Bethel Items.

BETHEL, N. C., Aug. 9th '95.

Mr. Marion Cobb, of Tarboro, is in town today on business.

Mr. Greenleaf Johnson, of Baltimore, was in town Thursday.

Miss Harriet Lewis died Wednesday. She was buried yesterday.

Mr. A. B. Cherry left Wednesday morning to spend a few weeks in the mountains in and around Asheville.

Mrs. Jennette E. Rollins had a stroke of paralysis yesterday evening from which she died today about 11 o'clock A. M.

Mr. H. E. Gilliam, of Virginia, is in town today working in the interest of the "American Mutual Benefit Society," of Richmond, Va. He organized a local "Cabinet" here.

Died.

Mr. William Outterbridge, son of Mr. A. J. Outterbridge, of Belvoir township, died Friday evening. He was well known in Greenville, where the family lived for some time, and there are many here who regret to learn of his death. He was about 18 years old and a very bright young man.

A New Theory About Tobacco.

D. V. Davis, of Fort Church Davie county, has discovered a new theory about tobacco. He says in the Davie Times the following: "Twenty-two years ago I discovered that there was a certain time to cut tobacco. But to find the exact time it has taken twenty-two years. There is a sap in tobacco as in a tree. When the sap raises in tobacco it runs the oil out and is very sorry. When the sap is out of tobacco there is nothing in the plant but oil, it seems to be fat, if then cut, would be very profitable. Tobacco continues to make these changes as long as it stands on the hill. You have experienced cutting one week when it may cure up all right and then cut off the same piece of land the next and it cures up sorry."—Winston Republican.

A Good Shot.

Master Hal Sugg, 13 year old son of Col. I. A. Sugg, is the champion rifle shot of his age. He is not only good at shooting glass balls, but he can bring down game as well. Friday morning Mr. A. A. Forbes' dogs treed five coons. He went to Col. Sugg's house to get the Colonel to go down with his Winchester and kill them. The Colonel was not at home, but Hal remarked that he could do the job better than his papa. So he took the Winchester and went down and killed three of the coons, the dogs catching the other two. One of the coons was killed without being struck with the bullet, by a fancy shot which Hal calls "barking the coon." There is not a better shot in the county.

We Must Unite.

Washington, Tarboro, Scotland Neck and some other towns near to us are making efforts to secure electric lights, telephone exchanges, factories and other enterprises. In Greenville at this time there is no organized effort to secure any of these advantages. This will not do! Our people should be up and doing. Greenville has pushed ahead until she has the best tobacco market in Eastern Carolina, and the people should not allow her to be surpassed in these other directions. Come together in some organized way and do something.

Monday night a concert will be given here by a class of colored orphans boys in charge of Dr. J. H. Manley. They give a good entertainment.

We are indebted to Mr. J. Smith for a basket of nice matatoes.

The railroads have agreed on a uniform rate for visitors to the Atlanta Exposition. The price of a round trip ticket from Raleigh will be $10 45, good for ten days. The rates from other places in proportion. This is a lower rate than was given for the Philadel-phia Centennial, in 1876, or for the Chicago Exposition in 1893, and will enable many thousands to attend.

If the heat of the sun were pro-duced by the burning of coal, it would require a layer 16 feet in thickness, extending over the sun's entire surface, to feed the flame for a single hour. Had the sun been a solid body of best an-thracite it would have been utter-ly consumed within 45 centuries after the day it took fire.

A Large Estate.

Archduke Albrecht of Austria left $125,000,000 of property. His landed estates go to his nephew, Archduke Frederick. They comprise 516,000 acres in Hungary, Silesia, Bohemia, Bavaria and Galicia, an extent of territory larger than that of more than half of the German states. His personal estate amounts to $50,000,-000, and goes to his daughter, Arch-duchess Maria Theresa, wife of Duke Philip of Wurtemberg.

UNCLE TOM'S CABIN.

How Mrs. Stowe Got Her Original Characters.

The Author's Connection with the Famous "Underground Railway"—The Story of Eliza Harris—Other Figures in the Story.

It reads almost like some chapter of forgotten history—the story of Harriet Beecher Stowe, who did more to free the slaves than any other one or half dozen causes. It may not be generally known that "Uncle Tom's Cabin" was written when Mrs. Stowe was a resident of Walnut Hills, a suburb of Cincinnati, and her husband, Prof. Calvin Stowe, was connected with Lane Theological seminary. That was before the war, when Cincinnati, in slavery days, was an important station on the "underground railroad." The Ohio river was easily crossed at this point, and numerous runaways made their way over from Kentucky and were met in Cincinnati by friends who assisted them in various ways to make good their escape.

