Voter Registration, PIRG, Rules Discussed

UNCASG Debates Issues

By JENNIFER JENDRASIAK
News Editor

Voter registration, PIRG and new rules were among the topics discussed at a meeting of the University of North Carolina Association of Student Governments held last weekend at ECU.

Attendance at the meeting was "adequate," according to SGA President Paul Naso. Representatives from a number of schools attended.

The main issue discussed was voter registration. A letter was sent to Governor Hunt by the UNCASG asking him to declare a week devoted to student voter registration statewide. Hunt responded by declaring the last week in March Student Voter Registration Week. "If student governments are going to get in-involved in any issue, it's going to be voter registration," said Ken Cagle, UNCASG president and SGA president at UNC-Asheville.

Students are planning voter registration drives on campuses throughout the UNC system. In addition, the UNCASG is attempting to get presidential candidates such as Gary Hart and Jesse Jackson to speak at its next meeting to be held April 6 in Chapel Hill.

Another item on the agenda was a statewide coalition for student governments. This would involve interested students in order to increase the student voice. One purpose of this coalition would be to further student voter registration. It would be non-partisan and not limited to members of student governments. "You don't have to be partisan to vote," Naso said.

Public Interest Research Groups were also discussed a great deal during the weekend. ECU student Jay Stone did a presentation on PIRGs for the group. Many of the UNCASG participants supported the idea of PIRG, but, according to Naso, none supported the negative check-off system, the funding method proposed by PIRG.

The UNCASG has recently instituted new bylaws creating a legislative assembly. The 16 SGA presidents will constitute the board of directors, while two students from each school will constitute the legislature. Each of the students will have one vote on issues discussed by the UNCASG.

Another feature of the weekend was a lecture by Dr. Ed Wheatley,

PIRG Referendum Rejected Monday By SGA Legislature

By DARRYL BROWN
Managing Editor

The battle over adding a referendum concerning an ECU Public Interest Research Group to the SGA election ballot apparently ended Monday when Speaker of the Legislature Kirk Shelley ruled that the SGA did not have the power to initiate a student referendum.

However, PIRG organizers and the SGA attorney general are contesting Shelley's interpretation of the SGA Constitution, saying only the attorney general is allowed to rule on constitutional questions.

stitutional questions.

Shelley ended the battle over the PIRG question almost before it began, saying that according to Article 7 of the Constitution, only a student petition can call for a public referendum and the SGA Legislature does not have the power to do so.

The article states in part, "The student body shall have the power to initiate any act within the power of the Legislature." Shelley also said that nowhere in the Constitution is the legislature given express permission to call for a referendum.

Rules and Judiciary Chairman Mike Dixon called for query and point-of-information several times to challenge Shelley's ruling, but Shelley eventually cut off discussion and moved to other business. The PIRG bill had passed both Dixon's committee, where Shelley voted against it, and the Student Welfare Committee.

After an 8-minute debate, the legislature overwhelmingly voted not to overturn Shelley's ruling. Later, they voted down a suspension of the rules that would have permitted Dixon to offer a new bill for an informal survey on PIRG along with the SGA ballot.

PIRG supporters, however, contacted Student Attorney General Harry Dest, asking him to look into the matter. "He doesn't have the authority to interpret the Constitution," Dest said of Shelley in an interview Monday night. "That's one of the duties of the attorney general."

Dest cited the attorney general's job description on page 37 of the

Sixteen O.T. Graduates To Begin Fieldwork

Saturday afternoon the Department of Occupational Therapy held a ceremony to acknowledge the graduation of its 16 seniors. These graduates will now apply their skills in hospitals and clinics in various places around the nation for nine months of fieldwork.

Due to increasing support for rehabilitation centers, the number of occupational therapy graduates falls short of the number of jobs, said guest speaker Randy Strickland, M.Ed., O.T.R. Strickland also said the growing demand for occupational therapists is related to an increasing number of older adults.

chairman of the ECU Department of Marketing, on "Being a Professional."

The next UNCASG meeting will be for the purpose of orientation of the new SGA presidents and for strengthening of this year's operations. "We've grown in numbers and we've grown in strength this year," Cagle said.

New Program Designed To Involve Freshmen

By JENNIFER JENDRASIAK
News Editor

One major problem which has been encountered by members of the SGA is a lack of personnel. "The SGA lacks manpower," said outgoing President Paul Naso.

A new Freshman Aid Program has been designed as a method to alleviate that problem. The program will give freshmen an opportunity to get involved in student government by serving as aids to student legislators.

"A lot of freshmen don't know anything about student government or are scared to run for a position," said Freshmen Class President Staci Falkowitz, who was appointed coordinator of the program by Naso. Brian Wessler will serve as co-coordinator.

Students will be recruited during freshman orientation. Falkowitz said she feels it is easier to get students involved before they get immersed in campus activities.

Approximately 15 students will be chosen by the coordinators and the SGA Screenings and Appointments Committee. After they are selected, they will attend a meeting explaining the requirements for the job.

All aids will be required to spend two hours a week in the SGA offices, performing services such as answering telephones and stuffing envelopes. In addition, they will serve as pages for at least two SGA meetings every month. While serving as pages, they will not have a voice in proceedings. They will, however, have a voice as members of a standing committee.

Mankiewicz Speaks At Seminar

Media Expert Featured In Spring Seminar

By DARRYL BROWN
Managing Editor

Television has affected American life so much that it has altered our perceptions and expectations of reality, changed our lifestyles and trivialized the American political process, said political and media expert Frank Mankiewicz Monday night at ECU's Wright Auditorium.

Mankiewicz, the featured speaker of the three-day, ECU Spring Lecture-Seminar Series, said television doesn't give comprehensive coverage to daily events but instead shows "all the news that happened in front of the cameras." He added that television concentrates on vivid, controversial, active news events to the neglect of subjects requiring more dialogue or explanation.

He said political candidates realize television news wants only short, vivid segments, thus they avoid long discussions of topics and concentrate on short phrases such as "Where's the beef?", a question used by presidential candidate Walter Mondale in challenging fellow candidate Gary Hart.

Television... has trivialized our political discussion (and) brought it to everyone at the same time,"

Mankiewicz said. "It has nationalized our politics... but it has trivialized it."

Mankiewicz said "We've known since about 1976 that campaigns have been run entirely for television." As a result, candidates avoid detailed discussion of issues and "have to say something that sounds safe."

Mankiewicz stressed the inaccuracy of television when it portrays such things as the criminal justice system and medical care, saying it "creates a sense of disparity, unease and anxiety" in the American public.

Mankiewicz said most TV

police shows portray justice as complete when a suspect is handcuffed, and the programs ignore the judicial process. "In real life that (the arrest) is just the beginning," he said. "Most criminals are never convicted at all." As a result, he said, people are frustrated when they see the real judicial process let some suspects go free.

"People who watch a lot of television believe there's about ten times more crimes than there really are," Mankiewicz said.

Four Present Platforms For SOULS Members

By ELIZABETH BIRO
Staff Writer

The platforms of candidates for SGA president and treasurer were the major topic at a Society of United Liberal Students meeting March 15.

Presidential candidates Mark Niewald, John Rainey, and Greg Shelnutt along with Georgia Mooring, candidate of SGA Treasurer, were each given a chance to speak to SOULS members at the meeting.

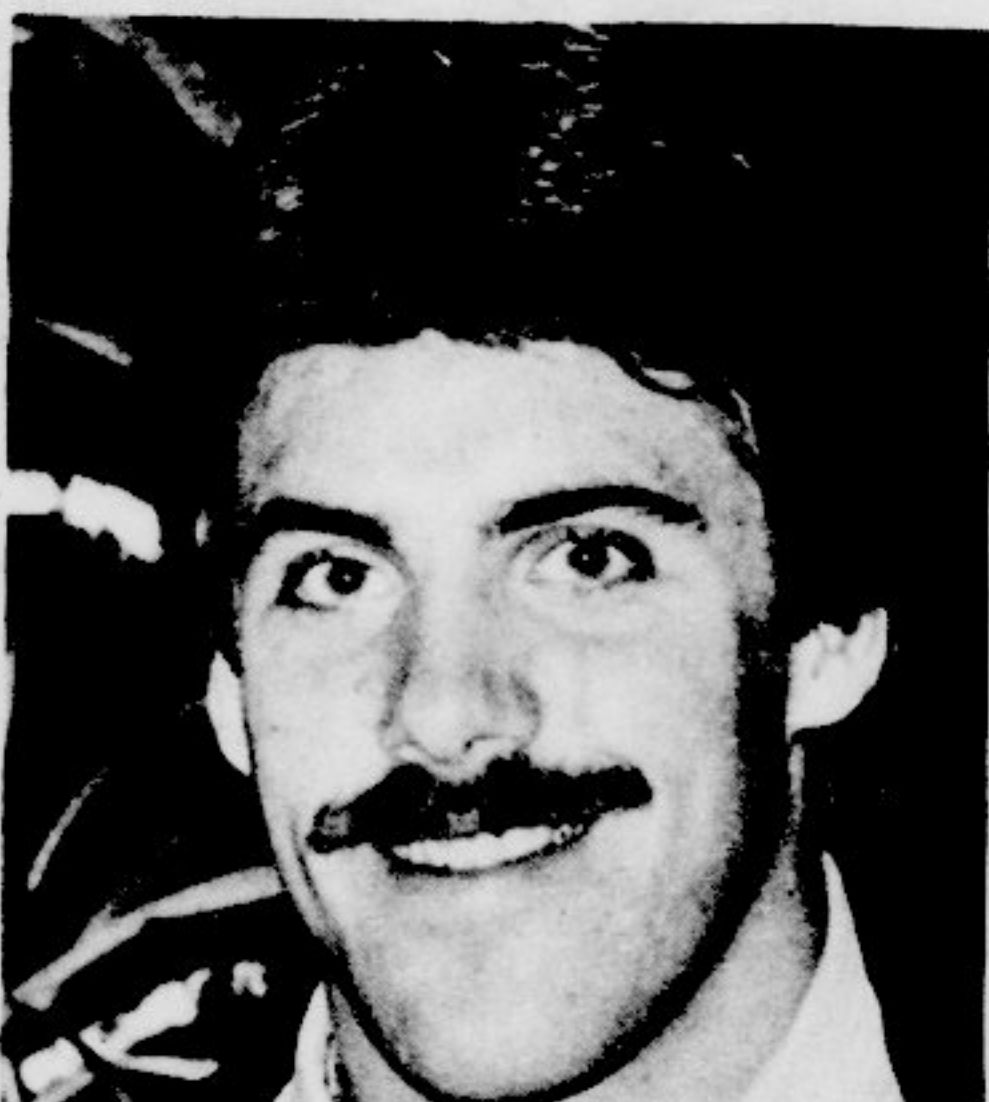

Niewald said he felt student groups are the backbone of a university. "An individual grows when they are involved in student groups," he said. Niewald said if elected, he would try to hold monthly meetings on leadership roles for all student organizations. These meetings, Niewald said, would give students a chance to solve problems at roundtable-like discussions. "The SGA should be a resource for students and they should be able to call the SGA with their problems," Niewald said.

