The unseasonably warm October weather has permitted a great deal of leg exposure on the ECU campus, to the satisfaction of some and the dismay of others. It doesn't feel like fall but it will soon enough.

Costly N.C. Race Too Close To Call

RALEIGH (UPI) — Sen. Jesse Helms, R-N.C. and Gov. James Hunt have waged the most costly race in Senate history but the candidates predict a fraction of the percentage point could decide the election.

The lead has gone back and forth in polls taken over the past two months as the campaigns bombarded North Carolina televisions with mostly negative advertisements.

Through the first half of October, Hunt and Helms had spent more than $22 million and both candidates complained the campaign is out of control.

"This campaign costs too much," Hunt said. "It's time for the people of North Carolina to sweep aside all the distortions and the mud and to make their choice."

The candidates stepped up their personal campaigning in October in an attempt to sway voters. The race is so close that Helms, a champion of the conservative "New Right," appealed for black votes after largely ignoring them during his two terms as a senator.

Helms' first visit to a predominantly black college campus was met by a protest from about 200 angry black students. The Livingstone College students locked arms in silence, ignoring Helms' waves and smiles and refusing to shake his hand.

"Whether you vote for me or not is fine — and I know you won't," said the frustrated incumbent.

Helms, who has outspent Hunt nearly 2-to-1, tries to tie himself closely to President Reagan. The senator portrays Hunt as a "Mondale Liberal" and calls his opponent "the biggest spending governor in the history of North Carolina."

Hunt attacks Helms as a "right-wing extremist" who ignores the interests of North Carolina while trying to build a conservative "political empire."

"I go into the plants. I go into the hospitals and senior citizen centers. I go where I know half of them aren't for me, maybe two-thirds," Hunt said last week.

"We're not talking about changing a great number of voters," he said. "We're talking about a few here, a few there."

Helms and Hunt have vowed to dispatch armies of volunteers to ensure a fair vote. Helms said his campaign plans to place poll watchers in each of the state's 2,300 precincts to stop "machine politicians" from stuffing ballots for Hunt.

"They won't be cheating because we'll be watching," Helms said.

Hunt charged the Republicans intend to intimidate voters and create long lines in mostly Democratic black precincts and promised to send out his own volunteer monitors.

"We're going to protect people's right to vote," Hunt said.

A Gallup Poll predicted Reagan's popularity in North Carolina could be a deciding factor in the Nov. 6 election.

Reagan leads Democrat Walter Mondale by a large margin in the state and the Gallup organization said its polls show Helms could ride to reelection on the President's coattails.

Helms exhorts his supporters to go to the polls by calling 1982 "a make or break year for all we hold dear."

Hunt's strategists are counting on a large turnout among black voters. A voter registration drive led by Jesse Jackson signed up 53,805 blacks in North Carolina since the May primary.

The latest poll showed racial polarization among the supporters of the two candidates. Blacks favored Hunt over Helms 98 percent to 2 percent and the governor's campaign is pushing hard to turn out their vote.

Jenkins Speaks On Hunt's Record

By HAROLD JOYNER
Assistant News Editor

Dr. Leo Jenkins, ECU chancellor emeritus, endorsed N.C. Gov. Jim Hunt in the much contested U.S. Senate race at a Thursday press conference attended by eastern North Carolina educators.

"Because of Jim Hunt's personal drive and commitment," Jenkins said, "North Carolina has gained national recognition as a progressive leader in education."

Jenkins commented on Hunt's opponent, Jesse Helms, R-N.C., saying, "Senator Helms' educational policy is not a high priority in his activities," Jenkins said, "and I think it should be if we're to have an effective nation. He quoted Thomas Jefferson who said, 'The new America will work on one condition, that is we must have an educated electorate.'" Jenkins said he believes this holds true today and feels Hunt "is very sincere about the education of this nation."

"If our nation is to grow and prosper, if our economy is to compete with any other in the world, if our children are to have the best opportunities in the world, then America must have the best schools in the world. Neither North Carolina nor our nation can afford to elect representatives who feel no sense of responsibility to education."

Hunt has played a significant part in the establishment of the School of Medicine and has helped ECU maintain its university status, Jenkins said. "Also, Hunt has helped make ECU what it is today, and we should all be very proud of this accomplishment."

Also speaking at the conference was the Assistant Director of District 15 North Carolina Association of Educators, Annette McCrae. "President Reagan said last year that the average teacher salary across the nation was $35,000. The truth is, she said, 'the figure is $10,000 more than the top North Carolina and United States teacher's salary.'" She compared what Helms has done for North Carolina education and what Hunt has done and she said, "the difference can be seen. Helms has done nothing for North Carolina education."

Since retiring as chancellor of ECU in 1978, Jenkins has worked as a consultant to Hunt.

Student From Grenada Visits ECU

By GREG RIDEOUT
Managing Editor

When 1,900 U.S. Marines and Army Rangers hit the beaches of Grenada a little more than a year ago, Mark Solomon of Long Island, N.Y., was a little happier than the rest of us. Solomon, who visited ECU last Thursday as a guest of the SGA and United Students of America, was attending St. George's University School of Medicine at the time.

Solomon was one of about 90 St. George's students visiting U.S. college campuses last week, helping to celebrate Student Liberation Day. And although the visit raised some political eyebrows, the second year med student emphasized he was just here to "pay my respects to the Marines who died saving my life... and to share my experiences with you."

There were 650 students on the island at two campuses, True

Blue and Gran Anse. Grenada was picked in 1976 as the school's location because, according to Chancellor Charles Modica, the nation had a stable government. But, Solomon explained to the audience, conditions started to change. Prime Minister Maurice Bishop was placed under house arrest on Oct. 14, 1983 by other members of the government.

"It was at this time when I first felt that things weren't right in the country," Solomon said. "I remember going to town, which is approximately 35 minutes from where my campus is. I saw all the shops were closing. I had asked the storekeeper what was going on."

"She had said that people were going to be demonstrating and closing up early due to Bishop being placed under house arrest. When I had gone back to campus right after that, I saw a tremendous amount of armored trucks and military. I felt something was happening."

Anatomy mid-terms were held the next week, and Solomon said students didn't keep up with events happening on the island. During this time, Bishop had been freed and was holed up in a fort. On Oct. 19, Bishop was killed along with half the cabinet.

That night, Solomon and other students heard a speech over Radio-Free Grenada by General Hudson Austin in which he proclaimed a 24-hour, shoot-on-site curfew. "We were all pretty shaken up," Solomon said. "I know I had chills up and down my spine." The next day, Major Stroud, an aide to General Hudson, came to the campus.

"He said he would try to do everything he can to protect us — within his power," Solomon said. "But, meanwhile, he has to try to resolve his internal conflicts within the country. We didn't feel any better. You have to remember this is coming from somebody who's involved in cold-bloodedly killing half the cabinet. We didn't believe him. We had no idea of what he was going to do with us, if anything at all."

During the next couple of days, with classes suspended, the students stuck together, comforting each other. Two U.S. diplomats who had arrived from Barbados were told by the students that they wanted to evacuate. Revolutionary officials refused to let the students leave.

On Oct. 25, the day of the invasion, Solomon's resident advisor awakened him at 5:30 a.m. "We heard firing — gunshots going off, bombs, halftracks," he said. "It was terrifying because we really didn't know who was fighting, and the fighting sounded really close."

"We packed our bags — at

least one of them. We stayed in that room for at least five hours, until 10 a.m. We were just sitting on the floor listening to this," Solomon said. The students, who were occupying two buildings, were now moved into one, six or seven people in each room.

