Candidate withdraws name

Atty. Gen. position open

By DOUG WHITE
News Editor

Kevin McCourt, nominee for SGA attorney general, withdrew his name from consideration for the post Tuesday.

McCourt explained in a letter to FOUNTAINHEAD that "I think it totally unfair for me to take the position of attorney general since there is a possibility that I may run (for office in the spring elections.)"

SGA President Neil Sessoms submitted McCourt's name to legislature for approval Monday. Kieran Shanahan remains the acting attorney general.

According to Article V, Section 10, Subpart A, the Blue Ribbon committee, composed of the head of the Review Board, the chairperson of the Honor Council, two administrators, and the incumbent attorney general, is charged with screening applicants and submitting two names to the SGA President. The president must then choose one of the two and submit his choice to the legislature for approval.

"Neil now has two choices: he can either submit his second choice to the legislature, or he can reconvene the Blue Ribbon committee and start all over again," James Mallory, Associate Dean of Students said.

"Kevin's withdrawal reopens the screening procedure for attorney general."

The Blue Ribbon committee will be called back, because Kevin was never approved by the legislature, he will not serve on the committee as the incumbent attorney general," Sessoms said.

A similar situation has never happened during the last 25 years, and probably never before that, according to Mallory.

"After the events which have happened over the past two years, I would suggest the SGA revise the selection system for attorney general and public defender and use the one in effect 10-12 years ago which made those two offices elective. The Honor Council was also elected then," Mallory said.

It is possible that the position of incumbent attorney general on the Blue Ribbon committee may remain vacant since the last officially screened and approved attorney general has graduated, according to Mallory.

The office has been officially vacant since Sessoms fired former attorney general Karen Harloe last April.

McCourt, however, served as the acting attorney general during the summer and Kieran Shanahan has been the acting attorney general since September.

"I think Kevin ought to pull out if he feels he cannot handle the job. If something would prevent him from carrying out the duties of the attorney general objectively, then of course he should withdraw," Sessoms said.

"We seriously doubt McCourt could be objective anyway. We've dealt with him before. He changes colors more often than a chameleon," Reed Warren, SGA vice-president said.

Sessoms said he was glad he would receive two new nominations, since he wants the best possible person to fill the office.

HERALD gets office

By DOUG WHITE
News Editor

The EBONY HERALD has been granted office space in the Publications Center for the first time since its inception five years ago, according to Jerry Simmons, Executive Editor of the EBONY HERALD.

"For the last few years, staff meetings have been held in rooms rented from Mendenhall by the SGA or the editor's dorm room, which has caused several problems," Simmons said.

SGA Vice-President and Chairman of the Communications Board Reed Warren described the facilities as "nothing elegant but certainly a step forward", and was happy to have found the office space.

The new office is next door to the Buccaneer office and was formerly that publication's business office. The office, however, has not been used for several months.

"There are several advantages over the old arrangements. We now have a permanent, centrally located facility in which to conduct our business and the necessary functions of a publication."

"Also, we are much closer to our layout and production rooms in the FOUNTAINHEAD offices and can share a full time secretary with the other campus publications," Simmons said.

Greek Forum

By JAY CHAMBERS

The social life of fraternities and sororities at ECU offers social opportunities which supplement those offered by the university. They offer formal parties, informal social gatherings, and a wide variety of other functions. These events help members to make new friends. Ask yourself if you have the type of social life you really want. The Greek system could have the answer.

This spring semester has been planned and anticipated to be the most exciting and eventful time in many a year. Both the Interfraternity and Panhellenic Councils have scheduled a full semester of activities, projects, and social functions that will be announced in the upcoming weeks.

This week got spring rush underway for the Greek system. It has been noticed that there is an increase in prospective members in most houses. Many Greek observers attribute more involvement to students having a better attitude toward the Greek image.

ANNOUNCEMENTS

Selection committee meetings not 'secret'

Legislator Randy Ingram introduced a resolution to the SGA legislature Monday night requesting President Neil Sessoms to report to the legislature on the chancellor selection activities, obviously not realizing that President Sessoms doesn't have the right to discuss the goings on of the Chancellor Selection Committee to anyone.

