His Arm Amputated.

On Monday, 15th, Mr. Nelson Warren, a young man of Carolina township, got his hand badly cut by an edging saw at Woolard's mill. The cut was so bad that mortification resulted, and to-day Drs. B. Cheers and F. W. Brown amputated his arm below the elbow. Last summer both parents of young Warren died, leaving several small children to be provided for by him, and it was while trying to make a support for these that he met with the accident that cost him his arm. It is a sad case.

The hot spell continues unbroken.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

The man who is afraid to put his money in any enterprise and still expects it to increase ought to be yoked to the fellow who expects to raise a crop of corn without putting his seed corn in the ground. Money like muscle grows by use and not by lying still.

The efforts of the New Orleans and other Cotton Exchanges in the direction of securing better bagging and baling for cotton for shipment have already it is said, been productive of good results. It is reported that the coming crop, will be put in better bagging than heretofore, and attempts will also be made toward greater uniformity in baling. There has been much complaint especially from Liverpool, of poor bagging and baling of American cotton, and the change for the better that is now being made will prove advantageous in several quarters.

The North Carolina Press Association discussed two very important questions pertaining to the present laws in our State. One was a reform in the present jury system relative to criminal cases. A resolution was adopted with this end in view. The idea is to give the State an equal chance in a murder case with the defendant—something like the same number of challenges in the selection of a jurymen as is now given the defendant. This will open up an interesting and important discussion upon the jury system and no doubt bring about some improvements along this line. The other question was upon our present libel law, which is a sweeping measure, and needs remodeling so that justice may be given both sides. These are very important questions, and concern the whole people.—Durham Sun.

Weather Crop Bulletin.

The reports of correspondents of the Weekly Weather Crop Bulletin, issued by the North Carolina State Weather Service, for the week ending Saturday, July 20, 1895, indicate, on the whole, a favorable week, though more than usual reports are received of damage by dryness and local storms. The temperature was above normal, with abundant sunshine. A large number of counties had good showers. In some places drought is beginning to prevail, though no great damage is reported as yet. Violent rain, hail and wind storms occurred on Friday in several counties in the Central and Eastern Districts. Curing tobacco progressing with good results. Fall Irish potatoes being planted. Melons coming in slowly, seem to be late and poor.

EASTERN DISTRICT

The past week was warm with plenty of sunshine, and on the whole favorable for crops, though as is usual at this season the rain fall was unevenly distributed. At many places it is very dry, though no real damage results as yet. Heavy rain and wind storms Friday injured crops, especially tobacco at Farmville, Pitt county, and Nashville, Nash county. Cotton getting plenty of weed; in fact, reported as growing too fast in the south, but blooms and squares short; lice seem to be disappearing in many sections. Tobacco fine; cutting and curing going on with excellent results. Fall crop of Irish potatoes being planted. Melons coming in, and shipments begun. River rice fields well worked and rice promising. Much complaint of cholera among the hogs.

Archdeacon Cust.

Archdeacon Cust, who died recently in England at the age of ninety-one, was one of the founders, in 1825, of the Lady Margaret Boat club, the first boat club in Cambridge to row an eight-oared boat. He pulled bow, and was the last survivor of a crew in which rowed Bishop Selwyn, the first bishop of New Zealand; Bishop Tyrell, of Newcastle, and Dean Merivale of Ely, the historian of the Roman empire.

Belated.

The traveler shaded his eyes with his hand and looked anxiously about him.

"Is there a man in the village," he asked, "who can shoe a horse?"

"Yes, sir," said a boy in the crowd, "but he's busy mendin' a horseless carriage, and there's six broken bicycles ahead o' you, besides. You'd better go to the next town, mister."—Chicago Tribune.

IT IS A DISEASE.

Dr. Berillon's Idea of the Nail Biting Habit.

The Famous Frenchman Says It Cannot Be Cured by Punishment Any More Than Can Croup or Measles.

That the habit of nail biting is a disease among children, and not merely a naughty trick, to be cured by punishment, is the scientific opinion of the famous Frenchman, Dr. Edgar Berillon, who was at one time associated with Charcot and is at present secretary of the French Society of Hypnology and inspector of state lunatic asylums.

Berillon names this so-called disease "onachophagie," which at once gives an air of importance to the discussion, and he states as the results of nine years' study and experimenting that it is an unerring sign of incipient degeneration of the nervous system. He holds that a child displaying any tendency toward nail biting should at once be put under a physician's care, instead of being teased and punished.