Rainey said he supported all campus organizations and that "student government is a center for people to come together." "It distresses me when money is appropriated to groups without communication or exchange of ideas between student organizations," Rainey added. He said that if elected, he would like to have the SGA budget printed in the East Carolinian.

The last presidential candidate to speak was Shelnutt. He said he felt the SGA was a forum for student ideas, and would like to see more freshmen get involved. "Everyone that can put an idea in the SGA should participate," Shelnutt said. If elected, he said he would like to have suggestion boxes and phone lines to the SGA available for the students. Shelnutt also said he supported a National Public Radio Station at ECU and would work to make it a reality.

Mooring cited the importance of the office in appropriating funds and expressed her hope that all students would participate in Wednesday's elections.

SGA Executive Candidates

right, vice presidential candidate Mike McPartland, secretarial candidate Jay Johnson, and Calvin Lane and Georgia Mooring, both running for treasurer.

Heated Issue Tabled

duties of the attorney general include... (the ability to) rule on constitutional questions."

Shelley tried to consult with Dest on the matter before the Monday meeting, but was unable to meet with him. Shelley did consult with Associate Dean of Judiciary James Mallory and with SGA advisor Rudolph Alexander, and he said both upheld his interpretation.

"I couldn't let something that was unconstitutional get through (the legislature)," Shelley said. "I had no choice. It wasn't like I tried to railroad it. I was questioned by the legislature and upheld by the legislature," he said.

But Dest insisted in a telephone interview, "It may be unconstitutional, but he (Shelley) doesn't have the power to interpret it. What he did was wrong."

Dest said he would consult University Attorney David B. Stevens today on the issue.

Shelley still contended late Monday night, "His (Dest's) power to interpret the Constitution only deals with the judiciary branch, not with the legislature. 'The body of the legislature has the power to decide what is constitutional and what is not,' Shelley said. 'It's not mandatory (for the legislature) to talk to the attorney general."

PIRG organizer Jay Stone said "It's totally up to Harry," Stone said. "I'm encouraged that he wants to pursue it."

Income Tax Assistance Program To Be Offered

By DALE SWANSON

Once again, it is that time of year to labor through the confusing maze of filling out your income tax returns. Luckily, ECU students have the Accounting Society to come to their aid.

Beginning last Monday, (March 12) and continuing every Monday through the tax season, the Accounting Society is running a Volunteer Income Tax Assistance Program. Students, as well as anyone else, may bring their income tax forms by the VITA booth in Mendenhall to have them checked for errors and additional deductions. The booth, open from 4 p.m. to 5:30 p.m. on Mondays, is being operated by Accounting Society members who have completed either the Individual Income Tax or the Corporate Income Tax course at ECU. According to member Tim Whisenant, the VITA

Program here is part of a nationwide program set up by the IRS. Although the only people who took advantage of the service last year, when it was first introduced to ECU, were students, "the program was originally set-up by the IRS for low income people and the elderly who generally cannot get this kind of service," Whisenant said.

Last year the program received a lot of interest.

'Police Academy' Enormous Success

"The reaction Monday night was unbelievable," said Film Committee Chairperson David Cobb when describing the turnout at ECU's first sneak preview. "Police Academy."

Approximately 1200 people stood in line to view the A Ladd Company (Warner Bros) Release — 400 of which had to be turned away. "We hated turning away people but because of their fantastic reaction and the way the audience behaved we'll probably be getting more sneak previews," Cobb said.

Cobb talked with Warner Bros. yesterday afternoon about a possible contract for an additional sneak preview in April. "We've already been offered all kinds of movies," Cobb said.

ECU was one of a select few to get a sneak preview. Cobb attributed this to the school's connection with Southeastern Film Distributor Jemi Nichols of Films Inc. in Atlanta, and all are attract a full Ga. The committee gets about 14 films per year from the company.

Before the movie, 150 T-shirts and 300 police whistles were given away, all compliments of Warner Bros.

According to Cobb, with approximately 4800 students attend the movies each weekend, and all are attract a full house with the exception of a few of the older flicks. "We'd like to thank the people on campus for their turn-out and good behavior," Cobb said.

Professor Charging Fee To Grade Papers

CPS — After budget cuts forced him to fire his student grading assistant, a University of Georgia math professor decided to dramatize the campus-wide cutbacks by charging students $10 a piece to have their papers graded.

"Last fall the University of Georgia's state funding was cut by $2.6 million as part of a state-wide budget cutback," explains UGA spokesman Larry Dendy.

"In order to meet that $2.6 million funding decrease the university made various cutbacks, including eliminating some teaching assistant and grading assistant positions," Dendy says.

But Math Professor Ted Shifrin didn't take the loss of his grading assistant as gamely as administrators had hoped.

Shifrin kept his grading assistant, and started charging students a $10 grading fee to pay the assistant's salary.

But university administrators quickly squelched the new practice and made Shifrin refund the voluntary fee to students.

When the graduates leave for their fieldwork, they may work in the areas of rehabilitation, pediatrics or mental health. Occupational therapy work may range from working with premature patients to working with the elderly.

Brock Wins Biology Raffle

Bill Brock, a Greenville businessman, was the winner of the Biology Club's Valentine's Raffle. Brock was awarded a check in the amount of $40 for a dinner for two at the King and Queen North, however, he donated the check to the Biology Club.

The donation will be used to purchase a wall clock for the main lobby of the Biology Building and will be placed in one of the glass cases located there.

SGA Elections

One of Pascal's pensees says that nothing is real to people until it becomes personal. Well, students must take the SGA executive officer elections tomorrow personally and realize that they will make a major difference in campus life.

There are four candidates for president, and each is distinct enough to offer a clear choice to voters. They will define many of their ideas today in a 2:30 public forum on the mall, and then it will be up to the students tomorrow.

Student apathy pops up even before the election in that neither the vice presidency more the position of secretary is contested. There is a two-way race for treasurer, however; again giving students a clear choice.

These officers will help determine how your student fees are spent, what type of campus life you may have, and how much involvement the university will take in outside affairs. It is important that students vote tomorrow.

SGA Candidate Platforms

Georgia Mooring SGA Treasurer

My name is Georgia Mooring and I am running for the office of SGA treasurer. I am currently a junior, pursuing a BS degree in accounting. My extracurricular activities include Phi Sigma Pi National Honor Fraternity, Accounting Society, and the ECU Law Society, in which I serve as Secretary-Treasurer.

The office of SGA treasurer is one of vast importance to ECU students. As students, we all contribute to the total SGA budget through our student activity fee. I feel that the responsible administration of this money — your money — requires a great deal of knowledge and responsibility. My background in accounting gives me the skills necessary to effectively perform the duties of SGA treasurer. Becky Talley, current SGA treasurer, has been over the specific procedures involved in the office with me and I feel comfortable with them and am confident that I can handle the job.

Because the office of SGA treasurer is a service oriented one. I feel it is of the utmost importance for the treasurer to be available to all who benefit from having access to his/her assistance. One of the major obstacles that SGA funded organizations encounter is that they are often unaware of the appropriate procedure to use when requesting funds. If elected, I would like to improve the communications between the treasurer and the many organizations that utilize SGA funds so that they know exactly what they must do to have their allotted money at the time that it is needed. I am willing to make myself available to all organizations and give them any assistance that they need in planning various activities around their budget. This combination of communication and availability should reduce much of the "red-tape" that plagues the process and make it more expedient for groups to have access to their money when they need it.

I would also like to work closely with the Appropriations Committee by providing them with periodic information concerning the budget and assist them in any other capacity that I may.

Finally, I wish to stress once again that I have a sincere desire to serve the student body and the organizations on our campus. I will listen to all suggestions as to how I might better accommodate ECU. I would appreciate your support on election day.

Jay Johnson SGA Treasurer

Hello,

As all of you know the SGA elections are tomorrow and I sincerely hope that each of you will head to the polls to make sure that your vote counts. My name is Jay Johnson and I am seeking election to the position of SGA treasurer. I am a marketing major from Charlotte, and I am currently in my fourth year here at East Carolina.

The SGA is a very important organization to the welfare of this university. It serves as the main link between the students and the administration. I would have never run for this position without the confidence that I am qualified and able to handle the responsibilities that an office such as this requires. In my stay here I have held various important positions on this campus. I served on the executive council as treasurer of the house council in Jones Residence Hall. Last year I was a resident advisor in Scott Hall. I am currently the programming assistant in Scott Hall, a College Hill representative to the Student Resident Association and chairperson to the entertainment committee for college hill. By having held these positions I feel that I have had direct contact with many students and therefore know the needs of them as individuals. These positions have also given me the opportunity to work under a budget and have taught me how to make the most out of all of our dollars.

My platform is one of simplicity: "More Student Input." I would like the SGA to be a walking, talking referendum where the needs of all students may be heard. I feel as though all organizations on this campus should be heard equally. I support representation in the legislature from all the special interest groups, i.e. residence halls, IFC, Panhellenic, day students, SOULS and the fine arts.

I am running on the same ticket with a presidential candidate. We see eye to eye on many issues and I feel that if we are elected together, you the students will see an effective government, and one where accomplishments are many. SGA election rules prohibit me from using his name, but just remember that it is similar to mine.

Let's join together for an effective government, and one that we all understand. Politics doesn't have to be so complicated, let's prove it together; vote Jay Johnson for treasurer on Wednesday the 21st.

