EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

Considerable preparations are being made for the unveiling of the Confederate Monument in Raleigh on the 20th of May. Various committees have been appointed. The State Guard is expected to be present. North Carolina is invited and it is believed that a large number of its citizens will accept the invitation and show their appreciation by being present. The railroads are expected to give unusually low rates and altogether it is a great occasion.

The case of Cook against Mears for the Judgeship of the Criminal Court of Eastern North Carolina was heard in Wilmington last Saturday before Judge Hoke and was decided in favor of Mears. Hon. D. L. Russell and Col. L. C. Edwards represented Mr. Cook and George Rountree appeared for Mr. Mears. Cook's counsel admitted that he was elected Judge by the legislature two days before the bill creating the court was ratified. Judge Hoke held that when the bill was ratified, there was a vacancy and that the Governor had a right to fill that vacancy and that O. P. Mears the appointee of the Governor is legally entitled to the office. There was an appeal to the Supreme Court but it is believed that this court will confirm the Judgment of the court below.

Let the Farmers of Pitt, Greene and Adjoining Counties Organize a Tobacco Growers Association.

We see that the farmers in the tobacco producing section of South Carolina have organized what they call a tobacco growers association. The object of the association is to improve upon tobacco culture, by an interchange of views as to the ablest methods of cultivating and taking care of the crop. Here in Eastern North Carolina where we have the finest lands and the best all around advantages for growing good tobacco it occurs to us that an association of this kind would do an immense amount of good. In a community where nearly every farmer grows fine tobacco and yet there are two or three whose lands are of the same formation that have made a failure in this crop by attending an association of this kind the evil would soon be pointed out to them and their lands soon made to produce as fine quality of tobacco as any. The failure to grow good tobacco on land in a good tobacco producing section may be on account of the lack of drainage, the lack of the proper kind of fertilizing, the lack of the proper knowledge of how to cultivate or the absence from the soil of some essential quality all of which could easily and in a short while be remedied by the farmers themselves coming together and discussing tobacco culture under its various heads.

Say for an instance that the subject of how to prepare land for tobacco was under discussion. Let the President of the association appoint one, two or three of our best farmers from different sections where the nature of the lands are different and let them discuss this subject freely from a practical standpoint, and so on with the different topics under the head of tobacco culture. We have here in our county such men as G. T. Tyson, W. R. Horne, R. B. Cotten, D. M. Edwards, W. J. Jackson, J. J. Laughinghouse, J. Bryan Grimes, J. W. Allen, Jesse L. Smith, Ivy Smith and hosts of others who could render valuable information on this all important subject to the eastern farmer and we have called on every one of these gentlemen in particular and all other tobacco growers in general to come forward and give us their support and encouragement in forming our association for the benefit of the tobacco growers of Eastern North Carolina. In this matter we mean business and sincerely hope that in a short time we will have a large association to meet regularly in Greenville twice a month. In the columns of this paper we will give a full report of the matter discussed at each meeting so that all tobacco growers can be benefitted by such meetings. Who will be the first to respond?

The Postmaster General has amended the postal laws and regulations regarding holidays. The amendment states that postmasters may observe as holidays January 1st, February 22nd, May 30th, July 4th, the first Monday in September, known as Labor Day, December 25th, and such other days as the President of the United States or the Governors in their respective States may designate as fast or thanksgiving days, or proclaim specially as holidays. On other occasions their offices can be closed only after permission is obtained therefor from the Department, to be applied for through the First Assistant Postmaster General. Upon holidays postoffices must be opened sufficiently to meet fairly the public convenience. Mails must be up and distributed as on other days. When a legal holiday falls upon a Sunday the following Monday may be observed, unless otherwise specially provided for by State authority.

The people of Buffalo, N. Y., are anxiously awaiting the time when the immense water power of Niagara Falls will be transmitted by electricity to that city and utilized for industrial and domestic purposes. The experiment is being watched with a great deal of interest throughout the world and if Buffalo succeeds in harnessing the power at Niagara now running to waste, hundreds of places throughout the world will immediately follow her example.

A CANINE UNDERTAKER.

Dogs That Were Given a Burial by a Big Newfoundland.

