BURLESQUE ON SPRING POETS.

BY REV. JOE B. UFF.

Now de poets 'gin to sing
 'Bout de comin' er de spring,
 Lawdy Massy! don't yer hate ter hear
 'em blow?
 Dey're de poo'st kind er neighbors,
 Sech a talk but never labors
 In de spring time when de grass bergins
 ter grow.

Dey have never eten gues'd
 What it's like ter steal er rest
 Choppin' cotton, standin' leavin' on yer hoe;
 When d. nights 're gettin' shorter,
 An' de days 're gettin' hotter,
 In de spring time when de grass bergins
 ter grow.

Let 'em go into de woods,
 Why de cows 're chawin' cuds,
 An' dey'll find out what dey didn't want
 ter know;
 An' der skin 'll reed er patch,
 Cause dey're mighty slio' to scratch,
 In de spring time when de grass begins
 ter grow.

Den dey'll go back ter de house
 An' be rassu' er de dance,
 When dey thik ter sleep an' rest upon
 de flo;
 'Bout de sketes an de flies,
 An' de gnats all in der eyes,
 In de spring time when de grass bergins
 ter grow.

Do dey rally, as dey 'pea,
 Love dis lazy time o' year?
 Ef dey do its 'oufy cause dey didn't know;
 'Cause der' nuthin' ever made,
 More invitin' dan de shade,
 In de spring time when de grass bergins
 ter grow.

But 'he who sleeps in summer,
 May spect ter beg' remember,
 In dat season when his labor ought 'to
 show;
 So't you want ter see life's beauty,
 Jus' go out an' do yer duty,
 In de spring time when de grass bergins
 ter grow.

Saturdays seem to be getting unlucky days for us. Last Saturday the printers reprinted a column of editorial matter that appeared in Thursday's paper.

RIOT AT BATH.

NEGROES TAKE POSSESSION OF THE TOWN.

Officers are Defied—The Military Held in Readiness to Render Assistance—Great Excitement Prevails.

(Special to Reflector.)

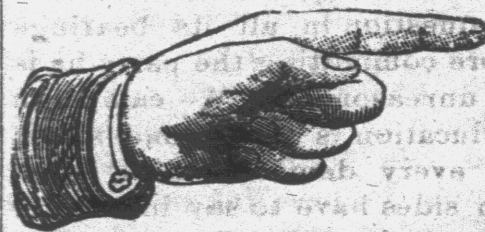

WASHINGTON, N. C., April 22.—Negroes employed by the Roanoke Railroad & Lumber Company, two miles from Bath, N. C., and at the mill of A. B. Covington, several miles further, threatened to go to Bath and take charge of the town. This threat was carried into execution Saturday evening when a mob of about 150, armed with pistols, clubs and razors, entered the little city and began drinking very freely.

About 9 o'clock at night they grew very disorderly, filled the air with cursing, and alarmed the people by firing pistols promiscuously. Town Constable T. C. Paul and Deputy Sheriff N. A. Whitley attempted to arrest the leaders of the disturbance. The officers were resisted and from this a general riot started. Officer Paul was painfully cut on the head. G. W. Woolard also received a very serious wound on the head, being struck with a club, from which it was feared he would die, but he is reported as being much better now and is thought to be out of danger. W. B. Wood, W. O. Odum and Wiley Shepherd, special deputies, all received slight wounds.

The officers telephoned here for assistance and Sheriff Hodges ordered the Washington Light Infantry to be in readiness to go down as a Sheriff's posse. The company was called together and remained in readiness until 11 o'clock Sunday morning. The tug Nellie Bly was steamed up for the Sheriff's use, but fortunately the riot was partially quieted by 2 o'clock Sunday morning.

Early Sunday morning the officers succeeded in arresting Solomon Lanier, Charles Stewart, Sam Clark and Wiley Pitts. Lanier resisted the officers and they were compelled to shoot him in order to arrest him. He received a bullet in one leg and a gun load of small shot in the other. Later another arrest was made. A negro named Whitfield left Bath on a sail boat and was arrested here Sunday afternoon, making six in all that have been taken.

I had much to do with the swell appearance of many men yesterday. In thousands of instances the fashionable merchant tailor received credit for having made suits which were bought from my Ready-made department at negro is thought to be the main leader in the riot, and upon affidavit of officer T. C. Paul a proclamation of outlawry signed by Justices J. S. Marsh and T. B. Clayton was posted.

It was a time when the virtue, charm, grace and general excellence of my Clothing spoke volumes for fit, material, workmanship. The store is full of all-round goodness.

