Rain, probably followed by fair Sunday afternoon.

A Good Society.

A Local Cabinet of the American Mutual Benefit Society has just been organized here with Mr. Zeno Moore as President and Mr. H. A. White as Collector and Local Agent. This is purely a benefit society, paying its members weekly benefits of from $2.50 to $25 per week according to the class in which they enter. It is a splendid organization for those whose salaries are cut off by sickness or accident.

Curious but Painful Accident.

The Newbern Journal says that Mr. John King, baggage and expressman, met with a pretty bad accident in a curious manner Tuesday, as the train was passing Hampstead going to Newbern.

There was no occasion to stop at this station and the train went by at quite a rapid rate, probably 30 or 35 miles per hour, but the agent at the station, Mr. W. J. Mallard, tried to hand a paper to him which Mr. King supposed was a telegram, and he tried to take it, but missed in reaching out and the result was Mr. Mallard's hand, presumably the end of his fingers, pointed towards the coming train struck Mr. King's hand and tore the flesh between his thumb and forefinger to the bone.

Mr. Mallard was evidently hurt also, though to what extent is not known. Mr. King looked back and saw him shaking his fingers around lively. He says that although his own arm was paining him to the shoulder, he could not help laughing to see the way Mr. Mallard was a-moving.

MORE BANKS NEEDED.

For Better Handling Our Growing Interests.

GREENVILLE, N. C., Aug. 17th, '95.
Editor Daily Reflector.

Friday's sales of tobacco on this market, and the general sentiment of the town and county, indicates that Greenville is in need of better and more extended banking facilities. There is nothing that so tends to the success and prosperity of a community as easy and liberal banking facilities. There are in Pitt county men with means who are capable of organizing and operating a bank or banks that would add to the progress of the entire community, and prove a highly profitable business to the parties engaging in it.

The tobacco industry has done much towards the advancement of the interests of this section, and those who are the promoters and engaged in the business know the great need of additional banking facilities.

There are those in the county of Pitt who could during the present cotton and tobacco season start a bank with capital stock sufficient to greatly facilitate and encourage this market to greater competition with other markets. There are other markets which claim as an advantage over Greenville their banking conveniences and ability to carry the business of the town.

Shall it be said that Greenville, the best cotton and tobacco market, shall be behind in the greatest lever power to business and prosperity?

With such stockholders as W. G. Lang, R. L. Davis and T. L. Turnage, of Farmville, J. R. Davenport, R. R. Fleming and J. J. Nobles, of Pactolus; Proctor Bros J. J. Laughinghouse, R. T. Wilson and J. B. Galloway, of Grimesland; A. G. Cox, of Winterville; J. H. Cobb and J. R. Smith, of Ayden, and many others from the different sections of the county, combined with the strong, healthy, active business men of Greenville, a bank could be operated that would give to Greenville and Pitt county such an impetus and success in business as would make our county and town the peer of any in the State.

We have the natural advantages to make us great and prosperous. Let there be a call of the people and stock taken in shares of $100 each, and we will soon have a banking institution able to accommodate the needs of the people, and the progress of our business would be astounding. It will pay in any aspect it can be thought of. Shall we have it? or shall we go on cramped in every feature that makes progress a certainty. Will not our enterprising men start in this matter? Sooner or later foreign capitalists will see the results, and then what? X.

A Good Firm With Good Methods.

While on the rounds for news we stopped for a chat with Mr. J. G. Moye. He said "You can tell the people that J. B. Cherry & Co. are at the old stand selling goods cheaper than ever." Speaking about advertising and its benefits, Mr. Moye remarked further: "We will have to make a change in our advertisement in the weekly REFLECTOR by next issue, as we have almost made a clean sweep of our fruit jars, lanterns, thermometers and tobacco knives. And we had seventeen cases of fruit jars, too, with a correspondingly large supply of the other goods." This reliable firm believes in the use of printer's ink, and it is a fact that they never print a word in an advertisement but what an examination of their stock will show you is true.

The sun peeped out awhile this afternoon.

The Negro.

