LOCAL NOTES AND TOBACCO JOTTINGS

BY O. L. JOYNER.

Mr. E. W. Smith, of Rocky Mount, one of the most clever, genial and courteous gentlemen in the trade, left this morning after a brief visit here.

Mr. C. W. Harvey, of Danville, Va., has come to Greenville to live and operate on this market. Greenville, and the tobacco part of it especially, always extends a hearty welcome to new comers.

Mr. Watson, of Pemberton & Penn, Danville, Va., has been spending a few days on this market. He says this is the first year his company has placed any orders outside of Danville. Of course he left some business here.

A few days ago while in conversation with a leading tobacco-man of this State, he asked us why it was that our people did not put in a bid for stemmery here? Said he, "you have the finest opening here for a stemmery of any eastern tobacco market, and if your people will show up the advantages that nature has given you over all the other tobacco markets in the east, you will have no trouble in getting capitalists come here and establish factories." He asked if we had a board of trade, and if our business men seemed to take any interest in trying to induce others to our town. We answered as best we could, that our people did all they could in their individual capacity but that unfortunately we had no regularly organized board. "Well" said he, "your town is too healthy and thriving, you have too much of a reputation abroad. People are making too many inquiries about your town to allow this state of affairs to continue. You should organize a board of trade at once and prepare yourselves to meet the demands that will be made upon you. It should be composed of your representative citizens and business men, so as to add strength and tone, and in a short while you will have one of the busiest little cities in the east." To all of which we assented, and told him that we thought in a short while we would have a board of trade organized. Since then we have talked with a few of our business men and they all say they will give it their support and do all they can to encourage and maintain it. Now, this writer is too young in experience of this kind to give advice, but it occurs to us that when a call is made, our citizens one and all, that feel any interest in the town's advancement should respond and not burden the few who may take the initiative step by remaining away until the move has either failed or succeeded and then say, "I told you so." Whatever is for the public good and advancement benefits the individual, and it is not right, to say the least of it, to remain silent while a few pull a thing along to success by hard work and drudgery, and then jump in and reap as much of the reward as those who have labored from the start. We must have a board of trade in Greenville. We have scores of men who are capable of making anything a success so when the call is made, let every man respond and we will do credit to ourselves and the town.

A DELIGHTFUL EVENING.

Greenville's Belles and Beaux Assembled at Hotel Macon.

That was a brilliant gathering, indeed, that graced the reception at Hotel Macon, on Tuesday evening, given by Miss Myra Skinner complimentary to her guest, Miss Leonard Pitts, of Alabama. Those of the guests delighting in the dance assembled in the spacious dinning room and participated in a German. At twelve o'clock refreshments were served. Not until a late hour did the happy party bid good night to the charming hostess and disperse to their homes. It was voted by all one of the most enjoyable social events that has taken place in our midst.

In some sections there are men of enterprise who would make a fortune out of it if they had a chance at the fruit going to waste in North Carolina this season. What a short sighted people we are! not to be having canning factories and utilizing the abundance that Providence has placed at our doors.

By the way, we may lay many things at the door of the Negro, but we should not overlook the service he has done as a bulwark against immigration. Negro labor has kept out alien labor, has kept out discontent and strikes and anarchy.

If we will educate the Negro properly, teaching him his station, pointing him to wholesome ideals and arousing worthy ambitions, he will continue to be the safeguard in lower laboring circles in the South. And we ought to stand by him in the competition that Italians, Irish, Poles, etc., etc., will bring upon him, because he is better suited to our climate, able to do more work, more tractable, and possessed of more of the spirit of our institutions than they. Take the Negro out of the hands of designing politicians and he is more desirable than any alien of the lower grade. Education will do this; education and proper but firm and uncompromising treatment. Biblical Recorder.

"I don't believe," writes Bill Arp, "that the ladies lace as much as they used to. I haven't seen but one girl in a long time who excited my fears, and I am still concerned for fear she will break in two, right at the coupling, or become uncoupled some of these days. A good healthy-sized waist is absolutely necessary to a healthy wife, and nobody but an idiot would marry a woman with a dirt-dauber body. Nevertheless I like to see women fixed up nicely with corsets on. In fact, with anything on save Mother Hubbards."

STATE NEWS.

Record of Matters of General Interest.