Ingram apparently presumed that secret meetings were being held to discuss the selection of a successor to Dr. Leo Jenkins. According to Dr. Clinton Prewett, executive secretary of the committee, the committee meetings were not secret, but they were not open to just anyone. Prewett said that selected persons, including vice chancellors, some administrators, and student leaders were invited to speak to the nominees in sessions separate from the chancellor selection committee meetings.

Speaker of the Legislature Tommy Joe Payne upheld the confidentiality rule, saying that no secret meetings have been held to discuss the selection process. Payne correctly said that Sessoms cannot initiate discussions or meetings concerning the chancellor selections.

The Chancellor Selection Committee has had to operate under strict confidentiality as mandated by the UNC Board of Governors. Ingram's questioning of the secrecy surrounding the selection process is understandable; certainly most people on campus are interested in knowing who the next chancellor will be.

The committee members recognize the need for confidentiality and have proceeded to attend the meetings professionally by not discussing the issue with persons not directly involved with committee activities. Sessoms has acted accordingly.

The committee will decide on two candidates and will submit their names to UNC President William C. Friday. If the two candidates are approved, they will be considered for the selection.

Ingram's resolution was preposterous concerning the fact that the legislature is in no way directly involved with the selection of the next chancellor. Perhaps legislators should do a little homework before introducing resolutions which border on being ridiculous.

McCourt explains withdrawal decision

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

During the past nine months, the students of ECU have been without the services of a properly screened SGA Attorney General. Finally, on January 22, 1978, SGA President Neil Sessoms sent a correspondence to the SGA Legislature nominating this legislator, Kevin McCourt, as the new SGA Attorney General.

A few days prior, President Sessoms had spoken to me about his decision, and I accepted the nomination. I then used the days that fell between President Sessoms' decision and his actual correspondence to the SGA Legislature, to gather my thoughts.

I had applied for the office of SGA Attorney General in early November with the hope that if nominated and approved, I could take office in early December. Instead, the screening was not concluded until December 1. My name, as well as that of Ricky Price, was sent to President Sessoms no later than December 2. Though a name was picked and finally submitted by January 22, 1978, a great deal has happened between that day I applied in November, and three months later when the final decision was made.

Both the excessive length of Attorney General screenings, and the approach of Spring Elections has caused me to reassess the situation. If the job had been offered to me in early December, I would have taken it because I had enough time to straighten out the SGA Judicial System. I could have also given the Blue Ribbon Screening Committee (dean of men, dean of women, present attorney general, honor council chairman, and review board chairman) enough notice so they could pick my successor while I was still in office. This way, the new attorney general could take over the day I stepped down, should I decide to run in the Spring.

But now, there is little time between appointment of a new attorney general and the Spring Elections. I have always stressed the need of a sitting attorney general during the often controversial Spring Elections. Though I have not "thrown my hat into the ring" for Spring Elections, I think it totally unfair for me to take the position of attorney general since there is a possibility that I may run. I cannot be fair to this University by accepting the position of attorney general knowing that I would soon vacate the office and leave the students without a judicial system that they desperately need. I believe that anyone who may be appointed to this position, should stay in office at least through the Spring Elections.

I decided to inform President Sessoms of my decision to withdraw my name from any consideration for the office of SGA Attorney General. I tried to contact President Sessoms many times on the Monday that he sent his correspondence to the SGA Legislature. My attempts included calling, leaving messages, and going to Mendenhall Student Center many a time. He also tried to call me to return my calls, but I was not in. I did not get to President Sessoms before the SGA legislative meeting on Monday night, and was unaware of the method he would use to present my name to the legislature.

On Tuesday of this week, I met with President Sessoms to inform him that my name would be withdrawn from any consideration for the office of SGA Attorney General. At the same time I highly recommended the other nominee, Ricky Price, to President Sessoms. I feel that he is probably more qualified than myself when it comes to the constitution. He would serve from now through the elections, and be under considerable scrutiny. I echoed these facts to Dean Fulghum (dean of women) that same afternoon in hopes that an attorney general could take office next Monday.

I hope that I have cleared up some of the muddy water on this issue, and I wish to thank FOUNTAINHEAD for allowing this explanation to be printed. I felt I owed it to the students.

Student criticizes music reviewer

To FOUNTAINHEAD:

A reviewer certainly has the right to criticize a performance if he is knowledgeable enough to offer valid criticism, but if he is ignorant of the area he is attempting to review, as Kent Johnson so OBVIOUSLY was in his article on the Second Annual Young Artists' Competition, perhaps he ought not be quite so arrogant in his ignorance.

