That Wonderful Baby Boy.

The proud young mother had come to pay her visit accompanied by the infant heir and his nurse.

"I don't wish to appear in any way partial," said she, "but really for a child of sixteen months I consider Algernon a marvel of intelligence. He understands every word that is said and joins in the conversation with a sagacity that almost astounds me at times. Speak to the lady, Algernon."

"Boo-boo," said Algernon.

"Listen to that!" cried the delighted mother. "He means, 'How do?' Isn't it wonderful?"

"Now, Algernon, ask the lady to play for you." (He addresses the piano.) "Now, Algie, dear, (very coaxingly.)

"Boo-boo!" said Algernon.

"He means 'Music' by that: 'Boo-boo'—'music.' Isn't he too smart for anything? Now, love, tell the lady mamma's name!"

"Boo-boo?" said Algernon.

"That's right. 'Boo-boo'—'Louise!' My name's Louise, you know. Oh, dear, I do hope he isn't too clever to live! Now, say by-by to the lady, precious."

"Boo-boo!" said Algernon.

"'Boo-boo'—'by-by.' Why, upon my word there's hardly any difference. Bless his little darling heart! Isn't he a wonder?"

The Right Way.

The Kinston tobacco market opens next Thursday. The Free Press publishes a long list of premiums offered by the merchants of the town to farmers selling tobacco there. That shows the whole town to be interested in establishing the market.

The Collision.

A special train made up at Greensboro on Tuesday, taking several fire companies to the convention at Newbern, collided with a freight train at Haw River. Several persons were injured, one thought to be fatally hurt. The caboose and two cars of the freight train were knocked into splinters. The collision occurred on a bridge and it is almost miraculous that the passenger cars did not leave the track and fall in to the river, 60 feet below.

Just Try Us.

There is not a family in Greenville who should be without the REFLECTOR. Greenville is not the largest town in the world, but we could make the DAILY REFLECTOR a much better paper than it is if every person in town would give it the patronage it should have from them. You may say this is idle boasting, but if every business and professional man in Greenville advertised regularly in the Daily, and every family in town subscribed for it, we would soon be giving you the afternoon press dispatches every day. You see what it is possible for this town to have if the people would give home enterprises the support they ought to.

Not Good Logic.

We saw a man trying to sell some watermelons to a merchant. After examining them the merchant offered a certain price all around for the whole load, when the man remarked: "I will haul them back home and give them to my hogs before I will take that price for them." "Well," replied the merchant, "do you think they to make room for them. Come, name your figure and take the goods.

FRANK WILSON,

The King Clothier.

will be worth to your hogs as much as I have offered you!"

"No," said the man, but I had rather lose than to see you make a big profit on them." That struck us as a peculiar business idea—one man willing to lose money rather than see another man make a profit on a purchase from him.

Some Pitt County People.

A friend at Grimesland sends us the following item which proves beyond doubt that there are centenarians in this section:

Mrs. Lucretia Hodges was born in Chicod township, Pitt county, July 12th, 1792. She is now living in Beaufort county near the line of Pitt and is in good health. She is the mother of seven children, has sixty grand-children, ninety-three great-grand-children and three great-great-grand-children. Her son, Mr. S. V. Hodges who is next to her youngest child, is fifty-nine years old, has seventeen living children, fifty-two grand-children and three great-grand-children.

If any county can go ahead of Pitt the REFLECTOR would like to hear from them.

The wife of Rev. T. DeWitt Talmage died a few days ago.

Heavy rains, 90 pounds to the yard, will be put down within the next sixty days on the division of the North Carolina Railroad between Greensboro and Selma.

The school census of Wilmington just finished shows the population to be 22,027, of these 9,482 are white and 12,545 are colored. There are 8,555 school children in the city.

THE PEANUT CROP.

Mess. Holmes and Dawson have given to the Norfolk Journal of Commerce a report on the growing crop of peanuts in Virginia and North Carolina. They sent out the following enquiries concerning the crop between 10th and 30th of July:

1. What is the acreage planted in your neighborhood, as compared with last year? Is it more or less, and what proportion?

2. How is the stand?

3. Was the planting season favorable or unfavorable?

4. As the planting season is conceded to be late, will favorable seasons from now on bring the crop up to a good average?

