

THE DAILY REFLECTOR.

Vol. 2.

GREENVILLE, N. C., OCTOBER 1, 1895.

No. 252

C. T. MUNFORD.

LET THE WORLD KNOW.

Editor Reflector:

Never have you published in your paper in all the efforts so often put forth by yourself and O. L. Joyner, editor of the Tobacco Department, a more forceful and timely request than was in your issue of Saturday, Sept. 28th in the tobacco column. If there ever was a time when every business man in Greenville should seize the opportunity suggested, now is that time. It is an investment that every one should be glad to make. All the business interests of the town have more than realized it in this season alone. It is now being talked all over the State what a progressive, active town we have and what a great country Pitt is. The world should know fully the natural advantages of our community. We see every day that men of capital are seeking Southern investments, and we are given the go by simply because it is not known we have the facilities to offer. By all means get up the real, truthful statements and publish them in 20,000 copies if necessary, and let the monied men of the country know where to come and invest.

Strangers who come to our town do and say more to inform the world of our resources than our own people have ever done. Let Greenville now take advantage of the golden opportunity and secure her proper position in manufacturing and other enterprises. Once get men of means to come and see what we have and they will be convinced.

Bethel Items.

Mrs. Josie Brewer returned home to Rocky Mount last Friday.

Elder Samuel Moore left Friday morning to attend the Black Creek Union at Aycock near Fremont.

Rev. Mr. Sawyer, of Williams-ton, preached in the Methodist church here Sunday morning and night.

Messrs. H. A. Latham, of the Washington Gazette, and H. T. King, of King's Weekly, spent Saturday in town.

There was a large crowd in town Saturday, and the merchants all say they had a good trade.

Two Kansas Beverages.

If an Abilene paper correctly reports the testimony given last week in a whiskey trial before District Judge Humphrey a new drink has been born in Kansas. A witness upon the stand gave testimony as contained in the following cross examination:

"What did you drink?" was asked.
"Hop tea."
"What was it like?"
"Hop tea."
"Did you ever drink beer?"
"No, sir."
"Don't know what it is like?"
"No, sir."
"Have you drank anything that resembles hop tea?"
"Yes."
"What was it?"
"Pilliwink."
"Well," went on the county attorney. "What is pilliwink like?"
"It is like hop tea," was the answer.

And all the attorney could further get out of that witness was the statement that pilliwink tasted like hop tea and hop tea tasted like pilliwink.—Kansas City Journal.

EVERY AFTERNOON (EXCEPT SUNDAY)

The treasury gold reserve has reached a low figure. It is now below $93,000,000.

The Salisbury Daily Herald was four years old last Saturday. There is no afternoon paper in the State that gives a better news service—local, general and telegraphic—than the Herald. It deserves well at the hands of the people of Salisbury.

We like to see North Carolina talent coming to the front. Printers Ink, a New York publication offered a premium for the best written and best displayed advertisement. One produced by Thad R. Manning, of the Henderson Gold Leaf, was declared the best.

The grand jury of Wake Superior Court returned a true bill against S. P. Satterfield, principle clerk of the lower house of the last Legislature, and J. W. Brown, engrossing clerk, for fraud in connection with the much talked of assignment act. There are seven counts in the indictments against Satterfield. One charges that he willfully, knowingly, corruptly and fraudulently delivered to Brown the assignment act, the same never having been passed by either house but which had been tabled prior to the date when thus delivered. Another count charges that Satterfield violated the true intent and meaning of his oath by delivering for enrollment an act which had never been passed, and that that fact was well known to Brown. The other counts set forth the offense in different forms. The bill against Brown has several counts, finds that he corruptly, fraudulently and knowingly enrolled the bill, which had never passed.

OUR NOBLE WOMAN.

What They Have Done for the State at the Atlanta Exposition.

The eight women managers to represent North Carolina at Atlanta were not dismayed when the Legislature said "No money, no help, no sympathy." They said we will be represented in that Woman's Building, so one of the number met the Building Committee in Atlanta and after discussion it was decided to ask North Carolina to contribute the wood work of the Assembly room, as a perpetual advertisement of the wonderful woods that make the State the wonder of the world. This mantle piece was designed by Miss Norma Bonnevillie. It is of oak and blistered maple. It is classic in design, with ionic columns. The pediments are twisted of tobacco with outspread leaves. The pannels are carved in relief with the products of the State, grapes on the lengthwise panels, cotton and cotton bolls, vine branches and cones, tobacco in conventional designs, and in the blistered maple in bold relief is carved the shield of the State surmounted by raised letters, "North Carolina to Georgia." These lady managers have made the money themselves to pay for this beautiful work of art.

After consideration the ladies decided that they could show a greater variety of woods by furnishing the doors for this Assembly room. So an order was made for the two single and one double doors. A special design, consisting of a large number of panels, each panel made of a different wood, will make them unusually handsome. This is all to go in the Woman's Building, and is the work of the patriotic women on this board.—Salisbury Herald.

"Blistering a Corpse"—A Test Designed to Tell When Life is Extinct.

One of the so called "unfailing tests of death," which has been introduced into France, Germany and Holland during the past few years, is known among the undertakers as "the blistering precaution," and consists of producing a blister on the hands, feet and some other exposed portion of the body of the supposed corpse. The test is said to be infallible for this reason: If the blister produced by the application of a lighted candle, or red-hot iron, or fire in any form, is shown to contain waterish fluid upon being opened, there is still life in the body, and a burial under the circumstances would not be advisable. On the other hand should the blister be empty, or contain steam only, the sorrowing friends may rest assured that the vital spark has flown, and that there is no danger that the corpse is being "buried alive."

HIS PET THEORY.

