Questions raised

Officials discuss needed overpass

By CINDY BROOME
News Editor

Many students have expressed concern over having an overpass constructed at the intersection of Tenth St. and College Hill Drive to alleviate pedestrian traffic and lessen the danger of pedestrian-vehicle accidents.

Some university administrators believe an overpass is needed. However, now they raise questions as to the feasibility.

"I think we need it," said Dr. James H. Tucker, Dean of Student Affairs. "But will the students use it?"

The latest estimate on the proposed overpass was approximately $200,000, according to Cliff Moore, Vice-Chancellor for Business Affairs.

Moore said he thinks students would not use an overpass.

"I could be wrong," said Moore. "But human nature being what it is, people cut corners and don't always use sidewalks."

The N.C. Legislature appropriates money to the Dept. of Transportation, which would appropriate money for the overpass, according to Moore, because an overpass on Tenth Street would be a state project.

In the meantime, almost $30,000 worth of lighting was installed in the intramural fields on the north side of Ficklen Stadium.

Moore said the university requested money from the legislature in 1973 to install intramural lighting; $29,961.12 was appropriated in 1975.

"It was a specific appropriation for capital improvement by lighting those intramural fields," said Moore.

"It's a great improvement over what we had," said Chancellor Leo Jenkins. "It's a very important part of the program."

"You can't do everything at once," he said concerning the overpass. "It's an entirely different project."

Moore also said the overpass would have to be ramped for handicapped students.

"If the students would use it, I think it would be a fine thing," he said. "I'm afraid someone will get killed."

"I think there should be a continued effort to get it."

Cheerleaders funded by SU, SGA, Athletic Dept.

By DOUG WHITE
Assistant News Editor

Funding of the ECU cheerleaders should be the total responsibility of the athletic department, according to Dennis Ramsey, Student Union president.

"I don't feel the Student Union should be required to appropriate $600 a year to the cheerleaders when we derive little if any direct benefit," said Ramsey.

"This whole situation started during the school year 1971-72 when the Student Union broke away from the SGA.

"Just before the final split, two amendments were tacked onto the independence bill giving us total responsibility for Homecoming and the cheerleaders," said Ramsey.

The Student Union funded the cheerleaders that year and they caused "a terrible headache," said Ramsey.

At the beginning of the 1972-73 school year, Rudolph Alexander, Associate Dean of Student Affairs, negotiated a "gentleman's agreement" with the Athletic Department which placed responsibility for managing the cheerleading squad in the hands of the Athletic Department and left the Student Union with the responsibility of providing $600 a year to the cheerleaders, according to Ramsey.

"While I feel there is a definite need for the cheerleaders, I do not see where the Student Union should be involved."

The Athletic Department almost solely benefits from the cheerleaders," said Ramsey.

The cheerleaders receive $800 a year from the Athletic Department's budget of approximately $1,100,000, according to Cliff Moore, Vice-Chancellor for Business Affairs.

In addition to the cheerleaders the Athletic Department supports 19 sports with a budget approximately two-thirds less than other major universities in the state, according to Bill Cain, Director of Athletics.

"They (cheerleaders) have permission to use state vehicles and this year I got them a van to travel to the games," said Cain.

"I think they do a great job with the funds allotted them. You have to understand that in addition to the 19 sports we finance, we support the ECU Marching Pirates out of our budget."

Dr. Jenkins returns after suffering mild heart attack

By SAM ROGERS

After missing East Carolina's first three football games of the season, Chancellor Leo W. Jenkins will attend the Pirates' home opener against VMI this Saturday night.

Jenkins, who suffered a mild heart attack in July, has been unable to attend any of the Pirate football games this year because of emotional stress, according to Charles Blake, Assistant to the Chancellor.

"Dr. Jenkins was advised by his doctor not to attend the games because of the extreme emotional stress involved," said Blake. "His recovery has been moving along very well and he's just about back at full strength."

Jenkins suffered the mild attack July 7 in San Francisco traveling with an ECU western alumni organization. He returned to Greenville five days later and entered the hospital, where he remained for three weeks.

Blake said that all the chancellor's out of town speaking engagements and appearances were postponed throughout the rest of July, August, and September.

Dr. Donald Tucker, Jenkin's physician at Pitt County Memorial Hospital, reported the chancellor was showing steady improvement after a checkup last Tuesday.

"Right now, Dr. Jenkins is spending as much time as he ever has in his office and around the campus," said Blake. "One major factor in his recuperation was his strength. If this hadn't been a strong factor Dr. Jenkins might have been in much more serious trouble."

Blake also said Jenkins will travel with the team next week to Columbia for the game against the University of South Carolina.

Senators question confidentiality rule

By STEVE WILSON
Staff Writer

Some Faculty Senate members Tuesday questioned the strict confidentiality under which the Chancellor Selection Committee must operate as mandated by the UNC Board of Governors.

The Chancellor Selection Committee is responsible for the replacement of Chancellor Leo Jenkins, who will retire this year.

Some Senators requested more knowledge about the actions of the committee, especially the names of the nominees for the chancellorship.

Other members defended the mandatory confidentiality for being in the best interests of those involved.

The committee will decide on two candidates to be submitted to UNC President William C. Friday, if approved, these two will be considered in the election for the chancellor.

In other business, the Senate considered some legislation which concerned a six and one half per cent salary increase for faculty members and an increase in insurance, retirement, and other benefits.

Additional funding for ECU authorized by the UNC Board of Governors was also discussed.

The Board wants to raise the teaching quality standard of all the UNC constituent schools to equal the national teaching quality standard achieved by UNC-Chapel Hill.

The faculty symposium on teaching methods is tentatively scheduled for January 18-19, 1978.

The Senate approved the Calendar Committee's motion to change the date of Spring graduation. Graduation day has been changed from the previously scheduled Sun., May 14, to Fri., May 12.

Freshman

Freshman registers may be picked up Wed., Sept. 28 in the SGA vice-president's office, Rm. 229.

Parking

Attention is drawn to the fact that freshmen are prohibited from having or operating a motor vehicle on the ECU campus between midnight Sunday night and 5 p.m. Friday, according to Joe Calder.

Freshmen vehicles violating this policy are very likely to be towed. The towing fee charged by local towing companies is $20.

A Freshmen parking lot is located on the south side of 14th street between Berkley road and Elm street. This lot will hold approximately 100 to 125 vehicles. Another Freshman parking lot is located two (2) blocks north of Fletcher Dorm between second and third streets on the east side of Reade street.

This lot will hold approximately 400 cars. These are the only two parking lots available to Freshmen between midnight Sunday night and 5 p.m. Friday night.

Freshmen parking their cars on city streets must comply with city parking ordinances affecting the area. The Greenville Police Department strictly enforces the city's parking ordinances and will tow illegally parked vehicles.

N.Y.

The Student Union Travel Committee is taking reservations now for the New York trip over Thanksgiving holidays. Spend four days in the Big Apple seeing the sights. Legislative, class officer candidates speak

KEVIN McCOURT

I will skip the political redundancy of campaign promises, and spare you from the boring sermon-like speeches. But as a veteran of two SGA legislatures and the Attorney General's office, the main theme behind my Sophomore Class President candidacy is unity.

Most candidates are promising the world while forgetting that before the legislature can act on an issue, it has to be united.

We went through, a tough period this past spring, and the clout of the legislature was heavily damaged. Before we can promise the world, we should be able to command our constituent's respect.