The whole problem is summed up in the first paragraph, where Mr. Johnson states, "People who don't like classical music might have some trouble sitting through some of the pieces..." Unfortunately, the reviewer did not allow his obvious lack of enthusiasm for the assignment deter him in the least. It would seem to be a matter of expectations: if you're looking forward to hearing a battle of the bands, I suppose this program might have proven to be a disappointment, if not totally incomprehensible. I mean, it's a little like asking Rolling Stone or Crawdaddy to review a Boston Symphony Concert—you get what you pay for.

Mr. Johnson's pseudo-intellectual put-downs are just too arrogant to be believable (references to a long lost second cousin, etc.) Just because someone whose previous experience with saxophone players is apparently limited to Paul Winter and Boots Randolph was unable to appreciate Mike Price's artistry doesn't mean the rest of the audience was as bored as he. One would guess that Mr. Johnson's acquaintance with the "sub-titles" (sic) of the saxophone might approximate that of someone who had flunked music appreciation three semesters straight.

I would also like to point out that many people find listening to Belinda Bryant's beautiful and expressive voice a moving and pleasurable experience. If Mr. Johnson was bored or pained by her fine performance, there are many others who would find his reaction inexplicable. And while I admit that Vickie Iannotta may have given a program which someone who considers Ian Anderson to be the greatest flutist who ever lived might find tame, I would venture to say that Mr. Johnson must be very nearly alone in his estimation that it would require patience to listen to. And, while Mario Gaetano's performance on the marimba is admittedly different from the riff in "Moonlight's Alright" one has to remember that the Competition was attempting to recognize technical ability and musical sensitivity (a feat which Mr. Johnson might find hard to pull off if it hit him in the nose), not to see whether or not the guy could "tap dance on the marimba."

In addition to a multitude of (hopefully) typographical errors, there were numerous grammatical mistakes, misspelled names (which is something of an insult to a performer, although in this case, it may have proven to be the least insulting aspect of the article), and other details which author and proofreader really should thrash out together before the piece is printed. I am also unable to comprehend Mr. Johnson's apparent disdain for the choice of judges; perhaps he will present his suggestions to the committee for their future consideration (or at least amusement). I would like to suggest that for the sake of good journalism, Fountainhead ought assign him nothing more difficult in the future than editing classified advertisements.

In conclusion, Mr. Johnson, as the adage goes: "It is better to remain silent and be thought ignorant, than to speak up and remove all doubt."

Sincerely,
Eric Haas

"THAD JONES IS a master at creating a sensual effect of color as he explores unusual timbres and instrument combinations."

Jones/Lewis Jazz Orchestra performed to small audience

By RENEE DIXON
Staff Writer

The Jones/Lewis Jazz Orchestra entertained a small ECU audience Monday evening with a unique experience in jazz. Their music is probably best appreciated by the avid jazz enthusiast, but for those of us less knowledgeable in the genre, it was a stimulating listen at a new kind of music.

The musicians are a mixture of old and young, black and white, and their casual dress and mannerisms create an informal atmosphere, but they make serious music. They play the big band sound of yesterday, modified by the genius of innovative arranging, and the result is a distinctive jazz style.

Leader, arranger, and trumpet soloist, Thad Jones is a master at creating a sensual effect of color as he explores unusual timbres and instrument combinations. His original composition, "Fingers," which came just before the encore, is a rarified example of his genius. He intersperses a variety of solo sections with a blast of ensemble timbre that is such a surprise that the listener actually waits to hear it again before he believes it.

Other enjoyable selections from Monday evening's program were "Willow Weep" and the ballad, "And I Love You So," featuring Harold Danko at the piano. "Willow Weep" demonstrated the versatility of a brass section using low brass range, trumpet-trombone solo combinations, and muted ensemble effects. "And I Love You So" converted the brass players into an accompanying bossa nova percussion section using maracas, tambourine, and woodblocks.

The band's music involves thick instrumentation and the blending of seemingly incongruous motifs.

This complexity of sound did not always project clearly in Wright Auditorium.

Along with some balance problems in bass and piano, the sound was often muddled. In a recording studio, naturally, this interference would be eliminated.