The Commodore Had an Opportunity of Putting It to the Test.

Commodore P. F. Pettibone was in a tender, reminiscent mood,
writes Eugene Field in the Chicago Record. He had just heard one of the party at the club remark that the world was full of sentiment of the kindest quality. This set the amiable commodore to talking.

"Six or eight years ago," said he,
"I was summering in Michigan. One evening a telegram came announcing the death of my little nephew, a child to whom I was devotedly attached and for whom I felt a special affection, because he was my namesake. It was imperative that I return at once to Chicago. I made my way to Manistee, but did not arrive there until after the departure of all trains and boats. Every possibility of reaching Chicago in time for the funeral seemed gone, and I was nearly overcome by grief and disappointment. In this dazed and irresponsible position I wandered about the wharf at Manistee and by the merest chance found a lumber barge about to set out for Milwaukee. I made my way aboard this boat and asked the captain to take me with him.

"Impossible," said he. "I am not permitted to carry passengers. If I were to be detected violating the law, I should be put to no end of trouble."

"But I can go as a sailor or as a deckhand," said I.

"That would be an evasion which I do not care to practice," said he.

"I saw he was not to be moved in this way. So I just opened my heart to him.

"Captain," said I, "this is an imperative case. I must go to Chicago tonight. A dead child, one whom I love, awaits me there. and"—

"Go aboard," said he, not waiting for me to say more. I sat out on a pile of lumber aboard the barge in the darkness and rain until after we left the dock. I was prepared to work my passage. But after we had gotten under way the captain came to me and bade me come to supper
—a splendid meal prepared specially for me. Then he showed me into his cabin. I rebelled against turning him out of his own berth, but he bluffly told me that the mate and he would stand off on watches that night and that the mate's cabin would answer their purposes well enough when they wanted to sleep.
Next morning we were in Milwan-kee and I made a railroad connection with Chicago, arriving home in time to discharge the last sad, tender duties to my beloved nephew.

"I have never forgotten the barge Hilton and Captain Tom Richardson. Occasionally I meet that bluff but noble old sailor. Sometimes it is upon the lakes while I am cruising in my yacht. On such occasions
I always salute the Hilton with a round from the cannon, and I dip my colors with all possible formality. Captain Tom Richardson answers in cordial style, and the Hilton toots her whistle till the Michigan shore fairly rattles. It has fortuneed several occasions that I could do the captain a good turn, and you can depend upon it I have always jumped at those opportunities. I feel that I am yet and always shall be his debtor, for in his quiet, noble response to my cry for help he confirmed a pet theory of mine, which is that one who is in trouble in this world of ours has but to lift up his eyes and to stretch forth his hand to know and to feel the presence of human sympathy about him everywhere."

NOTICE.

There will be a private school opened at Forbe's School House in District no. 72, on Monday, the 7th day of October 1895. The school will be taught by Miss Mary Dail until the Public School begins. For terms apply to Sept. 30, 1895. I. A. SUGG.

ONE AT A TIME

The Months Pass, But People in Larger Numbers.

Mrs. S. A. Peebles went to Wilson today.

N. H. Whitfield returned from Oxford Monday evening.

S. M. Schultz and family returned from Rocky Mount Monday evening.

W. H. White, of Scotland Neck, is here taking orders from our merchants.

W. T. Lee returned from Wilson Monday evening, where he had been a few days.

Mrs. Alfred Forbes and two little daughters returned from Kinston this morning.

M. H. Sultan and Sol. Cohen, of Newbern, arrived this morning to remain until after the races.

George Credle, of Hyde county, who has been spending a few days with Maj. Latham, left on steamer today.

H. E. Seeman, editor of the Durham Tobacco and Grocer, arrived this morning to spend a day on our tobacco market and see what Greenville is doing.

C. A. Carter, a tobacco buyer, left for Kinston Monday evening. The boys say he found this market too high for him.

OAKLEY ITEMS.

OAKLEY, N. C., Sept. 30th, 1895.

Miss Mary Highsmith we are glad to know is convalescent from typhoid fever.

I. H. Little and wife went to Pae-tolus Sunday.

Capt. J. E. Hines our efficient section-master at this place left Sunday with his wife for Rocky Mount where he goes to take a position with the Coast Line. May success attend them both.

Mr. W. A. Andrews arrived Tuesday and has taken charge as section master at this place.

Mrs. R. F. Gainer arrived home Sunday from a week's visit to Miss Annie Randolph.

A goodly number of our people attended the Disciple Union at Oak Grove Sunday and all report a pleasant time but for the dust.

Miss Mary Whitehurst who has been sick two weeks with typhoid, we learn is no better.

We received a note saying that W. F. Moore caught a white shad yesterday. A shad is seldom seen between May and January. Occasionally a stray one is caught in December, but we never heard of one in September before.—Newbern Journal.

Rates Still Lower.

On Monday we published a clipping from the Washington Messenger stating that the rates on cotton from points on Tar river to Norfolk would be 80 cents a bale by the Old Dominion steamers. Since then agent J. J. Cherry has been notified that his rate from Greenville will be only 65 cents a bale. This lower rate will be a great advantage to shippers.

October tried to give September a hard parting kick by bringing some frost the very first morning in the new month.

J. B. Cherry & Co's new advertisement today tells about the very class of goods you want for fall and winter use, and a careful reading of it will pay you.

Oh! those Japes at Lang's. They are from 18 to 48 inches long—and 100 to 135 inches sweep.

Be Very Careful.

This cooler weather will make people want to start fires, and we would drop the hint that much care should be used in this particular. The long hot spell and drought has made everything as dry as tinder, and after being in disuse so long chimneys may have become very foul and dangerous.
