LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

There is nothing more healing, soothing pleasant and refreshing than to take our little petty troubles and burn them up, so to speak, at the end of a fine Havana, while leaning leisurely back in an easy rocker just after a heartily relished meal.

Capt. Pace says that we can surely say that there will be at least two new tobacco buyers on this market next season. He says several others intend coming to this section on an inspection of the crop trip in July, and if the crop justifies it they will place men here to handle their business.

Mr. W. R. Horne, of Farmville, spent yesterday in town. He says tobacco seems to be looking better than any other crop and that while the excessive rainy weather has to some extent damaged the crop there are good hopes yet. He says further that the patent looping system doesn't trouble him for he is not much of a convert to the priming method of curing tobacco, no way, but if he was if there is a patent on it he would not use it.

We are informed that the organization of the tobacco growers in and around the Farmville section was effected. Saturday evening in the face of the rain. Quite a number were present and were entertained for a good while by Capt. Pace. We are pleased and gratified to see the farmers in the different sections taking such steps. It looks like business is meant and the only way to get anything out of tobacco culture is to go at it in a business like manner.

Greenville is almost on a boom (Providence forbid that it should form a co-partnership with one.) There is more building going on in Greenville to-day than ever before and more than any town in the eastern part of the State. Only a short while ago Sheriff R. W. King, W. H. White and Prof. Ragsdale completed for themselves handsome residences, and since January 1st there has been no less than twenty-five new buildings of different kinds built in Greenville. In a short while the new prize houses of Mr. O. Hooker will be in process of erection and the Eastern warehouse will be built fifty feet longer. The town seems to be full of life and energy and there is only one thing that thus far seems to have been neglected and that is there is not enough variety of industrial enterprises. Our people are not developing this much needed feature fast enough. We need factories of different kinds to give employment to our many idle laborers, and unless our home folks take hold of this the time is coming and not far away when the outside world will be bound to see our natural advantages and come in and utilize them. We now have a letter from a Chicago firm asking if we know of any convenient industrial sites that can be had in this locality.

Town Affairs.

The Town Council had a meeting last night, the full Board being present.

On motion of Councilman Jenkins the office of Town Superintendent (which was created at last meeting and to which Councilman Wilks was elected) was abolished.

J. L. Langley was elected Tax Lister for the town, he receiving 5 votes and F. J. Johnson 1. The Lister was allowed $25 for this service.

Not Space Enough

In the newspapers to tell you about my stock of Spring Goods. Hardly know where to begin describing the new Suits. All my own styles. Of course I know both the in and outside. I challenge the matching of this season's styles. All that energy, artistic taste and the power of money can do to secure quality and fashionableness has been done. My scale will rule the market for I am headquarters for the Clothing trade of this section. I also carry a beautiful line of Dry Goods, Dress Goods, Notions, Shoes, Hats, and Gents Furnishing Goods.

FRANK WILSON,
THE KING CLOTHIER.

Henry Sheppard, real estate agent, appeared and presented to the Board a deed from Mrs. A. M. Clark for Bonner's Lane extending from Pitt street to the railroad, to be used for a public street. On motion the deed was accepted.

It was decided that the regular meetings of the Board shall be on the first Monday night in each month.

The following committees were appointed:

On Ordinances—Brown and Godwin, to report at next meeting.

On Streets—Godwin, Brown and Jenkins.

On Wells—Smith, Wilks and Ruffin.

On Cemeteries—Brown for white and Jenkins for colored.

Wilmington held a meeting Tuesday night, adopting resolutions in favor of free coinage at the ratio of 16 to 1, and appointed delegates to a free silver convention to be held in Memphis June 11th.

The Democrats in Kansas and Missouri have declared for free silver and the fight is going on.

Raleigh and Durham are getting a hump on about the State Fair, and if Raleigh don't look out Durham is going to get it.

