I fight for LGBTQA+ rights by being a representative voice and advocate for the community. I do this through educating others about the struggles that queer people face today. This includes writing an informative research paper on why HB2 was discriminatory towards trans people. Through interviewing organizations that advocate for trans rights, I provided my audience with the perspectives of my trans peers. I want the LGBTQA+ community to be represented equally as human; no one should be deprived of basic human rights for who they love.
