

EMILY JARVIS

She / Her / Hers

Executive Director, A Time for Science

“

I truly believe that every human being deserves to live authentically and to the fullest, knowing that THEY. ARE. ENOUGH. I celebrate what Stonewall ignited in our society so many years ago by working every day to educate not only my family and friends, but also the community on the importance of continuing the fight to achieve LGBTQ equality. Whether it's by being a highly visible ally or creating space for conversations on LGBTQ rights, I put myself out there to raise awareness, normalize, and destigmatize, continuing the momentum started by the very brave people at Stonewall. I want my kids to grow up in a world where they can love who they love and be who they are, knowing that they will be accepted and loved.

”