The habit is more prevalent among girls than boys, and is probably due to the fact—although this is not brought out in Berillon's recent papers—that boys are permitted to live healthier lives, with more exercise and out-of-door sports. In the report, made from an examination of one of the average mixed schools of Paris, the percentage of nail biters among the girls was found to be fifty, while among the boys it was only twenty. This habit was usually observed among the poorer students. Several instructors in the Paris schools for manual training have pronounced the habitual nail biters hardest to teach, and often totally unfit for technical education. On rare occasions nail-biting children were found to be "infant prodigies," but with a superficial cleverness, invariably outgrown.

Although the disease is frequently inherited, it is more often the result of imitation, which practically renders it contagious. In English schools the habit is considered so harmful and so easily contracted that the nail-biting children are isolated and taught in separate classes, besides being subjected to severe and public reprimands. The idea of punishing a nail biter Berillon regards as showing about as much judgment as would be manifested in scolding or whipping a child for having croup or measles, but that the habit demands careful and intelligent treatment cannot be doubted, for not only is it on the increase, but in many cases it is accompanied in the second and third generations by marked signs of physical degeneration.

The extent to which it prevails in England can be estimated from the fact that in one school of thirty children whose parents were of the middle class, at least fifty per cent. were nail biters. In America the disease is prevalent to a marked degree. It may be noticed at every turn on the streets, in the schools and on the street cars. Wherever there is a group of school children of any size, some of the boys and girls will be found devouring their nails, and sometimes fingers as well.

The fact that after a time the habit becomes automatic makes the curing of it a difficult undertaking; but Berillon believes that it can be done, and advocates the grouping of these children into classes, where they may be subjected to special discipline and hygienic treatment. As, however, the habit is the result of nervous degeneration, it can be as easily treated at home. A nerve tonic, good food and plenty of exercise, are all the physical treatment necessary. For curing the "after habit" with children, which may linger after the cause is removed, Berillon suggests that the child's resolution should be appealed to, and that he be taught to regard the habit as unworthy.—N. Y. Recorder.

ELECTRICITY AT SEA.

Tests Prove That the White Light Is the Most Easily Seen.

Some interesting experiments have been made on the visibility of the electric light at sea by the governments of the United States, Germany and the Netherlands. The word "visible" in the report on the tests means visible on a dark night with a clear atmosphere. The result of the experience of the German committee was that a white light of 1 tallow candle power was visible 1.4 miles on a dark, clear night, and 1 mile on a rainy night. The American tests resulted as follows: In very clear weather a light of 1 candle power was plainly visible at 1 nautical mile; one of 3 candle power at 2 miles, one of 10 candle power was seen by the aid of a binocular at 4 miles; one of 20 candle power faintly at 5 miles, and one of 33 candle power plainly at 5 miles. On an exceptionally clear night a white light of 3.2 candle power was readily distinguished at 3 miles; one of 5.6 candle power at 4 miles and of 17.2 candle power at 5 miles. In the Dutch experiments the results were almost similar, but a 16 candle power light was plainly visible at 5 miles. For a green light the power required was 2 for 1 mile, 15 for 2 miles, 51 for 3 miles and 106 for 4 miles. The results of tests with a red light were almost identical with those with green, but it was conclusively proved that a white light was by far the most easily seen.—Chicago Record.

WANTS WANTED.

Persons awaiting the Man Who Will Invent a Portable Bath Tub

The excursions of the bicyclist into every civilized corner of the land have brought out for the first time a very important industrial fact, namely, that a fortune is awaiting the inventor who can put upon the market a cheap, compact bath, preferably of tin, just large enough to hold sufficient water for a washdown, but of convenient shape for handling and stowing away. To the wheelman there is no greater luxury than a bath at the end of his long spin, and he is comparatively seldom able to get one. Although our American cities are, on the average, far ahead of European cities in provisions for promoting hygienic conditions, and the personal cleanliness of their inhabitants, our rural districts are far behind. In many villages there is not a single bath to be found, and many of the inhabitants are not even as conscientious in the matter of ablutions as the villager who maintained that "he took a bath once a year, whether he needed it or not." With the spread of athletic sports the practice of "tubbing" is growing in this country. It would be a boon that most wheelmen would be ready to show their appreciation of to be able to rely on the use of the bath tub in the farmhouse to which their wanderings might lead them. Such a tub as that suggested, which could hold, say, a couple of pails of water, would cause the minimum amount of trouble. It would entail but slight expense, and no great stretch of mechanical ingenuity to run pipes from the well to the bathroom and to make arrangements whereby the bicyclist could hitch on his wheel and with a few turns pump up the water for himself direct to the bath.