At this writing, 10:30 A. M., all is reported quiet, but much excitement prevails.

DIES FROM HOME.

(Special to Reflector.)

WHICHARD N. C. April 22.

John D. Powell, from Jersey City, who was visiting relatives, died near here on Saturday at the home of his brother, Ely Powell. His son and daughter arrived Saturday night and took his remains back to Jersey City this morning.

IN NORTH CAROLINA.

The little son born to Mr. and Mrs. Albert H. Creasy, of Wilmington, a few days ago, has a rather remarkable living ancestry. The little fellow has three great-grandmothers, two great-grandfathers two grandfathers and two grand-mothers, making a total of nine living grandparents.

At Cross Roads Church, Davie county, Lee Wooten, a good farmer, was standing near a saw mill when one end of the shawl which he had on was caught in the revolving shaft, throwing him on the same. He was whirled around and terribly bruised and mangled and died a few minutes after the machinery was stopped.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY).

The rebellion in Cuba grows and is now assuming immense proportions. No one can foresee the result.

Treasurer Worth says now that he will pay all orders from Superintendent Leazer and leave the Supreme Court to say whether he is legally elected. It is well enough that Mr. Worth found out that he could not decide this matter even though Mr. Butler told him, it is said, to pursue the course that he did. He would have inducted Kitchen into the office at once if he had had the power, but the State of North Carolina is a little too big yet for one man to run it even after it has been so humiliated by the "Douglass Association."

WASHINGTON LETTER

(From our Regular Correspondent.)

WASHINGTON, D. C., April 19, '95.—President Cleveland's Andrew Jackson firmness in standing by his financial views is admired alike by those who agree with his views and those who oppose them. There are timid Democrats who say that an expression against the free coinage of silver was not politic in view of the knowledge that many Democrats favor it. Perhaps it wasn't but Mr. Cleveland has never been a politic man. That is one of the reasons why he has never got along with the trimmers in the Democratic party. His tariff reform message of 1887 was not a politic document, but it resulted in uniting the Democratic party and in making tariff reform synonymous with Democrat, and is to day regarded by every Democrat as one of the best things he ever did. Democrats admire courage, and no Democrat will think less of Mr. Cleveland for having the courage to stand up for what he believes to be right, regardless of whether it be popular or unpopular with the party at large. He invites a contest within the ranks of the party, and is confident that when all the arguments which can be presented on both sides have been heard that an overwhelming majority of the party will endorse his views. He may be wrong. Other democrats have been wrong but when he asks that the democrats come together and discuss this question in all its bearings before committing the party he is not unreasonable. A campaign of education is never one sided. Let every democrat hear what both sides have to say in coming discussions of the silver question, weigh the arguments as he would the evidence if he was sitting on a jury, and then decide which will be the best for the country. Up to this time most of the talking has been done by one side.

Hon. Dorman B. Eaton, of Ohio, who claims to have drafted the civil service law, and who was the first Civil Service Commissioner, is in Washington. He paid the President a high compliment when he said: For the courage President Cleveland has shown in executing this reform, for his faithful adherence to the law, he is deserving of the highest praise. I am a republican, but on this question, as in his brave stand for a sound system of currency, Mr. Cleveland has shown himself such a true patriot that all questions of partisanship are lost sight of, and he deserves just as much credit from republicans as he does from his own followers.

Attorney General Olney has filed a brief with the Supreme Court, against any rehearing of the income tax cases which does not include a rehearing on that portion of the tax declared to be unconstitutional by the late decision. If a rehearing is granted by the court it will hardly take place before October.

TOBACCO CROP STATISTICS.

Statistics of the tobacco product of the United States for the years from 1881 to 1888 and for the years 1893 and 1894, as furnished by the Bureau of Statistics, show that the largest crop during those periods was grown in 1888 and amounted to 565,495,000 pounds and was valued at $43,666,665. In 1881 the crop was much smaller, 448,880,014 pounds, but fetched almost as much money, $43,372,336. In 1893 the yield was 483,023,963 pounds worth $39,155,442, and the 1894 crop is put at 406,678,385, valued at $27,760,739. If these figures are accurate (of course they are not, but are somewhere in the neighborhood) there has been a considerable drop in production of late years.

Kentucky is credited with being as usual in the lead last year with 183,618,425 pounds; North Carolina second with 42,043,620 pounds, and Virginia third with 35,593,984 pounds. These three leading States stood in 1893 as follows: Kentucky, 216,926,385 pounds; Virginia, 68,599,998 pounds, and North Carolina, 44,897,872 pounds.

