LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Mr. G. F. Evans left this morning for an extended trip through Martin county.

Mr. F. M. Smith has ten acres of the most uniform tobacco that we have seen. It seems to be growing in a perfectly healthy condition.

How about a telephone for Greenville to connect with the tobacco town warehouses and prizeries, depot and down town. It would be a thing of great convenience to the town and would cost but little.

A correspondent writing from Pittsylvania county, Va., to the Danville Register, under date June 4th says: The wheat crop is one of the finest on record, and oats are above an average. Of the tobacco he says many of our planters are not yet half done planting tobacco. When we had seasons the land was too wet to hill and the plants too late and small to plant, and now everything is too hot and dry to set out the weed. The '94 crop is getting scarce in the barns. Such necessitates a late crop and a late crop up there means a sorry crop. So it behooves our people to bestir themselves and supply the demand for fine tobacco. You can do it.

We are not a prophet nor a son of a prophet, but we are going to venture the assertion that before the close of the year 1900, unless the signs of the times mean nothing, that Greenville will be a town of 5,000 inhabitants. Until five years ago our fertile soils were used for nothing except to make cotton and corn. No allurements, inducements or special advantages were offered to the outside world to come among us, and hence the advantages that this section really possesses in climatic conditions and variety of soils were not known and our own people never troubled themselves to herald them to the world. The always alert Yankee of the frigid and barren States of the north has of late been casting about in quest of a better home. They have settled a good many of them on much less favored spots than this and as soon as our advantages are known to them our country will soon be blooming in rich orchards over hill sides spread in ever green pastures, and our more fertile fields made to bring forth products yet unknown to our people. In central and southern Georgia where the soil and climate are not half so attractive as ours, Northern men with limited capital have gone there and upturned the turf of the long neglected old pine fields and to-day, where ten years ago nothing grew save the old field pine, there are thousands peach trees and vines, turning out to their owners annually incomes larger than the salaries of some of our highest officials. With these facts and a thorough knowledge of the unprofitableness of northern agriculture, when it is known that our country possesses many hidden charms even superior to sections that have already been settled up is it at all strange that our country should build up with amazing rapidity? Just watch and we will see what we will see.

Wont Leave Us.

Capt. Pace is in receipt of a letter from one of the largest commission houses in London, England, making him a proposition to come and handle their leaf tobacco business, but the Captain has written them declining, saying he has a contract here, but offering his services to buy for them on this market.

Bethel Commencement.

The closing exercises of Bethel High School took place Thursday the attendance being quite large. At 11 o'clock A. M. Rev. L. L. Nash, D. D. of Newbern, delivered the annual sermon in the Methodist church. His subject was "the universal reign of God," and his sermon one of unusual ability.

At 3 P. M. Rev. R. J. Moorman, of Washington, delivered the address. His theme was "Writing," life writing, in which he compared life to a book, every individual being the author of his own character. It was one of the most beautiful and instructive discourses to which we ever listened.

The entertainment at night was largely attended and an interesting and well executed programme given. Prof. McWhorter told us he had decided to leave the county and would go to Alabama in the fall. In his departure the county will lose an excellent teacher and it is to be regretted that he has decided to return to his native State.

The members of the Methodist Sunday School will meet at the church Friday night at 8 P. M. to complete arrangements for children's day exercises and the picnic. A. B. ELLINGTON, Supt.

A cow belonging to Mr. E. D. Manning, of Bethel township, dropped a calf a few days ago that weighed 52 pounds at birth. The calf died.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

Hon. Tom Mason's subject for the literary address, which he delivered at Wake Forest College Wednesday, was: "What we make of our State?" No man could have shown more conclusively and eloquently than he did what we ought to make North Carolina.

President Cleveland has issued an address admonishing all citizens of the United States not to take any part in the Cuban rebellion either by enlisting themselves or causing others to enlist for service. He says we are on terms of peace and amity with Spain and that it is desirable to remain so.

Senator Butler has written a letter explaining what he meant by saying in his little speech at Chapel Hill commencement that the day would soon come when any Methodist or Baptist who opposed the University could not be elected as delegate to a conference or convention. He says he did not did not mean it that way.

The silver men are in session in Memphis. Senator Turpie, of Indiana, was chosen president of the meeting. If all the men who are slated to speak do so the convention will be in session for several days. The gold bugs will evidently be pretty hotly scored. It is thought some organization will grow out of the convention.