DANNY SMITH

Though I have not previously served in the SGA, I have served, and still do, as an officer on the Slay House Council. I have also served on the ECU Honor Council. Through these activities I have gained valuable experience working with people. Extending the drop period to midterms and eliminating the foreign language requirement are two of the numerous changes I'd like to see. Dedication and hard work are two promises I can make if I am elected to serve you.

BILL BENNETT

The week of September 19-26 may well be remembered as one of the most important seven days in the history of ECU Student Government. Many things that we take for granted, that we expect from our SGA - The FOUNTAINHEAD, better lighting on campus, funding for the Fine Arts, a BUCCANEER - All these things are hanging in the balance, pending the outcome of next Monday's SGA elections.

I will strongly support these programs and will always be open to proposals on how the SGA can best serve the student interest.

Your vote for me, BILL BENNETT, and the entire slate endorsed by the Students for Honest S.G.A.

ALONZO NEWBY

As a candidate for the office of Freshman Class President, I am provided this space to present my platform. However, I have chosen this time to urge each and every member of the Freshman Class, to cast their vote for someone. We cannot allow ourselves to fall victim to the apathy that exists elsewhere.

If, of course, it does matter who you vote for. But it is of more importance that whoever he/she is they have the overwhelming support of the freshman.

The opportunity for the strongest leadership possible, is clearly yours.

MICHELLE OBOLD

How many times have you yelled obscenities (or more creative adjectives) about the lack of parking at ECU? Have you ever wondered where all of those student fees are going?

I am a sophomore day student with some of the same gripes as you. I would really like to be your representative too, and liaison with the S.G.A.

ECU's legislators will appropriate approximately 300,000.00 this year that can be used to your advantage - if you allow it.

Let me be your Representative if you any suggestions, questions, problems, or scruples - Call me at 758-8452 or come by 304 S. Jarvis St.

—ECU did not have a Buccaneer Last Year for the first time in over 50 years.

—At the regional IFC Convention last year in Atlanta it was discovered the our IFC is the only one in the Southeast that does not receive Funds from the student government.

—Students have no appeal, no chance to give their side of the story when the campus police tow their cars, and they tow hundreds of student's cars through out the year.

"These are some serious problems that need to be corrected. I will be more than willing to put forth my best effort to solve them if the students elect me to the legislature."

Homecoming Pirate

Nominees are presently being received for the Homecoming Pirates and Court for Homecoming 1977 (Milestones of ECU: A Tribute to Dr. Leo Jenkins).

The Pirate selection is being organized by Kappa Sigma Fraternity in conjunction with the Inter-Fraternity Council of ECU. The contest is open to ALL groups and nominees' names should be submitted to: Chuck Freedman, c/o Homecoming Pirate, 700 E. 10th St., Greenville, North Carolina 27834.

Nominees (1 per organization; must be ECU students. An 8X10 black and white, glossy photograph must accompany the nominee's name, address and phone number. No entry fee is required.

Deadline for entries will be Sept. 26 and voting will take place from Oct. 3 through 5 p.m., Oct. 5th.

Nominees' pictures will be displayed in the lobby of the Student Store along with the ballot box during the week.

An eight member court will be selected and notified Friday night prior to the parade on Saturday, Oct. 8th. These eight members will be expected to ride in the parade and attend the game with an escort.

A Pirate will be chosen from these eight members (on totals accumulated during voting period) and presented during half-time.

All members participating in the Homecoming Pirate contest are urged to ride in the parade. However, transportation will only be furnished for the top eight members. If you plan to have your member participate in the parade, contact: Chuck Freedman, 700 E. 10th St., Greenville, N.C.

Payne supported as SGA write-in

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

The time has come for ECU students to wake up and support a leader, not a politician. The upcoming elections are your chance as students to do something about this campus and its leading officers.

Therefore I would like to take this opportunity to personally endorse Mr. Tommy Joe Payne as a write-in candidate for the office of Junior Class President.

Tommy Joe is that element of change that this campus has needed for so long.

I have personally known and worked with Tommy Joe for the past three years. As a friend, he is a superb individual. As a leader, he is a dynamic, upstanding personality, with a barrage of new and innovating ideas.

Looking over the past, you have to examine one's credentials. Tommy Joe Payne has a list of credibilities unsurpassed by many in his three years as an ECU student.

Having served as a member of the Day Student Legislature in 1976, along with involvement on the Appreciations Committee for the SGA, and on the Media Board, his willingness to work for you is obvious. But the list goes on...

Tommy Joe has also been involved in many outside leadership positions. Serving as treasurer of Phi Kappa Tau in 1976 as well as the fraternity executive board, has proven his abilities to set objectives and accomplish goals!

I wholeheartedly urge all of you to vote next Monday because of the importance of elections and NEW leaders it can bring to this campus.

Vote for a leader, not a politician! Support Tommy Joe Payne as WRITE-IN candidate for Junior Class President.

Sincerely,
David B. Wright
Pres Phi Kappa Tau

Separation?

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

"Students for a honest SGA"? How about "Let's elect friends of Sessoms, Reed & Ramsey." I thought there was a purpose to separating the student government and student entertainment. I was disgusted last year when Dennis Ramsey and other Student Union officials were involved with the "election" and as a Student Union member and student I'm disgusted once again.

Pirate supporter defends ECU fans' behavior

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

In recent letters published by the N & O and FOUNTAINHEAD, certain slanderous remarks were made concerning the integrity and behavior displayed by the student body and supporters of ECU football. I would like to clarify these and other situations concerning the recent victories by ECU over two of the ACC's "Big Four," Duke and NCSU.

In the letter published by FOUNTAINHEAD Sept. 13, nearly two weeks after the ECU - State game, Mr and Mrs. David Powell of Raleigh have considered bringing criminal charges against a drunk fan who, Mrs. Powell claims, was an East Carolina supporter. This fan tossed a liquor bottle and hit her husband in the head, requiring several stitches. With the attendance over 49,200 many State fans in the area had switched teams and were rooting for East Carolina because of the poor performance by State. So how could she tell who was pulling for ECU and who was rooting for State? We couldn't help it if the final score was ECU -28, NCSU -23.

Upset State fans were seen getting drunk while waving red and white pom-poms, and participating in post-game activities as fighting, tearing ECU stickers off bumpers of cars, and all-in-all having a poor attitude towards the final outcome of the game. The only thing left to say to Mr. and Mrs. Powell is to look at your own school and quit criticizing others.

During the Duke-ECU CONTEST FANS FROM "Blue-Devil Country" were cheering and yelling during the "National Anthem," and didn't even cheer for their own team when they came back before the second half began. The nationally known East Carolina University Marching Band's drum corps were invited by the Duke band to come to the home side of the field to converse, but when they went, they were met with a barrage of ice and cups. If that is a good representation of the school, I would hate to see the deserters.

If you are any kind of football fan, you should know by now that you do not act as if you were at a funeral. All forms of spirit are used throughout the game, including screaming, hollering, and yes, cussing every now and then.

We at ECU think a lot of our athletic program and will support the Pirates 100 percent all the time, not just when they are beating Atlantic Coast Conference teams.

Thank you,
Duane Grooms

Pingston for McCourt

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

SGA elections are once again in progress. The fall elections deal with all class presidents and legislators for the SGA. This year marks the first time that the SGA is holding elections on a Monday, of all days. All students should make a special effort to vote and become involved in this year's political activities.

