LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS.

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Cultivating the Tobacco Crop.

Tobacco, of all crops that are grown extensively in our soil, requires the most skillful cultivation. Unlike cotton in every particular you cannot put off what ought to be done today for tomorrow, for by tomorrow your neglect may have cost you more than the value of a crop of cotton. The cultivation of a tobacco crop should be the most thorough and the cultivation should commence just as soon as the bud of the young plant begins to turn green after it is transplanted. Just at this time the greatest of care and caution should be taken, for if you plough too close or break up the roots of the young plant that is just beginning to feed it will seriously retard the growth and in dry hot weather sometimes kill the plant. A cultivator or harrow ought to be used the first time, this should be followed with careful hoe hand, then in a few days the tobacco is large enough to use a cotton plough side the tobacco. Immediately after the tobacco has been ploughed with a cotton plough you should go back and split the middles, for if these are allowed to remain the hot sun will scald the roots and in case of a rain the fertilizer is washed away and the roots left bare to the exposure of the sun. So we repeat, never allow the middles to remain, but after each ploughing split them out immediately.

We have frequently heard farmers say that three ploughings are enough for tobacco, but the best general advice that we have had on this subject is to plough just as often as the tobacco requires it if it is half a dozen times. Then again tobacco should be ploughed after every hard rain as soon as the ground becomes sufficiently dry. The roots should never be allowed to remain a close, packed or sodded surface. Of course when we speak of ploughing it is meant during the growing season. When tobacco gets up large enough to top or when ploughing damages the leaves cultivation of this line should be stopped.

In ploughing tobacco the last time a good high ridge should be made. Some advise splitting the middles with a turn plow, running two furrows to the row. At any rate a good ridge should be made as it drains off superfluous water in wet weather and retains the moisture in dry weather.

A NORTH CAROLINIAN'S VIEWS.

Mr. B. F. Keith, of Wilmington, N. C., was in the city yesterday on his way back home from the great convention in Memphis.

"I have noticed the attempts of the goldbug papers to make jest of the silver convention in Memphis," he said to The Constitution.

"Their railery amounts to nothing under the sun, but I cannot help protesting when they put down such statements as this, that North Carolina was represented at the convention only by one or two populists. Now, I was at the convention from my State and I am a Democrat. There were many others there who have never voted anything but a Democratic ticket as long as they have lived. I have never known what it was to vote a Populist ticket. I am no politician, have never held an office and don't want to hold any within the gift of the people. I am a merchant in Wilmington and have a farm and I had nothing at stake when I went to the Memphis convention but the earnestness of my convictions that silver should be restored to its rights along with gold in the money question that confronts the people of the republic.

"While I have no political feelings in sympathy with the Populists, I believe they are going to be the salvation of the country by coming back into the folds of the Democratic party and poling issues with us along this line for the cause of silver.

"I know they will come back in the party if the Democratic leaders will simply fulfill the pledges that have been made, and I am sure the interests of the Democratic party and of the people of this country are inseparable in this matter. The party must meet its obligations and if it does the people will cease to suffer the injuries that have been inflicted by the leaders who have misled."—Atlanta Constitution.

Not many days left for tax listing. Those who have not listed had better attend to it if they do not want to be charged with double tax.

Civil Service.

Mr. Cleveland continues to enlarge the list of those who must come under the civil service rules. Congress should enlarge the number so as to include all, and provide for an examining board to test the president's knowledge of the last Democratic national platform. If such an examination was had Mr. Cleveland would not grade as high as 50 per cent.—Wilmington Dispatch.

The treasury gold reserve is now within $300,000 of the $100,000,000 mark. This result has been attained by the agreement with the Morgan-Belmont syndicate by which the treasury has already received $58,000,000 in gold, leaving $7,000,000 still due from the syndicate.

President Cleveland has gone to Buzzard's Bay for the summer. The Wilmington Review says that they are authorized in advance to deny the statement that some Yankee preacher may announce next week that Mr. Cleveland amuses himself on Sundays by standing on his head on his front piazza and winking at all the pretty girls who pass by.

Sixteen copies of the acts of 1895 have been delivered by the public printers. It is said that this is a delivery in law, as it does not state how many shall be delivered. The indexes were not furnished by the lawyers and clerks of the Senate and House until very recently (June 11th, the day the ninety days ended), so it is not very probable that any attempt will be made to collect the penalty of $50 per day.

William R. Laidlaw brought suit against Russell Sage, the millionaire, for $50,000 damages for injuries received by the explosion of a bomb in Mr. Sage's office in 1891. Mr. Laidlaw claimed that Mr. Sage caught hold of him and held him between Norcross, the bomb thrower, and himself. Laidlaw was permanently injured while Sage escaped comparatively unhurt. The jury found a verdict of $40,000 for the plaintiff Tuesday. It was received with applause by the audience.