The Republican convention of Ohio has nominated Bushnell for Governor. Senator Sherman spoke. At every mention of sound money there was applause and when he mentioned McKinley as Ohio's candidate for the Presidency, and Foraker for the next Senator the convention was wild with enthusiasm.

SOME FUSION JUSTICE.

A correspondent writes us from Myrtle that a few days ago a gang of three negroes—Dan Davis, his mother and sister—went to the home, after having been forbidden the premises, of A. A. Hordin, a white man in feeble health, assaulted his daughter with a rock weighing three or four pounds, broke open his stable door and took off a cow.

A warrant was sworn out before Esq. Purgason, and the negroes were arrested and taken before him for trial. They made affidavit that they could not get justice at his hands and had the case removed to F. L. Freeman, one of the newly appointed fusion magistrates, who tried it Wednesday.

Although the guilt of the negroes was clearly and unmistakably proven by the testimony of a number of white persons, the fusion magistrate dismissed the cases against them upon their paying the costs.

Our correspondent, who is one of the good men led off into the fusion movement last year, says that he "has been waiting, hoping, trusting and praying that the fusion party might do something honorable, but he has been bitterly disappointed." He further writes that he is "ashamed of such a mockery of justice, and ashamed that he ever helped to bring about such a state of affairs." "But," says he, "we are always committing errors, but, thank God, He is faithful and just to forgive if we are faithful and just to confess and forsake our sins."

Our correspondent asserts, and his assertion is borne out by the facts, that the magistrate was influenced in his high-handed and outrageous action by the fact that the prisoners were negroes and Republicans, while their victims were decent white people and Democrats.

Now, these three negroes, who we learn are negroes of bad character, go to the house of an invalid and defenseless white man; commit an assault with a deadly weapon upon a defenseless white girl; break down his stable door and take of a cow (we infer, although our correspondent does not state so specifically that the cow had been impounded,) and go unwhipped of justice.

The fact that the negroes were guilty of two grave crimes, to-wit: assault with a deadly weapon and forcible trespass was clearly proven by reputable witnesses. The magistrate had no jurisdiction in either case. His only function was to investigate and bind over to the Superior court. But he arrogated to himself the power of a judge of the Superior Court and passed sentence.

This is an outrage, but we confess it is nothing more than we expected from the cattle elevated to the magistracy by the Fred Douglas gang.—Rutherfordton Democrat.

North Carolina and the Civil War.

The following from the War Records Office of the War Department as printed by the N. Y. Times furnishes facts that will be read with pride by every North Carolinian.

It shows North Carolina stood first and foremost in the late civil war. Read it and you will see the facts as stated by these Records.

"Though but little has been printed concerning the work of the War Records Office of the War Department, yet this has been a tremendous task. Forty nine volumes of nearly a thousand pages each, are completed, and furnish the most accurate history ever published of a nation's internecine war. The work has been impartially done. Besides the five Union officers employed, two Confederate General officers have also been engaged in editing the war archives of the dead Confederacy.

"The most interesting feature of the work is an exhaustive compilation from official records of the casualties on both sides in the war. Here are facts, not opinions. It will be made plain beyond all room for controversy, in this volume, that much of the hardest fighting of the war was between the army of the Potomac and the Army of Northern Virginia, and the figures in this volume will show that the infantry regiments from the Eastern States did the hardest fighting in the Union Army. They also prove that the Confederacy succumbed by the exhaustion of Lee's army.

"The table of death and wounds that are given measure the actual fighting as nothing else can. One thing clearly shown is the overshadowing importance of the battles of Gettysburg and Chickamauga, the greatest battles the Confederate and Union armies ever fought. The losses in these engagements prove how much fiercer was the fighting in these battles than it was before or ever was again between the two armies engaged during the war.

"The heroic valor of the North Carolina troops excites the highest admiration, and Pennsylvania, which lost more in killed and wounded, in proportion to the number of the troops, than any Northern State, can well send greeting to North Carolina, whose soldiers at Gettysburg did the hardest fighting on the other side, over the happy reunion of the present year.