Maryland was a great tobacco growing State not many years ago, but now it figures among the little ones. The crop in 1883 amounted to 31,570,703 pounds, and last year it was only 7,010,380 pounds.

Kentucky produces about forty per cent of all the tobacco grown in this country.

November 4th, 1794, under an impulse received from a letter written by Carey, a clergyman in London met to consult concerning a missionary organization. In due season the London Missionary Society was launched, and now, after a hundred years, it has 256 men and women in the field, 1734 native pastors, 125,000 in its schools, in its churches almost 100,000 members, and native Christians to the number of nearly 400,000.

A Level-Headed Editor.

The editor of a Western paper who has got tired of the obituary resolutions writes:

"If this world should be so unfortunate as to loose me, I intend to have it understood before I go, that the eight ledges to which I belong shall not publish resolutions in each of the city papers, nor furnish a copy to the bereaved family, informing the public and my loved ones two weeks after the funeral that it has 'pleased' the Allwise Ruler of the Universe to interfere with my terrestrial career; that I have, in fact, been 'removed from our midst.' Neither will I have a black bordered hand-bill distributed about town advertising my untimely leave taking—good news travels fast enough. And lastly, but not least, my grief-stricken relatives will confer on me a great favor by not having a 'card of thanks' signed by the family and addressed to the kind friends and neighbors who so generously aided us and sympathized with us in the recent-unpleasantness. Of course these customs were launched into use by the best and kindest of motives, but the fifty or more years of hardship to which they have been subjected, has reduced them to cold stereotyped formalities, meaningless and useless."

Young people court under difficulties these days. They sat on the same sofa. She was at one end and he at the other. Something had come between their warm affection. It was about five yards of dress goods, and it sat like a sphinx upon her left shoulder. A similarly built guard stood sentinel on the right side also. There was no way to get around them. After peeping over the mountain of his difficulties a few times, with semi-despairing peeps, and catching a few glances at her profile, he slowly arose and remarked, with sadness in his voice: "My dear, I must sleeve you." He went off and gazed at a ham of meat in front of a grocery store, and she laughed in the vacuum on either side of her.—Durham Sun.

A Remarkable Hen.

Mr. J. L. Bass has a young hen that has never laid an egg, yet this pullet took a notion to set. She began to cluck about the yard. Mr. Bass, in order to see what she would do, made a nest for her and put some duck eggs in it. The young hen took possession and patiently continued on the nest until she had hatched out a full nest of young ducks. She now goes about the yard with her little brood, apparently very happy and proud of them.—Weldon News.

How to Keep a Boy Out of Mischiefs

How to keep a boy out of mischief is a question that has confronted every parent "possessed" of a boy. A gentleman who knows says the only way under heaven to keep a live, healthy boy out of mischief is to put him in a barrel, head it up and feed the boy through the bung. He is right.—Monroe Enquirer.

You Missed It

Farmers who are engaged in the cultivation of tobacco have lost an opportunity in not buying their thermometers for curing purposes in February last. They were lower than they have been in many years past. They are gradually rising and by August will be way up.

Sturgeon Captured.

A large sturgeon was caught at Goff Landing early this morning. One of the skimmers got the fish in his net and called others to his assistance. Several nets were dipped under the fish and he was finally broken down and stabbed. Some of the nets were badly torn up before the sturgeon was broken down.

Yesterday's Services

Rev. Mr. Oliver was at his best yesterday. His sermon in the morning was confined to the Christians and one of convincing power. With each sermon he has gotten better and better, and so his discourse yesterday morning was one of the ablest productions to which our people have ever listened.

In the evening he preached to a crowded house, all the other churches having kindly closed for the benefit of hearing him, from the text, "Come, for all things are now ready." "It was his most powerful effort," said many. These sermons are having their effect, for the people are thinking and some acting.

Don't miss the series of sermons he has begun—the Salvation side. This morning's service was the best yet held. Those who fail to be present at the morning services miss the best of the meetings.

All the congregations of the town worshipped together in the Baptist church Sunday night. Rev. R. W. Hines preached at the Presbyterian church in the morning and Rev. G. F. Smith in the Methodist church.

"About this time of year" as the almanacs say, "look out for" the price of cotton to be going up, up, up. It is planting time, and after the farmers, misled by this worked up and manufactured rise, have planted another big crop, the price will go down again.—Raleigh News & Observer.
