MORE INCENDIARISM.

Another Effort to Burn Kinston.

(Special to Reflector.)

KINSTON, N. C. Mar. 28.—There is again much excitement here over another attempt to burn the town last night. Some one threw kerosene oil on a wood house on the premises of Mr. Claytor and set it on fire. Fortunately it was discovered in time to prevent the fire from spreading. A man has been arrested on the charge of setting the building on fire and it is believed he is the right man.

The farmers have got to hustle in a hurry to catch up with the work that the bad weather threw them almost a month behind in.

What is Haapening Over the State.

Charlotte Observer: Mr. S. A. Weddington, of Huntersville, is short one finger. He was manipulating a printing press yesterday, when he got his finger caught in some way, and the first thing he knew he had only four fingers on the hand instead of five.

Salisbury Herald: It seems impossible, but it is nevertheless a fact that the ticking of a watch can be distinctly heard over the long distance telephone from Salisbury to Charlotte.

At Sanford Tom Lilly, a colored man, got his hand mashed off in the machinery at the North Carolina Rock Quarry.

The Charlotte Observer says Mrs. S. S. M-ers has a dress 400 years old. It is a family heirloom.

NEWS OFF THE WIRE.

The Progressive Farmer can't help but confess that our last legislature was the most extravagant body we have had in twenty years.

Mr. McClammy, the Democratic Representative in the last legislature from New Hanover county, seems to have gotten into deep water on account of his position in the legislature upon the question of abolishing the criminal court in his county and establishing the one that was established. His position was indefensible and he will not receive much sympathy for the roasting he is getting at the hands of Mr. Meares.

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

A load of tobacco is getting to be an uncommon sight now on the market.

It is thought that the South Carolina tobacco crop will be largely increased this year.

Mr. L. E. Dudley, from near Vanceboro, in Craven county, was on the market Wednesday with the last of his crop. Mr. Dudley says there are ten new tobacco barns now within a mile square of his house.

We were told a few days ago by a Granville county man that numbers of the tobacco farmers in that section were not using any commercial fertilizer this year. Numbers of others were planting small grain on their land instead of tobacco and all were preparing to make more wheat and bread.

We are frequently asked what effect the increased tobacco acreage in Eastern North Carolina will have on the price of tobacco next fall. This depends largely on the quality made and the percent of decrease in acreage further up the country. There is not likely to be any effect upon the price of good tobacco unless there is an extraordinary good crop made all over the country, which is not hardly probable, and in that event while fancy prices may not be obtained for small piles, yet the all round average we do not think will be much affected and on the whole there will be much more money made on the crop. For the sale of the common grades of tobacco we are dependent on foreign orders and if they are placed early and are heavy, fair prices may be expected, but on the whole it is best to calculate for low prices on common goods.

It seems to us that the recent destructive fires that have almost swept from the face of the earth our beautiful sister town Kinston, ought to serve as a strong object lesson to some of her more fortunate neighbors to take proper steps and prepare well for such an emergency. Here in Greenville at present we have no means of ever extinguishing a fire after it once gets full under the control of the flames until checked only for lack of something to burn. What awful, heart-rending havoc a fire would play should some parts of our town catch on some of these windy days. Nothing is more trouble to imagine than mad leaping flames of fire beyond human control, and here we are in Greenville almost daily leisurely by reading dispatches of the conflagration of our sister town not 30 miles away without taking any steps to protect our property in case it should become necessary. There is no reason on earth why we should not have a good fire company and fire engine.

A few days ago we received a letter from a gentleman living in Pantego, in the extreme eastern portion of Beaufort county asking us to come down there and see if their lands were suitable for tobacco and if they could grow it profitably. In regard to the former question we are prepared to believe that tobacco is a weed that will grow luxuriously in any soil in North Carolina from the smoky sides of the Blue Ridge Mountains to the sand washed beach of Roanoke Island, but in regard to the latter many have tried, many have failed and few have succeeded very admirably in the cultivation of tobacco, for it is a crop that requires the most careful thought and judgment from the preparation of the plant bed till the crop is marketed, and at no stage during this time can you consider a crop safe till you have your money for it. As to the kind of soil on which tobacco should be planted that is a question very little considered now a days. There was a time not very long ago when only a gray soil was selected for tobacco, but as the cultivation began to spread necessity forced a great many to plant dark land and some of the brightest tobacco we ever saw grew on black pine woods land, so we say unhesitatingly that the former popular idea of selecting particular soils for tobacco is rapidly passing away. Of course no one will understand us to mean that tobacco will amount to much planted on lands on river or creek bottoms and in speaking of dark soil, mould land well drained is referred to. Hence we have no doubt but that tobacco would grow and mature all right on Pungo swamp and the only serious difficulty it seems to us that one would encounter in this section would be the danger of the tobacco damaging after it was cured on account of the salt water atmosphere.

SCALES.

Not off of Shad, But Whales Caught
in the Reflector Net.

Mr. H. F. Harris has returned home.

Look at the pretty Shoes and Slippers at Lang's.

A few more days like this and we will be thinking of summer.

Buy Cotton Seed Meal at the Old Brick Store.

Capt. Hawks is back at his post in charge of the passenger train.

Lumber is being placed on the ground for the new tobacco warehouse.

Regular Thursday night services in the Baptist church tonight.

For Cotton Seed Meal and Hulls and Shingles call on Henry Sheppard. Prices low down.

Stirring up dirt and putting in seed go bravely on now. Good weather for it.

The Roanoke Union meets at Bethel to-morrow and continues through Sunday.

The ladies should not fail to see the new goods at Lang's.

The present outlook is that this will be a very busy year with carpenters around Greenville.

The young ladies are making extensive preparation for the "bonnet party" to-morrow night.

Mrs. Fannie Hobgood, daughter of Lorenzo McLawhorn, of Contentnea township, died Wednesday.

Several very fine horses have recently been purchased by parties here. There seems to be a growing interest in good stock.

One lady in town is saving a complete file of the DAILY RE-FLECTOR and says she is going to keep them as long as she lives.

Mr. J. R. Moye returned Wednesday night from his northern purchasing tour for J. B. Cherry & Co. You may count on good-selected by "Jess" being o. k. all around.

So Natural Looking.

A lady friend in Norfolk sent us a box of artificial flowers of her own make. They are made of colored paper and such perfect imitation of the natural flower that one's first impulse
upon looking at them is to test their fragrance.

Tried to Run Away.

A pair of horses hitched to a wagon loaded with barrels of water created a little excitement, yesterday afternoon, by trying to run away near Five Points. They nearly upset the wagon in turning around and sprinkled water
about mightily, but the driver
very skilfully pulled them in.

Still Trying to Burn.

Another effort has been made to burn Kinston, as will be seen from our special published elsewhere. The trouble our neighbor town is having with firebugs has reached such a stage that there would be general rejoicing
over the capture and speedy punishment of the perpetrators of such fiendish deeds. The people there feel great alarm at the danger surrounding them.

Ayden Items.

AYDEN, N. U., Mar. 28, 1895.

The Free Will Baptist made its appearance here this morning.
It was a day late owing to the sickness of one of the printers.

The people around Ayden are fixing their gardens in a hurry.
One man caught a mole which he said had done at least $10 damage to his garden and he expressed much satisfaction over killing it.

The machinery for the tobacco
flue factory arrived to day.

The new millinery store of Hart & Harrington is very handsome,
also the new residence of Rev. J.
M. Barfield.

We regret to hear of the death of Mrs. Fannie Hobgood and Mrs. Richard Anderson, both of Contentnea township.

Mr. J. J. Harrington is erecting a dwelling here.

subscription to the carrier.
