WARD MEETINGS.

The Democrats make nominations in Second and Fourth, the Republicans in First and Third Wards.

SECOND WARD.

The Democrats of the Second Ward met in the Mayor's office to nominate a candidate for Councilman. The meeting was called to order by the election of A. L. Blow, chairman. W. F. Burch, was elected secretary. W. H. Smith was unanimously nominated as the candidate for Councilman. A. L. Blow was elected a member of the Executive Committee for this Ward.

A. L. BLOW, Chm'n.
W. F. BURCH, Sec.

FOURTH WARD.

The Fourth Ward met at the Court House. Meeting called to order by the election of G. B. King, chairman. W. H. Ragsdale was elected secretary. W. L. Brown was unanimously nominated as candidate for Councilman. W. H. Ragsdale was elected a member of the Executive Committee for this Ward.

No other business the meeting adjourned. G. B. KING, Chm'n.
W. H. RAGSDALE, Sec.

FIRST WARD.

In the First Ward the colored people held a lively meeting and selected as their candidates for Councilmen Julius Jenkins and T. A. Wilks, both colored.

THIRD WARD.

In the Third Ward the ticket brought out by the Republicans is W. T. Godwin, white, and Dempsey Raffin, colored.

The water is so high that it is in the lower story of the Old Dominion warehouse on the wharf. Agent J. J. Cherry had to move all the goods to the upper story to-day.

SHE WILL TEND THE GRAVE.

Story of the Touching Love of an Old Nurse for Her Dead Mistress.

About a month ago there passed through here a sad, but hopeful little party, Mr. Hamilton, a prosperous millowner of Greenville, Mrs. Hamilton, an invalid, and a faithful old colored nurse. They were on their way to Asheville where it was hoped the change and the invigorating air of the mountains would bring health to the wife.

Yesterday there stepped from a train from the west Mr. Hamilton and the nurse. From the baggage car was lowered to the station platform a box which contained the mortal remains of Mrs. Hamilton, just a corpse, which the sorrowing husband and nurse were accompanying to Newbern. At that place the burial took place yesterday afternoon, and in the grave with the dead woman went many of the bright hopes of the husband when he passed here on his trip to Asheville.

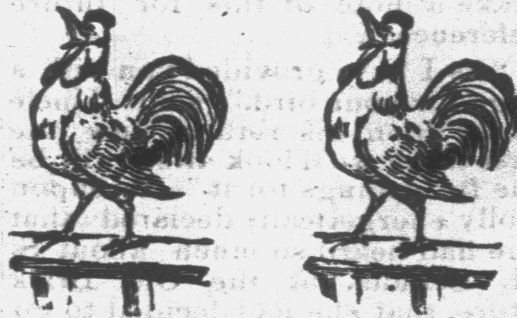

But the old nurse is the subject of this story. Her conduct at the depot yesterday flavored more of the novel than it did of a real woman in this very real day and generation, but it showed how much loving a colored woman is capable of.

With feeble, halting step and lowbowed head, she walked around the depot, first in the waiting room, where she confided her sorrow to Molly, the waitress, and around the lobby, but every now and then she would walk down the long depot shed and gaze long, but silently at the box in which were the remains of her dead mistress. She did not weep, her eyes had a strange, glassy-hard expression that gave one the idea that weeping was an impossibility; her yellow skin looked parched and hard, and the seams in her face were drawn into pathetic lines.

It seems that when her mistress died, Mr. Hamilton wished to send the old nurse away to her relatives. But her almost fanatical love for her dead mistress made her positively refuse to agree. For two days she has not touched food, drinking only a little water for sustenance.

"The" wanted to send me away to my brother's," she told Molly with a piteous, dry sob yesterday, "but I told 'em no. I is going to Newbern and there I'm going to stay the rest of my days so as I

Ayden Ticket.

AYDEN, N. C., May 4th, 1895.—A convention was held here Friday afternoon by the Democrats for the purpose of nominating a candidate for Mayor and other officers of the town. J. R. Tingle was made chairman and J. A. Harrington secretary. The following ticket was nominated:

For Mayor.—J. A. Harrington.
For Commissioners—Dr. Joseph Dixon, J. J. Stokes, H. S. Hardee, J. R. Garris and R. W. Smith.

