It looks like the Senatorial contest in the Delaware Legislature is going to hang on indefinitely. They continue to ballot every day without arriving at any result.

The Supreme Court has rendered a decision on the new mortgage law. The decision is just what everybody felt it must be. The State was being ruined by this abominable bill. Everybody knew it would be unwise for the Governor to call together the crowd that passed it for the purpose of repealing it. Nobody, probably outside of the Fusionist in the body, ever wants to see this crowd assemble again in the capacity of a Legislature. There was only one other way to save the State and that was for the Supreme Court to say that the law did not apply to mortgages given for a present consideration or for supplies. This they did and now the people can breathe a little easier, but confidence can not be fully restored yet because two out of the five members of the Court say in their opinions that the case before them was not a proper one to test the law, and Judge Avery does not agree in the conclusions. Judge Clarke agrees in the conclusions with the majority but with Judge Avery as to the case not being a proper one to test the law. With these facts people will be slow to make mortgages now even though a majority of the Court has said that this law does not effect them. The Supreme Court will probably be kept busy for the next two years with matters growing out of laws passed by the "Douglas Association" which spent sixty three days in the Capitol trying to ruin the State.

WASHINGTON LETTER.

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, April, 6th, 1895.

The Treasury is to-day in better condition than it has been at any time since the present administration came into power. For some time there has been a steady increase in receipts, both from customs and internal revenue, and they are expected to continue to increase right along. Not the least gratifying thing about the situation is that it is now certain that no extra session of Congress will have to be called, even if the Supreme Court decides against the income tax, unless something now entirely unexpected shall make it necessary. The Treasury will have ample money to pay all claims, and the arrangement made with the syndicate which bought the last issue of bonds, has so far worked like a charm in keeping the gold in the Treasury.

Mr. M. H. Twitchell, of Louisiana, who has been U. S. consul at Kingston, Canada, for nearly twenty years, reports to the State department a curious method of discrimination against Americans which has been recently put into effect by the Canadian authorities. Physicians residing near the boundary line between the United States and Canada have for many years—ever since colonial days, in fact—practiced indiscriminately on both sides of the line, but those who live on the American side of the line have been notified by the Canadian authorities that they will no longer be allowed to visit patients living on the Canadian side. That is an application of the doctrine of protection that should be studied by Gov. McKinley and his disciples.

Postmaster General Wilson formally took charge of his department yesterday. He was sworn in Wednesday afternoon by Chief Justice Fuller, the ceremony being witnessed by Mrs. Fuller, Miss Wilson, Mr. Bissell and a number of the officials of the department. Mr. and Mrs. Bissell expect to return to Buffalo in about three weeks. President and Mrs. Cleveland have invited them to spend a few days with them at "Woodley" before they leave.

Secretary Herbert believes there is much in a name, particularly when it comes to the selection of a name for a new vessel. As soon as it was learned that the Secretary was almost ready to take up the question of selecting names for the gunboats now being constructed at Newport News, Va., the pressure in favor of the cities which are competing for the honor began and it has steadily grown stronger, and the end is not in sight. The cities having active partisans working in their behalf are Nashville, Chattanooga, Lexington, Ky., Mobile, Norfolk, Niagara and Gloucester, and others may enter the good-natured contest. Three States have already put in applications to have their names given to one of the two battle ships authorized to be built by the last Congress—Rhode Island, Kentucky, and Pennsylvania—but it will probably be a long time before those names are selected.

Ingratitude is a common failing of our humanity. We are prone to forget our benefactors. By the favors of others we are helped forward in the struggle of life, and perhaps we attain a good measure of success. In our day of prosperity do we not sometimes forget the faithful friends who have rendered essential help? We may have been in trouble, called upon to pass through an experience of difficulty, at which time sympathy and aid were shown to us by some one to whom we made appeal—do we forget the helping hand when no longer we need its support?

The Governor has commuted the sentence of Billy McDaniel, sentenced to be hanged April 12th at Asheville for murder, to imprisonment for life.

POTTER PALMER'S PORTER.

Why There Are No More Tips for Carrying Trunks.

The Story of the Chicago Millionaire's Venture with a Trotting Horse—He Is Not So Successful as He Anticipated.

