A Good Superintendent.

Under the new law the office of County Superintendent of Public Instruction passed out of existence with the first of June, and Prof. W. H. Ragsdale, the Superintendent for this county, closed up his work on that day. He has held the position nearly a year and a half and has in every respect made an acceptable official. The teachers of the county were highly pleased with his work and often spoke of it in terms of compliment, while the members of the Board of Education did not hesitate to say the county never had a better Superintendent.

Recognizing the efficiency of Prof. Ragsdale's services as Superintendent, Mr. E. A. Moye, Superior Court Clerk, upon whom the new law placed the duty of appointing a County Examiner to succeed the Superintendent, today appointed him to that position. In this appointment Mr. Moye shows that he has the interests of our public schools at heart and that he desired to make the best selection possible for this responsible position. The REFLECTOR believes the people of the county generally will heartily approve Mr. Moye's appointment of Prof. Ragsdale.

The grand jury of the U. S. Court at Raleigh found a true bill against C. L. Murphy, the postal clerk on the Washington branch, for opening a registered letter.

The County Commissioners have had a busy session today. In addition to their regular work they had many School Committeemen to appoint.

Two Old Men Pass Away.

Mr. Meyer Rice, a good citizen of the southern portion of the county, died at his home near Centreville Sunday night. He was 72 years old and was born near Dresden, Germany.

Mr. Warren Tucker, an excellent citizen of this township, died Sunday morning at his home two miles from Greenville. He was 72 years old and leaves a large family.

Seventy Five Baptized.

One of the largest crowds that ever assembled on the banks of Tar river to witness a baptism here, turned out Sunday morning to see Rev. H. M. Malloy, who is conducting the great revival at Sycamore Hill Baptist church, colored, baptize 75 people. The actual time the minister consumed in baptizing this large number was 35 minutes from the time the line of candidates was formed in the water.

One of the officers of the church tells us that the revival had its beginning from the conversion of a little girl in Sunday school. There were 50 requests for prayers at the Sunday night service. The meeting will go on two weeks longer.

New Schedule on the Atlantic.

A new schedule has gone into effect on the A. & N. C. R. R. under which the regular mail and passenger train will make the run from Morehead City to Goldsboro an hour quicker than before, with the same saving of time on the return trip. The morning trains leave Morehead an hour later than under the old schedule, returning in the evening an hour earlier. The arrival and departure from Goldsboro is about the same hour as formerly. The difference in this schedule is made by the quicker running of trains. This will be a great accommodation to people going to Morehead. Now if the Coast Line authorities would make a schedule over this road to connect at Kinston with the Atlantic—at least twice a week if no oftener—they would receive the thanks of many people along the line.

A Hot House Sure.

Thermometers seemed to be vieing with each other on Sunday to see which could make the highest score. While at different points around town they were reported anywhere from 100 to 105, the thermometer in the green house at Riverside Nurseries made a scoop on all the others by climbing up to 129½.

Have Your Eyes Examined.

Prof. P. D. Mahoney, specialist in lenses for the eye, is at the Ricks House for one week, where examinations for all forms of defective sight will be thoroughly and scientifically made.

If your sight, either distant or near, is imperfect; if your eyes water or burn after reading, sewing or any other kind of work, if your vision is blurred when looking at an object fifteen feet or more away; if after prolonged use of your eyes they feel strained and your head aches, you certainly require glasses, and should not for a day neglect their use.

If your defective sight can be improved by glasses, the proper one will be selected for you; if on the other hand the defect depends upon disease or such abnormal condition of the eye that glasses will not help, you will be frankly so informed and so saved a useless expense.

I guarantee every pair of glasses ordered to be satisfactory, and expect to win your confidence by the skillful and accurate manner in which they give you improved and comfortable vision. All examinations free.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

It is said that Minister Ransom is to come home on the request of the President and some admirers say it means a cabinet position. This is hardly probable though as Mr. Ransom has just been appointed to the position he now holds. If he is to return it is more than probable that it is on account of his health.