Papers View Candidates Differently

(UPI) — President Reagan won editorial-page endorsement from the Winston-Salem Journal while Gov. Jim Hunt captured support for his bid against Sen. Jesse Helms from the Journal and two other newspapers.

In the gubernatorial race, The Charlotte Observer supported Republican Jim Martin while the Raleigh News and Observer backed Attorney General Rufus Edmisten.

Hunt also won support from the News and Observer and the Greensboro News & Record.

The Observer wrote that Martin had bipartisan support in being elected to Congress six times from the 9th District.

"Even those who have opposed him do not question his character, integrity or seriousness of purpose," the Observer said. "We believe those qualities, along with his intelligence and instinctive confidence, will make him an effective, respected governor."

Edmisten, the Observer said, has done a "competent job" as attorney general for 10 years but his record has been spotty.

"Mr. Edmisten, in live television appearances with opposing candidates, has seemed uncomfortable, simplistic, sometimes pompous, and remarkably inept for someone who has been in the spotlight for a decade."

But the News and Observer said that while Edmisten has made mistakes, he "fits the pattern of the state's moderately progressive governors of the recent past. Under him, the state would continue to move forward."

Moreover, the editorial said that a Republican governor serving over a Democratically controlled legislature "would create a divided government resulting in stalemate."

Winston-Salem urged its readers to split the ticket and vote Hunt into the U.S. Senate seat held by Jesse Helms, R-N.C. Hunt also received backing from the Raleigh editorial page and the opinion columns of the Greensboro News & Record.

In endorsing Reagan, the Winston-Salem editorial said the Republican "has served this nation well...one need look only at a reviving economy, a strengthened defense and lowered inflation and interest rates to understand that Reagan's successes have been many."

Walter Mondale, the newspaper said, "has fought gamely against a popular, incumbent president. But he simply does not have the horses."

Student Charged With Assault

An ECU student was arrested by Campus Public Safety officers and charged with two counts of first degree burglary, one count of assault on a police officer and possession of marijuana following an incident in Greene dorm during the early morning hours of Friday, Oct. 26.

Maurice Lamar Kennedy, 18, of 482 Aycock dorm was taken into custody on the south side of Joyner Library after being pursued by officers from the 2nd floor of Greene. Both Kennedy and L.T. S. B. Kittrell of the Public Safety Department were treated and released from Pitt County Memorial Hospital for injuries inflicted during a scuffle which occurred at the time of arrest. A small amount of marijuana was found in Kennedy's pocket following the arrest.

The burglary charges stem from two incidents within a ten-minute period on the 2nd floor and 4th floor of Greene dorm. Kennedy allegedly entered rooms occupied by coeds, touched them while they were sleeping and fled when they awakened.

Kennedy was incarcerated in the Pitt County Jail following his release from Pitt Memorial Hospital under $10,000 bond for the two burglary charges and a $2,000 bond for the charges of assault on an officer and possession of marijuana.

First-degree burglary is defined under North Carolina law as "the breaking and entering of an occupied dwelling house at night with the intent to commit a felony therein." The maximum penalty for first degree burglary under the law is life imprisonment.

In an unrelated incident, Greg Allan Fields, 24, of Farmville was charged with first degree burglary on the morning of Thursday, Oct. 25 following an incident in Fleming dorm.

In that incident, a coed from the first floor of Fleming dorm was awakened when a bookcase next to her window was overturned as the suspect attempted to enter her window. Fields was then taken into custody by Public Safety officers outside Fleming dorm and identified by the victim.

Fields was incarcerated in the Pitt County Jail under a $10,000 bond.

A preliminary hearing in the Kennedy case is set for Nov. 19 with the charges of assault on an officer and possession of marijuana set for trial on Nov. 16. The Fields case is set for Nov. 6 in District Court in Greenville.

Committee Positions Now Available

News Editor

Have you ever wanted to have some input into the number of days school is in session? What do you think should be done about teacher effectiveness at ECU?

Student positions are currently open on many of the committees involved with different aspects of campus life. "This is an opportunity to get student input where it's needed," said Elmer Meyer, vice chancellor for student life. Applications for committee vacancies are being taken now. Requirements are that a student have a 2.0 gpa and be in good academic standing at ECU.

Among the committees with vacancies are:

•The Admissions Committee, which recommends policies governing undergraduate admission and readmission.

•The Activities and Scheduling Review Committee which serves as an advisory body to various organizations concerning use of university facilities and ticket and admission policies.

•The Course Drop Appeals Committee has the responsibility of reviewing appeals of students denied permission to drop a course.

Meyer said only eight applications have been received for the 21 student positions. "Students have all these positions but they might lose some of them if they don't show enough interest," he said.

Meyer added that most of the committees meet only once a month "for two hours at the most."

Applications are available at the Office of the Vice Chancellor for Student Life in Whichard building, Mendenhall Student Center Information Desk and the SGA office, Residence Hall

Directors' offices and the Office of Intramural-Recreational Services in Memorial Gym.

Quiet Dorm On Hold

Staff Writer

One of the major issues on campus last year was a proposed quiet dorm — a dorm or section of a dorm where quiet time for study would be rigidly enforced.

A recommendation from the ECU Residence Life Committee concerning the site for the dorm is now being considered. According to the recommendation, the 2nd and 3rd floors of Slay dorm will become quiet areas. Fleming dorm would become all-male and Umstead all female.

Elmer Meyer, vice chancellor for student life, said the recommendations are "on hold until the implications are thought out." Some factors being considered by the Student Residence Association and the Committee on Residence Life are the need for space on-campus and off-campus housing.

Last year, more than 200 students did not return to dorms in the fall.

HUNT

The Man For The Job

The race seems like it has lasted forever. But on Nov. 6 you will finally get the chance to either send Jim Hunt to the Senate or Jesse Helms back for another six years. We believe you should send Hunt.

For students the choice is very important. In Jim Hunt you will get a hard-working, progressive senator in tune with North Carolina and the times. You have seen in his eight years as governor an optimism matched by none. He has fought for education and civil rights; he has brought industry to our state, creating jobs for many. But most of all he has governed with compassion for everyone — the farmer, the black worker and the senior citizen.

His opponent, Jesse Helms, represents negativism. He represents the old South, the one where racism was commonplace. Helms has used his seat in the Senate as a stepping stone to lead a right-wing crusade that is packed with an anti-everything ideology. He asks people to fear the world. The Senator has done very little to make North Carolinians proud and a lot to make them ashamed.

Hunt is for a responsible government that cares for its needy and behaves in a fiscally sound manner. With a pull of the lever on election day, this state can send signals to the nation that we are ready to live in the present and to stop being the promulgators of right-wing demagoguery. Students can be proud of a moderate Democrat such as Hunt who will fight for student aid programs, something Helms never did.

North Carolina is a leader. We are the 10th largest state in the Union. As Senator, Hunt will show the world we are ready to help lead the nation into the 21st century instead of backwards into the 13th. Hunt has fought a gallant battle, and in an election that may be won by half a percentage point, students must remember who will do the best job for the state; as university men and women, we must vote for the man who will best represent that tradition.

We feel the choice is clear-cut. On Nov. 6, help tell America that North Carolinians are honest, compassionate, caring, tough people. Vote for James B. Hunt Jr. in the N.C. Senate election.

Reagan For President

During the last four years, our country has seen notable changes in its economy, mostly for the better. We can only attribute this success to Ronald Reagan. He has put into effect several domestic programs, gotten rid of many bothersome government regulations and, above all, he has made America proud again.

No one can honestly say they have suffered because of Ronald Reagan — no one. Reagan has helped cut government spending, helped government agencies eliminate waste in social programs and helped America unite once again, making us a stronger country. Four years ago, a Democratic administration left Reagan with a lot of problems. And, as we have seen, Reagan has solved many of them.