The highlight of the evening was "Route 66," featuring vocalist, Bertie Green. Jones' arranging comes across at its finest in funky, downright dirty blues.

Power and lots of it is the word for Miss Green's rich, textured voice, and she does it best in bold and sassy down-home

McGinnis, February 7

Repertory company to perform Chapeau

TRENDS STAFF REPORT

Breathless chases, mistaken identities, and delightful songs will come to life onstage when The Acting Company performs Chapeau at McGinnis Auditorium on February 7 for two performances.

There will be a matinee at 1 p.m. and an evening show at 8:15.

The appearance of The Acting Company, a touring repertory company of classically trained young actors formed by John Houseman of the Drama Division of the Julliard School in New York six years ago is being sponsored by the East Carolina University Department of Drama with assistance from the National Endowment for the Arts and North Carolina Theatre Arts.

Chapeau is a new musical adaptation of Eugene Labiche's classic French farce, The Italian Straw Hat, featuring a bouncy, original score with music and lyrics by Alfred Uhry, and Robert Waldman, who created the Tony-nominated The Robber Bridegroom.

The complicated plot involves the misadventures of Gerard, a young man about to be married, whose horse eats the straw hat of an excitable lady engaging in an illicit meeting with a soldier.

The soldier demands an immediate replacement which is most difficult for Gerard because his wedding party made up of the bride, her father and crowds of relatives, arrive at the same time. Gerard leads the entire wedding party on a wild chase to a milliner's, a musical soiree at the Governor's mansion, and a stranger's apartment in search of the hat.

Complete with a singing and dancing horse this broadly humorous farce is set in colonial Latin America and contains spirited new songs including "Even for a Horse," "Take What You Will!" and "Consider Yourself Unmarstyle blues. Dick Oatts equalled her performance with an impressive alto sax solo.

Leader and drummer, Mel Lewis should be commended for playing what he preaches. In Monday afternoon's clinic, he emphasized that on drums, it's often what you don't do, rather than what you do that really makes things happen for a number. Mel's finesse at "kicking" the band without stealing the spotlight speaks for the art in a professional rhythm section.

The Jones/Lewis Jazz Orchestra impressed a receptive audience with some stimulating jazz Monday evening. These musicians enjoyed making music together, and they communicated excitement to the listener. It's a shame there weren't more ECU listeners there.

Rebellion to show in MSC movie festival

TRENDS STAFF REPORT

Toshiro Mifune is considered one of the top two or three actors in the world. His ability to portray the complex character of the Samurai warrior is astounding. These highly trained swordsmen swore absolute loyalty to their feudal lord. To the Samurai the sacrifices of one's life for a master was not only obligatory but an honor.

In Rebellion Mifune is a Samurai who is forced to accept bitter injustice at the hands of his lord to the point of maximum endurance.

The counter measure he takes once that limit has been exceeded are among the most ferocious ever inflicted on a malignant dictatorship. He jeopardizes his life in a challenge to this supreme authority...for love.

This feature represents all that is best in the Japanese period film. One man stands up against a juggernaut who has become inhuman and the human emotions of love, dignity, self-realization, are as a matter of course crushed beneath the weight of this terrifying "machine."

The feudal philosophy, still existing in contemporary Japan, is attacked head on and if the hero is not allowed by director Masaki Kobayashi to win then he makes a grand display of his immolation.

Like the Western, this kind of film is the product of masculine tradition. It has its own sentiments, its own imagery, and its own landscapes of remote stockades and windswept uplands. The film has to reach a point where the hero has no choices left to take up a classical stance. It is a quality of genuine popular tradition, whether Western or Samurai film, found in Rebellion that made Variety describe it as the "best adult Japanese film."

Rebellion will be shown at the Mendenhall Student Center Theatre on Sunday the 29th of January along with Federico Fellini's 8 1/2 and Lina Wertmuller's Swept Away at the International Film Festival.

Rebellion will be shown at 7 p.m.

Swept Away and 8 1/2 will be shown at 2 p.m. and 5 p.m. respectively.

TASHIRO MIFUNE, IS considered one of the two or three best actors in the world.

Admission is by ECU ID and activity cards for students and Mendenhall Student Center membership cards for staff and faculty.