The Circuit Court of appeals sitting in Richmond, Va. has squelched Judge Goff. It dissolves his famous injunction case in reference to the South Carolina registration laws. This is a great victory for the State and emphasizes the partizan decision of Judge Goff. Chief Justice Fuller of the Supreme Court of the United States sat with Judges Hughes and Seymour in the Court that sets aside Goff's decision.

Reckless Thoughtlessness.

The judge of a Western court, in order to secure a safer and more civilized condition of affairs in the court room, asked the twelve jurymen and the ten attorneys present to place their pistols in a pile in the corner of the room, but there seemed to be some hesitancy in complying with the request, and the judge insisted.

"If Your Honor will put his down first," suggested the foreman of the jury, "I guess the balance of us will follow suit."

"Certainly, gents," replied His Honor, and laid his gun down in the corner.

In a few minutes all the others had done the same, excepting the sheriff and his deputy, who were not included, and twenty-three pistols were reposing peacefully on the floor.

"Now, gents," said His Honor, suddenly whipping out a gun, "the first man that goes near that pile gets it in the neck."

In an instant every man's hand went to his other hip pocket, and as His Honor dived behind the desk, twenty-two bullets went through the window back of where he had been sitting, and twenty two men were waiting for him to stick his head up, but he did nothing so rash.

"Put up them guns," he yelled "put up them guns or I'll fine every d—n one of you for contempt of court."—New York Sun.

Effect of Bicycles.

A Richmond newspaper correspondent writes as follows of the effect of bicycles on livery stables and street cars:

"The bicycle has, I am told, reduced the livery stable business to about one half of what it was before the wheels became so popular. It has been a blow at street cars and has made horses sell more cheaply than ever before heard of. A good saddle horse can be had here now for $30 or $40. Such an animal as a few years ago would have brought from $75 to $100. The number of bicycles in use in Richmond has been quadrupled in the last year. There are now hundreds of lady riders here."

True Hospitality.

Mr. Rudolf Lehmann, in his autobiographical book, "An Artist's Reminiscences," relates a pleasing story of Italian hospitality. He had left Rome to escape its malarial heat, and was on his way to a province in the Apennine mountains on the confines of the Papal States. When he reached Sora, which is the seat of the sub-prefect of the province, it happened to be market-day. The one little inn was crowded, and the appearance of a foreigner attracted some notice. Mr. Lehmann says:

An apparently well-to-do gentleman inquired about my intended route, and when he heard the name of the first little mountain village for which I was bound, he asked where I was going to lodge.

"At the inn, of course," I answered.

"But there is no inn," said the man. "Allow me to give you a letter of introduction."

He then and there sat down, without asking so much as my name, and wrote an introductory note.

New Way of Collecting.

A new way of collecting old debts is being introduced in Maine towns. The introduction of the scheme is a novelty, too.

A young woman of alleged great attractiveness is the advance agent, and between her own attractions and those of her scheme she is said to be having complete success. She calls on the local merchants and secures their membership in the new agency. A few days after her departure there appear in town a number of men dressed in bright green coats, who get the particulars of old debts and debtors from the members and then proceed to call on the victims.

The contract provides that the horribly conspicuous collectors shall make fifteen calls a day on each creditor, meeting them anywhere and everywhere. The scheme is reported to be a big success, as most of the debtors are glad to make a prompt settlement rather than have the whole neighborhood see them haunted by the green-coated spectre.

Pretty Good Scheme.

Massachusetts has very probably settled the tramp question a nuisance so far as that State is concerned. She has purchased a farm of two thousand acres upon which she intends to locate them, but as work is the last thing that a tramp desires to do, it is not probable that the farm will have many occupants after the news of its existence spreads throughout the country.

This is a pretty good scheme. If other States will pursue this course there will be but few tramps abroad in the land.

We find the following item going the rounds and there is considerable truth in it: "No true, honest, self-respecting man or woman is greatly disturbed about social recognition. It is those who feel their inferiority who are always loudly asserting that they 'are as good as anybody.' And it is equally true that the well bred never act in a manner that suggests they feel they are better than the general run of humanity. The true gentleman squares his conduct by the golden rule, which is the universal solvent of all our relations to our fellow-men. 'As ye would that men should do unto you, do ye also unto them.'"