As Vice-President of the SGA last year, I came in contact with most of the candidates on the ballot. All are very conscientious people, but one stands out as an extraordinary student who has devoted a great deal of time to the betterment of East Carolina and the people who live and work here. Kevin McCourt has served the students as Freshmen Class President. During his first year at ECU, he also served as chairman of the Parking Committee which was vital in outlining the parking problem. He also served in the SGA Legislature for two years and has worked toward such projects as the overpass, constitutional revision, communications board, expanded visitation rights and other successful legislation. Recently, he has served as acting Attorney General and has worked well with the Honor Council.

Kevin McCourt is for you the students. He is not concerned with petty politics or obligations to any organization. He is his own man, and he should be your choice this fall. Be sure to vote Kevin McCourt, Sophomore Class President.

With regards to the upcoming SGA elections, I would like to voice my approval and praise for a hard working, and diligent person who is campaigning for the SGA Legislature and Junior Class President, as a write in candidate: Tommy Joe Payne.

Having been in the SGA legislature last year I came to know Tommy very well and recognize the fine work that he did on the Appropriations Committee. He was one of the most active members on the committee. He always voted with regards to the best interest of the students.

Tommy Joe, with his previous legislative experience, would be an asset to the Executive Council of the SGA. I am certain that he would continue to practice a high degree of integrity and fairness on the council if elected Junior Class President.

Remember, Tommy Joe Payne's name will not be on the ballot for Jr. Class President, so it is imperative that the voters write his name on the ballot. Let's elect an honest and capable person to serve not only in the legislature but on the all important Executive Council as Junior Class President.

Sincerely,
Kirk Edgerton

Tennis courts not fixed

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

I am writing in regard to the condition of the tennis courts at the Minges Complex. It is my understanding that the tennis courts have not been resurfaced for ten years. The condition of the courts certainly indicates the need for immediate resurfacing. The fact that the courts have not been resurfaced in ten years means that only minimum maintenance expenses have been incurred. The cost of resurfacing this type of hard court is minimal since a level foundation is already present. The total cost of resurfacing should not exceed $7,000.00 and would require less than one week to complete.

It should be remembered that both the men's and women's tennis teams compete and practice on these courts in addition to the numerous students and faculty who play these recreationally. Asking the tennis teams to play competitive tennis on these courts is analogous to asking football teams to play on uneven turf. It would seem that if money can be raised to enlarge the football stadium and to build extravagant enclosures for VIP's at the stadium then certainly a relatively small sum could be committed to ECU tennis program and the playing enjoyment of students and faculty.

Unhappy with editorial

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

Fellow Students, you have been chosen as judge and jury for the trial of myself by this "unbiased" newspaper. In the editorial of Sept. 20, I was accused, unjustly, of improprieties while serving on the SGA during the past year. Please let me state my case.

I have been aligned with a "conspiracy" of "power hungry politicians" which plan to overrun the government on our campus. This news of a conspiracy is misinformation wrongly directed by the editor. I have not been affiliated in political activities, during this academic year, with any of the "staunch supporters of Tim Sullivan." Being an art major, plus a proud member of Lambda Chi Alpha Fraternity, I have little desire to create any political movement to gain power for myself.

By running for Sophomore Class President, I feel that I could best represent the greatest amount of people being in SGA. Yet, I could also serve day students by holding the day legislature position. If the editor had any knowledge of SGA methods, she would understand that an individual is allowed only to hold one legislative position. Therefore, it would only be possible for any of the people mentioned in the Editorial to hold one legislative position.

By being in the SGA during this academic year I would support the BUC. However, when the legislature decided to do away with the yearbook I was not involved in the SGA. Yet I get blamed for its destruction. Also, the FOUNTAINHEAD editor has implied that I was involved in threats of physical violence toward Neil Sessoms and others. Although Neil and I have political differences, I have no personal vendetta against him. Nor do I have any intention of threatening any physical harm to any person on this campus.

Fellow Students, it is this campus and its students that I am concerned with and it is for this reason that I have served ECU with my best intentions during the past year. Concerned with the barriers on this campus for handicapped students, I worked for the ordering of a specially equipped vans for handicapped students. Also, the Cheerleaders requested funds for this coming year, and it was Philip Barbee and I who worked to get legislation passed. And for the first time in years, the art department was given a small portion of its financial input into SGA. These are a few of the many things that I accomplished during my term in the legislature, although I was only installed as a Day Representative in April.

The Students do need to know what the SGA is doing now. However, I believe that the petty politics that this paper is playing is slanderous and damaging to the students right for correct information. Therefore, the students must decide and vote for the best man during the SGA elections. But please vote for the best.

Yours Sincerely,
Chris Cheatham

Candidate endorsements

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

The purpose of this letter is to make public my support of a few candidates who are seeking SGA legislative and class officer positions.

We must remember that SGA is a powerful governing body. It is charged with the duties of distributing student fees to support publications, the transit system, and to finance programs for drama, art, and music. SGA is also responsible for maintaining the student judiciary, another powerful branch of student government.

The people we elect to hold office must be responsible, intelligent, and fair. (See SGA, p. 7)

Priorities reevaluated

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

The fate of this university could well lie in the balloting for SGA class officers and legislators on Sept. 26. The normal issues of such a campaign take a backseat to the issue of a stable legislature. We saw how one issue can deadlock a legislature and ruin reputations even on the college level. Petty politics prolonged the issue and stand in the way this fall.

With Dr. Jenkins' veto, the issue of another election last Spring was technically dead, but the editorials and cartoons of this paper extended its literary life. Keeping this issue alive only for the sake of revenge or spite is in fact doing the students the most harm. We find a type of journalism that is over-publicizing the faults of a few, instead of covering the accomplishments of many. I am not jumping on anyone's case, but only trying to emphasize our need to re-evaluate our priorities.

During the debate over the re-election issue last spring, it was a favorite past time to associate a legislator with one of the two controversial presidential candidates. To me, the candidates had nothing to do with my stand against another election. To say the least, I was somewhat less than enthusiastic with the choice for president. For one thing, I knew Tim Sullivan too well, while on the other hand, I knew very little about Neil Sessoms. Neither one of the candidate's reputations or threats stood in the way of what I thought was right.

I feel the same way now. I think we should put our biggest priority on organizing a legislature that will work to the benefit of the students who elect them. It should be a legislature that will stand on issues, not personalities. Unless we work toward this goal, the SGA will gradually lose the student's faith, and in turn neutralize itself.

Jones adviser disapproves of 'biased' editorials

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

In my three years as an ECU student and reader of Fountainhead, I have never read an issue as one-sided as the Sept. 20th issue. I am, of course, speaking of the articles, editorial, cartoon, and letters to the editor concerning the "attempt" of the "Sullivan regime" to take over the SGA.

I am not a Sullivan or Sigma Nu supporter nor can I claim to have ever been, but I hate seeing any single issue of Fountainhead which doesn't present both sides of the story. Though I do not know Mr. Sullivan personally, I am acquainted with a few of his supporters and respect them as honest individuals. The "Students For Honest SGA," however, seems to imply that these people are "dishonest" because of their association with Mr. Sullivan. It hurts me to think that "Student Leaders" (including Dennis Ramsey) and the Fountainhead hate someone so much that they are willing to destroy him and his associates politically without presenting solid justification for doing so.