Treasures of Italy to be presented on Tuesday

TRENDS STAFF REPORT

Kenneth Richter, award-winning travel-film producer will appear in Mendenhall Student Center Theatre on Tuesday, January 31 to present his film "Treasures of Italy." It will begin at 8 p.m.

The film opens with a view of the Etna slopes, lush with lemon and olive groves. Beyond scenery, the film offers an in depth look into the lives of the mysterious Etruscans.

Helping in the description of the ancient Etruscan Empire are students from the Etruscan Foundation of Detroit.

Other highlights of the film include a visit to Verona and the world's oldest library, a view of Bologna, a connoisseur's look at a Chianti vineyard and tours of Florence - the birthplace of the Renaissance - Pisa and Rome.

Valuable not only for its content, this film also provides the stimulating personality of Kenneth Richter live on the stage of the MSC Theatre.

Richter was educated at Thayer Academy and Harvard University. He is well known to audiences across Canada and the United States as a professional film maker who produces highly polished motion pictures to illustrate his informative and entertaining narration.

Tickets for the film are available at the ECU Central Ticket Office in Mendenhall Student Center and are priced at $1.50 for the public. ECU students are admitted by ID and activity cards and faculty and staff by MSC membership card.

Afro-American Culture Center airs Raisin

TRENDS STAFF REPORT

A Raisin In The Sun, a film based on Lorraine Hansbury's play of the same title will be shown Sunday, February 5 at 8 p.m. in the Afro-American Culture Center

Sidney Poiter was just beginning his career when he played the lead in this film. Working with veterans Claudia McNeil and Ruby Dee, Poiter delivered a remarkable performance, bringing the film recognition as one of the ten best films to appear the year it was released.

Hansbury's story concerns the dreams and frustrations of a South Side Chicago black family. When the family receives an insurance check for $10,000 their alternatives in life suddenly expanded.

As the young man of the family Poiter views himself as a "giant among ants" and sees money as the way to raise himself out of his slum existence into a more comfortable future. To each member of the family the insurance money holds the promise of fulfillment to their own private dreams.

Like the play, the movie version of A Raisin In The Sun is laced with sharp wit, rich humor and intensely moving drama.

The play and the film titles are taken from a poem by Langston Hughes, "Dream Deferred."

A Raisin In The Sun is rooted in the struggle of blacks in this country to overcome a situation society creates for them solely because of the color of their skin.

But the courage and indomitable hope exhibited in the face of crushing poverty by the family in A Raisin In The Sun provides a gripping experience that can be shared in by any member of the University community and not merely its black students.

The film is sponsored by the Minority Arts Committee. All students are invited to attend the 8 p.m. screening in the Afro-American Culture Center.

Admission is by ECU ID and activity cards or Mendenhall Student Center membership card.

Pop corn and soft drinks will be served.

An early arrival is recommended for space is available for no more than 35 to 40 people.

Field damaged again

For the second time this year the intramural fields near Ficklen Stadium have been damaged by being used for parking following heavy rains. These fields were overhauled this past summer at the cost of $30,000 to the University of North Carolina capital improvements fund.

In the fall, some damage was suffered by these fields when heavy rains preceded an ECU home football game and the fields were used for parking for the game. While the damage was minimal the first time, the damage is far worse this time.

The field damaged is located behind Ficklen Stadium on the south side behind the Pirate Club Parking lot. This area is used for Pirate Club parking for home basketball games when other lots are full. On last Tuesday night when the damage was done, the other areas were filled because nobody was allowed to park on the grassy areas surrounding Minges Coliseum.

So the Pirate Club patrons used this area to park on, to re-up the entire infield of one field with tire ruts and skid tracks. The kind that occur when automobiles attempt to move in the heavy mud. We might add that these fields still hadn't become firm from the reseeding that took place to improve them. Even the metal stakes that were meant to mark off where the infield was to be were run over and plowed down into the mud so deeply that they can't be located.

Whether or not the parking situation is the fault of the Athletic department or someone else is not what is disturbing, the fields were damaged nonetheless. We aren't going to stick the blame with anyone because we aren't sure who should shoulder it, but we hope that this won't happen again.

Not only does the damage ruin one of six fields in that area, but the ruts and the holes left behind make the field unsafe for playing until the damage can be fixed—and where the money will come from is hard to tell. The project was originally completed through state funds, without students having to shell out anything, but now at least some of the work has been wasted, not to mention the money.

