LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS

BY O. L. JOYNER.

The Warehouse Business not a Paying One.

The Danville Tobacco Journal of the 20th inst. says: The three warehouses, Hodnett's, Exchange and Star, are for rent after October 1st next. The remaining eight warehouse firms came to an agreement among themselves to rent the three above named houses, use the forces in their employ in conducting them and sustaining the losses, if any, or dividing the profits, if any, equally among the eight warehouse firms. The property has been leased and will be run according to agreement outlined above after October 1st, when the leases of the present occupants expire. This move is just what it purports to be, and nothing more than an effort to curtail warehouse expenses to a degree at least that will enable those interested to derive a profit sufficient to support their families.

It is no secret that competition for trade among the warehousemen, not only of Danville, is so strong that the warehouse business has become a losing business to most of those engaged in it, and if some steps are not taken very soon to break up the cut competition, this large and important business which should prove a lucrative one, will have to be relegated to irresponsible and adventurous persons, for no man of means, as the business is now being conducted, can afford to embark in it.

These leading warehouses closed down because there was not money enough in the business to make them sustaining, and that on the largest tobacco market in the world, the same tobacco market that was taken as a model and by whose rate of charges the late North Carolina legislature regulated the warehouse charges of all the tobacco warehouses of North Carolina.

Norfolk Libel Suit.

The jury in the case of John E. Massey, State Superintendent of Public Instruction against the Norfolk (Va.) Pilot and others, for libel, Saturday afternoon rendered a verdict giving Mr. Massey $1,600 damages against the Pilot Publishing Co., Sam W. Small and R. E. Byrd. The jury before leaving their room, took a pledge not to divulge the individual standing, consequently nothing is known as how they stood except that ten of the members were for heavy damages, ranging as high as $30,000. One was for giving Mr. Massey 1 cent, and another was in favor of the defence. Judge Heath, of counsel for the defence, moved to set aside the verdict which was refused by Judge Prentis. It is said that the defence will not take an appeal. Mr. Massey's attorneys appear to be satisfied. One of them said that so far as the matter of money was concerned that $1,600 was as good as $16,000 as nothing could be made out of the Pilot Co., Small or Byrd, and that all Mr. Massey desired was vindication before the country.

There's only one right way to advertise, and that is to hammer your name, your location and your business so constantly, so insistently and so thoroughly into the people's heads that if they walk in their sleep they will instinctively turn their steps toward your store.—Brains.

COTTON FOR A HUNDRED YEARS.

The Prices and Fluctuations.

The bulletin on "the prices of cotton for 100 years," which the Department of Agriculture has had in course of preparation for some weeks, has been issued. The period considered begins and ends with two of the most important events in the history of cotton culture: the introduction of Whitney's saw gin (1785) and the production of the largest crop the world has ever seen, 1894 '95.

The highest and lowest average prices of the crops of the United States, the exports to foreign countries, the supply and consumption in the United States, Great Britain and continental Europe are given for each year, as well as the chief causes that have led to the rise and fall in prices from year to year.

In addition to a series of tables in which these facts and figures are presented the bulletin contains numerous data relating to the progress made from time to time in the production and consumption of cotton in this and foreign countries. These are so arranged as to present a brief historical sketch of cotton production and consumption in the United States during the past century. The tables show that prices of cotton have not been so low during the past season as they were during the decade from 1840 to 1850.

The object of the Department has been to make this bulletin a valuable work of reference as to the production, consumption and prices of cotton and other numerous facts relating to cotton, for all who are interested either in cotton planting or in the cotton trade.

Referring to the conditions of the market and prices in the decade from 1840 to 1850, the bulletin says:

"In 1840, the largest crop ever made up to that time, and the largest accumulation of stocks ever witnessed in Liverpool, caused a decline to the lowest average for ten years. This was the beginning of the heavy accumulation of stocks in Europe during the next five years, which led to an extraordinary decline in prices."

The highest price per pound in New York that decade was 13½ cents, in 1850, and the lowest, 5 cents, in 1842 and 1844. Shep-erson quoted middling in that year as low as 4 cents.

"In 1842," continues the bulletin, "middling to fair cotton reached as low as 5½ cents in New Orleans, and there is on file in the Department of Agriculture a letter showing that a Marengo county, Alabama, planter sold this year 17 bales of cotton in Mobile at 3¼ cents. The price currents of the day quote middling to fair cotton in New Orleans in 1845 as low as 4½ cents, and in Mobile the same year, 3¼ cents per pound."

