansion and revision of existing programs marred the Tom Brewer era.

Dr. John Howell has proved an excellent leader during the transition from Brewer to . . . well, whoever. His years of service to the

Jenkins administration, the political science department, along with his current position have pushed him into the "final four."

The records of these chancellors have clearly shown that their office is accountable to one primary (though often forgotten) constituency — the students of East Carolina University.

If ECU is not providing academic, athletic or extracurricular activities available at other schools, enrollment declines. This school has hovered around the 13,000 mark for about five years; an increase of this figure given current economic conditions is not likely.

What the student leaders you elect tomorrow must strive for is improvement of existing conditions, not capricious change of policy and personnel.

5 Showmanship and "off the wall" campaign trickery must not be allowed to lure votes. Several years ago the "Unknown Candidate," a spoof of a "Gong Show" character, ran for SGA president at a university — and won. A sense of humor is often a valuable tool, but that's a bit much.

One dozen students who care about the future of East Carolina University want you to vote for them Wednesday — don't disappoint any of them. On pages six and seven, this newspaper has provided space for the candidates to display their views on what they perceive as the issues of the campaign. We offer no advice as to who to vote for. As with the list of presidential hopefuls in this editorial, the candidates are arranged alphabetically to insure impartiality.

Anyone who does not vote has no right to criticize.

Don't give up your hard-earned rights — VOTE!!!

Letters Encourage Student Voting

I would like to take this opportunity to encourage all students to vote during the SGA elections regardless of their particular preferences. A responsible and representative student government can only exist if there is student participation.

interest of our student body to elect Bobby Pierce and Carter Fox.

voting for these deserving candidates. They are "Students Who Care."

Vote Pierce

Nichols Questioned

As speaker of the legislature this year I know fully what it takes to be an SGA officer and what is expected of them. I would like to extend my support to four candidates, who I know are well qualified for office: David Cook — president, Keith Newbern — vice president, Becky Talley — treasurer, Sarah Coburn — secretary.

It gives me great pleasure to take this opportunity to endorse Bobby Pierce for SGA President. During my three years in student government as a legislator and later as transit manager I had the opportunity to meet and know many student leaders from all factions of the campus political scene.

Sunday night on the Allan Handelman Talk Show, Jay Nichols stated that ECU students should have more say in the selection of bands since the Student Union Major Attractions Committee receives its money from student funds. First of all, the committee is on its own budget. Second of all, all meetings are open to the students.

David Cook, as an SGA legislator, has demonstrated the kind of common-sense leadership ability necessary to perform the tasks of president in a rational and objective fashion. He will bring to the office of president a degree of sincerity, concern, and awareness that has been uncommon in the past. I trust him completely and have no reservations about his abilities or dedication.

Bobby Pierce is a person of rare ability, intelligence, and character. He is a positive leader with positive ideas who can contribute greatly to the university and the student body.

JENNY BOGGS
 Major Attractions Committee

Keith Newbern is the type of individual that fosters a sense of fairness and understanding. He will bring to the office of vice president a level of dedication and enthusiasm that can be rivaled by none. His major attribute is that he is a good listener which is just what the students need.

I am sure that, if elected, Bobby will prove an able representative and leader of the students.

Vote Steinert

Becky Talley, as an SGA legislator, has exhibited the type of tireless effort that is required in the position of treasurer. She is an accounting major that will bring to the office of treasurer a good business instinct. I admire her tenacity and conviction which is essential to an efficient treasurer.

I encourage all students to act in the best interest of the students.

The best recommendation I can make for SGA treasurer is Ms. Betsy Steinert. She is a third-year accounting major, president of Phi Beta Lambda (ECU business fraternity), assistant chairperson of the ECU Honor Board, a member of the ECU Accounting Society and a past treasurer and president of Alpha Omicron Pi sorority. This has all been accomplished in one year. Along with this busy schedule, Ms. Steinert has managed to maintain nearly a 3.5 overall GPA. This outstanding record proves Ms. Steinert has gained a working knowledge of the varied aspects of East Carolina University and demonstrates she is a highly motivated and service-oriented individual. I strongly urge all those concerned with East Carolina University finances to vote Ms. Betsy Steinert SGA treasurer.

NICKY FRANCIS
 ECU Alumnus

Cook & Co.

These three candidates, Cook, Newbern, Talley, have chosen to run together as a ticket, which demonstrates the high degree of cooperation among them that is necessary for the SGA Officers to perform effectively. I have no reservations about these three candidates and I believe that the efficient operation of the SGA depends upon them being elected.

I would like to inform the student body of East Carolina University that there are three excellent candidates running for the student government executive positions. David Cook is vying for the presidency along with Keith Newbern for vice president and Becky Talley for treasurer. I have great faith in all of these candidates and know that, if elected, they would all work in the best interest of the student body.

NELSON JARVIS

Sarah Coburn, as an SGA legislator, represents the best attributes in people: kindness, consideration, and concern. She too is dedicated and will bring a high level of professional competence.

In Mr. Cook, Mr. Newbern and Ms. Talley's platform they show their great interest in the arts and if they are elected they will support the arts which are such an integral part of this university. I have great faith in these candidates and therefore I urge each and every student to vote Cook, Newbern, Talley on Wednesday, March 2.

Not Offended

In closing I urge all students to consider and support the team of Cook, Newbern, Talley and Sarah Coburn for the SGA officers, all are "Students Who Care." Thank you.

JULIANA G. FAHRBACH

Personally, I was not offended by the comments made by the renegade writers of the NO Respect publication which came out a couple of weeks ago. I am a die hard East Carolina sportsfan and student, and I found the comments very funny. The writers of this paper obviously wanted to stress the point that we get hardly any fan support for our teams. Take for instance, the East Carolina Baseball team maybe off to the hottest season ever with a 10-3 record and you'll be lucky if you ever see more than 20 students at the games.

Deserving

GARY R. WILLIAMS

I have served as SGA treasurer for two years and have been involved in the SGA for the past four years. Never before has such an excellent choice been presented to the students of ECU. David Cook, Keith Newbern, Becky Talley and Sarah Coburn have all expressed a commitment to excellence to their respective offices. David Cook brings a high level of maturity, experience and integrity to the office of president. Keith Newbern is an enthusiastic individual willing to work as vice president in the best interests of ECU students. With regard to the office of treasurer, Becky Talley has been involved in the SGA legislature for two years as well as being an accounting major and a sincerely concerned individual. Sarah Coburn, another concerned student, will continue her active involvement in student government as secretary.

Yes, the writing was a bit crude but I honestly don't think that I could think of a better way to show school support than the way these guys have. Let's not forget that the students of East Carolina do have a sense of humor. Rather than condemn these writers, let's give them a hand.

Pierce-Fox

Remember that these students can only serve you if they are elected. SGA elections are Wednesday, March 24. Please support your best interests by

I would like to strongly urge all students to place their votes this Wednesday to exercise their right to elect student government officers.

DAVID ADAMS

I am also taking this opportunity to express my support for Bobby Pierce and Carter Fox for president and vice-president of the SGA.