The North Carolina University Magazine lately contained a "Sketch of the life and character of Wilson Caldwell," by Prof. K. P. Battle, LL. D., of which the significance lay in the fact that the subject of the sketch is still living, and that he is the long faithful colored janitor of the University. The article has been reprinted separately. Few white janitors, we may be sure, have thus been honored. In line with this incident is the announced intention of Mr. White, of Rock Hill, S. C., to commemorate with a monument the negro's loyalty to his master's family during the war.

The above extract is from the New York Nation. Northern people are beginning to see that the Southern white man has a kindly feeling toward the negro. We doubt if anywhere on earth as much affection has existed between two races so widely separated by nature. But unhappily the negro has been led astray by bad men of both races. The future of the negro depends upon the restoration of the old time cordial affection between him and the white man. The negro alone can restore it. The white people of the State have taxed themselves for negro education, have given the negro equal privileges on cars and steam boats, have erected asylums for the afflicted of his race, have protected him as a voter and a juror, and have been just to him as a laborer. What has the negro done in return? The mass of them have voted steadily against every interest of the State, have made rascality possible in legislation, have shown little appreciation of right and favors already granted, have followed bad men, ignorant men, sorry men instead of true and patriotic men.

The path for the negro is plain. Let him follow good men, for they alone will do him justice.

Such blunders, closely related to crimes, as the surrounding of the jail in Winston on Sunday night do much to destroy the good feeling and cordial relations that subsist between the whites and the best element of the negroes in the State.—Raleigh News and Observer.

State Alliance Officers.

The State Alliance, at Cary, elected the following officers for the ensuing year: President, Dr. Cyrus W. Thompson, of Onslow; Vice-President, John Graham, of Ridgway; Lecturer, J. T. B. Hoover, of Wilson; W. S. Barnes, of Raleigh, Secretary; Dr. V. N. Sewell, of Moore, Steward; Rev P. H. Massey, of Durham, Chaplain; George T. Lane, of Guilford, Doorkeeper; James E. Lyon, of Durham, Assistant Doorkeeper; A. D. K. Wallace, of Rutherford, Sergeant at-Arms; T. Ivey, of Wake, Business Agent; N. C. English, of Randolph, and Jas. M. Mewborne, of Lenoir, members of the Executive Committee; Dr. J. E. Pearson, of Wayne, delegate to the National Alliance; J. W. Denmark, of Wake, alternate to National Alliance.

A Mosquito Remedy.

A lady who has tried a great many things to get rid of mosquitoes, thinks she has hit upon it at last.

Her remedy is astonishingly simple. She discards all screens and throws the windows wide open at night. Across the open space of the window she stretches a piece of red ribbon about two inches wide.

"A mosquito," said she, "can not be induced to pass that ribbon. Why it is so I do not know, but I know the natives of India take this means of baffling the vicious mosquito. It works to perfection."

Suggestions to Housekeepers.

Rub tough meat with cut lemon.

Use bacon fat for frying chicken and game.

Steam a stale loaf of bread to freshen it.

Warm crackers slightly in the oven before using.

Dip sliced onions in milk before frying.

Fry sweet apples when you have liver or kidney.

Heat dry coffee before pouring on the water.

Pour vinegar over fresh fish to make the scales come off easily.

MALAGASY COOKERY.

Some Delightful Dishes Cleverly Prepared by Eastern Folk.

Cooking being an art, every race has a style of its own. The Malagasy, like the gentle Hindu, knows how to prepare his mess of rice. It is not boiled to a mash as in England, or as our potatoes are sometimes pulped, but, covered with a proper sufficiency of water, is carefully treated until the grains are swollen fit to burst and yet remain full, intact, soft and rather mealy.
 The manioc root is an easier dish to prepare. It is sometimes served boiled, as yams and sweet potaeoes, and again as a sort of cold porridge.
 Native coffee they understand how to make, and the aroma is excellent; but tea, alas! you have to look for the brewing of that from start to finish if you desire a drinkable cup.
 Poultry and game are eaten fresh, and the cooks have a clever and withal cleanly trick of dipping the dead animals in boiling water, which enables them to pluck them easily and quickly. The preparation for trussing comes later. There is no lack of variety at a Malagasy table, but, all the same, you miss the wheaten flour bread, sugar and condiments when cloyed with rice, fowls, manioc and eggs. The staple fuel is bunch grass, which when dry burns fiercely, and settles into a glowing ember that gives off a deal of heat. All the cooking is done on earthen hearths, and the roasting, boiling and baking in big iron pots.
 The grass being slightly aromatic, the odor is as agreeable as that of a hard-wood fire.