The nominations were made unanimous. It is a good ticket and will no doubt be elected.

Jolly Old Uncle Josh

HIS GREAT GENEROSITY TOWARDS HIS NEWLY MARRIED NIECE

A Realistic Romance of Greenville in Which a Number of Prominent Business Men Take a Very Conspicuous Part.

"Miss Summers—Polly—I—I—er—dare I—" But the speaker took a header over bashfulness, only to hear a sweet:

"Yes, Charley."

"Can I aspire to—er—to—that is—"

Again a lapse into silence, followed by an encouraging:

"Yes, Charley."

"Oh, if I might only hope to er to—"

Another failure of language, it was seemingly a hopeless case, and might have been, only for a demure:

"Charley, I have said 'yes' twice, and if you mean it, I mean it, too, and—"

And to this day that young man will insist that he popped the question.

All this happened away "down east," and it wasn't long before there was a wedding. Not much longer before there came a letter from Polly's Uncle Josh, down here in North Carolina who wrote effusively at her exhibition of what he called "grit," and he proposed that if the young people would locate at Greenville he would start them up in life as a wedding gift, and at the same time give them a lot of good practical advice. Of course they accepted, and were bidding their friends adieu.

A few weeks subsequent to the above conversation a travel stained party arrived at Greenville. Our friend, Uncle Josh, was in charge and he led the party straightway to a hotel. "The King House," said he, "is a typical Southern hotel of the best class. I have known Mrs. King the proprietress, for many years and she is mine hostess after mine own heart. A thorough business woman, endowed with that delightful intuition that makes a guest feel at home. The house is one of convenience, and the cuisine excellent." He engaged rooms for the couple until their own house could be equipped.

"Now," remarked Uncle Josh, "You remain here while I go up to see Henry Sheppard, real estate and collecting agent, to get the keys and deed to the house I bought for you. I tell you Sheppard is one of the best all around real estate agents I've met up with, and a mighty clever man. He sells real estate, collects rents, probates papers, makes abstracts, writes deeds and mortgages, in fact does everything in this line. Make a note of this for future reference."

"As I have provided you with a cage for your bird," said Uncle Josh, upon his return, now the first thing we'll look after will be the furnishings for it." Hereupon Polly energetically declared that she had heard so much about S. M. Schultz, at the Old Brick Store, that she had decided to go there. The result was that they were ushered into such a bewildering display that the girl was at first at a loss how to select. But she soon yielded to the seductiveness of a magnificent parlor suite, a bed room set in oak, antique finish, that would have done credit to old Antiquity herself. To this she added a dining-room set with all accessories, and didn't forget a most convenient and ornamental writing desk for "Hubby" Charles.

"A pretty good start," said the old man, "and now we'll go to D. D. Haskett's hardware and stove store." Here Polly's housewifely instincts had full play in marvels of kitchen apparatus. There is not an establishment in the country that carries a more comprehensive stock of household furnishings. Every possible piece of kitchen furniture, from a tin dipper to a cooking stove is here in all styles and variety. If Polly fails to accomplish wonders in the culinary art, it will not be for want of superior cooking utensils, for she purchased a $9.00 Seminole cook stove with all equipments needed in a well regulated kitchen, besides a White Mountain Ice Cream Freezer. Uncle Josh also ordered an iron drive pump to be put down near her kitchen door.

"Oh, say, Uncle," exclaimed Polly, "where can I go for dry goods? This dress is hardly suitable, I must admit." "well, my girl, if you want to select from one of the most extensively stocked establishments in the city, I will direct you to C. T. Munford, who carries a stock of dress goods that for variety and real value is seldom seen outside the largest metropolitan cities. He carries all the latest weaves in fashionable dress goods and you are sure to be guided right in your selections. You will find Mr. Munford pleasant to deal with and his employes polite and expert, while the prices can not be duplicated. Later we'll go and look at his carpets and matting. He leads also in latest style hats and neck wear.