As with any man, Reagan does have his faults. He should reconsider his stance on school prayer.

We think government and church should remain separate; Washington should not stick its nose where it doesn't belong. Also, abortion remains an issue that should be left up to the individual — not the government. However, our country cannot afford to let an ever-so-weakening Democratic party run this great country of ours; to do so would mean serious consequences.

Many folks at ECU have asked themselves over and over: "Am I better off than I was four years ago?" Chances are if you believe in the Reagan plan and want to continue to enjoy the new prosperity our country is going through, we think you'll definitely answer yes.

So, on Nov. 6, The East Carolinian, by a majority vote, urges you to check your ballot for Ronald Reagan. Give him four more years.

Helms Appeals To Racism

The following is a letter sent to Sen. Helms by a North Carolina student.

As a black voter in this state, I am outraged.

An article recently appeared in The Greensboro News and Record that caused me to reflect on the current state of senatorial politics in North Carolina. The article was titled, "Helms Labels Hunt a Racist in Campaign." Being an eight-year resident of North Carolina, I am well aware of the Hunt-Helms battle (some have compared it to Star Wars), but Helms' remarks were the lowest and uncalled for.

Helms stated, "I believe it's fair to say that he's (referring to Hunt) the racist in this campaign. He's trying to appeal to black citizens, but he's trying to hide it." Remarks like this by our senator made me think of what Helms represents to this state.

The campaign for senator in North Carolina has sunk to a new low, I'm afraid. "During his two six-year terms, Helms has never hired a black for his Senate staff, although his campaign press secretary, Claude Allen, is black." Helms also voted against the bill to make Martin Luther King's birthday a national holiday and tried to get the FBI to reopen the closed files on Dr. King.

In the Greenville Daily Reflector, the Helms campaign runs newspaper ads picturing Hunt in his office meeting with Jesse Jackson. The ads accuse Hunt of supporting black voter registration and being a member of the black political action committee. At the bottom, the ads state, "Is this a wise use of taxpayers funds?"

The politics of the current campaign is disgusting. Instead of focusing on critical issues such as jobs, it has become a campaign of smear tactics. As a final word, I would like to quote this verse from the Bible to Sen. Helms, "Thou shalt not bear any grudge against the children of thy people, but thou shalt love thy neighbor as thyself: I am the Lord." (Leviticus 19:18) What's wrong with supporting black voter registration? They are a part of this country, too. It is my hope that the politics of North Carolina has risen above ignorance. Where do you stand, Jesse? If you stand for what I think, I hope you're out of a job in November.

After watching the presidential debate a week ago, I am convinced more than ever that Americans should become more aware of our country's involvement in Central America. Students owe it to themselves to study and learn the facts concerning Nicaragua and El Salvador rather than blindly accepting the politically motivated disinformation espoused by the Reagan administration. Last week, the ECU Peace Committee sponsored a Central America week, and I hope all students attended as many functions as possible. Arming ourselves with the facts today will allow us to make intelligent decisions that may keep us from arming ourselves with rifles in the future.

How Holy?

It never ceases to amaze me that people who profess to be "conservative" in recent years continue to resort to such radical means as amending the Constitution to achieve their political goals. One of these goals has manifested itself in what has become known as the "School Prayer Amendment." It is really an issue with little significant value to its proponents, but which is being exploited by certain politicians, especially here in North Carolina, to play upon the emotions of our people and to cover up their intellectual shortcomings by proposing to "return God to our schools."

To begin with, this fight for the prayer amendment is being led in many cases by the parents of children who are not attending public schools. These parents have opted to provide for their children a supposedly more wholesome education in one of the thousands of so called "Christian schools," which sprang up during the '70s like wild onions. Their reasons for choosing these "Christian schools" are sometimes religious in nature, but more often than not their 19th century mentality would not allow them to accept the realities of racial integration in public education.

Secondly, if the children of parents who are so concerned about prayer don't pray enough, the fault lies with the parents and their children, not with the schools. Children in public schools now can pray in the morning, pray in the evening and pray at recess time. They can pray to themselves before eating lunch and before taking math tests. They can pray all day Saturday, every holiday, and, on Sunday, go to church and pray. Anyone who grew up attending Baptist services as I did, knows they can pray enough during two hours on Sunday morning to last most people the rest of the week, and if that isn't enough, they can go to prayer meetings on Wednesday or Thursday night and pray some more. (Incidentally, if Ronald Reagan had prayed a little more before the first debate, he might have made a better showing!)

Since the children of our dear radical-right friends have ample time to pray, just whose children are they concerned about? The answer is, everyone's but their own! They want to make sure that your children receive the "proper" religious indoctrination and are forced to see their point of view. This business of a "non-denominational" prayer is nonsense and a contradiction in terms. Proponents of school prayer say that a child who does not choose to pray can leave the room. Even if there were first- and second-grade children with the nerve to defend themselves against an iron-willed teacher, why should they suffer such indignation? After all, they are not the ones trying to force their views on others.

In the finest tradition of political demagoguery, leaders of the school prayer movement have forced even some of our good political leaders to take up the cause, not because it is right, but because they have made it a hot issue and are determined to play up emotional issues and use them to challenge the character and religious beliefs of all those who oppose it.

True religious freedom is just another reason to vote for Walter Mondale on Nov. 6.

Thanks, Mick

I just wanted to write a note of congratulations to Mick LaSalle for his letter of Oct. 25. It shows us in a somewhat humorous manner the type of mentality responsible for trying to re-elect Jesse Helms.

Thank you, Mick.

Kudos, Guys

My condolences to those who, unaware of Central America Awareness week, neglected to attend the gala performance of "Hands, a dramatic presentation of a true story of Central America." Kudos to Steve Myott and the Center Theatre. I loved the 14-foot puppets. Simply fabulous. One question, though: Who pulls the puppeteers' strings?

Scientists Ex Of Hurricane

Scientists plan to take a close-up look at the effects of Hurricane Diana on the floor of the Atlantic Ocean where the tropical storm raged for two days before striking inland Sept. 13.

"This provides an excellent opportunity — almost a laboratory setting — to study the effects of storms on the rocks and sediments on the sea bottom," said Dr. Stan Riggs, ECU geologist.

The location of the eye of Diana when it stalled off the North Carolina coast Sept. 11 and 12 "is almost precisely" the spot where Riggs and other scientists have been studying the ocean floor. It is on the outer rim of Onslow Bay on the continental shelf.

Ocean depth at this location is about 75 to 85 feet.

Riggs said he expects that the effect of the hurricane-lashed waves on the water column will be found to be extensive. "We have mapped and taken core samples and even taken underwater TV pictures so that we know exactly what was there before the storm," Riggs said. "Studies now will be like starting at point zero."

"This is one of the few times that an opportunity like this has presented itself," Riggs said. "We believe that the composition and configuration of the ocean

SGA Appropriates Funds For Choir

By GREG RIDEOUT
 Managing Editor

The SGA Legislature Monday appropriated $750 to the ECU Gospel Choir after extended debate over whether or not funding the group was a violation of the SGA rule not to give money to religious groups. The Legislature also gave $5,000 to the East Carolina Playhouse.

The bill, which had come out of the Appropriations Committee with unanimous approval, ran into opposition when Legislator Rich Wynne cautioned the body to first examine the legality of funding a group with religious overtones. Wynne made a motion to send the bill to the Rules and Judiciary committee for it to study the legal question. "Let's make sure," he said.

The motion was denied by a voice vote. Most members of the SGA agreed with legislator Dennis Kilcoyne's remarks that the group was clearly a cultural organization. Legislator Stacy Falkowitz also thought the bill should be studied, pointing to an example in Greensboro where a school was forced to stop a play it was running because of religious overtones.

