Foreign Ambassador Visits Greenville

By PATRICK O'NEILL
Staff Writer

Yoshio Okawara, Japan's ambassador to the United States, presented a luncheon address Friday before 200 invited "Eastern Carolina leaders" assembled at the Greenville Country Club.

Okawara, escorted by Gov. James B. Hunt Jr., praised North Carolina for having "a very fertile climate" for Japanese investment. He said much of the credit for the flow of Japanese investment into North Carolina "belongs to the founders and leaders of the Southeast U.S. Japan Association, an energetic group of businessmen and political and academic leaders representing the seven Southeastern states."

"We are here today to celebrate a friendship that has grown through years of neutral respect and cooperation," Hunt said in his opening remarks to the luncheon assembly. "It is a friendship whose roots go deep into the soil."

"Many of you know that Japan is now the largest overseas customer for North Carolina tobacco," Hunt said.

In his address Okawara said "about $185 million" is spent by Japan in N.C. tobacco purchases. "Traditionally we've been a very good cutomer of your tobacco," Okawara said during a post-luncheon press conference. "And I'm sure as long as Japanese people enjoy smoking, we'll continue to be a very good customer."

"Since 1977, Japanese companies have invested more than $175 million in new and expanding manufacturing facilities in North Carolina," Hunt said. "And those dollars ment jobs for North Carolinians."

Okawara said the southeast U.S./Japan Association's investment efforts have contributed a "substantial share" of the $14 billion stake Japanese investors now have in America.

"Within the framework of this successful regional campaign, North Carolina has done exceptionally well, thanks again to the vision and labor of some of you here today," Okawara said.

During the press conference the govenor said it was significant that Okawara was visiting Eastern North Carolina to learn more about the area and its people as opposed to being on official business. "We're building for the future; that's what we've got to be about," Hunt said. "We don't have enough good jobs, we don't have enough good opportunities for our people and we've got to focus on doing something about that."

Commenting on recent statements by some United Nations ambassadors that the U.N. might move its headquarters out of New York City, Okawara said he did not think it was feasible to move the international body out of the United States.

"I'm sure New York and (the) United States have been a very good host for the United Nations," Okawara said. "In realistic terms is it feasible to think about any other sight other than New York to have such a huge operation like the United Nations?" Okawara asked.

Okawara said the U.N. has played a "a very important role" in maintaining peace and helping to give a better life to many of its member nations.

"But at the same time it is also a fact that the United Nations has been expanding its budget and many member nations find it not easy to cope with such expansion," Okawara said.

ECU Student Found Guilty Of Plagiarism

By JENNIFER JENDRASIAK
Staff Writer

An ECU student has been found guilty of plagiarism resulting from a poem plublished in the 1983 Rebel, the ECU literary magazine. He immediately appealed the verdict.

On Thursday the SGA Honor Board found commercial art major Keith Carter guilty and sentenced him with a $250 fine and a year's probation, according to Student Attorney General Harry Dest. Carter also received a written reprimand and is required to write a formal letter of apology to the Rebel, Dest said.

"It (Carter's plagiarism) was dirty, and I don't see how an artist or writer could do something like that," said Ellen Moore, editor of the Rebel.

Moore first became aware of the plagiarism when it was brought to her attention during the summer. Carter's poem was entitled "Years Ago" and according to Moore is exactly the same as an Alice Cooper song with the same title. The song came off of Cooper's Welcome to My Nightmare album.

The Rebel has had plagiarism problems in the past and its editors try to take every step possible to prevent its occurence. All pieces submitted are screened by the Rebel staff, judges and typists. "It goes through so many screenings, but you can't know every song in the world," Moore said.

Every writer submitting work to the Rebel is required to sign an "affirmation of originality" and a "publication and duplication authorization" in which the writer takes responsibility for his work and is therefore liable for criminal, civil or university actions in cases of plagiarism.

Carter pleaded guilty but without the intent to plagiarize. "He contended no intent to plagiarize, which in my estimate was why the fine was so strong. Basically they (the Honor Board) didn't believe him," said Assistant Student Attorney General Rick Brown, who tried the case.

Dest said Carter claimed he had come up with the poem on his own, however he said he believed this to be "hightly unlikely."

Carter intends to appeal the case to the ECU review board which is currently in the process of being rebuilt. Until SGA elections are held and the board is picked, trial of the case will be delayed.

White Resigns Chairmanship; Elections To Be Held Oct. 12

By MILLIE WHITE
Assistant News Editor

Danny White has resigned as SGA Elections chairman following the cancellation of Wednesday's elections. Controversy is also clouding the charge made by White that Air Force ROTC is in part to blame for the failed elections.

White had disqualified 20 candidates who failed to file their campaign expense reports; such a penalty is not allowed under SGA election rules, according to some interpretations of the rules.

A statement by White that appeared in Thursday's edition of The East Carolinian was contradicted by an Air Force ROTC official. White charged last week that the ROTC had promised to man several election polls and then failed to do so. Cadet Group Commander Charles R. Brackenhoff said White had spoken to a senior cadet and that no definite plans were made.

Cadet Eleanor Avery said White had talked to her the Friday before the election. She said White wanted the ROTC to man one poll in front of Jones dorm. Avery told him she would check with her superiors over the weekend and would give White an answer on Monday. Avery was unable to reach White on Monday and did not leave a message. White contacted her Tuesday. Avery told him it was to late to make arrangements to man a poll. White then told her not to worry about it.

Walter Shore has been chosen to replace White, and the election has been rescheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 12.

Tim Mertz, a candidate for senior class president, said there is no excuse for cancelling the elections. Three years ago, Mertz served as the Fall semester elections chairman. The job is "not that hard," he said.

"I'm very insistent that White doesn't get paid the $150," Mertz said. The rest of the elections committee should not get paid either, he said.

The SGA plans to reimburse the candidates for their campaign expenses, SGA President Paul Naso said. "We made a mistake, so we're going to pay the candidates."

The candidates will be paid back in full for campaign ads taken out in The East Carolinian. Naso said candidates should be able to salvage at least half of their campaign posters; therefore, they will be paid for half of their poster expenses.

Mertz said candidates should be reimbursed in full for all campaign expenses. "They're penalizing us for their mistake," he said.

"They believe the posters are salavageable," Mertz said. "I'm sorry, they (the posters) get torn down by students, other campaigns and janitors."

Both Naso and Mertz agreed the Air Force ROTC should not be blamed for the election mishap.

"I don't believe it's the ROTC's fault," Mertz said.

"ROTC should have never been mentioned. It made them look bad," Naso said. " At least they offered to help."

Mertz suggested paying organizations to run the polls. "Organizations can come together and earn the money they get," he said.

Naso said Shore mailed letters to all of the candidates explaining the rules governing the elections.

Reagan In Favor Of King Holiday

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Reagan intends to sign a measure to establish a national holiday honoring martin Luther King, Jr. if the Senate passes it, a GOP leadership source said today.