Forum Rules

Both of them are experienced leaders, whose character is above reproach. They are dedicated to furthering the best interest of the students and ECU as a whole.

The East Carolinian welcomes letters expressing all points of view. Mail or drop them by our office in the Old South Building, across from Joyner Library.

Above all else these two are extremely conscientious about duty and responsibility, they are very hard workers who give their best effort to every undertaking.

For purposes of verification, all letters must include the name, major and classification, address, phone number and signature of the author(s). Letters are limited to two typewritten pages, double-spaced, or neatly printed.

It is their goal to expand SGA services so that the mainstream of the student body will benefit from SGA expenditures.

I certainly believe that it's in the best

Polish Communist Speaks On Solidarity, Says Poles Have 'Crazy Economic System'

By GREGORY SUGGS
Staff Writer

"Nobody is believing the communist system in Poland," a Polish member of the Communist Party told a standing-room-only audience at ECU last week.

Dr. Krystyna Kraczk, associate professor in the Research Institute of Contemporary Capitalism in Warsaw, said the communist system was "not for the people" and that Solidarity was a result of the differences between Poland's upper and lower classes.

Solidarity — the social movement of 9.5 million people demanding reforms — posed a serious threat to Poland's Communist government before the imposition of martial law, Kraczk said.

"It was necessary to suppress Solidarity," said the Fulbright scholar at Duke University, adding that the Soviet Union was afraid of Solidarity's influence on other Communist nations.

Kraczk said the incidents following the military crack-down showed the Polish people's lack of confidence in the Communist Party. The party is hardly visible among the generals now governing Poland, according to Kraczk. When Gen. Wojciech Jaruzelski announced martial law in Poland, Kraczk said he emphasized his role as soldier and prime minister and downplayed his title as Communist Party leader.

"Solidarity was the first natural worker's revolution," Kraczk said. She said a similar movement in another Communist country is unlikely because of the unique fight-for-freedom tradition of the Polish people is not found in other Soviet-bloc countries.

Regarding Poland's present situation, Kraczk said 80 percent of the people there are hungry in her opinion. "Prices in Poland are very high. We fight for food."

A "crazy economic system" created by irresponsible people in authority caused Poland's economic plight, according to Kraczk. She said the system of prices in the country is "very foolish."

Upon becoming members of Polish authority, people immediately become demoralized, Kraczk said. "We are divided by bureaucracy," she added, explaining that in Poland people in authority do as they please and take public money for their own use.

"Communist authority is like religion," Kraczk said. "In religion there is something you don't understand." She added that Communist ideology meant "all people from Communist countries are like brothers."

Emphasizing the Soviet Union's relationship with other communist countries, Kraczk said, "I should first love the Soviet Union, then Poland. You don't break rules — because of the Soviet Union."

While a successful American businessman or student may speak out against his or her government, Kraczk said in communist countries excelling in school or education does not result in social gains. She added that every boss is afraid of bright people. People are fired because of their political views and, because unemployment compensation does not exist, people try to keep their jobs.

Kraczk's visit was sponsored by the ECU Department of Sociology and Anthropology and the Department of Political Science.

Some members of the committee say they are "definitely opposed to a military solution in El Salvador." Others were particularly opposed to the continuing U.S. military support to the country.

Recent polls have shown that general public reaction has also been sharply critical of the Reagan administration's continued military support.

A leaflet to be distributed by the committee reads: "El Salvador — The Violence Continues. ..."

Alley hopes that the efforts of the committee will bring the university and Greenville community together, "so as to contribute to the growing national and global dialogue on this issue." "The more minds and hearts we have seeking solutions to the problems of Central America, the less likely we are to make critical mistakes there."

Both Sherba and Alley appealed to the public to get involved in the opposition to the U.S. position concerning El Salvador. "Input from all Americans is essential for our democracy to function effectively," Alley concluded.

The Cover Letter & Resume

Cover letters and resumes weigh heavily in most companies' hiring criteria. The letters and resumes that are well written, concise, and neat are the ones that result in interviews. This cover letter and resume provide an excellent form to follow. Followed properly, with your own qualifications adapted, it should prove very useful to you.

American Suit Company
Chicago, IL 60622

Dear Mr. Thompson:

The clothing business has been of great interest to me since I was in high school. At that time I obtained a job in retail and from there worked my way into my present position.

I chose not to study marketing or fashion merchandising as do many who plan to enter into the clothing business, but instead chose English with a concentration in writing. I feel that many people in the business world are disadvantaged by an inability to communicate as effectively as they should. I felt that a degree in English would help me to develop this ability, as would my work experience as can be noted on my attached resume.

Neatness, punctuality, and the ability to express myself clearly are just a few of the things I feel are necessary to be able to operate at an optimum. Given the opportunity, I feel confident that I could prove my usefulness to American Suit Company. I look forward to the possibility of interviewing with your company. The distance, however, between your offices and my home would require me to have at least two week's notice in order to make travel arrangements.

Sincerely yours,

President

David Cook

As you know, SGA Elections will be held Wednesday, March 24. I would like to take this opportunity to give you, the students, some background information about myself, why I am running for SGA President, and to discuss with you some of the issues that I believe are important to the campus and of concern to both you and I.

My name is David Cook and I am currently a junior majoring in accounting. I have been involved in numerous activities of the university and feel that I am in the mainstream of student life. I have been an SGA legislator as a day student representative for one year. During this year, I have served as vice chairman of the student welfare committee of the legislature. I am an active member of the North Carolina Student Legislature and Phi Sigma Pi National Honor Fraternity. As you can see, I have been involved in campus life. I have the necessary experience, awareness, and knowledge required for the office, as well as the interest, concern, and motivation needed to fulfill the position of SGA president.

You may wonder why I decided to run for SGA president and why I want to be your president. Through my involvement in the legislature I have seen first hand some of the problems associated with the operation of the SGA. I want to make the SGA work for the students of East Carolina. I feel that I can offer some insight and suggestions as to how to make the SGA work efficiently and effectively and truly be representative of the best interests of the students.

I would like to restore a sense of integrity and responsibility to the office of SGA president. I am a highly motivated person and extremely dedicated and committed to the students and SGA. Through my SGA experience, I have gained a greater awareness of and sensitivity to the concerns of the student body. I feel that I would be able to offer a sense of fairness, objectivity, and sincerity.

I wish to make some commitments and pledges to you regarding some areas of special concern to the students of ECU. Because I feel the arts are a vital part of every student's education, I will wholeheartedly endorse all art, drama, and music bills. Both last semester and this semester, I fought diligently to reinstate the $25 and Emergency Medical Loan Funds. Both these loan funds will remain intact if not be enhanced. Instead of one or two students making decisions, I would like to hold campus-wide referendums to allow you, the students, to make major decisions. Finally, I want to encourage fair representation for minority students, both in the SGA and other campus organizations.

I am not a smooth-talking politician; I am a concerned student who cares about what happens at this university. I am willing and able to dedicate myself to you and the SGA to fulfill the duties and responsibilities of SGA president. Above all, I pledge to you my honesty, sincerity, objectivity, fairness, and concern. I want to work with you to best represent you so that together we may secure the best possible student government.