"Let's see—I promised you a gold watch, didn't I," queried Uncle Josh of Polly, "and A. J. Griffin's is the very place to get one cheap." Thereupon the old man gallantly acquitted himself of the promise and then directed Polly's attention to the other goods. "There is no other such house in town" said the old man, "and I will guarantee the quality to be the very best. Pick out your family clock while here," he added Mr. Griffin carries a magnificent line. "Don't forget another fact," he continued, "if ever you unfortunately need optical goods, this is the place to come. They have everything required to improve affected eyes and say, Charley, when that old "tarnip" of yours breaks down, bear in mind, Mr. Griffin has had many years experience as a watch maker and can fix her up just as good as new.

At this point, somewhat to the confusion of Charles, the old man indulged in a half serious criticism of his appearance. "You are decidedly off style for a townsman," said he, "and we'd better go to Frank Wilson's. After Charles had fitted himself in a neat, late style, perfect fitting suit of clothes from the piles of fashionable garments that cover the tables of this extensively stocked establishment, Uncle Josh declared: "Now you look like a newly married man." Before leaving, having found goods and prices irresistible, Charles also invested in a complete outfit of gents' furnishings, from the late style hat to a dozen shirts. Frank Wilson is not to be undersold in the state.

While Uncle Josh was pondering where to go next, Polly suddenly asked: "Uncle where can I find the leading millinery establishment?" "Just a few steps across the street," remarked Uncle Josh, "and we will visit Mrs. M. D. Higgs, who, by the way, has on hand one of the completest stocks of millinery to be found in the city. You can get what you want there, the latest styles and lowest prices being her motto. Mrs. Higgs has the experience which guarantees that when you have purchased of her you have the thing in strict accordance to the dictates of fashion and a satisfaction to you that your work has been done by a competent artist." Polly was delighted with the beautiful hat she got, and well she might be.

"I declare, Uncle," exclaimed Charley. "There goes a handsome phaeton; I must have one like that for the girl." "Get it right here," said the old man. "You see, the John Flanagan Buggy Co., conducts a carriage factory here that for fine vehicles can not be beaten. They manufacture surreys, carriages, buggies

 and phaetons of leading styles,
 and are satisfied with a moderate profit, too." Polly was soon the possessor of a handsome "Flanagan" shop-made phaeton, for as Uncle Josh remarked, "They are not only the best but the cheapest and will out wear half a dozen of the ordinary kind."

"Oh!" ejaculated Polly, as they halted before a show window,
 "what a perfectly lovely slipper."
 "Yes," said Uncle Josh, "H. C.
 Hooker's stock can't be equalled
 in style and extent in this section. Go in, look it over and get acquainted." It might have been policy not to have extended that invitation, had not Uncle Josh known what wise economy it is to trade at Hooker's, for Polly found goods and prices so seductive that she purchased an outfit from a comfortable walking slipper to a handsome walking boot. Charley invested in gents fine shoes,
 while Uncle Josh indulged in a stout farm boot. No one needing footwear can resist the styles and prices off-red at H. C. Hooker's.

"And in the matter of insurance," he continued, "that is of importance. You will want a risk on your new house, and fire, lightning and tornado insurance
 on your farm property; then you can't do a more sensible or satisfactory thing than to give your wife a paid up policy
 in life insurance and take out accident for yourself. My friends White & Parham not only have lines of the solidest and best companies, but they are expert and trustworthy underwriters. The Grand Old Mutual Life, of New York, Fidelity & Casualty, Accident, The Caledonian, the oldest Scottish fire company and several others, belonging to the 'Old Reliable' category."

At this point Uncle Josh suggested a resort to some place of refreshment.

At the refreshment table the old man waxed philosophical.
 "Never neglect your larder," said
 he. "That important adjunct to housekeeping controls masculine temper. To that end you must patronize a grocer on whom you can depend for honest goods.
 Through a long term of years I have found J. A. Andrews, the wholesale and retail grocer, perfectly reliable. You will find him him a careful dealer always full stocked with every possible thing in the line of staple and fancy groceries, fresh and first-class, no shelf worn goods there—while the prices are down to brass tacks.

En route for their home the gentlemen call at the office of the DAILY and WEEKLY REFLECTOR.

"You'll want the news every day,"
 said Uncle Josh, "and as this is the favorite paper of this section,
 I'll subscribe for you."

Upon rejoining Polly she began to volubly express her thanks.
 "You have bought useverything,"
 she exclaimed.

"Only one thing," replied Uncle Josh, reflectively, "but I can remedy that. S. M. Schultz, the furniture man always has a nice line of them and you can get one whenever want it; I'll pay for the best."