SGA Vice President pointed out that the group's constitution was approved by the SGA Summer Legislature and said the legality question never came up. The Legislature approved the bill by voice vote, with two dissensions. "I think we ignored a point," Wynne told members after the vote.

The $5,000 appropriation to the Playhouse was part of tentative deal made between it and the Appropriations Committee last spring. The Playhouse had agreed to cut its request then under the condition that it could come back in the fall and seek additional funds. The money will be used for scenery and props.

The Varsity Cheerleaders received $600, along with the Poetry Forum which got $550 and the Association of Nursing Students which received $1,366.

SGA Speaker of the House Kirk Shelley pointed out at the end of the meeting that the Special Projects Committee is seeking students to help with committee projects. Interested students should stop by the Student Supply Store today between 11 a.m. and 2 p.m.

Student Discusses Grenada Invasion

With the electricity out and the fighting continuing, the students were in complete darkness. "We had a ham radio, so we were in contact with some of the military. They told us to lay down, and if anyone knocks on the door, don't answer it. At this point — and I'll have to admit, this was the scariest time for me — I didn't know who would walk in that door. I felt they could have shot us or taken us hostage. We were all scared."

Solomon and the other people in his room lay still for three hours. No longer able to do so, they just walked around the room the rest of the night. The next morning they heard the True Blue campus had been evacuated. Gran Anse was next.

"About 12 noon they moved all the students into one building — downstairs into six rooms," Solomon said, "and the rooms were right near the entrance which faced the beach." There were 40 or 50 people in each room, everyone lying face down. A white flag was placed on the building so the Marines would know where the students were.

Raleigh Paper Endorses Hunt

Greensboro newspaper suggested that "when you total up all the reasons to vote for Hunt and against Helms, the case for Hunt is overwhelming."

The News & Record criticized Helms for an "exhaustive" list of "pet causes" and said the Republican "divides people and stirs up fear — fear of communism, atheism, humanism and a host of other 'isms,' some real but many more imagined. This is not leadership, it's reaction."

The Winston-Salem Journal said that Helms is out of touch with North Carolinians. "For example, it is hard to believe that a large majority of North Carolinians share Helms' ideas on Social Security, the environment and education."

The News and Observer suggested voters "in one stroke in this election...can change the political chemistry in their state" by voting Helms out of office.

"By voting for Hunt, they can prevent a national right wing cable from getting a tighter grip on North Carolina."

Helms, the newspaper said, has used his Senate seat "for the advancement of a right-wing crusade with a single-minded political agenda."

It marked the night when Saman, the great death, called together all the condemned of past year and made them inhabit the animals. As a precaution, the Druids lit fires to watch out for the wicked spirits that about during the night. Thus came the beliefs and ghosts stalk around on Halloween.

The Romans also held a ceremony on the honor of Pomona. On that day, the peasants and apples before great bonfires as winter stores of fruits. It appears that ceremonies evolved into one to two centuries.

Traditions Change; Spirit Remains

It's that time of the year again — time to dig through the bottom of your closet and shake the dust off of last year's Halloween costume. No, Halloween is not just for kids anymore — college students enjoy the occasion just as much. And if you visit downtown Greenville tomorrow night, you're likely to see everything from ghosts and goblins to witches and vampires. For hundreds of years, people across the country have been reviving past traditions and evolving new ones. Just what is Halloween all about?

Halloween, which means "hallowed or holy evening," traditionally began as an Autumn festival. Celebrated by the ancient Druids from midnight, Oct. 31st through the following day, Halloween marked the night when Saman, the great lord of death, called together all the condemned souls of the past year and made them inhabit the bodies of animals. As a precaution, the Druids lit huge bonfires to watch out for the wicked spirits that prowled about during the night. Thus came the belief that witches and ghosts stalk around on Halloween night.

The Romans also held a ceremony on Nov. 1st in honor of Pomona. On that day, the people roasted nuts and apples before great bonfires as tokens of the winter stores of fruits. It appears that the two ceremonies evolved into one to become our Halloween.

As time went by, wierd tales of spirits and goblins began to take root and spread. Therefore, instead of being an evening hallowed to autumn and the winter stores, it became an evening enshrined to witches, ghosts and the supernatural. Even young girls took hold of the new notion and treated Halloween as a day when they could look into the future and discover their someday husbands.

It would be inaccurate to discuss the history of Halloween without relating some of the customs and superstitions associated with the day. "Ducking" for apples became and has remained a popular Halloween pastime. Many years ago, people believed that if a maiden won the apple and slept with it under her pillow, she would dream of her lover. Several other superstitions were associated with "ducking" for apples as well. For example, they believed that if the young lady ate the apple while standing in front of a mirror, combing her hair, her future husband would look over her shoulder into the glass. She was warned not to turn around or he would vanish.

Another common superstition was that spirits roamed in churchyards and cemeteries on Halloween. People believed that if a man met a spirit face-to-face, he would fall dead.

Two of the more popular symbols of Halloween are the black cat, the witch's traditional companion, and the pumpkin, a symbol of harvest. "Jack-o'-Lanterns" began with the Irish and serve to illuminate Halloween gatherings.

The modern custom of "trick-or-treating" door to door goes back to the pagan New Year feast. According to a section in a book entitled Celebrations, "The ghosts that were thought to throng about the houses of the living were greeted with a banquet-laden table. At the end of the feast, masked and costumed villagers representing the souls of the dead paraded to the outskirts of town leading the ghosts away."

The "trick" part of the custom stems from "Mischief Night," the name given to Halloween eve many years ago. On this night, people did everything from stretching ropes across roads at night to ringing doorbells to toppling over outhouses. "The basis for Mischief Night is the old belief in ghosts and faeries who roamed the roads on Halloween night curdling milk and riding people's horses to exhaustion. Any practical joke could thus be blamed on these little creatures over whom no one had any control." (Celebrations)

On a different note, campus organizations and individuals have treated Halloween as an opportunity to help others by going door to door and collecting money for such worthwhile organizations as UNICEF.

No matter how commercialized Halloween may seem to get, however, it's certain that the "spirit" will forever remain the same.

Spirit Of Rockne Haunts School Officials

(CPS) — For someone who died in 1931, former Notre Dame football coach Knute Rockne still gets around pretty well.

Over the last year the 100

The bust, affectionately known around campus as "Rockne" first vanished from Notre Dame's Rockne Memorial last May 3rd.

Two weeks later, editors at the student paper, The Observer, were surprised to receive a ransom note and photograph of the campus football legend sunning at an unnamed beach.

Among other things, the note warned that Rockne would not return "until the students get their beer," apparently referring to a new student drinking policy that restricts on-campus beer consumption, explains Observer editor Bob Vonderheide.

The color picture showed the sunglasses-clad Rockne reclining in the sand, surrounded by a boombox radio, a keg of beer, and a frisbee.

In the meantime, the empty pedestal in Rockne Memorial became too much to bear for many students and administrators. Hoping to recapture at least some of the aura of the missing Rockne, officials replaced it with a smaller replica dubbed "Rockne Junior."

Over the summer campus police, befuddled by the mystery of the missing bust, began working on leads that Rockne was note and several photographs showing Rockne in a Purdue sweatshirt, standing in front of a welcome sign to Purdue University in Lafayette, Ind.

"I went on a long road trip to see this game," the note began, "and I'm really disappointed. The football team has never scored this poorly."

The one-page, typewritten message was signed "Knute Rockne."

"We still have no idea why the notes and photos were sent to us," says Vonderheide.

Rockne, it seems, isn't the first Notre Dame sculpture to take flight in the night.