This election offers a great opportunity to the students of this university. I encourage each and every one of you to vote regardless of your preference. I do believe, however, that I, David Cook, am a candidate deserving of your consideration and I would appreciate your support on election day.

Eric Henderson

My name is Eric Henderson and I'm running for SGA president. I'm a junior, majoring in chemistry and minoring in English. I've had three years experience in the Student Government Association and of the five candidates running for president, I feel that I am the most experienced.

If I am elected President, I would like to have, and encourage, more student input. For example: better utilization of Mendenhall. Also I would like to have student services, SRA, Panhellenic, Inter-Fraternity Council, arts and minority groups located in Mendenhall.

We all know how expensive books are and we are not getting much money in return for used books. As president, I plan to install a book rental system. This would allow the student to rent the books for a rental fee. When the books are returned at the end of the semester there is no additional charge to the student if they are in good condition. Appalachian State University uses a book rental system. This system charges the students $30 per semester to rent books. The student still has the option to buy the books, also. This will also encourage the Student Supply Store to use the books for several semesters instead of one or two semester.

As a junior, I have had my share of long drop-add lines. This problem could be reduced if a first come, first serve system was put into effect. This would enable a student who has been closed out of a class in the fall semester to have first choice of that same class in the spring semester, over a student who is just signing up for that course for the first time.

Another problem on campus is towing. There has been a lot of student money paid to towing services. There has been talk of the university using wheel locks instead of towing. I disagree with this! For one reason, if a student's car wheels are locked and the student doesn't have the money to have it removed, the car will still occupy that space and other cars will be put out of a parking space.

Another problem with the wheel locks is that a twenty-four hour job would be required to hire someone to unlock and lock car wheels. This job and the price of the wheel locks will be a greater expense to the students.

I would like to see a university tow truck working with the campus police to handle the parking problems. The towing fee would be set at a minimum, say about $5-10, and the money would be put back into the university.

In closing, I would like to stress the fact that I feel I am the most experienced candidate. This is an important factor, especially since East Carolina will be getting a new chancellor. The SGA president holds a position on the Board of Trustees. With a new chancellor coming to ECU, he will need as many experienced people working with him in the administration as possible.

Andy Lewis

Let me begin by saying that as far as qualifications go, I already have a proven track record. Two years ago I was student government president at C.T.C. Last year, I served in the student government legislature and was a member of the appropriations committee. This year, I am again serving in the student government legislature as a day representative. In addition, I served as the appropriations chairperson, as well as a member of the Media Board and the Faculty Senate Credits Committee.

There are several reasons why I am running for the student government president. First, I enjoy working with people, which is an unwritten requirement for this position. Secondly, I wish to increase student participation in student government. And most of all, I feel that I can make a significant contribution to the quality of student life here at ECU.

My platform consists of several important issues. First and foremost, I believe that we deserve a fall break and I will work long and hard to obtain one. Secondly, I propose to issue a weekly letter from the president's office to various media, explaining to all students what is happening in the SGA. I would also like to see an office set up within the student government organization for an advisor to the president on minority affairs.

In addition, I support funding for minority groups. I have in the past and I will continue to do so in the future. Furthermore, I will continue to support funding of the arts. And finally, I would like to improve relations between students and the outside community, which could possibly result in benefits such as fewer traffic citations issued for parking in areas surrounding the university.

In the past, I have enjoyed serving in the various functions mentioned above. One of the achievements I am particularly proud of is the introduction of an annual funding format that allows groups to plan ahead by requesting funds prior to the school year in which they will need them. I look forward to having the chance to serve you again.

Thank you for your support!

Jay Nichols

My name is Jay Nichols. I am presently a senior majoring in management and minoring in industrial technology. In the four years I've been here I've been exposed to many problems in both the school and the SGA.

I would like to get straight to the point. The major problem is the lack of communication between students and their elected SGA representatives. I feel a solution to this would be to introduce a student hotline for all complaints and grievances directly to the SGA. Then again by working on WZMB — your student radio station — I can give the students the proper feedback of what the SGA is doing. This is something none of our past SGA representatives have been able to accomplish. Communication is the key word and should be dealt with first.

With my only extracurricular school related activity being the radio station, I feel that I can provide sufficient time and effort needed to carry out the position of SGA president.

So if you want changes in the SGA, get out and vote Wednesday and elect Jay Nichols the next president of the SGA.

Bobby Pierce

My name is Bobby Pierce. I am a junior business student from Hopewell, Virginia. I am running for the office of president of the Student Government Association. I am a two-term president of Phi Kappa Tau Fraternity and have served the IFC first as a delegate and now as executive vice president. I believe that I possess the required administrative and leadership qualifications to perform this job to the utmost.

During my three years here, I have been very active in intramurals as well as many on-campus ventures.

To familiarize you with my platform let me first say that I am in favor of wheel locks in opposition to towing. This policy would not only benefit the students whose cars are damaged during the process, but also the university and student body as a whole by turning money over to the university rather than independent service stations. This money could in turn be used to reduce present parking sticker costs. By reducing sticker cost you would be inducing an increase in the number of stickers purchased. Therefore we would not have as many unregistered vehicles to remove.

I would support the extension of the present bus routes. There are several areas that are not receiving this service but should be. Examples of this would be Tar River, Wilson Acres and the First street area. Through further evaluation of the transit system I am sure that other areas of need will be revealed.

Through my seat on the board of trustees I would strongly oppose any unnecessary fee hikes.

By being on the Greenville City Council, I could push for a seat on the Greenville Utilities Commission. I see a great need for our day students to be more advised of the reasons we are suffering such rates.

I would advocate a three year textbook plan. This policy would ensure a large amount of used books would be in circulation and also let us know how much money we can expect upon resale. With the outlandish price of textbooks today, I see a definite need to administer more pressure to adopt books that can be used for a reasonable period of time and I feel this issue would do just that. I also realize there would have to be exceptions in areas of rapid technological change such as medicine, nursing, industrial technology, etc.

My last proposal is to increase the amount of SGA emergency loans. There is a definite need for us to add to the present $10,000 amount so that we can offer more $25 loans to students who are truly in need of financial assistance. Keep in mind that this proposal would not require spending more of our monies. In fact, the university would be making more through interest and surcharge.

Tomorrow is election day; let me urge you to make the most of your tuition monies and exercise your right as a paying student of this university to vote. I, Bobby Pierce, as well as my running mate Carter Fox, would appreciate your vote for president and vice president of the student government.

Vice President

Carter Fox

My name is Carter Fox and I am a junior here at ECU running for SGA vice president. It seems that "election time" has brought debates, forums, and editorials to the campus, so here I am ready to tell you what I'm all about!

I am presently majoring in child development with a minor in social work, and since I was a freshman I have taken an active part in campus activities. I am serving as panhellenic president now, and I also serve on the Media Board as chairperson. Both of these positions have supplied me with good administrative experience, and at the same time it helps you learn a lot about the people and the activities here on campus. All of it is fun and all of it is worthwhile.