With respect to the lustrum ended with 1895, it is shown that the highest price per pound in New York was 10½ cents in 1891, and the lowest 5 9-16 cents, the present year.

A table of the fluctuation in prices shows that in 1825 it amounted to 18 cents per pound; in 1837 to 12½ cents; in 1865 to 1.21; in 1865 to 1.47, and in 1886 to only .86 of a cent, the smallest on record.

Connecticut Tobacco Crop Damaged By Hail.

Latest accounts of the damage to tobacco in Connecticut by hail stones last Saturday state that in Gastonbury alone 300 acres of tobacco was ruined. The greatest damage was done in that vicinity. It was calculated that the weight of the hail stones on a four acre tract was sixty-four tons. The hail was gathered from a section 8 by 16 feet and weighed, and it was found that the fall was 200 pounds to the square rod, or 32,000 pounds to the acre.

On the east side of the river the tobacco crop from north of east Windsor Hill to Gastonbury is ruined, except a few acres of small plants recently set out.

The Bonsack Company's Suit Against Winston Cigarette Manufacturers.

The suits of the Bonsack Cigarette Machine Company and the American Tobacco Company against five manufacturing firms of Winston, and one of Thomasville, N. C., was opened before Judge Simonton, at Asheville, N. C. last Tuesday, with the stipulation that the result in one case shall govern all.

The plaintiffs allege that the Briggs cigarette machine is an infringement of the Bonsack patents, and in this suit they seek to have it declared an infringement and to have a perpetual injunction issued. The main claim of infringement is upon the endless belt used in the formation of cigarettes, upon which device the plaintiffs claim a patent.

The defendants claim that the Briggs machine is constructed on an entirely different principle from the Bonsack and the patents it controls, and that there has not been anything on the market like it. The Briggs machine makes 300 cigarettes a minute.

The parties to the defense are W. S. Smith & Son, the Brown Bros. Company, the Winston Cigarette Machine Company, the Liberty Tobacco Company Works and J. A. Vance, all of Winston, J. A. Leach & Co., of Thomasville N. C.

All the testimony has been taken, and appears in a large bound volume on the attorney's desks. A Briggs machine is set up ready for action, and is to be operated during the hearing.

A decision is not looked for this week.

The reason why some towns grow into cities, while others remain villages is because there are men of push and energy who are not afraid to spend time and money in erecting factories, organizing stock companies and all pulling together. Let the people of the town lay aside all differences and pull together. If you can't pull, push.—Weldon News.

It is said that roaches are killed outright by the poisonous water exhaled from cucumber peeling scattered about the floor at night, and that two or three repetitions will exterminate them root and branch. It is worth trying.

Success.

The world measures a man by his success. If he succeeds, he is all right in public estimation, no matter by what means he has attained it. The world has not time to look into the methods by which the success has been attained and whether they be honorable or otherwise.

There are some important lessons to be learned from this fact: foremost of which is that every man should strive for success. Applause follows it. Everybody bows to the winning man. But, important as it is to succeed, success ought to be gained only by honorable means. Honesty is the best policy, and the wisest in the end, and a permanent success can only be attained by honorable means. Many a man gains temporary success by dishonest means and flourishes for a while; but he is found out and his success flies away, and is gone.—Exchange.

There's Something in Dreams.

A merchant dreamed that he used a page to advertise his store, and in his dream he saw a stream of buyers pass in at the door. They came by twos, by tens and scores; they came on foot and by rail. They sent their friends to purchase for them; they sent big orders by mail. They bought all he had, so he stopped the ad, till he could stock up once more. His slumbers broke and he awoke—his dream of affluence was o'er.

But the vision bright haunted him day and night, till he went and advertised; and now he's glad, for through his ad his dream is realized.—C. W. Darling in Printers' Ink.

Davidson County's Record.

Since the war there have been seventeen homicides in Davidson county and not a conviction. Five or six years ago a man was lynched in that county for a homicide, and at another period one submitted for manslaughter. These are the only cases in which punishment has followed the crime for killing. The record is not one for the county of Davidson or the State of North Carolina to be proud of.—Charlotte Observer.

Successful Newspapers.

When a newspaper, says an exchange, reaches such a commanding position in a community that its superiority is never seriously called in question, when its circulation increases, the cause of all these things are not the result of chance or accident. They have not been brought about by the employment of cheap methods, but only by persistent and earnest effort and a stern determination to give to the community the very best newspaper that can be published.