I will not support a political faction which so cleverly disguises itself as "Students For Honest SGA." And I cannot continue to appreciate a newspaper that will allow itself to support a single political faction.

I urge all students of ECU to examine all candidates closely and to vote for the men and women that they think will do the best job, regardless of whether those men and women receive the "Students For Honest SGA" seal of approval.

Payne for Jr. President

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

I strongly support Tommy Joe Payne in the upcoming election as a write-in candidate for Junior Class President. Even though Tommy Joe and I were opponents in last year's Spring election, there has never been any animosity between us and there is certainly a strong tie of mutual respect. I am not only writing this letter in support of Tommy Joe, but I am actively campaigning for him.

I remind all Juniors, Tommy Joe Payne is a WRITE-IN candidate, so you must write his name on the ballot for Junior Class President.

I look forward to working closely with Tommy Joe on the Executive Council this year.

Sincerely,
Reed Warren

igent and above reproach, most of all they must be honest. It is unfortunate that some members of last year's student government were lacking in these qualities. SGA legislators and class presidents wield a sword of awesome power. Because of the power that is vested in these offices it is of the utmost importance that students take a long hard look at those who are seeking office.

It would be wise for students to read and strongly consider the list of candidates being offered by the ECU "Students For Honest SGA." Much work and research was done by the organization in preparing the list. Those candidates being supported by the "Students For Honest SGA" are capable people who will be representative of their constituents.

The choice is ours, let's make the best of it. I encourage the voters to cast a ballot for Tommy Joe Payne, a write in vote for Junior Class President. Also David Cartwright, Randy Ingram, Hal Sharpe, Kevin McCourt, Charles Sune, and Bill Bennett. Space does not permit me to endorse all of the qualified candidates, those I have listed are just a few of the many good people that we have the opportunity to elect.

SCJ to sponsor workshop

By CINDY BROOME
News Editor

The Society for Collegiate Journalists (SCJ) is sponsoring a journalism workshop Sat. Sept. 24 with the journalism and art departments.

The workshop, although geared towards high school journalists, can also be beneficial to college journalists, according to Michael Futch, SCJ president.

"Many ECU students in publications and broadcasting have an opportunity to benefit themselves by attending," said Futch.

"I don't think they're aware of it because they think it's mainly for high school students."

Registration will begin at 8:45 a.m. in the Leo W. Jenkins Fine Arts Center.

Approximately 22 workshop sessions will be offered, among them being newspaper production, law and ethics, radio and TV writing, and photography.

Futch said if the students are journalistically inclined, the workshop will help them gain insight about communications.

"It depends on how much the student puts into it as to how much he or she learns," said Futch.

"I think the workshop will be a success."

Committee helps battered wives

(LNS)—"We want people to know about Roxanne," said a member of the newly-formed Roxanne Gay Legal Defense Committee.

"We want to help battered women break the silence by letting them know that there are safe places to go for help and that there is support available all over the country."

Roxanne Gay, a black, 25-year-old student nurse from New Jersey, was charged August 11 with the murder of her husband after a night during which he brutally beat her. She pleaded not guilty, and a defense committee has formed to gain national support for Gay and all battered women.

During her last two years of marriage with Blenda Gay, a 6'5" defensive lineman for the Philadelphia Eagles, Roxanne had called the police more than 20 times for protection against her husband's brutality.

"I called the police so many times it wasn't funny," Gay said. "Whenever they called back, they'd discuss football with him."

The township's public safety director also admitted after Blenda's death that the Gay's had "a history of family problems" and that police had been called to the apartment on several occasions.

On December 20, after a night's violent quarreling and beating, Roxanne Gay stabbed her husband with a kitchen knife as he was resting. Her three-year-old daughter was asleep in the apartment at the time.

"He promised to finish me off when he got up," Roxanne told supporters. Robert Ansell Gay's attorney,

"If these men beat on other people as badly as they beat their wives, they'd be sitting in jail," said Nancy Musgrave, one of the center's founders.

"But because it's their wives, they're sent home with a slap on the wrist."

Many women are afraid to report beatings by their husbands or to leave them, because the men often follow and brutalize their wives. And in areas with no shelters, after pressing charges women must go back home to the men who assaulted them.

To send donations and for information about benefits being planned by the Defense Committee, contact the Women's Resources and Survival Center, Roxanne Gay Legal Defense Fund, 57 West Front St., Keyport, N.J. 07735. (201)-264-4141.

Heroin maintenance clinics considered

By MARK SHWARTZ
Pacific News Service

"We figure, conservatively, that at least 60 percent of the criminal calendar is drug related. Heroin maintenance would knock out 90 percent of the black market," said San Francisco Judge Francis McCarthy.

"We would be forfeiting the struggle over the real issues if we paralyze half a million people with heroin and accept the government as pusher," said Detroit Judge Justin Ravitz.

Legalize heroin? Pass it out free?

Outrageous ideas. Or so it has seemed to most of the nation's police and narcotics policy makers.

But now, after 50 years of strict heroin prohibition and an estimated addict population of a half million, a growing number of American doctors, judges and even some police are proposing establishment of "heroin maintenance centers" as a technique for cracking the cycle of drug addiction and crime.

Support for such experimental clinics has come from Consumer's

Union, the National League of Cities, the Drug Abuse Council and committees of the National District Attorney's Association and the American Bar Association.

Heroin maintenance, which is the cornerstone of drug control policy in Britain, has caught the attention of policy makers for several reasons:

- (1) sharply escalating urban crime rates including theft and personal violence;
- (2) dramatic increases in the use of narcotics since the mid-1960's, coupled with failure in traditional enforcement and treatment programs;
- (3) the relative success of the British system; and
- (4) the record of corrupt and illegal practices by both local and federal narcotics agencies.

Dr. Peter Bourne, President Carter's special assistant on drug abuse, has opened the door to heroin maintenance projects speaking in San Francisco at the annual conference of the Ford Foundation's Drug Abuse Council. Bourne declared such proposals "will get the same kind of consideration as any other scientific proposal."

itic proposal."

Bourne's statement also opened the door to a storm of controversy from the top of America's drug control establishment all the way down to neighborhood treatment clinics in such cities as New York, Detroit and Oakland.

Richard Hatcher, the black major of Gary, Indiana, is one of the leading proponents of heroin maintenance experiments. Last year he chaired the National League of Cities Committee that endorsed such experiments.

"Look, we've spent $3 billion a year on drug abuse and what we have to show for it is a half million addicts and maybe two million users," Hatcher argues. "In effect there already is a heroin maintenance program-and it's being operated by the underworld as opposed to the government."

"The only way to find out if heroin maintenance would help," he says, "is trying tightly controlled small experiments."

Even more outspoken is San Francisco Superior Court Judge Francis McCarthy, an 18-year veteran of the bench. "We have between 7,500 and 20,000 heroin users in this city," McCarthy told PNS.

"We figure, conservatively, that at least 60 percent of the criminal calendar is drug related. Heroin maintenance would knock out 90 percent of the black market, especially if high quality heroin were available."

The sort of program McCarthy favors would first legalize heroin, then administer it in government-controlled clinics to registered addicts free or at a few cents a dose, thereby undercutting the profit in black market heroin.

Although there have been no heroin maintenance clinics in America since the 1920's, the federal government did institute the controversial methadone maintenance projects of the late 1960's.