The convocation of Wilmington will meet in Kinston September 5, 6 and 8.

The little dog fad has struck Raleigh, and terrier pups bring $10 easily.

Raleigh physicians are sending their typhoid fever patients to the city hospital.

The Populist clerk of Cumberland county last week appointed a negro justice of the peace.

Ex Judge D. L. Russel drew a revolver on F. B. Rice at Wilmington and tried to shoot him.

The statement is made that since the 10th of June 7267 excursionists have gone to Asheville.

There seems to be a species of pestiferous bug in Berryhill township. No vegetable is too delicate or too coarse for it to destroy, but cabbage seems to be its favorite. Numbers of fine cabbage are being destroyed by the vermin. Some kind of an epidemic has struck the peaches, as they are fast rotting away.-- Charlotte Observer.

Up in Michigan a Sunday school superintendent, at the close of an address on the creation which he was sure he had kept within the comprehension of the least scholars, smilingly invited questions. A tiny boy, with a white, eager face and large brow, at once held up his hand. "Please sir, why was Adam never a baby?" The superintendent coughed in some doubt as to what answer to give, but a little girl of nine, the eldest of several brothers and sisters, came promptly to his aid. "There was nobody to nuss him!" The New Orleans Picayune thinks a theological seminary would have turned that over for a week, with no better result.

Wilbon Cailders, just over the line in Alexander, comes out with a rattlesnake that's hard to beat, says the Wilkesboro Chronicle. He killed it last week near his house, and it required three shots to do it. The rattler wore 37 rattles and was 8 feet long. The snake's hide was stuffed, and to do this it required one bushel, one peck and one gallon of bran.

A NEW IDEA.

How the Time of Day May Be Told in the Dark.

"What time is it?"

"I think I can tell you without looking up."

He drew out his watch, says the Boston Traveler, and held it up close to his ear and slowly turned the stem-winder.

"One, two, three, four, five, six, seven, eight," he counted, and then he said: "That means seventy-two minutes. I wound the watch up tightly at three o'clock, and so the time ought to be about twelve minutes past four. Let us see how near I came to it. Well, it's four eighteen. I was only six minutes off."

The other was regarding him with amazement. "Do you mean to say that you can tell the time of day by winding up your watch?"

"Not exactly; but I can come very near it; usually within ten minutes; and it's quite simple, too. All you have to know is how long one tick in winding up will run the watch.
I'll explain to you: Suppose that at three o'clock I wind up my watch until it is tight, as we say—that is, until another turn of the winder would break a spring. At five o'clock I wind the watch again, and find that the winder clicks twelve times before the watch is wound up to the place where it sticks. Then you know that twelve clicks will run the watch one hundred and twenty minutes, and that one click represents ten minutes of time."

"What good is it to know that?"

"Well, suppose you go to bed at eleven o'clock to-night, and on retiring wind up your watch and put it under your pillow. During the night you wake up and wonder what time it is. You don't want to get up and light the gas. All you have to do is to pull that watch out from under your pillow, hold it to your ear and count the ticks as you wind.
If you count eighteen, then you know that the watch has run down one hundred and eighty minutes since eleven o'clock, and that the time must be very near two o'clock.
To be sure, you can't tell the exact time, but you can generally get within a quarter of an hour of it."

"Wouldn't the same rule hold good for a clock or watch which is wound with a key?"

"I dare say it would, but I have never tried it on anything except a stem-winding watch. I know a blind man who always tells time by winding his watch and counting the ticks. His sense of touch is quite delicate, and he can wind up his watch three or four times a day and then calculate within ten minutes of the correct time."

New Uses for Aluminium.

Aluminium has proved a great disappointment to those who were enthusiastic in bringing it before the public. Instead of the durability and strength, hardness and general adaptability that were promised, it is almost a failure when used in its pure state for many purposes. It lacks the tensile strength and rigid-ity that were supposed to belong to it, and in many other ways falls far short of the standard originally set for it. As a combination metal it is, however, of great value. Among its uses is that of making horseshoes specially designed for racing purposes and lighter uses. Fine particles of extremely hard steel are mixed with the aluminium and form a wearing surface of great durability. The combination makes very pretty, light shoes, which for certain kinds of work have proved very satisfactory.—N. Y. Ledger.
