THE HODGES-GREENE WEDDING

The Church Crowded to Overflowing
—A Brilliant Reception.

"Such a beautiful marriage!" was the exclamation that fell from the lips of many who were at St. Paul's Episcopal church last night to witness the ceremony that made Mr. Frank M. Hodges and Miss Belle Greene husband and wife.

A charming scene greeted the eyes of the congregation upon entering the church. The entire chancel seemed transformed into a greenhouse with its magnificent display of rare flowers arranged in pyramids, while just above where the couple was to stand was suspended a bell of choice cut flowers with a huge magnolia forming a clapper, wax candles leading brilliance to the scene.

It was 10 o'clock when the wedding party arrived and to the strains of the wedding march superbly rendered by Mrs. J. B. Cherry they entered in the following order:

First the ushers, Messrs. Frank Wilson, J. R. Moye, Frank Wooten and J. A. Andrews who took their positions on either side of the chancel. Then the waiters, two gentlemen together and two ladies together, who formed two circles within the chancel. Preceding the bride came Misses Velma Rawls and Mary Higgs as flower girls. As the bride entered with her brother, Mr. R. Greene, immediately preceded by her sister, Miss Betsy Greene, Maid of Honor, the groom with his best man, Dr Charles Laughinghouse, came through the vestry room and met her at the foot of the chancel, when the happy couple advanced together to within the circle of attendants. The ceremony was performed in a very impressive manner by Rev. A. Greaves, the Rector of St. Paul's. After the ceremony the bride and groom passed out the centre aisle of the church the attendants following in couples—Dr. Laughinghouse with Miss Betsy Greene, Mr. J. G. Moye with Miss Mary Bernard, Mr. J. C. Greene with Miss Bessie Jarvis, Mr. W. S. Bernard with Miss Lucy Cox, Mr. John Williams with Miss Carrie Cobb, Mr. J. B. Johnson, Jr., with Miss May Harris and Mr. J. L. Little with Miss Ella King.

From the church the party repaired to the home of the bride's mother, Mrs. E. S. Greene, where a brilliant reception was held. A large number of friends called to extend their congratulation.

The many handsome and valuable bridal presents displayed attested the popularity of the bride and groom.

The REFLECTOR joins their host of friends in extending best wishes for a happy wedded life.

Mr. and Mrs. Hodges make their home at the White House.

Have Your Eyes Examined.

Prof. P. D. Mahoney, specialist in lenses for the eye, is at the Ricks House for one week, where examinations for all forms of defective sight will be thoroughly and scientifically made.

If your sight, either distant or near, is imperfect; if your eyes water or burn after reading, sewing or any other kind of work, if your vision is blurred when looking at an object fifteen feet or more away; if after prolonged use of your eyes they feel strained and your head aches, you certainly require glasses, and should not for a day neglect their use.

If your defective sight can be improved by glasses, the proper one will be selected for you; if on the other hand the defect depends upon disease or such abnormal condition of the eye that glasses will not help, you will be frankly so informed and so saved a useless expense.

I guarantee every pair of glasses ordered to be satisfactory, and expect to win your confidence by the skillful and accurate manner in which they give you improved and comfortable vision. All examinations free.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

Since the foundation of the government ten members of the Cabinet have died in office, four of whom—Hugh S. Legare, of South Carolina; Abel P. Upshur, of Virginia; Daniel Webster, of Massachusetts; and Walter Q. Gresham, of Illinois—held, at the time of their decease, the portfolio of State. The others were: William Bradford, of Pennsylvania, Attorney-General under Washington; Thomas W. Gilmer, Secretary of the Navy under Tyler; John A. Rawlins, of Illinois, Secretary of War under Grant; Timothy O. Howe, of Wisconsin, Postmaster General, and Charles J. Folger, of New York, Secretary of the Treasury under Arthur; William Windom, Minnesota, Secretary of the Treasury under Harrison.

A FORCED RIDE.

John Gilpin's famous ride was beaten by one which a Confederate soldier was forced to take during an engagement between Quirk's scouts and a regiment of Union cavalry. The Courier-Journal of Louisville describes the ride as follows: The two bodies of soldiers were standing face to face, and the bullets were flying thick and fast through the air. The fight was a desperate one, and each side seemed determined to stand its ground.