Mike McPartland SGA Vice President

Hello, my name is Mike McPartland. I'm a junior marketing major and I'm running for the position of SGA vice president. I have served on the SGA for two terms as a day representative and presently serve on the Student Welfare Committee. Also I am active with the Student Union as member of the Major Attractions Committee. Since I am running unopposed I would like to take this opportunity to inform the Student Body of my plans for the coming year.

Throughout the years here at ECU I have worked with and been exposed to many groups and organizations on campus. Through my experience I have learned the importance of student input in decision making. As vice president of the SGA, I plan to see that student organizations are better represented in the legislature and further open the lines of communication between the SGA and various organizations in order to inform them of what student government is and what SGA can do for them.

I am in favor of the major organizations which presently receive funding from SGA. These organizations include the art school, music school, business school, SOULS, IFC and Panhellenic to name a few. All of these organizations are an important part of East Carolina and enhance student life, yet as vice president of the SGA I will work to see some of the smaller organizations, minority groups, and sports clubs use the SGA not only to their advantage but to the advantage of the whole student body.

I will also work to better inform campus organizations, but the student body as a whole, by use of the campus radio stations and newspaper.

I support both the Night Transit System and the Pirate Walk Program. As vice president I will work to see these two programs continued and expanded if necessary.

In closing I would like to say that the SGA can not know what is best for the students of ECU without student input. As vice president I will strive to increase input by various groups and organizations so the legislature can represent the student body as a whole.

A Letter From The President

Fellow Students:

As the year slowly comes to a close, we are once again faced with the SGA elections. This past year has been a good one. I have been blessed with an active young legislature and a dedicated staff. Together we have strengthened our position in the community as well as with the student body itself. There is more student involvement in the SGA than ever before; the services we provide have been expanded to meet new demands and our legislature has delved into issues directly affecting each and every one of us. The SGA has done what it is supposed to do — represent student concerns and work to improve the conditions of student life on this campus. However, the SGA is in a transitional process and still weak in some aspects. It was our goal this year to take the first step; combat apathy within the organization and respond more directly to the students' needs. We have accomplished that first step, but more steps need to be taken in order to continue this development.

Student government was created because students demanded a voice at the institutions where they lived and studied. However, we must not mislead ourselves by thinking the battle is over. The struggle for an effective student voice continues year after year. The influence of the student perspective reflects the strength of the SGA and inevitably those who lead it. Thus, if the SGA is weak and apathetic, the student voice presented to the administration trustees by the president is not respected and virtually ignored. Yet if the SGA is strong and dedicated to the cause our voice will be heard and our ideas considered. At this point in time I feel we can classify SGA as being in the "in-between" stage. We have begun our climb, but have not yet reached the top. We must understand our situation, the problems we face and the gains we have made, before we can realistically set goals or make promises for the future.

Among candidates who have filed for offices, there are four for the position of president. Each has impressed me by his genuine concern for student needs and has gained my respect through participation in the tension-filled ordeal of the campaign process. One of these four will succeed me as the representative for our concerns. This is a very influential and responsible position and we must make our decision carefully.

I encourage you to read their platforms, hear what they have to say, ask questions and draw your own conclusions.

An organization is only as strong as the people who lead it. The upcoming election is your chance to decide who will lead the organization that represents us all. Exercise your right and vote.

Endorsements From Students, Staff

To the Students of East Carolina:

On Wednesday, March 21, 1984, you will be selecting a new SGA president to serve you during the 1984-85 school year. I feel that there is no candidate more qualified to hold this position than John Rainey.

I have been associated with John now for two years in student government. He has shown himself to be a dedicated worker, a sound thinker, and a man of high ideals. In addition to these fine attributes which make him an excellent candidate, John has had several experiences which will aid him in serving you. In the student government John Rainey has served as chairman of the two most significant committees in the legislature: the Appropriations committee and the Rules and Judiciary committee. He has also participated in the University of North Carolina Association of Student Governments. During the summer of 1983 John served as an intern in Washington, D.C. under Congressman Tim Valentine. All of these experiences have served to make John Rainey aware of what leadership is all about.

No other candidate possesses such a combination of leadership, experience and dedication as John does. I, therefore, wholeheartedly urge you to support John Rainey for president of the SGA.

Sincerely,
J. Christopher Townsend
Former Speaker of the Legislature
ECU SGA

As a recent graduate of East Carolina University, I am greatly concerned about the future leadership of our Student Government Association. One candidate for president, Mark Niewald, possesses superior qualifications necessary to lead the SGA in the coming year. Mark has proven to be a tireless worker for the benefit of all students, as attested to by his work as former vice president and current president of the Student Residence Association; his contributions as chairman of the Media Board, the very successful Gubernatorial Forum, allowing students the opportunity to meet their next governor. Mark Niewald also serves on the governing board of Pirate Walk, and he recently proposed a "quiet dorm" to give students a more convenient area for comfortable study. He has also agreed to serve as chairman of the Pirate Club's 1984 Student Membership Drive, which provides a vital service to the ECU Educational Foundation, Inc. As you can see, Mark is a tireless worker for the betterment of East Carolina and all students. The student body deserves such a person as its next SGA president. I strongly encourage each and every student to vote for Mark Niewald as your next SGA President.

Charles D. Shavitz
Assistant Director
ECU Pirate Club

Students:

To start, I would like to encourage everyone to vote in tomorrow's SGA elections. This is one way to have your say in the Student Government Association — to say that you want your SGA executives to be the voice of the students.

I would like to point out that ECU has an opportunity to elect a president and treasurer that actually will be the voice of the student body and not some special interest.

I am, of course, talking about Jay Brigel (president) and Jay Johnson (treasurer). These students are not two-faced politicians. They are honest, straightforward students who can be influential and effective voices for the student body.

I myself have known them for six years now and have seen how they work for the students. They both are hard workers and have the personal qualities to get the job done as our student leaders. They have both been resident advisors, which has helped them a great deal in seeing the needs of the students. They are also excellent students in class as well, making them well-rounded.

Again, thank you for this opportunity to express the students' views.

Chuck Wingo

I would like to take this opportunity to publicly express my support for Georgia Mooring for the office of treasurer. Having served as treasurer for the past two years and knowing what the job entails, I feel that Georgia can effectively operate student government's funds.

I feel that as an accounting student, Georgia possesses the technical skills necessary to carry out the job. I have also worked with Georgia in Phi Sigma Pi, and I know she possesses the personality to work with people. These two skills, technical and people skills, are essential in the performance of the treasurer's duties.

I urge all students to exercise their right to vote Wednesday, in order that responsible people are elected to the executive offices of student government. I feel that Georgia is responsible and capable of the position of treasurer.

Vote Georgia Mooring on Wednesday!

Freedom Threatened

I am an ECU student and today find myself almost ashamed of that fact. I have just come from a soap-box forum which was halted in mid-speech by campus security. Reason given — no permission for speeches... especially from a non-student (meaning Patrick O'Neill, I assume). Mr. O'Neill's liberal ideas attracted much criticism and heckling. And though his views are somewhat idealistic, I listened to them. On the other hand, Gordon Ipock drew much praise for his "Pro-America, pro-nuclear arms build-up" speeches. I personally do not agree with his point of view, but I listened to him, and I learned a few things. Shouldn't we have this same unobstructed chance to listen to opposing views?

For this preservation of this American way, Mr. Ipock and obviously many others in the crowd today advocate the build-up of our nuclear weaponry. Therefore, nuclear war if necessary. Today has proved to me that we do not need to worry about the Soviet Union destroying our American ideals. The small-mindedness of some ECU students (with a little help from campus security) is accomplishing the job quite well.

The same crowd who had cheered Mr. Ipock's cry for a strong America cheered as Mr. O'Neill's freedom of speech was taken from him. As this same crowd bickered back and forth with Mr. O'Neill, I heard a voice from the rear yelling "Hit him! Hit him!" Is this the way modern college students reach to people with different viewpoints? Is it any wonder that our world is on the brink of man-made destruction?

Though our forum was forcibly dispersed, it seems that UNC-Chapel Hill students carry out theirs with no campus security interruptions. Why not ECU? I am from Chapel Hill but have always been very critical of UNC-CH's condescending attitudes toward other schools. Today I find that maybe this attitude is justified in ECU's case. When we allow our freedom of speech to be taken from us, what do we have left?

Greg Shelnutt SGA President

The SGA has been viewed by many merely an administrative body that does nothing more than appropriate student fees. I disagree with such a narrow definition of student government. Running for the SGA presidency, I made my issues far ranging, perhaps seeming to go beyond the powerability of a college campus. However, I think that issues such as voter registration, Public Interest Research Group, campus food, student housing and national Public Radio stations need to be topics provoking both thought and action within student government and campus community.

I believe it is the responsibility of students of East Carolina University along with the institutions that govern them such as the SGA, to take a stand on issues and to have their opinion voiced.

By the voicing of opinions through statements, resolutions and calls for student action, the SGA, along with backing and action of the student body, can have a significant effect upon campus, our community and, in conjunction with the student governments of other campuses, our state and, hopefully, nation.

That is where I believe that Public Interest Research Groups, provided they have the involvement of the campus community, can help to affect student change both on and off campus. As an individual, I support the establishing of a PIRG on the campus of East Carolina University, but, as a candidate, I am more concerned with East Carolina University Students becoming informed about the potentials of collective action, formed, and researched student work to help to achieve such change. SGA should work to inform students about such potentials, and allow them to decide for themselves about possibilities.

I hope the effect of a heightened student consciousness and a greater emphasis on both collective and individual student action will help to improve the quality of student leadership at East Carolina University. Students realize that a college campus is a collection of individuals, students.

Running For The SGA Presidency

Greg Shelnett SGA President

The SGA has been viewed by many as merely an administrative body that does nothing more than appropriate student fees. I disagree with such a narrow definition of student government. In running for the SGA presidency, I have made my issues far ranging, perhaps seeming to go beyond the power and ability of a college campus. However, I think that issues such as voter registration, Public Interest Research Groups, campus food, student housing and National Public Radio stations need to be topics provoking both thought and action within student government and the campus community.

I believe it is the responsibility of the students of East Carolina University, along with the institutions that govern them such as the SGA, to take a stand on issues and to have their opinions voiced.

