Appropriations For Greeks Debated

By JENNIFER JENDRASIAK
News Editor

SGA funding, particularly to Greek organizations, became the subject of debate at a forum held for SGA candidates at the Kappa Alpha house Monday night.

All twelve SGA candidates spoke at the forum, sponsored by campus Greek organizations, listing their qualifications and answering audience questions.

The subject of funding was first addressed as the three candidates for the office of treasurer spoke. The question of assessing the amount of funding allocated to an organization was dealt with.

Treasurer Candidate Dwayne Wiseman, a member of the SGA appropriations committee, said he feels "money is currently allocated by need and everybody is looked at." He added that the determination of need is based on individual circumstances.

James Braswell said he feels the SGA "should take into consideration what's best for the student body as a whole and how they can enlighten the rest of us." However, he said, organizations have the responsibility to inform the SGA of their needs.

Candidate Grant Smith said organizations should be funded on the basis of past funding patterns.

Funding was much more hotly debated as the vice-presidential candidates spoke to the group.

Chris Tomasic said he feels the Schools of Art and Music do not receive enough funding and need to be helped because "they are ambassadors of ECU." He cited an appropriation of $1325 to the Inter Fraternity Council to aid with Spring Rush and said he felt funds should also have been allocated to black fraternities, which are not governed by the IFC. He proposed adding $1 to tuition each semester to aid with funding of various programs.

Brian Lassiter said "he supports the present funding system," adding that "participants in organizations cannot expect to be funded for everything." He said he feels decisions about funding should be made based on how the effect the entire student body.

Lee Lane said he feels "everyone has gotten a fair shake in this year's appropriations."

In response to questions concerning the candidates' support of bills such as the one appropriating funds for Spring Rush, Lane said he felt the bill was fair "because IFC hasn't received any money for five years." Lassiter added that he feels "the Greek system is important."

The presidential candidates presented their platforms, discussing such issues as parking, a book exchange program, teacher evaluation and student apathy.

Following the candidates' presentations, the audience again brought up the question of appropriations for Greek organizations.

"It's time the Greeks got their fair share, I'm glad they're using it and are actively involved," said Kirk Shelley. "Everyone pays student fees, so they should have a right to them," said David Brown. "Greeks should be funded because they are a part of the school."

Mike McPartland said he felt the Greeks deserved funding because they present a good image of ECU and are "recognized with respect."

All three presidential candidates said that, if defeated, they intend to stay involved with the SGA. "It's a terrible thing to waste experience," Shelley said. McPartland said he would like "to work and help," while Brown said he would stay involved "and try to bring out facts and present things as they should be presented."

Active roles on Board of Trustees' committees will be pursued by all three if elected. All are interested in working on the Student Life Committee.

Both Brown and McPartland have plans for dealing with apathy in student government. McPartland said he believes students are getting involved for the wrong reasons, while Brown said he believes apathy is often the "result of poor leadership."

Shelley, on the other hand, said he feels this year's SGA has done a good job, and "outstanding committee work." He said he feels decisions are better made in small groups and this accounts for the seeming apathy of the legislature.

Candidates for the position of SGA Secretary Maryvonne Draper, Ann Scarborough and Lisa Carroll also presented their platforms to the group.

All SGA candidates will speak again today at a forum to be held at 12:30 p.m. on the mall. Opportunities will be provided for students to question the candidates on the issues.

Foodland Burns

The Foodland supermarket building at 1414 Charles Blvd. was destroyed in a fire Sunday. Investigators said the fire apparently started from the heating system in the rear of the building and spread between the roof and ceiling. Replacement value of the building was estimated at $136,000. Two ECU students, Erick Ojaka and John Hamilton Neubeck, both of Scott dorm, were arrested and charged with looting following the blaze.

Student Legislators Approve Transfer Of Funds To Groups

By HAROLD JOYNER
Assistant News Editor

The Minority Student Organization received approval from the SGA Monday for a transfer of funds to attend a convention in Atlanta.

MSO President Jimmie Hackett said $180 was needed to help with traveling costs. The theme of the convention will be "Blacks on White Campuses," Hackett said.

The student legislators passed the bill by consent.

Scott Parker, general manager of the ECU playhouse, asked the SGA for a transfer of funds of $3,097 to help pay for rental of costumes and set designs for the upcoming production of Hamlet. He said it would be to the playhouse's advantage to rent these items, instead of constructing them here on campus. The shipping and cleaning costs are not known, Parker said, but he added that he didn't think they would exceed more than $3,000.

The legislators passed the proposal by consent.

The appropriations committee told legislators that a request for funds by ECU Cheerleaders had been turned down.

The cheerleaders recently attended a meeting and asked the SGA for $298. However, the Appropriations Committee said the SGA does not allow funding for food or boarding. A voice vote was taken and the legislators denied funds for the Cheerleaders' expenses. The expense would be picked up by the Athletic Department, the committee reported to the legislators.

SRA Supports Recommendation To Keep Council Structure

By HAROLD JOYNER
Assistant News Editor

The Student Residence Association recently gave support to the Department of Residence Life proposal that would allow the system of Residence Councils to remain as it stands. However, the fate of the Council still remains in the hands of the Department of Residence Life.

Mike Kleinert, president of College Hill, was a major supporter in keeping the Areas intact. He said area council members, especially those from College Hill, are more involved in SRA. "If it weren't for representatives from College Hill voting at the SRA meeting, there wouldn't have been a vote."

Central Campus President

Elizabeth Page said other N.C. college campuses do not have Area Councils and ECU should do away with them. "It makes the campus more divided," she said, "and it's hard to get personal with the residents."

Currently, each Area Residence Council consists of 15 members, many of whom had to be "begged" into taking these positions, Page said. However, Kleinert said College Hill has not had any problems in finding students to fulfill this obligation and added that upcoming positions for next year have already been filled.

"It's very important that we keep the councils," Kleinert said. "The extra people help bring strength to SRA and provide each area with more personal things than if another organization delegated the money," he said.

President of West Campus Elizabeth Tyson said she would also like to see the areas remain. "There is a lot of work that is done by Area presidents and their staff. If it were done away with, the burden would fall on someone else. Also you can't satisfy everybody, so the Area Councils have done a good job in making each dorm more well-rounded."

Associate Dean and Director of Residence Life Carolyn Fulghum said there was not enough interest in the areas to warrant their existence. However, she went on to say that the number one interest in such a large organization is the residence hall itself "and the area councils do an excellent job in pulling together all the houses into one group."

She said each area has its own individual strengths and weaknesses, so it would not be fair to say one area would benefit from the council and another would not.

Page added that another benefit of eliminating the areas would be that it would bring more money to other areas as well as making SRA a stronger organization. If a dorm student has bought an SRA card, three dollars go to the residence hall, two dollars to area councils and one dollar to SRA. "If Central and West campus had $10,000, a lot of improvements could be made," she said.

Fulghum said the recommendation by SRA would be considered in the reorganization of Residence Life, approximately one or one and one half years from now.

SRA President Debbie Gem-bicki said it is to the student's advantage in keeping the Area Councils. "Things will get done for the residents, she said, "and we can be assured that in the future, say five or ten years or now, the councils will recognize their needs, instead of a larger organization deciding if a planned event is worth giving money to."

Adding that while it is true that some of the area positions are harder to fill than others, Gembicki said it remains the choice of the dorm student to become more active in residence activities.

She said filing dates for any position will be through March 21. Once a candidate has filed, he will be required to go to an elections rules meeting on March 21 at 4 p.m. in room 221 Mendenhall. SRA elections are planned for March 27.

The SRA also passed a bill that would make it mandatory for all areas to sponsor some type of function each semester. Gem-bicki said. Money raised or spent would be divided according to the number SRA members. "This will prevent any one area dominating another," she said, "while at the same time unifying the campus."

Poetry Forum

Fred Chappell will visit ECU March 21 and 22 as part of a poetry forum. He will hold a workshop on March 22.

Howell: 'No Comment'

By JENNIFER JENDRASIAK
News Editor

ECU Chancellor John Howell had no comment Monday in response to a $1 million lawsuit filed by former ECU head football coach Ed Emory.

Howell was quoted in a statement released by the ECU Sports Information Office as saying the school's administration had "no comment on Emory's action other than to say it will defend itself vigorously and the nature of the defense will become apparent when papers are filed."

The lawsuit names ECU, Howell and Director of Athletics Ken Karr as respondents. The three are required to file an answer with the court within 30 days. All legal defense is being handled by the state attorney general's office.

Following the filing of the answers, procedures will continue, but Howell said he has no idea of when this will happen. "Legal procedures are slow," he said.

Emory was fired in December with three years remaining on his contract. In the suit, he asks for at least $482,500 in wages and benefits, $200,000 for emotional distress and mental anguish and at least $500,000 in punitive damages.

Prior to the filing of the suit, ECU officials made an offer to settle out of court, but it was "hardly an offer," according to Emory's attorney, Marvin Blount.

Chancellor Discusses Ideas*Debate Continues Among AcademicsBy HAROLD JOYNER
Assistant News Editor

ECU Chancellor John Howell was among other university officials from across the nation at a recent meeting in Miami where discussion centered around the governance of intercollegiate athletics and proposals to be considered at the meeting of the National Collegiate Athletic Association this summer.