In a Night.

The famine that decimated Ireland fifty years ago was caused by the blighting of the potatoes—then the staple food of the peasantry. The blight literally walked in darkness, though the sickness destroyed at noonday. Says Frances Power Cobbe in her "Life":

I happen to be able to recall precisely the day, almost the hour, when the blight fell on the potatoes and caused the great calamity. A party of us were driving to a seven-o'clock dinner. As we passed a remarkably fine field of potatoes in blossom, the scent came through the open windows of the carriage, and we remarked to each other how splendid was the crop.

Three or four hours later, as we returned home in the dark, a dreadful odor came from the same field, and we exclaimed: "Something has happened to those potatoes! They do not smell at all as they did when we passed them on our way out!"

Next morning there was a wail from one end of Ireland to the other.
 Every field was black, and every root rendered unfit for human food. And there were nearly eight millions of people depending principally upon those potatoes for existence.

An Accommodating Pastor.

The minister of a congregation in an agricultural district was greatly annoyed Sunday after Sunday by the unruly conduct of the junior members of his flock.
 When any of the younger representatives of the gentler sex got weary of the evening service she would invariably rise and go out. A moment later her admirer would seize his hat and sheepishly follow her. To such an extent would this course of action prevail that by the time the discourse was finished only the old people remained for the conclusion of the service. Mr. Jones concealed his chagrin for several weeks, but at last he firmly resolved to act. A youth grew drowsy one Sunday evening, and, picking up his hat, stepped into the aisle. But the minister's keen eye was upon him, and, to the culprit's dismay, he stopped short in his sermon.

"Young man," said he, "the girl who went out last is not the one you wish to walk home with. When she goes I will let you know at once.
 Please sit down. After this, when a young woman goes out I will call on the proper young man to take care of her."

The minister resumed his discourse. There was much tittering and considerable anger, but his sermons were not interrupted again.—

The Mean Man in Town.

The champion mean man paid San Francisco a visit recently. He was a big, long-legged, raw-boned fellow with a nose like the blade of a hatchet. His eyes, like little black beads, were set within half an inch of each other and glistened and gleamed at everybody and everything at once. He clutched the arm of a sad-faced little woman with one long, bony hand and clawed at his whiskers with the other as he ordered the waiter in a Market street restaurant to give him a cup of coffee. The waiter brought it with some bread and butter and laid down a check for ten cents.

"Would you give me an extra pitcher of cream?" asked the mean man. The waiter brought it.

"Yes, by the way, give me a cup of hot water, will you, please?"

The waiter brought it and watched the mean man curiously. He poured the cream into the hot water, put a little sugar in it, shoved it at his wife and flung one slice of bread without any butter in her direction.
 The little woman ate it hungrily and the waiter added five cents to the mean man's check.

The row was heard three blocks up Market street. He declared he was being robbed because he was from the country, but he finally paid when threatened with arrest.—San Francisco Post.

Caffeine.

One of the principal sources of the supply of caffeine in England is the sweeping of tea from the floors of the various docks, wharves and warehouses in London. These sweep-ings aggregate about 675,000 pounds of tea annually, or, with the first nails, hoop, iron and wood, get mixed with the tea, to about 400 tons. The loss to tea importers annually is about $125,000. The sweepings have naturally a fair proportion of good to fine grade tea mixed with them, and consequently contain a larger amount of the active principles of tea, called by chemists "caffeine," than the low quality teas.
 The sweepings cost the chemists only about half a cent per pound.