"There was a similar disappearance in the 1950s involving the statue of Father Theodore Sorin — founder of the university — which was kept on display in one of the residence halls," recalls Dick Conklin, public information director and long-time Notre Dame staffer.

"The statue mysteriously disappeared one night, and later we began getting postcards with postmarks from all around the world — Paris, London, Rome — saying things like 'Having a wonderful time, wish you were here,'" and signed 'Father Sorin'."

Eventually, Father Sorin was found buried in a golf course sand trap, "none the worse for wear."

Both the Observer and The Notre Dame Monthly, the campus magazine, did stories last spring recounting the Sorin statue caper, Vonderheide says.

Rockne's bust vanished only days after the articles appeared. It finally was returned at a Sept. 23rd pep rally.

"It just showed up during the rally," Vonderheide recalls, and elated authorities quickly whisked Rockne off to secure quarters.

But while everyone was celebrating Rockne's return, the worst happened.

Rockne Junior vanished.

In its place the culprits left a jack-o'-lantern and two handwritten notes, one of which read "Here's a buck for your troubles."

Chief Terry still won't disclose the contents of the second note.

He suspects the theft was "an inside job," because the bust was anchored and locked to the pedestal in the lobby.

"They must have had a key," he surmises, "because the lock was not broken."

No one has heard from Rockne Junior since.

Big Rockne, meanwhile, is back on display in the lobby of the Rockne Memorial, this time anchored to the pedestal by steel rods and concrete.

Terry "thinks" the bust is safe from future pranksters, but he also concedes there's really no way to stop Rockne from running off with another group of determined pranksters, short of removing the bust from public display.

soft moonlight/I held you tight./Promises we made, and dreams we shared/Could they still be there." The story ends on a positive note: "The day is through, and I'm holding you./In my arms again/Our second chance, for an old romance/To be new again."

"Can't Stop Thinkin' About You" breaks away from Sugarcreek's typical sound to produce a melody both refreshing and unforgettable. Beginning with a soft, soothing beat, the song develops into a work full of vigor and intensity.

The majority of Sugarcreek's songs are short, but the lyrics are strong and to the point. Tim Clark seems to pour his heart out in "Never Say Forever" and "What's Gonna Happen."

Other songs on Rock The Night Away are "White Hot," "Lonely Blue," "Got My Eye On Her," "I Don't Mean Enough To You," "Love So Strong," "One Way Street," and "What A Night."

Although Sugarcreek has been together for 13 years, they have been referred to by some as an "overnight" success. Thus far the group has opened for groups like Huey Lewis & The News, Cheap Trick and Pablo Cruise, and have performed across the United States.

Band members Rick Lee, keyboards and vocals; Lynn

By the looks of things, Sugarcreek's Rock The Night Away is making its way to the top. Samples, drums and vocals; Mike Barber, bass and vocals; Jerry West, guitar and vocals; Tim Clark, vocals and percussion; and Michael Hough, guitar and vocals, are destined for ultimate success, and Rock The Night Away may be just what they need to get there.

Visiting Artist Paints Mural

By DANIEL MAURER
Assistant Feature Editor

The walls of the Jenkins Building's Art Gallery will soon bear the emotions and ideas of visiting artist Joan Moment. Moment, whose stay at ECU is limited to one semester, has begun work on two murals. These paintings, 10 x 12 and 10 x 25, are her largest works to date.

Moment, an assistant professor, is currently on leave from California State University in Sacramento. She spent the past year in New York City where her work was greatly influenced by the architectural design of some of the older buildings. Downtown Manhattan houses numerous examples of 18th and 19th century architecture which features the column, a characteristic of ancient Greek and Roman designs.

Moment has since incorporated the column and what she feels it represents into her work. Until that time her work had been based primarily on planetary subjects in concentric ellipses. She feels that her planetary subjects in part symbolize the human soul. In fact, Moment said, "...It is embarrassing for me to admit that what I'm after is an image of the soul."

Moment's attitude toward her painting is one of spontaneity.

Operation Sunshine Brings Joy To Girls

By DEIRDRE McENALLY Staff Writer

This year, 30 to 35 girls ages 7 to 13 are getting a good start in life, thanks to members of Operation Sunshine and Gloria Pearsall, activities director. The non-profit organization, which is funded by the United Way, began in 1968 as a means of keeping these girls off the streets and involved in constructive activities.

The 11 members of its board of directors and two regular volunteers oversee such activities as cooking, sewing, arts and crafts, and speakers. The program operates from 3 p.m. to 5 p.m. on school days and from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. during summer vacation. Transportation for the girls is provided from many area elementary schools.

In addition, the girls are involved in two special projects each year. They donate food-baskets to one or two needy families at Thanksgiving and they donate and distribute toys to the children in the Pediatric Ward at Pitt County Memorial Hospital each Christmas.

Sororities, fraternities and other campus organizations are encouraged to contribute their services to Operation Sunshine in any way possible.

Support the organization that keeps such valuable services as this in business — give to the United Way.

'Soldier's Play' Earns An Ovation

By BRIAN RANGELEY
Staff Writer

A Soldier's Play, by Charles Fuller, opened and closed last Friday night in Wright Auditorium. The one-time production by the Negro Ensemble Company is highly acclaimed as one of off-Broadway's best plays of the 1960s.

The story, told mostly in flashback, is about a captain's investigation of a sergeant's murder, set at Fort Neal, Louisiana in 1944. Both men happen to be black, which of course causes complications.

The play never bogs down in some heavy "statement" about the "black experience" in 1944. The prejudices and injustices are evident throughout the play and are necessary to the plot.

Surprisingly enough, the deepest hatred towards blacks comes from the murdered Sergeant Vernon C. Waters himself. Actor Stephen A. Jones aptly portrays Sgt. Waters as a man raised by his father to act, walk, talk, and inevitably think like a white man. Tragically for the sergeant, his ambition evolved into self-hatred. After all, he was black too. He took his anger out on his men, two of them in particular.

Private First Class Melvin Peterson and Private C. J. Memphis are at the opposite ends of a personality spectrum. Peterson is a hot-tempered man who isn't afraid to stand face-to-face against the sergeant when he feels unfairly treated. Memphis, on the other hand, would be happy playing his guitar and singing spirituals at the edge of a cotton field.

In Water's words, Memphis is a "...no-good, yessuh-nossuh kinda nigger," and Waters has only contempt for Memphis. On the other hand, Waters secretly respects Peterson for being able to stand up for his rights.

But these two men aren't the only ones motivated to kill Waters. Other men in the squad also have reason. There is always the possibility of KKK involvement. And two white soldiers had beaten the sergeant the night he was killed. So, you can see that the plot is an intriguing one. Geoffrey Eaving does an excellent job as Captain Richard Davenport, the investigator assigned to the murder.

Davenport is everything that Waters tried to be — authoritative, confident, efficient, successful. But he didn't try to be that way. He didn't play the part of a white man. He became the man he wanted to be without despising what he was. And, like Waters, Davenport wasn't without obstacle. Upon meeting Capt. Davenport, the Company Commander, Capt. Charles Taylor (played by Danny Goldring) tells Davenport that dark skin and rank just doesn't look right. Taylor also swears he will do his best to stop any investigation that is being conducted by a negro.

Although the play has many conflicting elements, the dramatic tension failed to keep me on the edge of my seat. But it did keep my attention. Once, during a jail scene, Private Smalls (Lanyard A. Williams) began to sob heavily before confessing what he knew to Davenport, and half the audience laughed.

The flashbacks weaved in and out of the play in an interesting way. As one of the characters recalled a past incident, a light brightened the blank at the back of the stage. The front lights dimmed, and the action shifted to the rear of the stage.

