NOTES FROM TARBORO.

Tobacco Market.—Big Freshet—New Bank, &c.

TARBORO, N. C., May 6, 1895.—Our people here appreciate very highly, the most complimentary article in the DAILY REFLECTOR concerning Tarboro as a tobacco market, and thank the editor very kindly for it. The REFLECTOR is broad guaged, willing to assist others as well as build up the industries of its own town. Long may such a paper live.

Our tobacco market here is now a certainty. Everybody is enthusiastic and Tarboro is only gathering her forces for the opening in the fall.

The Bank of Tarboro has been organized with a capital stock of $25,000 and will commence business as soon as the outfit arrives. It is one of the strongest corporations in the State, representing more than a million of dollars.

Tar river has been and is now on a big swell. It was rising all day yesterday.

A petition was circulated here this week for a continuance of the appropriation for dredging Tar River. Nearly everybody signed it.

I will write more some other time.

CITIZEN.

BAD SANITATION.

EDITOR REFLECTOR:

It is the prerogative of every citizen to insist upon the public servants looking after the health of the town. We have had an unprecedented winter and spring and the earth has been saturated with water until it has polluted the very atmosphere. This old town is becoming more powerful, and the tobacco world has an eye upon her. It is being cussed and discussed, and while the spirit of improvement is going on and the hot summer days are approaching and with it disease, why can not our citizens see and feel the necessity of a thorough cleansing of the streets, lanes and back yards. I say without fear of contradiction the sanitary condition of this town is awful, and somebody is responsible. Now Mr. Editor, the people look to you and have a right to ask, why you have not "stepped upon" somebody's toes, in this matter? Do it, and you will merit and receive the plaudits of the community, and so will I, although I am a NEW COMER.

[If "New Comer" had always been a reader of the REFLECTOR he would have seen that complaining at the sanitary condition of the town and urging the cleanliness of premises has been chronic with us. ED.]

The Scripture on Big Sleeves.

In view of the elephantine sleeves that have supplanted the mutton legs an exchange directs attention to the 18th verse of the 13th chapter, of Ezekiel, which reads as follows. "Thus saith the Lord God: Woe to the women that sew pillows to the armholes, and make kerchiefs upon the head of every statue to hunt souls!"

Fishing in Her Garden.

Mr. B. H. Hearne the mail carrier says there is a woman living between here and Tarboro who planted her garden about two weeks ago. Saturday when passing by he saw the woman sitting out in the garden on a log with a fishing rod in her hand. The water had backed up from the river and submerged the garden. She said the fish had eaten up everything in her garden and as she must have something to eat she tried her skill at angling. Mr Hearne said she had a nice bunch of fish when he passed.

FRANK WILSON,
The King Clothier.

The Sporty Five.

Did the REFLECTOR readers know that there was a band of five young ladies in our midst that meet every Friday afternoon? And what a happy, jolly time they do have. They called themselves "The Sporty Five," and each one has the name of some novel. They are Trilby, Imogene, Marcella, Jane Eyre and Doa Thorne. They meet at each other's home and the strangest thing about it is they don't allow a boy at one of their meetings. They have pass words and signs and it is really amusing to hear them. We came across them a few evenings ago when they were out strolling, and heard a noise like the babble of a cart load of monkeys. When we stopped and enquired what all that fuss was about we were politely told that "We are the Sporty Five." We only exclaimed "Oh!" We don't like to be cut down by such a bevy of girls and remarked that they should certainly be given away. If we were not married we would be one of five young men to either break up that band or make them let us meet with them and enjoy the happy hours that they spend so pleasantly.

It seems strange that when a fellow sows his wild oats he usually plants rye.

George Mills was hung in Raleigh on last Friday, for the murderer of Iana Wimberly on the 20th of last June. He contended to the last that he committed the crime under threat of his life by the father of Iana. It was a brutal murder and though an effort had been made to get the Governor to commute the sentence to life imprisonment, Governor Carr could not see that he ought to interfere with the course of the law.