"The president sent word this morning he will sign the bill," the source said shortly before the Senate was due to begin debate.

GOP leader Howard Baker said he will push for a vote this afternoon but expects an attempt by opponents to send the bill back to committee. He wants the measure passed without changes and will move to kill the amendments offered.

"I'm going to pursue this think until I get is passed," said Baker, who met with King's widow two months ago and promised he would act swiftly.

Despite Baker's intentions, Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C., may resort to a filibuster to delay passage.

"I'm going to do everything I can to resist this proposal, realizing the cards are stacked against me," Helms said.

The adamant convervative said colleagues tell him privately they cannot risk alienating blacks by voting against the bill honoring King, despite their concers about cost.

Guide To New Law Offered

The ECU Campus Alcohol and Drug Program, an information, education and referral service, has prepared a four-page guide designed to help ECU students better understand the Safe Roads Act which went into effect Saturday.

The "Pirates Guide to the Safe Roads Act" was prepared and printed by CADP and should be ready for campus-wide distribution by Oct. 15.

CADP, located on the third floor of the Erwin building, is run by students and committed to the promotion of responsible decision making regarding The consumption of alcohol and use of drugs.

A committee was formed by CADP members, under the guidance of CADP faculty advisor Jerry F. Lotterhos, to interpret and rewrite the new act, highlighting the sections of the law which most directly affect college students.

"We're putting it in simple language so students can more easily and understand it," Lou Clemmons, CADP counselor and graduate student in rehabilitation counseling, said.

"The law as it reads is very, very hard to understand," Clemons said.

Clemmons said because of the law is new, many students at first will have a lot of unanswered questions about the Safe Roads Act. He hopes the Pirate Guide will help answer these questions.

Lotterhos said the guide was prepared to help ECU students understand the portions of the act which apply to them. "The law as it is written combines so many elements and it is written in legal terms," said Lotterhos. "We have a responsibility to communicate these rules as clearly as we can."

Lotterhos is also director of ECU's alcoholism training program in the School of Allied Health. Both he and Clemmons worked together, with others, on the rewriting effort.

Lotterhos, who personally opposed the decision to raise North Carolina's minimum drinking age to 19, said he does support some sections of the act, such as the elimination of plea-bargining in drunken driving cases.

"The age issue is one I do not personally think is necessary; it is not the solution to the problem of alcohol abuse," Lotterhos said. "We need to do a lot more positive educational work with our young people regarding responsible use of alcohol."

In the Tuesday edition of the Daily Reflector, Eugene M. Zallen, dean of ECU's School of Home Economics, wrote a letter to the editor criticizing the ECU News Bureau for distorting information.

In the Sept. 23 edition of the Daily Reflector, Zallen was said to be retiring. "I have no intent to retire," she said. "I was not allowed to see the news release from the ECU news bureau before it went out. They picked out bits and pieces. It was constructed so that it was distorted — there were errors in fact.

The article stated that Zallen is from Jacksonville Ala. — she is actually from Camp Hill, Ala.

The article also omitted her position as six-year director for the School of Home Economics at The University of Oklahoma.

Zallen said that she did not notify, nor was she contacted by, the ECU News Bureau concerning her resignation.

On Sept. 19, Zallen announced her

Commercial Flights

Ban On Smoking Proposed

By JENNIFER JENDRASIAK
Staff Writer

The Civil Aeronautics Board recently voted 4-0 to propose a ban on smoking on commercial flights lasting less than one or two hours, according to a proposal published Friday in the Federal Register. The proposal is open for public comment until Nov. 7.

According to a spokesman for the Transportation Consumer Action Project, bans were previously proposed in 1976 and 1979 but were not adopted.

"The board considers a ban on smoking on short flights to be justifiable. Most smokers are used to refraining from smoking for a short period of time when in public places such as theatres. This proposal can be viewed as an extension of that practice. It could thus provide greater protection for non-smokers, arguably without creating prohibitive rules for smokers," said the TCAP spokesman, quoting from the Federal Register.

The exact period of time necessary to constitute a short flight has not yet been decided by the CAB. An arbitrary time limit could create problems. "Whether a flight would be subject to the smoking ban would depend on its scheduled flight time rather than actual flight time. Comments are requested on whether smoking should be allowed on a flight that would otherwise be subject to this rule after the actual flight time exceeds the one or two hour period for any reason," the spokesman said.

Another concern of the CAB is whether or not to institute the ban on short flight segments of multi-segment flights. Allowing smoking during part of the flight and prohibiting it during others might cause administrative and enforcement problems.

One group behind the proposal is Action on Smoking and Health, a group which serves as "the legal action arm of the anti-smoking segment of the population" according to its executive director John Banzhaf, who said he was delighted by the proposal.

Bendix Prize

Physics Students Win Award

By N. K. HOGGARD

The ECU chapter of the Society of Physics Students has been awarded the prestigious Bendix Award for undergraduate expermination. "This is quite an honor for us; there is a lot of competition for Bendix awards," said Shaun Kelly, vice president of the campus SPS and a physics undergraduate student.

James E. Gaiser, SPS's faculty advisor and a physicist here at ECU, explained that "there are only twelve or thirteen universities honored with these awards." The Bendix award is bestowed annually to SPS chapters that propose original and/or practical research projects. The award is in the form of grant money to the National SPS by the Bendix Corporation. The National SPS decides which university is to receive the award based on research proposals submitted the previous year.

The ECU proposal is entitled "A Visable Light Doppler Velocimeter Interfacd to a Microcomputer. The group applied for the award in hopes of obtaining funds to purchase a helium (light) laser. "We were asking for $249.00 and they gave us $250.00," Kelly said.

The aim of the project, in addition to the actual research the SPS will do, is to familiarize undergraduates with lasers, computers and experimental techniques. The ECU SPS is an undergraduate organization comprised mostly of freshmen and sophomores needing to learn or polish their research skills.

"The students will be able to see the 'aser in operation," Gaiser said. Seeing the laser work will provide students with a better understanding of lasers.

The SPS is not only for physics students, but is for any undergraduate with a genuine interest in physics research. Students desiring to get involved with physics research are encouraged to contact either Gaiser, Kelly, or David Windsor, president of the SPS.

New Elections

The Only Decision SGA Had

The canceled SGA election last week has created a touchy, ambiguous situation among candidates regarding the outcome of the election. Most of those candidates who won the election that had 20 names left off the ballot naturally want their results to count. Those whose names did not get on the ballot of course want all results voided and the new election to be held with a clean slate.

The Student Government Association has rescheduled the election for Oct. 12, and it should be a new election. Granted, those who followed the proper procedure and had their names on the ballot did nothing wrong, but those whose names were left off because of vague rules or a misunderstanding about a form to be filled out should likewise not be penalized. It seems logical that a student who paid his registration fee and went through all the proper procedure but spent no money in the campaign should not be disqualified because he did not fill out a financial statement.