Of course, any candidate runs for office with a certain platform in mind. Let me tell you a little bit about mine. First of all, I am in support of a three-year textbook adoption. This would entail the professors choosing a particular textbook and sticking with the book for three years. With this theory, the student could by the textbook knowing that they could sell it back at the end of the semester. I believe this would cut down on book expenses — which at this point is costly to us all. This, of course, is just one headache familiar to us all.

Another headache would be ECU's towing policy. Instead of towing the student's cars I am in support of our using wheel locks. Not only would this eliminate some of the damage done to our cars, but it would also provide the university with revenue rather than giving it away to area service stations.

As vice president I would also oppose any increase in tuition. I would like to see the money the university has been put to its use. At the same time I would be in support of increasing the amount of SGA emergency loans. Basically, I would like to see more emergency loans available to more students.

Last but not least, I would like to see the transit bus routes extended. The campus is composed of a large number of day students and they, too, need to get to class. It seems logical, then, that we extend the bus routes to include more of the apartment complexes in Greenville.

If elected, I would be eager to see some of these dreams become reality. With your help, I can do just that! So please remember to vote on Wednesday, March 24 for Carter Fox and for my running mate Bobby Pierce.

Thank you for your support!

Bob Mills

My name is Bob Mills and I am a candidate for vice president of the Student Government Association. I am a junior pursuing a degree in political science.

My record reveals I am the most qualified candidate for the office of vice president. In the SGA legislature as a Scott Dorm representative. This past year I have had the honor of serving as chairman of the rules and judiciary committee.

Public relations is a vital part of the office of vice president. The vice president plays a major role as a liaison between the administration and the student body. With East Carolina embarking upon a new administration, it will be a necessity that the student body have experienced representation.

One of my personal goals would be to notify the student body of the services offered to them. I hope to reach a good cross-section of the university to maximize student input.

East Carolina has a non-voting delegate who sits on the city council. I hope to work closely with the city council to achieve the best possible outcome for the students.

My support of various clubs and organizations strongly affirms my commitment to the betterment of East Carolina University. I am totally dedicated to the university, as my mother and father attended East Carolina College and my brother was graduated from here in 1978.

So don't forget to vote — vote responsibly — vote for experience — vote Bob Mills for vice president.

Keith Newbern

EDITOR'S NOTE: Due to circumstances beyond the control of the staff and management of The East Carolinian, no platform for vice presidential candidate Keith Newbern was received.

Treasurer

Betsy Steinert

My name is Betsy Steinert and I am running for SGA treasurer. I would like to thank The East Carolinian for their campaign coverage and you for taking the time to read this.

First of all, I would like to briefly give you my background. I have been a student at East Carolina for one year, transferring from Gardner Webb College last spring. I am also a third-year accounting student. I have been very involved at East Carolina, being president of Phi Beta Lambda Business Fraternity, treasurer of Alpha Omicron Pi, a member of the ECU Accounting Society and a member for the ECU Honor Board.

I began contemplating running for SGA treasurer earlier this spring and began researching into its duties. Through my research and business background, I feel that I can do an outstanding job for the students. I have had lengthy conversations with the current SGA treasurer and the financial advisor for the student government. I have also polled various student organizations and students to get their suggestions for student government financing. I have also become very familiar with past and current issues of the legislature. Because of my extensive research, I have become very competent in the duties and powers of the treasurer.

I have also formed strong convictions about many issues and thought of many areas in which to improve the use of treasurer to the students. Two major areas of concern are the student Emergency Medical Loan Fund and the Emergence Cash Fund. I'm in favor of keeping both of these student services with the new revisions that make collection more efficient. The Emergency Medical Fund will loan up to $100 to a student if approved by a doctor for such things as eyeglasses, x-rays, and other medical problems. I'd like to stress that no matter what this money is used for it is only a loan and the money is repaid to the fund. Also, a student may obtain $25 emergency cash through the SGA offices. Again, this is only a loan.

For student organizations, I'd like to introduce an open-door policy where I'll have plenty of staggered office hours for student organizations to come in and I will brief them on the entire process of obtaining appropriations, setting up budgets complete with appropriate line items, and set up and submit their appropriate bill. I'd also like to innovate more measures to create a better student awareness and participation in student government finances.

To wrap up, I would like to urge you all to vote on Wednesday, March 24. Polls will be open from 9:00 to 6:00. Polls will be stationed at all dorms, the Student Store, the Croatan and at the bottom of College Hill. You need your ID and activity card. Again, my name is Betsy Steinert and I am your candidate for SGA treasurer. Thank you for your support.

Becky Talley

To fulfill the office of treasurer, a candidate should have experience with the SGA, an understanding of the office, a willingness to devote plenty of time, and above all a deep concern for students.

My name is Becky Talley, and I believe that I meet the above requirements. I am a sophomore accounting major, and I have been in the legislature for two years. Last year I served as Fletcher Dorm representative, and this year as sophomore class president. I was also secretary/treasurer of Fletcher Dorm for the 1980-81 school year. I am presently serving on the SGA executive council, and the rules and judiciary committee.

A major reason I am running for executive office is my concern for students. After all, this is our university, but all of our views are not being heard. If elected I will keep my door as well as my mind open and encourage students to come by to express their views on the issues at hand, and to point out any problems they see around campus. When I make a decision I would like to feel that I have heard all the viewpoints and that I am supporting the best solution.

I will support the funding of fine arts because I feel that they are a cornerstone of education. I will make sure that minority viewpoints are heard, and encourage their participation in SGA.

I also feel that campus-wide referendums should be conducted on important issues, especially student activity fee increases. With today's rising costs it will be hard not to increase fees, but if they must be increased the reasons must be justifiable.

I urge you to vote regardless of your preference, but I encourage you to vote for experience and sincerity. Vote for Becky Talley, and vote for students who care.

Secretary

Sarah Coburn

My name is Sarah Coburn and I am running for SGA secretary. I am an English major with a psychology minor.

Three things are very important to the competent execution of the job of SGA secretary: experience, a desire to work and dedication. I have served on the SGA legislature for two terms, and served on the rules and judiciary committee both terms, this year serving as vice chairman. I have also served on several select committees, such as the planning and policies committee and the stadium planning committee. I have the experience.

As my record shows, I am not afraid of hard work. I don't maintain a "B" average by sitting around doing nothing. The same stands for student government. I try to make every hour spent in student service worthwhile. I am also dedicated to serving the student body as best I can. I have tried in my years in the legislature to keep the students' wishes and best interests in mind before I ever cast my vote.

I have the experience, desire to work, and dedication necessary to effectively perform the job of SGA secretary. Without all three of these attributes a secretary would be totally inept and inefficient. Please let me serve you. Vote Sarah Coburn for SGA secretary on March 24.

EDITOR'S NOTE: The East Carolinian regrets there was no picture of Sarah Coburn available at Press time.