Turning to more pleasant thoughts, we'll have four teams from the Camp Lejeune Marine Base here this Saturday to take on some of East Carolina's top intramural teams.

The three men's and one women's teams from Camp Lejeune were chosen through base tournaments, while the ECU teams were chosen through faceoffs between individual teams. Most of the teams for this weekend's games, in addition to the games that will be played at Camp Lejeune next Saturday (February 4) are now known.

Representing East Carolina will be the Belk Nutties Buddies, the Scott Ball Team and the Kappa Alpha-Fraternity All Stars for the men and the Peace Pirates for the women. Next Saturday's representatives will travel to Camp Lejeune and will be equally as tough. The men will be represented by the Belk Pleasers; an independent team that is undefeated, and the Carolina Stars. The girls representative is unknown right now, but it will probably be one of three teams: Cool and the Gang, the P.E. Majors or the Cotten Bunnies. Games this weekend will be at 10 a.m., 12 noon, 4 p.m. and 6 p.m., with the featured "A" game coming at 6 p.m. between the Nutties Buddies and the Marines' number one team. The women's game is at 4 p.m.

THREE UNBEATENS TOPPLE

In men's intramural play earlier this week, three unbeaten teams were toppled from their perch. In the most surprising of all the upsets, the winless Aycock Spacemen defeated the unbeaten Aycock Kamikazes, 52-39, knocking the Kamikazes out of a shot at playing the Marines. In the other upsets, the Biodegrades topped the Crapshooters and the Scott Ball Team defeated the Jones Dealers. In that contest, both teams entered unbeaten, but in the game of basketball only one team can win.

In a big game played before the ECU Varsity game last Saturday night, the Nutties Buddies established themselves as early season Dorm favorites with a 99-78 win over the Belk Enforcers. The game was an exhibition game and will not count in the standings, but the two teams were ranked going into the game as the top two teams in the intramural field.

The only undefeated team in the fraternity ranks is Kappa Alpha. KA holds a narrow lead over three once-beaten teams. Those teams with one loss are the Sigma Nus, Kappa Alpha Psi and Tau Kappa Epsilon.

And of course we couldn't leave the ladies out...

In intramural play by the women, the Peace Pirates and the P.E. Majors established themselves as the teams to beat. The Peace Pirates knocked off the pre-season favorite Cool and the Gang, with a 40-35 display that left the Gang with their first defeat of the season. The P.E. Majors got 33 points in two games from Kim Michael as they chalked up a 51-4 win over the Stardusters and a 66-5 win over the Jolly Green Giants.

Pirates fall in OT

By STEVE BYERS
Assistant Sports Editor

Oliver Mack and Herb Krusen combined for 64 points but it still wasn't enough Monday night as the University of Tennessee-Chattanooga gained a 110-101 overtime victory over the hard luck Bucs.

Mack came up just one point shy of Jim Modlin's ECU one game scoring record with 41 points canning 16 of 28 from the floor and 9 of 13 at the charity stripe.

The Moccasins staked the Bucs an early 8-2 lead but came back to take a 12-10 lead when Bernard Hill and Greg Cornelius left the game with two fouls each.

The see-saw battle continued through the first half as the Pirates went into the locker room with a 55-54 lead.

The Moccasins, last year's Division II NCAA Champions, scored the first points of the second half but were then faced with a 10-4 spurt by the Pirates. Herb Krusen staked the Bucs a 75-67 lead after a three point play, and Oliver Mack later stretched the lead to nine on a layup with 8:49 left to play.

UT-C's William Wright led a Moc comeback that gave his team a 92-90 lead with less than a minute to play. Pirate Point guard Walter Mosely was fouled with 24 seconds to play and hit two tough free throws to tie it with 24 seconds left. Regulation ended 92-92.

The Bucs fell behind 100-96 in overtime when freshman Roger Carr was fouled after a dunk and cut the Moccasin lead to one. The Mocs then pulled away, out-scoring the Pirates 10-2; with the final 110-101.

The Pirates have no time to dwell on this game, though as they visited Statesboro, Georgia last night to meet the Eagles of Georgia Southern. The Bucs return Thursday before traveling to Durham Friday for a Saturday game with the Duke Blue Devils.

