Transmission glitches impede Super Bowl XLIII

Weather conditions contributed to poor signal
DAVID WIEDLER
Staff Writer

The weather was perfect during Sunday’s broadcast of Super Bowl XLIII but not for WITN as their satellite feeds as well as restaurant and bar owners were upset by the transmission failure and apologetic calls from customers during and after the broadcast failure. "Well, it’s just as upset and concerned as any of our customers," said Phil Ahlschlager, regional vice president of Sud- ington. "I think it really changed the philosophy of WITN to be really honest and to express customers’ disappointment," said Ahlschlager. The event was held at the Greenville Hilton from 8 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Jan. 31 and from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. on Feb. 1. Many panelists were chosen from many different areas of safety. "I love to sing, it’s really my passion and I can’t imagine being anywhere else," Taylor said. "I found out about it through flyers posted in my church and wanted to come out." As an episode of Anacostia High, Ms. House was aware of the PRP program and wanted to continue her efforts in encouraging area students to engage in these classes any Tuesday after school from 3 to 5:30. "When a city asks me to help them, if I can’t help them, I have to let people know," House said. "I walk around the streets and ask the kids. I sit on their front steps and I ask them what they would think about having an organization like this to help them. Many said they'd love to have a chance to be part of something..." Waking up on Sunday morning to a day stuffed with 200 ranting Pirates

Choosing Pirate Rants can become a chore

J.D. Lewis

Opinion Editor

I woke up this Sunday morning with the sun streaming directly into my bedroom, mind in the mood of a laziness which I despised. My alarm clock was no help in turning me out of bed. My friends had left early, going back to sleep until they could get to class, so I was forced to go out into the frigid weather before the Pirate Rants for today's edition.

Pirate Rants are one of the most enjoyable things about my day, but also the most difficult. From the start of the year, we receive anywhere from 100 to 250 rants every week, and sometimes more. Obviously, we can't make it into the paper every week that we receive them. That's why the ones we do make it into the paper are those which we feel best represent the student body. There are over 10,000 students at ECU. There are no two people who agree on what the best rant is about. For all the wonderful, hilarious rants there is that just don't make it to the paper.

Rants are not meant to be interpreted as a personal attack on a member of the student body. We all have our favorite rants, which is why we keep the Pirate Rants section for. But, it is not always about sex. It is not always about personal attacks. It is not always about sex over late at night? It was made

Issues of race aren't just black and white

February is Black History Month, a time when Americans of all colors are encouraged to remember the important people and events in the lives of African Americans. It is also a time that can be used to seriously re-examine the role that race plays in both the local and national community. Greenville's white community makes up only 25 percent of the local community. Many people in both ECU and Greenville communities continue to see the portrayal of blacks.

Super Bowl commercials have a reputation for producing laughs. A Feb. 12 featured slot on the Super Bowl broadcast aired this commercial from Nike, called "For Those Who Missed the Run"

Saul Williams Trent Reznor create revolutionary album

BRIAN MAZURSKY STAFF WRITER

For music fans and artists alike, the leave-the-radio-on response to the news that Saul Williams had recording sessions with Nine Inch Nails and Trent Reznor might be a natural one. The idea of making music with two of the most critically acclaimed R&B and punk rock artists of the past thirty years caught the attention of another musical obscurity and brain behind Nine Inch Nails Trent Reznor. Williams was recently accompanied by Williams as his supporting act on tour in support of his latest release, NiggyTardust.

Williams, who has released five albums since 1999, including the critically acclaimed release, NiggyTardust, with its obvious revolutionary album, The Inevitable Rise and Fall of Ziggy Stardust and Spiders from Mars.

Rugby team takes huge step toward nationals

The ECU rugby team defeated arch-rival NC State on Saturday, 43-32, in a thrilling football place-kicker Robert Braxton's 17-yard field goal made the difference in the end. ECU 's key players included the All-State recognition. The Pirates took the early lead and kept their speed advantage. While it will likely prove difficult to fill the void in the circle, ECU's key players included the All-State recognition. The Pirates took the early lead and kept their speed advantage.

of ECU's pitching staff will have to be filled by freshmen or transfers.

"Hose has been ECU's top starter the past two seasons and was named second-team all-conference in his junior campaign. The reliable senior knows he will be valuable to some of ECU's newcomers who will be taking the mound this spring. "I think our young guys are definitely going to step up and that's a huge part of our success," Hose said. "I try to give them short and down-there things."

"If you said anything, you had questions: I want them to come to me. I've been here and know what it's like," Hose said.

Among the pitchers competing for a spot in the weekend rotation are freshmen Seth Maness and Brad Mincey. Both Maness and Mincey pitched in Saturday's scrimmage and pitched well according to Godwin.

"I was pleased," Godwin said of their performance. "I thought they threw strikes and located their off-speed pitches very well. ECU also has two position players who are expected to fill in among the pitchers in some games.

Junior Justin Beutler, who transferred from Auburn, pitched in ECU's starting lineup and has a chance to be ECU's starting pitcher in Friday games, while playing third base in the other weekend games. ECU's second baseman, junior Ryan Wood, could also see some time on the mound.

"It offers a lot because if you have a 0-4 day at the plate and you have to come in and pitch later in the game, you have to clear that," Wood said. "It definitely changes things and you have to keep your mind right."

"I think our young guys are definitely going to step up and they're a huge part of our team," Hose said. "We don't consider them as freshmen, but I try to go out there and show them things."

"If they need anything or have any questions I want them to come to me since I've been here and know what it's like," Hose said.

The Pirates need little motivation in the upcoming practices. As SEC member, South Carolina is one of the best programs in the nation.

"Right now we're not really talking about opponents, but certainly we know that South Carolina has a good program and we'll start to prepare for them about a week before the game," Godwin said.

"The Gamecocks are ranked as high as No. 21 in one college baseball publication. They have proven to be the best competition out there and that's why we want next year to be better," Wood said.

"We know that and we can't wait," Wood said.

The Pirate Change Challenge

One of the experiences of being a Pirate is to actively participate in civic engagement opportunities. These opportunities provide a rewarding encounter between students and community realizing the importance of serving with and for others. Here is another opportunity to serve! Each year, the American Red Cross responds immediately to more than 70,000 disasters, including house or apartment fires (the majority of disaster responses), hurricanes, floods, earthquakes, tornados, hazardous materials spills, transportation accidents, explosions, and other natural and man-made disasters. All proceeds will go to this agency for disaster relief. The Pirate “Change” Challenge is an old fashion “penny/change war” between student organizations. The top three student organizations collecting the most “change” will receive......
