IN THE STATE.

Record of Matters of General Interest.

Eight hundred and sixty thousand dollars have been invested in cotton mills in North Carolina within the last week.

The Marion Record says the cattle of that section are dying fast with some disease that resembles the distemper. Eight or ten cows have died within the last few weeks.

Keeping Everlastingly At It.

Genius is really only the power of making continuous efforts. The line between failure and success is so fine that we scarcely know it when we pass it—so fine that we are often on the line and don't know it. How many a man has thrown up his hands at a time when a little more effort, a little more patience, would have achieved success.

As the tide goes clear out, so it comes clear in. In business, sometimes, prospects seem darkest when really they are on the turn. A little more persistence, a little more effort, and what seemed hopeless failure may turn to glorious success. There is no failure except in no longer trying. There is no defeat except from within, no really insurmountable barrier save our own inherent weakness of purpose.—Electrical News.

Go to Guessing.

Talking about puzzles, a man tells us that another man told him that he saw a new method of cultivation in operation on a farm. The cultivation was done by means of a plow that required the services of neither man nor horse in its management. Now how was it operated? No premium for correct answers.

The Sunday School Picnic.

What a delightful time! was the exclamation of every one as the R. L. Myers steamed slowly up to her wharf, at 8:30 Friday afternoon, laden with the happiest, merriest party of pleasure seekers ever gathered on her much frequented decks. It was the occasion of the annual summer outing of the Baptist Sunday school. But through the courteous kindness of teachers and children, the Sunday-school did not compose the entire personnel of the party and visitors, of whom your reporter was one, have many thanks to return for a most enjoyable evening. The boat left the wharf at 4:30 making her way under the management of the genial Capt. Parvin to Yankee Hall, while children and grown folks gave themselves up to "unstrained pleasure free" and all that innocence and youth know so well how to enjoy on such occasions. Refreshments under the efficient management of Mesdames, Jarvis, Rountree, and Whichard were distributed by fair hands in the form of refreshing saucers piled high of ice cream. Quality was not its only merit as this fact goes to prove. "Tell that person"—there were several on deck—said one of the chaperones, "that eight saucers is enough to freeze him as stiff as the mere de glass." Let your reporter here explain that he heard his own name used many times surreptitiously around the freezers in demand for saucers which he never got.

The editor, as he handed us our ticket stipulated for many jokes, so with pencil in hand we made the rounds earnestly requesting jokes, but in vain. The nearest we came to finding one was the response to look at lawyer Fleming. Well, we saw many more such, but submit we were not artist enough to do them justice. The party just in front of the pilot house, it is true, seemed engaged in some "white hand" episode, but there was an absence of billings and cooings to add flavor. Prof. W. F. Harding who was in command of the joke bureau, will supply others on application.

Among sundry ear-splitting yells and cheers of we don't just know what from the urchins, the Myers grated her pier much too early by unanimous agreement. We would fain have seen more of the moon and more of each other under its sympathetic rays. W.

New Houses.

Building goes on so fast in Greenville that new houses assume shape almost before one is aware of it. Friday evening we noticed the frame of a building standing near the Greenville Warehouse, when we did not remember seeing even a piece of lumber there when passing the same way during the morning. Inquiring about it disclosed the fact that this building is to be used for a restaurant.

Dictionary of Discontent

Science, Dear Lady Betty, has diminished hope, knowledge destroyed our illusions and experience has deprived us of interest. Here, then, is the authorized dictionary of discontent.

What is creation? A failure.

What is life? A bore.

What is man? A fraud.

What is woman? Both a fraud and a bore.

What is beauty? A deception.

What is love? A disease.

What is marriage? A mistake.

What is a wife? A trial.

What is a child? A nuisance.

What is the devil? A fable.

What is good? Hypocrisy.

What is evil? Detection.

What is wisdom? Selfishness.

What is happiness? A delusion.

What is friendship? Humbug.

What is generosity? Imbecility.

What is money? Everything.

What is everything? Nothing.

Were we, perhaps, not happier when we were monkeys?

A Very Old Gander.