Far and away, however, the cast's acting and Douglas Turner Ward's directing were worthy of the standing ovation at the curtain call. To the cast and crew of A Soldier's Play, I say, "Bravo."

Grifton Seeking Creativity

The Grifton Shad Festival is looking for a theme song which has a "catchy" but easy-to-sing tune and is representative enough of Shad Festival events to be used every year.

Shad Festival officers authorized a contest to select an appropriate song, noting that informal requests for theme songs have been made for several years, with at least three musicians having said they would "think about it and come up with something."

To date, no one has.

Rules are simple: (1) Tune must be either original or already in the public domain so that no permission will be needed from anyone else for it to be used; (2) All entries will become the property of the Grifton Shad Festival, Inc.; (3) Verses should have some reference to major annual events of the Shad Festival but be general enough that they can be used year after year; (4) Tune should be easy to sing and play. A trophy and $50 will be awarded to the winner of the contest.

Suggestions are also being sought for a secondary theme for the 1985 Shad Festival which will take place April 17-21. While fish is always the primary theme, each year a contest is held to choose a secondary theme which will stimulate creative entries in the parade and provide different ideas for costumes and decorations. The winner of the 1985 theme contest will receive a trophy and be recognized in the souvenir brochure (5000 copies are printed and distributed free of charge).

Persons wishing to enter either or both of the Shad Festival contests should send entries to Grifton Shad Festival, Box 928, Grifton, NC 28530. Further information may also be received from this address.

The Grifton Shad Festival is held each April and is really "an excuse for a community-wide party." Shad (a migratory fish which annually returns to spawn to its birthplace) provides the coordinating theme for a wide variety of athletic competitions, a parade, a street dance, crafts, food, and fun to appeal to all ages and interests. Plays on words around fish or shad add to the fun (bingo is "Shad-O," liar's contest is "Fishy Tales," 1-mi., 2-mi., and 10 KM runs are called "Spring Shad Run," the 27-mi. bicycle race is "27 miles up the creek with just a pedal").

Fish fry, fish stew, clogging, art show, queen pageant, canoe race, barbershop quartet singing, and tournaments in bass and hickory shad fishing, softball, golf, archery, horseshoes and tennis are among other events.

A unique feature is the Grifton Historical Museum with its 200-year-old loom, rug hooking and spinning demonstrations, and exhibits on area culture including tuscarora and prehistoric

South Carolina Now 7-0

National Title In Sight For Morrison, Gamecocks

By RANDY MEWS
Sports Editor

COLUMBIA, S.C. — Reserve quarterback Mike Hold and runningback Kent Hagood combined for 328 yards Saturday to lead eighth ranked South Carolina to a 42-20 football victory over ECU.

Allen Mitchell started the game for the Gamecocks, but he proved ineffective as his team fell behind 10-7 early in the second quarter. USC coach Joe Morrison then inserted Hold with 12:27 left in the first half, and on his first play from scrimmage, he connected with Ira Hillary for a 71-yard touchdown reception.

Hold, who completed nine of 16 passes for 210 yards, continued his assault on the Pirate secondary later in the second quarter when he lofted a 26-yard touchdown score to Chris Corley to give the Gamecocks a comfortable 21-10 halftime lead.

Although both teams played a good first half of football, Corley's reception marked the first sustained drive by either team in the opening two quarters as Hold marched his team 68 yards in six plays.

Prior to that, it had been a game of big plays. USC opened the scoring on a 74-yard Hagood (12 carries, 118 yards) romp from scrimmage and Hold's 71-yard aerial, while ECU scored on a 64-yard bomb from Darrell Speed to Ricky Nichols and a 44-yard Jeff Heath field goal.

The Pirates played a surprisingly good half of football in front of the 73,800 gathered at Williams-Brice Stadium, but as has happened many times throughout the course of the season, several defensive lapses gave the opposition a halftime lead they didn't deserve.

On Hagood's 74-yard dash down the sideline, the Pirate defense appeared to have Mitchell wrapped up on an option play, but USC's starting quarterback pitched the ball as he was going down — and Hagood did the rest.

Also, on Hold's 74-yard touchdown pass, ECU's secondary appeared to break down as the Pirate defender covering the play didn't react to the ball until it was already in the air, leaving Hillary wide open to coast into the endzone.

In the second half, Hold engineered a perfect drive as he carried his team 89 yards in 10 plays to give the Gamecocks a 28-10 advantage with 7:45 left in the third quarter.

Hold threw for 51 yards during the drive, ran for another 25 on an option and then pitched wide to Thomas Dendy who ran it in from seven yards out for the score.

On the next series, Speed got ECU moving when he hit Henry Williams for a 40-yard pick up to move the ball just 25 yards shy of the endzone. But Speed sustained a minor injury on the next play, and reserve quarterback Ron Jones was called to duty.

Jones was able to move the team to another first down to the 14, but on an attempted option play, he lost control of the pitch and the Gamecocks recovered.

South Carolina returned the favor three plays later on a Dendy fumble, and ECU once again had a chance as they took over on USC's 42-yard line.

The Pirates moved the ball down to the 22-yard line, but an illegal motion penalty halted the drive, and ECU had to settle for a 44-yard Heath field goal.

USC put the game out of reach on their next series as they drove 80 yards in just six plays. Raynard Brown and Quinton Lewis ripped off runs of 21 and 15 yards respectively to move the ball to ECU's 42-yard line. From there, Lewis lofted a balloon on a halfback-option pass that appeared a likely target for an interception, but Eric Poole stole the ball from ECU's Keith Ford on the one-yard line. Lewis then carried the ball over on the next play to give the Gamecocks a commanding 35-13 lead with 11:46 left in the game.

The two teams traded touchdowns in the final minutes of play to close out the scoring at 42-20.

Pirate head coach Ed Emory said his team's inability to take advantage of good field position and poor play by the secondary cost ECU the game, but he also gave credit to his conqueror.

"Joe Morrison and his staff have built a great program here, and if they keep playing with the same enthusiasm as they throughout the season, they'll have a shot at going all the way."

Emory also said that despite the loss, this was one of the most enjoyable road trips of the year for his team, and he hopes the series can continue beyond next year's last scheduled meeting between the two teams in Ficklen Stadium.

Kent Hagood ran for 118 yards and a touchdown on only 12 carries as he helped South Carolina defeat ECU 42-20 Saturday afternoon in Columbia.

Swim Team Holds Annual Intrasquad Meet

By RICK MCCORMAC
Staff Writer

Both the men and women swimmers staged their annual Purple and Gold competition Thursday night in Minges Natatorium, with both the men's and women's races being very evenly matched.

In the men's competition, both the Purple and the Gold team ended up with 56 points, and the results in the women's battle were nearly as close as the Purple team defeated the Gold team 56 to 55.

In the men's competition, Bruce Brockschmidt and Keith Kaut led the way for the Purple team, with Brockschmidt winning both the 200 freestyle and the 200 butterfly, as well as participating on the winning 400 freestyle relay team.

Kaut won the 100 freestyle, as well as the 50 freestyle, and participated on the winning 400 freestyle relay team.

Also performing well for the Purple team was Stratton Smith who won the 200 backstroke, and finished second in the 200 individual medley.

Chris Pittelli was the leading performer for the Gold team, finishing first in the 200 individual medley, as well as swimming on the winning 400 medley relay team. Pittelli also had a second place finish in the 100 freestyle.

Pat Brennan also had two first place finishes for the Gold team, capturing both the 200 breaststroke and the 1000 freestyle.

In the women's competition, the winning Purple team was led by Scotia Miller who finished first in the 500 freestyle, second in the 200 freestyle and participated on the winning 400 freestyle relay team.