Robert Messer

The time has come to "throw the bums out!" I am Robert Messer, candidate for the position of secretary. I am ready to fight for the suppressed majority of this campus. For far too long the SGA has been dominated by power-hungry, short-sighted liberals, who disregard the values of the student body. These left-wing elements have consistently monopolized student funds for the sole purpose of promoting their own selfish interests. If I am elected I shall steer the SGA away from its socialistic direction.

This is my platform: Messer's Fourteen Points

1. The East Carolina Gay Community must be disbanded immediately. This immoral organization is a disgrace to this school, and they should not receive one penny of student funds.

2. Patrick O'Neill must be removed from the staff of The East Carolinian. His left-wing, un-American, pro-Marxist antics are an embarrassment to this university. He litters the pages of our newspaper with his Kremlin influenced propaganda.

3. The Rolling Stones must be brought to East Carolina by the fall semester.

4. East Carolina's athletic program should be improved by the following measures:

a. "Woody" Hayes should be hired as the new football coach.

b. John Wooden, "the Wizard of Westwood," should be actively pursued for head basketball coach.

c. Football games should be scheduled with Alabama, Nebraska, USC, Notre Dame, Oklahoma, Michigan, and other traditional gridiron powers.

d. ECU should schedule ten games with UNC to be played in Ficklen Stadium.

e. ECU must be admitted into the Atlantic Coast Conference.

5. Gerald R. Ford should be considered for the chancellorship of this university.

6. As an alternative to the towing of vehicles, the wheel lock method should be used by the campus police.

7. A statue should be erected on the mall in honor of Senator John P. East.

8. The SGA budget should be printed in The East Carolinian so that the students will be aware of how their funds are being spent.

9. WZMB should be given uncompromising support by all students.

10. Textbook prices are outrageous! Their costs can be curbed by using them for at least two to three years.

11. Jones cafeteria should be condemned until edible meals are served.

12. An on-campus pub should be established at the soon-to-be eradicated Jones cafeteria in order to reduce the incidents of DUI arrests and alcohol related accidents.

13. A university holiday needs to be set aside to honor the following deceased individuals: John Wayne, Douglas MacArthur, George S. Patton, Robert E. Lee, Richard Boone, John Belushi, Jimi Hendrix, Ronnie Van Zant, Jim Morrison, Brian Jones, John Lennon, and Elvis Presley. As well as the men killed in tragic hostage rescue attempt.

14. All Iranian students loyal to the Ayatollah should be kicked out of this country within twenty-four hours of my assuming office.

If I am elected, I will do all within my power to achieve my Fourteen Points. We have to join together now to achieve victory for our cause, and to assure that government of the people, by the people, and for the people shall perish from the face of the earth. I need your help, I need your support. So please vote Robert H. Messer for secretary on Wednesday, March 24. A choice — not an echo!

Sayles Brilliant 'Secaucus 7' Hits Hendrix

By JOHN WEYLER
Staff Writer

The Return of the Secaucus Seven was made for $60,000. It was shot in 22 days, using stumbled-on sets and unknown, semi-skilled actors. It is the first-time directoral effort of an author named John Sayles, whose script writing credits include Piranha, The Howling and Alligator. Despite all the above, or perhaps because of it, Return of the Secaucus Seven is one of the most widely-acclaimed films of the last few years.

The film will be shown tomorrow evening at 8 p.m. in Mendenhall Student Center's Hendrix Theatre. Admission is by ID and activity card or MSC membership for faculty and staff. The film is being sponsored by the Student Union Films Committee.

The film's plotline is simple. Several years ago, seven friends, participants in the then-current protest and peace movement, were on their way to a rally in Washington D.C. when they ran afoul of the law in Secaucus, New Jersey. They were briefly jailed, they were released, gradually they drifted apart from each other and their idealistic activities. A decade later, they hold a reunion in North Conway, New Hampshire.

The "Seven" and their various mates and marriage partners reunite, reminisce, and re-ignite some of the old Sixties' spark. They party, they make love, but mainly, they talk. They talk about the old times, the new times, and the time that's passed in-between. They talk about politics, sex, family matters. In short, they talk about just about everything a group of people could talk about within the running-time of a motion picture.

David Chute of American Film magazine had this to say about the film:

"...Secaucus 7 is anything but a drearily earnest wallow in Radiclub nostalgia. An elegantly plotted, beautifully observed comedy of modern manners, it doesn't quite make one forget that it was cheaply and independently made. The 35mm release prints were blown up from 16mm, and look it, and many of the unknown actors in the cast cannot do justice to the layered ironies of Sayles' pitch-perfect dialogue.

"But Secaucus 7 has a skeptical sense of humor about its endlessly self-analytical characters, and it's so deftly structured that one can take pleasure in it simply as a narrative mechanism. . . . Return of the Secaucus 7 fulfills the abundant promise of independent moviemaking, both creatively and financially, as few recent pictures have."

Ustinov Back Again In 'Evil Under The Sun'

By LESLIE BENNETTS
New York Times Staff Writer

NEW YORK — He stars as an eccentric Belgian detective in a new movie. He has just finished writing a play, for which he anticipates a London opening in the fall — with himself as the star, of course, and playing no lesser a personage than Beethoven. In the next few months, he reports, he will — among other things — put together a movie based on a screenplay he's just completed about a Turkish bandit, finish writing his literary work in progress, "a coffee-table book about Russia," direct "a couple of operas at La Scala" and do a television play.

All of which is simply business as usual for Peter Ustinov, whose oeuvre includes 21 plays, two novels, one autobiography, two volumes of short stories, one of caricatures, eight motion picture scripts and seven records.

He has directed seven films and acted in "35 or 40," he says, not to mention in plays too numerous to remember, singing in the occasional opera along the way as well. Actually, Ustinov isn't quite certain of any of these numbers; whatever the genre, the totals are impressive, and he would rather think about his next project than tote up past ones.

In his latest film, Evil Under the Sun (now playing at the Buccaneer Theater in Greenville), Ustinov turns in his second performance as Hercule Poirot, the inimitable and indomitable sleuth dear to Agatha Christie fans. This time around, Poirot finds himself at a dazzling resort on the Adriatic, investigating the disappearance of a valuable gem. Needless to say, a body is discovered on the beach shortly after his arrival.

A famous stage star is dead, but who killed her? Her cuckolded husband, the stepdaughter who despised her, a jilted former lover, the writer whose salacious biography couldn't be published until the demise of its subject, the jealous wife of the star's current young lover, an old professional rival who may be in love with the star's husband? Suspects abound, all with motives — and alibis. Clearly a case for the Belgian detective.

"I find Poirot a very engaging character, although he's quite awful, really," says Ustinov, who first played Poirot in Death on the Nile. "I should hate to know him. He's very vain, self-contained and finicky. People have asked me why he never married — because he couldn't solve it, of course. An ancillary reason is that he's very much in love with himself. He has probably been quite true to himself. I don't think he's ever cheated on himself."

Since filming Evil Under the Sun on Majorca last summer, Ustinov has been leading his usual peripatetic life, sandwiching a series of appearances on the television show Omni and assorted trips to promote the movie in between visits to his apartment in Paris and sojourns of writing and relaxing at home in Switzerland, where he has lived since 1957. His chalet is nestled among the vineyards between Geneva and Lausanne, and wine is yet another Ustinov product.