Deputy Sheriff George W. Teer, who lives on Chapel Hill street, has a gander that is getting along up in years. Mr. Teer who was married 20 years ago, says that the gander was owned by his wife when they were married and was then 12 years old, which would make it 32 years old now. He was hatched in 1863 and has been owned by Mrs. Teer all his life. Mr. Teer says, that, notwithstanding his age, he is a good fighter yet and often whips out geese, chickens and sometimes children when they get too near him. Score this one for Durham.—Durham Sun.

Thirty four years ago Sunday was fought the first great battle of the civil war, along the creek called Bull Run, at Manassas Junction, in Virginia. The battle and the extraordinary panic in which it ended were picturesque beyond anything else in the history of the civil conflict, and they have formed the subject of writings voluminous enough to fill whole libraries. Yet so completely have the passions of civil war subsided, and so universally are the American people looking forward rather than backward, that the anniversary of Bull Run is probably not even noticed by one in ten of those who fought in the battle or of the millions to whom at the time it seemed an event of stupendous importance.—N. Y. World.

Some Queer Items.

In "Pike's History of Crimes," vol. 1, page 226, may be found the following copy of the sentence of an old-time traitor: "It is the order of the court that for your treason you be drawn and hanged and beheaded, and that your heart, bowels and entrails, from whence come your traitorous thoughts, be torn out and burnt to ashes, and that the ashes be scattered to the four winds, and that your body be afterward cut into four quarters."

The latest in the way of inducements offered by a clergyman for attendance at church services is the following printed notice said to have been plentifully distributed in the Whitechapel neighborhood, London, for a week past: "If you want a smoke, (free) come next Sunday afternoon, at 3 o'clock, to Christ church Hall. A free cup of tea, if you like. Tobacco gratis."

The persons of African descent in the United States are classified according to the degrees of colored blood into 6,337,980 blacks, 956,989 mulattoes, 105,135 quadroons and 60,936 octoroons.

Short Sermons.

It hurts the corns on the feet of some people much more to go to church than to market.

People with brains are careful to educate them; those without sometimes educate the feet.

Many people use an oath to try and cover up a lie.

The collection plate is one of the best tests of a man's religion.

Sorrow is but the blackboard upon which God writes his most precious promises.

Every temptation should remind you that the devil is your enemy, and God is your friend.

The ear that is always open to hear slander becomes a common cess pool for the neighborhood.

THE UPWARD GLANCE.

It Is Not Equally Effective in All Kinds of Women.

The Use of Floor Cushions Is Delightful But the Fair Maidens Must Be Careful How They Roll Their Eyes — Good Advice.

With the advent of Turkish rooms and various oriental decorations came also the delightful fashion of floor cushions, says the New York World. Nothing gives a room such a cozy appearance, and surely nothing is less difficult or expensive to own.

They are charming in the drawing-room or sitting-room near the open grate fire, or on the veranda in the summer twilight.

If finished with large brass rings they are easily moved about, placed, perhaps, near the great armchair, where some one is telling a thrilling story, or piled at the head of the lounge, where a near and dear friend is stretched languid and weary and longing to be fanned from just such a vantage point.

But the girl who is addicted to the use of floor cushions must beware. To use them well requires quite a little talent and not much avoirdupois, and not only must she be agile and lithe of form, but she must also be one of the women who are at their best looking up.

That women differ in their ability to appear fascinating or even interesting when their eyes are rolled heavenward or even up to the sterner sex, en route to the celestial regions, is one of the facts constantly thrust upon one in the various crowded city conveyances, where women are more apt to be seated than their escorts.

A girl, to look well while talking to some one who stoops to her, must be able to roll her eyes upward without having them disappear under the lids showing thereby to her cavalier only an expanse of white that is far more apt to be startling than captivating in effect. She must also possess a flexible spine, so that her head moves backward easily and gracefully, revealing a rounded throat and not an unsightly display of muscles.

Very often a girl who is not at her best looking up can talk well and effectively with eyes cast down and lashes drooping. If natural, it is a pretty, modest pose, and far more interesting than a shower of glances meant to be coquettish, but failing utterly from physical deficiencies.

Many a girl who is distinguished in appearance and wholly captivating in manner when seated on tete-a-tete or standing by a table or leaning on a chair is awkward and ill at ease if compelled to throw her head back and look up while conversing. Such a girl should avoid the enticing charms of the floor cushions. They are not for her.