Howell said the primary importance of the meeting was the passage of a resolution to give a board of presidents control over Division I-A institutions. "Even though this board may have the power to set rules," Howell said, "the NCAA will still have complete authority to veto votes by the board."

Currently, each of the four divisions of the NCAA has 11 members and Howell said a proposal was made for the group to act as a governing body.

Proposals which would make freshmen ineligible to participate in "those varsity sports which create substantial threats to successful academic adjustment, such as football and basketball" were also made.

"ECU cannot afford to increase its scholarship in order that a freshman not participate in a game," Howell said in response to the proposal that would theoretically give freshmen the opportunity to devote full attention to academics instead of athletics. "We don't have that many freshmen playing anyway," he said, "so I don't think it makes any difference."

Howell said he would like to see universities devise some formula considering SAT scores and a student's high school record instead of a basic minimum SAT score in determining eligibility. "Many colleges are being discriminated against through the minimum SAT score," he said, "and it just makes more sense to modify the rule, thereby keeping admission standards at a respectable level." Howell said when ECU is considering admissions of new students, past high school record and test scores are looked at together.

"The minimum SAT rule and the freshman ineligibility rule are both worthwhile things to deal with," Howell said, "but I don't think it will solve all the problems between academics and intercollegiate sports."

Learn and Earn While In PanamaBy JAMES REID
Staff Writer

Two ECU anthropology professors are accepting applications from students willing to work this summer in Panama. John Bort and James Sabella will select 10 students from ECU and UNC-Wilmington to participate in a project funded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture.

In addition to providing the students with air fare and a monthly wage of $500-$550, the project will also provide anthropological field training and an opportunity to learn about Panamanian culture. As many as six college credits may be earned.

The purpose of the project is to determine the effects of the first road connecting the Province of Bocas del Toro to the rest of Panama.

The project, beginning in mid-May and ending in mid-August, is open to all ECU students in good standing, but special consideration will be given to those with a strong background in Anthropology or other related fields.

"Interested students should be aware that this is not a holiday vacation," said Bort, "but a bonafide opportunity to obtain precious field training and a unique cultural view of the world."

Bort added that knowledge of Spanish is not a pre-requisite, although "it is definitely an asset."

Applications must be received by March 31. For further information, contact Bort or Sabella.

Vacation Offered To British Isles

ECU News Bureau

Space is still available for travelers who would like to visit the British Isles this summer and receive three semester hours of graduate or undergraduate college credit through the ECU Division of Continuing Education.

The July 10-25 tour includes round-trip airfare from New York, all transportation within England, Ireland, Scotland and Wales, all breakfasts, some dinners, lodging and partial costs of sightseeing tours. According to tour coordinator Mindy Machanic, assistant professor of environmental design in the ECU School of Art, the trip is designed to allow plenty of free time for shopping and sightseeing.

Tour organizer, Passages, Inc., guarantees that the current trip price of $1895 will remain in effect for anyone who registers with full payment by the end of March. For others, a budget payment plan can be used to pay installments. Persons enrolling for credit will be required to complete a project such as a sketchbook, a series of photographs or a study of architectural features visited.

The tour is open to adolescents 12-16 years if accompanied by an adult. Teenagers at least 16 years old may travel unaccompanied.

Further information about the tour is available from "Great Britain Passages," Erwin Hall.

SGA Elections

Vote, Vote, Vote, Vote, VOTE!!!

Scattered about this page, the next one and the one after that are reams of words about the 12 candidates running for SGA executive offices. Some are well-known, others aren't; some have lots of qualifications, others show only a few. But each one demands your attention. Each one has bravely gone out into the political cold to seek your vote, and you, as a concerned student, must give the time necessary to study the candidates thoughtfully and make a decision. And then you should vote.

Yes, you must vote. All 13,000 of you. It's possible. Usually, only about 2,000 of you vote, but you must prevent this from happening this time. Your vote does count. The people asking for your votes are seeking to make very important decisions on your behalf. They are going to sit on committees, go to meetings, meet with administrative officials and spend your money. Each student should fight his way to the polling booth and eagerly cast a ballot for the people who you want to lead you. Do so on Wednesday, March 20.

The most important office, of course, is SGA president. The person you pick to fill this post will be your number-one representative. There are three excellent candidates for president. The East Carolinian used to choose sides. This is no longer policy, and will never again be policy. We wish only to present all the candidates to you and have you decide. We feel each of the men seeking the position — David Brown, Mike McPartland and Kirk Shelley — have already shown their concern for the students of ECU. Each has many accomplishments to point to during their stay here. Either one will do a fine job.

So, come on out to the forum today at 12:30, grab a free pepsi and listen to the candidates speak. You will have the opportunity to ask questions and see for yourself where each candidate stands.

We look forward to reporting the winner to you on March 21. But, even more than that, we want to be able to say there was a stunning turnout and everybody voted. So, go vote, DARN IT, on Wednesday, March 20.

Campus Forum

Presidential Seal

After careful and thoughtful consideration about the candidates for SGA president, I feel that there is one who stands out as the most qualified candidate for the position I presently hold. This person has a wealth of qualifications that will enable him to move this organization forward during the upcoming year. This candidate has served as SGA vice-president and has worked with me in every aspect of the SGA. He is knowledgeable about the office and its responsibility to the students of this university. Most importantly, he is concerned with involving more freshmen students in student government and he impressed me last summer during our interactions with summer orientation students.

As chairman of the campus Media Board and chairman of the Student Union Major Concerts Attractions Committee, this candidate will bring to this office experiences from nearly every area of university life. He has a deep and sincere interest in SGA and has proven this during his years of working in the SGA Legislature and Executive Council. This year he was selected by the Executive Council to represent ECU at the national conference on student governments at Texas A&M University.

I sincerely feel that Mike McPartland will do an excellent job as SGA President next year, and I am proud to support his candidacy. We have worked hard this past year to move this organization forward and I am grateful to the student body for the opportunity to have served as your SGA President. I have attempted to discharge my duties to the best of my ability and I appreciate the support that has been given to me over the past year.

I encourage everyone to attend The East Carolinian/SGA/Pepsi Forum Tuesday afternoon at 12:30 p.m. on the mall to hear all the candidates running for executive offices. This will be your opportunity to judge for yourself who will best represent you next year as the leaders of your SGA.

John Rainey
SGA President

Vote David

Tomorrow each student at this university will be asked to make a decision. Will you choose stagnation or progression? Who will you vote for?

I have been at ECU for four years and have been involved in the Student Union, SGA, the Greek system and many other facets of student life. This year I see a candidate for SGA president that I am finally impressed with. He does not espouse the same rhetorical platform topics that I have heard over and over again for the past several years. He is a candidate who, since his first year, has worked for the students of this university. He began in his freshman year as a member of the honor council. His sophomore year he was elected Aycock Dorm representative and received best legislator and most outstanding committee member. During his third year, he was elected junior class president and served on the Executive Council. (There is another candidate that has Executive Council experience!) Not only has he held position of recognition as mentioned, but also positions with little recognition. He has served on the dining facilities committee and was chair of the Student Welfare Committee. All of these committee positions are positions related to student improvement in and around campus.

Presently, in his fourth year of dorm life, David Brown is a resident advisor and also director of Pirate Walk. These same people who are running against David have chose him to direct Pirate Walk, because he had a reputation of getting a job done and getting it done right.

The other candidates are worried. Why else would the three Greek candidates band together to try to obtain the Greek vote? I urge each and every one of you to get out and vote.

David Brown is my candidate for SGA president because he honestly and genuinely cares.

Chris Tomasic is running for SGA vice-president. The co-ticket they are running on is one of integrity. A vote for these two candidates is a vote for improvement in student leadership.

Chris Tomasic, SGA vice-president, a man who will attend city council meetings!

Vote Kirk

Kirk Shelley is saving the students of ECU $3,000 a year. Kirk worked with Dean Speier and the judicial branch of SGA to pressure people who have not paid back their $25 SGA student loans. Before Kirk went to work on this problem more than 100 people each semester defaulted on their SGA loans, costing us students $2,500 a semester. Now fewer than 10 people a year manage to slip out of ECU with student funds.

If Kirk can solve this problem, battling the bureaucracy, to get those who try to rip off their fellow students, think what he can do as SGA president. Vote Kirk Shelley tomorrow.

SGA Candidates' Platforms

Vice President

Lee Lane

Fellow students,

My name is Lee Lane and I am running for the office of Vice President of the S.G.A. This year I am Secretary of the S.G.A. and I hold a position on such cabinets as: Executive Council of the S.G.A., Pirate Walk Governing Board and the Human Relations Committee of the Greenville City Council. Through the experience I have gained from these and other committees this year, I feel that I am well qualified for the position of Vice President.

The most important task that the Vice President must perform, I feel, is to act as a liaison between the students of E.C.U. and the rest of the Greenville community. He must represent the students on the Greenville City Council and the E.C.U. Athletics Committee. I feel that I can perform this task of liaison effectively because of my work this year with the Human Relations Committee and the S.G.A. The Vice President is also the chairman of the Pirate Walk Governing Board, a transition that I could easily make since I already hold a position on this Committee.