"It's lovely to be able to invite friends over to have a glass of wine from the garden," says Ustinov, whose vineyard produces 4,000 bottles a year. "A typical Swiss white wine that hasn't any great pretensions."

Somewhere along the way he finished his 21st play, called Beethoven's Tenth. It is about "Beethoven coming back — into the house of a rather acid music critic who knows all about him," he reports.

At 60, Ustinov has been a one-man creative industry for more than 40 years, ever since making his London stage debut at the age of 17 and launching his career as a playwright two years later. By the time he was 24 he had directed his first film, although, he complains, "I thought it was terribly late, and couldn't understand what they'd been waiting for."

Since then Ustinov has won enough honors to furnish a house, ranging from Academy Awards to Emmys to Grammys, with a Commander of the Order of the British Empire and a few dozen others thrown in along the way. Nor does he show any signs of flagging. "I've always considered life to be much more of a marathon than a sprint," he remarks.

Born in London, Ustinov is the son of a journalist and an artist, both half Russian with assorted parts Italian, French, and German. He is fond of saying that he lives like an Englishman, thinks like a Frenchman and has the soul of a Russian. Among his relatives Ustinov claims a country squire on the Volga who died at the age of 108, leaving 6,000 serfs; an organist at St.

It's Oscar Time!

So Get Out The Crystal Ball

By JOHN WEYLER
Staff Writer

Once again it's almost time for the riders on the Hollywood merry-go-round to grab for the gold ring — the Oscar — so once again it's time for the Annual East Carolinian Oscar Predictions. Last year we guessed all the major awards correctly but one — we'll see how we do this year on Monday, March 29, when the Academy of Motion Picture Arts and Sciences (AMPAS) holds its festivities.

Cinema

Little Oscar, according to Academy legend so called because his bare buns reminded Bette Davis of her husband Oscar, is bestowed on those the Academy feels are worthy of the award's immense financial potential. The golden statuette is supposed to honor the most artistically-successful productions and the people who made them. Cynics say it goes to the personal favorites of the influential organization's members. Following the latter line of reasoning, we'll now make our predictions of the winners and explain why they'll win.

The Academy is fond of families, as is shown by the last two year's Best Picture recipients, Ordinary People and Kramer vs. Kramer. It also loves sentimentality. What then could be more sure-fire than a sensitive family film starring two of the last still-living legends of Hollywood, Henry Fonda and Katherine Hepburn? Director Mark Rydell's On Golden Pond will be acclaimed Best Picture and win Best Director, beating Warren Beatty's epic Reds, Hugh Hudson's excellent Chariots of Fire, Louis Malle's intriguing Atlantic City, and Steven Spielberg's exciting Raiders of the Lost Ark.

On Golden Pond will also gather an award for one of the grandest old men of movieland: Henry Fonda will win Best Actor for his compelling, crowd-pleasing performance in this very popular picture. He was given a special Oscar for lifetime achievement just last year, so he's being doubly honored. The runners-up include two younger long-time favorites, Paul Newman (Absence of Malice) and Burt Lancaster (Atlantic City). The other nominees are impish Dudley Moore (Arthur) and omnipresent Warren Beatty (Reds).

Nominees for Best Actress are Katherine Hepburn (On Golden Pond, of course), Susan Sarandon (Atlantic City), Diane Keaton (Reds) and Meryl Streep (The French Lieutenant's Woman). Hepburn already has three Best Actress Oscars, so this time the Pond will recede in favor of another. Keaton won in 1977, Sarandon is too little known, so Streep will get the gold. She's a very well-regarded young actress who has previously only won Best Supporting Actress (Kramer vs. Kramer, 1979). Besides, by awarding her, the Academy will get to show how cultured it is, honoring a classy period piece.

Regarding this year's Best Supporting Actor and Actress awards, as eminent film critic Bill Murray used to say, who cares? We don't much, so we'll skip the nominees and just give you the winners: Sir John Gielgud (Arthur) and Jane Fonda (On Golden Pond). Old folks and families again. Perhaps AMPAS should change it's name to the Academy of Motion Picture Aging and Sentimentality.

Flutist Tim Weisberg Performing At Attic Tonight

Respected rock 'n' roll flutist Tim Weisberg will perform a single show this evening at Greenville's Attic nightclub. Weisberg recently completed his 14th album, Travelin' Light. Prior to this new release, and his Party of One LP, he debuted on his current label, MCA, with the highly acclaimed Night Rider, and just before that he teamed with Dan Fogelberg on the platinum album Twin Sons of Different Mothers.

Mark in Venice; another relative who was born in a tent in Ethiopia; a grandmother who owned the largest caviar fishery in czarist Russia; and a grandfather who was court architect to the czar.

Ustinov had a classic English upbringing, trotting off to school at Westminster every morning in his top hat and tails. He received the kind of education designed "for diplomats, lawyers, politicians and all those people who exploit one aspect of the truth at the expense of others," he explains. A somewhat obstreperous youth, Ustinov manifested a tender age his remarkable talent for impersonation and mimicry, frequently to the consternation of his elders. One report card bore the stern warning, "Shows great originality, which must be curbed at all costs."

"They didn't know what to make of me at all," Ustinov says. "I was very bad at school. I got out of trouble my making people laugh, which of course was a defense. The same thing happened in the army."

When he enlisted, Ustinov told the War Office Selection Board he preferred tank duty, "because you can go into battle sitting down." The board's verdict on Ustinov: "On no account must this man be put in charge of others."

A natural actor, Ustinov suspects that part of his inspiration to write arose from exasperation with his father, who spent his life starting novels he never finished. "I got so irritated with his dilettantism that he really compelled me to become professional," Ustinov says. "He was a man of great gifts, but they really weren't focused at all."

He also believes that being an only child "of Bohemian parents" had a profound effect. "I think in retrospect that only children aren't necessarily spoiled, as the conventional wisdom has it, but that very often they're left to their own devices," he says. "You become very self-sufficient and don't see the point of sharing things. It doesn't make you the best of partners later on, because your habit is to deal with things alone."

Ustinov is the father of four, one child by his first marriage and three by his second. His children have continued in the family's artistic tradition. His son is a sculptor, two daughters are actresses and the third is a goldsmith.

For the last nine years Ustinov has been married to his third wife, Helene du Lau d'Allemands — who, he says, has been writing some secret grand opus ever since he has

 In between his other projects, Ustinov has managed to work in 13 years of travel as a roving ambassador for UNICEF, six years as a rector at a Scottish university, considerable time spent on the beloved 1929 sailboat he keeps in Spain, the mastery of French, German and Italian along with a working knowledge of Russian, Spanish,

East Carolina first baseman Shirley Brown stretches for a throw against North Carolina in last year's action. The Lady Pirates finished third in the nation last season with a 44-7 record. Brown returns this season along with other key starters such as Cynthia Shepard, Mitzi Davis and Ginger Rothermel. The Lady Pirates host N.C. State in a double-header at the softball field by Harrington this afternoon at 3 p.m.

