Your Best Suit

Is here, ready for you to step into. But before you do so just examine the touch of "tony" tailoring it bears inside and out. The grace of correctness everywhere apparent—the fabrics new and elegant. You'll find nothing like it in Ready-made Clothing elsewhere. It is exclusively the Frank Wilson idea and that means: Every detail looked after with all the care that a first-class artist bestows upon his work.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

Governor Carr will appoint a commission of physicians to examine as to the sanity of Geo. Mills before acting upon the petition now before him asking that his sentence be commuted to life imprisonment.

The case of Ewart vs. Jones was argued before the Supreme Court Saturday and its decision will be given in a few days. The case of Cook vs. Meares will probably be governed by the decision in this, though it differs in some particulars.

Rev. J. W. Stikes, a Primitive Baptist preacher, of Wilkes county, has been creating somewhat of a sensation by advocating social equality. He is charged with not only having colored people attend his churches to hear him preach but invited a colored preacher to fill one of his appointments. The colored man, having a previous engagement, declined. Rev. Stikes ought to have been sent to the last Legislature.

In speaking of the prospects of an enormous fruit year and vegetable crop this year, the Savannah News gives the following good advice to producers:

Even now the fruit and vegetable growers ought to be thinking about finding new markets for their products. The coast cities, Baltimore, Philadelphia, New York and Boston cannot take all they have to send them. The great inland cities must be reached. If they are not the Eastern markets will be glutted and prices will drop so low that fruit will have to be left on the trees and vegetables in the ground. There ought to be regular system of distribution so that no one market would be overstocked. Such distribution cannot be had without organization.

The Roxboro bank fails 100 from the dishonesty of its cashier. The shortage it is said will reach five thousand dollars. The cashier, W. T. Jones, is now in jail. It is said that he was not only satisfied with being a defaulter but also robbing his bank at night. He admits that his accounts are $12,300 short, but denies that he has any knowledge of the robbery. He affirms that the shortage came from lending money without security, and then could not collect it. Mr. Jones was a man of high standing and everybody is astonished at the present revelations. Bank examiner Palmer found the shortage and the cashier at once surrendered himself to the sheriff, acknowledging that he had lent money without authority and that accounts were short.

ASSOCIATION ENDORSED.

GRIMESLAND, N. C., April 25 '95.

Dear Sir:—I have read with much interest the call in the REFLECTOR of yesterday to organize on "Eastern Tobacco Association." The REFLECTOR Tobacco Department I find instructive. Allow me to heartily endorse your move and to congratulate Mr. Joyner and yourself upon your energy, enterprise and success in advancing the tobacco interests of this section.

An institute such as you suggest would be of incalculable benefit to our farmers. An interchange of views and convictions based upon actual practical experience would diffuse reliable information that could be obtained from no other source but tedious and expensive self-experience, and would be a chief factor in solving the problem of producing maximum crops at minimum cost.

While a multiplicity of duties would forbid my active participation in the meetings of this association, still I will cordially cooperate with you in every way in my power and take an earnest interest in your work, expecting to be materially benefited by the experience of intelligent and successful tobacco growers.

Trusting your efforts will be rewarded with abundant success.

Truly yours,

J. BRYAN GRIMES.

Small Factories for Small Towns.

One thing leads to another. One new industry started in a town as usually followed soon by another or several others. The success of the first makes the next necessary, or, if it be an independent concern, encourages the establishment of others of like character. The rule has been proved in many places big and little, by many enterprises big and little. The big cotton factories of the State will be followed inevitably by a big bleachery and a big starch factory. A small blacksmith shop started at a crossroads necessitates the establishment of a small charcoal factory some where in the neighborhood, new work is made for two men instead of one only, the neighborhood has two new industries instead of one. An ice factory paves the way for a pork packery. A cotton-oil factory makes a fertilizer factory possible. The success of a knitting mill in North Carolina encourages the establishment of a knitting mill at Cheraw. The enterprise of a few citizens of Cheraw in organizing to build a knitting mill last week encourages another enterprising citizen to "buy a complete broom manufacturing outfit" this week. The broom factory will make a market for a new product from the farms around Cheraw. And so it goes. The town has made a good start with these small enterprise. They will grow if they prove successful and the success of both is well assured. A cotton factory built on the instalment plan will come next. —Charleston News and Courier.

The great cost of establishing new, up-to-date newspapers, in the large cities of the country, is shown by what the managers of the Democratic paper about to be started in Chicago are doing. They have decided to make the capital stock of the company a round million dollars.

Most of the papers of the country which are in the enjoyment of large incomes, were started in an humble way, and encountered hardships before they achieved success. As the cities in which they were located grew, they increased their size from time to time, to accommodate their increasing business, until now a number of them frequently print papers twenty or thirty times the size of those they published when they commenced business.

People who believe it does not cost much to run a paper will find a lesson in this—and the only way for a town to have a live, energetic journal is for its citizens to support it liberally. A big backing does not always make the most successful paper. The people must take a hand in it. —Durham Sun.

It is a mighty sorry banking system this country has that allows a cashier to carry on defalcations and false entries indefinitely without being discovered, and get away with the whole of a bank's funds before being found out.

Success and victory comes not to him who sits with folded hands and closed eyes, but in order to succeed the motto of every man must be "work." And so we say that if Democrats wish to place North Carolina in the Democratic column in 1896 they must be up and doing. There is no disguis-ing the fact that many obstacles are in the way, though we confidently believe that since the sitting of the Legislature and the people having seen and felt some of the result of a fusion victory, that many obstacles have been removed, and this being so, the victory will be more easily won.
 One of the most important things to be done is thorough organization. Without this we will fail.
 To meet an enemy on the battlefield without the soldiers being well-drilled and organized means defeat and disaster. So with parties. That party having the best organization will come out victorious. To the Democrats throughout North Carolina we say that we must now begin to work and organize our forces and prepare for the battle next year. We want to see North Carolina reclaimed and placed in the hands of the people who have so wisely governed for the past twenty years.—Lenoir Topic.