In 1969 the federal government spent $46 million on methadone and other drug treatment programs. By 1976 the budget had increased ten-fold.

It is partially because methadone maintenance has had so little impact on drug addiction, however, that a strong opposition has emerged against any legalized heroin projects.

Surprisingly, some of the staunchest resistance has come not from local police—where it might be expected—but instead from community groups and drug counseling programs.

"A band-aid solution" designed to "pacify people" is how Amos Henix, founder of New York's Reality House detoxification project described the new proposals. An ex-addict himself, Henix adamantly opposes any scheme to provide heroin to junkies. And, he says, his neighbors in Harlem are just as determined.

"If I can believe what I've been told, the people are going to blow them up if the government tries to put any clinics here. The people have had it as far as these band-aid solutions are concerned. If they think they're going to put one in our community they better think again."

Nancy Jo Albers, who works in Oakland, Ca., as the Alameda County Drug Co-ordinator, believes "setting up a heroin maintenance program would be one

Jesse Winchester to back Buffett in Minges show

What do the Eagles, Jackson Brown, and Waylon Jennings have in common? Jesse Winchester.

These three all proclaim themselves staunch Jesse Winchester fans. They came in contact with Winchester in various ways: through Joan Baez, Jimmy Buffett, the Everly Brothers, and Jonathan Edwards.

Unless you're over 30, you probably know Jesse Winchester only because these people have recorded his songs, if you know him at all.

Winchester's career was on the rise when he fled to Canada in the 60's rather than be drafted into the Vietnam War.

A member of a prominent Tennessee family, related by blood to Robert E. Lee, Winchester er refused to fight in a war to which he was morally opposed. With the support of his father, an Air Force Captain, he gave up a promising career that was just beginning to bloom.

This is Winchester's first American tour, indeed, his first American visit, in over 10 years. Jimmy Carter's pardon makes this return possible.

"I feel the pardon was an act of mercy," said Winchester in a People magazine article. "I never expected it. Justice would have said I could never come back, but mercy allowed the pardon."

Now Winchester is ready to begin anew, his career in the States after, as he puts it, "a ten-year drum roll." He is already quite popular in Britain, Holland, Germany, Denmark, Belgium, Switzerland, and of course, Canada.

A new Jesse Winchester album "Nothing But a Breeze," already been released by Brian Ahern, Emmy Lou Harris' producer.

Excited about the album as well as being home, Winchester doesn't want to dwell in the past. He feels that his decisions were important then, but that its time to go on to something new.

There are a few things which remain the same about Jesse Winchester. One is his music.

Tom Zito in the Washington Post describes him as a "master of the simple lyric, a sometimes sentimental view which is always tempered with a sense of humor."

Jesse Winchester will appear in his first American tour with Jimmy Buffett in Minges Coliseum on October 5, 1977, at 8: Tickets are $4.00 for ECU students and $6.00 for the public.

Art Exhibition Committee

Mendenhall plans next show

If response is greater for the second show sponsored by the Student Union Art Exhibition Committee than for the first, Mendenhall Student Center may have standing room only in its gallery.

Presently showing in the Mendenhall Gallery is a Smithsonian Traveling Exhibition. It consists of a series of photographs from the U.S. Environmental Agency's Project DOCUMERICA.

The next show is Delta Phi show. Delta Phi Delta is the art department's honor society, and while not every outstanding art student is a member, Delta Phi Delta members are all outstanding students.

Delta Phi Delta has two shows in Mendenhall Gallery this school year, a member's show and a competition show. The first show, which begins Oct. 2, is the member's show.

The show is a multi-media exhibition. There will be pieces from various areas of specialty, including textiles, ceramics, sculpture, painting, and commercial art. The show is as varied as Delta Phi Delta's membership.

Hopefully, response to the efforts of the Art Exhibition

Committee will continue to be enthusiastic. There has been a great deal of written as well as verbal response to the first show. Many people picked up posters from the exhibition, and the show also received television coverage.

ILLUMINA, the Student Union Art Exhibition Committee, invites you to view the Smithsonian Exhibit through October 1, 1977. They then encourage you to see the Delta Phi Delta show from Oct. 2 to Oct. 9. The Mendenhall Gallery is open from 8 a.m. to 11 p.m. on weekdays and 8:30 to 12 midnight on weekends.

Stewart Theater presents Shakespearean classic

Twelve of the world's most brilliant dancing stars will appear in Raleigh when the New York City Ballet film of A Midsummer Night's Dream is shown at Stewart Theatre on the North Carolina State University campus.

The first full-length ballet to be produced as a motion picture, A Midsummer Night's Dream will present the 100-member company in Shakespeare's romantic comedy. It was choreographed by George Balanchine to the music of Felix Mendelssohn.

Shows are on Sunday, Oct. 2 at 3, 7 and 9 p.m. and on Monday, Oct. 3 at 7 and 9 p.m. This is the first show in the Stewart Theatre Dance Series. Season ticket holders may attend any one performance.

Individual tickets will be available at the door at $2.50 for the general public and $1.50 for children, all students, and those 65 and older.

Suzanne Farrell and Edward Villella dance the parts of the fairy king and queen. Arthur Mitchell dances the role of Puck, the practical joker who causes the merry mix-ups in Shakespeare's romantic comedy. Jacques D'Amboise and Allegra Kent dance the spectacular performance in the palace of the Duke of Athens.

This is the famous scene for which Felix Mendelssohn, who wrote the music for the ballet, provided the world with his universal favorite, "The Wedding March."

Patricia McBride, Roland Vazquez, Mimi Paul and Nicholas Magallanes dance the roles of the young lovers whose romances are confused by the impish Puck.

Gloria Govrin dances the role of Hippolyta, Francisco Moncion is Theseus, Duke of Athens and Richard Rapp is the mummer known as Bottom. The fairies that dance in the magic forest are the students of the American School of the Ballet.

A Midsummer Night's Dream reaches a new high in ballet film production values. Howard Bay, noted Broadway scenic designer and Albert Brenner, outstanding stage artistic director joined hands to create the forest fairy land and spectacular palace set for the film.

The picture was produced by Richard Davis, former publisher of Dance Magazine for presentation by Michael Taines. The ballet company was under the direction of Balanchine, the film was directed by Dan Erickson and photographed in color by Arthur J. Ornitz.

Critics hailed A Midsummer Night's Dream as one of the best dance films ever made. (Live Barnes of the New York Times used these exact words in his review. Many have acclaimed it as being far more enjoyable on film than live on the stage.

A prime cultural event for the whole family this film will be shown in Stewart Theatre on the second floor of North Carolina State University's Student Center.

May be due to radioactive fallout

22 September 1977 FOUNTAINHEAD Page 11

Infant mortality rate rises in eastern U.S.

By JON STEWART
Pacific News Service

Radioactive fallout from the Sept. 26, 1976, Chinese nuclear bomb test may have been responsible for a sharp increase in infant mortality rates registered in the eastern United States early this year.

In a paper presented to the National Academy of Sciences in Washington, D.C., July 18, a well-known University of Pittsburgh physicist contends radioactive fallout was responsible for infant mortality increases of up to 60 percent in some areas of the Northeast.

The paper has already begun to generate controversy among scientists, who agree only that, if accurate, its impact on the public could be enormous.

Dr. Ernest J. Sternglass, professor of radiological physics and a frequent critic of nuclear hazards, surveyed infant mortality rates state by state during the three-month period of January to March 1977. Those rates were compared with the same period of 1976, well before the fallout rained down on the East Coast in the first week of October.