Suddenly, as the fight was at its hottest, a horse dashed out of the Confederate line, and started in a direct line for the Yankee regiment. On the horse's back was a man named English, who was leaning back in his saddle and pulling with all his might in a futile effort to stop his frightened horse.

The animal was yellow in color, and in running took long and clumsy jumps. The rider finally saw that he could not stop the frantic animal, and he made up his mind to make the best of his situation.

He leaned forward in his saddle until his head almost touched his horse's neck, and his hands clasped the bridle near the bit. Even the rider's ears seemed pinned back, so great was his effort to make himself as small as possible. His face was as pale as death.

The Yankees saw the horse with its rider making straight for them. Some of the soldiers ceased firing, and looked excitedly at the half-maddened animal flying toward them. He reached the regiment, but did not stop. The Federals almost fell upon each other in their efforts to get away from the horse's heels.

The animal went plunging through the centre of the line of soldiers, foaming at the mouth and with head down, and then dashed on through the entire regiment, the soldiers making way for him all down the line.

Not a shot was fired until he had gotten out of range, and then nearly half of the regiment, who had managed to recover themselves from their astonishment, fired at a cloud of dust rising in the air; but the horse and rider were at a safe distance.

The horse made a complete circle, returning to the Confederate company in safety. When they saw their comrade had returned without a scratch from his dangerous ride, they almost forgot the fight that was before them, and there went up a great cheer.

Her Conundrum.

It is often hard to determine hit from "good wit" in the case of children, and some of their flashes of precocity seem not to be unconscious, but rather the fragment of some remembered knowledge.

A little maid of five, who had been listening quietly to the puzzles and conundrums of the older children, seemed at last to divine the method of their construction and, after some thought, asked: "What could you get on a very high, steep mountain?"

The answers were ice, snow, rocks, eagles' nests and the like, to all of which the little one persistently shook her head. When asked to tell the answer she triumphantly cried, "Nothing!"

"But why?" asked the others, in a breath.

"Because you couldn't get up there after it," was the demure reply.

Don't Want Dr. Huffham to go to Heaven From Washington.

Mr. George Newell, of the Treasury Department, late a Henderson. (Vance county,) editor, has been entertaining relatives and friends since the Baptist Convention. His visitors have now returned. He tells a good one on Rev. Dr. Huffham. He knew the doctor very well, but for some time had not seen him. About the beginning of the Convention Dr. Huffham went to Newell and without a word of greeting or preface said: "Geo., I believe I will go home. I don't feel very well. If I stay here I'll get sick. I might die. The trouble is I don't want to go to Heaven from Washington City. The angel at the gate would ask me where I was from, and to tell him I came from Washington would cloud my credentials, as it has been so long since a man from this city has gone to Heaven. George, I think I had better go back home."

Breaking a Superstition.

The death of the Count Ferdinand de Lesseps has revived many kindly memories of a great man, who will be remembered for his genius and enterprise when every error attaching to his name has been forgotten.

Many of the anecdotes relate to his attachment for his young family, and the care of his children's development.

A little incident was turned to account by him to banish respect for superstition. One morning at breakfast at his table, a teacup of beautiful Dresden ware was broken.

"Ah," cried the countess, "what a misfortune! Two more will now be broken: it is always so."

"Are you really so superstitious as to believe that?" asked the count.

"I am sure of it."

"Then let us get over with it at once," said her husband, and seizing two cups by the handles, he dashed them together.

The dismay of the countess proved that she was not so grounded in superstition as she had declared, and the lesson was an ineffaceable one for the children.

A Small Boy's Answer.

At a country school in England it is said that one of the examiners in a general exercise wrote the word "dozen" on the blackboard, and asked the pupils to each write a sentence containing the word. He was somewhat taken aback to find on one of the papers the following sentence: "I dozen know my lesson."—Harper's Round Table.

A single page in an issue of the Century, taken for advertising purposes, costs $500; in Harper's $400 down to $100. A yearly advertisement in one column of the York Herald costs $30,300 for the lowest and $130,000 for the highest priced column. These figures will doubtless be of interest to men who invest $2 or $3 per month and flatter themselves with the idea that they are extensive and liberal advertisers.

