ANOTHER FIRE IN KINSTON.

The Jail and Another Stables Burned—
Attempted Robbery.

(Special to Reflector.)

KINSTON, N. C., Mar. 19.—Fire broke out again last night about 11 o'clock at Dr. V. E. Weyher's stables, just north of the jail. The stables and jail were both destroyed. Loss about $10,000. The fire was the work of incendiaries.

A thief tried to get into the W. & W. depot here last night but did not succeed. Two of the window lights were broken out.

Quinerly Notes.

QUINERLY N. C. Mar. 19th, 1895.

Mrs. Spencer Brooks is visiting relatives in Ayden

Miss Myrtle Taylor, of Lenoir, is visiting Miss Annie Harding.

Miss Anna Pittman, of Grifton, spent Saturday and Sunday at Miss Mary Harding's

Miss Eliza Harding will leave to-morrow to spend some time at Jonesboro.

Miss Annie Jones returned home last Wednesday accompanied by Miss Myrtle Cox.

Mrs. Theo. Bland left Wednesday to spend some time with relatives at Wildwood.

BURGLARS.

Some One Enters Mr. Alfred Forbes' Residence.

This morning about 3 o'clock some one broke into the house of Mr. Alfred Forbes. The burglar entered the north window to the parlor and passed through that room into the hall. His daughters sleeping in the room back of the parlor were awakened by the window opening, and one of them got up and started to her father's room across the hall. As she stepped out her door she saw a man standing between her and the parlor door in the hall. She rushed back and closed her door, the burglar beating a retreat at the same time and upsetting an umbrella holder. This awoke Mr. Forbes and he hastened to the girls' room thinking the lamp may have fallen over. They told him about the man in the hall when he went back to his room for a pistol and then to the parlor. By this time the burglar had escaped but a shot was fired out the window to frighten him away. Mr. Forbes says the man left a very distinct cigarette odor in the house. He says also that an examination of the yard near the window disclosed the tracks of two persons, so it is supposed that one stood at the window while the other was inside. The tracks were small and indicated sharp toed shoes. Mr. Forbes has offered a reward for evidence that will convict the parties.

Long Court

A court prolonged beyond the regular term in something unusual for Pitt county, but some of the lawyers tell us this bond case will likely occupy all the time between now and April court and then consume all of that term. One case being allowed to consume so much time and break up so many courts looks like a poor arrangement of the law.

DID YOU KNOW?

Well. Look at these Names and Then You Will Know.

The Observer, a bright exchange that comes to us from Orange, Va., has just celebrated its fourteenth birthday. For several years we have been reading weekly with much pleasure Robinson's "original observations" and other interesting features of the Observer.

Mr. Butler has sent word to Washington to have his seat placed on the Republican side of the Senate. It was reported some time ago that he preferred sitting on that side but he denied it. Later developments show that this is true and North Carolina may expect him to act with the Republicans. We predict, however, that this will make no enemies to him among his followers, as some are already saying that there are but two parties.

It is found since the Legislature adjourned that it failed in the effort to turn over the A. & M. College and the Agricultural Department to the Fusionists. The record shows that there were only eighty-three votes cast for the men they thought they had elected to positions. It takes eighty-six votes to elect therefore these men were not elected and cannot serve and the Democrats will still control in these departments. Would that all the legislation they did could turn the same way.

During the last campaign the Fusionists were passing as reformers and whining about what unnecessary expense the Democrats incurred. It was reasonable to suppose that there would be retrenchment in expenses when they got control. Instead of that we have this spectacle: The appropriations are about $125,000 more than the previous Legislature and the cost of this session of the Legislature was $6,627.88 more than the Democratic body which met two years ago cost. This is reform with a vengeance.

THE NATIONAL CAPITOL.

WASHINGTON, D. C., Mar. 18th 1895

Minister Ransom and Collector Simmons are here. General Ransom came on to see about some more places for his friends. Collector Simmons to attend to certain routine matters pertaining to his office, with acting Commissioner of Internal Revenue. Commissioner Miller is too sick to be at his desk.

I hear that Senator Marion Butler has a seat on the Republican side of the Chamber. Someone asked Ex-Senator Ransom about Senator Butler's predilections in this matter and he replied that he thought Mr. Butler's policy would be antagonistic to the Democratic party.

There is quite a breeze in diplomatic and State Department circles over Secretary Gresham's ultimatum to Spain to apologize or fight. Baron Fava has rendered himself persona non grata by communicating directly with the Governor of Colorado instead of through the State Department. England is trying to claim more than her share of Venezuela, and Uncle Sam may be called on to arbitrate.

Quite a number of gentlemen whose political existence came to a temporary end, at least, with the fifty-third Congress, are to be seen in the various lobbies. A number are staying to look after odds and ends of department business, but at least a baker's dozen are waiting for the President to return in the hope of getting a job that will put them on Uncle Sam's pay roll. There are not many fat places left, but for those remaining, including some new positions, mostly judicial, there is keen competition, and the aspirants are more numerous than the offices.

Some High-Priced Autographs.

At an autograph sale in Paris in December, 1890, the signature of Christopher Columbus (which is, probably, one of the most fantastic sign manuals ever used, and which has been fully described in Notes for the Curious), brought 4,000 francs. The only existing piece of manuscript in Titian's handwriting was knocked down at 3,000 francs, and one with Cromwell's signature attached brought in exactly half that sum. Alfred Morrison, a great English collector of autographs, was present at the sale and paid a sum equal to 4,000 francs for the only letter written by Corneille that has ever been on the market. The last letter written by Napoleon to Empress Marie Louise was disposed of at the same sale, bringing 4,000 francs, and several signatures of Louis XIV. and Henry IV. fetched 1,000 francs each.

Where the Sun Gains a Day.

Chatham island, lying off the coast of New Zealand, in the South Pacific ocean, is one of the few habitable points of the globe where the day changes, it being situated exactly on the line of demarcation between dates. At that place "high 12" Sunday, or Sunday noon, ceases at the striking of the clock, and instantly thereafter it is Monday noon, or, more exactly, a few seconds after noon. On that peculiarly situated island it is possible for a person to begin his midday meal at 11:45 a. m. Sunday, and eat continuously until 12:15 Monday without consuming more than a half-hour's time or making a glutton of himself.

Japanese Soldier Gymnasts.

Every Japanese barrack has a gymnasium, and the Japanese soldiers rank among the best gymnasts in the world. In half a minute they can scale a fourteen-foot wall by simply bounding on each other's shoulders, one man supporting two or three others.