As for the issues that I would like to confront and hopefully solve next year, there are several. First, I would like to address the issue of student apathy. The Executive Council of the S.G.A. has expressly tried to attack the situation of apathy on this campus through using both the written and verbal media here at E.C.U. I would like to see this continue and possibly supplement this with a Legislative newsletter that would be sent to all S.G.A. recognized organizations on campus which would keep them up to date with happenings within the S.G.A.

Secondly, I would like to address the issue of appropriations to the S.G.A. recognized groups on campus. I think that the S.G.A. has handed this money out on a very fair and impartial basis this year. However, I would like to initiate more meetings to inform these groups on how to handle their requests for money from the Legislature in a more effective manner.

This year in my position as Secretary of the S.G.A. I feel that I have remained accessible to any student who has needed to see me and I would like to remain in a position in the coming year to further represent the needs of the students of E.C.U. Your support on March 20 would be greatly appreciated.

Bryan Lassiter

With so many qualified candidates running for office, students have a tough decision to make. I feel I am at least as qualified if not more so than any of my opponents. What sets me apart is enthusiasm and dedication.

I am presently active as resident of Aycock Residence Hall, representative to SRA, SGA and ARC. I am also a member of Special Events committee of the Student Union, involved with International Language Organization and a representative of North Carolina Student Legislature. This semester alone, I have traveled to Hickory, Charlotte, and Raleigh, NC representing the student body here at East Carolina.

My campaign staff and I have worked around the clock on ways to let the student body know the pressing issues and importance of this election. I believe this begins to show the great deal of pride and hard work I want to give for the student body here at ECU!

Some of the issues I feel are important in this election are:

Book Exchange — I feel that the students are being ripped-off by textbook stores in this area! Student Government has devised a great plan by which students can sell books directly to other students, cutting out the middle man getting rich off student's needs.

Traffic — I feel that a better system of dealing with illegally parked cars can be implemented. Instead of towing these cars and having outside businesses get student's hard-earned money, we could easily use a wheel-lock system similar to the one in Washington, D.C. This would again cut out the middle man and keep the money in our own university system which could be used even to reduce university student fees!

City Council — I look forward to working with City Council representing the student body as a very important and needed part of Greenville's economy. My predecessors have taken the attitude that City Council will not listen and does not care for the ECU students. I have experience working with city councils and I say that when I use the experience I have and speak with a united voice of 14,000 people, "Everyone WILL Listen!"

Organizations — I also know the needs of special interest organizations. Having marched with the Marching Pirates for two years and having roomed with an Art major, I feel for these people when equipment and funding is so badly needed for every day events and none is give.

In short, it's time to have a SGA that will fairly represent All of East Carolina's student's needs!

Chris Tomasic

I have a large platform, but with the limited space given to me, I have picked three of the most important issues in my campaign. First, I feel that the SGA should try to meet more of the needs of the schools of Music, Art and Drama. I have a couple of ideas that could help and take some of the pressure off the students of the three schools.

Second, I feel there's a need for SGA to have more of an interest in our minority groups and the handicapped students. I feel it is the responsibility of SGA to make sure that their needs are met too. Finally, I feel there's a problem in how the SGA salaries have been set up. The Director of Pirate Walk now receives $150 a semester, and he puts 20 to 25 hours a week in the job, where as the Refrigerator manager receives $200 a month. Now it is hard for me to see how the SGA could put more importance on a refrigerator than the safety of its students at night.

Now you know where I stand and I hope that you'll take the time to vote Wednesday. This election is not for me, but for you. It's up to you and you can make a difference.

Secretary

Lisa Carroll

SGA Secretary is a position which requires experience, dedication, and willingness to work hard. I feel that I can fulfill these requirements and would appreciate the chance to do so.

Through the experience I gained as Freshman Class President I have learned a lot about Student Government. Working on the Executive Council this year has given me the opportunity to learn about the appropriation process and policy making process as well as the job of taking minutes.

Dedication is also an important part of this job. The Secretary is responsible for taking the minutes, therefore, she must attend all meetings. This year I have proven that I am a dedicated person through my excellent attendance record.

As a freshman I am very enthusiastic and excited about East Carolina. I love my school and am proud to say I am an E.C.U. Pirate. I think enthusiasm is the most important quality that an executive leader should have. If you are not excited about your school how can you expect to get others fired up. I am willing to work hard for you — the student body. If I am elected on Wednesday, March 20 I promise to work hard for your welfare!

Maryvonne Draper

My name is Maryvonne Draper and I am running for the office of SGA Secretary. I am currently a sophomore seeking a B.S. degree in English with emphasis on teaching and writing. My grade point average presently stands at 3.2.

I feel that I have the experience for the office for several reasons. Currently I am a Day Representative for the SGA and I am up on all of their latest issues. The committee on which I serve is the screenings committee which entails interviewing candidates for the position of Day Representative. I was also an active member of the SGA of my high school in Virginia.

I enjoy dealing in correspondence and I feel as if I am very competent in this area. Most of my time is spent writing because of my major and I am very comfortable with correspondence.

Another reason I feel competent for the job is because I have filled the role of secretary several times before. In high school I was elected secretary of my sophomore class and in college I served as a secretary for the Junior Panhellenic. Secretary of my pledge class was another job that I held. Also this semester, I have written for a national magazine entitled The Triangle.

If elected, I will do my best in recording the minutes of the meetings as well as doing a fine job in all correspondence. I am willing to work and serve you the students, and I would appreciate your vote March the 20th. Thank-you.

Ann Scarborough

I'm Ann Scarborough, a senior from Hookerton, North Carolina majoring in Math and Science Education. I have been involved in the SGA through the student housing committee and the SRA as an intramural representative. I've also had secretarial experience by volunteering my time and effort to the Kinston Jaycees.

I feel that I am qualified for the position of SGA secretary because of my experience and willingness to work. I have spent a great deal of time thinking of ways to improve the quality of student life at East Carolina University.

See, SECRETARY, P.5

SGA Da

My name is David Brown, a student of East Carolina University. As a result of my experience I would like to be S.G.A. president for the reasons. First, the student university, especially students living off campus are not represented here, in Greenville. There is a lot of issues like parking on zoning laws, city housing laws, and noise that directly affect over student population. The Council of Greenville provides for and wants to on these issues affect elected S.G.A. president. Brown will attend meetings and express his concern about the needs campus students. Perhaps that my opponent Mr. McPartland has not attended one meeting since taking office sent another student in his place. I will attend meetings.

Another concern of campus students living university residence university administration many decisions concerning life here at East Carolina have been a dorm residence years in addition to Residence Advisor in Dorm. I know what are in our dorms and students become discon-

Mr

Hello, my name is Mike McPartland and I am running for S.G.A. President. I am currently a Junior Marketing major in Raleigh, N.C.

I have worked with the SGA for three years and I have served as Vice President, S.G.A. and Chairman of the Media Board. I am currently with the Student Union as the Chairman of the Student Welfare Committee. I have also been a Refrigerator Rental Manager and am currently a member of the Governing Board. I have worked closely with the SGA administration here at ECU and wish to continue to serve the students of this campus.

Student apathy is a problem each year in the S.G.A. I feel that the apathy of the students is a problem among the students of S.G.A. itself. Through the Legislature by appropriations by consent even questioning what are to be used for, apathy needs to stop.

Ki

Fellow Students,

My name is Kirk Shelley. I am a Political Science major here at ECU. We have the opportunity to improve the quality of student life here at ECU. Communicating, and putting into action is what should be about. The areas that I am interested in changing are Parking, Text Book Program, and forming the students their input.

Every year ECU population increases new drivers who need parking. It now takes 30 minutes to get a parking space to keep getting lost in the parking lot. I have three-fold plan: 1) Work with the N.C. General Assembly to explain the need for parking garage on campus the long term solution time — 2) Work with the City Council to turn the parking lot into parking lanes. That way the park on both sides of the road doubling the number of spaces. 3) Use existing facilities available, to create more parking spaces.

SGA President David Brown

Editor's Note: Each candidate's platform is being run as he or she turned it in. There has been no editing. All spelling, grammar, style and punctuation are original.

My name is David Brown and I am concerned about you, the students of East Carolina University. As a result of my concern and experience I would like to be your S.G.A. president for the following reasons. First, the students of this university, especially those students living off campus need to be represented here, in the City of Greenville. There is a number of issues like parking on city streets, zoning laws, city housing inspection laws, and noise ordinances that directly affect over half of our student population. The City Council of Greenville both provides for and wants student input on these issues affecting us. If elected S.G.A. president, I David Brown will attend city council meetings and express, or even holler about the needs of our off campus students. Please take note that my opponent Mr. McPartland has not attended one city council meeting since taking office or even sent another student representative in his place. I will attend these meetings.

Another concern deals with on campus students living in the university residence halls. The university administration makes many decisions concerning dormitory life here at East Carolina. I have been a dorm resident for four years in addition to serving as a Residence Advisor in Umstead Dorm. I know what the problems are in our dorms and why many students become discouraged with dorm life and move off campus. There are problems with inadequate laundry facilities and washers and dryers that seldom work. There is a lack of study and meeting rooms within the individual dorms, and many of these areas are sparsely furnished and have poor lighting. I want to work with the various university departments and student groups in correcting these problems.