If 20 out of about 40 students failed to file the financial statement, surely somewhere along the line there was a breakdown in communication or an inadequate explanation of the rules.

It is unfortunate that those who did file the statement (and who feel the rules were clear) should have to run again for the seats they won. But they did not win in a fair election, for their opponents were not on the ballot and were not given an equal chance. If the candidates feel they won fairly, they should not be afraid to run again in a race that is fair to everyone.

We do not fail to foresee the unfair aspects of SGA president Paul Naso's and the elections committee's decision to rerun the failed elections. But, something must be done; this is the only way to correct the mistake. Those who won should feel confident enough with their election platform to run again, and those who did not get their name on the ballot should be given at least a fair chance to be elected.

No one denies that, considering student apathy, getting elected to the SGA Legislature is often half luck, half chance. Since most students know only a few of the candidates and must vote for 25, random selection all too often makes the difference in who wins and who loses. All the more reason every candidate should have his name on the ballot.

We vote let's do it again

Did You Know? — The East Carolina University School of Medicine first opened its doors to four-year students in 1977. The 28 future doctors were the product of a 13-year fight by the university, the Board of Trustees and concerned citizens who were trying to expand the opportunity for medical education in the state. The school received full accreditation in February 1981.

Eureka! Here's The Prez

By DARRYL BROWN

I should start this with, "American citizens should reconsider the criteria by which they elect their national leaders...." But this article isn't going to make any difference in the voting patterns of Americans in the '84 elections. This page is only read by about 23 people sitting in front of the Student Supply Store on Tuesday and Thursday afternoons. So, to be more honest, let me just say I'm offering what I consider to be a fairly accurate observation.

American presidents are elected on how much they appear to be just an ordinary guy, or rather an ordinary guy made good. There is a deep held conviction in the American psyche, as well as in the basis of American government, that all men are equal, and no one is, or should be, any better than the other. Hence, since we acknowledge no difference among people, we search for no outstanding leaders, no brilliant men, to lead our nation.

We don't want our leaders to be the most highly educated, obviously intelligent men of their time. We rarely elect Ivy League graduates for presidents. We look for, instead, someone with a down-home, ordinary guy image and background. Thus we elect a peanut farmer from Georgia, or a movie actor from California. Reagan graduated from Eureka College, not Harvard, and we like him better for it. Who wants some elitist, blueblood running the country when we can have an ordinary guy who understands us ordinary guys?

Granted, most presidents are fairly wealthy in private life, making them less like ordinary people. But that, in a way, just makes them more desirable, for they fulfill the dream of every working stiff. America has a great (mis?)conception of itself as the land of opportunity, where any person has the chance to get rich, if he's smart and lucky enough. Thus a rich president is just the quintessential ordinary guy. He's a successful version of the rest of us, and if he's successful at his personal life, maybe he'll be successful at running the country.

So, we get candidates exploiting their humble beginnings and down home charm, whether its Reagan in his cowboy boots and hat back at the ranch or Carter down on the farm with Miss Lillian. Perhaps a liability to George Bush's thwarted 1980 presidential campaign was his degree from Yale.

Professors', Students' Lighting Up Is Big Pain-In-The-Class

I used to think that smokers only smoked in places like doctor's offices and classrooms because they weren't aware they offended non-smokers; however, I have drastically changed my mind since attending classes at ECU where smoking is allowed — especially in those classes where the professor is addicted to the habit.

No matter how nicely I ask smoking students not to smoke in class, they all have the attitude, "Well who in the hell do you think you are?" and go right on smoking. Accounting for the fact that we suffering nonsmokers are the majority, I am amazed we are still in a smoke environment, are still too intimidated to take measures to at least wipe out smoking in the classroom, especially with all the knowledge about the lung-damaging effects of second-hand smoke on nonsmokers.

Although I often listen to nonsmokers complain outside of class, I have never had one of them back me up when I complained inside, thus making me feel like the class fanatic. When will we realize that our health is more important than an "A" from a smoking professor and validation from our smoking friends?

White Praised

Why is it that The East Carolinian so enjoys pointing the finger of blame? Well, as one who has been assisting Danny White with the fall elections, let me set down a few important points that were misrepresented or neglected by the editorialist on the SGA elections in the Sept. 29 edition.

In my opinion, when someone accepts a position such as Elections Chairman, he isn't promising to be perfect nor is he signing away his soul to the "democratic process," he is agreeing to perform his task to the best of his abilities. Danny White held up well considering the problems hurled at him by the administration and unreliable student groups. For example, one group that is funded by the SGA agreed to assist Danny White and the ECU community; however, they backed out completely just before polling time.

As elections chairman, Danny White had the right to disqualify the 20 candidates who failed to file financial statements by the deadline. This authority is aside from the fact that the original election rules were misprinted back in 1980, leaving out the disqualification clause in question. Furthermore, students (or adults?) "who care enough about the university and student government to run for the legislature" should be responsible enough to follow the election rules. Danny White and Sarah Coburn, the SGA secretary, emphasized the significance of submiting financial reports five times during the pre-election meeting.

I would like to urge The East Carolinian's staff to gather and/or present the facts and accept that the blame can't always be placed on one individual or circumstance.

Read It Again

This is in response to your Sept. 27 editorial captioned "Carolina Errs..." criticizing my article about FBI activity on the UNC campus that appeared in The Daily Tar Heel last month.

Contrary to your editorial writer's conclusion, my article did not "link UNC-System President William C. Friday with FBI undercover operations at North Carolina Universities." Nor did the story imply that "Friday was an intricate cog in the FBI's radical round-up wheel in the late '60s." The story did state that according to the FBI's own files President Friday was on the Bureau's secret "special correspondents list;" a fact Friday denies.

Almost everyone that I interviewed agreed that a "special correspondent" was a "friend" of the FBI. And it was noted in the article that one FBI researcher believed that such a relationship would include passing information to the FBI. The fact that Friday appeared in the files is just that, a fact, not an "accusation." Opinions from knowledgeable persons about the list are simply their opinions not an accusation by me.

Also, it is a fact that the FBI was engaged in large-scale surveillance and infiltration of UNC campus political groups. The revelation that Friday was listed as an FBI correspondent during this period of campus espionage does not mean that he was aware or condoned such activity.

In regard to your criticism that "more thorough digging on the story was necessary," I bthat looking through 700 pages of FBI files, interviewing campus police, FBI agents and experts on the Bureau from around the United States was more than adequate.

In conclusion, maybe your writer's inappropriate reaction to this article was in part an attempt to attack the messenger of disconcerting news about our government and our intelligence agency. The fact that the federal government saw fit to spy on student groups in the late '60s and early '70s is hard for many to accept especially when we have been told that ours is a free and democratic society. In any event, I wish that editorial writer had read my article thoroughly and thoughtfully before attempting to criticize. If the writer did read the story in its entirety, I would suggest that he take a remedial reading comprehension class before blubbering in such an irresponsible manner on the editorial page.