By the voicing of opinions through statements, resolutions and calls for student action, the SGA, along with the backing and action of the student body, can have a significant effect upon our campus, our community and, in concert with the student governments of other campuses, our state and, hopefully, our nation.

That is where I believe that Public Interest Research Groups, provided that they have the involvement of the campus community, can help to affect student change both on and off campus. As an individual, I support the establishment of a PIRG on the campus of East Carolina University, but, as a candidate, I am more concerned with East Carolina University Students becoming informed about the potentials of collective, informed, and researched student action for constructive change. A PIRG can work to help to achieve such change; the SGA should work to inform students about such potentials, and allow them to decide for themselves about such possibilities.

I hope the effect of a heightened student consciousness and a greater emphasis on both collective and individual student action will help to improve the quality of student leadership at East Carolina University. Students must realize that a college campus is a large collection of individuals, student organizations and their governing bodies. I would like to increase communication between student organizations, student government and students to allow for a greater influx of ideas and creative energy. Specifically, I would try to accomplish this by setting up a network of suggestion boxes, phone lines and regularly publishing the Student Government Association's agenda, activities and new legislation in the student paper.

In this fashion I believe students can be encouraged to become more involved in student government, for it is crucial that we, as students, realize that we have the power to effect change both on and off campus. We can begin nationally by registering to vote, and locally by voting on this campus, Wednesday, March 21. Thank you very much for your time and consideration.

Jay Brigel SGA President

Hello, my name is Jay Brigel. I am a junior majoring in business. I am asking for your support in being elected the next president of the SGA.

I am presently an R.A. in Garrett Hall on West Campus. I was an executive member of Scott Hall House Council on the "Hill" during my sophomore year. The "people" skills I have developed during my R.A. experience will be an invaluable asset for the position I seek. Furthermore, the closeness and access which I have to the students, living on campus as I do, is another positive aspect of my qualifications. In other words, all SGA decisions will effect me directly since I live "on" campus. I am offering an enthusiastic and effective personality to work on your behalf with the administration. I feel I have the drive and technique necessary to affect positive change on your behalf.

The position of president of the SGA is that of an ECU representative to outside concerns and that of an administrator in formal government procedure. But the number one priority of the president is to be an influential and effective voice of the student population. Again, with your support I will be that productive and effective link between you and the administration.

To further increase my influence and efficiency for you, I am running with Jay Johnson as my treasurer and running mate. These are the "purse string" positions and the ones most critical to you.

The SGA needs more student input. I encourage the organizations on campus such as the residence halls, IFC, Panhellenic, SOULS, music and fine arts departments to name a few, to push candidates for next year's SGA elections to insure "equal" representation for all. You must involve yourselves in order to benefit from SGA legislation.

So, with your help and participation, we can move together into next year with an effective and influential government which will most benefit you.

Again, I would appreciate your support in tomorrow's elections.

Mark Niewald SGA President

Dear Fellow Students:

Hello, my name is Mark Niewald and I am running for the office of President of SGA. I am currently President of SRA and Chairman of the Media Board. During my two years of involvement in student government, I have seen many student proposals have tried to make student life better. In the fall of 1982 I was on the committee that began Pirate Walk. I feel this was a good proposal that as you know is now a student service. A more up-to-date proposal that I proposed is the quiet dorm. I proposed the quiet dorm because I felt there was a need for a place on campus where students, who could not deal with the noise in a residence hall, could live in an area where all the individuals are consciously concerned about keeping the noise down. I made this proposal in February and am proud to have seen it passed by the university committee to be implemented by the fall of 1985.

I do not want to go into my past any longer because it is not as important to you what I did in the past but what I can do in the future. Since I have been involved in student government I have learned the steps that must be taken in order to accomplish any proposal at ECU.

I feel I know how to get things done for you and below is what I hope to accomplish in 1984-85. During this year I feel Paul Naso has done a tremendous job. He has brought respect to the SGA and has tried to combat apathy and to bring student groups closer. I believe the reason apathy is high at ECU is because the student leaders in the past did not get information to students. If I am elected SGA president I will make two promises. Number one, I will try to make SGA a resource center. You should be able to call SGA with a question about financial aid or any student service, and we should be able to answer your question or tell you who to contact.

Student organizations are the backbone of the student body. My second promise is to bring all student groups and the SGA closer. I will hold monthly, well-publicized "Presidents meetings," open to any campus organization's president so we can sit down and discuss problems and try to come up with solutions. I feel this will help bring student groups closer.

During my tenure as Media Board chairman I have gained a lot of important experience involving among other things, finances. The Media Board has a budget of $215,000. I have been a watchdog over this budget, trying to keep costs down and control of wasteful spending by the media. I feel I have done a very good job. I have saved you lots of your money. I will take this idea to the office of SGA president because I feel the money the SGA allocates should be based on need and not on who the group knows on the various committees. If I am elected, I will lower my salary to $100 a month which will save you, the student body, $900 a year. I feel the experience I gain will make up the cut in salary. I am a public administrator major in political science so the experience is what I want.

I hope each of you will get out and exercise your right to vote on Wednesday, March 21. If you have any questions, please stop by my office on the second floor at Mendenhall Student Center, my room, 322 Garrett, or call me at 758-9632. Please get involved!!!

John Rainey SGA President

My name is Johnny Rainey and I am a candidate for SGA president. I am a junior from Enfield, North Carolina and I am majoring in political science.

As for my qualifications for this office, I have served two terms in the SGA Legislature and I feel that this experience is vital for our next SGA president. During my sophomore year, I represented Scott Dorm and served as chairman of the Rules and Judiciary Committee. This year, I am a day student representative and am serving as chairman of the Appropriations Committee.

I feel that certain goals must be set for next year in the student government. They are:

The most important goal is to get more students involved in student government and inform them on what student government does for them. We can attain this goal by setting up additional committees for students to work on next year. This would provide an excellent opportunity for many students to get involved in student government. We must go the extra mile to cement a bond between the students and their voice — the SGA.

As chairman of the Appropriations Committee, I have seen many organizations on campus who receive their funds and do not return until the next fiscal year. I propose a conference where all organizations can come together to show how they are using student funds and sit down to exchange ideas and problems. The student government would be more informed as would the students of this university.

A goal we must reach is getting the student information center. I have been working with the task force attempting to computerize the SGA. With this computerization and information center in place, the SGA can reach out farther to inform the students about the activities on campus.

Like many students at ECU, I am working to help put myself through school. I am concerned about the high cost of textbooks and I feel the SGA must study this problem. While there is more talk of a book rental system, I feel we should look at a Book Exchange Program. The University of Kentucky uses this program effectively and I strongly feel that our student government should look at it.

I feel the goals I have mentioned are attainable, and they are the backbone of my campaign for this office. I will not make any promises other than a lot of hard work and integrity.

I would appreciate your support on Wednesday, March 21.

Weekend Films At

By Staff Reports

The bomb — before and after — is the theme of Herndrix Theatre's scheduled films for this weekend. War Games, this week's feature film, and A Boy and His Dog, Friday and Saturday's mid-night movie, both are science fiction films centered around the possibility of thermo-nuclear war and what life on planet earth would be like afterwards. This is here-and-now science fiction, not a Buck Rogers vision of the distant future.

Play On Our Fears About 'The Bomb'

The film focuses on Broderick, a high school underachiever who's a whizz at computers. With his girlfriend Sheedy, they use his bedroom VDT to change their grades in the school computer then move on to bigger things — playing war games, but with the Defense Department instead of a video game company.

While trying to break into the computer of a game company, Broderick accidentally taps into North American Defense Command system, setting into motion a seemingly irreversible computer plan to launch U.S. nuclear missiles.

The problem comes when the Defense Department, to eliminate Tension runs high in the NORAD control room when the countdown for a nuclear attack cannot be thwarted in Wargames.

human error, decides to take people "out of the loop" of nuclear weapons launching, thus a computer will automatically fire missiles under certain commands and conditions. Well, Broderick's home terminal manages to set off the system, and he's promptly arrested by the FBI as a Soviet spy.

A Boy And His Dog

Although A Boy and His Dog is set in the year 2024, the miserable life it depicts could just as easily be a scenario from 1987. Whenever, it's several years after a thermo-nuclear war has destroyed the present civilization. America is a vast dried-up mud flat where armed men, alone and in bands, roam as scavengers and more valuable than gold.

The young protagonist in this wretched world is Vic (Don Johnson). Blood, a talking dog (shades of Toots and Bonnie) is his constant companion, friend and advisor.

Vic meets sexy Quilla Jane (Susanne Benton), a young woman from a mysterious underground society. They make love, and she entices Vic to follow her into the underground world that she emerged from. Blood warns Vic not to go, but Vic is ruled by his glands, not his head, and follows Jane.

The underground world is governed by a Farmer-Brown type dictator, Lew, played superbly by Jason Robards. Although he at first appears to be an easy going bucolic, Lew proves to be an absolute despot the equal of Stalin or Hitler. There are many twists and turns in the plot before the film's end.

Touted as "an R rated, rather kinky tale of survival," A Boy and His Dog is based on a novella by Harlan Ellison. It won the Hugo Award in 1976 for best science fiction film of the year.

War Games shows at 7 and 9:30 p.m. this Thursday, Friday and Saturday. A Boy and His Dog follows at midnight on Friday and Saturday. Admission is by student I.D. and activity card.

3 1/2 Hour Epic

So Much Fluff In Right Stuff

By DARRYL BROWN and JENNIFER JENDRASIAK

Too much plot development, not enough plot. No wonder Glenn dropped out.

You would think that in a three-and-a-half hour movie, one could do justice to War and Peace. But, unfortunately, the movie had trouble getting in the best parts of a 300-page novel.

The Right Stuff is based on Tom Wolfe's novel of the same name, but doesn't carry the same breadth or impact. What was presented in delightful detail in and the new astronauts grows fuzzy, partly because the test pilots are left out of much of the movie's second half, with only Yeager returning for an unexplained crash at the end.

One area where writer/director Philip Kaufman shows much adeptness is in the portrayal of the characters' humanity. The humiliating pre-flight medical testing process is replicated in excruciating detail, as are the future astronauts' reactions to the process. It's difficult to believe that you are a national hero when you are running down the hall in a hospital gown or being subjected to a sperm motility test by a nurse completely impervious to your macho-male charms, thus the astronauts can be viewed as humans, not just superheroes in the Buck Rogers mold.