As S.G.A. president I want to help the student legislature iron out some of the irregular and vague funding standards that now exist in the S.G.A. The performing and fine arts need adequate funds to attend their yearly tours. These groups provide a valuable, and often hidden service to this university. Minority, and both the social and honor Greek organizations need greater contact with incoming new students. I want to have an organizational field day held during every freshmen orientation to allow new students to meet and acquire information about not only Greek and minority organizations but about ALL campus groups, including our religious organizations.

As an environmental health major and Allied Health student I know the frustration of having to use the Allied Health reserve readings room. The room, which is actually a trailer, has limited shelf space and poor lighting. We need to improve this and other areas of our campus. I want to organize student groups to help me lobby the administration for improving problem areas on our campus. Our freshman aid program needs to be given greater emphasis in the S.G.A. by increasing student participation. This can be accomplished by involving not only freshmen students but any student who wants to be involved in student government regardless of their background or qualifications.

Students, I'm not the type of person who simply thinks up ideas for our campus and then expects others to do the work for me, but I roll up my sleeves and accomplish the work at hand. My qualifications are as follows: member of both the university Honor Board and Review Board freshman year, Aycock Dorm representative sophomore year, Junior class president and a member of the S.G.A. executive council, chairperson of the S.G.A. Student Welfare Committee three semesters, voted best legislator and committee person by the legislature, Residence Advisor, current Director of Pirate Walk, member of Gamma Beta Phi Honor Society, served two years as a University Marshal, member of the University Libraries Committee, and hard worker. Make a reality of your student ideas by voting David Brown for S.G.A. president. Thank You.

Mike McPartland

Hello, my name is Mike McPartland and I am a candidate for S.G.A. President. I am a Junior Marketing major from Raleigh, N.C.

I have worked with the S.G.A. for three years and I am currently serving as Vice President of the S.G.A. and Chairman of the Media Board. I am also involved with the Student Union and I am the Chairman of the Major Concerts Committee. I serve on the Refrigerator Rental Board and I am Chairman of the Pirate Walk Governing Board. I have worked closely with the S.G.A. and Administration here at E.C.U. and wish to continue serving the students of this campus as S.G.A. President.

Student apathy is a topic we hear each year in the S.G.A. elections. I feel that the apathy does not exist among the students but within the S.G.A. itself. Throughout this year the Legislature has passed appropriations by consent without even questioning what these funds are to be used for. This S.G.A. apathy needs to stop. I propose that the Day and Dorm Representatives should be required to give a short listing of their qualifications. I feel that this will deter students who are getting involved for all the wrong reasons and will give the S.G.A. a higher quality Legislature.

Another topic that I would like to address is the present Book Exchange program. The idea of a book exchange program is a great one and a real cost saver for the students, yet the present system needs restructuring. If a student publishes a book for sale he may receive numerous calls for that book when all he needs is one. I would like to computerize the Book Exchange program so students can call the S.G.A. to see if a book is available, if so he would be informed as to who to contact so that he may purchase the book he needs. By having the S.G.A. directly involved as a liaison between buyer and seller the exchange process will run smoothly and much more efficiently.

Responsibility of the S.G.A.

Kirk Shelley

Fellow Students,

My name is Kirk Shelley. I am a Political Science major with a 3.0 average. We have the opportunity to improve the quality of your life here at ECU. Cooperating, communicating, and putting your ideas into action is what YOUR SGA should be about. There are three areas that I am especially interested in changing here at ECU: Parking, Text Book Prices, and informing the students and getting their input.

Every year ECUs commuter population increases by 100-300 new drivers who need a place to park. It now takes 30-50 minutes to get a parking space, and its going to keep getting longer. To help alleviate this problem I have a three-fold plan: 1) Work with the N.C. General Assembly now, to explain the need for a multi-level parking garage on campus. This is the long term solution, in the mean time — 2) Work with the Greenville City Council to turn the streets surrounding the university into 1-way lanes. That way the students can park on both sides of the street, doubling the number of spaces. 3) Use existing funds, now available, to create more parking spaces on campus. There is plenty to be done, but the effort will be well worth it.

Your average student is spending close to $200 a year for text books and getting back only half. This year in the legislature I tried an idea I had heard about at a national conference, a Book Exchange. Those that learned about the book exchange this year received an opportunity to sell their books for more than the half price offered by the bookstore, and those that bought their books by phone were able to get them at a lower price. I started the program in the legislature and I want to expand it fully under the executive branch so all the students have an opportunity to keep more of their hard earned money.

How does it work? Instead of selling your books to the student store, you fill out a card naming the book, instructor, your name and phone number, and the price you want to sell it for. Give the SGA the card and in the first issue of the paper at the beginning of the new semester your ad will be listed, and you can now shop for your books at home, by phone.

To inform the students about does not stop with approving constitutions and appropriating funds, we are also involved with academic affairs. It is hard enough to do well in college level classes and yet in some instances the problems are compounded when you cannot understand your teacher. If elected I would like to implement a student-teacher evaluation form which would consist of questions concerning such topics as teacher audibility and communication skills. By working closely with the Faculty Senate I wish to make a fair evaluation which would be satisfactory to both the students and faculty. These evaluations would be made public so that the students can be better informed when choosing instructors for their classes.

The topics that I have mentioned above are reasonable and attainable, and with my experience on the S.G.A. I can put these ideas to work for you. I would appreciate your support on March 20 for S.G.A. President.

SGA activities, job openings, financial situation and events of student interest, I propose a bi-monthly newsletter. It would be sent to all campus organizations and dorms. I also propose to improve relations with campus organizations by meeting regularly with SRA, IFC, MSO, Panhellenic and other campus leaders to insure that SGA is meeting their needs.

Tomorrow is election day and as always you have a major choice on your hands. I've spent three years in Student Government and have enjoyed the privilege of serving you. As Speaker of the Legislature and Junior Class President I've been on the Executive Council and learned about this University, and what is possible. I've seen three SGA Presidents, and have come to the conclusion that if you don't enter the office with a plan, your not going to leave with one. Think over your choice carefully and decide which one is going to get the most done for you. I stand on ideas for improving student life, and the experience to make them work.

Treasurer

James Braswell

Hello, my name is James Braswell and I am running for the office of SGA Treasurer. I am a computer science major in my third year at ECU. The office of treasurer is a very important one, for it is responsible for the money of the students on this campus — that is the money out of the pocket's of you and me.

The SGA is now in the process of converting over to a computerized information system, and I feel that my computer skills would make this transition much more efficient. It would certainly be a waste to see this valuable system not utilized to its fullest potential. This computer system will be an especially powerful tool for the office of treasurer, for all groups recognized by the SGA will have their budgets on file. This file will allow one to see transaction to transaction where every penny goes. Through better organization and accuracy, and less "RED-TAPE", we will be in a position to better serve you the student.

Often organizations are simply unaware of what is available to them or how to obtain funding. The quality of our campus organizations which reflect upon this university is dependent on proper funding. Surely we all desire for this university to be the very best it can be — a school from which each of us can graduate with pride. It is time for a change in attitude, a time when as students really do become involved.

That is why I am running for Treasurer. My door will be open to you any time — whether it be to answer questions, to help with club financing or simply to receive some constructive criticism. I would appreciate your support on March 20.

Grant Smith

My name is Grant Smith and I am running for the office of SGA Treasurer. I am currently a junior, pursuing a music education degree. I am a member of Phi Mu Alpha, professional music fraternity. I feel that the office of SGA Treasurer is important in that it is my responsibility to make sure all the financial transactions and appropriations go through the system smoothly and efficiently. I must assist the Appropriations Committee in any way possible as well. My background experience includes SCA class representative in high school, Vice President and Treasurer of my church youth group, and I currently serve on the SGA Legislature. Georgia Mooring, current SGA Treasurer, has discussed with me the specific duties and responsibilities of the position. I feel that I am quite capable of this position and the best candidate for the job to serve you the student.

One problem that needs to be addressed is the appropriate procedure to use when requesting funds from the SGA. A possible solution would be to send out a form letter to each of the organizations that request funding, stating the proper procedures to follow, so that the money is available when it is needed. It is also very important for the Treasurer to be available to assist the various groups concerning the planning of their budgets. I plan to make myself available to give any assistance necessary.

My next concern is student involvement. Many students today just sit back and get angry with the results of the Legislature. The SGA can't do their job effectively until the student body becomes more involved. We need your input because the Legislature is there for you. Your student fees make up the budget we work with the entire school year. You as students should be concerned with where your money goes. A possible solution might be for the executive council to hold a forum once a month for those students interested enough to attend to air complaints about the system, introduce new ideas, receive explanations of past decisions, and any other items pertinent to the SGA.

Finally, I would like to express the importance of the upcoming election. I really feel that I am the best candidate for the position of SGA Treasurer because I want to serve the student body and put to use all the suggestions that would better ECU as a whole. Thank you and I would greatly appreciate your support on election day.

Dwayne Wiseman

During the last two semesters I have been working in S.G.A. legislature and serving on the appropriations committee. While serving on the appropriation committee I have helped allocate student fees to a lot of organizations on campus.