They are for the young woman who curls thereon with unconscious oriental grace, whose every upward glance is a revelation of a new witchery and charm, until her auditors are forced to the conclusion that in some previous incarnation she must have been a dusky sultana or an Indian princess, whose only object in life was to loll on soft cushions.

A NOVEL AND AMUSING FEATURE OF THE AFFAIR.

Guests Dance on the Sidewalk to the Music of a Machine Piano — This, Too, in the Broad Light of Day.

A quadrille in the middle of the street by young society people and in broad daylight was one of several novel and amusing features attending a South side wedding reception, says the Chicago Times-Herald. Miss Clara Agnes Middleton and Collins F. Huntington were married at noon in St. John's church. After the ceremony forty or fifty intimate friends were invited to the home of the bride's parents. The bride is well known in South side society and musical circles and has often appeared as soprano in operas presented by the Carleton club, of which the groom is a member.

No sooner had the bride and groom left the reception rooms to prepare for their wedding journey than a street piano carted on a low express wagon, and driven by a woman with a gayly colored shawl over her shoulders, drove past the house. Hailing the driver, who was accompanied by a man who might be her husband, the Carleton club boys engaged their services for an hour. Selections such as "Daisy Bell" and "The Sidewalks of New York" were given. Then the best man decided that the circus was a trifle slow, and, boosting a pretty young woman in a pink dress and a pair of ten-acre sleeves upon the seat, ordered the chief operator of the outfit to run alongside of the machine and turn the crank, while he drove up and down the street.

After making the circle three or four times the queer combination drove to the front of the house again; the "head guy" of the organ was again subsidized, and then a quadrille was organized in the middle of the street. Here, to the inspiring strains of "Sweet Marie," ground out by the traveling professor, four pretty girls in their prettiest gowns, and four young society men, adorned in all the raiment necessary to make a church wedding a success, tripped an old-time quadrille. The fun was kept up until the pretty gowns of the girls and the immaculate linen of the young men began to wear a wearied look.

The music was continued until the bridal couple drove away in a carriage neatly draped in white ribbons and adorned with a coat of arms hanging to the rear axle in form of a much-worn and generous-sized shoe.

Str. Arthur Sullivan tells this story on himself in the Strand Musical Magazine: "Together with a party of friends, I was once traversing a rather uncivilized district in the state of California, when we stopped at a mining camp for some refreshments. The driver informed me that I was expected there, and, feeling rather gratified to hear this, I made my way to the whisky store. Three or four fellows were lounging about, and one approached a big, sturdy man, who was standing near me, and said to him: 'Are you Mr. Sullivan?' The man shook his head, and pointed his finger in my direction. After looking me up and down, the man demanded: 'What do you weigh?' 'About one hundred and sixty-two pounds,' was my reply. 'Pooh!' said my interrogator, 'that's a queer start. Do you mean to tell me you gave J. Blackman fits in Kansas City?' 'Certainly not,' I answered. 'Well, who are you, anyway?' I answered my name was Sullivan. Quite disappointed, he said: 'Oh, ain't you John L. Sullivan the slugger?' 'No, I am only Arthur Sullivan,' I replied. 'What!' he said, with evident surprise, 'are you the man as put "Pinafore" together?' I said 'yes,' and smiled at him. 'Well, I never,' he answered; 'but I'm glad to meet you, anyway. Come and take a drink with us.'"

The fourteen wealthiest counties in North Carolina are given in the following, according to property; the largest counties are named first: Wake, ten millions; Buncombe, ten millions; Mecklenburg, nearly ten; New Hanover, eight and three-fourths; Forsyth, eight; Durham and Guilford, nearly five each; Wayne and Rowan, each seven; Rockingham, Robeson, Granville, Iredell and Johnston each have a little over four millions.

Scanning our State exchanges for this week and noting their accounts of the late Press Convention and trip to Morehead has afforded a deal of interesting reading.

Gave Leg Bail.

The trial of M. L. Carter, the newsboy, which was set for this morning did not take place, Carter being conspicuous by his absence. He went up to the depot Thursday presumably to arrange his bond and has not been seen here since. It is supposed that he was so badly frightened over being arrested that he left on foot at first opportunity. From what can be gathered there was not much of a case against him and no need of his being afraid to stand trial.
