NEWS OFF THE WIRE.

Served by our "Leased" Underground Cable—(Limited).

Thirteen persons were terribly burned and two killed by a gas explosion in Chicago.

The little village of Oakfield, N. Y., was entirely swept away by fire. Not a building was left standing.

The closing of several mills at Providence, R. I., throws ten thousand people out of employment.

There is danger of yellow fever infection along the South Atlantic seaboard, according to a report made by Surgeon General Wyman, of the U. S. marine hospital service. He fears the fever will be imported from Havana.

RESOLUTIONS OF RESPECT.

At a meeting of the Sunday School in the Presbyterian church at Greenville, N. C., May 12th, 1895, the following resolutions were unanimously adopted:

Resolved, 1st. That whereas it has pleased Almighty God to remove from our number Mrs. S. C. Hamilton, that while we accept the dispensation of Providence at His hands who doeth all things well, we recognize her loss to the school, her endeavor for its welfare and her zeal for the success of every enterprise looking to the interest of the church.

Resolved 2nd. That we extend our heartfelt sympathy to the husband of the deceased and invoke in his behalf that sustaining grace which may prove in his bereavement a solace and comfort, a well of water springing up into everlasting life.

Resolved 3rd. That a copy of these resolutions be spread on the record of the Sunday School and that a copy be sent to the husband of the deceased and to the REFLECTOR for publication.

NEW BOARD.

They Meet and Organize—New Officers Elected.

On the morning after the election the four Republican Councilmen elect of the town—W. T. Godwin, T. A. Wilks, Julius Jenkins and Deupsy Ruffin, the last three colored—had a meeting, called in Justice J. A. Lang to administer the oath to them, and adjourned until to-day.

The two Democratic Councilmen elect were not in it.

At 10 o'clock this morning the same four met in the Mayor's hall for the purpose of organizing. Councilman Godwin called the meeting to order when Councilman Jenkins moved to make Councilman Wilks chairman—carried.

Councilman Wilks took the chair, making a few remarks that he thought they had waited long enough to organize, and declared nominations for Mayor in order.

Councilman Ruffin nominated Ola Forbes, two votes were cast for him when Councilman Godwin informed Chairman Wilks that he also was entitled to vote. Chairman Wilks cast his vote for Forbes and declared him elected Mayor.

For Clerk Councilman Ruffin nominated W. W. Humphrey, Councilman Jenkins nominated C. C. Forbes, and Councilman Godwin read a petition from W. P. Norcott and placed him in nomination. Humphrey received one vote, Forbes three, and the latter was declared elected.

Chairman Wilks stated that the Mayor and Clerk elect would now be installed before proceeding further.

A messenger was sent to Town Clerk Harris for the record books. The messenger returned and reported that Clerk Harris stated that he could not turn over the books to any one until authorized to do so by the old Board.

Councilman Ruffin stated "the old Board has nothing more to do with the books, they belong to us."

S. P. Humphrey, an outsider, arose and remarked: "Gentlemen, the law says—" but he was rapped down by Chairman Wilks who declared "we don't care what the law says, we know enough about that."

Justice J. A. Lang was sent for and administered the official oaths to Mayor Forbes, when he briefly returned thanks for the honor of his election and took the chair.

Nominations for Chief of Police were next in order. Councilman Wilks nominated J. W. Perkins who received a unanimous vote.

For Assistant Police Councilman Ruffin nominated Henry Moyer, Councilman Jenkins nominated Moses King, Councilman Wilks nominated Fred Cox and Councilman Godwin nominated Thos. Williams. Moyer received one vote, Cox three, and the latter was declared elected.

Councilman Wilks nominated Councilman Godwin for Treasurer, and the vote for him was unanimous.

Then Councilman Wilks suggested that the Policemen be sworn in and the meeting adjourn subject to a call of the Mayor to elect other officers.

The old Board of Councilmen will meet to-night to receive the report of committee appointed to examine the Treasurer's and Tax Collector's accounts, to close up their business and turn the affairs of the town over to the new board.

The Meeting.

Owing to the death of one of his congregation Rev. R. J. Moorman, of Washington, could not come Monday as was expected. Mr. Smith conducted the services Monday afternoon and at night, and will preach to-night. Mr. Moorman will arrive on the boat Wednesday.

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Mr. B. E. Parham returned last night from a trip to Oxford and Durham.