"W-h-y," exclaimed Polly with great surprise, "Uncle, what can it be?"

"Well, it's a cradle and—"
 But Polly had fainted.

Horse-Swapping in Tennessee.

A travelling man thus describes a
 "horse-swapping day" in Tennessee:
 "One of the men was mounted on a rawboned dapple gray, while the other nag was of a deep yellow, and looked much like a living, moving hatrack. One was leading a mule and the other an old steed that looked like a broken-down car horse.
 Presently the man on the yellow horse said to the other: 'Well?'
 The answer was: 'Well?' 'Talk.'
 'You talk.' 'Well, what'll you do?'
 'Swap.' 'How'll you swap?' 'Horse and horse.' After dickering for some time a trade was effected, and one of them got a dollar to boot.
 We wandered about over the place and covered about an acre and a half until we grew tired, and then returned to the train. On the way back we heard two of the strangers talking. One of these said he was three jackknives and three dollars and twenty-five cents in money ahead. We were told that these swapping days are held once a month. The men meet at this place and swap anything, from a jackknife to a farm, but trading in horses is the favorite fancy with them."—N. Y. Tribune.

French Iced Milk.

The French industry of icing milk
 is an original departure in tinned commodities. The milk is frozen and placed in block form in tins, and on the part of the purchaser requires to be melted previous to use. Being hermetically sealed, the commodity
 thus iced preserves its form until it is required, when a minute's exposure to the sun's rays or to the heat of the fire is all that is necessary to reduce it to a liquid condition.

Griswold Hall Dead.

Just as we go to press we learn that Griswold, little son of Mr. and Mrs. W. P. Hall, died at 3:45 this afternoon. He was about 10 years old and their only son. The remains will be taken to Mt. Olive for burial Monday. The sorrowing parents have the heart felt sympathy of the community in their bereavement.

The Fire Test.

At the test of the new engine on the burning structure, Friday evening, the engine came fully up to expectation, doing its work quickly and effectively. The house was filled with goods boxes and other material that would burn rapidly, kerosene oil was thrown all over it and the match was applied. After allowing the fire to gain considerable headway the engine was started and in a brief time the fire was out. This was repeated three times, the building being allowed to burn longer at each test, the last time so long that none of the spectators thought the fire could be put out. But it was extinguished quickly, every test proving thoroughly satisfactory. The Councilmen accepted the engine and closed the contract.

Mrs. J. B. Cherry returned home Friday evening from Baltimore, where she has been spending a few weeks.

St. Paul's Mission Band.

On Friday afternoon at the home of Mrs. M. A. Ricks, St. Paul's Mission Band had another of their pleasant teas in which they so often participate. The following programme was beautifully rendered.

Scripture reading:
Letters from Brazil and Japan.
Instrumental Duet—Misses C. Cobb and Irma Cobb.

Reading—Miss Lucy Cox.
Essay on Missionary Work in Western N. C.—Miss M. Lee Joyner.

Instrumental Duet—Blue Danube Waltzes—Misses Greene and Cobb.

Next in order cake and cream were served, the remainder of the afternoon being spent in social intercourse. Before leaving the committee tendered a vote of thanks to Mrs. Ricks and niece, Miss Cobb, for the charming manner in which they were entertained, declaring it was by far the most enjoyable tea yet had.

Mr. Frank Speight Dies.

We regret to chronicle the death of Mr. J. F. Speight which occurred this morning at 3 o'clock. He had been sick about three weeks during which time he suffered intensely with hemorrhagic fever. Mr. Speight was in his 40th year and was a good citizen. He leaves a wife and six children who have the sympathy of the community in their loss. The funeral will take place Sunday afternoon at the Baptist church yard.

Don't Let

Every merchant who beats a tattoo through the columns of the news papers make you dance to his music. If you do you'll soon be taking steps that would set Carmencita to shame. Everything in my Spring Clothes, Hat and Furnishing Goods, Dry Goods, Shoes, Notions, and Dress Goods stock is good. We shun the dangerous association with the very cheap and court the favor of honest quality and the lovers of it. The fineness of the fabrics, the selectness of the patterns and the honesty of the qualities are far more eloquent than the loftiest words.
