The Song Were Singing.

Oh, Dixie land is the land of cotton,
Brings five cents an' the crop's forgotten
Bring mills,
Bring mills,
Bring yer cotton mills to Dixie!

Oh, we want more mills in Dixie,
To-day,
Hooray!
We want more mills in Dixie State,
For to weave the cotton an' save the freight,
To-day!
Hooray!
We want more mills in Dixie!

Oh, cotton still is a greater deceiver,
But what we want is the cotton weaver
Bring mills,
Bring mills,
Bring yer cotton mills to Dixie.

Oh, we want more mills in Dixie,
To-day,
Hooray!
We want more mills for to turn around,
An' take our cotton at a cent a pound
Hooray!
Look away!
Look away down South in Dixie!
—Frank L. Stanton.

They are Coming.

The horses are coming in for the races on the 4th. Four arrived from Henderson Saturday evening and four came up from Washington to-day. Several are also expected from Newbern. These with the Greene and Pitt county horses will give some of the finest racing ever seen in the State. The track is in fine condition and Greenville is going to have the biggest day in her history.

Sunday baseball playing at Cleveland, O., has been stopped by an injunction from a Circuit Court Judge, who held that the cheering made it a nuisance.

LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Yesterday's rain will enliven the crops of every kind considerably, for nearly all were beginning to need rain very much.

Tobacco as a general crop is looking much better than cotton or corn and that is not the finest that we have ever had at this season of the year.

Crops around Farmville and Falkland are looking much better than the crops in the vicinity of Greenville, and we understand that down below Greenville the tobacco is even better than in the Farmville and Falkland sections.

Behind the Bars.

To-day Mr. C. F. White, acting as special deputy for Sheriff King, went out and arrested a colored man named Richard McGowan, against whom there was a warrant for taking too many privileges with other people's smokehouses. Richard has the reputation of being a bad man to handle, but Mr. White was shrewd enough to slip the "cuffs" on him and land him in the lock up.

The Iowa Populists claim to have sat down upon General Weaver in their recent State Convention. Then the Iowa Populists should brush off the seat of their pants.

The installation of officers of the Masonic Lodge takes place to-night, instead of last Monday night as we previously announced.

Everybody Go.

The King Daughter's will give a delightful musicale at the Opera House on Wednesday night July 3rd. The best local talent has been secured and you may expect some good music and good singing. A laughable farce will wind up the evening's entertainment and you can enjoy hearty half-an-hour laugh. It is for a worthy cause and we hope they will be greeted by a full house.

It is believed there will be no bolting the Democratic ticket in Kentucky. The sound money men don't like the idea of having a free silver candidate for Governor but they are consoled by the fact that they have a platform that does not declare for the free and unlimited coinage of silver at the ratio of 16 to 1. The free silver men don't like such a platform as they have but they are wonderfully pleased at having a candidate who is an out and out advocate of free silver. This is the situation in the State and the Democrats are confident of winning.

The true home is the happiest place on earth. Around it cluster the sweetest memories of life. As far as this life goes it can reach no further than the ideal home. It is the inspiration of patriotism and has prompted men to deeds of daring that read like romance. It is related by a Southern writer that in some of the battles in the rich Shenandoah valley the young Virginians "fought like mad men" against fearful odds. They were in sight of their lovely homes and faced fire and ball and shell to protect them from the invader. That was patriotism that commanded the admiration of the world, but the thought of home was at the bottom of it.

In these rapid days is not the home idea too often lost sight of? Is this not especially the case in the great cities of this country? New York has its gilded and gorgeous palaces and it has its myriads of tenement houses, but neither are paradises in which angels might dwell. There is less real home life to the square inch on that island than any other city in America. In summer many of its abodes are veritable hells and at night the poorer inhabitants have to flee to the parks in search of comfort and health. They spend their days trying to keep soul and body together. The rich are busily engaged trying to accumulate more wealth. There is probably no more real happiness within the palace gate than in the tenement.

In the pursuit of ambition's dream, which, with the average American, is to make money, too many forget the ties of home. It was not always thus and will not be so always. We will get over it after a while under better laws. Then the wealth of the country will be more evenly distributed and the great middle class will be built up. There will be fewer millionaires and paupers; less grasping, less greed, more contentment more of the spirit of home life and more real homes.—Sanford Express

Close Figuring in Kansas.

It is said that a man who won't buy a paper because he can borrow one has invented a machine by which he can cook his dinner by the smoke from his neighbor's chimney. This same fellow sits in the back pew in church to save interest on contributions, and is always borrowing a ride to town to save the wear and tear on his own horseflesh. Yes, you know him. He's a first cousin to the man who never winds up his watch for fear of breaking the spring. He undoubtedly was a near relative of the man who went into the back yard during the recent cold snap, soaked his hair in water, let it freeze, and then broke it off in order to cheat the barber out of a hair cut.—Topeka Daily Capital.

Eats Glass Like Candy

There is a curiosity at the Erwin Cotton Mills, a weaver, by the name of J. A. McMillen, who eats glass as he would a stick of candy—chews it up and swallows it with a hearty relish. He gave an exhibition of his powers yesterday evening when he chewed up a lamp chimney, showed the particles in his mouth, then took a big draught of water and down went the masticated chimney as if it had been aainty morsel. This is a fact. He once traveled with a show. He says he can dance barefooted on red hot iron, and split the back of any chair in Durham with his teeth. He is indeed a curiosity.—Durham Sun.

