How to Farm Successfully.

Mr. H. C. Jefferson, of Falkland township, the past season raised, fattened and killed 12,000 pounds of pork, against 10,136 pounds the previous year, and made a proportional increase in his cotton and corn crops. Mr. Jefferson reaches such results as this on his farm by constant labor and perseverance. He and his boys scarcely lost a day during the past winter, even through the severe cold and snow of February, but went right ahead cutting and clearing new grounds every day. It is a reminder of what the observant and prosperous Dr. West, of Fieldsboro, said of the hard times: "That nine-tenths of the people in this country do not average more than half of the days in the year at work. If so, instead of sitting about complaining of hard times, and waiting for the government to turn up some way to provide for them, they would have corn and meat and could pay their indebtedness more promptly."

Superior Court.

The following cases have been disposed of since yesterday's report.

Benjamin Carr, false pretense, not guilty.

William Hanrahan, carrying concealed weapons, pleads guilty, judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

Rufus Cherry, assault, with deadly weapon, pleads guilty sentenced 4 months in jail.

Reuben Norman, larceny, guilty, judgment suspended upon payment of costs.

Elsener Smith, pointing gun, not guilty.

Henry Smith, assault with deadly weapon, pleads guilty, sentenced 4 months in jail with leave to Commissioners to hire out for costs.

William Johnson, larceny, guilty, sentenced 18 months in penitentiary.

ANOTHER ATTEMPT TO BURN.

But the Fire is Discovered in Time to Save the Building.

(Special to Reflector.)

KINSTON, N. C., April 10th.

An unsuccessful attempt was made last night to burn the dwelling occupied by Louis Einstein, on Independent street about half past 11 o'clock, the family were aroused by smoke and the odor of burnt cotton, the alarm was given and the fire company responded promptly. The fire was extinguished by a few buckets of water. Some one had placed a box of loose cotton under Mr. Einstein's bed room and applied the match. Very little damage was done.

They Like It.

If every enterprise around Greenville took as much interest in the DAILY REFLECTOR as the Greenville Lumber Co., our circulation would soon double. We have eight regular subscribers among the proprietors and employers of this company.

NEARER HOME.

What is Happening Over the State.

A seven pound gold nugget, worth $1,500, has been found in a Stanly county gold mine.

Washington Progress. Mr Frank Jordan, sawyer at the Short mill, cut 48,000 feet of lumber with one band saw, last Friday.

Chas. Hines, who presides over the Carolina barber shop, yesterday evening bought a hen of the Cochon-China species and took her home. This morning he found that she had made a nest during the night and had laid three eggs. All of them were well developed of the usual size, excepting that one had a hard shell and the other two were soft-shells.—Durham Sun

The Topic says a Mr. Jones, of Watauga, went to Lenoir last week to get some goods for a Mr. Meretz. He spent the night there and slept in his wagon. He had $115, with which to pay the freight on the goods, in his overcoat pocket and in the same pocket he had a box of matches. During the night the matches ignited and the coat caught fire. Jones threw it out of the wagon but forgot about the money until the coat was burned.

Call it "guff, fiction, fairy tales, bluff, twisted truth, anything, but don't let the matter drop until you give me a chance to back up every claim I've made in favor of Clothes, Hats and Furnishings. Try a Suit of Clothes, a Hat, some Furnishings—that will do the business, and help to determine whether I preach facts or peddle fairy-tales.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY).

The United States Supreme Court has decided that the income tax is constitutional, only Justice Fields dissenting from the opinion.

We notice that some papers are still running the advertisement of Davis, Hill & Co. of Washington D. C. If the editors of such papers have not learned that that firm is a fraud they are mighty slow in keeping up with the news, while if they do know it they are treating their readers with much injustice in advising them to ship produce to a fraudulent firm.

EQUAL PAY FOR EQUAL WORK.