The latest prediction of changes likely to occur in the cabinet on account of the death of Secretary Gresham is that Attorney General Olney will become Secretary, Hoke Smith or W. L. Wilson will go to the department of justice and Don M. Dickinson either to the Secretaryship of the Interior or to the position of Postmaster General. The appointments will doubtless be made in a few days.

The work heretofore done by the Board of Education went into the hands of the County Commissioners to-day. The retiring Board has served the county well and faithfully. The education, interests of Pitt has prospered under their supervision. No Board in the State was more careful and conscientious in the discharge of their duties. The entire county will unite in saying "well done, good and faithful servants." The Board was composed of Messrs. J. R. Congleton, F. Ward and R. C. Cannon.

A Slight Mistake.

"They've raked in a pretty rough-looking lot this morning, haven't they?" observed the stranger who had dropped in at a police station.

"You are looking at the wrong gang," said the reporter to whom he had spoken. "Those are not the prisoners, they are the lawyers."—Pearson's Weekly.

A SELF-EVIDENT FACT.

The longer we live the more we become impressed with the almost unlimited power of kindness. It is a potent lever and gains marvelous victories. The man who pleads with his fellow-men, from a heart overflowing with love and kindness, does more good in one speech, than the man who uses abuse can accomplish in a life time.

In church, State, society and home the solid, substantial and satisfactory victories are those that emanate from kindness. There are men who drive their wives into unfaithfulness and their children away from home into lives of wickedness through a dictatorial bossism that manifests itself in words and deeds of bitterness and unkindness. There are ministers of the gospel who repel rather than attract, who drive men away from them and the church because they show a spirit of vindictiveness and bitterness in the pulpit and abuse all who do not agree with their peculiar way of thinking. There are politicians who make men vote against them and injure the party to which they belong because they indulge in vilification rather than convincing arguments.

People have a right to their opinions and no man has a right to abuse his fellowman because he can't agree with him. There is no place in this world where dictatorial assumption of authority and indulging in bitterness pays. Kindness attracts; abuse repels. Kindness builds up; abuse destroys. Kindness wins; abuse defeats. Kindness produces love; abuse produces hatred. Kindness is a force that brings about reforms and elevates mankind; abuse is a force that degrades and inaugurates no movements for bettering the condition of the human race.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

PRAISE YOUR WIFE.

"How do I look?" asked a young wife who stood before her husband dressed to attend a party with him.

As raised his eyes from the paper he was reading, looked at her critically, and said:

"All right. You'll do."

Her heart sunk and her lips quivered, but he did not know it. She was conscious of looking her best, and she wanted a word of praise, of admiration, from her husband, and she failed to receive it.

Why was he so grudging of his praise. Ask the average man who answers his wife in that way when she asks his opinion, as she invariably does, and he will tell you that she always looks well—dressed in good taste and above criticism. But why doesn't he say that to her? or, rather, why does he not make a little lover-like speech for such an occasion? Even the courteous remarks he would bestow on the costume of an ordinary acquaintance are withheld from his own wife.

There was a husband—he is dead now—who used to say to his wife: "My dear, you are looking charming this evening;" or, I love you best in that blue dress of yours." He was a poor stick of a man in the way of worldly success, but his widow canonized him for just those loving tributes, given to her with a lover's deference after many years of wedded life.

"Oh," said a disappointed woman, "I would like to be a man just to show what a good husband I could be."

Verry Much Out of Place.

No limit has ever been found to the uses of a small boy's pocket. One day at school a little girl put up her hand to attract attention.

"Teacher, Johnny's got a caterpillar."

Johnny was of course called to the desk, made to surrender the cherished possession, and sent to his seat with a reprimand. In about two minutes the same small voice complained:

"Teacher, Johnny's got another caterpillar!"

A second surrender of the caterpillar and a second admonition followed.

Hardly had silence once more settled over the room, when a frantic waving of the hand was followed by a perfect shriek of dismay:

"Teacher, Johnny's got a whole pocketful of caterpillars!"

This time the teacher's dismay equalled her pupils, and Johnny was promptly sent home with his brood of strange pets.