If elected as S.G.A. Treasurer I would like to put the new computer purchased by S.G.A. to use by keeping permanent records of all weekly and annual appropriation on file. This would allow S.G.A. to have a copy that would be easily accessible, and it could also provide each organization with a hard copy for their records. This would benefit each organization that comes to S.G.A. for money and benefit S.G.A. as well.

I would like the opportunity to use my experience that I have learned serving in S.G.A. during the past two semesters toward the position of S.G.A. Treasurer. I feel that if I get the chance to use my experience, major and what I learned at the S.G.A. National Leadership Conference that I attended in February that I can do the best job for the student body.

Secretary Scarborough

One such ideal is my plan to notify all special interest groups of times and dates when funds concerning their organization is to be voted upon in the legislature. Thus giving these groups the opportunity to be present at the meetings.

As secretary I would do my best to inform interested high school students of all the services that ECU has to offer. I would also do my best to keep day students informed of campus activities.

I feel that SGA cannot operate without teamwork. The SGA is a team of student leaders working together for the welfare of students. The officers of the SGA and legislature do and should have a good voice. I feel that I have that voice and I could utilize it to the benefit of all students on this campus.

With these ideas I hope to make a stronger student government and I would appreciate your support on March 20.

Here's The Scoop About SGA Candidates

You've all heard the opinions of the other candidates' friends; however, now you will know the opinion of someone who has had the experience of working directly with a candidate. Serving three years on the SGA as a class officer and being chairman of the Appropriations Committee has enabled me to work with Mike McPartland in many situations. (Appropriations is the committee in charge of allocating student funds to student organizations.)

Mike is a man who works well with students and can see situations through other's, as well as his own, eyes. While serving as SGA vice-president, Mike has gained direct experience not only with the SGA executive council but also with the administration and student organizations. Also as a student leader he has served on the Media Board and was elected Media Board chairman. Mike is a member of the Student Union Program Board and serves as chairman of the major concerns committee. An example of what this position involves includes bringing major groups to the university, such as the Kinks concert this past Saturday night. Mike's platform reflects creative ideas which I think can be readily accomplished to improve the quality of student life at ECU. Read his platform, stop by the open forum today and see why Mike McPartland is the best candidate for the office of SGA president.

Lisa Roberts
App. Chairman

No Mike

Question: If a candidate for SGA president presently serves as vice president, Media Board chairman, and chairman of the Major Attractions Committee (like Mike McPartland), he is obviously qualified, right? Wrong!!! Mike plays up the fact that he holds these positions, but what has he done with them?

As SGA vice president, Mike is supposed to attend meetings of the Greenville City Council to represent views of the students. But according to city clerk Lois Worthington and Councilman Stewart Shinn, Mike hasn't been seen at a council meeting since August. He failed his responsibility.

As Media Board chairman, Mike has his own spoils system. Take a look at the advertising section employees of The East Carolinian: they are all buddies of his from Phi Kappa Tau fraternity. On top of that, Mike missed about half of the Media Board meetings before he became chairman. He failed his responsibility.

And finally, it's worth mentioning that, as chairman of the Major Attractions Committee, Mike botched opportunities for some fantastic concerts, including one with Heart and Eddie Money. What a great one that would have been!

I hope the concerned students who want their SGA president to serve them well and competently will consider these facts before casting their votes.

Experience Counts

When deciding which candidate to vote for, you want to know their qualifications. Topping the list of qualifications should be experience in student government. Among the candidates for SGA secretary, Lisa Carroll stands out from the rest when it comes to experience. Lisa has served on the SGA Legislature for a full year, longer than her opposing candidates.

She has also served on the SGA Executive Council for a full year, which has given her experience of the inner workings of our SGA. In February, Lisa represented ECU at the National Convention of Student Governments in Texas where she gained even more experience about student government. Lisa's trip to Texas also gave her the motivation and enthusiasm needed to work for you, the students she represents. Since experience and enthusiasm are top qualifications for SGA candidates, then Lisa Carroll is the only candidate for SGA secretary.

Bryan's It

With SGA elections coming up this week, it is time to pick a candidate that you believe in for each office. Many qualified candidates are running for office, so that does not make your task of choosing one any easier. Personally, I have not as yet made all of my selections, but I have chosen my candidate for vice president — Bryan Lassiter.

Although I am a friend of Bryan's, my choice was not made solely on that fact. I met Bryan this summer while working for a common employer. Bryan's willingness to work hard while keeping a pleasant attitude made him everyone's favorite very quickly. No matter how many hours he had already worked, he always seemed fresh and cheerful, especially to customers. Bryan also showed his diplomatic abilities in situations involving employee disputes, such as schedules for work.

Bryan Lassiter, aside from being a good worker, is a fine representative of students, and he has more than enough experience to handle the job of vice president. Bryan has addressed many problems dealing with student welfare by being involved with the following organizations: SRA, Area Residence Council, SGA and the North Carolina Student Legislature. He is also presently serving as the president of Aycock dormitory.

Bryan Lassiter is definitely the right man for the job of SGA vice president. Through his past experience in various organizations, he has become sensitive to the needs of the student. Lassiter has the determination and the strong character with which to best serve the students of ECU, so vote Bryan Lassiter for SGA vice president!

James R. Rose

Lee For Veep

I would like to take this opportunity to endorse Lee Lane for the office of vice president of the SGA. I have worked with Lee this year in the SGA Legislature and after reviewing the credentials of the other candidates I feel that Lee is the most qualified for this position.

Experience is a vital necessity to the proper functioning of the SGA. This experience can be seen in Lee's involvement this year in the SGA. He is currently the secretary of the SGA and serves on other committees such as the Executive Council of the SGA and the Pirate Walk Governing Board. But his involvement is not limited to only the SGA. He is also involved with trying to improve relations between the students of ECU and the Greenville community, this can be best seen in Lee's membership on the Human Relations Committee of the City Council.

I believe that Lee is sincerely committed to the bettering of the ECU campus and its students and serving them in the most beneficial way. After reviewing his credentials, I feel confident that you will also see Lee Lane as the most qualified and deserving candidate for the office of vice president.

Alumni Support

I am submitting this letter on behalf of a very solid candidate for vice-president of the SGA. Bryan Lassiter is a candidate whom the people can depend on. As an alumni of ECU and a former roommate of Bryan's, I feel he is a very responsible person with a strong desire to succeed in his personal goals and help others to reach their own goals. Bryan and I were in many organizations together and in each and every one, he excelled to accomplish the goals that were set.

As an alumni I feel it is my duty to insure that the most capable candidate be brought to the attention of the student body and continue to have a strong SGA at ECU.

Pay Attention

After reading the article on student candidates for the SGA Executive Elections, I cannot help but wonder where the best students are when it comes to committing oneself as a candidate for a highly motivated position in the SGA. There are only two candidates with a 3.0 gpa or higher. Being a student at ECU for three years, I know that it does not consume much time to achieve a gpa of 2.5. (For instance, I believe I read that the sorority organization had the highest GPA on campus with an average of 2.5 — even though much of their time is spent at happy hour, collecting toilet paper and other such activities.) We actually have a candidate for president with a 2.4 gpa! If this guy doesn't have the time to spend academically, then how is he going to serve us as president of the SGA? I must add here that I'm not a book-nose-non-alcoholic-law-abiding student. I greatly enjoy partying and having a good time (but not collecting toilet paper). How ironic it is that my gpa is higher than all but one of the candidates (and we tied) even though my first semester here I did all but study and still came out with a 2.3.

I am not writing this on behalf of promoting anyone's campaign. However, I am writing this to encourage that you pay special attention to the candidates' gpa as a characterization of his true attitude and concern towards ECU.

Kirk's Plans

Listen up all commuter students! Kirk Shelley, candidate for SGA president, has plans to alleviate your suffering.

1) Encourage university administration to use available funds to pave more lots on and around campus.

2) One-way many streets around the university to double the available parking space. Kirk has already spoken with Greenville Police Chief Ted Holmes, Campus Police Chief Joe Calder, and university officials about turning streets such as Meade, Maple, Library etc. into one-way zones so students could park on both sides. All city and university officials he has spoken with received the idea enthusiastically.

3) Begin the campaign for a multi-level parking garage after these first two steps have been accomplished. Some people think this is a pie-in-the-sky idea, but it can be done! With careful political pressure and sound leadership, SGA leaders at N.C. State persuaded the General Assembly to appropriate funds for a parking garage.

With Kirk's fine performance and leadership in the North Carolina Student Legislature, which works closely with the General Assembly, we can and will get our parking garage; but only if you make him our president.

Bryan A. King
Marketing, Jr.

Watch Out!

Two of the candidates for SGA president have been prancing around campus promising mountains of money to various student groups. These promises are highly misleading.

Neither I nor any of my friends can recall any SGA president who exerted any influence on the Legislature's appropriations, and there is no reason to expect this will change. Granting funds to student organizations is the domain of the Legislature, and any candidate who tells you otherwise is leading you astray.

'Slum Buster' Plans Improvement

ECU News Bureau

Bill Lindsey, the renowned Ft. Lauderdale, Fla., slum buster, will visit ECU March 21-23.

What's a slum buster?

It's a dedicated individual who spends his life revitalizing urban slum areas. A slum buster transforms ghettos into clean, safe, livable neighborhoods. Bill Lindsey, director of the Ft. Lauderdale Housing Authority and an ECU graduate, has earned the title.