There are seventeen States in the Union that produced 483,023,963 pounds of tobacco the actual value of which last year was $39,155,442. Of this Kentucky produced 216,926,385 pounds value $16,486,405, Virginia 68,599,998 at a value of 4,253,200 and North Carolina produced 44,855,872 at a value of $3,591,830.

There are numbers of farmers all over the county now about through transplanting tobacco and they have had a most favorable time to do that work this year, for nearly every day for the last two weeks it has rained. It would be a good idea for those who set their tobacco early to give it a deep and thorough plowing just as soon as the land is sufficiently dry to permit it, because here has been so very much rain that the land has become sodded and compact and in order for the tobacco to thrive the land must be soft and mellow. It would be well to note carefully also that the ground is thoroughly broken loose around the shank of the plan, thus preventing it from becoming hard and running up pindling. If this is not attended to strictly the certain result will be an early button and a poor crop.

Mr. R. H. Hayes, who has been very closely connected with the Greenville tobacco market for the last two years, after finishing up his work and getting off his stock left last Saturday morning to spend a few days with his family and friends in Chase City, Va. From there he will take an extended trip across the continent and spend the most of his summer amongst the ranchmen of the Rockies. He will go first to Denver, Colorado, and from there he says he wants to go to some active ranche where he can take an active part in the rough western life. For some time past he has had an idea that his lungs were weak and has hastened to get through with his work down here in order to spend a summer and get the benefit of the hard dry atmosphere of the frontier. He will return about August 15th to his Virginia home and will reach this place about September 1st. Mean while when the market opens here in August he will have a man to buy for him until he comes.

Raleigh's Monument Unveiling.

The unveiling of the Confederate monument at Raleigh on the 20th of this month will be marked by one of the grandest demonstrations of its character ever known in the history of North Carolina. An elaborate and most interesting programme has been arranged for the occasion, and crowds will be in attendance from all over the State.

No honor the people of North Carolina, or for that matter, the people of the entire South, could pay the memory of North Carolina's heroes of the Lost Cause would be an unmerited recognition of their valor, devotion, and patriotism. None appreciate this more than the Virginians with whom the North State troops stood shoulder to shoulder on so many battle-fields from 1861 to 1865. Virginia ought to send a large military representation to the unveiling, and would doubtless do so but for the fact that owing to the Pocahontas mining troubles most of her citizen soldiery are either in active service, or under orders to be ready for such service and therefore are not in position to make preparations for a trip to Raleigh. As it is, however, a large veteran and civic delegation from Virginia will participate in the ceremonies.

Raleigh is making extensive preparations to entertain all visiting organizations, and that she will entertain them handsomely and that the demonstration will be imposing in all of its details need not be told any one who enjoyed the hospitality of the city while the Davis funeral train was there.—Richmond Dispatch.

A Remedy Against Flies.

"I never use window screens," said a wise housekeeper the other day, "because I have a fancy that they shut out all the air in the hot weather; and, besides, they serve to keep the flies in the house equally as well as out."

"But I never see a fly in your house," said her friend. "How do you manage it? For my part, I must confess that, screens or no screens, my summer means to me one long battle with the little pests."

"My remedy is a very simple one," said the good housekeeper, "and I learned it years ago from my grand mother, when I used to sit and watch her putting bunches of lavender flowers around to keep the flies away. My method is simpler. I buy five cents worth of oil of lavender at the drug store and mix it with the same quantity of water. Then I put it in a common glass atomizer and spray it around the rooms wherever flies are apt to congregate, especially in the dining room, where I sprinkle it plentifully over the table linen. The odor is especially disagreeable to flies, and they will never venture in its neighborhood though to most people it has a peculiarly fresh and grateful smell."

—Detroit Free Press.

One of the greatest miseries is want of money. It is wretched to have to confront a just and oft-repeated demand and to be without the means to satisfy it; to deceive the confidence that has been placed to you; to forfeit your credit; to be placed in the power of another, and to be indebted to his lenity; to stand convicted of having played the knave or the fool, and to have no way left to escape contempt but by incurring pity. The sudden meeting of a creditor whom you have been trying to avoid for months, and whom you imagined was many miles away, shatters the nerves. There is but one remedy for such trouble—avoid debt.—Durham Sun.