"This is the book of revelations as to both sides of the civil war. On the Confederate side North Carolina lost more soldiers killed than any other Southern State. The following was the total loss in killed and mortally wounded of several of the Southern States; North Carolina, 14,522; Virginia, 5,328; South Carolina, 9,187; Georgia, 5,553; Mississippi, 5,807; Louisiana, 9,714. North Carolina heads the list in the number that died of wounds and 20,602 of her sons died of disease. North Carolina's military population in 1861 was 115,369, but she furnished 125,000 to the Confederate cause. The percentage of lost, killed and wounded was greater in the Confederate armies than in the Union armies. At Gettysburg the 26th North Carolina, or Pettigrew's brigade, went into action with over 800 men and lost 558 in killed and wounded. The 26th North Carolina had only 216 men left for duty when it went into Longstreet's assault on the third day, and on the following day but eighty were left. On the first day Capt. Tuttle's company went into action with three officers and 84 men. All the officers and 83 of the men were killed or wounded. On the same day Company C, of the 11th North Carolina, lost two officers, and 34 out of 38 men killed or wounded. Captain Bird of this company, and the four remaining men then went into what is called Pickett's Charge. The flag bearer was shot, and Capt. Bird brought out the flag himself. This was the severest regimental loss during the war."

A BLIND MAN'S PASTIME.

He is an Expert Billiard Player and Enjoys the Game.

To the friends of blind Julius Stern his achievements with the billiard ball and cue are a continual source of amazement.

His main dependence in playing at billiards is his marvelously acute detection of sound and its location. He also is assisted in executing the most difficult shots by his accurate sense of touch. By simply locating the three balls on the table, he is enabled to send the cue ball on its way around the table, gently clicking each of the ivories in succession, almost always as intended.

Stern delights in relating the story of his "double cushion," "all-around-the-table" shots, "draws," "gatherers," "caroms," etc.

By the clicking music of the balls Stern instantly knows whether he has made a successful shot. The soft or loud noise of contact tells him where he may place his fingers to find the ivory preparatory to the next shot.

Playing billiards is his pastime. When a boy, before he became blind, he used to play a little, but he has acquired his skill since he became blind. Stern earns a living conducting a news stand. He is an expert accountant, can detect the different denominations of coin instantly, make change with astonishing rapidity and delivers with accuracy hundreds of newspapers, placing them unerringly in the proper letter boxes in flat houses. He has learned to do all this in spite of the fact that he has been blind almost since boyhood.

Mr. C. B. Whichard got back from his Salisbury trip last night, and we hope the REFLECTOR will not be quite as badly pushed up as for a few days past.

Mr. J. O. Proctor and bride passed through on this morning's train. They will visit Washington, Baltimore and New York before returning to their home at Grimesland.

Married.

PROCTOR--JOHNSON—At 5:30 o'clock this morning at the home of Mr. Whitmill Hardee, in Greene county, Mr. J. O. Proctor, a prosperous merchant of Grimesland, was married to Miss Bettie S. Johnson, Rev. D. W. Davis officiating. The attendants were Mr. J. V. Johnson and Miss Fannie Hardee, Mr. D. S. Smith and Miss Olivia Johnson. The couple took the morning train at Ayden for an extended bridal tour. They received a large number of very handsome presents.

Clean up the Cemetery.

Councilman W. L. Brown, who is committeeman for Cherry Hill Cemetery, requests the REFLECTOR to state that next week he will have the walks and unsold lots cleaned up and put in good condition, and he would be glad if persons owning lots there would have them cleaned off at the same time, so that the entire grounds may be beautified at once. This is a timely suggestion, and we hope that all lot owners will comply with Mr. Brown's request. Cherry Hill can be made a beautiful spot with a little attention and it is not at all creditable to the town that it has been so long neglected.