To the first question 30 per cent. of the answers said about same number of acres as last year; 8 per cent. said a slight increase, and 62 per cent. of the answers report a decrease in acreage averaging 27 per cent. reduction.

To the second question 20 per cent. of answers said bad stand, 30 per cent. said poor stand, 26 per cent. said fair, 16 per cent. said good, and 8 per cent. said very good.

To the third question 85 per cent. of the answers said unfavorable planting season and 15 per cent. of the answers said favorable planting season.

To the fourth question 61 per cent. of the answers said it is impossible for the most favorable seasons to bring the crop up to a good average, while 39 per cent. of the answers say with good seasons the crop will come up all right.

Summing up the replies they say there is about 15 per cent. reduction in acreage. The stand is only a fair one, and the crop lacks to a good degree the favorable outlook of last year.

While the crop will not be so large the money value promises to be equal to that of last year. There will be less old stock carried over than in years; and the general quickening of activity in business circles gives reasons to expect better prices for peanuts this year.—Scotland Neck Democrat.

News comes from China of the massacre of a number of Christian missionaries in the interior of that great country, and there is talk of the going of an American man-of-war to see about it. The American government could, however, take summary steps to enforce punishment and secure indemnity if it had a better record than it has for the protection of Chinese in this country and the observance of its treaty relations with our Celestial friends.—Statesville Landmark.

Denny Griffin, an old and respected citizen living West of Greensboro, is not expected to live. He will be 90 years old on the 19th of this month and he has got it into his head that he is going to die on his birthday. He appears to have no well defined disease, but is merely wasting away with old age. He served in the Mexican war and has been drawing a pension for years, says the Record.

Be your own competitor. The man who is not constantly breaking his own record is tending toward that point where he can make no record at all.—Young Man's Era.

George J. Dowell, Jr., son of Rev. and Mrs. George J. Dowell, happened to quite a painful accident. He was attempting to mount his father's horse when the horse turned suddenly around and kicked him square in the face. At first it was thought that he was seriously wounded, but a later examination proved that no bones were broken. An ugly wound was made, beginning at the nose and encircling the left eye.—Durham Sun.

DISMAL SWAMP.

A Strange Region Full of Oddities Not Found Elsewhere.

Some Things Told by Dr. A. E. Fisher, an Ornithologist in the Federal Employ,
Who Went for the Purpose of Investigation.

"I have just returned from a visit to the Dismal swamp," said Dr. A.
E. Fisher, ornithologist of the department of agriculture, to a Washington Star writer.

"It is a strange region, full of oddities that are not to be found elsewhere. The purpose of my expedition was to investigate the fauna of the locality, and of rare mammals and birds I secured quite a number.
Snakes are abundant, and are alleged by the natives to be venomous, but all that I saw were harmless. When I picked up a good-sized one from a log and held him by the neck, the negro who was paddling for me shuddered so that he nearly upset the boat.

"I found about fifty species of birds breeding in the swamp. One of them is Swainson's warbler, which is very rare. I trapped several species of small mice—rice mice, field mice, golden mice and lemming mice. The lemming mouse is hard to catch, because it will not take any sort of bait. The only way to capture it is to set a trap in its runway. I set my traps in dry places out of water. Among other things I got two rare shrews.

"There are plenty of cattle in the swamp, small, dark, and very wild.
They are the progeny of animals that have strayed from domesticated herds. Hunters stalk and shoot them like deer. Bears are numerous.
In the autumn they feed greedily on the fruit of the sour gum. Wildcats, opossums and raccoons are not scarce, while squirrels are remarkably abundant. The squirrels have discovered an easy way to get a living, by going along the shore of Lake Drummond and picking up the nuts and berries which have fallen into the water and drifted in windrows. They trot along the logs and fish them out with their paws. Deer are common, but hard to get. In the fall hunters run them into the lake and catch them with dogs.

"There is fine fishing in Lake Drummond, which contains plenty of perch, black bass, two kinds of pickerel, three species of sunfish, and other panfish. There is no dry ground in the swamp, and one sinks at every step to his knees in mud.
The cane which forms brakes all through the south is abundant. Together with a varied undergrowth, it is tangled with vines that run up into the trees, so that half a mile an hour is a good rate of progress. One must carry a knife to cut the vines, walking being further impeded by the cat-brier, whose thorns catch in the clothing and hold on like hooks.