Some people's religion consists very largely in being shocked at other people's conduct. They are always ready to hold up their hands in holy horror at somebody else, but seldom find time to investigate the wood pile which lies between conscience and responsibility in their own hearts.

MAILING A STAMP.

How It Can Be Done Without Trouble or Discomfort.

How many people know how to mail a stamp in a letter? Nine people out of ten stick it so carefully down that the recipient always loses him temper, and generally the stamp, in the effort to release it. It is generally more exasperating than when the sender forgets altogether the stamp he should have inclosed, for then, at least, it is not wasted. Even the most extravagant of us seldom have souls above saving a stamp, for it is, strangely, far dearer to us than the two cents it represents. The tenth person sends it loose, which is well enough, providing it does not slip out unseen and vanish, as these totally depraved small things have a habit of doing. The proper way is a simple one. Cut with a sharp penknife two parallel slits at the top of your letter and slip in your stamps, which will thus travel as safely as if in a special paper case. Perhaps you have been in a country village where money orders and postal notes are unknown, and for some reason it becomes necessary to send change in a letter. Cut a piece of light cardboard the size of the envelope, and from this cut circular pieces the size of your coins. Insert the coins and paste a slip of paper across one or both sides.—Demorest's Magazine.

HER MISTAKE.

An Elderly Woman Whose Benevolence Was Misplaced.

Her Motherly Instinct Led Her Into a Grievous Error—Why an Undersized Man Was Offered a Seat

There is a woman on the West side who still shudders when she thinks of a blunder she made one day in a Summit street car, says the Detroit Free Press. She is an elderly woman, with sons old enough to attend the high school, and is of a mild and benign disposition. She does not see well without her glasses,
 and to this she attributes her misfortune.

About eight o'clock in the evening of one of the very cold days she had a seat in a Summit street car.
 It was crowded with shoppers and men going home from work. Standing in front of her, with his back turned to her, the other passengers saw a very short man. He was having a very hard time keeping on his feet as the car lurched from time to time with the slack of the "cable."
 He was too short to hold to the straps, and the best he could do was to hang to the man in front of him.
 A look of sympathy passed over the benign-looking woman's face as she witnessed his struggles. When the car rounded the curve at the corner of Ninth and Washington streets it gave a frightful lurch.

The little man was taken off his guard, and landed squarely in the woman's lap. He tried to rise as fast as he could, and excuse himself, when to his surprise and horror, he felt that she was holding him where he was. He tried again to get up, but she held him tighter than before.

"That's all right, little boy, sit still," she said kindly, with a smile.
 Passengers were staring in amazement at the unusual spectacle, and the ribbon-counter girl in the corner of the car tittered audibly.

The undersized victim began to squirm, but his captor attributed it to his boyish embarrassment. It was only when he turned his big round eyes on her and said, in a deep bass voice: "Will you be kind enough to let me go, madam?" that she discovered that she had made a horrible mistake. She had taken him for a mere boy, and her motherly instinct had asserted itself at seeing him stand up in a crowded car.
 Her confusion was painful to witness. She stammered a few words of explanation, which the short man was too rattled to reply to. The passengers were cruel enough to laugh, and they both looked as though they wished themselves far away. At the nearest corner she got out, her cheeks still crimson with mortification. The short man took her seat, jammed his hat down hard over his forehead and buried himself in his newspaper.

A Bovy of Birds at a Hotel.

A queer coincidence was the cause of considerable merriment in the lobby of the Grand Pacific the other day. Early in the day D. Sparrow, of New York, registered and was assigned to his room. Within an hour
 T. J. Quail, of Gloverdale, Mass., spread his name upon the register,
 and he, too, went to his room. In the afternoon C. A. Partridge, of this city, registered for dinner, and he remarked that if any notes came for him the clerk should hold them.
 The next afternoon L. R. Forrest, of Albany, N. Y., registered at the hotel, and all mail that came to the three men was put in his box. "It was the most appropriate place for it," said Mr. Parker, adding: "This reminds me of an annual game dinner."—Chicago Inter Ocean.

The New Woman Again.

Finks—Is your wife still doing her own cooking?
 Ginks—Oh, no; we found a new
 woman yesterday.
 Finks—To cook?
 Ginks—Certainly. Why not?
 Finks—I thought the new woman aspired to something higher than the kitchen.—Detroit Free Press.