The reactions of the astronauts' and test pilots' wives to their none-too-easy lives are also presented well. Their responses when confronted with sudden death, constant media attention, ticker-tape parades and hollow victories are above all, believable. This glimpse into the wives' emotions is especially interesting because they are seldom brought into the picture when the heroic feats of their husbands are being lauded.

An aspect which becomes apparent by the end of the movie is the brotherhood, or feeling of comradeship, these men share. They know, as no one else does, what they truly have in common, what they have gone through, and what "the right stuff" really is. They seem to maintain a realistic view of their exploits even if no one else does.

Vivid photography contributed much to the enjoyment of the movie. The scenes where the astronauts were in orbit are especially well done, as are some of the earlier sequences involving the test pilots.

The Right Stuff is an entertaining and worthwhile saga of the men who truly had "the right stuff." The problems came when what could have been an exciting two-hour movie was stretched into three and a half hours. However, provided you have a long attention span, the movie is well worth seeing and you'll certainly get your money's worth.

The Right Stuff is now showing at Greenville's Plaza Cinema.

Famed Polish Pianist At Wright Auditorium

By GORDON IPOCK

Called the "People's Pianist," famed Polish pianist Wladimir Jan Kochanski will perform in ECU's Wright Auditorium on Monday, March 26. Kochanski is a musician with a mission. Not only is he devoted to his art, but he uses it to serve his fellow man, particularly those suffering in Poland.

Kochanski has established a non-profit foundation to encourage young musicians in their careers and to help suffering families in Poland. A highlight of his career was playing before Pope John Paul II in 1981 at the dedication of the Polish Pilgrim's Home in Rome. For his service to his homeland, the president of the Polish Government-in-Exile (in London, England) honored him with knighthood in the Order of Polonia Restituta. It is the highest honor that can be bestowed upon a Polish civilian. Today, Kochanski is often referred to as "the second Paderewski," champion of Polish people and of great music.

Kochanski's ongoing goal is to introduce classical music to as much of the public as possible. He ignores convention during his concerts and often speaks directly to his audience, giving explanations and asides. He also performs a broad range of classical music, from Baroque to modern, and also includes other styles in his repertoire such as popular and folk music.

"Beautiful music," he says, "was written to be enjoyed by everyone."

Kochanski graduated from the Julliard School of Music where he studied under the legendary teachers Rosina Lhevinne and Eduard Steuermann.

Kochanski's ECU performance is sponsored by The Church of Jesus Christ of the Latter Day Saints Student Association. Tickets are on sale at the Central Ticket Office, $3 for students and $4 for the public and faculty. If three or more tickets are purchased by the public, a special discount is made, $3 a piece. This discount is being made to encourage families to attend the performance.

LaSalle Presents:

Garbo In 'Camille' First Of Film Series

I figure it's time you mugs got some culture. So I'm bringing Greta Garbo to ECU.

It's all part of my new series, Mick LaSalle Presents Great Broad of the 20s and 30s. The first film, Camille (1936), will be shown at 8:30 p.m. in room 221 at Mendenhall Student Center. Everybody's invited and all films in the series are free.

Mick

LaSalle

The first time I saw Greta Garbo was six years ago at this Jersey motel called The Greenland. Me and my girl took a room, and I flicked on the set just to make sure the TV was color like the guy at the desk said. Next thing I know, the most beautiful woman I had ever seen was on the screen. I mean, the lady glowed.

Greta Garbo was born in Stockholm in 1905. In her teens she became the protegee of the great Swedish director Mauritz Stiller. She made a couple of movies in Europe before she was imported by Louis B. Mayer to MGM in 1925.

Within a year-and-a-half she became an international star with the release of Flesh and the Devil (1927). Before the end of the 1920s, she'd been called "The Face of the Century." Reviewers ever since have been making fools of themselves trying to explain the indefinable quality this woman had onscreen.

In her early films Garbo played the sexy "vamp" who got her jollies by making a mess out of men's lives. But her screen character grew. Eventually Garbo became known for playing women capable of great sacrifice. While always the loose woman, Garbo's onscreen characters were always intelligent, strong and independent. They usually had a lot more going for them than the clowns they happened to be in love with.

Camille gave Garbo the perfect vehicle for her screen image. The result is what one reviewer called "the greatest performance in the American sound film."

The picture co-stars Robert Taylor as Armand, and the incomparable Henry Daniell as Baron de Varville. Bring a broad and some popcorn to Mendenhall next Tuesday. Camille is a great old time movie. And it's free.

LaSalle Calls Press Conference,

Will Reveal Face, Launch Film Series

'The Face Of The Century'

Greta Garbo stars in Camille, the first in Mick LaSalle's new film series called, Great Broad of the 20s and 30s. LaSalle plans to announce the series and reveal his face at upcoming press conference.

By GORDON IPOCK
Feature Editor

"I've had it to here," growled East Carolinian staff writer Mick LaSalle. He slashed a hand across his throat emphasizing his point. "I heard just this weekend six guys scored in Rafter's... claiming to be Mick LaSalle! It's getting where all a mug has to do to get a broad in this town is wear a hat in public."

Claiming that scores of once-desperate men are now using his identity to become lady killers, LaSalle announced today that he plans to reveal his identity, show his face to the public in an effort to put an end to the wave of sexual deceit that has swept Greenville... a wave capped with a gray fedora.

LaSalle plans to call a press conference for all local media to mark this "high-powered, bigwig-ed" event. The press conference is tentatively scheduled for ECU's Mendenhall Student Center next Tuesday, March 27.

"I've given it lots of thought," said LaSalle, "and it's the thing to do. I started writing so I could teach some of these guys how they too could be like... Mick LaSalle. And what do they do?" he asked, indignation welling in his voice. "A lot of the bums are claiming to be me, passing themselves off as LaSalle to impressable freshmen at the Elbo Room. It's got to stop."

LaSalle, a living legend in his native New York City, left the big town to come South in search of solitude. "I couldn't walk down the street," he admitted. A concerned humanitarian, he decided to do what he could for Greenville's wimps, nerds and losers. Thus began his tenure as staff writer at The East Carolinian, and the rest is history. "I've done my bit for the men of this town," said LaSalle. "Now it's time to move on to other things... like culture."

LaSalle plans to use the press conference to launch his film series called, "Mick LaSalle Presents Great Broad of the 20s and 30s."

See Mick's announcement in today's Entertainment section.

He will also answer questions from the media concerning what some have dubbed, "the LaSalle Philosophy." All press, TV and radio media and the public are invited. For details call 757-6309.

New Chamber Scheduled By J

A new chamber music series for 1984-85 has been scheduled through a joint arrangement by the ECU School of Music and Department of University Unions.

The series, to be called the 1984-85 Chamber Festival, will include performances by the Dorian Wind Quintet, the Annapolis Brass Quintet, the Los Angeles Piano Quartet, the Western Wind ensemble and the Composers String Quartet.

All performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. in Hendrix Theatre.

The series is partially sponsored by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Southern Arts Federation.

The Dorian Wind Quintet, performing Oct. 10, is known in the U.S. and abroad for its performances of commissioned scores and residency activities, as well as its numerous recordings and sold-out concert tours.

The Annapolis Brass Quintet, appearing Nov. 5, will showcase music for brasses spanning 400 years. The group is celebrating 12 years as the nation's only full-time performing brass ensemble.

Of the Los Angeles Piano Quartet, scheduled for a Jan. 28 concert, a leading critic wrote: "The group enlists highly accomplished players who have forged an ensemble based on like-mindedness, on equality of technical skills, on disciplined reaction to interpretive style..."

Performing Feb. 11 is the vocal sextet, the Western Wind. Its unique musical phenomenon has rekindled a love for "a capella" singing among audiences in several nations.

The final program of the Chamber Festival, set for April 20, will be presented by the Composers String Quartet, critically praised for its precision, musical understanding and sensitive interpretations.

Each ensemble's members will present masterclasses for ECU music students during its visit to campus. Masterclasses, set for 10 a.m. until noon on the mornings after concerts in Fletcher Music Center Recital Hall, are open to the public without charge.

Season tickets for the Chamber Festival are on sale at the Central Ticket Office in Mendenhall Student Center priced at $15 for the public and $10 for ECU faculty and staff. Discount prices of $10 and $7.50 respectively are offered to those who also purchase season tickets for the 1984-85 University Unions Artists Series.

Phi Mu Alpha Plays Attic

The ECU chapter of Phi Mu Alpha, a nationwide professional music fraternity, will perform at the Attic nightclub in Greenville on Wednesday evening, March 21. The 15 piece band includes a nine-piece horn section plus guitars, drums, bass, piano and two vocalists. The band will play nostalgic rock plus R&B standards, music that's sure to make you want to boogie. Admission is only one buck, and all proceeds go to the ECU School of Music scholarship fund. So come on out to the Attic and listen to the band.

The horn section of the Phi Mu Alpha music fraternity pumps out the sound during a rehearsal for their upcoming Attic debut.

All performances are scheduled for 8 p.m. in Hendrix Theatre.

The series is partially sponsored by grants from the National Endowment for the Arts and the Southern Arts Federation.

The Dorian Wind Quintet, performing Oct. 10, is known in the U.S. and abroad for its performances of commissioned scores and residency activities, as well as its numerous recordings and sold-out concert tours.

The Annapolis Brass Quintet, appearing Nov. 5, will showcase music for brasses spanning 400 years. The group is celebrating 12 years as the nation's only full-time performing brass ensemble.

Of the Los Angeles Piano Quartet, scheduled for a Jan. 28 concert, a leading critic wrote: "The group enlists highly accomplished players who have forged an ensemble based on like-mindedness, on equality of technical skills, on disciplined reaction to interpretive style..."

Performing Feb. 11 is the vocal sextet, the Western Wind. Its unique musical phenomenon has rekindled a love for "a capella" singing among audiences in several nations.

The final program of the Chamber Festival, set for April 20, will be presented by the Composers String Quartet, critically praised for its precision, musical understanding and sensitive interpretations.

Each ensemble's members will present masterclasses for ECU music students during its visit to campus. Masterclasses, set for 10 a.m. until noon on the mornings after concerts in Fletcher Music Center Recital Hall, are open to the public without charge.