PIRG Supported

At this point in time, it is premature to argue for or against the installation of a PIRG on the ECU campus. What is more relevant and significant is the simple fact that students at ECU should be able to vote directly by referendum on the PIRG issue. I am quite sure that both Thomas Jefferson and Andrew Jackson would have applauded such a decision despite their political preferences.

Mr. Kilcoyne, in his article attacking PIRG, would be overjoyed to see such a chance for referendum dismissed by the new SGA. Obviously, Mr. Kilcoyne questions the intelligence of the student body and is afraid of putting the vote in their hands. I question whether he believes in democracy or even understands what it means.

'Real Prize, Guys'

An open letter to the parties responsible for this year's "Homecoming Concert."

It's 1983. Charlie Daniels and Marshall Tucker? Seems it's not 1983 here in Greenville.

Perhaps Charlie Daniels is a regional favorite, but not every student here has been "livin' it up down East" forever. And 60 miles from here, very few people remember who Charlie Daniels is.

Things are just a little too silly here. Last year you brought us .38 Special. Real prize winner, guys. The year before that, it was Charlie Daniels. Just can't keep him away.

On Oct. 13, the Talking Heads (They've got a hit single!) are playing in Chapel Hill. Later in the month, The Kinks are at Duke. Eddy Grant recently played UNC-Greensboro. And Marshall Crenshaw, Elton John (hit singles), Joe Jackson (hit singles), Psychedelic Furs, and countless bands played at triangle area universities. So why do we always get this silly bunch of Southern anachronisms?

Abusin' Opponent

My immediate reaction to Dennis Kilcoyne's article was to recount a quote from Cicero which states: "If you have no basis for an argument, abuse your opponent."

This is precisely what Kilcoyne has accomplished in his editorial. Instead of looking at the issues PIRG has been primarily concerned with, i.e. enviromental questions and consumer protection, he has attempted to link PIRG with anti-Americanism, homosexuality and thievery.

The entire purpose of PIRG is to overcome student apathy and involve student bodies in relevant policy questions. Are nuclear disarmament, environmental questions and equal employment practices not the issues that affect everyone?

Whether or not one agrees with PIRG's funding methods or organizational models is a decision that should be resolved by the student body in a referendum. Thus PIRG, like any other activist group, is an extension and implementation of the democratic ideal — equal access by citizens to their government. This is rightly the purpose of any political organization because to insure access groups are formed to represent their aggregate interests.

Why attempt to derail a student-directed research organization that examines relevant policy questions on the fallacious assumption that "we will be fleeced by Marxists?"

The ultimate purpose of a university is to teach students how to reason by equally addressing both sides of an argument and thus insuring a rational decision. As students, we have an intellectual responsiblity to become involved in the political process. If this is what PIRG espouses (and an accurate, unbiased scrutiny of PIRG's accomplishments will indicate this.) then I wholly support the concept.

ABC Offical Says School ID Not Regarded As Valid Proof

By GLENN MAUGHAN
Staff Writer

Students may encounter dry parties or be subjected ID checks at both on and off-campus events, and controversy still surrounds the legitimacy of ECU IDs as valid proof of age, an official from the Alcoholic Beverage Commission said Thursday.

William Powell, assistant administrator of the ABC, said ECU IDs are not regarded as legal by the new law. "The new law only accepts passports, driver licenses, military IDs and special N.C. IDs, as proof of age," he said.

However, judges will consider all the factors involved should litigation arise, Powell said. "The judge will take a look at what you've done and how you've done it," he said.

Powell, along with several other ABC and alcohol law enforcement officers, held a question and answer meeting with various student group representatives Thursday.

They explained the new law's intent and impact on ECU's population. "If you make reasonable attempts, take precautions, to follow the law you shouldn't be in jeopardy," he said.

"Act as responsible as you possibly can," Powell advised. He said officers will definitely check on events that blatantly advertise drinking. Complaints about noise might also cause officers to check IDs at parties that serve alcohol.

In addition to the ID probem, the officers explained the law's effect on fundraising events serving alcohol.

"If one must purchase a ticket to obtain alcohol, that's illegal unless the vendor has an ABC permit," Powell said. "Such events cannot be held on state (ECU) property, he added.

Reacting to the new law, ECU fraternities and sororities will probably have dry rushes next semester, organization leaders said. The once "wet" sorority, Alpha Omicron Pi, recently became a dry house. "It's probably due to the new law," Stacey Briley, president of the pledge class, said.

At Pi Kappa Phi, the new law means tighter controls. "We'll start checking IDs closer and make everone aware of the law," David Brannan, fraternity brother, said.

Local beer distributors commented unfavorably about the law. "We'll abide by the law but it will change patterns for our business," Rodger Vine, general manager of Jeffrey's Beer and Wine, said.

George Gardner, owner of C.O. Tankard Co. Inc., Washington, N.C., said the law was not satisfactory. "I don't know if an 18-year-old ought to hold a rifle in combat but if they're allowed to fight for the country, they should be allowed to drink as well," he said.

Both distributors said they would maintain a low profile regarding the law. Each has donated beer to campus groups in the past but the new law will prevent future giveaways.

Bluesman Price Fronts Horns, Brings Greenville Soul Revival

GORDON IPOCK
Entertainment Editor

Tired of listening to the sound-alike rock bands that regularly play Greenville clubs? Then check out Billy Price and the Keystone Rhythm Band.

Price and company play Greenville's Attic nightclub about twice a year on one of their Southern tours, and they're indeed a contrast to the usual fare of heavy-metal and Southern-rock bands that play here. They're as refreshing as an afternoon thunderstorm during an August drought. That's because their sound is so different.

The band looks and sounds much like South Side Johnny and the Asbury Jukes. They play rhythm and blues and soul. But Price and the Keystones are closer to the original artists in both style and execution. Although Price doesn't blindly copy the style of such singers as Otis Clay, Bobby Bland, Sam Cooke or Jackie Wilson, he is faithful to it. Not only is his vocal style patterned after these early soul singers, but so is his band. The Keystone's horns cut through today's guitar-dominated rock the way lightening cracks through that August sky — and with the same power.

Price's emotion-drenched vocals are certainly the heart of the group, but the horns are the soul. As Price wails how his woman done him wrong, the horns echo his lament, adding context and texture and supercharging his emotions. Yes, Glenn Pavone can add burning guitar licks, but it's the pair of pumping saxophones that make the Keystone Rhythm Band special.

Crowds react differently to Price and the Keystones than they do to straight-up rock bands. They don't just stand around holding a beer and occasionally shake a fist to show they're excited — they dance. At Price's first Attic show, over half the house was up dancing by the end of the second set, on a lethargic Tuesday night no less. In fact, once most people have heard Price and the Keystones live, they become ardent fans.