What Could He Say?

Even in the best regulated families things sometimes "gang aglee."

A certain man in our town set out the other day to celebrate his little son's birthday, and went down cellar to make him a freezer of ice cream.

He was going to an afternoon tea, and had just twenty minutes in which to freeze the cream.

He managed to crack the ice and three of his fingers in the first five minutes.

Then he gouged a hole in the palm of his hand with the ice pick. He finally got the freezer packed, and flew at the crank with bloody hands and made it revolve at the rate of a million revolutions an hour.

One can always tell by the way the freezer turns when the cream is stiffening, but at the end of twenty minutes that freezer was gyrating around as easily as when he began; so he flung off his coat, got a little madder, and increased the number of revolutions by a quarter of a million.

At the end of ten minutes the thing was still flying around with no indications of the cream "coming."

Finally he jerked off the lid and then fell down in the dead faint, frothing at the mouth.

All that terrific effort had been expended on an absolutely empty freezer.

The cream was up stairs on the kitchen table.

It was a birthday and a festive occasion, and the dignity of the head of the family must be maintained.

But he was down cellar and alone.—Boston Beacon.

The average cost of producing an ounce of silver in the United States is said to be 51.1 cents an ounce, and because of this fact the gold men argue that free coinage ought to be denied to silver. It costs even less to mine gold. By the same parity of reasoning, gold would have to go down to the labor cost of production.—Raleigh News and Observer.

An agricultural exchange asks "How to make hogs pay?" This is a hard question to answer. The best way to avoid the difficulty is not to sell a hog anything unless he pays for it in advance.—Orange (Va.) Observer.

The Yellow Scourge.

BALTIMORE, Md., June 25.—The American barkentine Priscilla, Capt. Klags, arrived here to-day from Rio and Santos, with coffee. Capt. Klags says that at Santos men are dropping dead in the streets, dying by scores in the city and on the vessels in port. Some of the vessels had their flags at half mast, for weeks, as man after man of their crews succumbed to the disease. The death boat was being rowed about the harbor day and night from vessel to vessel collecting the dead and taking them ashore for burial. Some of the vessels had only one or two men left of their entire crews and many of them were unable to get away from the pest-hole of fever owing to the lack of men.

Sow Field Peas.

How long can you get work out of a horse if you never feed him? How long would a cow give milk if she was not allowed proper food? How long does a mill wheel turn after the water gate is snut down? Same way with your land. Crop after crop is taken off—nothing put back—the land starves. Not so with those that are fertilized generously. All lands under cultivation need shade and enrichment; pea vines supply both and make one of the best fertilizers in the world. Sow peas, sow them with lavish hand and give your land what it needs.

Working For Home.

The women of Tacoma, Wash., are engaged in a very active crusade in favor of "home industries" They have formed a league whose members pledge themselves to give preference always to articles manufactured in Tacoma or produced in the State, and to labor to bring others to their principles. The women are working in the matter with an astonishing vigor and have succeeded in booming local trade to a notable extent. One feature of the crusade is a badge worn by members of the Home Industry League and another is the printing of a list of home manufactured articles which is supplied to every household in the town.

ARTIFICIAL PERFUMES.

Most of the Natural Odors Can Be Imitated.

The natural perfumes are nearly all of vegetable origin, derived from flowers and fruits, musk being the only animal perfume of importance. The odors of fruits, however, have been long imitated with the aldehydes and ethers of fatty acids. Mixtures of these give the odors of strawberries, raspberries, apples, pears, etc. The aroma of rum and cognac and the bouquet of wines are produced artificially. Of substances more especially intended as perfumes are methyl-salicylic ether, imitating the odor of wintergreen, and nitrobenzene, giving the odor of oil of bitter almonds. Vanillin, first obtained in 1874 from a product of coniferous trees, and now extensively manufactured from other products by a number of processes, imitates the odoriferous principle of the vanilla bean. Spirits of turpentine yield a perfume known as lily of the valley or lilac. The most recent discoveries are methods of producing the perfume of musk and that of the violet, the former dating back to 1880 and the latter having been announced last year.—N. Y. Ledger.

A Sensible Girl.

A young girl came to New York last winter to study art. She was alone, almost penniless and well-nigh friendless. The one person that she knew in the big, strange city was, however, a woman of means and influence. She was also a woman of sense, and so, instead of simply providing the girl with the wherewithal to study, she gave her advice. "Earn the money yourself," she said, "and your success will be all the sweeter for having done so." She further recommended domestic service as the safest and easiest means of procuring the desired capital. The girl accepted the advice and obtained a place as housemaid with a suburban family. Her wages were good, she had a comfortable home, her wants were few, and before long she was saving money. Next winter she will enter the art school. But how many young women would have been willing to do the same thing?

Irving's Power.

It is a tribute to Mr. Irving's genius that when he acted "The Story of Waterloo" the other day so great was the emotion that men wept and women fainted. We recall the performance of Mr. Irving during his first visit to this country, when he was playing "Charles I." that the same thing happened in the Boston theater. So bitterly did some women weep that they withdrew to the dressing-room of the theater and had hysterics all by themselves, which shows how much genuine feeling had been excited by that great and dolorful interpretation of a king.