Season tickets for the Chamber Festival are on sale at the Central Ticket Office in Mendenhall Student Center priced at $15 for the public and $10 for ECU faculty and staff. Discount prices of $10 and $7.50 respectively are offered to those who also purchase season tickets for the 1984-85 University Unions Artists Series.

Amazing Psychic Returns To Baffle Campus Again

Gil Eagles' amazing demonstration takes an audience one step beyond on a unique adventure into the intriguing realm of psychic phenomena. It is a brilliantly entertaining performance of the mysterious and fascinating wonders of the sixth sense presented with dynamic showmanship that will confound and astound the keenest minds. Gil Eagles has baffled countless thousands of people on four continents with his amazing demonstration of E.S.P. and hypnotism. For 20 years he has been a serious and avid exponent of hypo-therapy as it applies to the medical and psychiatric professions. In 1977 and 1980, a packed Hendrix Theatre viewed Eagles' incredible performance: an E.S.P. show using total audience participation. Names, numbers and personal questions revealed and answered were those actually held in the minds of the audience, all strangers to Eagles.

Don't miss this fascinating performance on March 20 at 8 p.m. in Hendrix Theatre. Tickets are on sale at the Central Ticket Office. They are $2 for ECU students, $3 for faculty and staff and $4 for the public. All tickets are $4 at the door. For more information call 757-6611, ext. 266.

Pirates Take On North Carolina Today

By RANDY MEWS
Assistant Sports Editor

Stacy Boyette and Pam Young allowed just five hits in two games, as the ECU women's softball team swept a doubleheader 9-1 and 5-2 from Newberry College Sunday afternoon.

"I'm really excited to see what's happening with our girls," Pirate coach Sue Manahan said about her team's transition from slow to fast-pitch softball.

ECU made the switch at the beginning of this season to become eligible for the NCAA division-I championship, and currently stands at 8-4 on the season.

In the first game, Boyette was walked and then used the opportunity to steal second. After Wendy Ozment also walked, Bonnie Smith reached first on an error by the catcher, enabling Boyette to score and give the Pirates a 1-0 lead after the first inning of play.

ECU extended its lead by a run in the second when Carla Alphin smashed a triple deep to left field, and then scored on a hit-and-run grounder by Boyette.

The Pirates put the game away in the bottom of the third as they scored six runs. Lisa Zmuda led off with a walk, followed by a Suzanne Martin single. Tamara Franks then reached first base on another error by the Newberry catcher, scoring Zmuda.

Sandy Kee loaded the bases after being walked, and then Alphin was walked to force Martin in from third, giving ECU a 4-0 advantage.

With the bases still loaded, Boyette was the next batter. She became the first Pirate out by hitting a grounder to the third baseman, but Newberry was only able to throw Kee out at third as Franks scored easily.

Alphin and Boyette scored on singles by Ozment and Smith, and then Ozment crossed the plate the final time in the inning when Dawn Langley hit into a fielder's choice.

ECU added an insurance run in the fifth, and then Newberry finally got on the board in the seventh, after Brown tripled and scored on a fielder's choice by Stuck.

"They were really stronger than the score indicated," Manahan said. "In fast pitch, once you get rattled, it's easy to score fast."

Newberry got on the board first in the second game, as Camp and Stuck both walked and then Camp came home on a squeeze play.

The Pirates knotted the game at one in the third, after Smith walked, and then scored on a Martin double.

ECU added two runs in the fourth on walks by Angie Humphrey and Smith and a single by Ozment to bolster its lead to 3-1.

Newberry closed to within one run in the fifth inning when Rowell was singled in from second by Halyburton, but Pirate runs in the bottom of the fifth and sixth ensured victory once again.

"We had some very good defensive plays both games, and I hope we will continue to improve," said Manahan of her team's play.

North Carolina will next up for the Pirates, with a doubleheader scheduled for 2 p.m. this afternoon.

"We're pretty excited about North Carolina coming in," Manahan said. "They have one of the strongest pitchers we have seen. It will be a tough challenge because even though they just made the change (to fast pitch), they have lots of talent."

Soccer Coach Resigns

Second-year soccer coach Robbie Church has announced that he will resign, citing a desire to concentrate on graduate work as his motive.

"I'm not coming back," Church said. "I'm finishing up my master's (degree)."

Church guided the Pirates to a 3-16 record last fall after his ECU team the previous year tied a school record for wins with a 7-10 mark.

Church served as an assistant coach at South Carolina before accepting the ECU position in 1982. Prior to that, he was an assistant coach at Spartanburg, S.C.

"They (the athletic department) feel that it might be a good move for me," Church added.

"I feel that we have brought the program along. I'm going to have to concentrate on another career opportunity."

According to ECU soccer player David Pere, Assistant Athletic Director Bob Helmick recently discussed the matter with the team. Pere said Helmick told the team that Church wasn't forced to resign and that there were no hard feelings.

Boxing Gets Hoots, Howls

By GORDON IPOCK
Feature Editor

John Nix showed tremendous heart in last Thursday's finals of this year's TKE Boxing Tournament. In the most memorable fight of the evening, Nix won a technical knock out over Joe "Boss Dog" Pittman, won a thundering ovation from the crowd of about 2,000 and also won the tournament's outstanding boxer award.

Listed at 151 pounds, Nix gave up six pounds to his taller opponent who also showed a clear advantage in hand speed as well. The first round of their fight was fast-paced. Pittman made good use of his reach and speed advantage. In a display of superior boxing skills, he scored from outside with a stiff jab and with combinations to the head of Nix. Despite the disadvantage in size and skill, Nix pressed a dogged attack taking punishment. By the round's end, blood leaked steadily from Nix's nose bathing his mouth and chin in a swath of red. At the end of the first round, Pittman indeed looked to be the "boss dog."

As the bell sounded for round two, Nix vaulted from his corner and hurled a furious barrage of punches at Pittman. The crowd thundered with applause. Surprised and confused, Pittman back peddled, and though he tried repeatedly to hold his ground and slug it out with Nix, Nix fought with the tenacity of a bulldog, taking punches but outscoring Pittman in the furious exchanges. Nix's relentless pressure took a heavy toll, and by the round's end, Pittman had slowed noticeably and was missing with his punches. A series of weak overhand rights before the bell by Pittman caught nothing but air. Nix had turned the fight around.

Round three was a continuation of round two as Nix pressed his non-stop attack. With greater stamina and sheer heart, Nix took the fight to Pittman backing him into a corner late in the round where he unleashed a torrent of blows, scoring with shots to the head and body as Pittman faded. With Pittman virtually out on his feet, the referee stopped the fight awarding Nix a TKO. Pittman slumped to the canvas. Nix's win over a bigger, quicker opponent was an inspiring display of courage and determination that brought the cheering crowd to its feet.

If John Nix was the popular hero of the evening, then Jim Lincoln was the villain — at least to a vocal minority in the crowd. Though many cheered for the tall, angular boxer, others hooted their disdain. Lincoln is familiar to TKE Boxing fans for his battles with Mike Greko in 1981 and '82. In their '81 fight, Lincoln demonstrated both brains and raw punching power, lulling Greko with a rope-a-dope tactic before spinning off the ropes and decapitating him with a vicious right cross. The following year Greko somewhat avenged Lincoln's KO by staying in the center of the ring and out-pointing Lincoln for an unconvincing win. At any rate, Lincoln's reputation preceded him, and as he climbed into the ring some boxing fans shouted taunts and insults.

Lincoln was matched in Thursday's finals against Salvatore Anello, an ECU student from South Orange, New Jersey. Both weighed 175, but Anello was shorter and thicker. The first round passed uneventfully. Lincoln, confident and relaxed, stalked Anello around the ring looking for the big punch but not finding it. Not only did he appear calm, but Lincoln looked lethargic as well, his punches not as crisp as in previous years.

Anello gained confidence in the second round and pressed Lincoln who back peddled to the ropes. There he slipped or blocked most of Anello's punches and tried to counter punch. Lincoln seemed to react to the crowd as much as to his opponent. When part of the crowd cheered Anello as he flailed at Lincoln on the ropes, Lincoln literally threw Anello off him. Then, abandoning his counter-punching style, he backed Anello into a corner and nearly knocked him through the ropes. Anello broke free and fled the corner.

A determined scowl marked Lincoln's face as he stalked Anello through the third round. He loaded up with every punch, often lunging after his quarry. Anello fought back in flurries, one time charging Lincoln and landing between the ropes. Near the end of the round, an overhand right by Lincoln hit his mark. Anello stumbled backward, wilted and fell. After a standing eight count, Lincoln crunched a right hook into Anello's jaw at the bell. Anello's knees buckled, and he crumbled to the canvas giving Lincoln his KO in the last second of the fight.

With victory in hand, Lincoln marched straight-faced to the dressing room as some cheered and others shouted, "You're a bum! You ain't nothing! etc! etc!"

Even if the audience didn't get as involved, the rest of the fights also provided plenty of action.

Mark Saieed, last year's 162-pound champion, successfully defended his title this year. Saieed showed impressive quickness and hand speed, noticeably improved from his '83 championship form. Unfortunately, Mark out-classed his opponent, Greg Williams, who, by the second round, was either running or clinching but not willing to battle Saieed. The referee stopped the fight in the second round and awarded Saieed the victory.

In the first fight of the evening, 250-pound super heavyweight James Ellis of Ahsokie pounded out a decision over his 210-pound opponent Gary Moore of Camp Lejeune.

Carlton Brewer won the heavyweight division without a fight. His opponent, Warren Williams, was medically disqualified before entering the ring. Willie Vines battled Joe Murchison for the 178-pound title. Vines was an outside sharp shooter with straight punches. Murchison, shorter, fought with a Joe-Frazier hooking style. Vines' cleaner technique began to earn him the advantage by the end of the second round. He scored with several straight shots to Murchison's head just before the bell. Vines came out of his corner at the start of the third round spitting fire and slinging leather, but the pace slowed. Scoring sporadically, Vines went on to win by decision.

Brad Roberson, a novice, gave up 12 pounds to Otis Tabor in a junior-middleweight fight. Midway through the first round, Tabor clipped Roberson with a stinging overhand right to the head, and it was "good-night sweet prince." Roberson was out cold for several minutes before finally getting to his feet and leaving the ring.