In their home state of Pennsylvania, the band has a wide and faithful following. Price has even sung the national anthem at Pittsburg Pirates home games. The band is also known over most of the Northern and Mid-Atlantic states, from New York to D.C.

But despite their success on the club circuits, no major label has offered to promote the band. I spoke with Billy Price at his first Attic appearance last spring about touring, his music, and what it takes, when you're different, to break into the big money.

Q. You guys look happy. You must be making plenty of money.
A. Oh, man, we're making so much money.(laughs) I tell you what, we're making tons of money now.
Q. Are you still happy with your style of music, or have you considered changing it?
A. Well, you know, you can't teach an old dog new tricks. I mean, we just do what we do. We're not going to change. I've been in this business 11 or 12 years, and I've seen trends come and go, but the music basically remains the same. Hair styles and clothing styles change. But still, there's R and B, and country, and jazz and various combinations of the three. And what else is there?
Q. I know you already have a large following up North, but are you picking up a bigger audience in the South?
A. North Carolina is really starting to happen for us, especially in the Triangle area. We played Greensboro the other night for the first time, and we had a sold out house just on the basis of our reputation.
Q. Does the constant touring ever get to you?
A. Yeah, but it's a necessity. We have to appear in places in order for anybody to know we exist. Otherwise, how's anybody going to find out about our records.
Q. With the narrow selection of music played on radio, I guess it's impossible for you guys to reach the public over the air waves.
A. Yeah, we're sort of forced into being a regional attraction. But in Pittsburg, a lot more people have heard our records than some of the top-100 stuff. We're just known regionally, not all over the country. The radio situation forces us to work extra hard to reach people.
Q. Pop and rock stations aim their music mostly at teenagers and kids because they buy most of the records sold in this country. Most of the people in your audience here are in their 20s and 30s. Does that mean you're destined to remain a club band, and are you satisfied with that?
A. I'd certainly like to have the oportunity to make more money through record sales, but yes, I am satisfied doing what I'm doing; otherwise, I'd quit. But at the same time I'd like for something to happen to make life easier. As far as questions like making it big, I don't really think about it all that much. It's not as if I sat down when I was 20-years-old and said, "O.K., I want to make a whole lot of money. I can either go to law school, or I can become a dentist, or I can go in the music business and sing rhythm and blues because I think that'll be the next big thing." I mean, it's not like that. I just do what I do best, and I try to do it with as much energy and dedication as I can, and I try and make it as successful as it can be.
Q. How about your material. How's it coming along?
A. Well, Eddie Floyd submitted 10 songs to us that have never been recorded before.?
Q. Who is Eddie Floyd?
A. He wrote 50 percent of the soul classics on Stax Records: "Soul Man," "In the Midnight Hour," "Knock On Wood," all the really good songs.
Q. Do you have any of his new songs in your repertoire yet?
A. Yeah, the song we just did, "Why Does the Good Go Bad," and we got a couple more coming up.
Q. Some of your music borders on what we in the Southeast call "beach music." There are stations in this area that play it. Your songs like "Slip Away" and "Hold Back the Night" might appeal to beach music listeners.
A. I like some of that stuff, but I'm not too crazy about the "I love beach music" sound, the new beach music stuff. It's a little too pop for me. The music we do is a little deeper, has a little stronger roots in the blues than the stuff you're talking about. I really like to sink my teeth into things like "Nickle and a Nail," or "Cry, Cry, Cry," the real bluesy stuff.
Q. I was impressed with "Nickle and a Nail."
A. That's the stuff we do best. We have played around with some pop-soul kind of things, and that may be the way we have to go to make money at some point.
Q. Are there any other bands playing the same style of music you guys are?
A. I've never heard them, but there's a band in New York called The Nightcats on Sire Records that supposedly are close to what we do. There's a band in L.A. called Jack Mack and the Heart Attack that I hear one of the Eagles produced their record. They're an R and B band. There's a band in Chicago called Big Twist and the Mellow Fellows. But I don't think anybody's doing

Travel Egypt

The East Carolina University Department of University Unions will begin its 1983-1984 Travel Adventure Film Series with the film Egypt-Open Borders hosted by William Stockdale. The presentation is scheduled for 8:00p.m., Thursday, October 6, 1983, in Hendrix Theatre on the ECU campus in Greenville.

The Series, billed as "an exciting trip around the world," begins with this fascinating tour of Egypt, opening many doors in the exotic, ancient land. The host for the evening, William Stockdale, has appeared on the Series many times before, and he has gained a reputation for the insights and anecdotes related to his travelogue. He will take the viewer through both the old and the new of a land where history and the present blend as one. The viewer will visit the pyramids (while riding on a camel), cruise the Nile (aboard a picturesque boat called a felucca), and tour the Valley of the Kings; Cairo, Alexandria; the desert; an oasis and the ancient capital at Memphis. Stockdale will bring the viewer right into the mainstream of life in present-day Egypt, and will describe the history of such sights as the Sphinx and the Colossi of Memnon.

ECU students are admitted free with I.D. and Activity card, and the ECU Faculty and Staff are admitted free with MSC membership. Tickets are $3.50 for the public.

Bergman, Lange Grace Hendrix Silver Screen

Ingmar Bergman's The Magic Flute and Jessica Lange's portrayal of Frances Farmer in Frances are this week's Wednesday evening and weekend film offerings.

Bergman's adaptation of Mozart's opera is a beautiful, thoroughly enjoyable triumph. Robert Lauder, film critic for the magazine, America, has said, "Bergman's love for Mozart's work shines through every frame. The technique and talent that have made Bergman the most creative of contemporary film directors are successfully put at the service of Mozart's magnificent music and of the story that tells of love's conquest of all obstacles. We have the experience of watching a unique work of art, a film that is both really a film and really an opera.

The plot of the opera concerns the young prince, Tamino, who has been sent by the Queen of the Night to rescue her daughter, Pamina, from the supposedly wicked sorcerer, Sarastro. Learning of the evil intentions of the Queen, the prince subsequently joins Sarastro's mystical brotherhood, which protects truth, beauty, and wisdom. Because of his love and courage Tamino, with his magic flute, eventually leads Pamina through the underworld and wins her for himself.

All of Bergman's films deal with the meaning of human love in the face of death. Bergman has confessed that when he feels particularly sad he takes courage in the simple love between a man and a woman.

In speaking of Mozart's opera, Bergman told a newspaper interviewer, "We experience the strange reality of the dream and the fairy tale." He went on, "I see someone, and I am in love with her for all time, in all eternity. The tenderness of the charm, but also the dream's pain and longing. In "The Magic Flute" these things are all present: poetry, fairy tale, and dream."