At the time, government health officials insisted there was no cause for alarm.

But, says Sternglass, "I found that it (infant mortality) increased there enormously in the first three months of this year, compared to the rest of the U.S."

The survey, which relied on statistics published monthly by the National Center for Health Statistics, found the following increases in infant mortality for the three-month period in these states:

Delaware, up 60 percent; New Jersey, up 15 percent; Connecticut, up 13 percent; New Hampshire, up 41 percent; Maine, up 17 percent.

Sternglass claims the path of the radioactive cloud missed New York, Rhode Island and Vermont, all of which showed either no significant increase or a decline.

Massachusetts, however, which was in the path of the cloud, also registered no increase. There, the State Department of Health, at the urging of radiation experts, agreed to withdraw dairy cattle from normal pasture feeding during the fallout incident and feed them instead on dry food to prevent contamination of milk.

In fact, infant mortality in Massachusetts actually declined by 30 percent during the three-month period, while rates in most surrounding states rose, says Sternglass.

And because only the East Coast was hard hit by the fallout, the infant mortality rate for the U.S. as a whole continued a relatively normal decline of six and a half percent, he says.

Government infant mortality statistics for the months immediately prior to the radioactive rain showed "normal mortality," he says. The increases only began to show up in December 1976, and were most noteworthy during the next three months.

On the West Coast, where it rained on Oregon and Washington during the fallout incident, only Washington saw an infant mortality increase (four percent), which most experts dismiss as statistically insignificant.

'The Canyon' to be shown on Tuesday

ECU NEWS BUREAU

"Is this any way to see the Grand Canyon? You bet it is!" said James Martin of Hartford, Conn., after "The Canyon" was shown at his university.

The film weaves together geology, paleontology, zoology and botany, and discusses the growing pains of our nation's 17th national park. Also features is a look at the people whose livelihoods stem from the Canyon.

Beginning with Garcias Cardenas' discovery of the canyon in 1540, the film traces the Sternglass says that total infant deaths (up to one year old) during the January-March 1977 period was 552 in the northeastern states affected. That figure compares with 471 infant deaths in the same states during the same period of 1976.

"So there were 81 extra babies that died in '77 in that three-month period alone and only in those states," says Sternglass.

"The federal government did not warn them in time and they didn't know what to do. We could have prevented a great deal of unnecessary death and potential defects which are going to show up in the children that didn't die."

He claims that an unknown number of the deaths were caused by exposure of fetuses to radioactive iodine 131 in the fourth through sixth months of pregnancy, when they are most susceptible to concentrations of the poison.

Grand Canyon's history to the present day, and takes viewers on a 321-mile raft trip down to the Colorado River with glimpses of Indian ruins, waterfalls, fossils and various plant and animal forms.

The film is scheduled for 8 p.m. in the Mendenhall Student Center Theater. Public tickets are $1.50 each, and are available from ECU Central Ticket Office.

Intramurals

by JOHN EVANS

Registration slow

I really can't understand women sometimes. It seems that with all the activities in the intramural department for women, they are having the hardest time making their scheduled play dates for flag football.

In the first two weeks of scheduled games, the women have managed to get in only seven of a scheduled 23 games. That isn't very good. It is so bad, as a matter of fact, that for a while the powers to be in the intramural department were considering discontinuing flag football for women this year. They have decided, however, to let it go on for a little longer to see if participation picks up now that sorority rush and the first few hectic weeks of school are over. But 10 forfeits and six defaults out of 23 games isn't a very good record.

It would have been nice to see a bigger field for the women's doubles play, also. Only four teams signed up this year and that was only after the women were given an extra week to sign up. The ones who did sign up are to be commended for their efforts. It just seems to me that with all the good tennis players among the women on this campus, and the field for the tennis singles competition shows that, there would be a few more ladies who are interested in playing.

Maybe the new semester system is the reason and maybe there are other reasons, but with volleyball coming up next week I hope that more women choose to participate in that activity than apparently have chosen to play in the other sports so far.

FLAG FOOTBALL IS DIFFERENT

After watching over a dozen games in the past few weeks, a few comments come to my mind about the new flag football format for intramurals.

While the game is most certainly a more physical brand of football than the touch football competition was, it also provides a more exciting game—with more running incorporated in the game.

In the old game the running plays rarely went for many yards because it was easier to tag a player than it is to pull out his flag. And believe me it seems that the flags being used for ECU Intramural play are as hard to remove as any I have ever seen in many games I have seen this year so far, the difference between the two teams was in their ability to run down and yank the flag from their opponents flag belts. Indeed, in many of the games "sloppy tackling" has been the cause for defeat.

What the new flag football has brought about are higher scoring games and a more exciting brand of offensive play in the men's division. I have seen many exciting runs on offense and much less passing, where in earlier years passing seemed to be 75 per cent of the game.

I have heard a lot of good comments about the new system and I like it better. About the only real complaint I might have is the degree of difficulty involved in yanking the flag out, but then there is certainly no doubt as to whether the man has been downed or not and that was always a everpresent problem in touch football.

MEN'S FOOTBALL RESULTS

The Time Outs are without a doubt the team to beat this year in men's football play. In two games last week they scored 70 and 68 points to establish themselves as the most prolific scoring team in the league. But the Time Outs are not alone in the highscoring ranks. The Rugby Leathernuts have won two of their games by the scores of 54-2 and 66-40. In that second game, I bet there were some wild plays and some wild spectators. In two other wins the Leathernuts scored 44 and 40 points.

On the average, though, it seems that teams are scoring around 30 points a game and giving up about 12-14 points on defense when they are winning. That is above last year's average and the new flag football format has to be the reason.

While the Time Outs seemed to have established themselves as the top of the crop on campus and in the dormitory league, there are several other dorm teams that are making good showings. Among these teams are the Aycock Rockers, Slay Lost Gonzo, Scott Wombats, and the Beltics II.

The top fraternity team by far this year has been the Kappa Alpha group, which has already beat its two biggest traditional foes, the Tekes and Pi Kappa Phi.

In the independent division the teams to beat are the Bogue A Dykes and Sadaharu Oh. In the club division it appears that the Rugby Club has the corner on the market with the Leathernuts and Ruggers setting the pace.

In the women's play, which as we said before has been disappointing, the Tylermites are the top-ranked teams, just ahead of the Day Demons and Hypertension. In two games the Tylermites have by scores of 36-0 and 64-0, Wow!!!

TENNIS COMPETITION CONTINUES

The top seeds begin play this week in both the men's and women's singles play as the first rounds in each division produce few surprises. We will have more on that next week.

Volleyball team sparked by six returning players

ECU new women's volleyball coach Alita Dillon is very pleased about the upcoming season. She feels she has six very good reasons for being pleased. They are Kim Clayton, Debbie Freeman, Gale Kerbaugh, Rosie Thompson, Gaye Hines and Joye Forbes. Each of these girls is a returning starter from last year's team. Another returning starter, Linda McClellan, will miss the start of the season because of illness, but is expected back soon.

Along with those seven returnees, Coach Dillon has four freshman on the team. Twins Sandra and Susan Sampson, Elm City's Lydia Rountree and Judy Halladay will see their first collegiate action.

To date, Coach Dillon is very happy about the progress her team is making, especially after last night's win over Louisburg College.