Landmark Season For Kobe, Swimmers

By SCOTT POWERS
Sports Writer

It was a record-setting year in Pirate swimming, and that has ECU coach Rick Kobe excited.

"We had the greatest season in East Carolina history," says Kobe, reflecting on a season in which the men's and women's teams combined for a school record 17 wins.

The men's team, which finished with an 8-4 record, scored its highest placement ever at the Eastern Championships by coming in second and had a team record five first place finishes. Stan Williams (50 and 100 yard freestyle), Chema Larranaga (1650 yard freestyle), Kevin Richards (200 yard butterfly) and Steven Hollett (100 yard butterfly) each topped the rest of pack in their heats.

The team also set four varsity records and one freshman mark during the season. The records were broken by Richards in the 100 backstroke and 200 butterfly in times of :53.2 and 1:52.89 and Larranaga in the 1000 and 1650 freestyles in 9:31.50 and 15:48.07.

The freshman team of Stratten Smith, Richard Wells, John Torrence and Kevin Hildago set a freshman record in the 800 freestyle relay with a time of 7:12.22.

The women's team set many team records in route to a 9-4 performance, which was the most wins ever at ECU. In qualifying nine girls for the national meet, they set eight varsity records and ten freshman records.

Three freshman set varsity and freshman records for Kobe's team. Cindy Newman (1:00.16 in the 100 butterfly), Caycee Poust (1:01.53 in the 100 backstroke) and Lori Livingston (2:14 in the 200 backstroke) left their mark.

Diver Rene Seech set three records with 247 points for six dives in the 1 meter board, 414.23 points for 11 dives in the 1 meter and 402.68 points for 11 dives in the 3 meter.

Other varsity records were set by Jessica Feinberg in the 100 breaststroke with a time of 1:08.42 and Poust, Feinberg, Newman and Jean Keating in the 400 medley relay with a time of 4:07.89.

The freshman crew also set records in the 200 free relay, the 400 free relay, the 400 medley relay and the 800 free relay.

Other individual freshman records were set by Keating in the 50 freestyle with a time of 25.09 and Lori Miller in the 1 and 3 meter diving events.

"We had the best bunch of kids to work with," Kobe says. "They were nice, good students and good swimmers." The team had a grade point average of 2.6.

The men will lose only one senior while the women should have everyone back. In turn, Kobe is looking for continued success, and more records will likely fall.

Squad Sweeps Weekend Series; Northwestern Game Tomorrow

By ED NICKLAS

The ECU baseball team is seeking to add to its six-game winning streak, but it will have to do so against Big Ten power Northwestern tomorrow at Harrington Field.

The Pirates, 10-3, will face the Wildcats in a doubleheader at 1 p.m., and according to ECU coach Hal Baird, his team better be "ready to play or it will be lights out."

Northwestern, which recently took three of four games from UNC-Wilmington, will be just one of many tough squads the Pirates will face in what Baird calls a "difficult home stand."

In addition to the Wildcats, ECU will be hosting Ohio, ECAC South opponent Richmond and UNC-Chapel Hill over a seven-day span.

"I feel like the kids have made strides," Baird says. "I think they're some boys who are coming around."

One in particular, freshman righthander Jim Peterson, went the distance Saturday afternoon, giving up only three hits and striking out six. "Jim has done an outstanding job," Baird says. "He has been a pleasant surprise."

Although the Pirates have pounded the ball during the streak, Baird feels the team will have to improve in hitting as it plays stonger clubs. "I think we have some distance to cover," he says. "We need to swing the bats better. We haven't hit against the type of pitching like we will against James Madison, for instance."

In a doubleheader Saturday afternoon at Harrington Field, the Pirates swept two from Connecticut.

ECU won the first game 8-4 behind the three-hit pitching of Peterson (2-0) and the second 5-4 as Todd Evans went four-for-four and knocked in two runs.