Lady Pirates Waltz To Tourney Crown

By CYNTHIA PLEASANT
Assistant Sports Editor

The East Carolina women's softball team won eight consecutive games this past weekend, to take the A&T Invitational title in Greensboro.

According to head coach Sue Manahan, "The strongest teams in the state were there."

The tournament got underway this past Friday, with ECU playing four games in the round-robin event.

The Pirates easily defeated UNC-Greensboro, 7-0, and A&T, 13-1. They then downed Western Carolina, 6-1, and Pembroke State, 4-3.

The second day of the tournament changed to double elimination, and the Lady Pirates cruised all the way through to the championship contest.

In the opening game, ECU beat Campbell, 5-3. Junior Cynthia Shepard, who is picking up where she left off last season when she hit .513, led the Pirates with a homer and a triple, driving in four runs batted in. Mitzi Davis and Ginger Rothermel had two hits each.

Campbell took a 2-0 lead in the first inning, until ECU scored three runs in the third. Campbell tied the game with one run in the fourth, but ECU then scored a run in the fifth and seventh innings to win.

In the second game, ECU faced N.C. State, and the Lady Wolfpack were unable to solve the dominance ECU has held over them since last season, with the Pirates outscoring them, 14-6.

ECU took an early lead, scoring once in the first and twice in the second inning. The Pirates dominated in the top of the fourth, scoring five runs for an 8-0 lead.

Senior Shirley Brown went 3-for-4 and had two runs batted in. Shepard, who homered again, went 2-for-3 against the Wolfpack.

The Lady Pirates' next opponent was Pembroke State, and defeated them again, 5-1.

ECU scored single runs in the first two innings to gain a lead it never lost. Sophomore Sherri Stout led the Pirates, going 2-for-4, while Brown went 2-for-4.

In the championship game, ECU topped Western Carolina once again, winning 2-0.

The game remained scoreless until the sixth inning when Brown singled and brought two runners in.

Head coach Manahan said the wins were a boost for the team's moral.

"There were a few doubts when we came out of Florida," she said. "But I think the tournament helped build up our confidence quite a bit."

Manahan added that the tournament win was a team effort. "Some key people came off the bench and did the job for us."

The Lady Pirates will play a doubleheader today against N.C. State. Coach Manahan said the Wolfpack will definitely be fired up, since ECU defeated them in the tournament. The games begin at 3 p.m.

Buc Streak Still Alive

By WILLIAM YELVERTON
Sports Editor

East Carolina coach Hal Baird had it all planned. "I told Gary (third base coach Gary Overton) earlier that it was time for a gut check — to have a close game where we had to pull it out in the late innings."

That plan couldn't have worked any better as designated hitter Chuck Bishop doubled down the left field line, sending courtesy runner Ricky Nichols speeding all the way from first to home, giving the Pirates a 4-3 lead in the bottom of the eighth and a victory over ECAC foe George Mason Friday afternoon.

The win was the Pirates' ninth in a row, improving their record to 11-3, but more importantly left their conference mark spotless.

"We got it today (a test)," Baird said, "and we pulled it out. It should help us as the season goes along."

For a while it looked as the Pirates were going to have their win streak broken as George Mason pitcher Les Wright, who was pulled in that fatal eighth after giving up a total of 11 hits, stopped Pirate rallies with double-play ground balls. "He kept hitting part of the strike zone that kept us off balance," explained Baird.

But freshman pitcher Bob Davidson, who went the full nine innings after giving up back-to-back homers in the sixth that gave Mason a 3-2 lead, also kept the Patriots off balance with a good fast ball.

"He pitched well," Baird noted. "His fast ball was way ahead of them early, and their righthanders were all hitting to right field. But his breaking ball wasn't that good early, and they started grooving on his fast ball."

"But by then, he got his breaking stuff back and got very tough."

After the two long balls, the young freshman, now 2-1, allowed only two baserunners — one who reached on an error and another who singled in the last inning. He ended up with five strikeouts.

The Pirates fell behind quickly, 1-0, in the first inning when Robbie Foster walked and Kevin Anderson singled him to third on a perfectly executed hit and run. Van Steelant then hit a sacrifice fly to right, and Foster scored.

But East Carolina fought back to tie the game in the fourth. Todd Evans led off with a double to left and moved to third on a sacrifice. Catcher Fran Fitzgerald, who was three-for-four on the afternoon, singled to right, scoring Evans.

The Pirates took the lead by adding a run in the fifth after Robert Wells singled and second baseman Mike Sorrell advanced him with another hit. David Wells followed with another hit, scoring Robert Wells.

But George Mason bounced back in the sixth as Kevin Anderson and Van Steelant responded with consecutive homers.

The Pirates finally came through for the victory in the eighth when Evans led off with a single to left. He was sacrificed to second and raced to third on a passed ball. Mason catcher Van Steelant, after chasing the ball, attempted to throw Evans out, but the toss was high and went sailing into left field. And Evans crossed the plate.

Fitzgerald then ripped a single to left, and Nichols came into run for him, eventually scoring the winning run after Bishop's hit.

Pirates Adjusting To New Offensive Set

For eight seasons the wishbone offense has been a mainstay with the East Carolina football team. When spring drills began this past Saturday, though, the key objective was to adjust to a new offense — the I formation.

The change comes as a result of the hiring of Larry Beckish as offensive coordinator. He steps in for Wright Anderson, who left ECU to take over the head coaching reigns at Elon College.

Beckish comes from Wichita State, where he tutored the Shockers' offense to a ninth place finish in NCAA total offense figures last season.

Making a smooth transition to the "I" and finding a leader at quarterback appear to be the top objectives of the Pirates during the annual off-season practice period. That makes this spring different from most, said ECU head coach Ed Emory.

"Going to the new offense will be exciting for the players, but we've got to make sure we don't get too complicated with it too soon," he said. "Want them to understand why we want things done, not just how to do it."

"We will line up with two wide outs in an I formation," Emory explained. "We will run the shotgun off of the I. We'll open up the offense and have more finesse in it. We have some great talent at quarterback and running back which we feel will give us great balance in our attack."

The Pirates return seven starters and 21 lettermen on offense. However, Carlton Nelson, the starting quarterback a year ago, has been shifted to slotback within the new offense. He will battle sophomore speedster Ricky Nichols for that position. Nelson may get an early edge as Nichols is playing baseball and not participating in spring drills.

The leading candidates at quarterback are Kevin Ingram and Greg Stewart. Both have started in the past. Larry Brobst, a red-shirt last season, also could get in the hunt for the signal-calling position.

Emory speaks with pride about his offensive line, which he declares the strength of the team.

"We have three gentlemen who are potential pros," he said. "Johnny Robertson (6-6, 260) is a great prospect. I think Terry Long (6-0, 279) could be one of the finest ever. He's got unreal strength, great speed and keeps getting better. Tom Carnes (6-5, 277), who's recovering from a shoulder operation, should have a great year."

In the backfield, Earnest Byner is the leading returnee and has been shifted from halfback to fullback. Before going down with a knee injury in the fourth game a year ago he had rushed for 193 yards while averaging 6.8 yards per carry.