Among those more or less active in this movement were the Beechers, Mrs. Stowe being a daughter of Lyman Beecher, president of the seminary. There she first imbibed her hatred of slavery, and began work on a newspaper story depicting life among the lowly, that was afterward enlarged to "Uncle Tom's Cabin." The house in which she wrote the historic work still stands on Walnut Hills, a modest little home, at which no passer would glance a second time, and all the characters were taken from the experience of Mrs. Stowe, who saw much of the evils of slavery at that time. The "Eliza" house that gave refuge to the escaped slave girl who afterward figured in the story as Eliza, stands upon a hill near the village of Glendale, the Van Tromp of the narrative being John Van Zandt, a member of the Society of Friends, who settled on the farm and made it an underground station. The Eliza was Eliza Harris, a Kentucky slave, owned by a man near Ripley, O., but on the slavery side of the river. She ran away from her master with her child, as told in the story, crossing the river on the ice, and afterward sheltered in the house of Rev. John Rankin, whose family still lives in Ripley.

Another young girl who gave much to the construction of the character of Eliza was a seamstress in the employ of Mrs. Stowe. She came from Kentucky with the consent of her mistress, her brother being held as a hostage for her return. The occurrences were not frequent, as the Kentuckians were very lenient with their slaves and often indulged them in trips across the Ohio to free soil. The girl was legally free by her presence in Ohio by consent of her mistress. Shortly after her arrival the brother escaped, and she resolved not to return. In this she was encouraged by her friends, and also by Mrs. Stowe, in whose family she had found employment. "Free papers" were obtained for her to make her condition doubly legal. There were many people in Cincinnati, however, who were ready to serve the slaveholders by kidnaping fugitives, and when Prof. Stowe learned that the former master of Eliza was in the city, and a friend told him there was a plan to take the girl at night, it was determined to put her in a place of safety. Accordingly Prof. Stowe performed the part of Senator Bird. Procuring a horse and wagon, accompanied by Henry Ward Beecher, he drove the girl ten miles along a lonely road and over a dangerously-flooded ford, to the house of John Van Zandt. The fireplace is still shown where Eliza is said to have been confined during one of the visits of the slave hunters to the place in their pursuit.

Another character in the story is Richard Billingham, a young Quaker from Morrow, O., who came to Cincinnati to teach the negroes, and whose enthusiasm led him to Nashville in behalf of a slave, where he was imprisoned and died before his release. So far as known, only one of the originals of the characters of the story is now living, a very old man, and whose adventures are recorded in this story as the experiences of George Harris. He crossed the Ohio at Ripley, and had refuge for several days with the Rankins. He was afterwards conducted north into Clinton county, where he found safety and a home for years among the Quakers of that part of the state. A son of Rev. John Rankin, William Rankin, was Harris' guide, and tells with relish the incidents of the escapes of Harris and Eliza.

Such are some of the scenes and incidents and people upon which was founded the story of "Uncle Tom's Cabin," a book which has been read in every quarter of the globe, over which millions have wept, and which brought freedom to the captive and enduring fame to the woman who celebrated in a quiet way her eighty-fourth birthday recently. — Ohio State Journal.

A Missing Vase.

It turns out that the Peachblow vase is not in the art collection of the late Mr. Walters, of Baltimore, in whose possession it had been supposed to be. This famous little jug, which was intrinsically worth about two cents and which was sold at auction at the Morgan sale about eight years ago for $18,000, has disappeared from view as completely as if it had been buried in the earth. It looks very much as if the purchaser, whoever he was, was not proud of his judgment or of his investment. — Boston Herald.

It is estimated that of all the children of school age (not over twenty one years) in North Carolina, sixty-six per cent. are in public schools and eight per cent. in private or denominational schools, that is, one fourth of the children in North Carolina are growing up in illiteracy. This will never do. We must have more schools, better schools and longer schools.—Biblical Recorder.

GENERAL NEWS.

Sixty persons were drowned by the wrecking of the steamer Chatterthun off Cape Hawk.

An eight story building in course of construction, collapsed in New York. Several workmen were killed and others injured.

While Peter Marchetti, of Richmond, was charging a gas generator to his soda fountain, the generator exploded, blowing his head off.

Eli Hix, of Big Stone Gap, Va. went home drunk, built a fire in his kitchen which in some way set the house on fire in the night. Hix and four children were fatally burned, his wife and one child escaping.