They have a freak in New York. It is a man who found $120 on the streets of that city who returned the money to its rightful owner and refused to take a reward or disclose his name. They are going to put him in a glass globe and exhibit him.

The Roxboro Courier says there were several applicants for the position of county examiner of Person county and the clerk of the court decided the contest in a novel manner. He had the applicants draw straws. G. E. Webb, the retiring county superintendent, was the lucky man. He drew the longest straw.

There are various things indicating that the Southern farmer is to be strictly in it this year. He has cut down his cotton crop 14 per cent. and is likely to get a good price for what he raises. The wheat crop of the country is going to be short, its condition the 1st of June showing 71 per cent. against 83 per cent. June 1st, 1894; but the crop of the Southern farmer, especially him of North Carolina, is all right. The outlook of the corn crop of the country is promising, nowhere more so than in the Southern States. The prospect generally is for a year of good crops and good prices. The realization of this hope will set the country up. —Charlotte Observer.

They sing nowadays of the young girl whose "golden hair was hanging down her back," but she isn't in it with a girl who lives in a certain neighboring village whose hair kills cats. This girl's hair, according to a report from her neighborhood, is so charged with electricity that a single strand will shock the person who touches it. She would be a dangerous girl to court, for if a fellow went to caressing her shining locks he would be instantly tied up into hard knots.

It is estimated that the south spends $100,000,000 for products that could be raised cheaper here than elsewhere. Our section will never reach its full measure of prosperity until it produces what it consumes and sends a surplus to other countries. —Kinston Free Press.

The Vanished Bluebirds.

The Landmark has noted the absence of the bluebirds this spring and summer. A few have been seen but they are very scarce. It appears that this is the case elsewhere as well as in North Carolina. New York rural papers have recently commented on the absence of these birds and a recent issue of the Boston Transcript contains the following:

"Enough time has now gone by, and a sufficient number of observations have been made to remove all doubt that the vast majority of our Massachusetts bluebirds have lost their lives during their winter absence. The writer has seen just one bluebird this season. A friend of his, a keen observer, has found one bluebird's nest—in Bedford. Other observers have seen none at all in haunts where the birds in other years have been abundant. It will be of interest to see how long it will take the very few bluebirds who have returned to us to replenish the earth with their kind, and data as to the places where they may still be found will be of interest. If the one pair of bluebirds to be found in a township possess reason and reflection, they must feel somewhat as Noah and his family felt when they were spared for the purpose of re-establishing the human race after the flood."

In his recent talk to the Landmark on birds, Mr. Mel. Clark said that in his neighborhood numbers of bluebirds had been found dead in a bunch in hollow trees, and a number of State papers have reported similar occurrences. —Statesville Landmark.

It Is Better.

"It is better to weave in the web of life a bright and golden filling, and to do God's will with a ready heart, and with hands that are prompt and willing. It is better to hope though clouds hang low, and to keep your eyes still lifted, for the sweet blue sky will soon peep through when the sombre clouds are rifted. There was never a night without a day, or an evening without a morning, and the darkest hour, so the proverb says, is the one before the dawning."

Drowned in Saving His Boy.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 16.—W. H. Keer, a wealthy resident of Catonsville, near Baltimore, and president of the Thistle Cotton Mills Company, of Ilchester, Howard county, Md., was drowned to-day, under distressing circumstances. With his family and a party of friends he came to Annapolis on board his steam yacht Watauga. After spending a few hours in the city, the party re-embarked, intending to return to Baltimore.

Shortly after leaving the wharf Mr. Kerr's six-year old son fell overboard. Engineer Beaton threw a life preserver to the lad, but he was unable to reach it. Seeing his son struggling in the water Mr. Keer sprang overboard, and swam to his assistance. He succeeded in holding the boy's head above water until Capt. Burtis, of Annapolis, arrived in a row boat and picked up the lad. The yacht had meanwhile drifted away and Mr. Keer sank out of sight as his boy was rescued.

After an hour's search the body of Mr. Kerr was recovered. Mrs. Kerr and her four other children were on the deck of the Watauga and witnessed the sad accident. Mr. Kerr was the son of the late Prof. Kerr, State Geologist, of North Carolina.

Definition of a Populist.

We were very much struck with the definition of a Populist by a friend of ours the other night. Speaking of them, he said: "They are like one of these peanuts that you break open and there isn't a darn thing in it." And a bystander very pertinently reasked, "Is that the reason they are called 'Pop'?" —Raleigh Press.

"In the beginning God created the heaven and earth and all things therein," says an exchange, "He then created man and woman and left loafers on the corner. And in due time they multiplied and spread into the depot, postoffice and stores." Bye and by they are bountifully supplied with cheap chewing tobacco, and they spit seas of nasty slobbers through which they safely guide the ship of State and teach lessons of incalculable value to the statesmen of the land.