All-America candidate Jody Schulz is the top returnee on a defense that Emory feels will be much better than a year ago.

"We played nine good defensive football games last season and two bad ones. With the people we have back and the addition of some key transfers, we should be much better this season."

Linebacker Mike Grant, the team's leading tackler a year ago with 132 stops, also returns. Starters Hal Stephens and Steve Hamilton are back at defensive end as well.

The secondary returns two starters, Clint Harris and Chuck Bishop, but neither will participate in spring drills. Harris is running track and Bishop is a member of the ECU baseball team.

Sophomore punter Tommy Barnhardt returns after averaging 37.5 yards per boot last season. Placekicker Chuck Bushbeck has graduated, though, and that void must be filled. Ted King, a red-shirt in 1981, and Kurt Larkins will do battle for the spot in the spring. Freshman recruit Jeff Heath of Tidewater, Va. is expected to give them a challenge in the fall.

Purple-Gold

Throughout the spring drills the Pirates will be working out on the practice field on Tuesdays, Wednesdays, Fridays and Saturdays. They will work with weights on Mondays and Thursdays.

The month-long practice session will end on Saturday, April 24 when the team holds its annual Purple-Gold intrasquad game.

Fight Action Non-Stop

By GORDON IPOCK
Special To The East Carolinian

Over 1800 people paid the two-dollar price of admission to witness the finals of the seventh TKF Boxing Tournament Thursday night at Minges Coliseum. The turnout was so large that the proceedings were delayed 15 minutes so the waiting line of fight fans could be admitted.

The AAU sanctioned event was open to all amateur boxers, yet six of the nine champions were ECU students. The bouts consisted of three two minute rounds. The AAU officials were from Camp Lejeune.

In the 132 pound class, Conald Melton defeated Jesse Baker by scoring from outside and thwarting Baker's in-fighting tactics.

In the 142 pound class, Glenn Fiscella clinched a close decision over Michael Ricks with a determined flurry of blows in the final seconds of the third round.

Larry Dixon and George Fiscella had identical slugger styles in the 152 pound class. Dixon won the decision in what appeared to be a tossup.

Mark Sared and Barry Barbour brought the Minges crowd to its feet early in the first round of their 162 pound contest. Both were out of their corners like sprinters, throwing wild punches at a furious pace. But in the second round the pace slowed, and Sared began landing straight clean punches to the head of Barbour. A KO appeared likely, but Sared failed to press his advantage and Barbour survived the round. But in the third, Sared's sharper punches again landed repeatedly and won him a clear cut decision.

The most convincing display of boxing skill of the evening was given by Graham Settle in the 172 pound division. Throwing clean straight punches, Settle knocked his opponent, Jeff Langrehr, to the canvas midway through the first round. After a standing eight count, Settle pressed his attack with a combination of straight shots and hooks to the head that had Langrehr out on his feet. The fight was stopped at 1:49 in the first round, the evening's only knockout, a TKO.

The 182 pound fight was another slugger's contest as Alan Lowe outbombed Sandy Johnston.

The fight between Jim Lincoln and Mike Greco as a rematch of last year's finals that saw Lincoln spin off the ropes with a devastating right cross and KO Greco. Lincoln was again looking for the big punch and tried several times to use the same counter-punching style off the ropes. But Greco kept to the middle of the ring, out-punching Lincoln during the first two rounds, and held on in the third to win the decision. Greco was voted outstanding boxer of the tournament for his performance.

In the heavyweight fight, Brian McGann doggedly pressed the attack against Chris Skeeter, but his looping right hand betrayed him and allowed Skeeter to counter-punch effectively and win the fight.

In the unlimited division, John Faulkner the Marine that was last year's heavyweight champion, found that his rope-a-dope tactics were no match for the quick hands of Carlton Brewer. Brewer's punches penetrated Faulkner's defenses repeatedly, and the Marine was in serious trouble in the third round. But Brewer could not find the big punch to put Faulkner away, and instead won by a convincing decision.

The TKF boxing tournament is becoming a significant annual sporting event that is attracting good boxers and large crowds. And most importantly, the proceeds go as always to the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

YELLOW BIRD, Who is smiting now? Pepperland is alive again, thank God...the plague is gone. The reception was the biggest event of my life, along with going on the air, so far. The lux and tails were an excellent idea. When one gets a chance to break through the thunderclouds and shine brightly, one should make the best of it because that chance may be lost forever. I am afraid that it all went over their heads at about Mach 1. They are mere babes with young minds, that just cannot understand what we have been through with project "Baby Z."

Byrd, I don't know how I am ever going to thank you. You picked up the football and ran with it when I got clipped by that witch from Hell and couldn't run anymore. What a touchdown. You were there when I became pinned on the bottom of the Marinas Trench. I have learned many things through my years with Z-91, especially about people and the "Powers that be." But most of all I have learned who my true friends are: that if you want it bad enough and work hard enough you will eventually get it.

However, I didn't expect that we had to endure World War III to energize that F.M. Carrier. Everytime I sat down and listen to my baby, I damn near have to cry. It sounds so beautiful. I remember looking at the system design on paper and how good it looked like it would sound, and now just hearing it perform at 200 percent gives me great strength. I am totally amazed at what the human mind can do with a good pair of strong hands and some precision instruments. Just think Byrd, with the energy it takes to burn a 300 watt lamp we are covering a diameter of 30 miles. I hear the big guys are losing their cookies over it. Like Leo said, "We have demonstrated the art of success."

I love it. Don't worry Byrd, I haven't forgotten about the "Cheetos Can," during the depression. What is our next project? How about alternative U.M.F. television? Doc Carlton would get off on it for sure. For now Byrd, I think we "done good." ECU has come of age and we are a major part of that. Now do we believe? Hell Yes. Welcome to the new triangle area. I think that Goethe said it better than anyone else: "Whatever you can do, or dream you can, begin it. Boldness has genius, power, and magic in it."

From the bottom of my heart, thank you Byrd. I am getting ready to cross a bigger mountain and trek into a new frontier. It will take a long time but I will make it. "We all live in a yellow submarine, a yellow submarine, a yellow submarine. We all live..." Have a good one. Later: Doc John. P.S. Watch out for the screaming blue meemies...

PERSONALS

TO ALEX, Harry, Frieda, Throckmorton and Whitey: The Albino Social was an event to remember. Whitey, you were the hit of the night! Ole Pink Eyes, you done good too. And that imitation of Al Franken, her that was fantastic! But next time, how's about giving me some warning before you turn the lights on that hunk, man. Whoever's idea it was to drink white wine with our whitetish, you outdid yourself! Oh, by the way, who brought the Blondie albums? And when the sun came up, and all I could see was pink skin. I think it was all over. But Mucus Weiby saved the day. Yes, it was a great day for all us, well, you know, all us... If, perchance, you are interested in the next Albino Social, call David or Mike at 752-9411.

SPEEDO, Speedo...where'd you get that poodoo? I want it bad. Love forever, the Domino's Man.