"The boats used in the Dismal swamp are all dug-outs, made from cypress logs, twelve feet long and very narrow. To shape such a craft properly is a nice piece of work. The novice who steps into one of these boats is apt to go out on the other side, but the native stands up and paddles with security. The water is darker than amber, and excellent to drink; it is said to be a sure cure for malaria. There is no malarial disease in the swamp. The swamp is full of magnollas from the size of bushes to trees sixty feet high.
When I was there they were full of flowers. The cypress trees are cut for shingles. The best trees for the purpose are those which fell from twenty-five to fifty years ago, and are now covered with moss. The negroes wade in and out of the moss and rotten bark. Then they cut up the log into shingles on the spot. The next best tree is one that is newly fallen, and the third quality is the tree that has to be felled."

Double Duty.

A capital story was once told of Rev. Thomas Hunt, the veteran temperance orator, who was well known in the early history of the Wyoming valley. He was a somewhat eccentric man, but possessed of remarkably quick wit, which stood him in good stead on many occasions.

During the civil war he enlisted in one of the regiments of infantry raised in the valley, and served as chaplain. One day in the very fiercest of the battle a major rode up in front of the regiment, and seeing Father Hunt at the head of the ranks, inquired, in great astonishment:

"Chaplain, what are you doing there?"

"What am I doing?" repeated the staunch old minister, quickly. "I'm cheering the hearts of the brave, and watching the heels of the cowards!"

He was evidently performing this double task so well and thoroughly that the major could find no fault with him, and left him to his self-appointed charge. Youth's Companion.

A Fireless Locomotive.

A fireless locomotive was recently used on the Aix-la-Chapelle Julich railroad. The motive power is derived from soda. The invention is based on the principle that solutions of caustic soda, which have high boiling points, liberate heat while absorbing steam. These engines eject neither smoke nor steam, and work noiselessly. Compared with coal-burning locomotives, the soda engines have a capacity equal to the former, while they are worked with greater ease and simplicity.

Mr C. M. Jones returned this morning from Newbern. He has taken a position with J. B. Cherry & Co.

THE DAILY REFLECTOR ought to be a directory of the business of Greenville. How many business houses would a stranger think the town had by looking over our advertising columns.

A Ring 224 Years Old.

Mrs. Wm. Plummer has a gold ring with a small red set in it which bears the following inscription on the inside: "L. B. W. to M. E. V., 1611." The ring has a history and has come down from generation to generation till it is nearly worn out, though the inscription is intact.—Burlington News.

Confederate Reunion.

The annual business meeting and picnic of the Bryan Grimes Camp of Confederate Soldiers of Pitt county will be held on Thursday, Sept. 5th, at the College grove in Greenville. Every old Confederate Soldier is especially invited to be present with a full basket of something to eat.

A good time is in store for the old Soldiers. Every one should be a committee of one to see some one else that all may get notice in time. The best speakers will be there to address the occasion.

There were good breaks out at the warehouses to day. As usual prices were all right.

Butter kept in refrigerators at J. L. Starkey & Co's.

You can notice the difference in the length of days now, and they grow still shorter.

New Corned Mulletts and Cod Fish at S. M. Schultz.

This is the editor's birthday. He is not yet an old man, being still on the bright side of fifty.

For the best Cigar in town go to J. L. Starkey & Co.

Not a large crowd went on the moonlight excursion Wednesday night, but they had a good time.

Still a greater reduction in summer goods at Lang's.

The train gave us a complete water haul in the way of personals Wednesday evening, not a passenger for this station.

At the firemen's contest at Newbern, Wednesday afternoon, prize for the quickest steaming, was won by the Greensboro company.

Hair singeing has become a popular way of getting off the hair and mustache. We don't believe that style has struck Greenville yet.

Mr. Alfred Forbes is having the building near his residence repaired and fitted up to be used by Miss Hortense Forbes for her music school.

The many friends of Mr. Thomas McGee, of Mount Olive, who is well known here will be pained to learn of the death of his little son, which sad event occurred last Saturday. His little daughter Mabel is quite sick now.