Last week a telephone message was received at the Jacksonville (Fla.) crematory saying that a dead dog was lying on State street near Main, and asking that it be removed. A cart was sent after the dead animal, but on arriving at the place no dead dog could be found. The only dog in sight was a large black Newfoundland, lying by a heap of loose earth. The Times-Union tells the story.

A person living close by insisted that he had seen the dead dog close to where the Newfoundland was lying. The driver began to look around and kicked into the mound of loose earth. As the earth was knocked aside there, in plain view, was a dog's foot projecting. The driver took his shovel and soon had the dog uncovered. There in the hole by the side of the dog was the body of a dead chicken. The dog and chicken were thrown into the cart and carried to the cremator.

A few days ago another dog died about a half block from the place where the first dog was found. The body was thrown into the street and a message sent to the cremator for it to be removed.

When the driver and cart arrived the body was missing. The driver was shown where the body was lying when the message was sent. He saw a track in the sand where something had been dragged, and following it found that it led to the place where the first dog had been buried. There, as before, was lying the Newfoundland by the side of a mound of loose earth. The driver didn't look around for the dead dog this time. He pitched right into digging. His surmise was correct, for there was the body of the dead dog.

As no one had seen any person remove the body of either dog, it is now believed that the bodies were buried by the Newfoundland.

Chicago Enterprise.

The mammoth department stores of Chicago supply all wants. Not long ago a customer in one of those all-round stores purchased a complete house-furnishing supply, including a dog, a parrot and a monkey. He bought himself a suit, and, having an ugly tooth, he had it eased up without going out of his way. Going up another flight, he sat for his photograph, passed into a physician's office, on the same floor, was taken seriously ill on the floor above, died there, was placed in a coffin out of stock near by on the same floor, and sent home. The manager of the house added in a businesslike way: "We would have furnished a coroner and jury if the friends of the deceased hadn't been in such a hurry."—Chicago Tribune.

Both Wore the Same Coat.

A very laughable incident occurred the night the reception was given the First Baptist Church pastor. Two married men, to be in fashion, desired to wear dresscoats, and they had but one coat between them. But they were both there, and they wore that same coat. One came out and met the other on the sidewalk, and under a tree, the coming-away visitor met the going visitor, and then and there they made an exchange, and that same dresscoat went back again carrying in its arms the other married man who did not have it on when he started from home, and his plain coat encircled the other fellow as he went on home. Their wives were with them, and they laughed and laughed over the sidewalk, toilet those married men made.—Durham Sun.

In China there is a strange profession for ladies. It is carried on by elderly ladies, who go the rounds of the best houses, announcing their coming by beating a drum, and offering their services to amuse the lady of the house. This offer accepted, they sit down and tell the latest scandals and the newest stories and on dits, and are rewarded at the rate of a shilling an hour.

Interest Increasing.

In hearing a man like Rev. Mr. Oliver preach, it is hard telling which sermon is best. Last night his sermon was a power. There was one profession of faith and several who expressed interest.

His sermon was from the text, "Without the shedding of blood there is no remission."

This morning's sermon was up to anything yet preached, on the text: "This is a faithful saying, &c."

This is the Stuff.

The financial editor of the Georgia Cracker has this to say on a leading question: "A dollar hoarded is a useless dollar. A dollar spent may pay a dozen debts in a day and do the work of a hundred dollars in a week. It is the money which circulates that oils the wheels of commerce. Brother, take home the moral with you. If you owe any man a dollar and have or can get the dollar go and pay him; he will pay some one else, and the self-same dollar may bring happiness to a hundred hearts and find its way back to your own pocket."

The Messenger takes pleasure of informing our people that J. A. Burgess, the clever and excellent General Manager for Styron Transportation Co., is making arrangements to run the Str. Aurora to Ocracoke, Tuesdays, Thursdays and Saturdays during the Summer.—Washington Messenger.

Miss Alice Turner, living near Axton Henry county, Va., fell into a well a few days ago, which is 64 feet deep, and escaped unhurt. The most remarkable part of it, however, is that she succeeded, unaided, in climbing out; but, woman like, after the danger was over she fainted and could not tell how she got out.