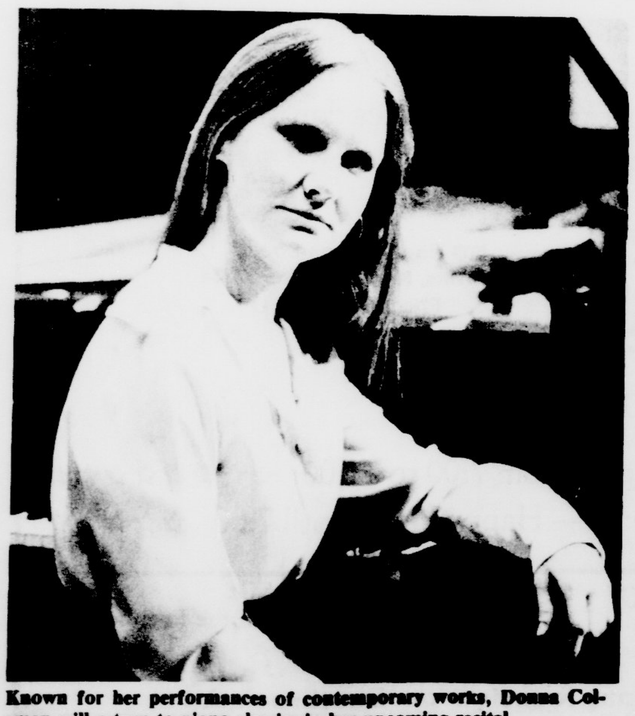

Academy Award winner Jessica Lange is Frances Farmer—brash and outspoken; an outstanding actress with no use for the studio games and Hollywood moguls of the 1930's. After a series of humiliations in undignified movie roles, she lashes out, leading eventually to her arrest for assault and battery and placement in assorted institutions where she struggles to hang on to her last bits of dignity. Sam Shepard wrote the script for this one, and Kim Stanley puts in a strong supporting role as Frances' mother.

According to Gene Shalit, NBC-TV TODAY, "Frances is riveting! Jessica Lange, in an outstanding performance . . . .is touching, harrowing and finally breathtaking."

Pianist Plays Chopin, Loves Beatles

MIKE HAMER
Assistant Entertainment Editor

Donna Coleman, ECU School of Music faculty member, will present a piano recital on Sunday, October 9, 1983, at 8:15p.m. at the A.J. Fletcher Recital Hall. The concert is free and open to the public.

Ms. Coleman will be playing "Num Komm, der Heiden Heiland" by J.S. Bach; "Through the Mask" by Richard Lavenda; "Sonata in E, Opus 109" by L. van Beethoven; "Sonata in B flat, K.189f" by W.A.Mozart; and "Sonata in B minor, Opus 58"by Frederic Chopin.

Speaking about the Bach piece, Ms. Coleman said, "It's an organ work. This is a transcription made by Busoni in the late 19th century. The title translates as 'Come Now, the Gentle Saviour.' It's a quiet piece; the music is so peaceful. It allows people a chance to settle in and make the transition from the street to the concert hall. It sets a beautiful tone."

"The Lavenda piece is a collaborative effort. Richard Lavenda, who is an assistant professor of composition theory at Texas Wesleyan, and I actually worked on this together. It's as if I had a hand in composing this piece; that's really exciting! The title refers to the moment in Moby Dick when they've finally gotten the harpoon through the face of the whale."

Referring to the Beethoven piece, Ms. Coleman said, "This is one of his most sublime works, especially the last movement which is very quiet and serene. The last variation is transcendental; this is where Beethoven and Charles Ives meet."

"The Mozart piece is different. Mozart had his reflective side, but he also had a wonderfully humorous side; that's the mood of this. It's ever so slightly silly; Mozart shifts his rhythms and the piece just lilts. This is a dose of lightness on a reasonably heavy program."

"The Chopin Sonata is one I always used to be afraid of. It's a grand piece—full of pathos; Mozart was one of the great public sufferers. The 'Allegro maestoso' alternates between being grand and tender, and then it dissolves into this sweet melody with a cello-like accompaniment. Then he works himself up again and the 'Scherzo' is like this little tornado. The work has a beautifully quiet middle section. The 'Largo' is one of the most gorgeous melodies I've ever heard; Chopin is singing a love song to someone. The tornado really touches down in the 'Finale' —its own tendency is to just move ahead like gangbusters."

Donna Coleman has been performing 20th century American music almost exclusively for the past two or three years.

"Once I started playing the traditional music again, I fell in love with it. The ideas are much more clear than they ever were before. It's like seeing a painting in a museum a hundred times, then after not seeing the painting for five years; all of a sudden it takes on a whole new meaning for you. 20th century music has given me a much deeper perspective on all this traditional music."

I asked Ms. Coleman if she had been listening to a lot of traditional piano music lately, and she replied,"Oh no. I'd rather listen to Bill Evans and the Talking Heads than to the classics. I love the Beatles."

A. Yeah, I'd like to do it. We just don't have the connections right now. I think we'd probably be accepted real well. You look at the Stray Cats. They had to go over to England to get a following first before they came back here and made it. I don't think the people in America are all that familiar with their own indigenous music ... the masses I'm talking about. It all goes back to the limited styles of music you hear on radio today.

But the one decision I made a long time ago, is that no trend or nothing else is going to dictate to me the music that I do. I've played around with a lot of different styles of music, and unless I can dedicate myself 100 percent to what I'm doing, it's not going to come out any good anyway.

'Where In The Hell Is East Carolina?'

Missouri Tigers Know Now

By CINDY PLEASANTS
Sports Editor

ECU head football coach Ed Emory said the Pirates weren't intimidated by Missouri, and the explosive defensive squad brought home a 13-6 win to prove it.

"It's taking all the odds and going into a place and giving everything you've got for a lifetime," Emory said. "It's just a great feeling for the program.

"It's something that no one, unless you're just totally into football and working with it day by day, could realize the odds our young men had to overcome to go into a state that's got such a tradition like Missouri."

Tied 6-6 at halftime, the Pirates' defense held the Tigers scoreless in the third quarter. With 7:15 remaining in the final period, ECU quarterback Kevin Ingram sailed a 27-yard pass to junior flanker Ricky Nichols in the endzone. That touchdown gave the Pirates one of their biggest wins in ECU history.

Emory said he told the Pirates in the locker room at halftime that a touchdown in the second period would win the ball game. "I told'em 'hey guys, we haven't scored a touchdown against Missouri in six quarters.' We didn't in the seventh either, but all we wanted to do was keep it close. I knew if we could keep it tied up, we could go in there and win it in the fourth quarter."

All of Emory's pre-game predictions turned out to be right. He was expecting a low-scoring, high-power kicking, defensive war. He was right on all counts. Unlike previous games, the Missouri-ECU battle was not won on offense.

"They (ECU) just played the best defensive game that's been played here in the last four years," Emory said. "It's also the best effort we've ever had against a team like Missouri. If you take one play away from them when (Andy) Hill grabbed that 51-yard pass, Missouri threw only 50 yards of pass offense for the next 50 minutes."