Range Peddlers Must Pay Schedule B. Taxes.

The State Treasurer has inaugurated a crusade against peddlers of ranges from other States who have been playing their business without paying the schedule B. taxes. The peddlers say that they are protected by the interstate commerce, but Treasurer Worth doesn't agree with them and calls upon all sheriffs in the State to arrest all such peddlers.

The enforcement of the payment of the tax by such people only places them on an equality with the resident merchant, while heretofore by dodging it they have had that much advantage of local dealers and the State has been losing largely.

Commencements were held this week at Wake Forest College, A. & M. College, Elon College and St. Mary's.

Happenings of Interest in This and in Other Countries.

IN THE NORTH.

The receipts from the benefit tendered on Friday night at the Fifth Avenue theatre, New York, to Charles W. Couldock, will net the veteran actor close to $6,500.

The question whether cut diamonds are free or dutiable has been decided by Judge Townsend at New York. He holds that they are dutiable at 25 per cent ad valorem.

Mr. Jules A. Harrison, of Philadelphia, has made a donation of $500,000 to the University of Pennsylvania in honor of his father, the late George Leib Harrison, LL. D.

Henry P. Schwartz, a member of the firm of Charles W. Schwartz & Co., carpet manufacturers, Philadelphia, committed suicide by shooting himself some time during Monday night at his boarding house.

Lawyer W. L. Payne, of New York, was awarded a verdict of $25,000 in a libel case brought against the New York World. This is the largest amount awarded in a case of the kind in this country.

The trial of Inspector William W. McLaughlin, of New York City, who is accused of extortion, was resumed Friday morning before Judge Barret in the court of Oyer and Terminer, and resulted Friday night in conviction.

At an election held Monday at the New York cotton exchange, the following were elected officers for the ensuing year: President, Reinhard Siegenburg; Vice President, Gustavo C. Hopkins; Treasurer, Walter T. Miller.

Senator Quay declared in an interview at Pittsburg Saturday that the republican leaders are making a mistake in helping the democrats agitate the silver question. He says republicans ought to stick to tariff if they expect to win in 1896.

It is reported in New York city that Mayor Strong has decided to remove City Chamberlain Joseph J. O'Donohue and will appoint Henry C. Robinson to the $25,000 a year place. Robinson is a dry goods merchant in Worth street, and ran for comptroller in 1893 against Ashbel P. Fitch.

THROUGH THE WEST.

Bad storage is reported to be the cause of the disaster to the steamship Colima.

The report sent out from Cincinnati that General Joseph Longstreet is ill, was without foundation.

Several telegrams have been received at Tampa, Fla., saying that Jose Marti has arrived in New York.

The reports of suffering and starvation among the settlers in parts of Oklahoma have been verified.

General Bushnell, the republican candidate for governor in Ohio, says he is for McKinley for president.

The democratic state convention in Illinois on June 5th to act on silver was the largest gathering in the history of that state.

Eugene V. Debs writes to a friend that he will not allow his name to be considered in relation to the populist nomination for president.

Colonel Eli Lilly Saturday presented to the Indianapolis flower mission the Walter Q. Gresham homestead to be used as a home for sick children.

A Fitting Rebuke.

Workingmen not only have the sensitiveness of other people about their personal integrity, but sometimes may have a neat way of replying to an imputation upon it.

A carpenter, sent to make some repairs in a private house, entered the apartment of the lady of the house with his apprentice.

"Mary," the lady called to her servant, "see that my jewel-case is locked up at once!"

The carpenter understood. He removed his watch and chain from his vest with a significant air and gave them to his apprentice.

"John," he said, "take these right back to the shop. It seems that the house isn't safe!"

After Quarter of a Century.

Our young townsman Mr. James C. Whaley showed us a letter last night written twenty four years ago which he had just received from the dead letter office.

The letter was written by his grand-mother, Mrs. Mary L. Whaley, October 24, 1871, to her son, Mr. James G. Whaley, father of the young man who has just received it. It was while he was in Philadelphia, a youthful unmarried man. The writer of the letter has been dead five years and the one to whom it was written, thirteen years. Where it has been all this time and how it comes to be returned at this late day, can only be a matter of conjecture.—Newbern Journal.