According to Coach Dillon, strategy played an important part in pre-season practice sessions.

"We are doing some new things on offense and defense this year," she explained. "Even though most of the girls played on the team last year, they are really having to work hard to learn the new style."

As for Coach Dillon herself, she says she is excited about the season's start.

"I'm ready to get rolling," she stated. "We have been through enough practices for them to get used to me, and me to get used to them. The team has got a super attitude. It could really be a fun season for us."

If the team is as good as Coach Dillon thinks they might be, women's volleyball at East Carolina should be exciting this year.

Bucs win opener

By SAM ROGERS
Staff Writer

The ECU women's volleyball team successfully opened its 1977 season last night in Minges Coliseum with a 3-1 victory over Louisburg College.

After dropping the first game 15-9, the Lady Pirates bounced back to take the next three games and earn their first win of the year. ECU won the second game 15-9, the third game 16-14, and sealed the win with a close 15-13 verdict in the fourth game.

Pirate head coach Alita Dillon, now in her first year at the helm of the volleyball program, was extremely pleased with the overall play of her team.

"Kim Clayton did an outstanding job setting the ball up for us," said Dillon. "Debbie Freeman did a good job spiking the ball and blocking on defense. Gale Kerbaugh and Rosie Thompson also played well."

Dillon also praised freshman Sandy Sampson for her play on defense and her serves. Sandy's twin sister Susan is also a member of the team.

The Pirates return to action this Friday when they travel to Chapel Hill to face the University of North Carolina and Appalachian State.

VMI: talented, tough

By CHRIS HOLLOMAN
Assistant Sports Editor

East Carolina will play its home opener this weekend against the Keydets of VMI. The Pirates once again will face a stiff challenge from a very tough team with one of the finest coaches anywhere.

VMI has always given the Pirates trouble and this year will be no exception. "Although the Pirates lead the series with the Keydets four games to one, the Keydets have been hard-hitting and tough in every game. Coach Pat Dye is all too aware that the VMI squad will come to town full of enthusiasm and fight. The only difference this year is that VMI has the talent to go the fighting spirit.

"VMI has its best football team I have seen since I've been at East Carolina," Dye said. "They have the best skilled people ever. And if they get past the 50 yard line, Craig Jones is a dangerous young man kicking. They have two great big tackles and a super linebacker in Glen Jones. VMI also has good secondary speed."

The thing is, VMI now has very good skilled people. They've got as much speed at the skill position as we do, with a tailback (Andre Gibson) that runs a 4.3 40. Both quarterbacks Robby Clark and Larry Hupertz, the tailback and their tight and Greg Weaver are big play people. We can't let VMI have the big play on offense.

"VMI always gives you difficulty due to their great variation of formations. They run from everything known to man. And they always have a good, solid game plan."

"We have got a tremendous amount of improving we can do. If we don't get better this week,

Pirates face tough game at home

By SAM ROGERS
Staff Writer

After opening the season with three tough victories, all which have come on the road, it's about time Pat Dye and his ECU Pirates returned to Greenville for a breather.

Trouble is, they're just not many breathers on the Pirates schedule this year. And with a much improved VMI team invading Ficklen Stadium Saturday night, it's a game the Pirates can't afford to look past.

Once again, the Pirates have jumped off to another quick start. To date, East Carolina is 3-0 with road wins over N.C. State, Duke, and Toledo. Although, the Pirates struggled past Toledo 22-9 last week, an emotional let down was expected after back to back victories over in-state rivals N.C. State and Duke.

"I don't think we were very excited about playing up there last week," said ECU head coach Pat Dye at his weekly press luncheon Wednesday. "I don't recommend having to win games in the fourth quarter like we did against Toledo, but we did what was necessary to win."

Dye was pleased with both the play of the defense which allowed only 147 yards against Toledo along with an improved kicking game.

"Our kicking game showed much better improvement," observed Dye. "Our coverage on punts and kickoffs was better and Willie Hawkins set up one of our touchdowns with a kickoff return."

"A capacity crowd of 20,000 plus is expected at Ficklen Stadium Saturday night when the Pirates face VMI, a team which has always given Dye problems.

VMI defeated the Pirates 13-3 to win the Southern Conference Championship in 1974, Dye's first year at ECU. The following year, East Carolina took a 28-12 victory over the Keydets and last season had to go all the way until the fourth quarter before finally winning 17-3.

This season the Keydets upset William and Mary 23-13 in their opener, largely on the efforts of placekicker Craig Jones who booted five field goals. Last week, the Keydets went right down to the fourth quarter against Army before finally losing 27-14.

"This is the best VMI team in four years," warned Dye. "Coach Thalman always has his teams well prepared. They're very strong physically up front both on offense and defense. They've also got the best placekicker in the country in Craig Jones. I'm just glad we're playing at home and not up there."

One weapon the Pirates have used sparingly on offense so far this season has been halfback Eddie Hicks. Last year, Hicks led the Pirates in rushing with 897 yards for a 6.5 average per carry and scored eight touchdowns. This year, however, the Henderson, N.C. native has carried the ball only 17 times for 49 yards and a 2.9 average. Dye indicated Hicks will have to get the ball for the offense to operate more effectively against the Keydets.

"Eddie has been blocking extremely well this season," said Dye, "we've just got to get him

Chapel Hill sponsors second annual ACLU Freedom Fair

"The most valuable basketball ever signed in North Carolina" will go on the auction block Sat. Sept. 24 at the American Civil Liberties Union's second annual Freedom Fair in Chapel Hill.

Autographed after the UNC Alumni Basketball Games Sept. 10, the ball carries the signatures of present Tar Heel team members Phil Ford, Mike O'Koren, Rich Yonacker and others; and former UNC and professional stars Billy Cunningham, Bob McAdoo, Charlie Scott, Larry Brown, Walter Davis, York Larose, and others. The staff of the UNC basketball office termed the ball "one of a kind" in the country.

The basketball is one of over 100 items and services up for bids at the Saturday carnival, auction and pig-pickin' dinner sponsored by the ACLU at the Wesley Foundation and the Newman Center, 214 and 218 Pittsboro Street in Chapel Hill. The Red Clay Ramblers and the UNC Jugglers will be joined by the Durham Pocket Theater to provide the day's entertainment. Beginning at 1 p.m. the carnival will feature games, booths, and a mini-"film Festival" for children.

Items at the auction at 2 p.m. will include antiques, jewelry, pottery and prints, and "services" ranging from tennis lessons and garden tilling to a day's sail on a cabin cruiser berthed at Wilmington.

The Red Clay Ramblers will go on at 5 p.m. when the dinner lines form for the pig-pickin', beef pot roast, vegetarian meals, tacos and egg rolls, soft drinks, beer and dessert. Admission to the carnival is $1 for adults and .50 for children; dinners are $3.50 for adults and $2.00 for children.

The American Civil Liberties Union has 2,000 members in 11 North Carolina chapters. The state affiliate was formed in 1965 to fight the unconstitutional "speaker ban" law.

'King of the Gridiron Award' to be given

An East Carolina University football player will receive a $1,000 scholarship following each home game this season. The player receiving the scholarship will be selected by the news media and considered to be the outstanding Pirate player in the game. The scholarship will be known as the "King of the Gridiron Award."

The scholarship is being presented by R.W. Moore Equipment Company of Raleigh and Greenville, in conjunction with the Pirate Club, the University Educational Foundation for athletics. Moore Equipment Company is owned and operated by R.W. Moore of Raleigh.