After the Bucs scored a TD, Missouri possessed the ball twice more. But Mizzou's hopes were dashed when ECU defensive tackle Randy Watts sacked Tiger quarterback Marlon Adler for an eight-yard loss. One play later, Adler followed with a 63-yard punt.

The Pirates began marching down field, but were interrupted by Mizzouri's failing scoreboard. With an inoperative clock and a couple of delay-of-game penalties, the Bucs punted. Missouri gained possession with 1:37 remaining, but another sack by linebacker P.J. Jordan for a 10-yard loss put the Tigers on their own four-yard line.

Jordan, a 6-2, 226-pound junior, said the Pirates played their best defensive game of theyear. "We knew what adjustments to make," Jordan said. "They just played right into our hands. Missouri comes straight at you, and we can play that type of football."

The Tigers jumped out to a quick 6-0 lead in the first half. With 9:31 left in the first quarter, the Tigers moved the ball to ECU's 11-yard line, where Brad Burditt kicked a 28-yard field goal.

Ingram came back with a 14-yard pass to Nichols, but a fumble by Ernest Byner on the next play gave the Tigers the ball on the ECU 38.

Despite two first downs, Missouri was only able to move the ball to ECU's 32. Burditt then booted a 48-yard field goal.

At that point, Emory was getting a little worried. "You darn right, I was concerned at that time," he said. "but we came back and drove it to the nine-yard line."

It took the Bucs 13 plays and 5:57 to do it, but the 71-yard drive was worth a 26-yard field goal by Jeff Heath.

In the second quarter, neither team was able to move the ball beyond the 45-yard line during more than half of the quarter. But an ECU interception with 7:24 left put the Pirates just where they wanted to be. In a first-and-10 situation, Mizzou's Adler passed to tight end Greg Krahl at ECU's 45 yard line, but Pirate free safety Clint Harris batted the ball away and right into the hands of defensive end Kenny Phillips. Phillips returned for 26 yards.

The Pirates moved to Mizzou's 23, where Heath kicked a 39-yard field goal to tie the score, 6-6. Heath attempted a 43-yard field goal with less than a minute until halftime, but the NCAA-record holder kicked just a little wide to the right. "I pulled my head up too quick," Heath said after the game. "I knew it as soon as I did it."

The Pirates, now 3-1, don't believe they have any more proving to do after beating Missouri. At least split end Stephon Adams doesn't think so.

"I think we showed Missouri what we're made of today (Saturday) and a lot of other people," he said. "Last year, they wore badges saying 'where in the hell is East Carolina.' Well, this year they know where we're from. Emory agreed. "I don't think they'll be asking that question anymore."

Defensive players Don Reid (59), Clint Harris (48) and Tyrone Johnson (47), as well as other Pirate teammates, give a big high-five after beating Missouri on Saturday.

Wins Will Get Sweeter

The thrill of victory....The Pirates have certainly been getting their share so far this season.

With a 13-6 win over Missouri on Saturday, the Pirates have enjoyed two of their sweetest victories ever this year. The other happy event occurred a few weeks ago just down the road in Raleigh.

According to ECU head football coach Ed Emory, the N.C. State and Missouri wins will get even sweeter with time.

"The N.C. State game was important to us," Emory said, "but it wouldn't have been as important if we didn't continue to win.

"The Missouri game will be a great win if we continue to win because it will make something happen later in the year. If we had a Missouri victory last year, we'd probably gone to a bowl game, so it could be a great win later in the season, even more than it is today. We've just got to keep winning. People have got a tendency to forget very quickly. They have a tendency not to remember how you started out but how you finished up."

It's hard to believe anyone could forget how well the Bucs have started out. A 47-46 defeat by Florida State has kept the Pirates just one point away from a 4-0 record. The Bucs proved the strength of their offense at FSU, but the true ability of their defensive team wasn't tested until Missouri.

Emory is hoping the Pirates will be tested once again in Big Eight Country. As of now, the Bucs aren't scheduled to play the Tigers in the future. But an arrangement may soon be worked out. "I know Dr. Karr (ECU athletic director) is talking to Mr. Hart (Missouri AD)," Emory said. "I think Missouri had a date in '87 and '88, and we'd sure like to have that date.

"I don't know if they'll play us now since we went in there and did something we weren't supposed to do as far as they're concerned. I wouldn't be surprised, though, if we didn't play Missouri in the 80's and early 90's."

When the Pirates were getting ready for Missouri last week, Emory said the coaching staff tried to instill the letters "KDO" into the players. "Every week we have a code word—words like physical, move-move," Emory said. "This week it was KDO—kicking, defense and offense.

"Our kicking game was very excellent. We had one breakdown, and that was the last kickoff return which scared me to death." With 7:15 seconds in the game, tailback Ron Floyd handed off to Junior McBride for a reverse. McBride ran 37 yards before being stopped by kicker Jeff Heath. "I don't like to see the kicker do that," Emory said. "He's got an injury right now. He's got a pulled cartilage in his rib cage. We can't have Jeff Heath with an injury."

Cindy Pleasants

A Look Inside

The Pirates had eight punts for 308 yards and averaged 38.5 yards. Mizzou's Marlon Adler set a school by averaging 51 yards per punt. Mizzouri had nine punts for 459 yards.

Offensively, the Pirates finished with 196 yards rushing and held Missouri to just 86. In total offense, the Bucs racked up 331 yards to Mizzou's 223.

ECU quarterback Kevin Ingram completed 10 of 17 passes to lead the Pirates to 135 yards passing, while Missouri finished with 137. Missouri's Adler was nine for 19.

Emory couldn't have been more pleased with the team's statistical showing, especially rushing. "They (Missouri) have been giving up 50 yards rushing, so that was a big key to the whole thing," he said.

Emory believes the Tigers burned out after a touchdown was called back because Adler threw about four or five yards past the line of scrimmage. Adler passed 34 yards to tightend Greg Krahl in the endzone, but the Tigers were called back with an illegal forward pass penalty.

"I think it took some steam out of them when that happened," Emory said, "and after that Coach (Warren) Powers made a couple of decisions I was real happy about. He decided to run the ball.

"From that time on, our offensive line rolled off the ball. We said, 'hey, it's out there, so let's take it.' The defense never let up the whole game."

According to ECU Offensive Coordinator Art Baker, the Pirate offense never let up either. "We had to be patient," he said. "We had enough faith in our game plan to stay with it. We're probably capable of throwing the ball better, but I didn't want to take a whole lot of chances." Ingram did take a few chances with Ricky Nichols, and the last one paid off. "It was just choosing that pass at the right time," Baker said. "Kevin just made a super throw."