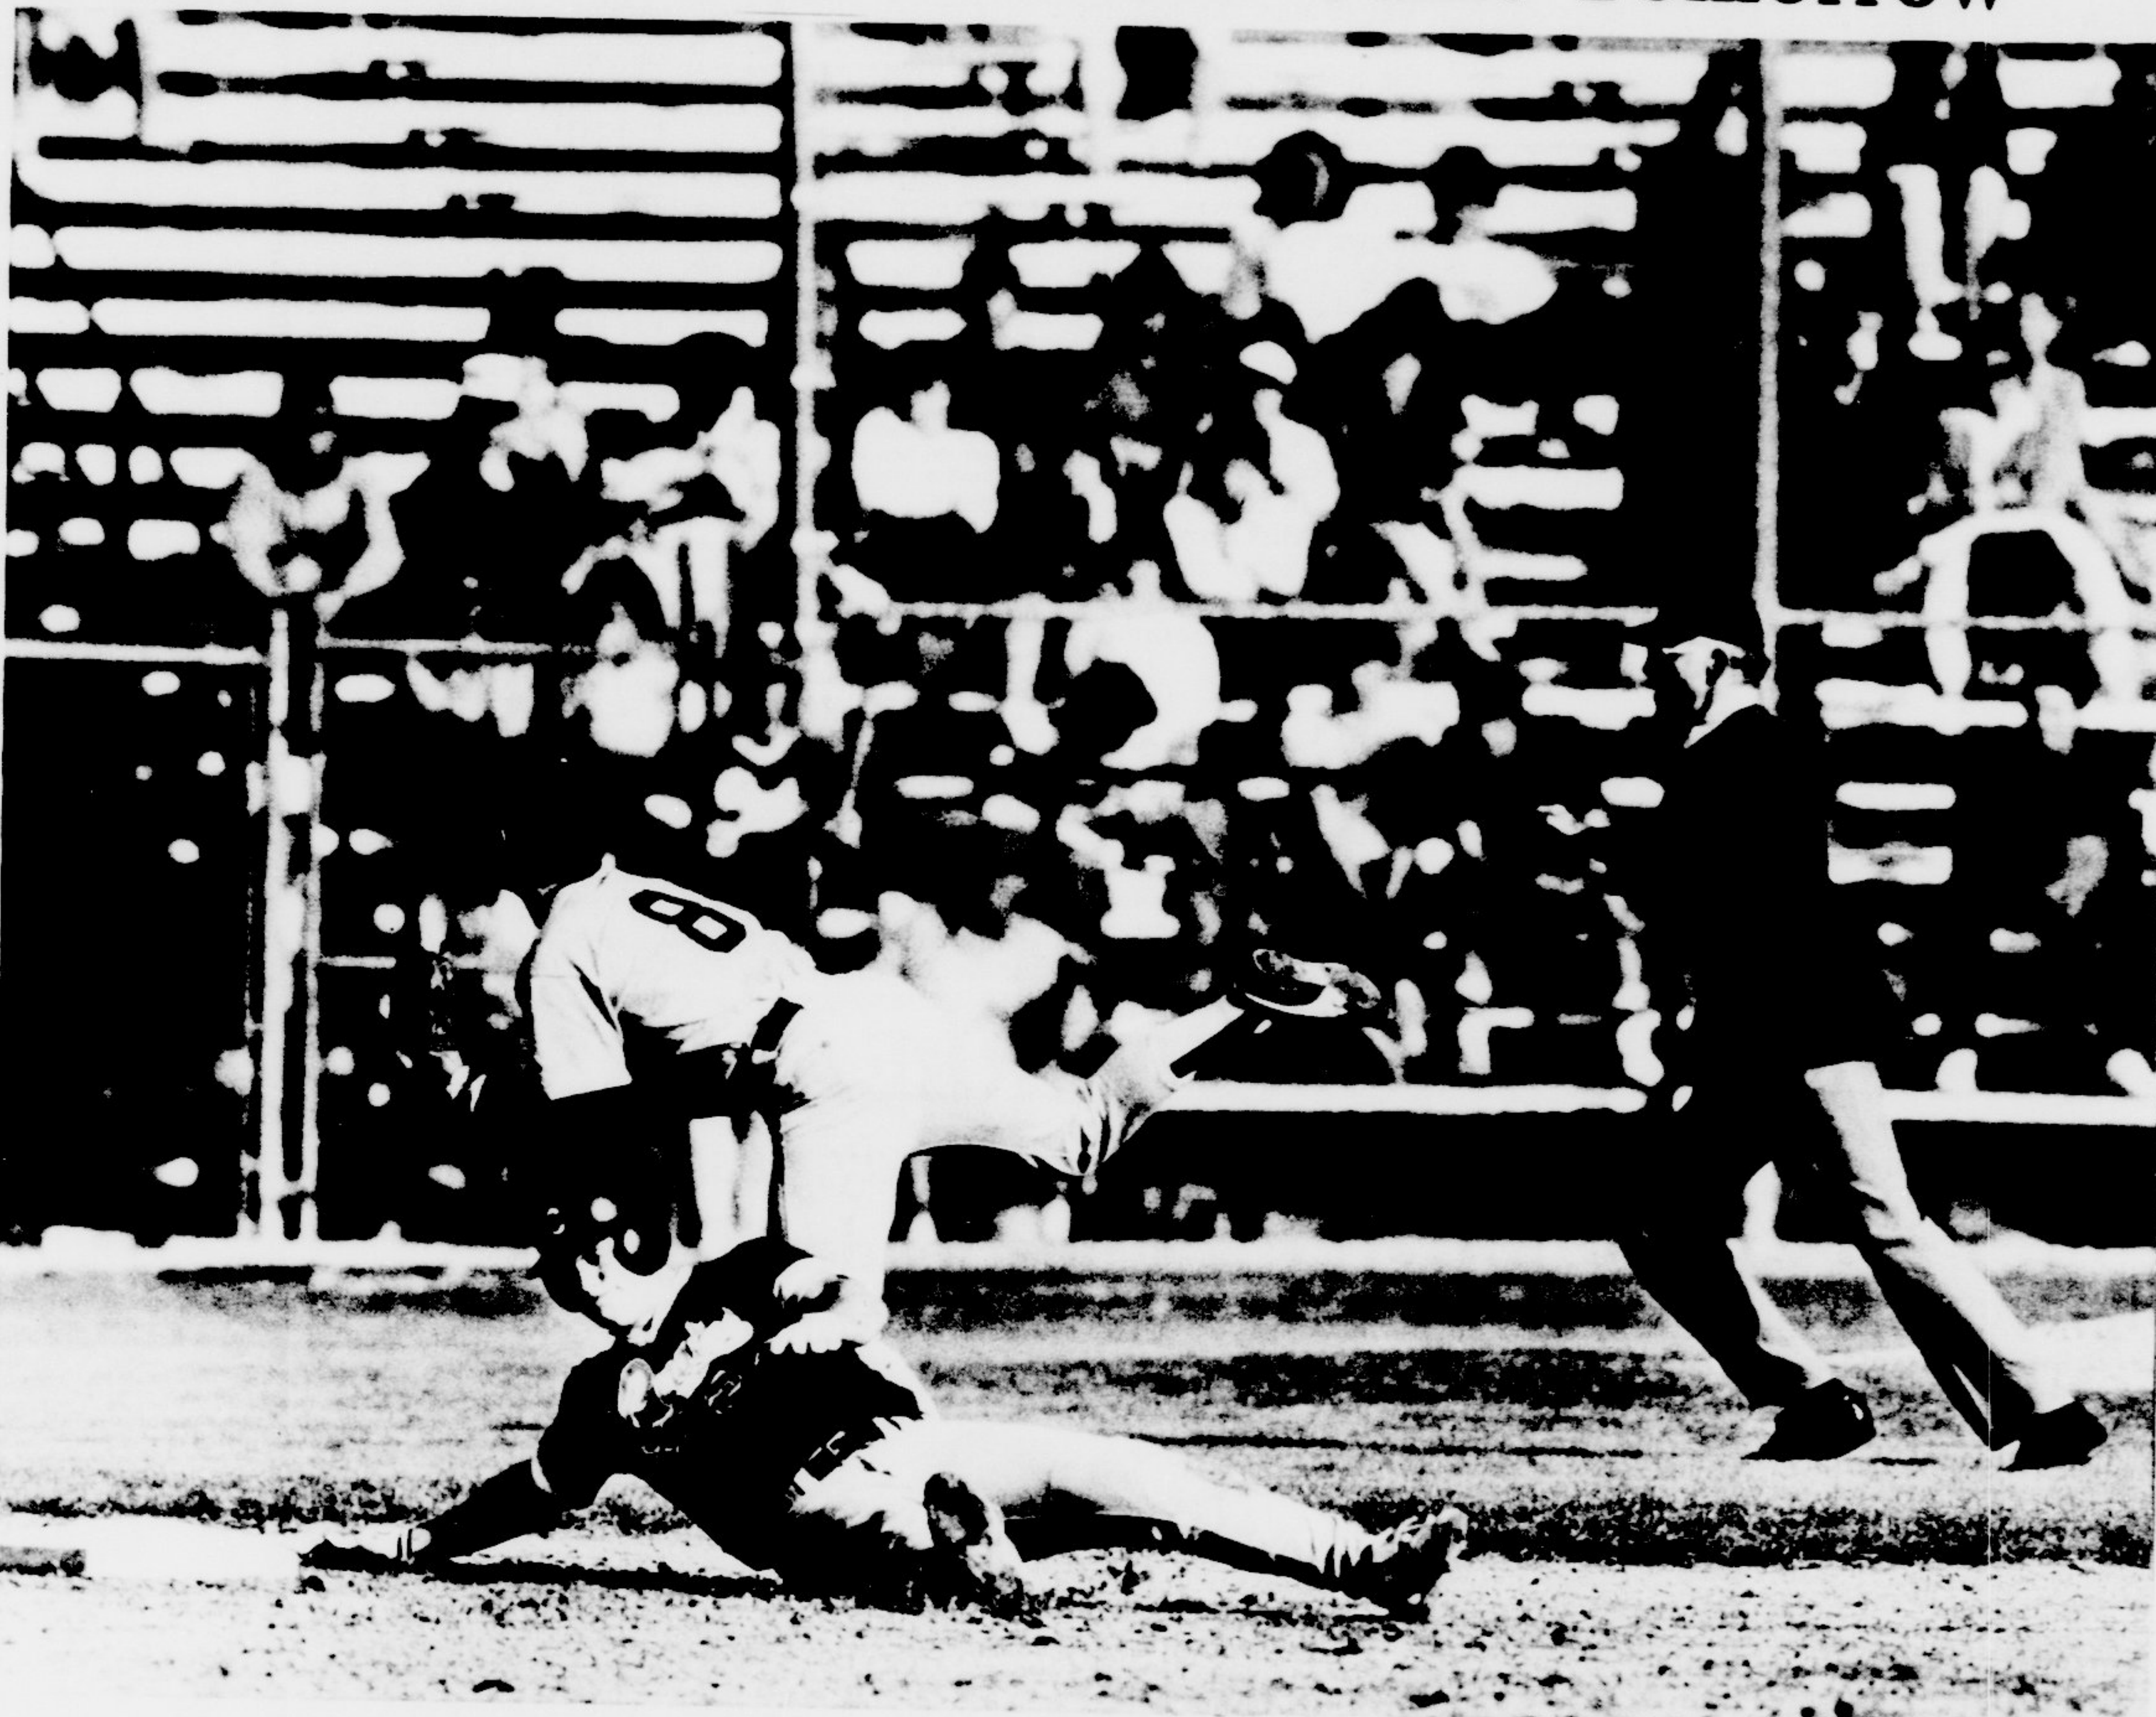

Winfred Johnson (3-0) picked up the win in the second game, giving up eight hits and three runs, two earned, the last six innings after relieving starter Tom Webb in the second inning.

In the first game, the Pirates scored six runs in the first inning and Peterson gave up only one hit over the initial five innings to ensure victory.

Third baseman David Wells led the Pirates' 13-hit offensive attack with three base knocks, two of which were doubles, and rightfielder Mike Williams, shortstop Greg Hardison and designated hitter Johnson each had two.

The Pirates scored three runs in the second inning and two in the fourth to squeak out a narrow one-run victory in the second game.

Connecticut drove in two runs in the fifth to narrow the Pirate lead to 5-4, but Johnson allowed just one hit the final two innings.

Brad Roberson, a novice, gave up 12 pounds to Otis Tabor in a junior-middleweight fight. Midway through the first round, Tabor clipped Roberson with a stinging overhand right to the head, and it was "good-night sweet prince," Roberson was out cold for several minutes before finally getting to his feet and leaving the ring.

Jim Ybanez and Scott Francis battled furiously for three rounds. Both lightweights showed good boxing skills, throwing effective combinations, slipping punches, clinching at the right times and moving about the ring well. The fight was fast-paced, hard-fought and very close. After a long deliberation, the judges awarded Ybanez the decision. A penalty point against him for holding may have cost Francis the fight.

The final fight of the evening between 165-pound Leon and 170-pound Keith Vasser was another close one. Again, two solid boxers battled for three rounds.

Vasser won the decision based on a surge late in the final round.

The real star of the evening was ring girl Leigh Brown. The lithe and attractive Miss Brown wore a black, one-piece, French-cut bathing suit and heels. When she first stepped into the ring to carry the round placard, the crowd — at least the males — erupted into hysterical applause. In contrast to the boxers, Miss Brown was a most pleasing sight, one of the prettiest ring girls in the tournament's history.

Spring Practice Starts

GREENVILLE, N.C. — ECU head football coach Ed Emory greeted the Pirates of 1984 last Thursday as spring practice officially opened. Drills will culminate with the playing of the Purple-Gold Spring Game April 14 in Ficklen Stadium.

"Our 1984 team may have more talent than either the 1982 or 1983 teams," says Emory. "However, we are very inexperienced right now and it will probably not be until mid-season in the fall that we find out just what type team we have. We are very young in some critical areas, especially the defensive front."

The Pirates concluded 1983 ranked 20th in the final Associated Press poll and 17th in the final Sports Illustrated poll, following an 8-3 season that saw the Pirates just 13 points shy of an unbeaten season. The 1982 Pirates were 7-4.

Emory enters his fifth season at the helm with ECU with 33 lettermen returning, including 12 starters — seven starters on offense (two players shared at tailback and flanker), three starters on defense and both the placekicker and punter are back.

Two key questions loom with the start of spring practice. The Pirates must find a quarterback to replace Kevin Ingram. However, no candidate in the Pirate camp has ever taken a snap in varsity competition.

Darrell Speed, sophomore from Sanford, Ron Jones, redshirt freshman from Portsmouth, Va. and Robbie Bartlett, junior college transfer from Citrus in Azusa, Cal. are the leading candidates for the starting quarterback position.

The second major area of question is the defensive line, as no starter returns at noseguard, defensive tackle or defensive end.

"If we are to be successful this fall, one of our quarterbacks has got to come forward and produce."

Williams & Co., 1st

1983 NCAA qualifier Craig White placed eighth in the 110 high hurdles with a time of 14.27.

Teammates Maurice Monk, Erskine Evans, Henry Williams and Chris McLawhorn came in first place in the 4x100 consolation heat with a time of 41.6.

In the sprint medley relay the Pirates tied Michigan for eighth place with a time of 3:28.5.

The 4x400 relay team consisting of Willie Fuller, Ruben Pierce, Eddie Bradley and Chris Brooks placed fifth with a time of 3:9.9.

The next scheduled meet for the Pirates will be the Georgia relays in Athens, on March 23 and 24.

duce," adds Emory. "Also, our young defensive ends and defensive tackles have got to come forward. We have talent at all the questionable positions, but they still have to produce."

HEY CREAMY — Thanks for the Lasagna dinner. It was excellent! I hope FLOSSY did you right for dessert on the sofa! His footpaw was aching. HAIRY took care of me but she needs to learn not to scream. Can you blame her? Let's do it again soon but without HAIRY's sick jokes — I mean really — from Behind?

PEETIE — Saturday morning went to party down, and all you did was act like a clown. We really got a bang, to see you couldn't hang. And all through the day, in the bad you did lay, feeling the pain of too much champagne.

TO ALL PHI TAU Brothers and Pledges. The Little Sisters would like to make a toast. Here's to the Phi Tau's. Thanks for the Champagne Breakfast! We all had lots of fun! It's one more good memory to add to all our other memories or times shared with you. You really are a legend for all time! Love Phi Tau Little Sisters.