We do not think that assemblages of women are to be encouraged, for their general tendency is, if not to lower the standard of womanhood, certainly to lower woman just a little in the eyes of man; but there was held recently in Washington City the National Council of Women of the United States, which discussed one very practical question, and from the discussion of which it is to be hoped that good will come merely through directing public attention to it. The matter referred to is the inequality of the compensation of women and that of men for the same amount and quality of work. It is an almost invariable rule that a man is paid more than a woman for the same work, no greater amount and no better performed; and it is an exhibition of one of the meannesses of men, that the facts are as they are. There are many classes of work which women do better than men, and yet they receive less for it. There are cases in which women and men work together in the same houses, performing work exactly the same in character and quantity, the women receiving less compensation than the men. The injustice is rank. It has been suggested that woman's needs are less than man's. Whether this be true or not it has nothing whatever to do with the question—it is no affair of the employer whether the employe's needs are great or small, and even if it were the point has no bearing upon the value of the service rendered. No adequate excuse has even been or can ever be given for the inequality, and its existence is a reflection upon the sense of justice of mankind in general.—Charlotte Observer.

A CHANCE FOR PRACTICAL GENIUS.

The Press Claims Company, of Washington, D. C., has adopted a unique method of encouraging American inventors. Every month it makes an award of one hundred dollars in cash to the inventor having the most meritorious invention, who may apply for a patent upon the same through the medium of this great combination of American newspapers, effected for the protection of the American people against unscrupulous patent attorneys and claim agents at Washington. Three awards have been made already; one to C. L. Jordan, of Pellahatchie, Miss., one to J. H. Rogers, of Philadelphia, and the third to R. C. DeVault, of Philadelphia, Pa. Mr. DeVault lives at No. 1429 S. Juniper St., in the City of Brotherly Love, and his device which receives the award of merit for the current calendar month, is a car fender, simple in construction, practical in operation, and no doubt of great commercial value. The Press Claims Company sends out an interesting little booklet called "Hints to Inventors," which the readers of this paper who are interested in obtaining patents would do well to secure. They can be obtained gratuitously by the readers of this paper who mention that fact, and who enclose a clipping of any advertisement of the Company which may appear therein. Backed up, as its attorneys are, by the influence of nearly two thousand of the most potent papers of the country, the Press Claims Company is now in a position to secure prompt and speedy justice for all classes of claimants against the General Government, and the readers of this paper who have this class of claims to prosecute would do well to communicate with Philip W. Aviret, Managing Attorney of the Company, 618 F. Street, N. W., Washington, D. C.

The grand jury at Elizabeth, N. J., a few days ago, handed in a number of indictments and also a presentment relative to the holding of lotteries at church and society fairs. The paper is a strong one, and characterizes the drawing for prizes at these places as the worst form of gambling, as it brings the vice to the young. The presentment is aimed, it is said, at the heads of some of the churches, which have been the most flagrant and most persistent violators of the law.

The Greenville REFLECTOR, one of the smallest dailies in the State has been enlarged. We are pleased to note this evidence of prosperity, and hope that it may continue to increase in size and usefulness.—Raleigh Press.

YELLOW JESSAMINE.

O. golden bells that swing and sway
In the deeps of southern wildwood, Where balmy breezes gently play, Like memories of happy childhood.
Gently, slow,
To and fro
You swing in the scented air
And your dainty chimes softly swell, Calling fairy folk to prayer.
The merry dances now have ceased,
And the flower bells are pealing, While fairy folk and fairy priest Are on mossy carpets kneeling.
Tender, slow,
Sweet and low
The mystic tones, faint, remote,
Like echoes soft from cloister tower,
On evening zephyrs lightly float.
With lavish bloom and trailing vine,
The fairest of southern flowers,
Its graceful tendrils closely twine, Making dusky, dreamy bowers, Soft wings blow
To and fro
The fragrant, clustering bells,
And music dumb to mortal ears,
Is heard in the elfin dells.

FAME WON BY ACCIDENT.

His First Successful Picture Was an Advertisement.

The great French painter, Bastien Lepage, who died lately, was pursued by unmerciful disaster through his youth in his efforts to study art.
 His mother worked in the fields to keep the sickly boy at school. At fifteen he went alone to Paris, starved for seven years, painted without success, but still—painted.
 He had just finished a picture to send to the salon when Paris was besieged and he rushed with his comrades to the trenches.

On the first day a shell fell into his studio and destroyed his picture, and another shell burst at his feet, wounding him. He was carried home and lay ill and idle for two years. Then he returned to Paris, and, reduced to absolute want, painted cheap fans for a living. One day a manufacturer of some patent medicine ordered a picture from him to illustrate its virtues. Lepage, who was sincere, gave his best work to his advertisement. He painted a landscape in the April sunlight; the leaves of tender green quivered in the breeze; a group of beautiful young girls gathered around a fountain from which the elixir of youth sprang in a bubbling stream. Le-page believed there was real merit in it.