The Blue Devils carried a 12-2 record into their game with Virginia and are led by front court players Kenny Dennard, Eugene Banks, and Mike Gminski. Duke will counter Mack and Krusen with Bob Bender and Jim Spanarke, a 20 ppg shooter.

Greg Cornelius, slightly injured in the Chattanooga game should be able to play against the towering Gminski, while the muscular freshman Roger Carr looks to be a solid replacement, if needed, following his strong play against UT-CH.

Oliver Mack usually scores well against tougher opponents and his leadership will be an important factor against the quick Bill Foster coached team.

The two teams last played in 1976 and the Pirates came out on the short end of an 88-65 decision. The last common opponent of the two was Lasalle. The Devils won a close game in Philadelphia while the Bucs dropped a one point double overtime game in the First Union Invitational Tournament.

Forward Bernard Hill played High School ball against Eugene Banks and that inside matchup could also prove to be a factor against the Atlantic Coast Conference co-leaders.

Though all tickets to the Duke game have been sold, the game can be heard on the Pirates Sports Network with Jim Woods. Tipoff is at 7:30 p.m.

Grapplers face N.C. State tonite

By SAM ROGERS
Staff Writer

Prior to 1976, John Welborn's East Carolina wrestling teams dominated Atlantic Coast Conference rivals North Carolina and North Carolina State. During that time the Pirates rolled up a total of eight victories over N.C. State as well as six wins over North Carolina.

But, as the old cliché goes, times have changed.

Tonight in Minges Coliseum, a much improved N.C. State wrestling team squares off against East Carolina, and for the first time in many, many seasons, the Wolfpack will be heavily favored to win.

N.C. State head coach Bob Guzzo has done an outstanding job recruiting Pennsylvania, New York, and New Jersey wrestling talent during his three years as the Wolfpack coach. Last season, State finally ended ECU's dynasty with a narrow 21-15 victory and it might just be the beginning of another wrestling dynasty in North Carolina.

The Wolfpack stopped North Carolina last week 24-18 and will certainly present Bill Hill's grapplers with all they can handle.

"They're a helluva team," said Hill from his office Tuesday afternoon. "When they put it all together they're really tough to stop. They've lost some matches this season they should have won, but they have beaten Wilkes and UNC and they look like they're really going now."

The Pirates had no trouble destroying Appalachian State last week taking a 35-8 win and are now 2-4 in dual matches this season.

But East Carolina will be without the services of freshman Bob Passino at 118 who re-injured his knee last week during practice. He will be out of the lineup for at least a week. Hill said Charlie Fine, another freshman from Norfolk, Va. will probably replace Passino at 118.

"Bob's injury will definitely hurt us in the lower weight classes," said Hill. "We're probably not as strong as State in the lower weights and they can just about match us man for man in the upper weight classes. We'll have to be at our best to beat them. I think there will be several pins which will determine who wins the match."

N.C. State will probably go with sophomore Jim Zenz at 118, Joe Butto at 126, Dave Polsinelli at 134, Mike Koob at 142, and Barry Armstrong at 150.

The Pirates will probably counter with Fine at 118, Charlie McGimsey at 126, Paul Osman at 134, Scott Eaton at 142, and Frank Schaeede at 150.

The key matchup in the lower weight classes will be ECU's Osman, a two-time national qualifier and Southern Conference champion and State's Polsinelli, a national place winner in the junior college tournament in 1975.

In the upper weights, the Wolfpack will probably use two-time ACC champ Terry Reese at 158, Rick Rodriguez at 167, Lee Guzzo at 177, Joe Lidowski at 190, and Lynn Morris at heavyweight.

East Carolina will likely use Steve Goode at 158, Butch Revils at 167, Vic Northrup at 177, Jay Dever at 190, and D.T. Joyner at heavyweight.

The upperweight classes will have several exciting matches, which should go right down to the wire. At 158 State's Rodriguez was a first team All-Freshman selection by Amateur Wrestling News last year while freshman Butch Revils has won two tournament championships and is 12-4-1 this year.

At 190 ECU's Jay Dever boasts a fine 11-4 record while State's Guzzo was an ACC finalist at 177 in 1976.