In fact, the title was probably invented to describe him.

Another title Lindsey has earned is recipient of ECU's 1985 Outstanding Alumni Award. The award will be presented at the Alpha Kappa Delta spring banquet March 22. Lindsey will be the honored guest at the banquet, along with new members of the honor society in sociology.

On March 21, Lindsey will speak at a public lecture in the multi-purpose room of Mendenhall Student Center at 7:30 p.m. On Friday he will meet university faculty and students in a series of campus appearances prior to the honor society banquet.

Three alumni are honored annually by the ECU Alumni Association for contributions in their fields, politics and civic and community affairs. Lindsey, whose story has been featured in such magazines as TIME and the Reader's Digest, is being recognized for the impact of his work on slum areas in Ft. Lauderdale.

"Lindsey is being commended for uncommon dedication and service to his community, state and nation," said Donald Y. Leggett, director of alumni relations.

"We traditionally give the Outstanding Alumni Awards at Homecoming and will recognize Mr. Lindsey again this fall. However because we were fortunate enough to have him on campus at this time, we wanted to go ahead and present the award in conjunction with his visit," Leggett said.

Lindsey was graduated with a degree in chemistry in 1968 and then completed a master's degree in sociology in 1971.

John Maiolo, professor and chair of the department of Sociology, Anthropology and Economics, said "we're very proud of Bill Lindsey for his accomplishments as an alumnus, and also for the recognition his work is bringing to sociologists in general.

"There are thousands of sociologists working in similar situations, to improve the quality of life for everyone," Maiolo said.

Maiolo added, "In so many of our contemporary problems we blame technology or industry or the government, but always the trouble boils down to people problems. Lindsey has found a method that works and we're eager to have him share it with us."

Lindsey's energy, courage and tenacity are channeled according to a formula that gets results. He calls it the "oasis theory," and he's busy sharing the theory with other cities and groups across the country.

Central to the theory is the notion of creating an oasis in a desert of blight. Lindsey and his staff work with tenants to clean up their homes and neighborhoods. Instead of tearing down old buildings, they repair them. Lindsey demands cooperation with city services such as police and sanitation. He strives to eliminate criminals to make the neighborhood a safe place to live. Once an oasis is started and residents learn to take care of their own neighborhoods, positive reverberations spread, the oasis grows and the slum is replaced.

In 1983, Lindsey's office received a special grant from the U.S. Department of Housing and Urban Development to prepare a handbook on transferring the Oasis Technique to other cities.

Summer Math, Science Center Improves Education

ECU News Bureau

In only its first year of operation, the state's new Mathematics and Science Education Center at ECU is reporting a "high level of interest" among teachers in the public school systems.

Improving the quality and number of science and math teachers is a primary goal of the statewide Math/Science Education network established by the General Assembly within the framework of the University of North Carolina system.

The network consists of 10 such centers set up to provide in-service and continuing education for math and science teachers, working in close cooperation with the public schools.

"We see this as a cooperative venture between individual teachers, local school systems, the university and industry," says Floyd Mattheis, director of the ECU center.

"We are working with individual teachers to find out what is needed and to determine the best way or ways to make it available," Mattheis said. "We're already seeing results in working with teachers."

"We are seeing a high level of interest among the teachers," he said. "Of course, measuring student performance is still somewhere down the road."

Basic goals of the Mathematics/Science Education network are to increase the quality and supply of math and science teachers in the public schools, to strengthen instruction in the middle grades and high school science and math, to sponsor basic research and development in math and science education and to increase effective use of relevant educational technology.

Katharine Hodgkin, associate director of the ECU center, reported "an unusually high response" of more than 760 replies from math teachers in 31 school systems to questionnaires about individual educational needs and about improvements that are needed in classroom teaching strategies.

A similar survey of science teachers was conducted for the MSN centers by Wende Allen, science coordinator for the N.C. Department of Public Instruction's regional office in Williamston.

Of the 760 replies from math teachers, Hodgkin said about 35 percent indicated interest in a master's degree program and an additional 15 percent wanted a sixth-year program.

"We'll also be involved with research and in curriculum development studies," Mattheis said. The ECU Center began a research project last fall in which a series of four tests was administered to some 4,000 junior high school students to study reasoning and process skills.

The ECU Student Council for Exceptional Children will be sponsoring a variety of activities in an effort to make the public aware of Exceptional Children's Week.

"The week of March 17-23 was proclaimed Exceptional Children's Week for the second year by Greenville Mayor Janice Buck," said Stephanie Hoyt, coordinator for the event. According to Hoyt, a special education major, "the SCEC has asked Gov. Martin to proclaim March 17-23 as Exceptional Children's Week throughout the state."

Hoyt said the purpose of the week is "to make the public more aware of all types of exceptional children." The term exceptional, she said, applies to any deviation from the norm, including mental retardation, cerebral palsy, blindness and deafness, as well as giftedness.

Fans Rock To The Kinks

By DANIEL MAURER
Entertainment Editor

Six security people stood in front of the stage trying desperately to hold back 6,000 screaming Kinks fans.

Class Mezon had just completed a less than adequate warm-up performance for which they received more shouts of "We want the Kinks!" than they did applause. The front row crowd was getting ugly. The General Admission seating had turned the floor of Minges Coliseum into a scene that would have made even Dante cringe. It was March 16, and the frenzied crowd had come to see the Kinks.

At about 9:20 p.m. the house lights faded once more and the crowd went wild. A white mist came onto the stage while the ominous wait of a synthesizer filled the coliseum. The crowd roared even louder.

Suddenly, lasers and spot lights cut through the misty darkness, blinding the audience with swirls and streams of light. As the apocalyptic sounds came to an end, the spot lights simultaneously focused on the stage where the Kinks stood ready to rock.

As the Kinks rocked and rolled the coliseum, the crowd was overwhelmed by the charismatic performance of singer-band leader Ray Davies. His stage antics had the masses screaming for more. After warming up with songs like "Around the Dial," "State of Confusion" (during which the crowd sang part of the chorus) and "Don't Forget to Knock," Ray had 6,000 fans in the palm of his hand.

Once Ray had established control over the mob, he broke out his acoustic guitar. While standing on the darkened stage beneath a lone spot light, he strummed the opening chords to "Lola." He quickly muffled the guitar strings with his hand as the crazed mob exploded into an orgy of screaming and cheering — for the next five minutes, chaos reigned.

When the cheering finally faded, Ray stepped up to the microphone and said, "You're not ready for that one yet." This only incited the crowd to scream louder, but Ray was persistent. The Kinks moved on to "Come Dancing" and then "Living on a Thin Line," written and sung by lead guitarist David Davies. This pop tune, off their Board of Mouth LP, gave David the opportunity to show off his singing and song writing talents in addition to his virtuosic guitar playing.

Ray, having stepped out during "Thin Line" to change his clothes, emerged wearing a bright red and black checked jacket with matching pants. In fact, Ray's wardrobe seemed to mirror his approach to the concert's atmosphere — ever-changing. Just as Ray changed his clothes several times, so did he change the mood of the show. He never let the performance get too peppy or too slow. He mixed the material well and knew just what to play and when to play it.

The Kinks continued on with songs like "Missing Person" and "Word of Mouth." Then, at 10:05 P.M., Ray took his acoustic guitar in hand. Suddenly, the mob pushed a little harder on the barricades, and the sound level in Minges rose a few thousand decibels. There were unmistakable signs that Ray was about to play the crowd-pleasing classic, "Lola."

All night Ray had played his audience like he played his guitar.

with style. "Lola" was no exception. Having the crowd sing along was not enough for him. About midway through the song the Kinks stopped playing while Ray, like the conductor of an orchestra, motioned for the band to change their own.

The Kinks stopped the session off with five encores including "You Really Got Me," "I Can't and She Can't" and "I Love and I Hate." After being the house band and playing four tracks, they had the crowd about ready to riot.

From the first note to the last, Ray had the spot lights. But without the awesome sound of his guitars, Ray's vibrant rock & roll style would have been lost. The Kinks' sound is the driving force behind the group, and it is Ray Davies that acts as the thread that binds them together.

It's been said that Ray is a madman, Ray may be a little mad, but then, that's what makes him so great.

Ray Davies and the Kinks rock the stage at Minges Coliseum.

Ray Davies and the Kinks rock the stage at Minges Coliseum.

One Kinks member in particular, Ray Davies, proved to be "the thread" that binds the group together.

Holocaust Survivor Recalls 4½-Year Trauma

By DANA MARCHESIAK

It was a dark, cold night in Poland, and nothing for all. "I was born in a small town in Poland, and I was one of those who was not Jewish," says Dr. Brame Resnik, a 45-year-old man with a friendly smile. "I was born in a small town in Poland, and I was one of those who was not Jewish." He was born in a small town in Poland, and he was one of those who was not Jewish.

Dr. Resnik could not describe the events leading up to his capture. He was born in a small town in Poland, and he was one of those who was not Jewish. He was born in a small town in Poland, and he was one of those who was not Jewish.

and urinate into your can and make you drink the contents. You had to keep a distance of three meters from your guard so they would not "infect" themselves.