Nancy James won the 100 freestyle and finished second in the 50 freestyle.

Caycee Poust also had a first and second place finish, as she captured the 200 individual medley and was the runner-up in the 200 backstroke.

Chris Holman was the leading swimmer for the Gold team as she won both the 200 backstroke, and 200 freestyle. Holman was also on the Gold team's winning 400 medley relay team.

Jenni Pierson also won two events for the Gold team, and had a second place finish. Pierson was on the winning 400 medley relay team, and she won the 50 freestyle. Her second place finish was in the 100 freestyle.

ECU coach Rick Kobe was very pleased with both teams' performance in the Purple and Gold competition.

"They swam as well as we could have been expected," Kobe said. "I'm very pleased with the performances of both the men's and women's teams. We swim some times that you really don't expect to see until later in the season."

"We are exactly where we want to be, both the men's and women's teams were very impressive."

The top finishers for the men's competition and the team they swam for:

400 Medley Relay: Scott Robinson, Al Smith, Gregor Wray, Chris Pittelli (Gold), 3:45.5

Standout ECU return man Henry Williams looks for running room against South Carolina last weekend. Williams returned two kickoffs for 82 yards.

Williams Shines In Defeat

By SCOTT COOPER
Staff Writer

Despite a 42-20 loss to eighth ranked South Carolina on Saturday, senior flanker Henry Williams displayed his impressive running ability.

Williams returned five punts for a total of 83 yards. One return went for a touchdown until the referee said that Williams stepped out of bounds near mid-field. However, the capacity crowd of 73,800 did get to see the patented Henry Williams flip.

In kickoff returns, Williams was almost flawless. In only two chances to make a return, Williams totalled 82 yards. His longest return was for 47 yards in which he was one tackle from going all the way.

The reason Henry only got two chances on kickoff returns was due to the Gamecocks kicking the ball out of the endzone.

"We had a lot of concern with Williams all week during practice, and he almost broke a couple on Saturday," Gamecock head coach Joe Morrison commented. "That's why we had Hagler (USC kicker) kicking the ball out of the endzone."

"It was really frustrating for me — their coach (Morrison) didn't want to take that chance," Williams said. "I believe I could have broke one or two if I got some more chances, but I don't blame him for doing that."

Although ECU let the game slip away in the second half, Williams played well enough to put the Pirates in good position when given the chance. "The aim of the special teams is to get good field position," Williams remarked. "Against a team like South Carolina you've got to be in good field position."

Last season Williams led the nation in kickoff returns (31.1 yard average). This year he's 41st nationally, though his output against the Gamecocks should move him up considerably. "I've had a few ups and downs earlier this season," he said, "but I think I had one of the best performances I've had all year against South Carolina."

After his celebrated junior season, Williams became the focus of many scouts around the country. "I'm not trying to impress anybody, I just want the team to win," Williams commented. "If they (the scouts) think I'm good enough to play, I'm going to take that chance."

Although Williams will be looked at by professional scouts in his last two games, he knows practice is just as important. "Everyday in practice, I make it like a game," Henry said. "I give it all my effort and try to keep everybody pumped up."

With Ricky Nichols having a big day receiving, Henry was only able to catch one pass, but it went for 40 yards. He expects to be more a part of the passing game in the future. "I go out and concentrate on the ball," Williams explained. "I practice my pass routes. It has paid off, and hopefully it will continue to."

Henry had an impressive high school career at Rosa Fort High School in Tunica, Mississippi. He was the most valuable player and leading scorer in his senior year.

He also holds the state record in the long jump with a mark of 24' 5", and was the track team's most valuable player finishing third in the 100 and 200 meters at the state championships.

Before coming to ECU, Henry played at Northwest Junior College in Senatobia, Miss. He was All-Miss Jr. College second team in 1981. Also, he was Jr. College All-American and a member of the JUCO national All-Star team. His team won the National Junior College Championship in 1982.

Henry also holds the Mississippi state record in the 200-meter dash with a time of 21.6. His junior college coach Bobby Ray Franklin said Henry was most coordinated and by far the best special teams player that he had ever coached.

"No. 15 was the fastest guy that I've ever played against," Gamecock defensive back Rick Rabune stated. "That's why we needed pressure on the quarterback from our big guys."

Henry credited the Gamecocks for their play against the Pirates. "They capitalized on our mistakes," Williams explained. "If they continue to play the way they are, they have a chance to go all the way."

"We have to take each game one by one — like Coach Emory said," Williams remarked. "And I hope that everything will turn out all right."

Henry Williams has dazzled Pirate fans for almost two years, and chances are you can expect him to give the NFL something to flip over in the years to come.

Clemson Slips Past Wolfpack, Pitt-Navy Tie

Here's how East Carolina's opponents did in their games on Saturday the 27th.
Florida State: The Seminoles had an open date this week.

Temple: A tackle by sophomore linebacker Vince Danials for a safety gave Virginia Tech the winning margin over Temple in their game on Saturday, as they defeated the Owls 9-7. Danials' safety came in the second quarter after the ball was fumbled on a handoff from Lee Saltz to Paul Palmer.

Central Michigan: Bowling Green lost to the Chippiwaa's of Central Michigan 42-21 in a rout on Saturday. Tailback Curtis Adams had a great game, as did quarterback Ron Fillmore. Central Michigan plays Northern Illinois next week.

Georgia Southern: The Golden Eagles trounced Valdosta State 38-8 in a 1-AA game on Saturday. Tracy Ham, the quarterback of the Golden Eagles, had another good game. The Eagles play Pirate opponent East Tennessee State next week.

N.C.State: The Wolfpack piled up 378 yards of total offense against the league's toughest defense and held a very powerful offense to 100 yards in the second quarter, but despite all this lost 35-34 to Clemson on Saturday. Turnovers were the key thing that kept State from victory. Two lost fumbles were turned into touchdowns for the Tigers, and they also picked off two interceptions. State was leading at the half 24-21, but in the first four minutes of the third quarter Clemson scored two touchdowns. State was able to come back but fell just short.

Pittsburgh: Sophomore quarterback Bill Byrne ran for a touchdown, threw for another, and passed for the tying two-point conversion in an amazing 13 second span to help Navy tie Pitt 28-28. The Midshipman trailed 28-14 with 1:28 remaining when Byrne scored and Todd Solomen missed the point after. Then Navy picked up the onside kick to get the ball back. He then threw a 16-yard scoring pass to John Lobb with 34 left. They tied it up with a pass to Mark Stevens to set off a wild celebration on the bench. Pittsburgh is now 1-6-1 on the season.

Tulsa: Texas Tech defeated Tulsa on Saturday 20-17. The Hurricanes only had 73 yards rushing to Texas Tech's 441. Nate Harris, defensive back for Tulsa did have a good game though, as he picked off three Tech passes. Tech had to score 14 points in the fourth quarter to get back into the game, and only won the game with a field goal with only 1:56 left in the game.

East Tennessee State: James Madison lost to the Buccaneers 9-6 on Saturday. Irving Campell, the kicker, did all of the scoring for ETSU with three field goals. He kicked the last one with 10 seconds left to go in the game to win the game. They play Georgia Southern next week.

South Carolina: see page 10.

Southwest Louisiana: The Ragin Cajun's defeated Southern Mississippi 13-7 in a game that was tight down to the wire. SW Louisiana scored first on a 71-yard pass from Don Wallace to Pierre Perkins. That was it until the third quarter when Southern Miss' Tom Compton ran it in for seven on a fake field goal try. Tom Brossard kicked a field goal to put the Cajun's up 10-7, but then Southern Miss drove down to the 2 yardline. The defense held, and Brossard was able to kick one more field goal to put the game out of reach.