The classic battle of the evening will be in the heavy-weight division. State's Lynn Morris narrowly defeated D.T. Joyner last year 3-2 and will be hard pressed to win again. Joyner, now 11-1 this season, is much improved from last year and will probably give Morris all he can handle.

Duke beats Lady gymnasts

This past Saturday the Lady Pirate gymnastic team lost to in-state rival Duke, here at Minges.

The Pirates seemed to suffer mainly from a lack of depth in the squad, as Duke led the meet with first, second, and fourth places overall.

Mary Hubbard was the Pirates main scorer, placing third overall, only one tenth of a point behind second place. Mary did win the uneven bars, and received second place in the vault and floor exercises. Unfortunately she fell off the balance beam twice, hurting only her chances at an overall victory.

Karen Stramm for Duke won the overall first place, but that was expected of her, since she was invited to try out for the Olympics last year. A loss to Karen is not really a disgrace at all, as a matter fact, Mary kept the score close throughout the meet, certainly a pat on the back to Mary for her fine effort.

Susan McKnight placed fifth overall after taking third on the uneven bars, fourth on the floor, and sixth in the vault. Like Mary, Susan had trouble staying on the balance beam. She fell off three times and just couldn't maintain a grip on the beam.

Ruth Kearns, a strong beam and floor specialist was pulled from competition Friday night before the meet with two stressed fractures in her leg.

"Ruth's injury hurt the team alot," said Coach Chepko, "we needed her on the beam, she'll be out for at least two weeks and we will definitely miss her."

A large crowd was not disappointed with the meet. The teams performed well and spectators saw a couple of the best gymnasts on the East Coast.

"We have plenty of season left," concluded Chepko.

division and Mammoth Nathaniel Wigfall in the unlimited class. Finals will be held on Wednesday, January 25 at 9 p.m. in Minges Coliseum.

-Bowling Started Last Week-

Bowling began last week with a great field in both men's and women's competition.

In the men's league, the top Dorm contenders all won. The Headhunters beat their toughest rivals in the Scott Studs, 3-1, as Bill Phyne bowled a 210 game and the Headhunters had a three-game team total of 1983 pins. The Jones Zack Attack and the Aycock Night Reelers also won big the first week.

In club and independent play, the TKE Gutterballs and the Hatchets each won four points each, White the Kappa Sigs, Pi Lambda Itraternity league with four wins each.

In women's dormitory play last year's winners, the Miller Killers, got off to a big start by winning all four points in their first match. Jeannie Williams led the landslide with a 168 game. In sorority action the A O Pis and Alpha X is started out with 4-0 matches.

-New Pool Hours-

New pool hours are as follows:
Memorial: 12-1, 4-6 Monday thru Friday
Minges: 2-8 p.m., Saturday and Sunday

Intramurals

-Ice Ball Has Record Field-

A record number of 31 teams have signed up for Ice Ball intramurals, making it the most popular co-rec event ever.

Competition starts Monday at 4 p.m. and extends through Thursday with games each day. The schedules are posted on the Intramural bulletin board. Teams should try and be at the Twin Rinks Recreation Center at least 15 minutes before their game is to start.

Only 14 teams played last year, and the increase in team's this year promises such an exciting field that we will feature a top ten each week this winter.

With the defending champion I.M.S. team disbanded, there is no clearcut favorite this time around.

Twenty-eight men and 12 women have signed up for intramural arm wrestling, which begins today.

The women's interest surprised us so much that we won't have pairing up for them until Monday, but the pairings in the four mens weight classes are posted in the lobby of Memorial Gym.

Two of last year's defending champions are back in Paul Osman and Phil Mueller. Osman has won the 150-under division twice before and will be after an unprecedented third title this season. Mueller won in the 151-175 division the past two years, but he will be in the 176-200 division this year.

Favorites in the other two divisions are Jeff Kincaid in the 151-175

Gray FTs sink Georgia Southern

The Hard Luck Pirate Basketball team of Coach Larry Gillman finally had some luck go their way last night with a big 86-85 victory over the Eagles of Georgia Southern.

Herb Gray hit 2 pressure free throws with 45 seconds left to play after the Eagles had taken a 85-84 lead.

The Pirates led by as many as 11 and had to hold a frivolous second half comeback.

Greg Cornelius had a team high 19 points followed by Krusen with 18. Oliver Mack, nagged by the flu, added 16 points.