TM: Was there any discrimination in your camp?

BR: No. There were gypsies and Russians in our camp. You must remember that eleven-and-one-half million people were killed of which six million were Jews. The killing actually started with the Jews — they wanted all Jews. Those who were killed along with the Jews, unfortunately, were those who were undesirable — retarded people, homosexuals, invalids, elderly people, mentally disturbed people. They were all put to death.

The camp that I was in was not an extermination camp as such. In other words, you didn't have an oven (crematory) or gas chambers. Ours was a labor camp and you died by attrition — no food, cold weather and disease.

TM: What kinds of thoughts were going through your mind at the time?

BR: The time came when we lost the urge to think about it. We even lost the urge to think about food. We only thought about what was going to happen next. We were stripped of all dignity, all feelings. You became an animal, and that is exactly what they wanted you to become. And animals are put to death when they are no good. We were worked to death.

TM: I've heard some bizarre tales. What kinds of things did you see?

BR: We were forced to dig a ditch five to six foot deep. If they felt like it, they would shoot the entire group that dug it then call another group to cover the grave. If not, just for the fun of it, they'd make us go to another place and dig again. Not far from us, a ditch was dug by 20,000 Russian women. They were then mowed down and another group was called to cover them up. So, we were forced into submission; however, there was always hope that we would live.

Many people did refuse to live. Many people meekly, I am told (I was not in Auschwitz), were taken to the gas chambers only because they were told they had to take a shower — unaware of what was happening. And those that were totally ill, incapacitated or couldn't be moved were sometimes put in the crematory alive. Sometimes they would force relatives to do the job. One woman gave birth to a little girl and the Nazis said "kill her." They forced her to kill her own child.

I used my intellect to con the Germans as much as possible. If I knew that there was the possibility to con them, to fool them into liking me, I would do it. We all did it. Unfortunately, they drove you to the point where you only thought of numero uno.

TM: Do you hate the Germans?

BR: No. To hate is to drive oneself to insanity. I do, however, feel pity for those German youths who have to live with the knowledge that their grandfathers and fathers were a part of an era which brought a blight in the once proud and civilized German people.

TM: Shouldn't the Holocaust be put to rest?

BR: Not definitely no. I feel that what has transpired during World War II is one of the most heinous crimes committed by a people, a nation among other nations, and that this occurrence can easily repeat itself. Only by remembering, by discussion and awareness can we, the members of a civilized society, prevent this from ever happening again.

Squeeze Play Successful

Pirates Slip By Maryland

By TONY BROWN
Staff Writer

The ECU baseball Pirates "squeezed" their way past the Maryland Terrapins yesterday at Harrington Field on a dramatic bases-loaded bunt by Robert Langston in the bottom of the tenth inning.

The score remained close throughout the hard-fought game. The Pirates broke on top in the third, when Winfred Johnson singled Greg Hardison in from second, with Chris Bradberry moving to second. A wild pitch advanced both runners, then Bradberry scored on an infield out for a 2-0 lead.

The Terrapins rallied in the fifth on a Mike Murphy two-run homer to instantly tie it up. ECU seemingly scored two runs in the sixth on a Mark Shank single and an error, but both runs were disallowed when Maryland appealed at third and Mike Wells was called out for missing the bag, which ended the inning.

After the confusion cleared, the score remained tied through the top of the tenth, Mont Carter rapped a double to right in the eighth and moved to third on another wild pitch, but was left stranded.

Excellent defense by the Pirates snuffed out a Terrapin threat in the top of the ninth. Robert Langston snagged a sharply hit ball, tossed it quickly to second for the relay to first.

ECU started well in the bottom of the ninth, but once again failed to score. Langston was hit in the head for the second time in the game and went to second on a Shank sacrifice. Relief pitcher Keith Lippy, a Kent Tekulve throw-alike, came in and struggled to get the final two outs, which sent the game into extra innings.

Pirate pitcher Daniel Boone seemed to keep getting stronger as he struck out the first two Maryland batters in the tenth. He appeared to notch his third consecutive "K," but a questionable ball four sent the runner to first. It didn't affect Boone, since he proceeded to end the inning by striking out the side.

The bottom of the frame opened with an out for the Pirates, but a Mont Carter double got the momentum going for ECU. Lippy's almost underhanded throwing style, similar to a "submarine" pitch, failed him as he walked the next two batters to load the bases. That's when a perfect squeeze bunt by Langston brought Carter home for the winning score.

"It was a typical collegiate baseball game," Coach Gary Overton said. "Boone really pitched a fine game and came on strong at the end."

The win raises the ECU season mark to 12-3 and Boone's record went to 2-1 in giving up only four hits.

The ECU baseball team took four out of five games in the latter part of last week behind a barrage of homeruns and good pitching, raising their season mark to 11-3.

On Wednesday, the Pirates took advantage of a number of Purdue errors to score an 8-2 win. The Boilermakers opened with a short-lived 1-0 lead in the second, but ECU quickly tied it up in the bottom half of the inning when Jay McGraw and Jim Riley singled, then McGraw scored on a Robert Langston bunt single.

The Pirates added four in the fourth. After Mont Carter singled, Mark Cockrell reached first on an error. McGraw doubled them in, and then scored himself when Langston doubled. Langston later scored on an error to make it 5-1.

Purdue got another run in the top of the seventh, but Winfred Johnson retaliated with a two-run shot to make it 7-2. McGraw doubled again in the eighth and came home on a wild pitch for the final 8-2 margin. Daniel Boone evened his pitching record at 1-1 for the Pirates, while giving up eight hits and four walks.

ECU was propelled to a 9-2

Pirate Pig-Out ; Excitement Galore

By RICK McCORMAC
Co-Sports Editor

The weekend of the annual Purple and Gold spring-football game promises to provide much excitement, as a variety of events have been scheduled in addition to the football game.

The second annual Great Pirate Purple and Gold Pigskin Pig-Out Party will get underway Friday, April 19, with the Great Pirate Purple and Gold Pigskin Pig-Out Golf Classic.

The Super-Ball tournament will feature ex-Baltimore Oriole Boog Powell who will be the keynote speaker at the golf luncheon on Friday afternoon.

In addition to the golf tournament, there will be a tennis tournament, intramural softball competition, special olympics and a women's softball game against Liberty Baptist.

Friday night a mini carnival with rides, a live country band and a demonstration by "The Aerobic Workshop" will be given.

Later that night, the pigs will begin to be cooked for the pig-eating contest. The evening will be highlighted by a fireworks display in Ficklen Stadium, and the public will be able to visit with Miller Lite all-Stars Boog Powell and ex-Oakland Raider Ben Davidson.

On Saturday, the pigs will be judged and barbecue plates will be sold. Ben Davidson will be available for autographs and will also be featured in a arm-wrestling contest.

Also on Saturday, there will be clowns with purple and gold balloons, a kiddie game competition for the youngsters and a suntan-bikini contest.

There will also be a best dressed purple and gold contest among tailgaters. In addition, Pirate football players will be available for autographs.

The weekend will then be highlighted Saturday afternoon with the Purple and Gold game beginning at 3:30.

The weekend promises great fun and much excitement. More details about the Second Annual Purple and Gold Pirate Pigskin Pig-Out Party and spring practice for the Pirate gridders in upcoming editions.

Lady Pirates Successful In Last Three

By SCOTT COOPER
Co-Sports Editor

After a tough loss to the University of Connecticut on Thursday morning, the Lady Pirate softball team chalked up three straight victories.

Despite a fine pitching performance from Stacey Boyette, ECU dropped a 1-0 decision to U-Conn. The game was a pitcher's duel throughout. In the top-half of the eighth inning, two pirate errors gave Connecticut their game-winning run. With the loss, Boyette drops to 1-3 on the year. However, ECU head coach Sue Manahan knows Boyette is better than her record indicates.

"Stacey's been pitching very well," Manahan said. "She's been up against some of the tougher pitchers — and we haven't been hitting well when she's pitching."

In the Pirate loss, Boyette went 1-3 at the plate. Pam Young also was 1-3 with a triple. Wendy Ozmment went 1-2.

In the Lady Pirates' second game, they shut out George Mason 5-0 behind the strong-arm pitching of Pam Young. ECU started strong by scoring all five of their runs in the first two innings of the game.

Offensively, the Pirates had a big day as four players had at least one hit. Sue Pierce led the way as she went 2-2. Young and Carla Alphin both went 1-3. Lisa Zmuda was also 2-3 with two RBIs.

With the Lady Pirates' hitting the ball well, coach Sue Manahan feels that the team is starting to come together now.

"We hit the ball really well this past few days," Manahan said. "That (ECU's hitting) has been

Tenth TKE Boxing Tourney Crowd Pleaser

By SCOTT COOPER
Co-Sports Editor

The tenth annual Tau Kappa Epsilon Boxing Tournament finals took place in Minges Coliseum last Thursday, with eight amateur champions named.

The tournament was sponsored by Miller High Life and the money raised went to St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

The first bout of the evening was between John Rogers and Charles Patrick. In the first round, the two fought evenly as they traded punches throughout the round. The 152-pound Patrick then took command of the fight in the second round, drawing blood from the nose of the 146-pound Rogers.

