A Horse for a Knife.

The boss horse trade of the season was made here Friday evening. A boy from the country brought a sorry looking specimen of a pony to town and traded the animal to Dick Kinion for a 30 cent pocket-knife. Dick says he is going to rub that "critter" up and make something out of him.

Marriage Licenses.

During this week Register of Deeds King issued licenses to five couples, three white and colored. The whites were E. E. Smith and Mary B. Grimes, R. L. Nelson and Rosa Andrews, J. A. Andrews and Piney Williams. The colored were John Jenkins and Molley Wooten, Joe Dancy and Lucindia Thigpen.

Married.

ROBERSON-CONGLETON.—On Wednesday evening at 4 o'clock at the residence of Mr. J. R. Congleton, near Keelsville, his daughter, Miss Lizzie Congleton, and Mr. J. E. Roberson were married by W. H. Williams, Esq. The attendants were W. S. Little with Miss Lula Roberson, W. R. Whichard, Jr., with Miss Ella Keel, R. A. Bailey with Miss Ida Rogers, J. I. Keel with Miss Verna Little. After the ceremony the bridal party proceeded through the mud to the home of the groom where a beautiful supper awaited them. Many valuable presents were received. W.

THE LEGISLATURE.

THURSDAY.

The most important new bills introduced in the Legislature to-day were: To create the office of Commissioner of Public Printing, with $1,500 salary; to provide additional buildings at the Eastern Hospital for the Insane; to allow holders of unregistered lands to register them; to transfer Stokes county to the Eighth Congressional District. The joint committees nominated E. L. Franck, J. J. Long, and E. A. Aiken, all legislators, to fill vacancies on the Board of Agriculture.

Bills passed: Giving the Farmers' Alliance insurance privileges; to prevent adulteration of food; to incorporate the Carolina, Tennessee and Ohio railway; to pay Rev. Solomon Pool $2,284, money advanced to the State University.

Their Last Appearance To-Night.

The largest audience of the week so far was out last night to witness "The Daughter of Dixie" by the Hill Theatre Co., and they enjoyed it immensely. True the play seemed without a plot, but it was of such a character as to keep the audience almost continuously convulsed with laughter. The part of every character was admirably sustained. Greenville has seen no better actress than Miss Alice Kemp, and in impersonating the negro Mr. Hill cannot be surpassed. Mr. Gallagher as a clog dancer is clean out of sight as well as a good all round actor. In fact every member of the company is a genuine artist. To-night, their last appearance here, they will present "Ten Nights in a Bar Room." Mr. Hill announced that this was one of their very best plays. It will be worth witnessing.

The climax has been capped. Since the present Legislature met it has done many things to make the Fusionists subjects of ridicule throughout the State, but one act of theirs on Thursday makes all others pale beside it, and justly brings upon them the contempt of all decent people. That day a colored member of the House from Granville county introduced the following resolution, which was adopted by a party vote, the Democrats all voting against it:

WHEREAS, The late Fred Douglass departed this life on the 20th inst.; and whereas, we greatly deplore the same; now, therefore, Resolved, That when this House adjourn, it adjourn in respect to the memory of the deceased.

The very same day that this occurred a resolution was introduced to adjourn and hold no session on Friday in honor of Washington, that being the anniversary of his birthday, and was voted down. This recalls the fact also that early in the session a proposition was made to adjourn in honor of R. E. Lee on the anniversary of his birthday, a prior Legislature having already made it a legal holiday in this State, and that proposition was also rejected.

We ask the white men of Pitt county what you think ye of this? We don't care to what party you belong, if your skin is white and your heart not black enough to obliterate the distinction, what think you of a North Carolina Legislature refusing to adjourn in honor of Washington and Lee and then adjourning and causing a resolution to be spread upon the journal of the House for your children to read that they loved Fred Douglas morn. If there is a white man in North Carolina who does not feel an utter contempt for the white members who voted for this resolution, then to call him such is a misnomer, and the man who even respects such men is unworthy the confidence of our race. For our part we denounce it as the most shameful disgrace that any body of men have ever put upon North Carolina. The memory of such men ought to be blotted from existence.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From Our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., Feb 23, 1895.

Whether intentionally or not matters little, but that President Cleveland has, by a few remarks made to several gentlemen who called at the White House to pay him their respects, badly frightened the Republican leaders in Congress is certain. The callers in question were Representatives elect Smith and Corliss, of Michigan, and Towne, of Minnesota. After chatting awhile the President significantly said: "How would you gentlemen like to begin your Congressional duties as early as March 15?" They declared they were perfectly willing to wait until December, and were told by the President that conditions and not personal considerations must determine the time of the meeting of Congress. Within an hour the conversation was known at the Capitol, and the Republican leaders in both Senate and House had their heads together. Although they have professed indifference, it is known that they dread an extra session beyond everything, as it will quickly demonstrate their inability to legislate upon financial subjects. They have been hoping that the gold received for the last issue of bonds, which they have so loudly and hypocritically denounced, would enable the Treasury to pull through without an extra session and that by next December there would not be such pressing need for legislation. This scare is having one good effect. It is making the Republicans assist in pushing the appropriation bills through, because they have an idea that the President would not object to Congress forcing an extra session by failure to pass them all.

The bill for the unlimited coinage of silver did not reach a vote in the Senate, although it was demonstrated that it was supported by a substantial majority. When the bill was reported to the Senate it was understood that it was to be allowed to be voted upon, in order to put the Senate on record, but after trying to force a vote by a protracted session the bill was sent to the calendar, it having been shown that no vote could be reached.

The man who "objects" is now in his glory in both House and Senate. He can block small legislation at will, as unanimous consent is needed to get action upon any bill not having the light of way under the rules. There is little probability of any more important legislation, except the appropriation bills.

"The Woven Web."

Monday night in the Opera House the Greenville Amateurs will present "The Woven Web," a very thrilling and beautiful play. The scene first opens in a New York law office where a young attorney is discharged for negligence in letting a will be destroyed. This will disinherited a nephew, who after it was destroyed got possession of the property devised and run through with it. The war coming on the scene changes to the winter quarters of the Federal army, where a young Southerner appears and is discovered as a Confederate spy in the Federal camp. This young Southerner falls in love with a Northern girl, and a Federal Colonel in turn falls in love with the Confederate spy's sister. This Federal Colonel is the young attorney who was discharged from the New York office in the first scene. The disinherited nephew, who is the villain in the play, weaves the web by his treachery and causes general trouble for the lovers, he himself wanting to marry the Southern girl who is an heiress. A Virginia farmer exposes his villainy and causes his arrest for forgery. In the wind up all is made clear, the web is broken, the lovers are united, and all is sunshine at last. The play is full of interest throughout.

The pretty weather, ought to make an increased attendance upon the Sunday Schools to-morrow.