The case of Sanford vs. Ellington was decided last Friday in favor of Mr. Ellington. Judge Starbuck decided every issue in favor of the present incumbent. Of course there was an appeal to the Supreme Court but if this Court is non-partisan as claimed it is believed that the judgment of the Superior Court will not be reversed. Thus far the Democrats have gained the victory in all of the suits, both as to the Legislative elections without a quorum and the appointments of Governor Carr. Much interest was felt in the decision of Judge Starbuck on this case of Stanford vs. Ellington because it virtually decides Capt. Kitchin's suit for the Superintendent of the Penitentiary.

Georgia's Great Peach Crop.

All danger of frost has passed and the prospects point to one of the greatest fruit crops ever known in Georgia.

In the middle and southwest Georgia, the finest peach growing section of the country, the trees are literally covered with little peaches. For five years past the crop has been a failure, but this year there will surely be a great yield and before the staple crops begin to come in millions of dollars will be realized in Georgia peaches.

UNCLE SAM'S EXPENSES.

The Total Appropriations of the 53rd Congress amount to $496,008,520.

The volume of "Appropriations, new offices," etc., for the third session of the 53rd Congress, showing the appropriations in detail and by bills made during said session, the new offices created and offices omitted with the salaries and the number of salaries increased and reduced, with the amount of such increase and reduction, and including a chronological history of the regular appropriation bills, has been completed by Mr. T. P. Cleaves and Mr. J. C. Courts, clerks to the Senate and House committees on appropriations, respectively.

The appropriations by bills are as follows, being for the fiscal year ending June 30th, 1896:

Agricultural, $3,303,750; Army, $23,252,608; diplomatic and consular, $1,574,458; District of Columbia, $5,745,443; Fortifications, $1,904,550; Indian, $8,162,751; Legislative, Executive and Judicial, $21,891,718; Military Academy, $464,261; Navy, $29,416,245; Pensions, $141,381,750; Postoffice, $89,545,997; Sundry Civil, $56,578,160; Total $373,811,522. Deficiencies $9,825,374. Miscellaneous appropriation, $297,667. Total, general bills and miscellaneous, $383,934,564. Permanent appropriations, $113,093,956. Grand total appropriations $497,008,520.

Florida has a constitutional provision regarding the exercise of the veto power which is unique. It is that if any bill passed by the Legislature is not returned by the Governor within five days after he receives it it shall become a law "unless the Governor within ten days next after the final adjournment shall file such bill, with his objections thereto, in the office of the Secretary of State, who shall lay the same before the Legislature at its next session, and if the same shall receive two thirds of the votes present it shall become a law." The Florida system practically makes the Legislature a continuous body in respect of bills vetoed after the end of a session, and it is said to have no parallel anywhere else in the Union.—Richmond Dispatch.

A Mysterious Loaf of Bread.

Twenty-five years ago Timothy Monahan purchased a farm in Livingston County, near Portage Bridge, N. Y. He has lived on the farm ever since. On part of the property was a piece of heavy timber, which Monahan cleared off twenty years ago. In a field where the timber stood Monahan was digging a ditch a few days ago. To do this he had to dig through a deposit of gravel four feet deep. At that depth he uncovered what he at first thought was a big stone, nearly round, but on striking it with his pick to loosen it he was surprised to see the pick pass clear through it without making any resistance. Monahan then picked up the supposed stone, and his amazement was great to find it to be a loaf of bread.

The loaf was in perfect condition, even to the crisp brown crust. It was as soft, light and moist inside as if it had just come from the oven. The loaf broke in two as he was removing it from its bed in the gravel. He fed half of it to his dog, who ate it greedily. The other half of the loaf Monahan carried to his house where it is now, a wonder to the neighborhood. Monahan declares that the ground where the loaf was found had never been broken during his quarter of a century on the place.—New York Sun.