A Forward Step at Florence, S. C.

On Monday last a very enthusiastic meeting of the Florence County, S. C., Tobacco Growers' Association was held at Florence. About seventy-five leading planters were present, and the discussion of various topics on tobacco culture occupied about three hours. A large number of new planters enrolled their names, and the acreage represented at the meeting aggregated 1,087 acres.

On Monday night an important meeting of the business men was held, and the Florence Board of Trade was organized with over fifty members. The object of this association is to assist in 'putting the tobacco market at Florence on a sound footing. In this movement all the business men are taking a hand, and it is safe to say the Florence market will be a success.

A company has been organized to build another warehouse, which will be erected at once. The lot has been purchased and lumber ordered, and the house will be ready for the new crop. Negotiations are pending for the lease of the two warehouses, and Florence is likely to be a very active market and a strong bidder for the big South Carolina crop now growing.—Ex.

PULP PAPER IN BOOKS.

Wears Very Badly and Is Unsatisfactory to Librarians.

The Leaves Become Brittle, and in a Few Years the Volume Is Worthless—American Pulp Paper Is Superior to Others.

The use of pulp paper in books is causing a great deal of trouble to librarians, says the Cincinnati Times-Star. They find that books printed on pulp paper have not as long a period of existence as those of former times. If the book is much used it soon assumes a "dog-eared" appearance and its ordinary life is but a year or two. If it is but rarely read the heat of the library seems to act upon the leaves, rendering them brittle, and in a few years rendering the volume worthless.

"I find the most trouble with the German books," said Librarian Whelpley, of the public library, the other day. "Nearly all of the books secured by us from Germany are printed on pulp paper, and they don't last as long as the books of the olden time. They first commence to get brittle on the edges. The reader unconsciously tears away a part of the broken edge of a leaf and before many months a new volume looks as if it had been in circulation as many years as it has months. The German manufacturers of pulp paper do not seem to be able to make as good a grade of paper as the English and American manufacturers. Probably the American pulp paper is superior to that manufactured in any other country. Our manufacturers seemed to have acquired a degree of perfection in their articles that none of the others approach in any degree. They use more clay in the manufacture of the paper than the others do, and that renders their paper heavier.

"But even at the best the life of a pulp-paper book is not a long one. A man beginning as a boy a collection of them would probably find, when he reached three-score and ten, that his earlier collection had been seriously injured by age, and that the pages were so brittle that they could not be handled without breaking. I can cite one case of a book printed on English pulp paper in this respect. It was a copy of Matthew Henry's commentary on the Bible. It had been in the library thirty years or so and but rarely called for. At the end of that time, while being examined, some thirty pages broke off in the hand like tinder, so brittle had they become.

"Librarians have a great deal to contend with in prolonging the existence of a book," continued Mr. Whelpley, "that the uninitiated do not dream of. There is always a certain amount of heat in a library, which has a damaging influence on the paper in books and their binding.

It is hard to believe, but it is a fact that since the introduction of electric lighting in the library we find the life of our books prolonged. This is because the electric lights give out but little heat and no gases. The excessive heat of gas lights and the gases they throw off after combustion did sad damage to our books and their bindings. Speaking of bindings, they are a source of anxiety to librarians. The best of leather bindings will rot in time. Cloth bindings are the best for private libraries, for they keep forever if the book is not too much handled. But they have their disadvantages. They are of no use on bulky volumes and in public libraries they wear out too quickly. All of the editions de luxe are printed on English linen paper, because publishers know that they would not have a life of many years if printed on pulp paper."

Good people shire from afar, like snowy mountains; bad people are not seen, like arrows shot by night.

Better than living a hundred years, not seeing the highest religion is one day in the life of a man who sees the highest religion.

An evil deed is better left undone, for a man will repent of it afterward; a good deed is better done, for having done it one will not repent.

The fault of others is easily perceived, but that of oneself is difficult to perceive. A man winnows his neighbor's faults like chaff, but his own faults he hides as a cheat hides the false die from the gambler.