The Dispatch says that a Lexington gentleman purchased a shoulder of meat, weighing 17 pounds. Carrying it home, he was astonished to see a mouse peep out from a hole in the meat. He commenced to investigate, and 16 mice hopped out of the hole.

IN THE SOUTH.

Gadsden, Ala., is soon to have another industry in the shape of a bottling works. H. A. DeBlieux, of Dayton, Tenn., will remove his plant from that place to Gadsden in a short time.

The democratic state leaders of Kentucky have invited W. H. Harvey, author of Coin's financial school to make speeches in that state advocating the free and unlimited coinage of silver.

A personal encounter occurred at noon Saturday in the editorial rooms of the Norfolk (Va.) Virginian between Editor Michael Glennan and Major Humphreys, a prominent insurance man and prohibitionist leader of that city.

The South Carolina Press association arrived in Richmond Saturday. They spent that morning in visiting points of interest about the city and Saturday night called on the governor and were entertained by the Old Dominion Press Club.

Americus, Ga., is to have a $300,000 cotton mill. Already $20,000 has been subscribed and Captain W. M. Hitt is still circulating the subscription list and in a few months Americus will have one of the best cotton mills in Georgia.

Judge Gibbons, of the criminal court of Jacksonville, Fla., has issued an order to release all prisoners serving sentence for carrying concealed weapons because Governor Mitchell set aside a sentence he had imposed upon Banker Marvin.

At noon Sunday the steps of Troy
 Presbyterian church, seven miles south of Versailles, Ky., were converted into a duelling ground, George B. Mont-president.

The towns of York, Livingston and Utah, Ala., are still quarantined against Meridan, Miss., on account of the belief that there is an epidemic of smallpox prevailing there. During the past few weeks about thirty cases of the disease have been reported to the health authorities at Meridan.

Judge Cromwell Gibbons of the criminal court of Jacksonville, Fla., Tuesday defied Governor Mitchell and ignored a pardon which the latter granted to John L. Marvin, president of the Merchants National bank. Marvin was under sentence to pay a fine of $1,000 or serve six months in jail.

The members of the Georgia Press association, sixty-three in number, will attend the meeting of the newspaper men to be held in Toronto, Canada.

One of the greatest silver meetings yet held in the south, was that which occurred at Jackson, Tenn., last week when five thousand democrats from West Tennessee, North Mississippi, and West Kentucky were present to hear
 W. J. Bryan, of Nebraska, McLaurin of Mississippi, "Private" John Allen of Mississippi, and B. W. Carmack of Ten-

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

The Hooker and Bernard prize house formerly occupied by the American Tobacco Co., and which come very near capsizing some time ago, has just been forced back to original position. Mr. Cowell says there will be no danger now as the main strain and important work is over. They will set about now to make it thoroughly substantial and safe. Mr. Hooker said to us that they would make it thoroughly safe before they finished it and that braces would be put in both on the inside and outside beside they will run a double partition on each floor. This will add a great deal of strength to the base. We sincerely hope that the building will be pulled back and braced so that no question of doubt can arise about its safety, for several reasons, first, we need the house and second, these gentlemen took hold and built the house when no one else in town outside the tobacco trade seemed to care whether there were any more houses for taking care of tobacco erected or not, and while to a certain extent it is their fault that the building is in its present condition because they did not have timber enough put in it to make it substantial, yet they were inexperienced in the motion of the house and the strength required, and left the whole matter with some one else with the result that the tenant got a very unsatisfactory leaf factory, and the landlords a great deal of uneasiness and unnecessary expense. And again the building of this house broke the ice in the erection of more prizeries, for this was the first house of the kind built in Greenville by anyone outside of the tobacco men directly interested in the market, and in the first attempt to help us along by the merchants and citizens we regret to see any discouragement. So again we say let every effort be made to make the factory thoroughly substantial and let us offer every encouragement to those who seem willing and disposed to help us. This building occupies a very prominent position from the depot, a very conspicuous position from the town and by all means in justice to the lessee and to the owners of the building themselves let the house be given a decent coat of paint, and in this connection also we would add that the Greenville Warehouse property could be improved materially.