Society's Discriminating Law.

Woman's character has been likened to a postage stamp—one black mark ruins it. Man's like a treasury note, no matter how many stains it still passes at par. When a woman falls from grace her character is usually ruined forever. While on the other hand a man may straighten up and be received into the best of society again.

It is a solemn truth no thought, no word, no act of man ever dies. They are as immortal as his own soul. He will surely find them written somewhere; somewhere in this world he will meet their fruits in part; somewhere in the future life he will meet their gathered harvest. It may, and it may not, be a pleasant one to look upon.—Washington Messenger.

Moving Southward.

The tide of immigration is steadily increasing and scarcely a week passes but that new home-seekers come among us. Indeed, the South is attracting more attention just at this time than at any period of her history. Never since the war has the South been so much talked about as during the last six months. From all over the country, remarks an exchange, particularly from the Western States, such as Nebraska, Kansas, Dakota and even as far North as Canada and the Middle and New England States, there seems to be a tendency toward the immigration of the home-seekers and farmers to the South.

The Chicago Mail in referring to this matter, says that the South undoubtedly to-day offers as many advantages for the thrifty farmer with moderate or little capital as any other section in the United States. Good farms can be purchased in the South for from $5 to $15 an acre in close proximity to large and thriving cities. The railroads of the South are making a strong effort, the strongest in their lives, to induce Northern farm immigration, for they at last realize the importance of such immigration, and have seen by actual experience what immigration has done for the big Western roads. It says also that the Northern farmer can take forty acres of land and make more money off it than he can with much more land in the North or Northwest, and it is right.

The South offers better inducements to the class of people of whom our contemporary speaks than any other section of the country, and nowhere else is capital safer, or can greater returns be had for the amounts invested than in the South. What is here said of the farmer and home-seeker applies equally to all others who are looking for a place of safe and profitable investment, it matters not whatever may be the particular industry in which they may desire to embark.—Norfolk Virginian.

The Coming Question.

A new trouble is confronting the women just now, at least that portion of them who contemplate going off any where this summer. Such as have this idea will ask themselves many times between now and July: "What shall I do with my sleeves?"

Weather Observer Dunn, the New York expert, says that we may expect a hot summer, according to the rule of temperature averages. He shows that there has been a deficiency of 286 degrees since January 1, and declares that "the weather is bound to even up."

The Fish Commission will distribute 700,000,000 fish this year. But there are lots of fishermen who will never get a bite. The crop of prevaricators, however, will be as large as usual.

SPEED OF DUCKS AND GEESE.

The Ducks Made Sixty-Six and Two-Thirds Miles an Hour.

Of all the migratory birds the American wild pigeon and black duck are well up toward the front as regards long and rapid flight. The speed of the pigeons can only be estimated, while that of the ducks can be established by observation. Some years ago the writer and a scientific friend measured off on the shore of a large western river a line exactly three miles long, and each took a station at opposite ends of the line. The object was to note, by means of preconcerted signals, the time a flock of wild ducks took in passing up or down the river near the stations.

During three hours on the morning of a bright October day observations were noted of the times of passing the stations of nine different flocks. Upon comparing watches it was found that the average time was two minutes and forty-two seconds, thus showing the speed per hour to be sixty-six and two-thirds miles, or one mile in fifty-four seconds. As showing how uniform was their flight, a difference was found of only five seconds between the greatest and the least intervals of time.

As numerous flocks of wild geese were daily flying in the same neighborhood observations were also taken to test their hourly speed. Two points, twenty-nine and one-third miles apart, were selected, both of which were connected by telegraph. We succeeded in identifying four out of seven flocks which passed over both places during the four days we were on the watch. The mean hourly speed was found to be a fraction over fifty-four miles. The wild goose has been long supposed to be the swiftest of all water fowl, but this experiment shows that he is far behind the wild duck.—N. Y. World.