Despite the blood from his nose, Rogers came out aggressively in the final round. However, this was not enough to impress the judges as Patrick won the fight by a decision.

In the heavier competition, 197-pound Warren Williams and 198-pound Christopher Simpson battled for the three rounds. The opening round was basically slow as the fighters felt each other out.

In round two, the pace picked up as Simpson started out as the aggressor. However, Williams got Simpson on the ropes and landed some convincing blows — causing the crowd to become very involved and extremely vocal. This proved to be the difference in the fight, because the third round was pretty even. The judges gave the decision to Williams.

The third bout was perhaps the closest fight of the night, John Kilpatrick, weighing in at 154 pounds, battled 188-pound Robbie Martin. Kilpatrick landed occasional right-hand jabs throughout the first two rounds. However, Martin landed with more frequency and had Kilpatrick on the ropes late in the second round.

The third round was very close as the boxer's exchanged punches. Martin must have impressed the judges, as he won by a decision.

The first knockdown came in the fourth bout as the tournament MVP won in the second round on an RSC (referee stops contest). Scott Francis, 130 pounds, combined repeated body blows to knock off 134-pound competitor Ken Riggsbee.

After a pretty even first round, Francis caught Riggsbee on the ropes with heavy right hands to the midsection, causing Riggsbee to drop to the canvas. Francis was later named as the tourney MVP.

The fifth fight of the night involved 169-pound Thomas Johnson and 176-pound Will Godfrey (who was a late replacement).

After a relatively slow first round, the two exchanged punches in the second. Johnson used his hand quickness and excellent mobility to land punches and keep away from Godfrey's jabs. A taunt by Johnson arose the crowd as the round came to a close.

In the third round, Johnson landed a barrage of blows, causing Godfrey to take two standing-eight counts. As weary as he was, Godfrey managed to hold on and finish the fight. Johnson won by decision.

The super heavyweights took to action in the sixth match as 240-pound southpaw Ed Smith won by decision over 240-pound Larry Suggs.

Both started early as they traded punches throughout the first round. In round two, Suggs looked as if he'd take command. However, two big right hands by Smith led to a standing-eight count for Suggs late in the round.

In the third round, both boxers were a bit tired as neither fighter was able to put together any combinations. Smith went on to win by decision.

The seventh bout may have been the most exciting fight of the evening. James Thompson, 175 pounds, gave up 10 pounds when he faced 185-pound Don Hicks.

From the start, both fighters exchanged heavy blows with Thompson doing most of the damage. Thompson's quick left jab landed repeatedly throughout the bout.

Hicks proved to be a tough customer as he absorbed many straight left hands from Thompson. Thompson effectively used his jab to keep the bigger Hicks away.

In the third round both landed heavy blows. In the latter part of the bout, the two were standing toe-to-toe, exchanging punches — as the crowd came to their feet. Thompson won by decision.

"I fought like a raging bull — in the image of Rocky Marciano," a tired James Thompson said. "I'll take anything they give me, and throw 'em back even harder. I appreciated the quality of my opponent."

Thompson went on to say that the TKE tournament is a good one and that it is the best amateur tournament in North Carolina.

In the final bout of the evening, 155-pound Mark Saied defended his title by defeating 154-pound John Sheard.

After a slow start, Saied landed a heavy right hand to Sheard's face. This resulted in an eight count. The two exchanged punches in the second, with Saied getting the better of it.

In the final round, the action stiffened somewhat and Saied went on to win by decision. This was the fourth championship victory in four years for Saied.

The crowd was very appreciative of the effort that the boxers put out as well as the quality of the refereeing.

Johnson's Homeruns Pace Pirate Victories

win over Eastern Kentucky Thursday as Mark Shank broke loose for five runs-batted-in on two homers and a double.

Shank's homer in the first gave the Pirates a 1-0 lead. Jay McGraw hit one out in the second and a Jim Riley triple was followed by a single by Greg Hardison for a 3-0 margin.

Winfred Johnson made it 4-0 in the third with his seventh-season homer. Robert Langston singled in the fourth, then Shank's second homer made it 6-0 in a hurry.

Shank came back the next inning to double off the fence, scoring Riley and Langston. Eastern Kentucky got one run on a double in the eighth, but the Pirates came back with a run on a wild pitch with the bases full for a 9-1 lead. The Colonels added a run in the ninth for the final margin of 9-2.

Jim Peterson allowed only five hits and three walks in eight innings to make his record 2-1. Chubby Butler finished up the game for ECU.

On Friday, Pirate sensation Winfred Johnson got his fourth win against no losses in a rugged 10-7 win over the visiting University of Connecticut Huskies.

It wasn't Johnson's pitching that did it though — it was his three homeruns. ECU picked up runs in the first and second inning, then Johnson poled one out of the park in the third for a 3-0 lead.

Jon Gery hit a two-run homer for the Huskies in the fourth to close the gap. In the Pirate half of the fourth, Johnson followed a Greg Hardison double with his second homerun of the day, giving ECU a 5-2 lead.

ECU's Mark Cockrell homered in the sixth, then Connecticut got a run in the seventh for a 7-3 score. The Pirates' lead vanished quickly in the eighth. The Huskies pushed one run over, then Gerry LaPenta blasted a three run homer to tie the score at seven apiece.

Unfortunately for Connecticut, Winfred Johnson had one more at bat. He promptly ended the game with a three run blast in the bottom of the ninth to save his own pitching game 10-7.

The Pirates split a doubleheader against the Huskies Saturday. Connecticut grabbed a 3-0 lead in the first inning, but once again ECU responded quickly with four of their own in the bottom of the frame.

Mont Carter singled, then Mark Cockrell's double was followed by an infield hit by Jim Riley, scoring one run. Cockrell came in on a fielder's choice and Mark Shank got a hit. Greg Hardison's single scored Langston, then Chris Bradberry's single made it 4-3 Pirates.

Jay McGraw singled in the third and scored on an out to increase the ECU lead to 5-3. The Huskies rallied with a run in the fourth and evened it up on a Jon Gery homer an inning later. After ECU's McGraw reached on an error in the seventh, a Carter single brought him in for the winning run.

Mike Christopher ran his pitching record to 4-0 for the Pirates, giving up 10 hits and two walks.

The Huskies finally silenced the ECU bats in the third game of the series to take a 6-1 victory. Connecticut scored four times in the first, which turned out to be more than enough for the win.

The Huskies' John Shea threw a three-hitter at the Pirates and gave up only four walks. The only bright spot for ECU was two hits by Mike Wells, including a solo homer in the third.

The main blows for Connecticut were a two-run homer by Gerry LaPenta in the first and a Scott Cormier roundtripper in the fifth.

Tom Webb took the loss in his initial appearance for the Pirates, but pitched well after the first inning and threw a complete game. He surrendered five hits and four walks, but settled down after the opening frame and gave up only three hits and one walk in the remaining six innings.

The ECU season record went to 11-3 after this hectic week of action. The ECU-Maryland game yesterday was the Pirates' fifteenth consecutive home game.

This unusual season opening came as a result of postponements and site switches in three scheduled away games. ECU will attempt to play its first away games in a doubleheader at UNC-Wilmington tomorrow, then return to Harrington Field on Thursday to face the Tar Heels of North Carolina at 3 p.m.

IRS Preseason Softball Champions Crowned

By JEANNETTE ROTH
Staff Writer

A little dampness, but otherwise ideal conditions set the stage for a most exciting intramural pre-season softball extravaganza this weekend.

As teams prepared for the regular season, the tournament provided not only practice, but shed a light on the regular season top picks.

In the women's division, last year's pre-season champions, The Enforcers, were defeated by defending regular season champs, The Eliminators. They (the Eliminators) walked away with three victories and the pre-season title.

The final match-up was between The Eliminators and second place finisher Slay Mamas. The game began with a short rally by the 'Mamas,' who took an early 2-0 lead. Behind the hitting powers of Lorraine Foster and the rest of the Eliminator staff, Slay soon fell under the bats as the contest ended 18-8.

In the men's finals, Spit Fire went head-to-head against the men from the Elbow Room. Under cloudy skies, Spit Fire couldn't stay away from home and ended the game 13 runs ahead of their opponent, 15-2.

Regular season play begins this week and Sneaker Sam has got his top three squads in mind. In the ladies division, defending champion The Eliminators lead the polls, followed by The Enforcers and Slay Mamas.

The men's division may be up for grabs this season, but Sam's looking at either the Gambling Bombers, Skool Brothers or Third Regiment to walk away with the all-campus prize.

Team handball is once again in the spotlight and play begins this week. Old Heartbreakers never die, or at least that's what they're saying in the women's league as Ginger Rothermel takes the helm of a familiar squad with a new name. Look for Life's A Beach at the top of the polls.

Garrett Five-O looks tough in the men's league, along with perennial power Third Regiment. Sam puts Five-O in front, with the Regiment falling in at second. Several other squads look tough enough to shoot their way into this year's finals.

Registration for co-rec volleyball closes out today. The competition begins March 25. If you want to call the shots, head out to Memorial Gym, room 102, at 6 p.m. and learn how to officiate the sport. No experience is necessary. To register for volleyball and co-rec racketball, come by room 204 Memorial Gym or call 757-6387 by Wednesday March 20.