This is the narrative of Potter Palmer and his chief porter, as told in a Chicago paper:

Mr. Palmer has what he considers an educated taste in horseflesh. He thinks he knows a trotter when he sees him, and has little doubt of his ability to judge of the aforesaid trotter when he sits behind him with ribbons in his hands.

Mr. Palmer some time ago bought a horse with an alleged ability to do a mile in 2:50, that struck him as being extremely desirable. He paid a good deal of money for the animal and he was filled with delight when he thought of the easy and brash manner in which he would pass the various turnouts on the Lake Shore drive.

He asked Mrs. Palmer to come out with him to try the new horse, and, having nothing better to do, Mrs. Palmer consented. The wagon was yoked up and the driver attached.

One by one the speedy horses of the neighboring Armours and Trees and Healsys were passed, and Mr. Palmer was just beginning to rejoice in his purchase when there came behind him the clatter and rattle of a badly-constructed village cart.

"We will have to have one more run, my dear," said Potter Palmer. "Just this once, love," said Mrs. Potter Palmer.

The clattering came nearer and nearer and nearer, and then presenter and presenter, and at last passer and passer, until it faded away in the distance far beyond anything Potter Palmer and his new horse could do, but as the vehicle went by Mr. Palmer recognized the driver.

It was his own head porter! The man who had thus brought him to open shame was the person who told the slaveys how to pile the trunks around in the Palmer house.

He said nothing just then, but like the parrot in the story he thought a heap. Mrs. Palmer made such conversation as there was held the rest of the trip, and Mr. Palmer got back to the hotel as soon as possible.

"How much does that head porter get a month?" he demanded.

"Fifty dollars," replied the manager.

"How can he buy trotting stock on fifty dollars a month?" demanded Mr. Palmer.

"Oh! you forget his fees."

"What fees?"

"Why, his tips—the money people give the head porter when their luggage is brought for them."

"Hereafter," said Mr. Palmer, "no porter is to be permitted to collect fees. You see that he does what he is paid to do for what he is paid for it. And, by the way, find out what he will take for that horse he had out to-day."

MRS. RUDYARD KIPLING.

The American Wife of the Famous English Writer.

Mrs. Rudyard Kipling is a slender little woman, with soft brown eyes, dark hair and a very sweet expression. She is not "a new woman," and does not care for any society except that of her household, and she and her husband are so congenial in tastes and ideas that they live all the year around in a little farmhouse fifteen miles from Brattleboro, Vt., and never even think of being bored. It seems curious that such a bitter American hater as Kipling should have an American wife and a home in the heart of Yankeedom, but he seems perfectly contented with both.

Mrs. Kipling was Miss Carolyn Balestier, with whose brother, the late Walcott Balestier, Mr. Kipling collaborated for several years. The third member of the family is Miss Josephine Kipling, who was two years old last New Year's day, and from the stories one hears of her must be as precocious as that typical American child whom Papa Kipling hates. It is said that Miss Josephine recently declared in bitterness of heart:

"Boo-hoo! My papa tells lots of stories and gets money for 'em, and I tell one little weeny story and get spanked! Boo-hoo!"

We can imagine Kipling laying down the pen to administer the slipper.—N. Y. Commercial Advertiser.

Friends Were Too Friendly.

John G. Whittier was greatly loved by strangers, who not only called on him, but thriftily insisted on putting up with him all night. "Thee has no idea," said his sister, "how much time Greenleaf spends trying to lose these people in the streets. Sometimes he comes home and says: 'Well, sister, I had hard work to lose him, but I have lost him. But I can never lose a her. The women are more pertinacious than the men; don't thee find them so, Maria?'"

Old Bank Notes.

The Bank of England has in its possession a bank note dated December 19, 1699, for £555. It was printed from an engraved plate, but had blank spaces for the amount, date, number and signature. Across it are written ten memoranda showing that it was repaid in three installments. In appearance it is not altogether unlike the modern note. In the bank library is another note, for £25, which was not presented for 111 years. Another curiosity, said to be unique, is a note for no less than £1,000,000 dated 1782.

The New Pastor.

As the Sundays go by it becomes more and more apparent that the Baptist church made a wise selection in calling Rev. C. M. Billings to be its pastor. He has been here just a month now, and in that time he not only proved himself a preacher well above the average in point of ability, but has won his way rapidly to the hearts of the people of the community both in and out of the churches.
