AWFUL EXPLOSION.

A Boiler at Shorts Mill Bursts With Heart-Rending Results.

MR. SHORT AND SIX EMPLOYEES KILLED.

(Special to Reflector.)

WASHINGTON, N. C., Dec 10.—At 7:30 o'clock this morning the entire boiler room of E. M. Short's large lumber mill exploded, instantly killing Mr. Short and four colored men named Abram Graham, Anthony Bonner, Chas. West and John Wallace. Several others were wounded and had narrow escapes from death. The mill is almost a total wreck.

LATER—In clearing away the debris of the wrecked mill the bodies of two more colored men, names at present unknown, were found, increasing the number of killed to seven.

J. W. Wooley, white, was badly hurt by flying bricks striking him in the face.

The damage to the plant is estimated at $10,000.

The sad disaster has made seven widows and twenty orphans. The town is enveloped in gloom and all mills and schools are closed out of respect.

Narrow Escape.

Mr. R. L. Humber met with an accident, one evening last week, that came very near losing him an eye. He was pouring some melted babbit metal into a box when a quantity of the hot metal flew up in his face. His right eye was entirely plated over with it. Dr. Laughinghouse got the metal out of his eye and said it is almost miraculous that the eye was not put out.

DAILY REFLECTOR.

Here it is! Not very large in size, but large enough, we hope, to make its presence felt. For a long time it has been our purpose to start a daily paper, in Greenville as soon as we thought the town could maintain one, and having recently been several times approached on the subject we decided to make the venture now. The DAILY REFLECTOR starts as an experiment and will be run for one month. If at the end of the month we find the experiment has met the success it ought, then its publication will continue permanently. If it continues it will be enlarged as fast as its patronage demands. We leave this entirely with the people, hoping that every one will look upon it as his paper, and take such pride in establishing a daily paper here as to extend it a helping hand.

Mr. J. B. Lanier, of Salisbury, the largest distiller in the State, died Friday.

Last week was a bad one for railroad wrecks over the State. Several occurred.

The officers of the First Regiment State Guard, at their meeting in Goldsboro on Friday, elected Mr. Alfred Williams, of Raleigh, Major of the Regiment.

It seems that in a large number of counties in the State the Populist officials elected had trouble in giving their bonds and many bonds were rejected. The party showed a poor way it had of standing by the men it had elected and helping them give

The REFLECTOR is indebted to Mr. Josephus Daniels, chief clerk, for a copy of the report of the Secretary of the Interior for the last fiscal year.

An appeal has been sent out from the town of Marion for help for the sufferers of the late fire there. Every business house but one in the town and many dwellings were destroyed. Thirty families are homeless and destitute. Greenville should add something to the fund that is sent to their aid. Send contributions to Rev. Wm. H. White, Marion, N. C.

How is This?

If there is to be any fighting down in Alabama, we hope that it will be a fight to a finish, and that there will not be Populists enough left to make a corporal's guard. Populism is organized brigandage. The best medicine for it is a dose of lead.—St. Paul Pioneer Press (Rep.)

The Board Can't Adjourn.

The State Board of Canvassers can't adjourn nor can it finish up the work of canvassing the returns of the late election,

Judge Whitaker, council for Claude M. Bernard has caused to be served on the Board a writ of mandamus compelling the Board to hear evidence in the Nash county case, before deciding which returns from that county are legal and valid, and to prevent an adjournment of the Board before the hearing of the mandamus case, which is set for the 14th in chambers at Raleigh before Judge J. G. Bynum, an order of injunction was obtained from Judge Shuford restraining the Board from final adjournment until the mandamus case was heard. The Board therefore adjourned to meet again on the 14th. Meanwhile official figures in the solicitors' vote are not obtainable.—Raleigh News & Observer.

FUNNY FANCIES.

If a cow breaks into the garden, it is a sign that some one in the family will die within six months.

If the right ear itches, some one is praising; if the left, somebody is abusing: if the foot, one is soon to walk over new ground.

Crickets and spiders bring good luck. So does it to touch a hunchback's hump. So does it to have one's teeth set wide apart or to meet a piebald horse.

Other signs of death are the howling of a dog outside of the house, the squeaking of a mouse behind the sick person's bed or the flight of a bird or bee into the room.

To cut one's nails on Sunday brings the devil with one all the week. To break a looking glass brings trouble seven years. To turn a feather bed on Sunday is bad luck.

The bad effort of seeing the new moon through glass may be mitigated by turning over the money in one's pocket. For a clock to strike while a preacher is giving out his text is a sign of death in the congregation.

If an unmarried person sits between a man and wife at dinner on any day between Christmas and Twelfth Night he will be married within a year. Welsh girls knock on Christmas eve on the hen-house door. If a hen cackles the knocker must wait another year. If a rooster crows she'll be married within the year.

A Georgia farmer went to Atlanta a few days ago with a bale of cotton and three pigs. He got $25 for the bale of cotton and $24.50 for the pigs. But even with the difference of 50 cents the pan-out was in favor of the pigs, for they cultivated themselves and lived on acorns while the farmer: cultivated the cotton and boarded himself.—Wilming-ton Star.

A hundred years ago there wasn't a railroad in the world. Now there are railroads nearly everywhere.

Chloroformed His Horses to Death.

Mayor Pingree declared a few days ago that he would have no use this winter for his pair of carriage horses, and he says he sent them out and had them chloroformed to death. He said that he did not want to pay for their feed all winter, and knew it would be economy to buy new ones in the spring.

The horses were young animals, and the mayor said he would not sell them to any one for fear that they would be abused. The carcasses of the animals were sent to a rendering establishment but the mayor kept the shoes.—Detroit, Mich., Dispatch.

Eighty Pittsburgians to Colonize in North Carolina.

Pittsburg, Pa.—One of the largest colonization schemes that has been projected in this vicinity has been organized by an Alleghany firm, with Tomb, John ston & Co in charge. With the financial backing they now have, the new colony is expected to prove a success. In this event, within the next thirty days more than eighty residents of this city and surrounding towns will leave to take up permanent residence in North Carolina. Farming lands to the extent of 50,000 acres have been leased and purchased in Craven county, at the junction of the Neuse and Trent rivers. The members of the colony are farmers, gardeners and mechanics.
