ECU police assisted Greenville police in arresting Aaron Wilson, former staff member of The East Carolinian and student at Pitt Community College, after he attempted to elude arrest on campus, ECU police sign.

Wilson was traveling the wrong way on Dowell Street, between Fletcher and Garrett halls, when he almost hit an ECU patrol car head-on. The officer got out of his vehicle with his weapon drawn after observing Wilson reaching down into his vehicle, according to ECU police reports.

Greenville officers arrived seconds after the stop and arrested Wilson. Greenville police have charged him with driving with a revoked license, failing to heed a blue-light and siren and failure to stop for a stop

Wilson worked as a staff writer and then as assistant sports editor at TEC, and was a member of the Peach Bowl championship football team. Wilson declined comment on the arrest.

Our View

Alas, they're all leaving our fine institution of higher learning.

It started with ECU's 1991 Peach Bowl-winning head football coach Bill Lewis, who moved on to Georgia Tech and fell flat on his face with the Yellow Jackets.

Larry Coyer, who came to ECU as the Pirates defensive coordinator, fled after one season to take a position with the New York Jets. Boy, did they have a horrible season. Chuck Pagano, a Pirate assistant football coach, turned his ECU coaching success into a job with Butch Davis at the University of Miami (Fla.) after the 1994 season. Dave Hart, regarded by all as one of the finest athletic directors in the nation, recently moved to the ACC and Florida State after, well, basically building the East Carolina athletic program from the ground up.

Hart had, in the past, turned down other athletic director offers, most notably from Pitt and Maryland, citing a need to place East Carolina in either a football or an allsport athletic conference. We're still independent.

Now our esteemed Chancellor Richard Eakin is one of four finalists for the presidency at the University of Louisville. He has already visited for his second interview. Eakin was rumored to be looking at other schools' presidency positions, such as the vacancy at Bowling Green (where he was employed for 23 years), but denied the rumors.

What is it about East Carolina and the people that run the school? Is ECU becoming a stepping stone between Whatever the reason may be for the mass exodus from Greenville (all the folks who can't drive?), we as a university need to come to grips with the trend and react accordingly, so that the students and the university as a whole do not suffers do to a lack of poor and or interim leadership on a long-term basis.

The 1995

East Carolina University MARCHING PIRATES

You are invited to be part of one of the most rewarding and spirited activites our university has to offer: the 1995 East Carolina University Marching Pirates! Whatever your band instrument, whatever your college major, we have a place for you! Fellow students, alumni, fans, and athletes all feel the excitement when our powerful sound, precision, and confidence combine in challenging musical and visual presentations.

The Marching Pirates offer you a chance to be a part of a community of friends within a large university. With a membership of over 200 musicians and color guard members, we are the largest student organization on campus. Among band members, shared times and shared challenges forge lifetime friendships. Returning band students and band staff offer advice and encouragement you'll appreciate.

This diverse group of students represents a wide variety of disciplines from every school in the University and only about half of the students in the Marching Pirates are music majors. Students of all ability levels from many different backgrounds participate in the band. Members have plenty of time to participate in a variety of organizations on campus such as academic honor societies, intramural sports, ROTC, fraternities and sororities, and many others.

One hour of fine arts credit is awarded for participation in the Marching Pirates (MUSC 1705) and is applicable to any degree. Membership is open to all qualified students enrolled in the University. During the Fall semester the band rehearses Monday, Wednesday, and Friday from 4:00 to 6:00 p.m., and there are no required extra rehearsals or sectionals. There is no fund-raising and when the band travels transportation and lodging are provided. In 1994 the Marching Pirates travelled to Washington, NC and Raleigh, NC for exhibition performances at high school marching band performances, and also travelled to Durham, NC for the ECU vs. Duke game. In addition, the band travelled to Memphis, Tennessee for the nationally televised Liberty Bowl on New Years Eve. All of this travel was expenses paid! Music, instruments, and uniforms are provided.

The 1995 season will begin with rehearsals one week prior to the beginning of the semester. All percussionists and color guard members will begin sectionals Wednesday, August 16. Brass and woodwind players will begin Thursday, August 17. Students living in the dormitories on campus will be able to move into their rooms upon arrival for band camp, and meals will be available for a fee through University Dining Services in the new Todd Dining Hall, adjacent to the Marching Pirates' practice facility.

If you would like to be a member of the 1995 East Carolina University Marching Pirates, or would like additional information on the 1995 season, please do not hesitate to contact Christopher Knighten, Director of the Marching Pirates, at (919) 328-6982.

ECU Marching Pirates Color Guard

The excellent ECU Marching Pirates Color Guard is comprised of 32 women who perform traditional and contemporary color guard styles during Marching Pirates pregame and halftime shows. This section of the band is chosen through auditions at the beginning of band camp. This years auditions will take place Wednesday, August 16, at the A.J. Fletcher School of Music, Room 101. Time TBA. At these auditions, the color guard instructor teaches a flag routine to auditioners, who then perform the routine as a group before a panel of judges. Membership is open to all qualified women enrolled as full-time students at ECU. At least one year of previous color guard experience is required.

ECU Marching Pirates Percussion

The ECU Marching Pirates have enjoyed a strong tradition of excellence in percussion for many years. This years section will feature eight snares; four quint toms, six bass drums, four cymbals, and eight members of the sideline ensemble. Members of the ECU Marching Pirates percussion section are selected through auditions at the beginning of band camp in August. Membership is open to all full-time students at ECU. Those interested in the percussion section should contact the band office by July 1 to obtain audition materials.

When you join the ECU Marching Pirates, you will

- * be part of ECU's largest student organization, making lifetime friendships
- * continue the Marching Pirates' tradition of musical excellence
 - generate the excitement of the crowd at football games
- enjoy expenses paid trips to selected away games, exhibition performances, and bowl games
- * pay no uniform or instrument fees
- * earn academic credit for your participation

If music, excitement, friendship, and respect are things that matter to you, the ECU Marching Pirates experience is something you'll value!