"On behalf of the entire Pirate Club, the gesture made by Mr. Moore in sponsoring the scholarship is generous, and a boost in the direction of our total goal in scholarship fund raising for this year," noted Gus Andrews, Executive Director of the Pirate Club.

"The player selected as 'King of the Gridiron' will receive the recognition, but the scholarship money will be placed in the general scholarship fund of the Pirate Club in his name," added Andrews.

Moore's interest in the East Carolina program stems from the future potential of eastern North Carolina and the growth of the East Carolina athletic program. Also, Moore's son, Bill, is a graduate of East Carolina University.

Booters play first home game against Goldsboro

This Saturday the Pirates will face the Goldsboro Soccer Club in their first home match of the season. ECU coach Brad Smith is hoping the match will be his team's first victory of the year.

"I expect a good game from everyone," said Smith. "Hopefully the game will be a win for us. I want to let some of the younger players play so they will get some valuable experience."

With forward Jay High still injured, Smith is looking to senior Ed French as a replacement. Smith also plans to rotate Ric Browning and Daryl High in the forward position.

Crowd support still remains one of Smith's main concerns about Saturday. "This will be our first home game," said Smith, "and I really hope everyone comes out to see the match. Last week when we played Campbell they had a large crowd while we had none. I think it is important to the players to see that they have some support."

Portable bleachers will moved next to the playing field.

The game is scheduled to begin at 2:00, and will be played on the soccer field at Minges.

Cheerleaders receive funds from campus groups

schools, we do a lot more with a lot less."

"We have to pay for the football team first. Also, we don't allow the cheerleaders to solicit donations from local businesses, although some donate material for the uniforms," said Cain.

Each football coach last year received a $2,000 annual raise, according to Vice-Chancellor Cliff Moore.

The SGA last year gave the cheerleaders $2,183, according to Neil Sessoms, SGA president.

"I sometimes fail to see the rationale behind SGA funding of certain campus organizations. I feel that the cheerleaders are the sole responsibility of the athletic department, but I would rather have the SGA support them than to see them done away with due to lack of funds," said Sessoms.

The cheerleaders have received nothing but support from all sides, according to Frank Saunders, faculty advisor for the cheerleaders.

"We appreciate every bit of support that we get from all sides." "Everyone we have been in contact with has been helping forward the cause," said Saunders.

Saunders said it was valuable to receive support from several sources, since it would lessen the chances of being severely handicapped should a budget crunch occur.

"If we got all our money from athletics, they might have to cut back in other areas of their program," said Saunders.

Saunders praised the help of area businessmen and reiterated his hope to make the ECU cheerleading squad the best in the nation.

we're in trouble against VMI Saturday night."

Virginia Military Institute is in a very tough position in that it is a military school and it is also the smallest school in NCAA's Division 1 with an enrollment of 1250 men. In fact, VMI from 1969 until 1971, only won two of the 31 games played.

The program turned around, however, with the hiring of head coach Bob Thalman. He led the Keydet program not only as a coach but as a businessman as well. In 1974 Thalman's VMI team won their first Southern Conference Championship since 1959.

Last year VMI had a five and five record including wins over Furman and Virginia.

The enthusiasm that people will see from the Keydets Saturday will be because VMI believes that they can win every game no matter what the odds. The Keydets will then be a formidable opponent for the Pirates and one which will no doubt test the ability of our young team.

The game will start at 7:00 and a sellout crowd is expected to be on hand.

'King of the Gridiron Award' to be given

An East Carolina University football player will receive a $1,000 scholarship following each home game this season. The player receiving the scholarship will be selected by the news media and considered to be the outstanding Pirate player in the game. The scholarship will be known as the "King of the Gridiron Award."

The scholarship is being presented by R.W. Moore Equipment Company of Raleigh and Greenville, in conjunction with the Pirate Club, the University Educational Foundation for athletics. Moore Equipment Company is owned and operated by R.W. Moore of Raleigh.

"On behalf of the entire Pirate Club, the gesture made by Mr. Moore in sponsoring the scholarship is generous, and a boost in the direction of our total goal in scholarship fund raising for this year," noted Gus Andrews, Executive Director of the Pirate Club.

"The player selected as 'King of the Gridiron' will receive the recognition, but the scholarship money will be placed in the general scholarship fund of the Pirate Club in his name," added Andrews.

Moore's interest in the East Carolina program stems from the future potential of eastern North Carolina and the growth of the East Carolina athletic program. Also, Moore's son, Bill, is a graduate of East Carolina University.

Booters play first home game against Goldsboro

This Saturday the Pirates will face the Goldsboro Soccer Club in their first home match of the season. ECU coach Brad Smith is hoping the match will be his team's first victory of the year.

"I expect a good game from everyone," said Smith. "Hopefully the game will be a win for us. I want to let some of the younger players play so they will get some valuable experience."

With forward Jay High still injured, Smith is looking to senior Ed French as a replacement. Smith also plans to rotate Ric Browning and Daryl High in the forward position.

Crowd support still remains one of Smith's main concerns about Saturday. "This will be our first home game," said Smith, "and I really hope everyone comes out to see the match. Last week when we played Campbell they had a large crowd while we had none. I think it is important to the players to see that they have some support."

Portable bleachers will moved next to the playing field.

The game is scheduled to begin at 2:00, and will be played on the soccer field at Minges.

Cheerleaders receive funds from campus groups

schools, we do a lot more with a lot less."

"We have to pay for the football team first. Also, we don't allow the cheerleaders to solicit donations from local businesses, although some donate material for the uniforms," said Cain.

Each football coach last year received a $2,000 annual raise, according to Vice-Chancellor Cliff Moore.

The SGA last year gave the cheerleaders $2,183, according to Neil Sessoms, SGA president.

"I sometimes fail to see the rationale behind SGA funding of certain campus organizations. I feel that the cheerleaders are the sole responsibility of the athletic department, but I would rather have the SGA support them than to see them done away with due to lack of funds," said Sessoms.

The cheerleaders have received nothing but support from all sides, according to Frank Saunders, faculty advisor for the cheerleaders.

"We appreciate every bit of support that we get from all sides." "Everyone we have been in contact with has been helping forward the cause," said Saunders.

Saunders said it was valuable to receive support from several sources, since it would lessen the chances of being severely handicapped should a budget crunch occur.

"If we got all our money from athletics, they might have to cut back in other areas of their program," said Saunders.

Saunders praised the help of area businessmen and reiterated his hope to make the ECU cheerleading squad the best in the nation.

we're in trouble against VMI Saturday night."

Virginia Military Institute is in a very tough position in that it is a military school and it is also the smallest school in NCAA's Division 1 with an enrollment of 1250 men. In fact, VMI from 1969 until 1971, only won two of the 31 games played.

The program turned around, however, with the hiring of head coach Bob Thalman. He led the Keydet program not only as a coach but as a businessman as well. In 1974 Thalman's VMI team won their first Southern Conference Championship since 1959.

Last year VMI had a five and five record including wins over Furman and Virginia.

The enthusiasm that people will see from the Keydets Saturday will be because VMI believes that they can win every game no matter what the odds. The Keydets will then be a formidable opponent for the Pirates and one which will no doubt test the ability of our young team.

The game will start at 7:00 and a sellout crowd is expected to be on hand.