"Let me offer it at the salon," he asked his patron.

The manufacturer was delighted.
 "But first paint a rainbow arching over the fountain," he said, "with the name of my medicine upon it." Lepage refused. "Then I will not pay you a sou for the picture!" The price of this picture meant bread for months and the painter had long needed bread. The chance of admission to the salon was small. He hesitated. Then he silenced his hunger and carried the canvas to the salon. It was admitted. Its great success insured Lepage a place in public recognition and his later work a place among the greatest of living artists.—Current Literature.

A FORCED APOLOGY.

Lord Churchill Brings a Vapid Youth to His Knees.

At an entertainment once, where Lady Randolph Churchill was playing on the piano, a tall youth was observed paying a languid and rather insolent attention to the music, standing close enough to the performer to have his comment easily overheard by her. "Lord Randy" was close at hand, too, and presently heard the vapid youth remark: "Deuced fine music, you know, but it lacks weal soul—it lacks weal soul." To the critic's astonishment a muscular young man, with a big mustache, whom he had not noticed before, whispered in his ear: "For a shilling I'd wallop the life out of you!" He hastened to withdraw, but without discovering the identity of the author of the menace. The next day, to his delight, he received an invitation to the Churchills' home, which he accepted with avidity. On entering the house he was met by his threatening neighbor of the night before, who, he at once discerned, must be Lord Randolph. He proceeded no further than the entrance hall, for Churchill beckoned to the drawing-room, and out floated Lady Churchill. "This fellow has come to apologize to you for his remarks of last night," hissed Lord Randolph. "Now," to the stranger, "down on your knees!" Down went the dandy, lisping out the most abject plea for forgiveness. Then he was turned over to a footman to be put ignominiously out of the door, while the host followed his retreating figure with a roar of derisive laughter.—Kate Field's Washington.

Supposed Mrs. Livermore Did.

Mrs. Mary A. Livermore is a woman revered alike in her family and neighborhood, yet her greatness does not always appeal to a certain small boy who belonged to a family residing in the vicinity. He was one day found by his sister swinging on the gate. When she reprimanded him for doing what he was forbidden the irreverent youth remarked: "I don't care for you, nor ma, nor pa, nor the ox, nor the ass, or anything that's anybody's." "Oh, Willv!" exclaimed the shocked little girl, "do you know who wrote those words you use so?" "Don't care," was the reply. "Mrs. Livermore, I s'pose."—Boston Home Journal.

The Human Voice.

Mrs. Milward Adams, of Chicago, is lecturing on the possibilities of the human voice. She divides the voice into six tones, from the tone of power and command down to that of "contentment, peace and happiness." According to Mrs. Adams, the difference between the American and English voice lies mainly in the different register used, the English woman using the upper tones and rising cadence, which is more musical in effect, while the American voice drops from the center tone down, exhausting the vocal chords and producing a strident effect.

For Obvious Reasons.

 dies' shoes?

On Dangerous Ground.

"Jedge," said the colored witness, "I wish you please, suh, make the lawyer stop pesterin' me!"
 "But he has a right to question you."
 "Dat may be, jedge, but I se got a kinder rattlin' in my head, en ef he worry me much, fust t'ing you know I'll tell de truth 'bout dis matter!"

Is This Your Case?

If you are not a subscriber to the DAILY REFLECTOR you ought to be. The paper is trying to do something for Greenville and being the town properly before the outside world, and every reader who is a borrower instead of a subscriber hampers the efforts of the paper just that much. Perhaps you had not looked at it in that light but this is the correct view to take. Of course you don't want to hinder a home enterprise, so stop borrowing and come up like a man to put your name on our subscription list.

25 PER CENT.

For the purpose of adding to my already large and well-selected Spring Stock, I am now in the northern markets for a second purchase and in a few days will offer goods and prices that will astonish you.

The northern wholesale merchants are anxious to sell during April as they dread having to carry goods over into the summer, and I am taking advantage of the inducements they hold out. My customers will be given the benefit of these low purchases and can save money by waiting to see my goods. C. T. MUNFORD, Next Door to Bank.