Southern Miss: The Eagles lost to USL. See above.

While the intramural soccer season is just getting underway, other activities have finished up with some exciting results.

The punt, pass and kick competition ended with Stuart Holland and Johnnie R. Prott winning the overall in the men's and women's division respectively. Runners-up in the event were Bob Corris and Tracy Cole.

Old intramural records were crushed during the men's segment of the contest as Stuart Holland set two new records in both the punting and kicking events, while Russell Ebelber also set a new record in the passing event with a toss of 176' 2".

Individual honors in the women's division went to Tracy Cole with a punt of 80' 6", Maureen Jicka in the passing competition and Johnnie Prott kicking for the individual victory.

In the finals of the co-rec softball tournament, Sig Ep and Friends defeated the Dodge City Hustlers to win the season after defeating the No. 1 ranked Mixed Sticks.

Co-Rec flag football, bowling and co-rec tennis are only in the beginning stages with teams geared up to toss, roll and smash their way into the championship playoffs.

Soccer matches have just begun but there are several teams showing up first in various divisions. LAGNEF has a 2-0 record in the men's residence hall division. In men's independent games, the NADS are on top. Alpha Delta Pi and Chi Omega are both leading the women's divisions also boasting 2-0 records.

The tennis tournament is bouncing along as Jackson Cecil and Rogerson Thomas prepare to compete in the semi-finals. The open divisions are up for grabs as several players continue to knock out competitors on their way to victory.

Track meet results will be publicized as soon as the events are over along with all the results of other intramural activities.

The ECU volleyball team snapped a 16-game losing streak in an unusual way — they beat a team that wasn't on their schedule!

After falling to St. Andrews Saturday in two straight games 15-8, 15-7, the Pirates beat Lynchburg 15-9, 15-11 — a team which, through an administrative scheduling error, didn't appear on ECU's printed schedule.

Traci Smith and Martha McQuillan starred for ECU, but errors were too much to overcome against St. Andrews. "It's good to get a win!" said Coach Imogene Turner. "We still were disorganized, though," she added. "We hope we can close on a good note."

The Pirates are at home tonight against Atlantic Christian at 7 p.m.

Men Netters Take Fifth At ECAC-South Tournament

By TONY BROWN
Staff Writer

The ECU men's tennis team ended the fall season on a good note despite a fifth-place finish in the ECAC-South Tournament over the weekend.

The only seeded position awarded the Pirates was a number four seed to Davis Bagley at the number six singles spot. Six ECU players drew the top-two seeded players as opponents in the first round, but good play in the consolation brackets indicated the team will be ready for a repeat of last year's fine spring season.

After losing in the first round, Dan LaMont led the way for the Pirates with a convincing 10-1 win over Philippe Pauget of American University in the semi-finals of the consolation, then took the finals with a hustling 6-4, 6-2 effort over William & Mary's Mike Stanczak.

Galen Treble also took a consolation victory in a hard-fought battle with W&M's Kevin Kearns. After easily handling American University's Matt Long 10-2, Treble fell behind 3-1 against Kearns in the first set but came back to win 7-5 in a tie-breaker, then repeated the same score for the title.

David Creech gained yet another consolation title for the Pirates after losing a valiant effort against no. two seed John Christensen of Richmond. Creech won the first set 6-2, but the momentum shifted as Christensen rallied in the last two sets 6-4, 7-5 to defeat Creech.

Creech didn't let the close first round loss affect him, though, as he rallied to take the consolation title. First beating David McGee of UNC-W 10-8, he went on to play an outstanding series against George Mason's Dave Sileo. Following a 6-3 loss in the opening set, Creech fought back for two 6-4 sets to take win.

Greg Willis had the misfortune of drawing the top seed in both his first-round singles and doubles matches. He fell to number one seed Scott McTeer of Richmond 6-2, 6-2, then lost to Dan Gilsenan of UNC-Wilmington 10-7 in the pro set of the consolations.

Willis' score was almost duplicated as the no. three seed from James Madison, Gary Schendell, handed ECU's David Turner a 6-1, 6-2 loss in the opener, then Turner dropped a close one in the first round of the consolation by an identical 10-7 score.

Davis Bagley captured the only first round victory for the Pirates against Tommy Allen of UNC-W 6-2, 6-3, but lost out in the semi-finals against James Madison's no. one seed Rob Smith 6-1, 6-1.

In the doubles play, ECU advanced to two consolation semi-finals, but failed to win any titles. Willis and Turner lost the opening round match against Trink-Hanfing of James Madison 6-3, 6-3, then came back with a semi-final consolation win over Gilsenan and Gratz of UNC-W. The Pirates lost out in the finals to Geiger-Young of George Mason 4-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Avery-Creech made the consolation finals after losing a tough 6-3, 3-6, 3-6 match against no. one seed Wagner-Stuart of Navy. ECU gained the finals by defeating UNC-W's Mauer-Bowen 10-5, but lost the finals vs Sileo-Masters of George Mason 4-6, 6-0, 6-4.

Coach Pat Sherman viewed the tournament and fall season play as much improved over last year, despite similar overall records. "We've upgraded our level of competition greatly," she said. "Dan LaMont played a super tournament," she added, saying "He continued his super hustle and smart, controlled play."

"Treble played his best matches of the fall" Sherman said. "Creech played the best tennis of his life at the ECAC-South tourney and Scott and Avery played the finest match I have seen any ECU doubles team play in the past three years."

Sherman found the tournament results indicative of the Pirates' ability to compete very strongly in the fall season. "This team represented ECU well," she said. "We're looking forward to a good spring season."

Booters Drop Three

By SCOTT POWERS
Assistant Sports Editor

The soccer team fell to the Spiders of Richmond Sunday, 4-2, continuing a string of defeats dating back to Oct. 10 when they defeated Virginia Wesleyan.

The loss, which was the Pirates fifth in a row, culminated a disappointing week for coach Steve Brody's charges.

The team began the week with a 7-0 loss at the hands of Navy on Oct. 21, in what Brody called an all-around bad display by the team.

"We let Navy take the game to us," Brody said. "I think that our players were in awe of their program."

"When we got out on the field, we realized that they weren't that good, but we never did take the game to them."

The team then travelled to James Madison on October 23, and there they played the Dukes tightly before finally succumbing 3-2.

The Pirates' scoring was done by Brian Colgan, who had two goals in the losing cause.

The game was played in wet conditions, and Brody thinks that the poor field conditions hurt his team.

"The field had a lot to do with our play," he commented. "We should have won the game, but all three of their scores were stupid ones. Jesse Daugherty (the Pirates goalkeeper) didn't play a very good game."

The team's third loss of the week came at the hands of Richmond Saturday. Once again, as has been the story for most of the season, the booters fell behind early, only to see their comeback efforts fall short.

After falling behind early in the first half 2-0, the team rallied to pull within 2-1 late in the half when David Pere scored his first goal of the season. Pere scored again early in the second half to draw the Pirates into a tie with Richmond at 2-2. From there on out, however, the Spiders took control of the scoring as they added two more second half goals to take the victory 4-2.

"We just broke down on defense," Brody said. "We gave up four stupid goals in the game. We had chances to win the game, but we didn't capitalize on them."

With the losses, the team's record fell to 2-13-1, and with all chances for a winning season lost, they must now regroup and try to finish the season on a positive note.

"Considering all of the losses, the team is doing about as well as expected," Brody commented on the morale of the team. "We've played six or seven games in a row that we should have won, but we just haven't done it."

The team will try to rebound against William & Mary at home tomorrow before traveling to North Carolina Wesleyan to participate in the N. C. Wesleyan Classic Nov. 3-4, before closing their season with home games against UNC-Wilmington on