The confidence seen in the Pirate offense has generated a team full of enthusiasm and quickness—a team Emory wouldn't trade for any team in the country. "I looked at a local newspaper in Missouri and saw the starting offensive lineups for Missouri and ECU," Emory said. "Before the game, I said, 'Stephon Adams, I wouldn't swap you for Andy Hill; Tim Dumas, I wouldn't swap you for Scott Shockley,' and I just went down the list.

"I told'em that they can play in the Big Eight or anywhere else in the country. They (Pirates) were loose Friday night and on Saturday monring, but when the job had to be done on Saturday afternoon, they did it. They are just so good and so darn quick."

Emory stressed that the Missouri win is a tremendous thrill, but the victory is only a stepping stone for the ECU program. Time will tell, Emory said.

"I've said before, 'does time make the man or man make the time?' We've been playing seven and eight southern-conference opponents a year," he said. "Pat Dye played three or four ACC schools and then played seven, eight, or nine games a year that he could win. In 1980, we played six bowl teams.

"It takes time to change attitudes, minds and thoughts. We had to go into Missouri and Florida State because we had to learn we could play with them."

The Pirates not only found out that they could play with them, but that they could beat them as well. ECU may have experienced the agony of defeat at FSU, but the thrill of victory wasn't following too far behind.

ECU Soccer Team Loses Two Most Disappointing Games of '83 Season

By RANDY MEWS
Assistant Sports Editor

The ECU soccer team's losses to Campbell and Elon this weekend were described by Head Coach Robbie Church as the two most disappointing defeats of the season.

"We dominated play in both games," Church said, "but we just weren't able to get the ball in the net."

In Saturday's loss, Campbell scored two goals in the first half as a result of Pirate errors.

The first mistake occurred midway through the first half when an ECU player was caught out of position. Campbell's David Doyle took advantage of the situation and went on to score an easy goal.

The fatal blow came when ECU committed a penalty with just 29 seconds remaining in the half. Doyle was called out to take the shot and kicked it perfectly into the corner of the net.

ECU outshot Campbell, 5-4, in the second half, but neither team was able to score, ending the game in a two-point victory for the Camels.

Church said the Pirates played a good game offensively, but their inability to score was due mostly to Campbell goalie Joe Moreschi. He had nine saves, and the shutout marked his sixth this year.

On Monday, the Pirates suffered their worse setback of the year, losing 3-2 against Elon in the closing minutes of the game.

"We deserved to win this game more than any we've played all year," Church said. "Their goalie (Jim Bartlinski) had a great game with nine saves, but that's still no excuse for us to have lost the game."

ECU's 23 shots compared to Elon's 12 is what upset Church most about the game. "All three of their goals came on quick counterattacks when our defense was relaxed," he said.

That was best exemplified near the end of the game with the score tied at two and ECU pressing for a goal.

The Pirates were passing the ball close to the Elon net, when an errant pass was intercepted and kicked downfield. The ball sailed over the heads of all the ECU defenders, and an Elon forward outraced everybody to score the game-winning goal.

The Pirates have now lost their last three games, and stand at 2-7 for the year. Coach Church was hoping for a much better record at this point in the season, but says he isn't disappointed.

"I feel that we've played up to the best of our ability in the last two games," he said. "We have had a lot of chances to score, and now it's time we just start taking advantage of those opportunities."

The Pirates are at home on Wednesday against UNC-Greensboro. UNC-G, now 13-0, has outscored their opponents 82-1, and Church calls them "the best team in the country."

The Pirates, now 3-1, don't believe they have any more proving to do after beating Missouri. At least split end Stephon Adams doesn't think so.

"I think we showed Missouri what we're made of today (Saturday) and a lot of other people," he said. "Last year, they wore badges saying 'where in the hell is East Carolina.' Well, this year they know where we're from. Emory agreed. "I don't think they'll be asking that question anymore."

he isn't disappointed.

"I feel that we've played up to the best of our ability in the last two games," he said. "We have had a lot of chances to score, and now it's time we just start taking advantage of those opportunities."

The Pirates are at home on Wednesday against UNC-Greensboro. UNC-G, now 13-0, has outscored their opponents 82-1, and Church calls them "the best team in the country."

Golfers Eight

By RANDY MEWS
Assistant Sports Editor

The ECU golf team competed in the North Carolina State Invitational Golf Tournament last week and finished eighth among 11 teams.

The Pirates were in fifth place after the second round of play but did not perform up to Coach Jerry Lee's expectations on the final day of competition.

"I was very disappointed with our team's performance," he said. "If we played the entire tournament like we did in the second round, we would have finished in the top three."

Wake Forest won the tournament with a team score of 886. N.C. State's red team was second with 906, while State's white team came in third at 912. ECU finished with a three day total of 923.

Individually, Freshman Mike Bradley led the Pirates with rounds of 75, 73 and 77, for a three round total of 225. He was followed by David Dooley with 228, Don Sweeting at 233 and John Faidley with 239.

The Pirates will take part in the Duke University Invitational on Oct. 13.

Volleyball Team Wins One Match

By RANDY MEWS
Assistant Sports Editor

The ECU volleyball team went up against some of the toughest competition they will face all year, competing in the South Carolina Classic this weekend in Columbia, S.C.

The Pirates won one match and lost two in a tournament that included such powerhouses as Georgia, Mississippi, N.C. State and Western Carolina.

ECU was victorious in their first match, defeating UNC-Charlotte 15-12, 10-15, 15-7 and 16-14. UNC-C is the only team the Pirates have faced this year that didn't have a height advantage, but that didn't stop the 49ers from putting up a fight.

"I think they played beyond themselves against us," ECU Coach Imogene Turner said. "They were especially up for the game and played very, very well."

With a first-round victory, ECU was placed into the championship bracket against Georgia, one of the toughest teams in the country.

ECU had all they could handle against the Lady Bulldogs, losing 15-2, 15-1 and 15-3. "They were simply just a better team then us," Turner said. "They have more experience, better talent and even have two players on their team that were internationally recruited."

After being soundly defeated by Georgia, the Pirates couldn't get up for their final match against Mississippi. "We weren't mentally prepared for our opening game, and that affected us throughout the entire match."

Ole' Miss took ECU in three games, 15-1, 15-8 and 15-11.

Coach Turner wasn't unhappy with her team's performance, but noted that there are still many improvements that need to be made. "We did a lot better this week then we did in our last tournament against N.C. State, but we still only have four players that have played volleyball on the college level before."

Individually, Turner was especially pleased with the performance of Lita Llamas. "Lita did a great job of attacking the ball," Turner said. "We left Columbia before the all-tournament team was announced, but if we had stayed, I think Lita would have made it."

Turner was also pleased with Lorraine Foster's play. "This is the first year Lorraine has played college-level volleyball," Turner said, "but she's such an exceptional athlete. I only look for her to improve as the season goes on."

ECU has a two-week break before their next match, and Turner is going to take the time to go over the basic fundamentals with her team during practice. "We've had a rough schedule, so hopefully we'll come back from the break as a stronger team."
